

Weather

Partly Sunny

Partly sunny today, high in low to mid-50s. Wind south 15 to 25 mph by afternoon. Clear tonight, low near 30.

Inside

Coliseum Forum

Officials will respond to coliseum questions during a forum at 4 p.m. today in Union 212. See Page 3.

Sports

Lost Cats

Shelia Hubert and Cassandra Jones have quit the Lady Cats basketball team. See Page 8.

Kansas
State

Collegian

Thursday
January 30, 1986

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 92, Number 87

Kansans celebrate state's anniversary, honor shuttle crew

By TIM CARPENTER
Editorial Page Editor

TOPEKA — Gov. John Carlin and a group of dignitaries marked the beginning of observances for the 125th anniversary of Kansas' statehood Wednesday as jets streaked across the sky and flags flew at half-staff in honor of seven astronauts who died Tuesday in the fiery explosion of the space shuttle Challenger.

Speaking to more than 1,000 people at the Capitol, Carlin said citizens should seize the opportunity to celebrate the day Kansas entered the Union, "remember the spirit of optimism that brought about the creation of the 34th state" and "commit ourselves to what we can become."

"Kansas was born out of a struggle," he said, "a struggle for freedom that allowed people to make their own choices about slavery. We earned the label of 'Bleeding Kansas' before...our admission to the Union Jan. 29, 1861, as a free state."

After Carlin's speech, a "missing-man" formation of F-4 fighter jets from the 184th Tactical Fighting Group based in Wichita flew over and the Kansas Army National Guard fired a 19-gun salute.

In reference to the destruction of the Challenger, Carlin said, "we must honor our statehood, but we cannot help but think of yesterday's tragedy. Those pioneers of an earlier day took risks, and they knew the consequences of those risks. At the same time we must mourn the lives of those lost making this state free."

Carlin added that "we must make people realize Kansas is not a wasteland or desert, but an oasis feeding the world. Not a state living in the past, but one living in the future."

Members of the Kansas Supreme Court, legislative leaders of the House and Senate, former astronaut Ron Evans, author Robert Day and actress Marj Dusay, all Kansas natives, joined Carlin on the steps of the Statehouse.

Salina native Steve Hawley, an astronaut who just returned from a mission on the space shuttle Columbia, and Col. Joe Engle of Chapman were scheduled to participate in the festivities, but both returned to Houston Tuesday evening.

In the rotunda following the ceremony, the state's 40th governor walked briskly among long tables covered with cakes decorated to signify the importance of agriculture and industry to Kansans. He sliced several of the cakes.

During an interview before Carlin's speech, Rep. Joe Knopp,

See KANSAS, Page 11

Staff/Jim Dietz

Gov. John Carlin reviews a band along with a military escort during a parade observing the 125th anniversary of Kansas' statehood Wednesday in front of the south Capitol steps. A crowd of more than 1,000 gathered at the Capitol to celebrate the state's anniversary.

Retired astronaut believes NASA can solve problems

By TIM CARPENTER
Editorial Page Editor

TOPEKA — The deaths of two women and five men during Tuesday's violent explosion aboard space shuttle Challenger will not force NASA to permanently curtail the program because problems which caused the accident will be solved, a retired astronaut said Wednesday.

Apollo 17 astronaut Capt. Ron Evans said in an interview at the Statehouse before helping launch Kansas' 125th birthday celebration that the "space program will obviously go on a little hiatus — and I want to emphasize the word little — until we find out what happened."

Several ships retrieved wreckage from the sea Wednesday as an investigation team held its first meeting to start the long inquiry into why the $1.2 billion space shuttle suddenly blew apart 74 seconds after liftoff.

Evans, a native of St. Francis and command module pilot for the last scheduled manned mission to the moon, said this accident is different than the January 1967 tragedy when three astronauts died in a launch pad fire.

"Nineteen years ago it was the beginning of Apollo. They found the problem, fixed it and redesigned the capsule. This is different because I don't see a total redesign. NASA is very competent and will find the problem and continue launching," he said.

Some experts who studied television tapes of the disaster said they thought the problem centered in the external fuel tank, but Evans said it is too early to determine a cause.

"This is not something that had to happen. The possibility is remote, but is always there," he said. "In the process of training astronauts — just as in training pilots — you learn all you can about the machine and in the process of training gain confidence in your ability to handle

See EVANS, Page 9

NASA continues search for debris; officials look for cause of disaster

By The Associated Press

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — The Coast Guard pulled 600 pounds of metal and tiles from Challenger out of the Atlantic Ocean Wednesday, and experts impounded every bit of data for clues to the death of seven people in the world's worst space disaster.

NASA said the five men and two women aboard the 100-ton shuttle probably had no warning of the impending explosion. The debris collected by Wednesday afternoon did not include any clothing or personal effects of the astronauts.

Mission Control, with all its sophisticated technology, had no warning either, said Jay Greene, who was directing Challenger's climb to space.

"We train awfully hard for these flights and we train under every scenario you can possibly imagine," he said. "There was nothing anyone could have done for this one. It just stopped."

He described the mood in the control room as "extremely professional under the circumstances, very somber, there was not much said."

When computer screens showed no more data was coming in, he said, engineers watched the views from television cameras.

"We were hoping something better would come out of it," he said. After a while, we resumed gathering data, put it all up and called it a day."

Speculation focused on an ominous bright flash that was visible at the base of the fuel tank before the explosion, but shuttle director Jesse Moore said he wanted to discourage that.

"You are asking me to lay out causes," he said. "I'm not prepared to do that."

NASA scheduled a memorial service at the Johnson Space Center in Houston on Friday and said President and Nancy Reagan will attend.

In Palm Bay, a community south of the space center, plans were made to name a school after Christa McAuliffe of Concord, N.H., who was aboard the shuttle as the first "common citizen" to fly in space. She had planned to teach two lessons from space to schoolchildren all across the country.

Killed along with McAuliffe were Commander Francis R. Scobee, 46; Pilot

Michael J. Smith, 40; Judith A. Resnik, 36; Ronald E. McNair, 35; Ellison S. Onizuka, 39, and Gregory B. Jarvis, 41.

An investigation team held its first meeting to start the long inquiry into why the $1.2 billion shuttle, appearing to be on a perfect course, suddenly exploded 74 seconds after liftoff Tuesday, raining fiery debris into the Atlantic Ocean.

Lt. John Philbin, commander of the Coast Guard cutter Point Roberts, brought back the first load of debris. He said there were 600 pounds of it, much of it in small pieces.

"Most of what we found was bulkhead-type material, aluminum with insulation attached to it," he said. "There were a couple of charred pieces and we did bring in some small cylinder-type tanks this morning."

The Point Roberts was the first military ship on the scene. He said his crew watched the debris coming down and got the location from a tug in the area.

The space agency impounded every scrap of paper, film and data connected with the launch and pleaded with souvenir hunters to

See SHUTTLE, Page 11

President Reagan makes secretary of agriculture selection

Congress members agree with nomination

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — President Reagan nominated veteran agribusiness figure Richard E. Lyng to be secretary of agriculture, a choice welcomed Wednesday by members of Congress, but questioned by a group which lobbies for government consumer and nutrition programs.

Introducing Lyng to reporters and photographers in the Oval Office, Reagan said: "I have every confidence the farmers are going to have a sound and solid friend in Secretary of Agriculture Dick Lyng."

Acknowledging "we have a farm problem," the president said Lyng, in implementing the farm bill adopted last month, "will help get farming more into the market economy and rectify some of the things that have been wrong" with federal farm programs.

Lyng, who will replace resigning secretary John R. Block, declined interview requests until after he is confirmed by the Senate — an action that is expected to be routine.

Agriculture is in the trough of an economic depression that is its worst in decades, with farm exports crumbling, commodity prices down and land values falling. A substantial number of farmers are laboring under heavy debt loads, and economists say 10 percent of them or more will not survive in the business.

Faced with those realities, and with the widespread belief that the Republicans will be particularly vulnerable on farm issues in this election year, Reagan turned to a proven performer for the agriculture hot seat.

Lyng was the president's state agriculture director when Reagan was governor of California, and handled farm matters during the 1980 presidential campaign.

Members of Congress and farm groups generally praised Lyng's credentials to run the department under the current tough conditions, saying his access to Reagan could be an asset to farmers who feel they often have been given short shrift in White House decisions and priorities.

"My hope is that because of his past associations with the president, he will be able to be more effective politically than (Block) was," said Rep. Edward Madigan, R-Ill., senior GOP member of the House Agriculture Committee. "It's simply a question of Lyng being part of the old Reagan guard."

Ellen Haas, director of the lobbying group Public Voice for Food and Health Policy, called Lyng "open and accessible," but said his record was not particularly favorable to consumers or to nutrition programs for the poor.

"He comes from agribusiness, and that is not synonymous with consumer interests," Haas said. "I think his interests are for the big operators."

Ag secretary nominee familiar with politics

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The appointment of Richard E. Lyng as secretary of agriculture should bring a strong voice for farming into the inner circles of the Reagan administration, members of the Kansas congressional delegation said Wednesday.

"He knows the USDA. He knows the (farm) program and very importantly he is used to the rough and tumble of politics here in Washington. He'll have access to the president," Rep. Pat Roberts, R-Kan., said of Lyng.

Senate Majority Leader Bob Dole said President Reagan had made a "good pick" in Lyng, who served as second in command at the Agriculture Department during the president's first term.

"Dick is widely respected throughout the agriculture community as a hardworking, fair man," Dole said in a statement.

"He's bringing with him a solid agriculture background and years of front-line action at the Agriculture Department."

Dole said Lyng should be easily confirmed by the Senate.

Roberts, a member of the House Agriculture Committee, said it would "help immeasurably" that Lyng has close ties to Reagan. Dole agreed, saying Lyng "will have a direct line to the oval office for the American farmer."

Lyng, 67, served as California secretary of agriculture from 1967 to 1969, during Reagan's tenure as governor and in 1980 headed the Reagan-Bush campaign effort among farmers and ranchers. He had served four years as an assistant secretary of agriculture under President Nixon, and Reagan brought him back to Washington as deputy secretary. Lyng left the administration a year ago to become a private consultant.

"I think he'll be very effective in the Cabinet Council," said Roberts. Roberts said he had good experiences working with Lyng in the past.

"He's very straight. He's very candid. Sometimes he tells you but you no, but you know where you are all the time with Dick Lyng," said Roberts.

The 1st District Republican said producers should not be disappointed that Reagan failed to name an agriculture secretary who would be an "independent voice" for the farmer.

"I really think that's the role of the Congress more than the secretary of agriculture," said Roberts. "And with the budget restrictions we're going to have to live with...you need a real professional in there who understands the program and how to implement the program as best it can be implemented and have access to the president and that's what Dick Lyng is."

Briefly

By The Associated Press

INTERNATIONAL

Warplanes damage guerrilla camp

SIDON, Lebanon — Israeli warplanes streaked in at dawn Wednesday and rocketed Palestinian guerrilla bases in citrus groves that border a sprawling refugee camp, flattening one building and badly damaging two.

Hospitals in this ancient southern port said one guerrilla was killed and five guerrillas and a Lebanese civilian were wounded in the first Israeli air force attack this year inside Lebanon.

Four jets rocketed the bases of Syrian-backed guerrillas on the outskirts of the Ein el-Hilweh Palestinian refugee camp near Sidon, which is 25 miles south of Beirut.

They made several passes at the three targets nestled among orange and lemon trees around the camp.

The air attack occurred shortly before an infiltrator from Jordan killed two Israeli soldiers and wounded two in an ambush at the border settlement of Mehola in the occupied West Bank. The Israeli military command said the infiltrator was shot dead.

Prime Minister Shimon Peres of Israel, who was in Berlin, said the air raid would not affect the plan for Middle East peace negotiations he is promoting on his European tour.

U.N. peacekeeping troops in south Lebanon dismantled four 107mm Katyusha rockets pointed at Israel minutes before they were to be fired by an electronic timer Wednesday, a U.N. source said, speaking on condition of anonymity.

It was the third time in a week that soldiers of the U.N. Interim Force in Lebanon have found guerrilla rockets and defused them.

Libyan agents end terrorist spying

ROME — Tip-offs from Libyan intelligence agents enabled European authorities in past years to intercept terrorists planning strikes against European targets, Italian and West German officials say.

The Libyan help stopped, however, in 1984 or 1985, said an Italian source who added: "It seems they have taken a different attitude."

The statements by German and Italian officials came in interviews in Bonn and Rome in which they discussed West European reluctance to join in the sweeping U.S. economic sanctions against Libya. They spoke on condition of anonymity and would not provide details of the cases.

A West German official said previous Libyan anti-terrorist assistance to the Europeans is an example of the "complexity" of a situation which he said "the American public may not understand."

The United States has declared the Libyan government of Col. Moammar Khadafi to be responsible for the Dec. 27 terrorist attacks at Rome and Vienna airports. Twenty people were killed, including four of the terrorists, and about 120 people were wounded.

REGIONAL

Senate expects endorsement of bill

TOPEKA — A controversial annexation bill is expected to win committee endorsement after a provision of the measure which would create boundary commissions to rule in annexation disputes is eliminated, the chairman of the Senate Local Government Committee said Wednesday.

Sen. Don Montgomery, R-Sabetha, the committee chairman, said the committee most likely will propose having county commissions resolve annexation disputes.

The committee will have a final day of hearings Thursday on the annexation bill to hear opponents of the bill. Committee debate and action on the bill is scheduled for next Tuesday.

Montgomery predicted the bill would be changed in committee and then passed. Substantial support for a change in annexation laws exists in the full Senate, Montgomery said.

NATIONAL

U.S. 1985 tornado death toll down

WASHINGTON — The most devastating outbreak of tornadoes in more than a decade struck the United States last May, but the overall 1985 death toll in such storms remained slightly below normal, the government reported Wednesday.

It was a year also marked by the first successful measurement of wind and air pressure inside a twister.

Tornadoes killed 92 Americans last year — including 74 in the May 31 outbreak in Ohio and Pennsylvania, the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration reported.

That compares with an annual average of 98 tornado deaths over the last 20 years, and is well below the 123 deaths recorded in 1984.

Crash strengthens robot argument

SPACE CENTER, Houston — The disaster of space shuttle Challenger, in contrast to the stunning success of Voyager's fly-by of the planet Uranus, will sharpen the argument that the U.S. should abandon manned missions and instead send robots to explore the universe, scientists said Wednesday.

Unmanned space travel costs far less than manned missions and can probe much deeper in space with no risk to humans. Yet it remains the poor stepchild to the high-flying manned space program, experts said.

It's a debate that has raged in the scientific community since the first days of exploring the heavens.

"Nobody wants to say 'I told you so' the day after seven people have died," said Gordon Pettengill, a planetary astronomy professor at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. "I wouldn't be surprised if this did cause some re-examination. It would be strange to me if it didn't."

While experts are hesitant to revive the debate so soon after Tuesday's tragedy in which the seven crewmembers were killed, concerns are surfacing over the impact the Challenger accident will have on unmanned projects.

"I don't want to sound callous but one of the things we always worry about in a tragedy like Tuesday's is the money that it's going to take to correct (the problem) is likely to come out of the hide of unmanned (projects)," said John W. Freeman, a Rice University space physicist.

"The thing that strikes me is that this happened four days after the successful Voyager rendezvous with Uranus, a planet we've never even had a photograph of," said Dr. Edward Ney, a University of Minnesota professor of physics and astronomy and a shuttle critic.

"It's been an uphill battle. The public doesn't always appreciate what has been learned from unmanned missions," Freeman said.

PEOPLE

Singer home after leg amputation

RALEIGH, N.C. — Singer Kate Smith, famous for her rendition of "God Bless America," is home from the hospital after undergoing surgery earlier this month to amputate her right leg.

"She's getting along well and is in splendid spirits," said Smith's sister, Helena Smith Steene. She said Smith had been in good condition for the past few days and was released from Raleigh Community Hospital Tuesday afternoon.

Smith, 78, was hospitalized Jan. 11 with circulation problems stemming from diabetes. The next day, her leg was amputated above the knee.

"She made a steady recovery from the operation," Steene said. "They were really very wonderful to her at the hospital, but there's no place like home."

She is best known for "God Bless America," to which composer Irving Berlin gave her rights in 1938 after it had sat on the shelf for 20 years.

Campus Bulletin

ANNOUNCEMENTS

INSTITUTE OF INDUSTRIAL ENGINEERS: Applications for the Wyllys G. Stanton chairmen are available in the industrial engineering office and are due by Friday.

PHI UPSILON OMICRON: Applications for the undergraduate scholarship are due at the national office by Saturday.

STUDENT GOVERNING ASSOCIATION is sponsoring a workshop, "Leadership: Accepting the Challenge," from 8:30 a.m. to noon Saturday in the Union Big Eight room. More information is available in the SGS Office.

MORTAR BOARD applications are available in the Union Activities Office and are due Wednesday.

TODAY

FREE TOUR OF FARRELL LIBRARY will be begin at 5:30 p.m. in Farrell 101.

STUDENT DIETETIC ASSOCIATION meets at 7:30 p.m. in Justin 149.

PARACHUTE CLUB meets at 8 p.m. in Union 206.

ALPHA EPSILON DELTA meets at 7:30 p.m. in Union 207.

PRE-VET CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in Veterinary Medical Teaching 201.

DELTA DARLINGS meet at 7 p.m. at the Delta Tau Delta house.

APPAREL DESIGN COLLECTIVE meets at 7 p.m. in Union 252.

LAMBDA CHI ALPHA CRESCENTS meet at 9:30 p.m. at the Lambda Chi Alpha house.

RODEO CLUB: Executives meet at 6:30 p.m. in Weber 230. A general meeting follows at 7:30 p.m.

LITTLE AMERICAN ROYAL meets at 7 p.m. in Call 140.

ANOREXIA NERVOSA AND ASSOCIATED DISORDERS, a victim and family support group, meets at 7:30 p.m. at Lafene Student Health Center.

MICROBIOLOGY CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in Ackert 234.

ICHTHUS CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP meets at 8 p.m. in the Union Little Theatre.

RACQUETBALL CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in Union 208.

PHONE CRISIS CENTER: An informational sessions for potential volunteers meet at 1 and 2 p.m. in Union 209.

SAMS meet at 6 p.m. in Union 209.

ORDER OF OMEGA meets at 7 p.m. in Union 205.

AG AMBASSADORS meet at 6 p.m. at Valentino's Restaurant, 3019 Anderson Ave. R.S.V.P. by noon in Waters 120.

CAMPUS CRUSADE FOR CHRIST meets at 7 p.m. in Throckmorton 131.

BAPTIST STUDENT UNION meets at 7 p.m. at the Baptist Campus Center, 1801 Anderson Ave.

NATIONAL SOCIETY OF BLACK ENGINEERS meets at 6 p.m. in Durland 132.

FELLOWSHIP OF CHRISTIAN ATHLETES meets at 8 p.m. in Union 205.

Looking Back

20 Years Ago — 1966

The money has been raised and everything is ready for the K-State Varsity Glee Club and the Madrigal Singers to tour Monterrey and Saltillo, Mexico, this week. Morris Hayes, director of the glee club, said the students raised about $9,000 required for the trip through their own efforts, including presenting two benefit concerts.

10 Years Ago — 1976

K-State students will vote on a fee increase to construct and maintain an indoor recreational complex in the upcoming Student Governing Association election Feb. 18. Student Senate approved last night the $15 a semester fee increase proposed by the Recreational Services and Intercollegiate Athletics Task Force, paving the way for the student vote.

15 Years Ago — 1971

A pair of resolutions that will let people vote April 6 whether to allow 18-year-olds the right to vote on both the state and local levels seemed well on their way toward final approval this weekend after three weeks of the current session of the state Legislature.

5 Years Ago — 1981

After numerous questions from Student Senate and a short recess, the Black Student Union's request for a supplemental budget passed unanimously in last night's meeting.

Compiled from the University Archives

RICKEL McMILLIN
Liquor Store
10% DISCOUNT BY THE CASE
2223 Tuttle Creek Blvd.

RICKELS
MANHATTAN'S
WINE and liquor STORE
10% DISCOUNT BY THE CASE
1129 Bluemont

Optometrists
general practice
dedicated to Optometry in a friendly manner
We'd like to be your Optometric office
TO SLEEP WITH
• Extended wear, Gas permeable, Tinted extended wear, Tinted soft contact lenses.
• All types of F.D.A. approved contacts.
• Approx. $5000 contact lenses in stock.
• Free consultation and trial contact lens fitting.
Drs Price, Young and Odle
1119 Westloop Place, Manhattan
537-1118
free door side parking

Blue River Pub
WE'RE BACK AND ROCKIN' MANHATTAN
NOT THE GLENN MILLER BAND
9 p.m.-Midnight
$2 Cover
537-9877
Next to Tuttle Creek Dam

WEDNESDAY & THURSDAY
We'll honor any
local pizza coupon!
Falsetto's
539-3830

MAKE AN EASY $25
Volunteers needed for headache study to compare Tylenol, Advil, Nuprin or a Placebo.
Volunteers must have regular tension headaches usually relieved by an over-the-counter medication.
If interested, contact Mrs. Dree Hood R.N., at Lafene Health Center.

BREAK-AWAY TO WINTER PARK, COLO.
March 6-10 $275⁰⁰
*Includes:
—Roundtrip motorcoach transportation;
—Three nights lodging Winter Park Tennis Club
Condos; jacuzzi, sauna, indoor pool;
—Four days of lift tickets—Winter Park and Mary Jane;
—Four days of ski equipment rental.

International Tours
776-4756
8th & Humboldt
Manhattan, KS 66502
and
Flint Hills Coaches
539-7843
Box 726
Manhattan, KS 66502
(Reservations with full payment by Feb. 12)

Campbell's invite you to attend the Bridal Fair
*
previewing tabletop designs and accessories
Sunday, Feb. 2
1:30 p.m.
Holiday Inn
Complete Bridal Register
China•Crystal•Silver•Brass
Stoneware•Gifts•Household
Accessories•Linens•Wedding
Invitations•Stationary
5th & Poyntz 776-9067
Campbell's
1227 Moro 539-1891
Our 24th Year

VARSIITY 1125 MORO
a Coming of Angels the sequel they'll bring out the devil in you!
starring Annette Haven Ginger Lynn Kelly Nichols
12:00 O'Clock Midnight
Fri. & Sat. All Seats $4

Committee to discuss coliseum plans

By The Collegian Staff

University officials and members of the Coliseum Planning Committee will respond to questions about the proposed Fred Bramlage Coliseum today during an open forum in the Union.

George Miller, vice president for administration and finance, said he would review the architect's revised plans for the coliseum and gather input from students, faculty, University employees and members of the community at the 4 p.m. forum in Union 212.

"The purpose of the meeting is to give an opportunity for a broad section of people...to see first-hand what the architect has come up with on the coliseum project," Miller said.

Individuals attending the forum will have an opportunity to "ask questions, get the answers they need and to formulate observations," he said.

Coliseum architect Bill Livingston, a partner in the Wichita firm of Gossen Livingston Associates, presented two design options to the committee Friday, but both were in excess of the legislated maximum construction budget of $14.5 million. The committee agreed to proceed with the project on the premise that an additional $500,000 could be raised to meet the budget shortfall.

To revise the budget, the committee must gain approval from President Duane Acker, the Board of Regents and the Kansas Legislature. Miller said he intends to take into account the feedback from the University community during the open forum today and review options during a meeting of the coliseum committee Monday before making a recommendation to Acker.

The project is essentially on hold until authority is granted to spend additional funds on coliseum construction. Livingston is "gathering data, but is not developing any drawings until a decision is made regarding the budget," Miller said.

The prospect of revising the 13,500-seat coliseum budget is uncertain because Acker informed Miller by letter Dec. 20, 1985, he is not in favor of changing the budget.

According to the brief letter,

Acker said, "It is exceedingly important that we all recognize and abide by the construction budget ceiling of $14.5 million... This is important so that the architect addresses his tasks effectively and also to ensure that we in the University family not mislead ourselves."

Construction on the coliseum was to begin in August 1985, but all bids were at least $3.4 million over budget and the regents authorized Livingston to redesign the facility and eliminate 2,500 seats and administrative offices from the structure. Funding for the coliseum is coming from $7 million in student contributions, $7.1 million in alumni pledges and $2 million from the Department of Intercollegiate Athletics.

Court grants probation for ex-Kansas senator

By The Associated Press

OLATHE — Former Kansas state Sen. Paul Hess, who pleaded guilty to embezzlement earlier this month, was placed on probation for three years Wednesday.

The ex-lawmaker, who once headed the Senate's powerful Ways and Means Committee, was charged with taking money from an insurance settlement intended for two legal clients.

On Tuesday, he surrendered his license to practice law as part of the plea agreement he reached with the Johnson County district attorney's office.

Hess, 37, appeared Wednesday before Johnson County Associate District Judge Gerald Hougland, who ordered a prison term of one to two years, then placed him on probation.

District Attorney Dennis Moore said that through his attorney, Hess delivered a cashier's check for $20,000 to his former clients, Dorothy Emery and her son, Randall.

The Emerys had retained Hess as their attorney last February after Randall was injured in an auto accident.

In exchange for the plea agreement, the prosecution had dropped a second felony theft count against Hess, and Moore did not make a recommendation on sentencing of Hess, who could have faced up to five years in prison.

The former lawmaker did not make any statement during the sentencing hearing, just giving brief answers to questions, and he declined comment after it was over.

Ron Keefover, spokesman for the Kansas Supreme Court, said Tuesday that disciplinary proceedings against Hess for alleged professional misconduct would be dropped because he had given up his law license, and the court would issue an opinion reporting his disbarment.

Hess, a Republican, served three four-year terms in the Senate representing a Wichita area district after an earlier two-year term in the House.

SGA records 6 applications for student body president

By The Collegian Staff

More than 130 applicants have filed for 51 Student Governing Association positions for the 1986-87 school year, according to the official tally released by the Student Government Services office Wednesday.

Six people have filed for the student body president position: Kelli Carr, senior in journalism and mass communications; Steve Cashman, junior in marketing; Patty Hipsher, junior in political science; Steven Johnson, sophomore in agricultural economics; Keith Petracek, junior in electrical engineering; and a student running under the pseudonym "Scarface," identified by the SGA roster as Joel Christopher Pollock.

The following is a list of the different colleges, the number of candidates that filed and the number of seats open:

College of Agriculture — 14 filed, three seats open; College of Architecture and Design — two filed, two seats open; College of Arts and Sciences — 29 filed, 12 seats open;

College of Business Administration — 32 filed, eight seats available.

College of Education — eight filed, three seats open; College of Engineering — 28 filed, eight seats open; College of Human Ecology — two filed, three positions open; College of Veterinary Medicine — one filed, one seat available.

Five people filed for the four senate seats available in the Graduate School.

Six people filed for the four positions open on the Board of Student Publications.

The names of the people running for SGA positions were verified in the Office of the Registrar Wednesday morning by the SGA Elections Committee. SGA elections are Feb. 11 and 12.

Dark Horse Tavern

$1.50 Pitchers
45¢ Steins

Wildcat Dancers
Guest Bartenders
Bob is on his way back

4¢ COPIES

Till 9:30 p.m. Sun.-Fri.
Till 5 p.m. Sat.

Clafin Books, Mags, & Copies

Denison & Clafin
First Bank Center

Burke's
404 Poyntz
Downtown, Manhattan

THURSDAY • FRIDAY • SATURDAY

DOG DAYS

THE BEST VALUES IN TOWN!

WOMEN'S SHOES Bandolino • Nina 9-West • Candies Connie • Calico Socialite Gloria Vanderbilt As Low As $1000	WOMEN'S BOOTS Candies • Connie Dexter • Sporto 9-West • Zodiak As Low As $1250	MEN'S SHOES Florsheim • Nike Dexter • Bass Hush Puppies As Low As $1600	CHILDREN'S SHOES and BOOTS Stride Rite Kaepa • Nike LaCross As Low As $650
---	--	---	--

STOREWIDE SAVINGS
15% OFF NEW SPRING SHOES

OPEN SUNDAY 1-5

HUNAM Restaurant FREE DELIVERY HUNAM EXPRESS

11 a.m.-1 a.m.
1304 Westloop 539-8888 1116 Moro
(10% Off w/KSU ID) 537-0886 (Egg Roll & Fried Rice 99¢)

THE PIZZERIA 776-0004

We Accept Any Local Pizza Coupons

SANDWICHES PIZZA
715 N. 3rd Manhattan, KS
FREE DELIVERY
Family owned and operated
If you want it, Ask!
One of the largest delivery menus in Manhattan

MORTAR BOARD

A NATIONAL SENIOR HONORARY

All Juniors with a 3.3 grade average and above are eligible for Mortar Board. Applications are available in the Union Activities Center.

Informational reception Feb. 2, 1:30 & 3:30
Union 207 (RSVP by Feb. 1. Call 539-8787)

Applications due Friday, Feb. 5, 8 p.m.
Activities Center, 3rd Floor Union

Are You Overloaded?

Plan your escape to Daytona with Melissa

at
Brother's

Tonight 5-7 p.m.
FREE BEER
for all sign-ups
Sponsored by Campus Marketing

Committee to suggest uses for bond money

By RENEE BEAUDOIN
Collegian Reporter

The Student Bond Refinancing Ad Hoc Committee will present its final recommendations for the use of the $700,000 available from the refinancing of existing student bonds to Student Senate at 7 tonight in the Union Big Eight room.

The committee will recommend $346,158 be allocated toward the renovation of Holton Hall. This would allow Holton Hall to be renovated in one phase instead of the original estimation of three phases. The renovation would begin in May 1987.

"If we can do this, more of the money from student fees will be freed up so we can put it to other uses," said Mark Jones, senior in management and senate chairman.

The committee will also recommend that $18,000 should be allocated to the KSU Police Department for conversion of the current direct line emergency telephones to a radio call box system.

The committee will also recommend to senate that money saved by the conversion of the phone lines should be used for improving campus safety with more emergency phones and more campus foot patrol.

Funding to the police department will save approximately $308 per month, said Capt. Charles Beckom, superintendent of the KSU Police Department.

The remaining $330,842 will remain in Student Governing Association's KSU Foundation account, accruing interest.

Senate will hear five-minute presentations from the groups recommended to receive funds, and from any groups who want to appeal the committee's decision.

"I've heard of at least two groups who are planning on appealing at senate," Jones said. "Other groups will probably be there though."

Senate will also review a proposal to allocate money from the Reserves for Contingencies Account to be given to the Consumer Relations Board for another printing of the Landlord-Tenant Handbook.

Bill Livingston, Fred Bramlage Coliseum project architect, and George Miller, vice president for administration and finance and Coliseum Program Planning Committee chairman, will present senate with more detailed plans for the proposed coliseum.

In other business, senate will vote on the proposed revisions of the SGA constitution and bylaws.

MANNEQUINS ...FOR PLAY

Tonite
The Pedal Jets

$1.75 ALL WELLS
$1.50 IMPORT BOTTLES
75¢ DRAWS

This Weekend
The Elvis Brothers
with special guests "The Wobblers"
Doors open at 7 pm. Bands start at 9 pm.

LIVING ETHICAL WILLS
Union State Room # 3
12:00 Noon TODAY

This series gives an excellent opportunity to receive the "bequest" of a campus leader, in terms of what she/he hopes to leave humanity as guiding principles for life.

Earl Nolting
• Director, Center for Student Development

Sponsored by
CUMMICAL
CHRISTIAN INDUSTRIES

HOLIDAY STYLE

Love is still a feeling that fits in the palm of your hand.

Valentine Engagement Rings from Danenberg's

DANENBERG'S
Holiday JEWELERS

425 POYNTZ MANHATTAN 913-776-7821

Editor: David Svoboda
Associate Editor: Lillian Zier
News Editor: Patty Reinert
Managing Editor: Jeri Heidrick

Editorial Page Editor: Tim Carpenter
Photo/Graphics Editor: Chris Stewart
Advertising Manager: Lori Wong
Director/News Adviser: Dave Adams

Editorial Board: David Svoboda, Tim Carpenter, Melissa Brune, Rich Harris, Jeri Heidrick, Steve Milligan, Patty Reinert, Vicki Reynolds, Eric Rhodenbaugh, Tammy Rickerson, Catherine Saylor, Tom Schultes, Richard Thorp, Jonie Trued, Lillian Zier.

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 020) is published by Student Publications, Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods. OFFICES are in the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 532-6555. Newsroom phone number is 532-6556; display advertising, 532-6560; and classified advertising, 532-6555. SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: $40, calendar year; $35, academic year; $20, semester; $10, summer term. Address changes should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

Drunken drivers may face stiff enforcement

Under a bill recently introduced in the Kansas House, law enforcement officers would be given power to administer extended DUI tests to drivers that they suspect have consumed alcohol.

According to published reports, the bill would authorize a "preliminary" alcohol breath test and enable officers to test drivers any time an officer has reasonable grounds to believe a driver has consumed alcohol, committed a traffic infraction or has been involved in any traffic accident.

The current law on driving under the influence of alcohol allows authorities to administer breath tests only when there is reason to believe a driver is impaired, or is involved in a traffic violation or accident.

There is little difference in the wording between the current law and proposed bill. However, striking differences appear when implications of the new bill are considered. Under the proposed legislation, an individual stopped by an officer for a traffic infraction such as speeding would automatically be susceptible to a "preliminary" breath alcohol test. If the driver refuses to submit to the test, that person would be automatically guilty of a $30 traffic violation.

The preliminary test would do nothing to toughen current DUI laws because of the existing enforceable DUI examination. The proposed legislation might simply be a money-making effort to enrich our state's coffers and impoverish traffic violators.

Methods of curtailing the drunken driving problem in Kansas should be developed in education and will likely do more than any law.

The most effective step for the Legislature would be to provide funding for programs that allow students to learn the implications of drinking.

If this proposal is enacted it would give police officers authority to issue citations on the basis of a presupposition of alcohol consumption. That is inadequate justification for passage of the bill.

Jonie R Trued,
for the editorial board

Shuttle mishap should not halt NASA's work

Space...the final frontier. The end of STS 099 Challenger came in a brief blink of flame. The deaths of the Challenger Seven should inspire us to further wander the byways of space. There is no greater adventure. The men and women of L-51 knew, far better than we, the truth of space.

Forced to remember the astronauts in death, we should also consider their lives. Convinced their efforts worth the risk, the astronauts were willing to serve for the greater good. The Challenger Seven were heroes.

The shock and horror I felt as I watched Challenger disintegrate will be with me forever. When I spoke to a fraternity brother who works for NASA, my sorrow, misery and bewilderment was mirrored in his voice and words. Later I learned that another fraternity brother, Ellison Onizuka, was one of the Challenger Seven.

Thinking of the tragedy, I was reminded of Admiral James T. Kirk, of the mythical starship Enterprise, and his words at the funeral of his friend Spock: "He did not feel this sacrifice a vain or empty one."

Like children, we reach for the stars and for the knowledge they hold. And like children we are puzzled when we find the stars do not come without great effort and sometimes tragedy. Why is this so?

There is no satisfactory answer. One answer that should be discarded is that "we were not meant to explore space." I do not accept that, nor did the men and women of Challenger. The future of man lies in space.

The men and women this nation lost on the final voyage of Challenger gave their lives battling ignorance, fear, hunger...and death. Their deaths cheated death on our behalf.

We can be grateful that their final moments were brief, and that they did not suffer. We do, however, feel an immense burden on behalf of the parents, spouses and children of the Challenger Seven. Their grief will be with us for a long time.

The greatest tragedy of Challenger might be that those with a narrow mind — without a grasp of the greater aims of the space program — will use this dark day as a tool to end our efforts to triumph in space.

The future of Earth and its people lies in space exploration. Let us not make the sacrifice of the Challenger Seven a vain and empty one. Let us instead go on, humbled in spirit, yet lifted by hope and aspirations and make space our home away from home.

If you pray, pray for the Challenger Seven, and for their families. Pray for men and women from around the world who have created and staffed NASA. Weep not for the Challenger Seven. There will come a time when the people of this world will spring forward into space in great ships.

And the vanguard of that great fleet will be ships with names like Enterprise, Challenger, Scobee, Smith, Resnik, McNair, Jarvis, Onizuka and McAuliffe.

We thank you, Challenger, for the good you gave us, and we strive to understand and master the pain. Your sacrifice shall not be in vain.

In your name, Challenger, we reach for the stars.

RICH HARRIS
Collegian Columnist

Architect Bill Livingston is about to walk away. His lawyers, no doubt, are breathing a premature sigh of relief at the Coliseum Planning Committee's unanimous decision to accept the architect's "most optimistic" $15-million coliseum plan.

Livingston, a partner in Gossen Livingston Associates of Wichita, is legally bound to design the proposed Fred Bramlage Coliseum within the $14.5 million construction budget, according to officials with the KSU Foundation. The Foundation and the K-State Alumni Association have hinted that a lawsuit may be filed if the architectural firm cannot meet its obligation.

The committee's decision is the first in a series of decisions that will let Gossen Livingston off the hook. If President Duane Acker, the Board of Regents and the Kansas Legislature give Livingston their approval to complete plans for a $15-million coliseum, the state of Kansas forfeits its right to sue the firm for not designing a facility within the original legislated maximum of $14.5 million.

If the redesigned coliseum comes in over budget, Gossen Livingston is not obligated to go back to the drawing board again. K-State would then be left with two complete plans for a coliseum — neither of which it can afford — and the prospect of paying another architect $740,000 to design a smaller building.

Livingston's sincerity is not in doubt. From the beginning his firm has done everything possible to please coliseum planners. His latest efforts represent an heroic last-ditch attempt to feasibly build the massive structure.

CATHERINE SAYLER
Collegian Columnist

In a legal sense, Livingston has called the Foundation's bluff. He is in effect stating, "I can't fulfill the contract, sue me if you want." Bluff may indeed be all that is behind the Foundation's threat to sue.

The three professionals who estimated that the original 16,000-seat coliseum would cost roughly $14.5 million to build included two K-State alumni who volunteered their services to the University and one firm, Ford/Duke Construction of Wichita, hired by the architect.

Since two professionals representing the buyer and one representing the seller all agreed on the $14.5 million estimate, it is unlikely that a court would decide that the seller is solely responsible for the original faulty estimate. The court might well hold K-State responsible for choosing to trust its two alumni and rule that Livingston is not obligated to redesign at no cost.

Even if the court found in favor of K-State, the outcome of the lawsuit would be unrewarding. Gossen Livingston is thought by some to be on the brink of bankruptcy due to the coliseum redesign. The Foundation is in the process of negotiating terms on which to pay the company an extra $100,000 to defray the $300,000 to $400,000 redesign costs. At most, K-State could hope to acquire the remains of a bankrupt architectural company — hardly a financial jackpot.

Livingston said the $15-million plan is attractive enough for K-State to accept, thus relieving him of any further obligations and, perhaps, saving his company from financial ruin.

Livingston's words to the committee were carefully chosen. He repeatedly used the phrase "at the most optimistic estimate" and reminded the committee that all calculations for reduction were based on the $17.9 million bid submitted in August 1985 on the design calling for a 16,000-seat facility. He honestly informed the committee of the risk involved in counting on his new design netting a $15-million bid.

K-State has reason to worry. Livingston's estimate included no contingencies and allowed for only a 3 percent escalation of costs in the next year.

The original bids ranged from $17.9 million to $22.7. If the cost reductions are based on the average bid of $19.7 million, instead of the low bid, the new project will come in $2.3 million over budget rather than $500,000 over the fixed cost of $14.5 million. If the low bid of $17.95 million is underestimated, the committee has not approved plans for an affordable coliseum.

Livingston has done his best. If K-State goes ahead with the coliseum at this juncture, it has no one to sue and no one but itself to blame.

Letters

Thanks KSDB-FM

Editor,
Thanks KSDB-FM! Thanks for changing your program schedule and not telling anyone. Is this a vain attempt to gain listeners by making us listen all the time to find the programs we like?

"Rock Oldies," one of my personal favorites, seems to have been dropped completely and "Metal Head" has been banished to Sunday night. Saturdays used to be great rock 'n' roll days, but how can anyone get fired up to go party to the techno-pop bubble gum music that has taken over. Sure there is a little good "new music" out there, but most of it only insults the term rock music.

Get with it KSDB! Give us back our "Rock Oldies" and heavy metal on Saturdays. And play them all night, don't give up just when you get rolling. We desperately need good music in this town of mindless Top-40 stations. Your mixed format is nice but you really missed the boat when you forgot the rock 'n' rollers.

The more rock the better, and tell us when you change. Maybe then you'll get a real note of thanks.

Tim Wall fifth-year senior in architecture

Invalid evaluation

Editor,
Re: Susan Baird's column, "Vacation alters visions of England," in the Jan. 20 Collegian:

It is not often that one is knocked off balance by an article in the Collegian, however, Baird's level of ignorance, laid out for all to see, did just that. Let's start with a few of the lesser misconceptions. So our intrepid traveler (has she ever been outside Kansas before?) found the number of historic sights too much, let alone having to pay to see them. First, if you wish to see the real England, you do not join a classic "49 sights in 10 days" tour of England. (I use the term England in the loosest possible sense, as the trip seemingly consisted of London and a quickie to Stonehenge.)

Secondly, yes, we have got a lot of historic sights, but for labeling everything which is pre-1900 (and post-1700) Americans are unbeatable. To complain about paying is gross hypocrisy coming from an American. Please send me a list of free museums and historic sites in the United States.

Most fees help to pay for the upkeep of the facility, although many museums still rely upon government cash to cover the major part of their out-goings. The case of Stonehenge is merely indicative of the problems faced by many historic sites. Stonehenge is quite simply being eroded away by the number of tourists visiting each year. The action taken is regrettable, but very necessary.

As for Baird's impressions of churches, please don't tell us that American churches survive without donations. Indeed, many are places of worship — the worship of materialism and the middle-class American lifestyle. Many British churches are struggling to keep crumbling buildings in one piece.

That lot over, I really must challenge Baird's early comments. If she really expected to see ticker-tape parades and young soldiers strutting down the boulevard with a lady on each arm, I am forced to conclude that her ignorance of world affairs knows no bounds. All-in-all, Baird's level of knowledge is rather disturbing. Do not worry however. With your abilities as a writer, along with your craving for "the banner days of glorious imperialism," you seem perfectly suited for a job with the CIA.

Roger Beaman,
chemistry research assistant

Vision is blurred

Editor,
Re: Susan Baird's column, "Vacation alters visions of England," in the Jan. 20 Collegian:

Although London is our capital city, it does not by any stretch of even Baird's imagination constitute the whole of Great Britain. I quote, "Gone are the banner days of glorious imperialism when ticker tape parades..." Never has there been a ticker tape parade in Great Britain, we leave this type of showmanship to colonials, or ex-colonials as the case may be.

The British prefer the dignity and ceremony of a Royal procession which, had Baird been privileged to witness one, would have completely reversed her opinion.

The reason Karl Marx's two-roomed hovel is marked is that he is of considerable interest to many of our visitors from Eastern European countries. Not all tourists in London are Americans.

On a recent visit to Council Grove, the most historical city in Kansas, according to the Kansas Historical Society, I was amused by a plaque to commemorate 500 Mormons camping there for five days. Wow!

As for the commercialism (not capitalism) of tourism, it sounds to me like free enterprise. (Remember the American Dream?) It has been my experience in the United States that one pays for everything here — plus tax.

Don't get me wrong. I love every minute of my visit to Kansas, even though it is approximately 100 times longer than Baird's visit to my country.

Don Richards,
chemistry research assistant

Anderson access

Editor,
I am writing in response to the decision by the Student Bond Refinancing Ad Hoc Committee to not fund the Anderson Hall handicap accessibility project.

I was very disappointed to learn that our student body representatives do not have the backbone to stand up for what they believe are priorities. It only takes one school official with a little bit of pull to totally reverse the thinking of the group that is supposed to represent the students.

This is absurd. The student leaders of this University need to stand up for what they believe in, or students will never get what we need or want.

In the case of the Anderson handicap accessibility project, our student leaders at first had the accessibility idea on the priority list, but after just one talk by Pat Bosco, assistant vice president for educational and student services, the idea was no longer on the list.

My question is why shouldn't we make Anderson accessible? After all, handicapped people can't use numerous campus buildings. The least we could do is make this very important part of our campus accessible to the handicapped.

As for Bosco, who seems to have helped turn the tide on the Anderson accessibility project, I hope and pray that you do not get in an accident that puts you in a wheelchair, because Lord knows you won't be able to get to your office in Anderson.

Rex Fleming
junior in civil engineering

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR pertaining to matters of public interest are encouraged. All letters must be typewritten or neatly printed and signed by the author and should not exceed 250 words. The author's major, classification or other identification and a telephone number where the author can be reached during business hours must be included. The Collegian reserves the right to edit letters for style and spatial considerations, and to withhold letters from publication.

OF COURSE WE SELL ARMOR-PIERCING BULLETS... WHO KNOWS WHEN YOU'LL SEE A DEER DRIVING A SHERMAN TANK?

Opponents reason against state betting

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA — Opponents of legalizing pari-mutuel wagering in Kansas told a legislative committee Wednesday it won't help the state financially or economically, it will invite criminal elements into the state and it results in cruelty to animals.

Worse than that, a leader in Topeka's black community said, it will entice poor people to lose money they can't spare, adding to the welfare rolls.

Grant Cushinberry, who is well known in Topeka for his philanthropic projects to benefit disadvantaged minority youth, told members of the House Federal and State Affairs Committee:

"We can come up with a better solution (to state revenue problems) than gambling. I'm begging all of you lawmakers to come up with other solutions."

Cushinberry said poor people "are always looking for a pot of gold," and if the state makes gambling attractive "all that's going to suffer is the poor man."

"He doesn't realize the odds are 50,000 to one against him," added Cushinberry. "The little man behind the track is the one who's going to drop his money, and he can least afford it."

Cushinberry, who represented himself, was among 11 witnesses who appeared to oppose endorsement of a resolution which would submit to voters at the November general election a proposed constitutional amendment to legalize pari-mutuel wagering in Kansas on horse and dog racing.

Rep. Robert H. Miller, R-Wellington, chairman of the committee, said the panel would discuss the resolution, consider amendments and perhaps vote on whether to endorse it at a meeting this afternoon.

Group asks for other revenue sources

The committee approved a similar resolution last year, but it died in the House, where it will need two-thirds approval to be forwarded to the Senate.

Miller said most committee debate on this resolution will center on a provision which sets the rate at which money wagered would be taxed at 5 percent. The three options, the chairman said, are for the committee to keep that provision, remove it or establish a tax rate equal to the sales tax — state and local combined — that is in effect in the area where a track is located.

Spokesmen for the state's temperance organization, humane societies and the clergy urged the committee Wednesday to reject the resolution, after the panel heard proponents praise it Tuesday as a way to stimulate the state's economy, generate more tax revenue and help improve Kansas' image.

The Rev. Richard E. Taylor Jr., president of Kansans for Life at Its Best, Kansas' anti-liquor, anti-gambling organization, cited a 1981 study by the Kansas Bureau of Investigation which concluded increased criminal activity was certain to follow legalized race betting into Kansas.

"The public in Kansas has been deceived, and that is why the polls show it has support," Taylor said, trying to refute a contention the Legislature ought to let the people vote on it.

The Rev. Steven Daniels, a Topeka minister, agreed with Cushinberry. "Poor blacks and poor in general have a tendency to grasp for anything they think will improve their lot," he said. "I am convinced if we allow pari-mutuel gambling it will bring strife and hardship to all lower-income families in the state."

The Rev. Bob Visar of Wichita said introducing pari-mutuel gambling and a lottery into Kansas "doesn't make any sense" because other states have tried them and they have brought no benefits.

Carol Brandert, a Salina teacher and president of the Kansas Association of Humane Associations, said her first concern was the treatment of the animals used in racing. She said those who race them don't care about them, except if they can make money for them.

She said 50 percent of the greyhounds bred are killed as pups because they don't show good potential for racing, and that up to 80 percent are put to death before they reach 4 or 5 years old. They are shot or poisoned, she said, because that is cheaper than having a veterinarian do it.

Betty Lambert, president of the Saline County Humane Society, called thoroughbred horse racing "a cruel and inhumane sport that exploits horses" to benefit owners, trainers and others financially.

They start racing thoroughbreds at 2 years of age, when they are still immature, she said.

"Using a 2-year-old horse to race is equivalent to putting a 12-year-old child into a professional football game," Lambert said.

Collegian Classifieds
Cheap, but Effective

The Station
GIVES YOU
THE BREAKS
EVERY THURSDAY

$150 BUYS YOU ANY and ALL MIXED DRINKS
(all brands, all drinks)
80¢ Draws ■ $1.00 Wine
ALL DAY & ALL NIGHT!

Aggie
STATION
RESTAURANT & BAR
1115 MORO • 776-0030

Administration to extend nuclear treaty observance

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The Reagan administration has pledged to extend U.S. observance of the unratified 1979 treaty with the Soviet Union that limits long-range nuclear weapons on both sides.

"Until we say differently, the policy remains the same," the State Department informed Rep. Dante Fascell, chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, in a letter Tuesday.

But the U.S. "no-undercut" policy depends on the Soviets showing "comparable restraints" and actively pursuing new arms reduction agreements in the Geneva negotiations, the letter said.

"The SALT II treaty has effectively limited Soviet advancement in the strategic arena," Fascell said.

The Roaring Twenties are back

The COTTON CLUB
Tonight! Tonight! Tonight!
FEATURING

• 1920's Prices on drinks • Ragtime Music • Bathtub Gin
Hotsty Totsy Girls • Flappers • Gangsters

Come dressed up and receive a bottle of champagne with your dinner.
22-Skidoo this Thursday, 5:30 at

The COTTON CLUB
downtown 418 Poyntz

THE ICECREAM SOCIAL

Makes old-fashioned ice cream treats — still America's #1 dairy treat. You'll love our atmosphere

537-7079 1314 Westloop

Swanson's Bakery Drawing

Come down, put your name in the box for two free tickets to the Big-8 men's and women's basketball games.

Drawing every Friday noon

776-4549
225 Poyntz

Open

Front: Tues-Sat 7 am-5:45 pm
Backdoor: Mon-Sat 9:30 pm-1 am

What can you do if you've had too much to drink but you need to get home?

It's simple

CALL A CAB
537-2080

and we'll even pick up the tab within the city limits of Manhattan.

DON'T DRIVE DRUNK
B.A.D.D.

Put a Bang into Valentine's Day for Your Someone Special, but Don't Let Ordering Late Pop Your Plans.

Balloon Boutique

Call Today for Free Delivery

- *Decorative or rubber balloons
- *Stuffed animals
- *Variety of containers for candy
- *Largest selection in Manhattan

Balloon Boutique
619 N. 3rd 539-0106

INTRODUCING

Economy Auto Repair

411 Fairlane
(South 4th & Fairlane)

CAN'T AFFORD TO GET YOUR AUTO REPAIRED?

Call Economy Auto Repair—our labor rates are

ABOUT 1/2 PRICE
WE SPECIALIZE IN:

- Tune-ups
- Brake jobs
- Exhaust Repair
- Transmissions
- Anything Pertaining to Auto Repair

ALL WORK GUARANTEED!

539-4455
CALL ANY TIME

Economy Auto Repair
411 Fairlane (South 4th & Fairlane)

Bring this ad for additional 10% discount on parts

"Her loveliness I never knew until she smiled at me."

Henry Hartley

Smile enhancement by the professionals

Teeth cleaning from $20

SAGER DENTAL ASSOCIATES, P.A.
514 Humboldt Plaza Hygiene Department 913-537-8823

Mother, missing girls reunite after 2 years

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA — A Topeka mother was in Little Rock, Ark., today being reunited with her two young daughters who had been missing for more than two years.

Patricia Hester flew to Little Rock Tuesday night to see her daughters, Brandy Penry, 9, and Misty Penry, 6, who were taken in December 1983 from a Topeka pizza restaurant by a couple who knew them, authorities said.

Topeka detective William Dickerson described Patricia Hester, who is divorced and the mother of a son as well as the two girls, as "hysterically happy."

Dickerson said the girls were found because a student at the elementary school attended by Brandy identified the sixth-grader from a missing children's flyer, even though she was enrolled in the school under another name, Nicole Bailey.

The student's identification led authorities to check out Brandy, and to the arrest in Little Rock of Richard and Rebecca Bailey, now held in connection with warrants charging them with interfering with parental custody. The two girls were placed in the custody of the Arkansas Social Service Division.

Dickerson said the Baileys are believed to be Diana Hansen, 23, and Richard Hansen, 25, who were neighbors of Patricia Hester in Topeka and had frequently kept the two girls when they lived here.

"As far as we know, their real name is Hansen," said Shawnee County District Attorney Gene Olander.

He said he filed amended charges this morning of aggravated interference with parental custody, a felony. He said Judge Thomas Regan increased their bond to $15,000 each, and that officials were awaiting word from Arkansas authorities on whether they will waive extradition.

Dickerson said the Hansens approached Patricia Hester in the Topeka pizza restaurant on Christmas Day 1983 and asked if they could buy the girls some pizza.

That was the last the mother saw of her daughters until today, Dickerson said.

Planning board referees zoning appeals

By STEPHANIE HAUGHTON
Collegian Reporter

When changes are desired in a location's zoning, the Manhattan Urban Area Planning Board referees differences in opinions and laws.

The board is composed of seven Manhattan and surrounding-area residents, with three members appointed by the city commission and three by the county commission. The appointing body of the seventh member alternates between the two commissions.

Current board members include University personnel, Aggieville store owners, farmers and contractors.

"Everyone has his own ideas," said Ray Weisenburger, professor of regional and community planning and planning board chairman. "They vote on the issues, putting their personal interests aside."

To avoid having a large number of new members at one time, appointments are staggered, with a new chairperson elected annually.

Larry Hulse, chief city planner, said the board takes a "look out into the future" of land use in Manhattan and the surrounding area.

"They handle hard issues, because they are dealing with the future," Hulse said. The board promotes public health, well-being and the morals of the community, he said.

Zoning is a vital concern to the board and the community, Hulse said, because "it protects property owners by ensuring property values and guarantees business and industries that they will have proper roads and utilities."

Another function of the board is to conduct public hearings on all zoning, subdivision requests and capital improvements.

"Public hearings are granted by application to the city or county to ask to be on the agenda or request to go before the board," Hulse said.

After hearing the testimony concerning a zoning or rezoning issue, the board files a report with the city or county commission, depending on jurisdictions.

"In most cases, the city or county commission accepts the report," Hulse said. "The board must have reasons for zoning changes."

If the boards recommends a zoning or rezoning and the city or county commission does not agree with the recommendation, the proposal is returned to the board. The board must then review the proposal again.

"The governing board does have the last word because of a city ordinance," Hulse said.

One area in which the board does have the power to make the final decision is in the ratification of subdivisions.

Funding for long-term projects such as streets, parks and buildings is another area in which the board considers issues and makes recommendations.

The board has to look at every proposal with an attentive eye, Hulse said.

The Wal-Mart rezoning issue, for a proposed second local facility on the city's southwest side, is one of the latest issues that the board has considered.

After two public hearings, the board came to no conclusion because of a tie vote. There were only six members at the time. As a result, the board submitted a report of their findings to the city commission, but not a recommendation.

Board meetings, open to the public, are conducted at 7 p.m., the first and third Mondays of each month in the City Commission Room of the Manhattan City Administration building, 11th Street and Poyntz Avenue.

Have story
or photo ideas?
CALL 532-6556

American Heart Association
WE'RE FIGHTING FOR YOUR LIFE

33 1/3% OFF
Process & Print

with this coupon.
From 110, 126, 35mm or disc color print film.
19¢ per print (reg. 29¢)
and $1.98 dev. chg.
(reg. $2.98).

Example: 24 exp.
reg. $9.94... NOW $6.62!
Limit one roll per coupon.
Not valid with other offers

Manhattan
2700 Anderson Ave.
(Next To Westloop-The Old Kentucky Fried Chicken)
539-2519
OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK!
MON-SAT. 8 AM to 9 PM
SUNDAYS 12 PM to 6 PM

Expires 2-3-86

Code KS12

WINTER SALE

Record and Tape Sale $1.98 and up

- *Decorative Calendars 50% Off
- *Sweatshirts 50% Off
- *Sweatpants 50% Off
- *Sweatshirt and Pant Sets 50% Off
- *K-State T-Shirts 40% Off
- *Selected Stock

Thursday, Jan. 30th thru Sat., February 1st

Varney's
BOOK STORE
IN AGGIEVILLE

9-9
Mon.-Sat.

12-5
Sunday

the casual encounter
fashion clothing for guys & gals.

3 DAYS ONLY

Thurs, Fri, Sat

the casual encounter

1208 Moro in Aggieville

GALS FASHION JEANS

SAVE $10 off

GALS TOPS

1/2 Price

Entire Stock Included

For Guys

SAVE

WINTER COATS 30% to 65%

one group-values to $30

FASHION JEANS

$10

SPORT SHIRTS

SAVE

and

1/3 to 1/2

SWEATERS

LEVI'S and LEE

CORD JEANS

$14.99

SPORT COATS

up to 40% off

DRESS SLACKS

20% off

ALL SALES FINALS ON SALE MERCHANDISE

UPC Thursday, January 30, 1986

UPC

Tomorrow and Saturday
Midnight in Forum Hall
Rated R; KSU ID required; $1.75

k-state union
upc feature films

"Funny...Funky...Winning...Funny, funky, beautifully directed with performances so true and winning that you're smiling through the entire film. Modine is enormously pleasing and Linda Fiorentino has the friendly-but-dangerous sexuality of Debra Winger."
— Jack Kroll, NEWSWEEK

Tomorrow and Saturday
7 & 9:30
in Forum Hall
Rated R; KSU ID required; $1.75

k-state union
upc feature films

Saturday at 2 & Sunday
at 2 & 7
in Forum Hall
Rated G;
KSU ID required; $1.50

k-state union
upc feature films

WHEN YOU HAVE BEEN WARNED,
YOU MUST LISTEN.

"PLAYFUL GRAND GUIGNOL"

THE 4TH MAN is like madcap middle-period Bergman or, when it's really cooking, THE TWILIGHT ZONE as it might have been imagined in a medieval monastery. It makes the dream sequence from 'SPELLBOUND' seem esoteric. The movie is as bonkers in its affect as it is brazen in its effects. It is an even funnier film if you know how it ends. Time's sure fun when you're having flies.
J. Huberman, Village Voice

Today at 3:30
in Little Theatre
& Tonight at 7:30
in Forum Hall
Unrated; KSU ID required; $1.75
FOR MATURE AUDIENCES

k-state union
upc kaleidoscope

MIDDAY ARTS
PRESENTS

A French Horn Trio
from Noon until 1 p.m.
TODAY
in the Union Art Gallery

k-state union
upc arts

CROSS COUNTRY SKIING

Sign-up NOW in the Activities Center Third Floor K-State Union
Let it snow! Let it snow! Let it snow!

k-state union
upc outdoor rec.

Bill to ensure simultaneous poll closing

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The House on Wednesday approved a plan to have all polling places in the 48 continental United States close at 9 p.m. EST on presidential Election Day.

To minimize the disruption, the bill would approve extension of Pacific Daylight Savings Time in presidential years until after Election Day, so polls in the West would close at 7 p.m. local time.

Rep. Al Swift, D-Wash., a former TV newscaster, said the legislation, which passed 204-175, would "insure every voter has a chance to cast a ballot before the results are announced."

He said Hawaii and Alaska asked to be exempted from the bill.

The idea is to keep network newscasters from announcing the winner before the presidential election is over.

Swift said networks have agreed not to use exit poll information to "in any way hint at a probable winner until the polls are closed in a given state."

An opponent, Rep. Judd Gregg, R-N.H., said he did not believe the networks would honor their word. But the House refused to approve an amendment that would force the networks to renew their pledge prior to each presidential election.

Swift said the legislation is the final piece in a "complete solution that will protect the integrity of Election Day for all citizens."

In 1980 and 1984, the networks used information gathered from voters leaving the polling places to project winners.

Rep. William M. Thomas, R-Calif. said today's computer technology means the networks can project with an amazing degree of accuracy.

Under provisions of the legislation, which now goes to the Senate, polls would close at 9 p.m. in the East, at 8 p.m. local time in the Central zone, and 7 p.m. local time in the Mountain and Pacific zones.

One fourth of the states would have no change in poll closing time.

Rep. Bill Frenzel, R-Minn., argued against the legislation. "We have no guarantee that presidential candidates will not concede early," he said. "If they do the same discouragement will take place."

Senate supports government bank bill

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA — The Kansas Senate gave first-round approval Wednesday to a half-dozen bills including one which would allow city and county governments to deposit public funds in a branch bank as well as the main offices of the financial institutions.

Also winning tentative approval were bills which would consolidate more power in the administrative judge position of the state's district courts, allow retired judges to be appointed on a temporary basis to hear certain cases and permit minors, age 16 and 17, to get married without approval of a judge.

Final action is expected Thursday. If passed, all will advance to the House for consideration. It was the first day of debate in the 1986 Legislature.

The bank bill amends existing law which prohibits deposits of public funds at branch facilities. Sen. Neil Arasmith, R-Phillipsburg, said the bill was an outgrowth of multibank holding company legislation passed by the 1985 Legislature.

The bill would allow deposits of public moneys at designated branch banks only if the home office of the financial institution is located in Kansas.

The district judge bill sparked mild debate between Sens. Robert Frey, R-Liberal, and James Francisco, D-Mulvane, over the dangers of expanding the power of administrative judges.

Francisco said a Republican administrative judge would be able to deny a Democratic judge in a district the bailiff, court clerk, administrative assistant or personal secretary desired by the judge.

Under the bill, all administrative judges would have power to appoint court officers and employees without first polling all judges in the district and receiving approval from a majority of them.

"It's better to have centralized administration rather than administration by committee as we now have," Frey said. "Each assignment would be subject to approval of that judge. You'd have the right to say you don't approve."

That provision did not pacify Francisco who claimed partisan political disputes regularly flare in Sedgwick County and he said the politics of prospective employees is always checked.

"This means a judge can't hire the bailiff he wants without approval," Francisco said. "A Democratic district judge might get stuck with a Republican bailiff if the administrative judge is Republican. Or the administrative judge might appoint a bailiff the judge doesn't want, and that could happen over and over again."

Frey said such political squabbles will continue whether or not the administrative judge has power of appointment.

Senate Minority Leader Michael Johnston, D-Parsons, carried the marriage proposal which he said was brought to him by a judge who said it takes too much time to investigate and rule on requests for marriage licenses from people aged 16-17.

The bill would allow those people to be married as long as they had written approval from their parents or guardians. Anyone younger than 16 would still be required to obtain permission from a judge before they could be married.

A number of new bills were introduced Wednesday, including measures which would:

—Allow the state's 304 school boards to create merit pay pools through property tax levies. Individual teachers with tenure then could petition the board for a merit pay raise. If such a raise were approved, the teacher would forfeit all rights to tenure until he resigned from the plan. Sen. Leroy Hayden, D-Santana, sponsored the bill and said it may have constitutional problems and is opposed by the state association of school boards and the teachers' organization.

—Extend for two years a sales tax credit established in 1984 on the sale of machinery and equipment purchased for purposes of establishing or expanding a new business or factory in Kansas.

Looking for an apartment?
Check Collegian Classifieds

Israelis attack bases in early dawn hours

By The Associated Press

SIDON, Lebanon — Israeli warplanes streaked in at dawn Wednesday and rocketed Palestinian guerrilla bases in citrus groves that border a sprawling refugee camp, flattening one building and badly damaging two.

Hospitals in this ancient southern port said one guerrilla was killed and five guerrillas and a Lebanese civilian were wounded in the first Israeli air force attack this year inside Lebanon.

Four jets rocketed the bases of Syrian-backed guerrillas on the outskirts of the Ein el-Hilweh Palestinian refugee camp near Sidon, which is 25 miles south of Beirut.

They made several passes at the three targets nestled among orange and lemon trees around the camp.

The air attack occurred shortly before an infiltrator from Jordan killed two Israeli soldiers and wounded two in an ambush at the border settlement of Mehola in the occupied West Bank. The Israeli military command said the infiltrator was shot dead.

Prime Minister Shimon Peres of Israel, who was in Berlin, said the air raid would not affect the plan for Middle East peace negotiations he is promoting on his European tour.

U.N. peacekeeping troops in south Lebanon dismantled four 107mm Katyusha rockets pointed at Israel minutes before they were to be fired by an electronic timer Wednesday, a U.N. source said, speaking on condition of anonymity.

It was the third time in a week that soldiers of the U.N. Interim Force in Lebanon have found guerrilla rockets and defused them.

Highfield Cottage
accessories for the home

WINTER DOG DAYS SPECIALS

25% OFF

Fieldcrest Towels

Coffee Beans

Lenox Candles

Wicker Baskets

Fitz and Floyd china and many items up to 50% off in the store

Bridal Gift Registry

1205 Moro St.
In Aggieville

Mon.-Sat. 9:30-5:30
Thursday 9:30-8:30

SKI•SALE•SKI•SALE•SKI•SALE

Jackets 1/3 to 1/2 Off

Pants 1/4 Off

Gloves 1/4 Off

Turtlenecks 1/4 Off

Powdershirts 1/4 Off

Goggles 1/4 Off

Knit Hats & Socks 1/3 Off

Underwear 1/3 Off

Clearance Rack—Save Up to 75%

Thursday, Friday
& Saturday Only
All Sales Final

1212 Moro
Aggieville

THE JEAN STATION LEVI'S® 501® JEANS

For Guys
and Gals

$19.88

Levi's Prewashed Jeans Just
The Way You Like 'Em

QUALITY NEVER GOES OUT OF STYLE

Aggieville
Manhattan

New Balance
MB80

Etonic

Mens Tennis

Lady Gazelle

Vega

Trans Am

Lady Euraga

Lady Standard

Loungood

Adidas

Enforcer

Converse

Khaki Hi

Lilac Hi

Pink Hi

Fashion Hi

Persuader Hi

(purple & black)

BALLARD'S

1218 Moro Ph. 539-2441
Manhattan, Ks.

WINTER DOG DAYS

Jan. 30, 31, Feb. 1st Thurs., Fri. & Sat.

SHOES

Reg. Sale

62⁹⁵-30.00

Nike

Challenger Kid

Lady Terra Tr.

Terra-Trainer

Lady Aerobique

Lady Racquette

All Court

Tennis Lite

Challenge Court

Lady Challenger Court

Eshelon

Skyforse Hi

Air Train Hi

Stratus

26⁹⁵-15.00

59⁹⁵-15.00

59⁹⁵-35.00

32⁹⁵-20.00

39⁹⁵-25.00

22⁹⁵-12.00

24⁹⁵-15.00

39⁹⁵-25.00

39⁹⁵-25.00

27⁹⁵-18.00

52⁹⁵-30.00

49⁹⁵-30.00

27⁹⁵-18.00

DOG DAYS BARGAINS

50% OFF

1986 Calendars

Prince Gardner Billfolds

Picture Frames

Wicker Baskets

and many other items, too!

The Palace

CARDS ♦ GIFTS

704 N. Manhattan Ave Mon-Sat 8:30-5:30
In Aggieville Thursday 8:30-8:30

OTHER MERCHANDISE

Mens & Women Fashion Warm-ups 40% off

Assortment of Ski Hats 1/2 Price

Tube Socks 1⁵⁰ each 15.00 Reg.

Wilson Garment Bag Reg. 79⁹⁵-39⁹⁵

Mens & Womens ski jackets & pants 40% off

Volleyballs Reg. 9⁹⁵-6.00

BALLARD'S

Sale Hours Thursday 8:30-8:30
Fri, Sat, 8:30-5:30

Cassandra Jones, shown during a game against the University of Oklahoma, has reportedly quit the Lady Cats along with Shelia Hubert.

Lady Cats' Shelia Hubert has quit the squad. Another player, Cheryl Jackson, also did not make the trip Wednesday to play Oklahoma State.

Two players quit Lady Cats team

By The Collegian Staff

Lady Cat basketball players Cassandra Jones and Shelia Hubert have quit the team, the Collegian learned Wednesday night.

According to a report that was to be issued today by the K-State Sports Information office, Jones and Hubert, along with Cheryl Jackson, did not make the trip to Stillwater, Okla., Wednesday night for the team's game with Oklahoma State.

Jackson's status will be evaluated by Coach Matilda Mossman later today, according to the Sports Information office.

Problems began Sunday when Jones, Hubert and Jackson — along with Carlisa Thomas and Thea Fitzpatrick — did not show up for Sunday's practice.

Coach Mossman was quoted by Sports Information as saying that the incident was not racial and simply a case of burnout with the group. The five are the only black members of the Lady Cat team. Thomas and Fitzpatrick made the trip to Oklahoma with the team.

The incident was "just (a case of) kids getting upset and not (being) pleased with what has been occurring (lack of playing time)," Mossman said.

Mossman said.

When the Collegian contacted Jones at her Manhattan apartment, she said that she and the other two players had not quit the team, but rather did not make the trip to Stillwater by their own choice. Hubert would not comment until hearing from Mossman and Jackson could not be reached by telephone.

Claudia Sangster of the Sports Information office said that Mossman has not heard from Jones in the last three days and that Jones and Hubert have now "quit the team on their own accord." Jackson's status is questionable but she has asked to be reinstated to the Lady Cat team.

Jones, a senior guard from Fort Lauderdale, Fla., was listed by Street and Smith magazine as a pre-season honorable mention all-American. Jones had averaged 9.4 points per game this season, down from 17.1 points per contest one year ago. Jones was No. 2 in the nation in steals last season, averaging 4.5 per game.

Hubert, a senior forward who transferred to K-State from Barton County (Kan.) Community College prior to her junior year, was averaging 3.1 points a game.

Wildcats lose third consecutive outing

From Staff and Wire Reports

STILLWATER, Okla. — Terry Faggins scored 19 points and Oklahoma State went on a 7-0 spurt midway through the second half as the Cowboys beat K-State, 86-70, in Big Eight Conference basketball Wednesday night.

The Cowboys, 11-7 overall and 2-3 in the Big Eight, hit eight straight free throws down the stretch to pull away from the Wildcats, who dropped to 13-7 and 1-4.

Benny Green hit a long jump shot to give K-State a 47-44 lead with 14:13 remaining in the game, but a Faggins jumper at the 13:31 mark started a run of seven unanswered points that put Oklahoma State ahead to stay. A Roshon Patton foul shot, Jason Manuel jumper and another Patton jump shot made it 51-47 with 11:38 to play.

Green then hit another long jump shot to pull the Wildcats within two, but they never got any closer.

K-State shot 38.2 percent from the field for the game and 32.8 percent in the second half. Coach Jack Hartman said his team lost because of their poor shooting.

"The worst it got the more we started pressing. These things can affect your entire game... We didn't move (on offense). We stood and looked around," he said.

"What bothers me is we broke down totally in the second half. When people make a run at us we collapse to easily," Hartman said.

Green scored 14 for K-State and Joe Wright had 13. The Cowboys held Norris Coleman to only 11 points, 11 points below his season average and 19 below his conference average.

Ron Meyer pulled down a career high 11 rebounds playing against the tallest player in the Big Eight, 7-foot-4 Alan Bannister.

Patton led Oklahoma State in scoring with 17 points, Melvin Gilliam had 16 and Andre Ivy 13.

In the Lady Cat game preceding the men's game, Oklahoma State downed K-State 60-58. The loss was the third consecutive conference loss for the Lady Cats and comes in the wake of two players quitting the team.

"I was pleased with the game. The kids gave us a full 40 minutes. They may not have been as talented (as before the incident), but they played hard," Coach Matilda Mossman said.

Susan Green led the Lady Cats in scoring with 17, Sue Leiding scored 11 and Thea Fitzpatrick scored 10 as the team's leading scorer on the season, Amanda Holley, was held to eight.

Patriots' woes persist with naming of users

By The Associated Press

FOXBORO, Mass. — The New England Patriots' drug controversy heated up Wednesday with the naming of six alleged drug users. The team's player representative said the disclosure dooms its voluntary testing plan and could lead to a strike.

"A terrible injustice has been done with the naming of the alleged players," Brian Holloway told the Pittsburgh Press. "The idea that those names have come out does not mean that they have used drugs."

The Boston Globe reported Wednesday that Raymond Clayborn, Tony Collins, Irving Fryar, Roland James, Kenneth Sims and Stephen Starring admitted to Coach Raymond Berry they had used drugs.

"Some of those guys have been in a (rehabilitation) program and they're not on drugs any more," General Manager Patrick Sullivan said.

Sullivan said he was called by Globe reporter Ron Borges, whose story included the six names.

"He read me the names and he said, 'if I print those names are you going to stand there and deny it?' And I said, 'I wouldn't stand and deny it.'" Sullivan said. "I'm reluctant to do that but I'm also reluctant to be put in a position of not telling the truth."

Holloway, the Patriots' union representative, said the source of the confirmation was not important. He was more concerned that the names were revealed.

"I can guarantee you, with the release of those players' names, you have seen the end of the voluntary program with the Patriots," he said in Hawaii, where he will play in Sunday's Pro Bowl.

After losing the Super Bowl 46-10 to the Chicago Bears last Sunday, the Patriots voted Monday morning in New Orleans to become the first team to institute voluntary drug testing.

Holloway said confidentiality was one of the conditions for the program. Sullivan and Berry denied that, saying that even if they refused to comment, there was no guarantee that drug users' names would not be published.

"I told the players it's a possibility" that their names would become known, Berry said. "There's nothing I could do about that. I hoped they wouldn't but that was out of my hands."

Doug Allen, secretary-treasurer of the Federation of Professional Athletes, said from the union office in Washington, "It's incredible to me that the Patriots breached confidentiality."

"As I understand it, the players had insisted on confidentiality. If that was one of the conditions, management has ignored the agreement."

Allen's federation is an umbrella organization for player associations of the National Football League, United States Football League and Major Indoor Soccer League.

"You can be assured that this thing is not over yet," Holloway told the Press.

The NFL Players Association strongly opposed the Patriots' vote in favor of a testing program, saying it violates the players' collective bargaining agreement with the league.

Bears coach gets job; Ryan moves to Eagles

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA — Buddy Ryan, architect of the Chicago Bears' awesome defense, was named head coach of the Philadelphia Eagles Wednesday and promised to lead the National Football League team into the playoffs within two years.

Ryan, after toiling in relative obscurity for most of his 18 years as a defensive specialist, was given a five-year contract for his first try as a head coach.

Eagles owner Norman Braman introduced the 52-year old Ryan as the best coach in the NFL who would give the Eagles "the winning consistency they lacked over the last few years."

Ryan promptly issued a prediction as bold as the Bears' attacking defensive strategy.

"It will not take the five years to go to the playoffs," he said. "I'm not going to wait that long. We'll be contenders in a year or so."

Bears head Coach Mike Ditka wasn't upset by Ryan's departure.

"The Bears played challenging, aggressive defense in the 60s," he said in Chicago. "It didn't start when Buddy came here, and it won't end because Buddy left here."

Ryan was the third choice in Braman's six-week hunt for a successor to Marion Campbell, whom he fired less than a week before the end of the season.

Braman first sought David Shula, 26-year-old son of Miami Dolphins Coach Don Shula, and an assistant to his dad with the Dolphins. Negotiations collapsed when young Shula refused to accept a five-year option on a five-year contract.

Then came Jim Mora, highly successful coach of the United States Football League Baltimore Stars. Just when it seemed Mora would be the new coach, there was an unexplained hitch. Mora on Tuesday was named head coach of the New Orleans Saints.

Braman said Ryan first caught his attention Dec. 1 in an article in the New York Times. The subsequent feat of the Bears shutting out two playoff opponents vaulted him into contention for the Eagles job.

Ryan's selection was surprising since Braman had been seeking an offensive-minded coach who could help the punchless Eagles put points on the board. He had said he did not want a defensive specialist.

Braman said he wasn't concerned that Ryan's status as a defensive coach would hurt his offensive accumen.

Briefly in Sports

By The Associated Press

Oklahoma rolls over Nebraska

NORMAN, Okla. — Darryl Kennedy and Tim McCalister scored 20 points apiece Wednesday night as sixth-ranked Oklahoma moved into a tie for first place in the Big Eight Conference with an 87-60 college basketball victory over Nebraska.

The victory was Oklahoma's 44th straight at home and 19th in 20 games this year. At 4-1 in the conference, the Sooners are tied with fifth-ranked Kansas for the league lead.

Nebraska, which got 28 points and 11 rebounds from center Dave Hoppen, fell to 12-6 overall, 2-3 in the Big Eight.

Nebraska kept things close in the early going by playing its deliberate style of offense. But Oklahoma got its running game going enough to build a 42-30 lead at halftime.

Hoppen, who scored 14 points in each half, pulled Nebraska within eight, 42-34, by scoring the first four points of the second half. But that was as close as the Cornhuskers would get as Oklahoma pulled away.

With 10:15 remaining in the game, guard Linwood Davis gave the Sooners a 20-point lead, 64-44, with a short running jump shot.

Chiefs hire veteran player scout

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — The Kansas City Chiefs have hired veteran scout Fred Schubach as a talent scout for the National Football League team, officials announced Wednesday.

Schubach spent nearly 30 years with the Baltimore Colts, joining the team at its inception in 1953. He spent 10 years as head of the Colts scouting operation before leaving the team in 1982.

Schubach was a talent scout for the Buffalo Bills in 1983 and 1984. In 1985, he established his own scouting combine and worked on behalf of the Chicago Bears and the Los Angeles Raiders.

Alabama, Buckeyes to open season

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. — The 1986 college football season will begin in late August when Alabama and Ohio State, two traditional powers with a total of 1,213 victories and similar 71 percent records of success, meet in the fourth annual Kickoff Classic.

The announcement was made Wednesday at Giants Stadium, site of the game, with the actual date — either Aug. 27 or 28 — to be announced shortly.

Although this marks the first time the defending national champion will not play in the Kickoff Classic — Oklahoma said it did not want to be considered — the Alabama-Ohio State matchup was termed "a significant pairing" by Robert Mulcahy III, commissioner and chief executive officer of the New Jersey Sports & Exposition Authority.

Alabama (9-2-1) finished 13th, Ohio State (9-3-0) 14th in the 1985 Associated Press rankings and, with 16 starters returning to each team, both are expected to be strong again next season.

The Kickoff Classic will be a homecoming of sorts for Alabama's Ray Perkins, who coached the New York Giants from 1979-82.

"I'm excited about it for a lot of different reasons," Perkins said. "Standing on the sidelines during the course of a game here certainly will bring back memories — a lot of good ones and some bad ones, too."

Evert Lloyd wins match in Slims

KEY BISCAINE, Fla. — Top-seeded Chris Evert Lloyd easily defeated Petra Huber of Austria, 6-2, 6-1, on Wednesday night to advance to the third round of the $250,000 Virginia Slims of Florida tennis tournament.

In the other featured evening match, sixth-seeded Gabriela Sabatini of Argentina whipped Annabel Croft of Great Britain, 6-0, 6-1.

Man soars into space to triumph

By ERIN EICHER
Staff Writer

In the 25 years since man first rocketed into space, many triumphs and tragedies have marked the way to a greater understanding of what lies beyond Earth.

On April 12, 1961, Yuri A. Gagarin became the first man to orbit the earth. His one-hour and 48-minute flight in the Vostok One symbolized Soviet superiority in space, and spurred President John Kennedy to pour millions of dollars into a United States space program.

Within a month the Mercury-Redstone Three was launched, and Alan B. Shepard Jr. became the first American in space. He spent 15 minutes and 22 seconds above Earth.

Project Mercury was designed to test man's capabilities in space, and with the last Mercury flight, NASA officials had proof that man could live and function in space for at least 34 hours.

Continuous progress was made by Soviet and U.S. space programs. In June 1963, Valentina V. Tereshkova became the first woman in space. A Soviet cosmonaut took the first "space walk" in March 1965.

The first American to take a "space walk," Edward H. White, stepped out of the Gemini-Titan Four for 20 minutes in June 1965.

On Jan. 27, 1967, a fire started on the Apollo One while it was still on the launch pad at Cape Kennedy, Fla. Virgil Grissom, Edward H. White and Roger B. Chaffee were the first U.S. astronauts killed during space tests.

The Soviet space program faced a tragic setback in April 1967 when Vladimir Komarov was killed. He was in the Soyuz One when it crashed on re-entry.

U.S. astronaut Neil Armstrong took "one small step for a man, one giant leap for mankind," on July 20, 1969, when the Apollo-Saturn 11 made the first lunar landing. Armstrong and Edwin E. Aldrin Jr. collected 48.5 pounds of rock and soil samples.

In June 1971, the three-man crew of the Soyuz 11 suffocated when their cabin lost air pressure after a valve failed.

The United States sent up Skylab, the first manned American orbiting space station in May 1973. A Soviet space station, the Salyut, had been up since 1971.

On July 11, 1979, five years after its last mission, Skylab's orbit began to deteriorate and the 77-ton piece of equipment fell back to earth. Most of it burned up as it entered the atmosphere, but what didn't burn fell on Australia and the Indian Ocean.

Previous experience led to the development of the Space Shuttle, a unique transportation system designed to be reused up to 100 times. The shuttle is a manned rocket that can be flown back to earth like an airplane.

The shuttle Challenger exploded after launching Tuesday killing its seven crew members, among them Christa McAuliffe, who was to be America's first teacher in space.

comprehensive health associates • free pregnancy tests • abortion services/counseling • gynecology • contraception

Overland Park, KS / 913-345-1400

Staff/John LaBarge

Retired astronaut Ron Evans believes the shuttle accident will put the space program on hold temporarily until the cause of the crash is found.

Evans

Continued from Page 1

problems that come up."

The deaths were the first in flight after 55 successful U.S. man-in-space flights, including 24 previous shuttle missions.

Comparing the space shuttle setback to the problems confronting Kansas pioneers, Evans said early settlers overcame problems by setting goals and proceeding. NASA should do the same thing, he said.

"Sitting on top of a rocket with all of that fuel below, your heart is bound to beat a little faster, but you take those risks. We are a progressive people and have an obligation to explore and solve problems."

Two celebrities scheduled to attend the Kansas Day ceremonies — astronauts Joe Engle of Chapman and Steve Hawley of Salina — were in Topeka to kick off events for the state's anniversary celebration, but NASA ordered them to return to Houston Tuesday night.

45 Years Serving America's Children

Support the
March of Dimes
BIRTH DEFECTS FOUNDATION

Just Arrived

"The Face"
"New Musical Express"
"Melody Maker"
"Paris Match"
"Private Eye"

Clafin Books
Mags., & Copies

Till 9:30 p.m.
Sun.-Fri.
Till 5 p.m.
Sat.
First Bank
Center
Clafin and Denison

Hansen Nutrition Center

Across from Village Plaza

- WEIDER BODY-BUILDING PRODUCTS
- ALL MAJOR BRANDS OF NATURAL FOODS
- WHOLE GRAIN PRODUCTS
- DRIED FRUIT, NUTS & SEEDS
- VEGETARIAN PRODUCTS
- NATURAL DIET AIDS
- BOOKS ON NUTRITION

• STOP BY TODAY •
537-4571
3112 Anderson

HOURS: Mon.-Sat. 9:30 a.m.-6 p.m.

2 GREAT SKI TRIPS TO SILVERCREEK, COLORADO

Prices include roundtrip motorcoach transportation, deluxe accommodations at Silvercreek Inn, lift tickets and ski rental. Lift tickets and skis are optional, and if not needed may be deducted from the cost of the trip—$16.00/day for lifts, $7.50/day for ski rental. $50.00 non-refundable deposit holds your reservation.

Each deluxe room at Silvercreek is complete with a private deck, steam jacuzzi, cable television with AM/FM stereo, a fireplace, and a wet bar with refrigerator, sink and microwave oven.

TRIP NO. 1—MARCH 12th
Bus departs Wednesday at 7:30 PM.
Ski Thursday, Friday and Saturday.
Return Saturday evening and arrive in Manhattan Sunday morning.

2 nights lodging and 3 days skiing
2 per room—$197 per person
4 per room—$169 per person
6 per room—$165 per person

TRIP NO. 2—APRIL 3rd
Discount trip—reduced rates!!!
Leaves Thursday at 7:30 PM. Ski Friday, Saturday, Sunday. Return Sunday evening.

2 nights lodging and 3 days skiing
2 per room—$162 per person
4 per room—$147 per person
6 per room—$140 per person

LET'S GO TO THE RACES
FONNER PARK-GRAND ISLAND
SAT., APRIL 12, $28.00 PER PERSON

A comfortable indoor clubhouse seat awaits you. Your $28.00 per person includes roundtrip motorcoach transportation, general admission and a reserved clubhouse seat.

Trips will operate with a minimum of 26 people. Full payment is required 30 days before departure. Get your friends together and sign up now.

FOR MORE INFORMATION ON ANY OF THESE TRIPS OR TO MAKE RESERVATIONS CALL:

Manhattan Transit Charters, Inc.
217 McCall Road
Manhattan, KS 66502
(913) 539-0285

STEREO FACTORY'S BIGGEST EVER 30-HOUR SALE

It's easy to have a Great Stereo or Video System when you let the pros from Stereo Factory show you how! Starting at 9 a.m. on Friday, STEREO FACTORY in AGGIEVILLE will begin a gigantic 30-hour sale with tremendous savings on receivers, turntables and speakers. Plus really small prices on our most popular car stereo and speakers. Each hour we'll reduce the price on one item even more! We're going to stay open until 9 p.m. Friday then we'll close so we can clean up the store, restock our shelves and reprice our products. We may even take a short nap. Then we're going to throw open our doors at 9 a.m. Saturday for even more great deals and hourly specials until 4 p.m. Sunday we'll be open from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. for the last six hours of our 30-hour sale. FOLLOW THE SOUND TO STEREO FACTORY IN AGGIEVILLE. BIG 30-HOUR SALE.

FRIDAY HOURLY SPECIALS

9 A.M.-10 A.M. JET SOUND SYSTEM AM/FM cassette in-dash 6x9 100 watt speakers and 50 watt equalizer. Reg. Price $357.00 All 29 Hours $265.00 1 HOUR ONLY $199.88	10 A.M.-11 A.M. ALPINE 8100 Top quality security system for your car. Reg. Price $250.00 All 29 Hours $219.95 1 HOUR ONLY $149.88	11 A.M.-NOON STILLWATER KICKER II Full range sub-woofer system for your car. Reg. Price $280.00 All 29 Hours $244.88 1 HOUR ONLY $219.95	NOON-1 P.M. SONY CDP-302 One of Sony's finest compact disc players. Reg. Price $550.00 All 29 Hours $489.00 1 HOUR ONLY $429.88
1 P.M.-2 P.M. LUXMAN R-404 High quality AM/FM stereo receiver. Reg. Price $300.00 All 29 Hours $279.95 1 HOUR ONLY $199.95	2 P.M.-3 P.M. BOSE 301 II Reg. Price $211.00 All 29 Hours $188.00 1 HOUR ONLY $159.00	3 P.M.-4 P.M. SENTREK 4210B 20 band graphic equalizer with peak meters and 2 tape inputs. Reg. Price $200.00 All 29 Hours $149.00 1 HOUR ONLY $99.88	4 P.M.-5 P.M. WHISTLER Radar Detector Compact design. Reg. Price $119.95 All 29 Hours $99.95 1 HOUR ONLY $79.00 (Limit one per person)
5 P.M.-6 P.M. CLARION 4300R 100-EQB-5 Reg. Price $129.00 All 29 Hours $89.95 1 HOUR ONLY $69.88	6 P.M.-7 P.M. CLARION 100-EQB-5 Reg. Price $129.00 All 29 Hours $89.95 1 HOUR ONLY $69.88	7 P.M.-8 P.M. JVC LA-X3B Semi-automatic turntable. Reg. Price $119.88 All 29 Hours $88.00 1 HOUR ONLY $69.88	8 P.M.-9 P.M. All compact discs in stock. Reg. Price $16.95 All 29 Hours $13.88 1 HOUR ONLY $9.95

SATURDAY HOURLY SPECIALS

9 A.M.-10 A.M. Maxell chrome 2-packs. Reg. Price $7.95 All 29 Hours $5.95 1 HOUR ONLY $3.88	10 A.M.-11 A.M. Infinity 6 1/2 polypropylene 2-way car speakers. Reg. Price $100.00 All 29 Hours $79.95 1 HOUR ONLY $64.88	11 A.M.-NOON JVC TD-W20 High speed double decker with Dolby B and C, in black. Reg. Price $249.00 All 29 Hours $199.00 1 HOUR ONLY $188.00	NOON-1 P.M. AUDIO CABINET EQL's model 1036. Reg. Price $99.00 All 29 Hours $59.00 1 HOUR ONLY $39.00
1 P.M.-2 P.M. AMERICAN ACOUSTIC D-4500 3-way digital ready loudspeaker with 10-year warranty. Reg. Price $250.00 All 29 Hours $179.00 1 HOUR ONLY $149.00	2 P.M.-3 P.M. SONY WM-F17 AM/FM stereo cassette Walkman with stereo recording. Reg. Price $119.00 All 29 Hours $99.00 1 HOUR ONLY $85.00	3 P.M.-4 P.M. ALPINE 5900 Compact disc player for your car. Reg. Price $600.00 All 29 Hours $579.00 1 HOUR ONLY $499.00	4 P.M.-5 P.M. Technics RS-857 Auto reverse cassette deck with Dolby B.C. and D.BX. Reg. Price $349.00 All 29 Hours $279.00 1 HOUR ONLY $197.00
5 P.M.-6 P.M. JVC PC-30 High quality AM/FM cassette portable component system. Reg. Price $219.95 All 29 Hours $159.99 1 HOUR ONLY $139.95	6 P.M.-7 P.M. WILD CARD Your Choice of Any Previous Hourly Special at it's Special ONE HOUR ONLY Price... Limited to Store Stock.	7 P.M.-8 P.M. BOSE 601II Direct reflecting loudspeaker. Reg. Price $522.00 All 29 Hours $399.00 1 HOUR ONLY $319.00	8 P.M.-9 P.M. AMERICAN ACOUSTIC D-9500 top of the line digital loudspeaker. Reg. Price $500.00 All 29 Hours $399.00 1 HOUR ONLY $329.00

SUNDAY HOURLY SPECIALS

11 A.M.-NOON BUSH OC-1461 Quality dark oak hardwood audio cabinet. Reg. Price $300.00 All 29 Hours $239.00 1 HOUR ONLY $209.00	NOON-1 P.M. SONY STR-AV460 Audio video remote controllable receiver. Reg. Price $300.00 All 29 Hours $269.00 1 HOUR ONLY $239.00	1 P.M.-2 P.M. JVC C-1455 13" remote control color television. Reg. Price $379.00 All 29 Hours $319.00 1 HOUR ONLY $299.00
2 P.M.-3 P.M. LUXMAN P-405 Fully automatic turntable with independent suspension. Reg. Price $200.00 All 29 Hours $179.00 1 HOUR ONLY $149.95	3 P.M.-4 P.M. DIGITRAC 280E Elliptical-diamond phono cartridge, fits virtually all turntables. Reg. Price $65.00 All 29 Hours $45.00 1 HOUR ONLY $39.00	4 P.M.-5 P.M. WILD CARD Your Choice of Any Previous Hourly Special at it's Special ONE HOUR ONLY Price... Limited to Store Stock.

STEREO FACTORY

1126 Moro IN AGGIEVILLE

Sale ends

Feb. 2

776-5507

Approved Financing Available

All items may not be exactly as pictured.
All on a first come, first serve basis and limited to store stock.

House introduces bill creating revenue fund to handle lottery cash

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA — The House Ways and Means Committee Wednesday voted to introduce a bill that would create a state gaming revenue fund to handle money generated by a proposed state-run lottery.

Under the measure, any revenue the state would receive from a lottery would be distributed monthly to three separate funds to benefit prisons, economic development and pay counties for statewide reappraisal costs.

"We want to put the revenue into a separate fund instead of the general fund because traditionally the dollars received from a lottery fall off," said Rep. Bill Bunten, R-Topeka and chairman of the budget committee.

The budget committee's decision to endorse the proposed gaming fund bill and send it to the House floor comes one week after another House committee eliminated similar earmarking provisions from a lottery resolution.

Last Thursday, action by the House Federal and State Affairs Committee removed Senate-passed language from the resolution that would have targeted lottery revenues for property tax relief statewide.

Bunten's committee, however, thought the earmarking of lottery revenue was a good idea and created the three funds.

Here's how Bunten said the bill would split revenue generated by a lottery during the first two fiscal years:

—60 percent would be used for state economic development. The fund would be used to attract new commercial and industrial development and to support the state's existing economic foundation

—30 percent would be transferred to county reappraisal funds. Funds would reimburse counties for money used to reappraise real property.

—10 percent would be used to create a correctional institutions building fund. Each year, $5 million would be set aside to build prisons to alleviate the overcrowding now occurring in Kansas jails.

As of July 1, 1989, 90 percent of the lottery revenue would be deposited in the state economic development fund. The correctional institutions building fund would still receive 10 percent of the revenue.

Those figures are based on total lottery revenue under $50 million in any fiscal year. Should revenue generated by a lottery exceed that amount, it would be deposited in the state general fund bank account.

The resolution calls for amending the Kansas Constitution to legalize gambling on a state lottery.

Americans pay for health, long lives

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Americans are healthier and living longer, but also paying steeply for it, the government said Wednesday in its annual report on the nation's health.

Life expectancy is at a record high and infant mortality at a new low, the report said.

Although infant mortality fell to an estimated 10.6 deaths per 1,000 births in 1984, health experts said they continue to worry about the slowing pace of the decline, and a persistent gap between the rate at which white and black infants die.

A child born in 1983 could expect to live 74.6 years, a new high, the study said. The longest life expectancy is enjoyed by white females, 78.7 years; the shortest by black males, 65.4 years.

On average, a man who turned 45 in 1983 could expect to live the age of 74.7, more than three years longer than his 1950 counterpart, while a woman celebrating her 45th birthday in 1983 could expect to live to 80.4, more than 4½ years longer than the 45-year-old woman of 1950.

Gains in the nation's health have not come cheaply, however.

Per capita spending on health reached $1,580 in 1984, three times the amount spent 10 years earlier, the report said. And medical inflation continues to surpass the overall rise in consumer prices, although at a slower pace than in recent years.

In his report to Congress, Health and Human Services Secretary Otis R. Bowen called the record "impressive."

Gains in life expectancy were attributed in large part to the decline in cigarette smoking and to improved treatment of high blood pressure. The latter has been a focus of government educational campaigns, particularly among blacks.

While more than half of all adult males smoked in 1965, that figure dropped to about 35 percent in 1983. Statistics for women showed a much smaller decline in smoking, from 34.2 percent to 29.9 percent — and black women showed an increase.

The difference showed in fatality rates. The death rate from heart disease dropped 28 percent from 1970 to 1984, while the death rate from strokes dropped 49 percent over the same period. Both are traditionally male diseases linked by scientists to smoking.

Lung cancer rates continue to increase, but that increase is slowing for men and accelerating for women.

In 1950, the death rate for breast cancer among American women was five times their rate of lung cancer. In 1983, the death rate from breast cancer was only 9 percent above the lung cancer rate, the study said, and lung cancer now kills more women aged 55 to 74 than breast cancer.

Infant mortality continued its drop, but worrisome trends of the past show no sign of disappearing.

The gap between white and black infant mortality continues. Black infants are almost twice as likely to die in their first year as white infants.

And, while infant mortality is dropping, the rate of decline appears to have slowed. During the 1970s, infant mortality declined by about 4.5 percent a year.

MR.K'S

50s NITE TONITE!

- $1 Pitchers
- $1 Admission with KSU ID
- 50s Music

TGIF with Free Kurly K's with Pitcher!

CHARLIE'S

NEIGHBORHOOD BAR
Established 1963

THURSDAY $$DOLLAR DAZE$$

Hot and bothered with long lines, high prices and annoying weekend cover? Try a cool change. Lowest prices and fast, friendly service. Join us this Saturday after the game.

$2.25 Pitchers

1800 Claflin FIRST BANK CENTER 539-9619

KMAN 1350

RADIO AUCTION

The items listed below will be auctioned to the highest bidder this Saturday from 8:05 a.m. to noon. Visit the sponsors... inspect the merchandise...determine your bid. Keep your radio on KMAN 1350 and your hand near the phone. Just call in and bid on the KMAN auction line: 776-1333.

Auction Date: February 1, 1986
Front Quarter of Beef, Processed: ROEPKE'S PROCESSING, WATERVILLE	$150.00
Package of 5 Movie Passes For Two: COMMONWEALTH THEATERS	$ 30.00
$500 CERTIFICATE TOWARD TUITION: CRUM'S BEAUTY COLLEGE	$500.00
Mighty Tonka Dozer: MANHATTAN HOBBIES & TOYS	$ 34.99
Franklin Gravity Glide Recliner Chair: FAITH FURNITURE	$398.00
Transformer Race Set: MANHATTAN HOBBIES & TOYS	$ 49.99
Woodland by Mikasa 20 Piece Set: PFEIFLEY JEWELERS	$179.80
Under Cabinet 4-Slice Toaster: WATERS TRUE VALUE HARDWARE	$ 54.99
Philco 25" Electronic II Color TV: KEN'S APPLIANCE	$599.00
$25 Worth of White House Brand Coffee: HIGHFIELD COTTAGE	$ 25.00
Single Family House Cleanout Year-Round: AMERICAN PEST MANAGEMENT	$125.00
Walnut Lazer Craft Clock, Duck Design: THE PALACE	$ 55.00
Flexaluminum Mini Blinds for Patio Doors: THE DECORATING CENTER	$270.00
$50 Merchandise Certificate: CASUAL ENCOUNTER	$ 50.00
$25 Certificate for drinks & food (non-alcoholic): AGGIE STATION	$ 25.00
A.M.T. 1967 Mack Truck, Junkyard Dog: MANHATTAN HOBBIES & TOYS	$ 13.35
Kennedy Brand Tool Box: FARMERS UNION COOP STATION	$ 58.56
$25 Merchandise Certificate: DUERFELDT'S JEWELERS	$ 25.00
Leather Briefcase: BROWN'S SHOE FIT	$ 70.00
$25 Certificate for Food & Beverage: BOCKERS II	$ 25.00
Package of 5 Movie Passes for Two: SETH CHILDS CINEMA	$ 30.00
"How to Host a Murder" game: MANHATTAN HOBBIES & TOYS	$ 24.99
Complete wash for car, truck, van, or bicycle: BUDGET CAR CARE	$ 25.00
Dinner for 4-choice from 6 entrees: PINATA	$ 22.40
2 Balloon Bouquets-choice of containers: BALLOON BOUTIQUE	$ 25.00
2-$10 Pizza Certificates: THE PIZZERIA	$ 20.00
Certificate for a full Guttering Job: WILDCAT EXTERIORS	$100.00
Coleco's "Thidwick" the moose stuffed animal: MANHATTAN HOBBIES & TOYS	$ 24.00
One set of Fieldcrest Towels: HIGHFIELD COTTAGE	$ 35.00
Dinner for Four—Original Sizzlin Sirloin Steak: SIRLOIN STOCKADE	$ 26.17
Tyco Super Blocks 238 Piece Space Building Set: MANHATTAN HOBBIES	$ 21.60
One Case of Mountain Dew in Cans: PEPSI BOTTLING CO.	$ 8.55
Barbequed Dinner for Two: LAST CHANCE RESTAURANT	$ 15.00
$25 Certificate on Carpet & Upholstery Cleaning: SERVICE MASTER	$ 25.00
Full Service Oil & Lube Maintenance Check: WAYNE'S QUICKLUBE	$ 19.95
$25 Dinner Certificates for Dinner & Non-Alcoholic Beverage: RAUL'S	$ 25.00
One time Single Family House Cleanout: AMERICAN PEST MANAGEMENT	$ 65.00

T.N.T.

★ Thursdays ★

Tacos "N"

TEQUILA

50¢ TACOS

with drinks

$1.00 Margaritas
4-6 p.m.

—No Cover Charge—
Members and Guests only
At the Ramada Inn
776-5780

Bockers

At the RAMADA INN

A Cut Above

Upstairs FULL SERVICE SALON Mon-Thurs. 9-9
1st Bank Center 537-3200 Fri. & Sat. 9-5
Denison & Claflin Sundays 1-5

OPEN SUNDAYS

We are Celebrating our Second Anniversary; to show our appreciation for your patronage we are offering ½ OFF on all full priced Hair cuts and Styling.

Conveniently located on Northwest Corner of KSU Campus

REDKEN
Products

— coupon —

½ OFF any full priced Haircut and style with coupon.
Offer good four days only.
January 31, February 1, 2, 3.

Enjoy smooth, creamy
Frozen Yogurt
that tastes like Ice Cream
but with 80% less fat!
--FREE SAMPLES--

I Can't Believe It's
YOGURT!
Frozen Yogurt Stores™

OPEN: 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Daily
Noon-11 p.m. Sundays
Nautilus Towers-Aggieville

Brother's
KSU
IN AGGIEVILLE USA

$1.75

PITCHERS TONIGHT

Come Party With

THE C LIQUE
THE HEAT
FRI. & SAT.

IMPORT BEER NIGHT

50¢ off
All Imports

All Day
THURSDAYS

LAST CHANCE
1215 MOJO, AGGIEVILLE

HOME OF THE
AROUND the WORLD
BEER CLUB

Rise to the top.

You're a nuclear-trained officer. It goes beyond special. It's elite! And your status reflects a job that demands your best. Proving your skills at the heart of today's nuclear-powered Navy.

Over half of America's nuclear reactors are in the Navy. That adds up to more years of experience with reactors than any company in the world, and it means working with the most sophisticated training and equipment anywhere.

There's no boot camp. College graduates get Officer Candidate School leadership training, and a year of graduate-level training in the Navy Nuclear Power School. The rewards are topnotch, too. Generous bonuses upon commissioning and also upon completion of nuclear training. Sign up while still in college and you could be earning $1,000 a month right now.

Be one of the most accomplished professionals in a challenging field. Lead the adventure as an officer in the Nuclear Navy. Contact your Navy Officer Recruiter or call 1-800-327-NAVY.

NAVY OFFICER.

LEAD THE ADVENTURE.

Shuttle

Continued from Page 1

turn in anything they find on the beaches in this central Florida area.

"We need every piece of that because we don't know where the clue might be," said Richard Smith, the director of the Kennedy Space Center.

Recovery crews found some of the ship's heat-shielding external tiles, and the largest remnant was a chunk of metal 12 feet by 4 feet. Moore said it was unlikely that bodies of the crew members would be found.

"I would always like to hold out hope," he said. "However, we've seen a lot of small debris."

Kansas

Continued from Page 1

R-Manhattan, said the ceremony at the Capitol was dampened somewhat by the destruction of the Challenger.

"The celebration is a time to pause and think about our history," he said. "We as Kansans understand the pioneer spirit. (The accident) makes us more aware of the risks pioneers took settling Kansas."

Alfred Landon, governor of Kansas from 1933-37 and the Republican Party's nominee for president in 1936, and Georgia Gray, U.S. Treasurer from 1949-53, are serving as honorary co-chairpersons of the 125th anniversary celebration.

Plane crash in Mexico claims 21 lives

By The Associated Press

LOS MOCHIS, Mexico — An AeroCalifornia airliner DC-3 carrying 21 people crashed Wednesday on a hill near the fog-covered airport of this Pacific port. An airline spokeswoman said all aboard were killed.

"There were no survivors," said Mara Castellon, spokeswoman for the airline's main office in La Paz on the Baja California peninsula. She said the two-engine propeller plane was flying from Ciudad Constitucion on Baja California to Los Mochis, carrying 18 passengers and three crew members.

Ernesto Zavala Valdes, the spokesman for AeroCalifornia in Los Mochis, said all aboard were Mexican citizens. He said the plane crashed because "of lack of visibility."

Associated Press reporter Cam Rossie, who was flying above the Los Mochis airport in a six-seater Cessna at the time of the crash at about 10:15 a.m. EST, saw the accident.

"It burst into flame and from the air you could see the tail section was separated and it looked like the plane was totally destroyed," she said in a telephone interview.

"We were approaching, our pilot said we were not going to land in Los Mochis because of fog and the airport was closed. Then he changed his mind and said we would go ahead and go to Los Mochis and see what it looks like," Rossie said.

"We were in the air and this DC-3 was in the air. He said we'll wait and see if it lands, see how it does. (It the AeroCalifornia plane) made an attempt at the landing strip, partially covered with fog. We were circling the hill by the airstrip, and the DC-3 plane couldn't land on its first attempt and so it came back around and it started to climb over the hill. Its wing went down and it crashed on the side of the hill."

Travel information guides in Mexico City list AeroCalifornia as a regional airline based in La Paz on the Baja California peninsula, directly across the Gulf of California from Los Mochis. It flies into the port town from La Paz, Guadalajara and Tijuana.

Classifieds

CLASSIFIED RATES

One day: 15 words or fewer, $2.25, 15 cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.25, 20 cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.00, 25 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.50, 30 cents per word over 15; Five consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.75, 35 cents per word over 15.

Classifieds are payable in advance unless client has an established account with Student Publications.

Deadline is noon the day before publication; noon FRIDAY FOR Monday's paper.

ANNOUNCEMENTS 01

FETA CHEESE 10% off, also herbs and spices at Coop prices. People's Grocery Cooperative, 811 Colorado, 539-4811. Open to everyone Wednesday and Friday, 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. and Saturday 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. (83-88)

ZETA PHI Beta Sorority, Inc. presents our Formal Spring Rush Sunday, February 2, 1986, 4 o'clock in the Union, room 208. (86-88)

YOU CAN learn to drive in two weeks! Class begins Saturday, February 1 at the Little Apple Driving School. Master Card and Visa accepted. Call 539-2715 (anytime). (86-88)

ATTENTION 02

FLYING INTEREST you? Check into K-State Flying Club. Call Steve Dyer at 532-5600 or 537-0458. (61)

CAMERA BROKEN? Have it repaired by the experts at Photoworld's—One Hour Photo. 539-2519. (78-87)

SPRING BREAK on the beach at South Padre Island, Daytona Beach, Fort Lauderdale, Fort Walton Beach or Mustang Island/Port Aransas from only $89; and skiing at Steamboat or Vail from only $86! Deluxe lodging, parties, goodie bags, more... Hurry, call Sunchase Tours for more information and reservations toll free 1-800-321-5911 or contact a local Sunchase Representative today! When your Spring Break counts... count on Sunchase. (80-109)

HEE'S ALTERATIONS—Suits, coats, jeans, zippers and all types of alterations. 1126 Larnie Plaza, Aggieville. Monday thru Friday, 10 a.m.-5:30 p.m.; Saturdays, 10 a.m.-4 p.m. 776-7959. (871)

SKI SPRING Break—Breckenridge, Keystone, and Copper Mountain. March 9, 10 and 11 only $220. Price includes transportation, lodging, ski rental and lift tickets. For information, call 537-2995. (83-108)

ONE HUNDRED percent financing available to qualified buyers of new two bedroom Orchard Townhouses. Rent until closing. Details? Call Claudia Luthi, ERA Alliance Realty Co., 537-0069 or 539-9242. (81-88)

THREE BEDROOM home, 1523 Fairchild, available now. Call Barbara, 537-1329. (83-98)

FOR SALE—AUTO 06

1973 DODGE pick-up. Excellent condition, $1,200. Call 537-3972. (85-89)

1976 CHEVY 4x4, 350 two barrel, 75,000 miles. Blue and silver chrome rims, new muds, $3,500 negotiable. 776-5633, ask for Shawn. (86-90)

DODGE ROYALE Maroon, $1,149. Maroon, excellent condition, recent tune-up, 1976 model. Call Ian, 532-3489. (86-90)

1981 SUBARU GL 4x4, three door, fantastic in the snow. Fully equipped 537-3993 after 5 p.m. (86-90)

USED CARS, trucks and motorcycles. Many to choose from. Will trade. Call Tom, 539-4684. (86-90)

FOR SALE—MISC 07

OFFICE SUPPLIES—Hull's Business Machines, 715 North 12th, Aggieville, 539-1413. (551)

GOVERNMENT HOMES from $1 (U repair). Also delinquent tax property. Call 805-687-6000, ext. GH-9701 for information. (76-97)

SPECTRA 150 watt amp with distortion/foot-switch, $150 or best offer. Want to buy—Commodore disk drive. 539-4414. (85-87)

FOR SALE: Sanyo car stereo, AM-FM, cassette, Dolby, auto reverse. Also two Jensen 4" door mount speakers. Call 539-2049 after 5 p.m. (85-87)

FENDER RHODES Super Twin guitar amp. Great condition and sound. $200 firm. 776-3473 after 6 p.m. (86-90)

SUMMER EMPLOYMENT at Camp Lincoln/Camp Lake Hubert—Minnesota resident summer camps. A strong commitment to working with children required, along with activity skills and teaching experience. Specific job information and applications are available at Career Placement Office—Holitz Hall. Sign up, in advance, for personal interviews to be held on campus, Tuesday, February 4th, and Wednesday, February 5th, 1986. (84-90)

EXPERIENCED SHOE salesperson to work commission contract. Send resume to Lady Foot Shoes, 221 Poyntz. (85-88)

THE ACADEMIC Outreach Section of the Division of Continuing Education will be interviewing persons for a position supporting Off-Campus Coordinators. The individual should possess typing, proofreading, organizational and mathematical skills, as well as the ability to prioritize, work under deadlines, and with limited supervision. Publications production experience preferred. 20 hours/week. Apply by February 7, 1986, to Ed McAleer, 311 Umberger Hall, KSU. EOE. (87-89)

LEAD/RHYTHM Guitarist. No want-to-be's please! We are ready to work. Jon, 539-9564

LOST 14

LOST—STUDENT I.D., drivers license, fee card and basketball season ticket. If found, call 532-5240. (86-87)

NOTICES 15

RENTAL COSTUMES—Over 1,000 to choose from plus much more. Marie's Costumes, 17th and Humboldt. 539-5200. Parking in the rear. (76-88)

PERSONAL 16

WANTED: TWO guys, green car, Missouri tags, followed from Luau on College View two Fridays ago. Where do you really live? Please reply—no wild goose chases this time! (87)

KD V.I.P.—Welcome back to K-State, Deb! AOT from your Kappa "Super Sigma" Deltas. (87)

T.N.C.—Pi's and Phi's see ya at Kites, 9:30 p.m. Love, your pledge whip and social chairman! (87)

ROOMMATE WANTED 17

MALE ROOMMATE needed for next semester. Two blocks east of campus, second floor of duplex. Private bedroom, laundry facilities, $130/month plus utilities. Call Willie, 537-5895. (87N)

NON-SMOKING FEMALE to share two bedroom apartment. Own room, close to campus, no deposit. $150/month plus one-half electricity. Call 776-2165 or leave message for Denise at 539-3536. (81-87)

LARGE NEW three bedroom, two-bath duplex close to campus. Own room with walk-in closet, furnished washer/dryer, microwave, dishwasher, wood stove, plenty of off-street parking. $150 plus one-third utilities. Call 539-5875. If no answer, try again. (83-87)

ROOMMATE WANTED: Furnished two bedroom, laundry, dishwasher. Two blocks to campus. $160 plus one-half electric. Call Scott, 776-6907. 350 N. 16th, #12. (84-88)

FEMALE ROOMMATE to share two bedroom apartment. Two and one-half blocks from campus. Call 537-4021. (84-88)

MALE ROOMMATE to share house, one-half block from campus. All facilities, only $133 plus shared utility costs. 1843 Hunting, 776-7355. (85-89)

WANTED—FEMALE roommate to share house, prefer graduate or older student. Five blocks from campus. Call 776-7541 weekend or evenings. Keep trying. (86-89)

SERVICES 18

MARY Kay Cosmetics—Skin care—glamour products. Free facial call Floris Taylor, 539-2070. Handicapped accessible. (76-95)

PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free pregnancy test. Confidential. Call 537-9180. 103 S. Fourth St., Suite 25. (111)

MANHATTAN CAMERA repairs cameras and equipment. 228 Poyntz, 776-4240. (41)

WORD PROCESSING by computer, professional quality, letter-quality printer (not dot-matrix), disk storage. 776-6166. (131)

LETTER QUALITY word processing on computer or typewriter. Call Bertha at 532-5950 or 776-8337. (76-88)

TYPING/EDITING, letter quality word processor, professional resumes, cover letters, personalized form letters, disk storage. 539-5007. (76-113)

PROFESSIONALLY WRITTEN resumes, word processed cover letters, and typing. Resume Service, 1221 Moro Place, 537-7294. (721)

MRS. KIM—Professional dressmaker and tailor. Alterations. 27 years experience. No pattern necessary. 537-2393. (82-111)

STUDENT SPECIALS—Perms $15, cuts $5, at Artistic Hair, 415 N. 3rd St. Call 537-8169. Walk-ins welcome. (84-88)

STOP PAYING $28 hour for VW repairs. Let the Bug Doctor at J & L Auto Service repair yours and save $8 per hour. Only seven minutes east, Hwy 24. Bugs, Rabbits, Ghias, type 3's included. 1494-2388 St. George. (85-105)

PROFESSIONAL TYPING—Dissertations, reports, papers, resumes, cover letters. Call 539-2411. (85-89)

TUTORS WANTED: Friendship Tutoring has 33 more children that need tutors, 1st and 2nd grade, ten tutors needed; 3rd and 4th grade, two tutors needed; 5th and 6th grade, sixteen tutors needed; 7th-12th grade, five tutors needed. If you love kids and have Thursday nights from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. open, why not give Friendship Tutoring a call? Our kids need you! Call Tom Reis at 776-8566 or 532-6984. (85-88)

DATA SHEETS to dissertations and everything in between. Letter quality Word Processing Mrs. Burden, 539-1204. (86-90)

SITUATIONS WANTED 19

$10-$360 weeklyup mailing circulars. No quotas. Sincerely interested rush self-addressed envelope. Success, P.O. Box 470CEG, Woodstock, IL 60098. (76-105)

WANTED TO BUY 22

WANTED: FOUR KSU-KU basketball tickets for Saturday game. Call Julie, 537-8527. (87-88)

NEED TWO KU tickets for this weekend. Call 537-1210 or 537-4244. (87-88)

WANTED: FOUR tickets for the KSU/KU game. 539-3704. (87)

TWO OR three tickets to the KSU-KU basketball game. Will buy or pay comparably for use of ticket. Call 537-8447 after 5 p.m. (87-88)

TWO-FOUR KSU-KU basketball tickets. Phone 776-8406. (87-88)

Chasing Reality

By David Krug and Steve Cooper

Bloom County

By Berke Breathed

Garfield

By Jim Davis

Peanuts

Crossword

ACROSS

1 Hunk of earth
5 Witticism
8 Highlander
12 Pelt
13 Altar words
14 African nation
15 On 16 Flee
17 Lot size
18 Shriveled
20 Like bike tracks
22 Dale's "partner"
23 Tea additive
24 Fog
27 Pike type
32 Sagacious one
33 Past
34 Before
35 Showing surprise
38 Nervous
39 Afr.'s neighbor
40 Finish
42 Verdi output

DOWN

11 — the line (obeyed)
19 Common answer for short
2 Stone: suffix
3 Aroma
4 Leave
5 Our galaxy
6 Harem chamber
7 Mausoleum
8 Position
29 Guide, of sorts
30 Energy unit
31 Actress Susan
36 E.R. workers
37 Period
38 Mystery writing awards
41 Greek N
42 Norwegian king
43 Book part
44 Trade
46 Jai —
47 Check
48 Longings
51 Vigil

Avg. solution time: 27 min.

PAID COP TRAP
ARNE ORE RENO
CATBIRDS ADAM
TROUT ORIBIS
TOWN ANI
EBBS HARI RHO
SOL SEDAN DOR
SOU ANIL ASEA
EPL RENT
NUBILE EASED
EVIL SNOWBIRD
SERE SEW ASIA
TADS ETE LINY

1-30

Ans. to yesterday's puzzle

CRYPTOQUIP

1-30
G M D R G L L R M R Q C B B C O N S M G H R B C Y R Z S H I C O
"DSMIL CRZ NYRMGQILRO."
Yesterday's Cryptoquip: AT WILD BOWLING CON-TEST YOU COULD HEAR A PIN DROP, BY GOSH.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: D equals G

COMPUTER OPERATOR

— We are seeking a qualified computer operator to work part-time as needed during peak periods, which may also include some weekends and some holidays. Scheduled hours will vary per week, depending upon work load and availability. IBM 4341, DOS/VSE experience required. Starting wage — $6.80 per hour plus shift differential if applicable. Applicants are requested to contact the employment office, The McCall Pattern Co., 615 McCall Road, Manhattan, KS 66502. We are an equal opportunity employer. M/F

FEDERAL OVERSEAS, nationwide jobs! $17,101-$61,104! Summer Career! Call: Guidedirectory, Applications, Listings, Newswave! (916) 944-4444, ext. G.S.58. (84-103)

REWARDING SUMMER for sophomore and older college students in Colorado mountains working with children. Backpacking, horseback riding, crafts, wildlife, and many outdoor programs. Write now, include program interests and goals. Sanborn Western Camps, Florissant, CO., 80816. (84-88)

COMPUTER OPERATOR

— We are seeking a qualified computer operator to work part-time as needed during peak periods, which may also include some weekends and some holidays. Scheduled hours will vary per week, depending upon work load and availability. IBM 4341, DOS/VSE experience required. Starting wage — $6.80 per hour plus shift differential if applicable. Applicants are requested to contact the employment office, The McCall Pattern Co., 615 McCall Road, Manhattan, KS 66502. We are an equal opportunity employer. M/F

FEDERAL OVERSEAS, nationwide jobs! $17,101-$61,104! Summer Career! Call: Guidedirectory, Applications, Listings, Newswave! (916) 944-4444, ext. G.S.58. (84-103)

REWARDING SUMMER for sophomore and older college students in Colorado mountains working with children. Backpacking, horseback riding, crafts, wildlife, and many outdoor programs. Write now, include program interests and goals. Sanborn Western Camps, Florissant, CO., 80816. (84-88)

REWARDING SUMMER for sophomore and older college students in Colorado mountains working with children. Backpacking, horseback riding, crafts, wildlife, and many outdoor programs. Write now, include program interests and goals. Sanborn Western Camps, Florissant, CO., 80816. (84-88)

REWARDING SUMMER for sophomore and older college students in Colorado mountains working with children. Backpacking, horseback riding, crafts, wildlife, and many outdoor programs. Write now, include program interests and goals. Sanborn Western Camps, Florissant, CO., 80816. (84-88)

REWARDING SUMMER for sophomore and older college students in Colorado mountains working with children. Backpacking, horseback riding, crafts, wildlife, and many outdoor programs. Write now, include program interests and goals. Sanborn Western Camps, Florissant, CO., 80816. (84-88)

REWARDING SUMMER for sophomore and older college students in Colorado mountains working with children. Backpacking, horseback riding, crafts, wildlife, and many outdoor programs. Write now, include program interests and goals. Sanborn Western Camps, Florissant, CO., 80816. (84-88)

REWARDING SUMMER for sophomore and older college students in Colorado mountains working with children. Backpacking, horseback riding, crafts, wildlife, and many outdoor programs. Write now, include program interests and goals. Sanborn Western Camps, Florissant, CO., 80816. (84-88)

REWARDING SUMMER for sophomore and older college students in Colorado mountains working with children. Backpacking, horseback riding, crafts, wildlife, and many outdoor programs. Write now, include program interests and goals. Sanborn Western Camps, Florissant, CO., 80816. (84-88)

REWARDING SUMMER for sophomore and older college students in Colorado mountains working with children. Backpacking, horseback riding, crafts, wildlife, and many outdoor programs. Write now, include program interests and goals. Sanborn Western Camps, Florissant, CO., 80816. (84-88)

REWARDING SUMMER for sophomore and older college students in Colorado mountains working with children. Backpacking, horseback riding, crafts, wildlife, and many outdoor programs. Write now, include program interests and goals. Sanborn Western Camps, Florissant, CO., 80816. (84-88)

REWARDING SUMMER for sophomore and older college students in Colorado mountains working with children. Backpacking, horseback riding, crafts, wildlife, and many outdoor programs. Write now, include program interests and goals. Sanborn Western Camps, Florissant, CO., 80816. (84-88)

REWARDING SUMMER for sophomore and older college students in Colorado mountains working with children. Backpacking, horseback riding, crafts, wildlife, and many outdoor programs. Write now, include program interests and goals. Sanborn Western Camps, Florissant, CO., 80816. (84-88)

Voyager finds planet's ring

By The Associated Press

PASADENA, Calif. — Voyager 2 has found another ring circling Uranus, a faint 1,900-mile-wide ribbon of material orbiting inside the other rings and only 7,000 miles above the planet's cloudtops, scientists said Wednesday.

"It's a diffuse sheet of material," said National Aeronautics and Space Administration scientist Jeff Cuzzi. "I'd call it a ring."

Scientists also offered evidence that more moons may orbit Uranus beyond the five, previously known, major moons and 10 small ones found by the unmanned Voyager. But they said additional moons may be too tiny to have been seen by Voyager's cameras.

And U.S. Geological Survey geologist Larry Soderblom proposed that strange patterns of canyons and ridges on Miranda's lunar landscape may have been caused by rocks "the size of the state of New Mexico" rising upward from within the planet, throwing aside overlying material.

Soderblom also said Voyager revealed the major moons are about half ice and half rock, while Stanford University scientist Leonard Tyler estimated Uranus' atmosphere contains about 88 percent hydrogen, and at least 8 percent helium as well as clouds of methane.

Voyager 2's path will take it more than 4½ million miles from Uranus on Thursday as it speeds toward an August 1989 encounter with Neptune, the eighth planet from the sun.

Scientists will spend years studying Voyager's discoveries at Uranus, just as they are still poring over findings made by Voyagers 1 and 2 at Jupiter and Saturn in 1979-81. Both probes were launched in 1977.

"There are puzzles which will keep many people happy," said project scientist Ed Stone.

The faint ring was photographed by Voyager 2 less than an hour before the spacecraft's closest approach to Uranus when it flew past the planet, 1.8 billion miles from Earth on Friday.

It is more like the broad rings orbiting Saturn than Uranus' previously known nine thin rings and a 10th discovered by Voyager 2.

But because Voyager's photos have shown so many bands of dusty material between the 10 previously known rings, scientists are no longer sure what they should call a separate ring or how many exist around Uranus.

Advocates say agriculture officials suppress results of programs study

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Nutrition advocates said Wednesday that the most extensive study ever of the government's feeding program for pregnant women and their infants has found that the program is a rare success story — but a story that was suppressed by the Reagan administration.

The five-year, $5 million study found that the special supplemental feeding program for women, infants and children — known as WIC — contributed to lower rates of premature birth, fewer stillbirths, better nutrition among mothers and infants and better intellectual development of preschoolers.

"This study...fulfills our highest hopes," said Rep. George Miller, D-Calif., chairman of the House Select Committee on Children, Youth and Families.

But Miller said the Agriculture Department, which called for, financed and supervised the study, had tried to obscure its results because it opposes feeding programs.

"This study has been plagued by repeated delays, culminating in nearly a year's hiatus between USDA's receipt of the final report, and printing and delivery," Miller said. He said the department, when it did release the report, deleted summaries that were written in layman's terms, leaving only technical explanations of the study that are difficult to understand.

"These actions are consistent with the administration's efforts to cut WIC by 30 percent in 1981...and to undermine the program through impoundment and other administrative maneuvers," he said. WIC expired in 1984, and has since been kept alive through stopgap legislation. Two previous attempts by the House to reauthorize the program were killed by the Republican-controlled Senate. The Senate bill, passed late last year during consideration of the farm bill, would continue WIC at current levels of about $1.5 billion a year.

An Agriculture Department official immediately dismissed Miller's charge as "ridiculous" and said participation in the program has increased substantially during the Reagan administration.

When USDA announced the study's results in its own press release Jan. 10, assistant secretary for food and consumer services John Bode was quoted as saying, "While the results are not as clear-cut as we had expected, we are pleased at the indication that WIC has a positive effect on those who receive its benefits."

Lumberjack throws ax in competitions

By The Associated Press

LAWRENCE — There may be fewer lumberjacks across America, but their love of competition lives on.

Today's lumberjacks may not throw axes, roll logs and climb trees in their everyday work, but they still like to brush up those skills for a friendly contest.

Mickey Fleeman, the 29-year-old owner-operator of Jayhawk Tree Service, has year-round contact with saws and trees and he's one of those who likes to put his skill to a competitive test.

In November, he claimed the all-around championship at the Little River Flatland Timber Festival, a title he also won in 1982 and 1984. He also has had success at competitions in Oklahoma and Missouri.

Fleeman prefers the hand events that use axes, one-handed saws, cross-cut saws and bow saws, the quiet predecessors to the chain saws.

The popular chain saw events, he said, pit saw power against saw power rather than skill against skill, as the hand events do, and souped-up chain saws, called "hot saws," compete in special supercharged classes like hot-rod cars.

Opportunities to demonstrate such skills and powers are increasing as the popularity of lumberjack festivals grows. A national lumberjacking circuit, similar to a rodeo circuit, was established 25 years ago at Hayward, Wis.

The Little River festival, Fleeman said, started as a "real small thing behind a lumber yard" in Little River, a Rice County town about 20 miles west of McPherson. It has grown into "quite a big deal" with some 70 saws in competition last year, he said.

Fleeman said he also has competed at Broken Bow, Okla., and Hannibal, Mo., and at Oskaloosa's Annual Old Settlers' Reunion.

From one Broken Bow competition, Fleeman brought home $400 in prize money. Hannibal's Jaycees gave him prize money and a new chain saw for his second-place overall victory in their October Missouri State Lumberjack Competition.

At Hannibal, Fleeman also teamed with his wife, Jamey, to win third in the Jack and Jill cross-cut saw competition, and he was first in "birling," or log rolling.

"You meet a lot of interesting people," Fleeman said of the competitions, "and see a lot of new products."

In the spring of 1980, Fleeman was a K-State student looking for a summer job when he saw Charles Pottorff, owner of Manhattan's Wildcat Tree Service, demonstrate the ax throw in a small competition he staged on K-State's campus.

That encounter turned into the summer job Fleeman needed and the first step toward his own business and the world of lumberjack competition.

Becoming competitive in lumberjacking skills didn't happen overnight, Fleeman noted. "I learned a lot from Charlie."

By 1982, Fleeman had completed his bachelor's degree in interdisciplinary social sciences and confirmed his conviction to pursue a career as a tree surgeon.

He practices for competitions "on the job" all year, trimming and removing trees and shrubs for his customers. In the winter, he cuts and sells a variety of firewoods, which also gives him an opportunity to hone his skills with saw and ax.

Jamey Fleeman works at an auto parts warehouse but joins her husband professionally for competitions.

The couple is originally from Kingsville, Mo., which is about 45 miles southeast of Kansas City.

Speedy FREE Delivery

Special $6.66 Coupon Offer

Buy a medium single topping pizza & get second topping all for only $6.66

539-4888

"We Pile It On!"

PYRAMID PIZZA

Mark Randall Moore
President Pyramid Pizz
Expires 2-5-86

With this coupon, receive a duplicate set of prints free when presenting one roll of color print film (C-41 process) for developing and printing at One Hour Moto-Photo. Offer limited to one roll per coupon. Not valid with any other promotion.

Free Extra Set of Prints!

one hour moto-photo

Under the big yellow sign

South of Westloop 776-9030

Speedy FREE Delivery

$1.00 OFF ANY SIZE PIZZA

539-4888

"We Pile It On!"

PYRAMID PIZZA

Mark Randall Moore
President Pyramid Pizz
Expires 2-5-86

Eegee's
Restaurant & Ice Creamery

Wants More
Kansas/Florida Weather
Wear your shorts to Eegee's and save 10% on your Eegee's Burger
(23 FREE TOPPINGS to pile high on your burger, absolutely no extra charge. Expires 2-6-86)

Mon.-Fri. 11 a.m.-Midnight
Sat. & Sun. 8:30 a.m.-Midnight
12th & Laramie, Aggieville

Hull Business Machines 715 N. 12th 539-7931

Hull Business Machines and Silver Reed have a special offer for you! Right now when you buy Silver Reed's EX30 electronic typewriter you get

- * Automatic correction
- * Three typing pitches
- * Automatic centering

And, $50 worth of supplies Absolutely Free
Only with this coupon. Offer expires February 6, 1986.
Your Electronics Store in Aggieville

Metallic Balloons
$2 reg. $2.50
Perfect for Valentines Day with this ad
Good through Feb. 5, 1986

The Palace
CARDS ♦ GIFTS

704 N. Manhattan Ave.—In Aggieville

Mall Moving Sale

Incredible Savings

Was NOW

- Gibson Challenger electric guitar $419 $289
- Gibson Futura electric guitar $900 $569
- Washburn Woodstock acoustic electric guitar (with case) $828 $598
- 5 pc. Ludwig Rocker II $795 $595
- 5 pc. TTS Remo $395 $309
- Gibson Invader with Kahler Tremelo (with hardshell case) $659 $539

Was NOW

- Crate 212 Amp $400 $299
- Fender Stage Lead 212 Amp $600 $399
- Crate PA Speakers (pair) $700 $519
- Fender Jazz Bass (with hardshell case) $639 $539
- Classical Guitars starting from $69 (all classicals on sale)
- 30% off DOD guitar effects
- 30% off all strings and drum sticks

Hayes House of Music

"We Will Not Be Undersold"

776-7983

223 Poyntz, Manhattan

Inside

Bell's Tale Told

The bell ringing from Anderson Hall has undergone many changes through the years. See Page 8.

Weather

Fair

Fair today, high mid-50s. Increasing cloudiness tonight, low 35 to 40.

Sport

Topeka KS

66612

Mitchell Reacts

Ben Mitchell speaks for the Wildcat basketball team after coach Jack Hartman announced his resignation Thursday. See Page 9.

Kansas
State

Collegian

Friday

January 31, 1986

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 92, Number 88

Hartman to resign effective at end of season

By TOM PERRIN
Sports Editor

Jack Hartman says he's finally had enough.

In the midst of his 16th season, the winningest basketball coach K-State has ever had announced his resignation effective at the end of the school year last night at a press conference in the team locker room at Ahearn Field House.

"I'm satisfied that I've had enough. And that may or may not be true," Hartman said. "But I'm looking forward to the end of the season with this group (of K-State players). It's a good young bunch."

Hartman's current record at K-State includes 292 wins and 162 losses. His overall head coaching record is 586-272.

The surprise resignation comes in the aftermath of an 86-70 loss to Oklahoma State Wednesday night at Stillwater, Okla. However, Hartman said the loss, which dropped the Wildcats to 1-4 and seventh place in the Big Eight Conference, had nothing to do with his decision to resign.

"It would be very easy to read into it that our disappointing loss to Oklahoma State last (Wednesday) night created an emotional reaction that led to this, and that's not the case," Hartman said.

"This decision was thoroughly thought out," Hartman said. "I was disappointed last night, but so were the kids and they didn't resign."

Hartman, who suffered a heart attack and subsequently underwent heart bypass surgery after a loss to Oregon State University on Jan. 12, 1985 in Manhattan, said his health played no part in his decision either.

"Other than a bad case of the flu last week, my health is fine," Hartman said. "I feel great."

Hartman was replaced as head coach by Assistant Coach Darryl

Winston for the remainder of the 1984-85 season, but returned to begin the 1985-86 season as head coach.

Hartman said that his heart attack actually served as motivation for him to return to coaching this year.

"I think it might have been a little hardheadedness, a little competitiveness — some people might say stubborn quality on my part — to show that I was going to come back after the surgery. That may or may not have been the drive on wanting to come back to coach."

Hartman said he made the decision that this would be his last season as Wildcat coach last year, but gave no reason for the timing in his announcement.

"This is a decision I think I made probably last year sometime. But when to announce it was the difficult part of it," Hartman said. "I came to the realization that there was no

See HARTMAN, Page 3

Students react with surprise, shock after Wildcat mentor's resignation

By DARIN RUSSELL
Collegian Reporter

"Oh, no!" said Don Fate, senior in agricultural economics. "What's going to happen to K-State basketball? Who are we going to get who can replace Jack?"

Student reactions were varied as the rumor was confirmed. Jack Hartman, in his 16th year as the winningest head coach in K-State history, announced his resignation, which will be effective at the end of this school year, Thursday night at Ahearn Field House in the team locker room.

Most students were surprised as they became aware of the possibility of Hartman announcing his resignation at the news conference he called.

"I was shocked," said Amanda Holley, senior in industrial engineering and a member of the women's basketball team.

"I was really surprised," said Mark Koepsel, senior in English education. "I just wonder if he was pressured."

There were a lot of students who said that while they were surprised Hartman made his decision now, they felt it had been building.

"It's hard to believe he made his decision now," said Dane Devlin, senior in agricultural economics. "But it doesn't really surprise me; he's had it rough the last couple of years."

When students were asked how they felt about Hartman's resignation, there were some frank answers.

"I think he has gotten a lot out of his players, but maybe he hasn't been coaching the style (of basketball) that is popular today. I hope they can get someone who can coach the style of basketball that will be popular in the years to come," said Doyle Dreesen, senior in business marketing.

"Do you think Al McGuire will put his headphones down to come to K-State?" said Quinten Bergstrom, senior in history. "I respect Jack and he's been a good coach, but I think his recruiting has been below par until this year. He has built a good nucleus for the next coach."

While students mentioned Lon Kruger, Tim Jankovich and Darryl Winston as possible replacements, they agreed that Hartman, who has coached the Wildcats to seven 20-win seasons, has been a great coach over the years.

"I think he's been a good coach and he's probably stepping down for health reasons," said Mike Kaiser, junior in grain science. "I think it is better that he doesn't stick around for the last hurrah (Norris Coleman). I respect him for that. I think whoever the next coach will be, he will have to fill some big shoes."

Jack Hartman will be remembered by students as a winning coach that "put K-State on the map."

Kevin Kuhlman, junior in agricultural economics, summed up many students' views when he said, "I think he's been a great asset to K-State. I think he's highly respected in the Big Eight and I think he'll be greatly missed."

Alumni react to resignation

By DARAN NEUSCHAFER
Sports Writer

It is being called the end of an era. Truly fitting for a basketball coach who has amassed a record of 292-162 during his 16 years at the helm of the K-State men's basketball program and is the Wildcats' all-time winningest coach.

Jack Hartman announced his resignation as head coach of the Wildcat basketball program, effective at the end of the season, during a somewhat emotional press conference.

Reactions to the announcement, at least from the alumni and athletic boosters, have been mixed.

"It is the end of an era," said

Manhattan businessman and K-State alumnus Terry Ray. "He is a great coach and a great man."

"He is a winner in every way and will be missed greatly by the University."

That was the feeling of most supporters who were contacted. They classified Hartman as a man of his word, a great coach and teacher of the game, but most of all, a man with a lot of integrity.

"He is, in my opinion, the most outstanding coach in America," said Dick Renfro of Salina.

"The great thing about him is that he was always able to bring in quality kids while still running a clean program," Renfro added. "But more importantly, he always got the most out of his players."

"He was a class individual, and I hate to see him go," said Byron Winans of Dodge City.

Winans and Renfro both serve as alumni representatives on the K-State sports council.

Two of K-State's biggest athletic supporters, Fred Bramlage and Jack Goldstein, had almost opposite views on Thursday's news.

Bramlage had nothing but good things to say about Hartman and the current status of K-State's basketball program. Goldstein felt, however, that Hartman's time had come and with the current situation of K-State athletics, that it was time

See ALUMNI, Page 3

Staff/Jeff A. Taylor

K-State head basketball coach Jack Hartman fights back tears while announcing his resignation Thursday during a press conference in the men's training room at Ahearn Field House. Hartman has coached the team 16 years.

Organizations offer appeals to senators

By RENEE BEAUDOIN
Collegian Reporter

After hearing presentations and questions on the allocation of the $700,000 made available through student bond refinancing, Student Senate tabled most of the appeals due to the length of its meeting Thursday night.

The delay occurred when open discussion on the new plans for the Fred Bramlage Coliseum took the first two hours of the meeting. Bill Livingston, coliseum architect, and George Miller, vice president for administration and finance, presented the plans to senate.

Representatives from the Holton Hall renovation project were the first group to present their appeal for funds to senate.

By funding Holton Hall in one phase instead of the original estimate of three phases, the renovation project will save about $540,000 in student fees, assuming 15,000 students paying $3 per semester, said Earl Nolting, director of the Center for Student Development based in Holton Hall.

"A figure was generated,

See SENATE, Page 12

Coliseum design retains quality aspects

By TIM CARPENTER
Editorial Page Editor

Architects and members of the Coliseum Planning Committee assured 50 people gathered in the Union Thursday that preliminary redesign plans for the proposed 13,500-seat Fred Bramlage Coliseum retain all aspects of quality and function contained in the original design.

Committee members and coliseum architect Bill Livingston, a partner in Gossen Livingston Associates of Wichita, held the open forum to permit a broad section of people to see first-hand the plans under consideration and to register concerns about the project.

"As we began redesigning efforts — after the budget problems surfaced — we made sure with this building that we are in no way sacrificing the multi-purpose functions or quality of the building," Livingston said.

He said construction costs for the coliseum currently under consideration would be $15 million at the minimum, and might total as much as $15.6 million. Although the design eliminates a portion of concession, restroom and office areas and reduces seating from 16,000 to 13,500, the design does not reduce the quality of the building area, he said.

The committee has reviewed several designs during the past two months, but decided Jan. 23 to accept Livingston's latest proposal and recommend to President Duane Acker that the budget be increased. The $500,000 shortfall would push to total cost of the project to $16.6 million.

Approval to alter the budget must be granted by Acker, the Board of Regents and the Kansas Legislature. However, Acker has informed the committee by letter that he believes it is important to "abide by the construction budget ceiling."

Concerns about the coliseum site, which is plagued by water table problems, and the prospect of maintaining an unpaved parking lot during periods of poor weather were brought up during the forum. The site was selected because of its proximity to the KSU Stadium, Livingston said.

The cost to surfacing the coliseum and stadium parking lot could be as high as $800,000, he added, but there is no provision in the current budget for paving.

The architect said the coliseum's concourse is broader than arenas of similar size and is not a problem. Restroom facilities, another concern of the group, would be superior to those in Ahearn Field House.

Construction on the coliseum was to begin in August 1985, but all bids were at least $3.4 million over budget and the Board of Regents authorized Livingston to redesign the building. Approval to increase the budget could be granted in one week, because the request can be made by telephone, said Vince Cool, committee member and University architect in charge of the project.

If the architect works swiftly, the project could be rebid in the August and the basic structure could be complete by December 1987. Barring construction delays, the coliseum would be ready for the 1988-89 season, Cool said.

The toilets, concession, hospitality

See COLISEUM, Page 3

Briefly

INTERNATIONAL

Interpol search for terrorist begins

PARIS — Interpol has relayed a "wanted notice" worldwide for Abu Nidal and turned over the case of the feared Palestinian terrorist leader to a newly formed anti-terrorist unit, the chief of the international police agency said Thursday.

Raymond E. Kendall, Interpol secretary general, said the alert went out last Saturday to police forces in 138 countries. Both he and Italian authorities, seeking Abu Nidal in connection with the bloody terrorist attack at Rome's airport Dec. 27, say they do not know where the fugitive is.

Libya and Syria, which have been accused of aiding the Abu Nidal group, were among the member countries receiving the notice.

Kendall, a veteran British police official who was named Interpol police chief last year, commented in an interview with The Associated Press.

The agency, headquartered in the Paris suburb of St. Cloud, is essentially a clearinghouse for information on international crime. For years, it dealt warily with terrorist offenses because of their political overtones.

Tragedy spurs Star Wars criticism

MOSCOW — The official Soviet media on Thursday tempered condolences over the space shuttle disaster with warnings that the shuttle's explosion exemplified the "viciousness" of the U.S. space weapons program.

The young people's newspaper Komsomolskaya Pravda accused the United States of setting an "unjustifiably high" pace of shuttle flights to accelerate the Strategic Defense Initiative or "Star Wars" program for developing a space-based missile defense.

Although the Soviet Union reveals little about accidents in its own space program and provides data only after long delays, the media has followed developments closely since the U.S. shuttle Challenger exploded just after takeoff Tuesday.

Every national daily ran stories on the disaster and Kremlin leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev's condolence message to President Reagan.

The official Tass news agency issued regular updates on efforts to find pieces of the destroyed shuttle.

But the media also used the disaster to issue new attacks on Star Wars, which the Soviets have said must be halted before any arms control agreement can be reached.

The media reports suggested the explosion confirmed Soviet fears that technology in space cannot always be controlled and that deployment of anti-satellite devices and other space weapons could lead to computers accidentally triggering nuclear war.

REGIONAL

Kansas gas prices drop below $1

TOPEKA — While the average price of regular gasoline remains above $1 a gallon, the state fuel allocation analyst said Thursday the price has dipped well below the $1 level in many places in Kansas.

The price of regular leaded gasoline at self-serve pumps is in the low 90-cent range in Dodge City and Lawrence, the mid-90 cent range in suburban Kansas City and in the upper 90 range in Topeka and Wichita, said Lyle Goltz, the fuel analyst for the Kansas Corporation Commission.

Goltz' survey of gasoline sales outlets statewide showed an average of $1.02, $1.07 and $1.22 for leaded regular, unleaded regular and unleaded premium gasoline, respectively, at self-serve pumps in late January. Full service stations added about 15 cents a gallon on average to those prices, Goltz said.

Those prices were down an average of 12.5 cents a gallon on unleaded regular, 11.5 cents on leaded regular and 11 cents on premium from late December.

CPR phone directions save baby

SALINA — A one-month old baby was listed in satisfactory condition at a Salina hospital Thursday — two days after he stopped breathing and was revived as his mother followed CPR instructions over the telephone.

Bernice Mannel said she panicked and didn't know what to do when she found her infant son, Tracy, had stopped breathing and seemed as "lifeless as a rag doll" before dawn Tuesday. His lips were turning blue, she said.

Mannel said she yelled for her 5-year-old son to dial the 911 emergency number and she talked to Salina police Lt. Barry Plunkett, who talked her through cardiopulmonary resuscitation step-by-step.

"I was so nervous, I thought if (the officer) couldn't help me, I don't know what I will do," Mannel said.

After the infant started breathing, an ambulance, emergency medical technicians and a sheriff's deputy arrived at the house. The infant was taken to Asbury hospital, where he was being treated for pneumonia.

By The Associated Press

NATIONAL

Kissinger considers governor's race

ALBANY, N.Y. — Former Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said Thursday he's considering running for governor of New York this year against incumbent Democrat Mario Cuomo.

"Republican leaders have urged me to run for governor," said Kissinger in a statement issued by his New York City office. "I had not previously considered standing for elective office, but I am complimented by their request and I feel I owe them a consideration of their views."

Chris Vick, Kissinger's executive assistant, said she did not know which GOP leaders had asked Kissinger to run or when he might make his decision.

Earlier, a Republican source who discussed the matter only on condition he not be identified said in Washington that "Kissinger wants to do it."

A recent poll put Cuomo far ahead of several possible Republican challengers, including Kissinger.

World population nears 5 billion

WASHINGTON — The world's population climbed to 4.9 billion in 1985, adding 85 million people — the equivalent of another Mexico — the Population Institute reported Thursday.

The world's population is expected to reach the 5 billion mark by mid-1987 and 6 billion by the end of this century, according to the Washington-based population study group.

Although population growth rates have declined slightly in recent years, that has been offset by the overall increase in size, since a larger number of people can produce many offspring despite seemingly low rates, institute officials said.

Institute President Werner Fornos noted, for example, that in 1970 the growth rate was 2 percent, and the world gained 75 million people to total 3.7 billion.

In 1985, the rate of increase had fallen to 1.7 percent, but that meant a bigger numerical increase than in 1970.

Family planning is widely used in many nations in the developing world, Fornos pointed out, but a large share of the population in those regions is young and in the prime reproductive years.

That has resulted from the fact that fertility rates in developing nations remained high for many years after medical science and improved nutrition led to a decline in death rates, he said.

PEOPLE

McAuliffe's family thanks nation

CONCORD, N.H. — The husband and children of teacher Christa McAuliffe, who was killed in the explosion of the shuttle Challenger, thanked people around the country for their sympathy on Thursday.

"My children and I are very aware of the tremendous outpouring of grief and support across America," McAuliffe said in a statement delivered by a partner in McAuliffe's Concord law firm.

"We wish to thank you all and hope you can understand our need for these private moments."

"We have all lost Christa. We thank you for respecting our privacy and for sharing our grief."

"We wish we could comfort all of you as you have comforted each of us. To the families of the other crewmembers, we send our love and share their sorrow."

McAuliffe and his two children, Scott, 9, and Caroline, 6, have been in seclusion since the explosion Tuesday.

Americans strive to replace shuttle

Just as children saved pennies a century ago for the Statue of Liberty, some kids are talking about building a replacement for space shuttle Challenger, a dollar at a time.

Adults, looking for some way to remember the seven who died aboard the shuttle on Tuesday, are setting up scholarship funds to train teachers and a trust fund to care for the children of the astronauts.

In Gillette, Wyo., Missy McPhillips, 9, and her brother, John, 10, had suggested that the nation's school children each contribute $1 to NASA to replace the shuttle.

"Missy and John feel they're doing something worthwhile in memory of the crew," their mother, Karen McPhillips, said Thursday. She said her children were suggesting contributions to a fund set up by NASA in Washington.

McPhillips said that for some children, contributing to the fund helps them deal with the grief of the tragedy. One classmate of Missy's who was extremely upset by the accident contributed $5, "and she was real excited, they could see a change," she said.

"Maybe all these kids throughout the United States will feel better if they can contribute to this fund."

It will take a lot of dollars. Richard P. MacLeod, executive director of the United States Space Foundation in Colorado Springs, Colo., said the ill-fated Challenger cost $1.6 billion, although a later shuttle, Atlantis, cost $1.2 billion.

Campus Bulletin

ANNOUNCEMENTS

INSTITUTE OF INDUSTRIAL ENGINEERS: Applications for the Wilby G. Stanton chairmen are available in the industrial engineering office and are due today.

PHI UPSILON OMICRON: Applications for the undergraduate scholarship are due at the national office by Saturday.

STUDENT GOVERNING ASSOCIATION is sponsoring a workshop, "Leadership: Accepting the Challenge," from 8:30 a.m. to noon Saturday in the Union Big Eight room. More information is available in the SGS Office.

MORTAR BOARD applications are available in the Union Activities Office and are due Wednesday.

OPEN SORORITY RUSH will be from Feb. 10 through Feb. 24. Registration forms are available in Holton 203 and are due by 5 p.m. Wednesday.

BLUE KEY applications are available in Anderson 122 and are due by 5 p.m. Friday.

CAREER PLANNING AND PLACEMENT is now distributing second semester interview visit lists and has registration forms available for 1986 graduates permitting participation in on-campus interviews.

TODAY

AFRICAN STUDENTS UNION meets at 6:30 p.m. at the International Student Center.

RESTAURANT MANAGEMENT CLUB meets at 5 p.m. in the back room of Kite's. A business meeting will follow at 6:30 p.m.

FARRELL LIBRARY TOUR will be begin at 9:30 a.m. in Farrell 101.

INTER-VARSITY CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP

meets at 7 p.m. in Union 213.

SATURDAY

PRE-HEALTH TEST REVIEW will be from 10 a.m. to noon in Eisenhower 15.

YOUNG DEMOCRATS will have a luncheon with Lt. Gov. Tom Docking at noon in the Union Stateroom 1.

K-LAIRES travel to a pick dance at the 4-H Senior Citizen Building in Junction City. Meet at 7:15 p.m. in the Union parking lot.

SUNDAY

PI KAPPA ALPHA LITTLE SISTERS meet at 7 p.m. at the Pi Kappa Alpha house.

P.E.O. GROUP meets at 5 p.m. at 1820 Virginia Drive.

K-LAIRES meet from 7 to 10 p.m. in the Union K, S and U Rooms.

ADVERTISING CLUB meets for an ice skating party at 1 p.m. at the City Park Rink.

MENNONITE STUDENT GROUP meets at 6:30 p.m. in Union 208.

MONDAY

ALPHA PHI OMEGA meets at 7 p.m. in Union 207.

CLOTHING RETAIL INTEREST GROUP meets at 6:30 p.m. in Justin 326.

ECON CLUB meets at 4:30 p.m. in Waters 329.

COLLEGIATE FFA meets at 9 p.m. in Waters 137.

AMERICAN SOCIETY OF INTERIOR DESIGN meets at 6:30 p.m. in Justin 115.

Looking Back

20 Years Ago — 1966

A new teletype service just installed at K-State will link Farrell Library with 50 to 60 of the nation's greatest libraries, including the Library of Congress, said Joe Kraus, director of libraries.

Dr. Roy Russell, a 1956 graduate of the College of Veterinary Medicine has been named Veterinarian of the Year for the state of Arizona.

15 Years Ago — 1971

A total of 651 mid-year degrees were awarded to students who completed their requirements at the end of the fall term, University officials said.

10 Years Ago — 1976

Bowing to what was termed "local pressures," the Kansas Fish and Game Commission has modified a scheme for fluctuating Tuttle Creek Reservoir levels designed to improve fish and waterfowl habitat and breeding, but which threatened the operations of a marina at the north end of the lake.

5 Years Ago — 1981

Brock Hotel Corp. has given $3,000 to Patricia O'Brien, professor of anthropology, to speed processing of 44 bushels of materials collected at the site of the new Holidome. When workmen began to uncover Indian artifacts, work was discontinued for several days so that the materials could be collected by O'Brien and students in her field methods class.

Mary McDonnell Harris, associate professor of curriculum and instruction, has been named head of that department.

Compiled from the University Archives

Looking for an apartment? Check Collegian Classifieds

WANTED

Part-time Announcers for late night and weekends

Need part-time announcers. Must have prior broadcast experience or training. Good announcing voice. Should be available for late night and weekend work. Contact Roger Hamilton, 2414 Casement Road, 776-4851. EOE employer.

KMAN—KMKF Manhattan

Again, on Sundays we're accepting all valid coupons for free drinks!

Godfather's Pizza.
Dine in—carryout only
1118 Laramie 539-5303

Get a large (1 topping) Thin Crust
Pizza for $5.99 OR a large (1 topping)
Original Crust Pizza for $6.99

(See size always enter extra toppings for a small additional charge)

Dine-in, Carryout or Delivery—(Add $1 For Delivery)
Limit one pizza per coupon. Please present coupon before ordering or upon delivery. Not valid with any other offer. Good only in participating Godfather's Pizza restaurants. Price does not include tax.
Expires 2-28-86
No cash value. Limited delivery area.

KENNEDY'S CLAIM

J.D.'s STEAKHOUSE

February Sunday Specials

8 oz. Prime Rib $7⁹⁵

All you can eat

Fried Chicken Dinner $4⁹⁵

Spaghetti w/garlic bread $3⁹⁵

plus

Five Daily Specials

2304 Stagg Hill Rd.

537-8442

Across from the Holidome

VARSITY 1125 MORO

a Coming of Angels the sequel they'll bring out the devil in you!

Ginger Lynn
Kelly Nichols

12:00 O'Clock Midnight
Fri. & Sat. All Seats $4

PURPLE PASSIONATE POSTER

Add passion to your punch with Everclear 190
proof grain alcohol.

EVERCLEAR
ALCOHOL

EVERCLEAR POSTER OFFER

For your full color 15" x 22" Everclear poster, send $3.00 in check, money order or use your Mastercard or Visa to:

Everclear Poster Offer
500 3rd Avenue West
Seattle, WA 98119

Name _____
Address _____
City/State _____ Zip _____ 21
Signature _____

Mastercard ☐ Visa ☐ Account # _____ Exp. _____

Order shipped within 48 hours. Offer good in US only. Offer void where prohibited by law. No product purchase necessary. Everclear bottled by World Wide Distilled Products Company, St. Louis, MO 63138. Everclear, the ultimate mixer, use in moderation, not intended for consumption unless mixed with non-alcoholic beverages.

Coliseum architect Bill Livingston of Gossen Livingston Associates of Wichita explains details of the Fred Bramlage Coliseum while answering questions at an open forum Thursday in Union 212. About 50 people attended the forum to ask questions of the coliseum architect and program committee.

Fred Bramlage, coliseum contributor, listens to Livingston with Art Loub, executive director of the KSU Foundation, and Jack Goldstein.

Coliseum

Continued from Page 1

and office areas removed from the initial coliseum proposal could be built later for $325,000. When enough money is raised the existing women's and men's basketball, coliseum manager and central ticket offices would be rearranged and the remainder of the athletic administration offices added on for $450,000, Livingston said.

The KSU Foundation, which must fund the budget overrun, is not planning a supplemental fund-raising campaign, said Art Loub, executive director of the Foundation.

"We actually oversubscribed the budget. We have the $500,000 covered, we raised 35 percent more than we set out to get. Our original goal was $6 million and it was increased to $7 million," Loub said. "We have pledges for $8.1 million, but you have to take out $350,000 for attrition. Even with that we are within the figure."

Athletic Director Larry Travis said the athletic department's $2 million contribution to the coliseum is difficult raise.

"Additional costs of the department are hard to come by... But we have launched a fund-raising campaign and have increased donations 30 percent. If we have some success with our programs we will continue to get money," Travis said.

"There is no question about the size. We are not going to draw a regional tournament. The NCAA is not going to come to a coliseum unless it has 16,000 seats, is in a metro area and has adequate hotel and restaurant facilities," he said.

Alumni

Continued from Page 1

for a change.

"Jack is one of the best basketball coaches of all time," Bramlage said. "He is truly a gentleman and will be missed by Kansas State."

"He has continued the winning atmosphere which was started a long time ago, and will be hard to replace."

But while many people were saying how hard it was to see Hartman leave, Goldstein said the time had come for a change, one way or the other.

"I expected it," Goldstein said. "It was almost inevitable with the recent losing and atmosphere that is at K-State."

Goldstein also said he felt Athletic Director Larry Travis' desire to bring the winning tradition back to K-State might have had something to do with the resignation.

"I think Coach Hartman felt that it was time to get out," Goldstein said.

"Time to leave gracefully, before the walls closed in on him. (Former football Coach Jim) Dickey did not leave gracefully."

It seemed, however, that everyone thought K-State would have no problem in finding a replacement for Hartman.

"I think K-State will attract a very fine coach," said Renfro. "We have a great tradition, and I don't see why anyone wouldn't want to come here." Bramlage felt history spoke for itself.

"The history of the coaches shows that," Bramlage said. "People like to come to K-State, they like what is here, and they (coaches) tend to stay around."

Hartman himself said the atmosphere here at K-State was unbeatable and hard to say goodbye to, at least as a coach.

"I'm very proud to have been the basketball coach at Kansas State," Hartman said. "The people here are the greatest in the world."

"There were some tempting offers (to leave), but I think that says a lot for the people here."

Hartman

Continued from Page 1

good time.

"As for the timing, the only concern I had — and I told the players this — I do not want this to be a distraction in our preparations for our game with the University of Kansas on Saturday."

In regard to the specific reason for his resignation, Hartman said "When you're 60 years old and you've coached 50 of them, do you really need to have a reason?"

Athletic Director Larry Travis, who learned of Hartman's decision at 11 a.m. Thursday, expressed regret about the resignation and said Hartman could have held the head basketball coaching job "as long as he wanted to."

"I personally want to tell you that when Coach Hartman called me down to his office this morning to tell me this, I didn't know what to think," Travis said to members of the media present.

Travis said he didn't know why Hartman picked the time he did to resign.

"I don't know why Coach Hartman decided (to resign) today," Travis said. "I sat there in shock. But as you know, Coach Hartman has a mind of his own. He does and acts like he wants to. It's going to be hard to find a man like him, but we hope to do that."

Travis said the search for a new coach would begin soon.

Hartman said he believed his greatest achievement in coaching over the years was the fact that he ran a "clean" program — one that never found itself under scrutiny from the National Collegiate Athletic Association on questions of honesty.

"I'm very, very proud that the places I've coached over the years have never, ever been questioned on the integrity of the program," Hartman said.

Hartman said he was not pleased with the state of college athletics today, especially the dishonesty that has entered into it.

"I was hoping to be able to get through this (news conference) without saying it, but I'm not real happy with college athletics right now."

"A lot of the fun is gone."

Hartman said he wanted to speak with Henry Iba, his college coach at Oklahoma A&M (now Oklahoma State) and one of the biggest influences in his coaching career, before he resigned. Hartman had that opportunity and took advantage of it Wednesday at Stillwater.

"I wanted to talk to him (Iba)," Hartman said. "If I didn't talk to him, I would have called him."

Iowa State Coach Johnny Orr expressed regret at Hartman's resignation.

"That really surprises me and it disappoints me," Orr said. "I'm totally shocked. I just don't believe that — we've lost a super guy and a super coach."

Nebraska Coach Moe Iba, son of Henry Iba, wasn't surprised with Hartman's resignation, because of the Wildcat coach's history of health problems.

"Jack and I are very good friends," Iba said. "It doesn't surprise me after his operation last year, but it never came up in any of our conversations."

Acker eyes agriculture office

By BECKY OHLDE
Agriculture Editor

President Duane Acker is currently under consideration for the position of deputy secretary in the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

The announcement was made by Sen. Majority Leader Bob Dole, at a meeting of the 2nd Congressional District Republicans held during Kansas Day activities last weekend. "It's a compliment to be considered for the position," Acker said. "The position is not vacant. It is currently being held by John R. Norton (of Arizona)."

Norton was appointed by the White House in May 1985, according to Bonnie Mersinger, assistant to Norton.

"The appointment of the deputy secretary is up to the White House — it is a presidential appointment," Mersinger said. "It's whatever the White House would think is best for American agriculture."

"We believe President Acker is very qualified and has tremendous experience in the Farm Belt," said Walt Riker, Dole's press secretary. "We would much rather see a representative from the Midwest because the new agriculture secretary is from the West Coast."

"We believe he (Acker) has the credentials because he has worked in high-level positions in the Farm Belt," he said.

"Cooper Evans, from Iowa, is being proposed by Vice President (George) Bush," Riker said. "He's another one from the Midwest — he and Acker are the top candidates that I know of."

"Evans is a corn farmer and commodities-trader from Cedar Rapids, Iowa," Riker said. "He's been a member of the House — a Republican — since 1980."

"Evans has been under consideration for about a week and Acker for about two weeks," he said.

President Reagan nominated Richard E. Lyng as secretary of agriculture Wednesday.

Lyng succeeds John Block who will be leaving the position in February.

Election forms made available

Collegian information sheets are now available to Student Governing Association candidates and may be picked up in Kedzie 116 the SGA office in the Union.

All student body president and senate candidates need to fill out the sheet in order to be featured in the special elections edition on Feb. 10.

Photography sessions for candidates are Monday from 2 to 6 p.m. and Tuesday from 2 to 6 p.m. in Kedzie 115, near the newsroom.

MORTAR BOARD

A NATIONAL SENIOR HONORARY

All Juniors with a 3.3 grade average and above are eligible for Mortar Board. Applications are available in the Union Activities Center.

Informational reception Feb. 2, 1:30 & 3:30
Union 207 (RSVP by Feb. 1. Call 539-8787)

Applications due Friday, Feb. 5, 8 p.m.
Activities Center, 3rd Floor Union

Blue River Pub GRAND OPENING CELEBRATION TONIGHT NOT THE GLENN MILLER BAND (Believe us they aren't!)

9pm-Midnight

$2.00 Cover

537-9877

Next to Tuttle Creek Dam

Have story or photo ideas?
CALL 532-6556

Kennedy's Claim celebrates its 21st Anniversary with February Specials

House Brand High Balls $1.25
Name Brand High Balls $1.50

2304 Stagg Hill Rd.

Manhattan Bridal Show 1986

Sunday, February 2
doors open at 1:30 p.m.

2:30 P.M. Fashion Show
by Christine's—The Wedding Co.
and
Woody's Ladies Shop
Free Gifts and Demonstrations

Holiday Inn® and Holidome®
530 Richards Dr.
Manhattan

Sponsored by:

Campbell's
Creative Travel
Christine's—The Wedding Co.
Crowell's Card and Party Shop

Holiday Inn & Holidome
Kitchens Plus
Lady Enelle Cosmetics and Color Analysis
Kistner's Flowers and Greenhouse

Vern's Breads and Cakes
Woody's Ladies Shop
Plaza Rentals & Sales University Photography

the casual encounter
fashion clothing for guys & gals.

3 DAYS ONLY

Thurs, Fri, Sat

the casual
encounter

1208 Moro in Aggleville

GALS FASHION JEANS

SAVE $10 off

GALS TOPS

1/2 Price

Entire Stock Included

For Guys

SAVE

WINTER COATS 30% to 65%

one group-values to $30

FASHION JEANS $10

SPORT SHIRTS

SAVE

and

1/3 to 1/2

SWEATERS

LEVI'S and LEE

CORD JEANS $14.99

SPORT COATS

up to

40% off

DRESS SLACKS

20% off

ALL SALES FINALS ON SALE MERCHANDISE

Editor: David Svoboda
Associate Editor: Lillian Zier
News Editor: Patty Reinert
Managing Editor: Jeri Heidrick

Editorial Page Editor: Tim Carpenter
Photo/Graphics Editor: Chris Stewart
Advertising Manager: Lori Wong
Director/News Adviser: Dave Adams

Editorial Board: David Svoboda, Tim Carpenter, Melissa Brune, Rich Harris, Jeri Heidrick, Steve Milligan, Patty Reinert, Vicki Reynolds, Eric Rhodenbaugh, Tammy Rickerson, Catherine Saylor, Tom Schultes, Richard Thorp, Jonie Trued, Lillian Zier.

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 020) is published by Student Publications, Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods. OFFICES are in the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 532-6555. Newsroom phone number is 532-6556; display advertising, 532-6560; and classified advertising 532-6555. SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: $40, calendar year; $35, academic year; $20, semester; $10, summer term. Address changes should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

Coach leaves K-State with honor, integrity

After 16 years as head basketball coach, Jack Hartman is retiring at the end of this season.

Wildcat basketball flourished under Hartman's leadership. The 'Cats won three Big Eight championships and made seven trips to the NCAA tournament, including a finish in the final eight in 1981.

Hartman is to be congratulated on his success at K-State and as a NCAA Division I coach. Hartman is the winningest coach in University history with 292 wins. He has logged 436 victories in 24 years as a Division I coach.

Hartman has won more than games. He has given Wildcat basketball a clean reputation. Never during Hartman's years of leading the Wildcats has the program's honesty or integrity been questioned.

Hartman's replacement will have a tough road to follow. It will be difficult to replace a coach of Hartman's stature, but it will be even more difficult to maintain the level of integrity of the program in a time when recruitment improprieties seem to be the norm.

Let's hope that no pressure was applied to influence Hartman's decision to leave his coaching position. If pressure was applied, let's hope those responsible do not regret their decision in a couple of years.

Jack Hartman is a legend in Wildcat basketball. The University is honored to have had a coach of Hartman's honesty, integrity and drive. May his future be as bright as his past. He will be missed.

Eric Rhodenbaugh,
for the editorial board

Broadcast projections turn voters from poll

The media can and often does abuse its power to gain knowledge. During recent national elections this abuse became apparent when the president-elects were announced before the polls even closed on the West Coast.

As a result of the early announcements, the press has received partial blame for low voter turn-outs in western states. Of these California, with 47 electoral votes out of 538, bears the largest impact of the 50 states.

Although a candidate may already have received a majority of the electoral votes, the loss of a significant amount of voters affects local elections and special votes on issues. Also, undecided voters may be influenced by media coverage, rather than studying the political positions of candidates and making an educated choice.

The U.S. House of Representatives made a positive move in correcting a situation that has been harmful to the democratic system. Wednesday, the House approved a bill, 204-175, to extend Pacific Daylight Savings Time in presidential election years until past Election Day. Under the legislation, polls in the West would close at 7 p.m. local time.

Rep. Al Swift, D-Wash., said the legislation would ensure that every voter would have a chance to cast a ballot before the results of the election are announced. Swift also said networks agreed not to use poll information to project a winner before the polls close in a given state.

The networks do have the responsibility to abide by their agreement and wait until the news is certain before making an announcement which is detrimental to voter turn-out. Americans must be made to feel that their vote counts and that their presence at the polls makes a difference — because it does.

Lillian Zier,
for the editorial board

Philippine campaigns decay to mudslinging

Personality rather than philosophy controls politics in the Philippines. From the start of the campaign to elect a new president, which will culminate on election day, Feb. 7, the two primary candidates have been embroiled in a classic campaign of mudslinging.

Incumbent Ferdinand Marcos is the frontrunner and if re-elected will probably face opposition charges of election fraud. Corazon Aquino, the underdog, is mounting a strong campaign against the aging Marcos.

Marcos said recently his opponent is unqualified to be president because she is a woman and suggested her victory would inspire a communist revolt. Opposition candidate Aquino criticized Marcos for refusing to debate and has tried to capitalize on charges that he misrepresents his military record.

Marcos has stressed his heroic leadership of guerrilla forces during World War II during the campaign. However, The New York Times reported recently his statements are "fraudulent" and his military unit was not controlled adequately "because of the desertion of its commanding officer" — Marcos.

Marcos has been in power for 20 years and controls most of the local political machines — including the people who tabulate election returns; the National Assembly, which declares the winner, and the military.

Senate Foreign Relations Committee Chairman Richard Lugar, R-Ind., requested last week that an American delegation monitor the polling places. It is inappropriate for the United States to influence Philippine elections. We should respect the autonomy of the Philippine people, but the U.S. government should impress upon Marcos the necessity for a fair election.

Tim Carpenter,
editorial page editor

Editorial

Friday, January 31, 1986 — 4

Meeting to change president's role

LA JOLLA, Calif. — This sun-filled, seaside marvel of a city is no scenic director's choice for a ghost-story setting. But something has happened here that is both fascinating and eerie. Last weekend, eight of the men who ran the White House between Harry Truman's departure and Ronald Reagan's arrival came to talk with each other and the world about how it should be done.

The proceedings of the conference sponsored by the University of California-San Diego were taped and will be edited for public television, so you will have a chance to see for yourself what a few of us were privileged to witness in person.

Unless I miss my guess, it is going to be marked as an important moment in the emergence of both a standard doctrine of presidential management and of a class of professionals — rather like the senior British civil service — who are proficient in training others in its arts.

At the urging of Gerald L. Warren, the San Diego Union newspaper editor and former Nixon White House press aide, the university invited top officials of the Eisenhower, Kennedy, Johnson, Nixon, Ford and Carter White Houses to share their experiences. No such conclave had ever been assembled, for an obvious reason: the substantial risk that old rivalries might cause it to explode on contact. Remember, some had succeeded each other under less than auspicious circumstances for themselves or their presidents — after an election defeat, an assassination or a forced resignation. Some had run campaigns against each other.

They were, in any case, an odd lot: two professional military men, Eisenhower's staff secretary Gen. Andrew J. Goodpastor and Nixon's chief of staff Gen. Alexander Haig; a former congressman, Ford's chief of staff Donald Rumsfeld; three former congressional staffers, Kennedy's speechwriter and special counsel Theodore C. Sorensen and Johnson's counterpart, Harry C.

DAVID BRODER
Syndicated Columnist

McPherson Jr.; and newcomers to Washington when they became chief of staff, Nixon's H.R. (Bob) Haldeman and Carter's Jack H. Watson Jr.

The eerie thing was the spontaneous camaraderie that developed among these men. Except for Haig, whose inner tensions or unfulfilled ambitions never permit him to relax, these old warriors almost instantly fell into a mood of nostalgia more appropriate to a summer-camp reunion.

It turns out there is a kinship among those who have worked close to the Oval Office, a kinship that party, presidency, age and political philosophy do not diminish. What University of California-San Diego Professor Samuel Popkin, one of the symposium organizers, called the "extraordinary chemistry" and feeling of "professional pleasure" among the eight participants was palpable almost from the moment they sat down. It embraced even Haldeman, making one of his first public appearances since he resigned 12 years ago and later went to jail in the Watergate cover-up.

Equally striking was the degree of consensus two days of talks produced about how the work of the modern presidency should be organized. After saying at the outset that each White House staff must be tailored to the needs and style of a particular president, it turned out that they really agreed among themselves that some ways will work better than others, no matter who is sitting at the president's desk.

What they endorsed was essentially the strong chief-of-staff system now being operated by Donald T. Regan — though many doubts were expressed publicly and privately about the publicity and prominence Regan seems to draw to himself.

Rumsfeld and Watson gave eloquent anecdotal evidence of what the latter called "the fatal mistake" their presidents made in allowing several aides equal access. Cheney gave a hilarious description of the perils of presidential decision-making based on scribbled notes on the backs of cocktail napkins. Even Sorensen, whose boss had rejected the model of the smooth-running Eisenhower chief-of-staff system, said that the Kennedy brothers came to appreciate the value of systematic staff work.

Harvard's Richard Neustadt, who had counseled democratic presidents from Kennedy to Carter to keep open multiple channels of advice, said at the end of the symposium that he was now convinced that "even at the irreducible minimum scale, the White House staff needs an administrative head." He also raised the question, "Can't you guys teach anything to your successors?"

The answer is clearly yes — if the arrogance of the 1988 election winner and his staff does not prevent them, as it did so many others, from listening and learning.

There is an opportunity for the members of the "club" formed here to help institutionalize the management of the White House. They are well-equipped to do it, for they understand both the importance and the limits of their role.

On the limits, Watson said, "I'm often asked if being White House chief of staff is more like being a quarterback, or a goalie, or a cheerleader. The image in my mind is more like a javelin catcher."

And Rumsfeld reminded that at times each president will ignore the procedures set by his staff and overrule its advice. He will be right to do so. "It's no accident," he said, "that he's president — and you're not."

Letters

Appeal to students

Editor,

I was extremely disappointed to hear that the Student Bond Refinancing Ad Hoc Committee of the Student Senate chose not to recommend funding for the KSU Child Care Cooperative. While the committee did recommend that the cooperative's request be considered "high priority," I am not quite sure what that means. Does it mean funding later this year? Next year? Two years from now?

Right now 1,600 students — 10 percent of the student population — have children under the age of 13. And this number will surely increase as the "over-24" student age group increases.

The cooperative requested $86,182 — about 12 percent of the $700,000 available — to cover two sets of one-time costs. The cooperative plans to retire the start-up loan it took out to open the "bottom floor" doors last August and the "top floor" doors earlier this month. Monthly income from operations equals monthly operating expenses excluding the start-up debt repayment.

It would be nice to not have to raise fees for services to cover this initial debt, since one of the main goals of the cooperative is to keep fees affordable for student parents who comprise 80 percent of cooperative membership — certainly reason enough for some sort of student government support.

The cooperative also plans to expand the center to service more children of K-State students, faculty and staff. Currently, the facility has room for 99 full-time equivalent children. The next expansion planned — the timing of which is dependent upon the receipt of adequate funds — will increase the center's full-time equivalent capacity to 250-300 children.

More importantly, however, the program expansion is to include infant care and after-school care for school-aged children. These two types of services are sorely needed since there is only one day care center in Mahattan which offers infant care and there exist only a few church-sponsored after-school programs.

The cooperative performs a needed service for K-State. The longer this requested funding is delayed, the longer it will be before more student parents can have access to high quality, low cost and flexible care for their children. I hope the Student Senate closely examined the cooperative's appeal last night and voted to approve the request. Don't all the children of the K-State family deserve the best start they can get?

Cynthia McCahon
graduate in industrial engineering

Mini-series needed

Editor,

The production of a new $40 million mini-series for television depicting life in the United States 10 years after a Soviet take over has been postponed according to Brandon Stoddard, president of ABC entertainment, the executive who commissioned the program. The film "Amerika" was planned for next year's prime time season.

According to an ABC official on Jan. 8 another consideration in the decision to postpone the production was a Soviet warning that the network's news operation would be shut down if the mini-series were broadcast.

Donald Wyer, the series writer, director and producer said, "It would be preposterous for an American organization to allow itself to be affected by a form of blackmail."

It seems to me that the Soviet Union is afraid that the American people would be forewarned about their fate by this mini-series, a fate that the Soviets have for years planned for America.

Patriotic Americans who are interested in the fate of themselves, their children and their grandchildren would do well to encourage ABC to continue with the series, and would be wise to learn more about what the Soviet Union has planned for the people of America in the relatively near future.

E.A. Munyan
Overland Park resident

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR pertaining to matters of public interest are encouraged.

Hartman's winning years as 'Cat coach end

Staff/Andy Nelson

With photographs of past championship teams as a backdrop, head coach Jack Hartman discusses his resignation at a press conference Thursday in the men's training room. Hartman will retire after 16 years as coach.

By DOUG SCHEIBE
Sports Writer

Jack Hartman is the winningest coach in the history of K-State basketball.

Including this, his 16th season at K-State, Hartman has a 292-162 record. His overall record at the NCAA Division I level is 436-226 in 23 seasons.

After coaching seven years at Coffeyville Junior College, Hartman started his Division I coaching career at Southern Illinois-Carbondale in 1962. In eight seasons, he guided the Salukis to 144 victories.

During the 1966-67 season, Southern Illinois was 24-2 and won the National Invitational Tournament. Hartman was named the "College Coach of the Year" by The Sporting News in 1967.

Hartman took the K-State coaching job on July 1, 1970. He led the Wildcats to NCAA post-season tournament play to receive a bid to the NCAA tournament. In the tournament, the Wildcats lost in the last seconds to eventual national champion Marquette.

The 1977 season was an eventful one for Hartman.

That year, K-State's lineup of starters were all under 6-foot-5.

The 1977 season saw K-State win the Big Eight Conference by two games and then defeat Kansas and Missouri in Big Eight post-season tournament play to receive a bid to the NCAA tournament. In the tournament, the Wildcats lost in the last seconds to eventual national champion Marquette.

After the season, Hartman announced he had taken the head coaching job at Oklahoma State. Then, during the same week, he called the choice a "turnover," and decided not to return to his alma mater to coach.

Four years later, Hartman brought his team back to the NCAA tournament. That season was Hartman's closest brush with the national championship.

The 1980-81 team beat San Francisco, second-ranked Oregon State and Illinois in the NCAA tournament to get to the final eight teams. K-State lost to national runner-up North Carolina in the next game.

Hartman has coached two current National Basketball Association players — NBA All-Star Rolando Blackman of the Dallas Mavericks and Mike Evans of the Denver Nuggets.

Jones, Hubert not happy as Lady Cats

By TIM FITZGERALD
Assistant Sports Editor

Both Cassandra Jones and Shelia Hubert said Thursday they quit the K-State women's basketball team because they weren't happy playing basketball anymore.

"I just wasn't happy the past year and a half. This year I felt like I was just going through it (the motions). I appreciate the opportunity to play at K-State," Jones said.

Hubert had been thinking about quitting the team since she returned to school from the holiday break.

"I knew I just wouldn't be playing, so I didn't show for practice Sunday," Hubert said.

Jones, Hubert and Lady Cat teammates Cheryl Jackson, Carlisa Thomas and Thea Fitzpatrick didn't show up for practice last Sunday following the Lady Cats' loss to the University of Kansas on Saturday. The five were the only black members of the Lady Cat team and there had been speculation that the incident was in some ways race-related.

"Each of the five had different reasons for not showing up," Thomas said. "It wasn't a racial thing — I just needed to think some things over. I needed to talk to Coach."

Center Amanda Holley said the team was shocked Sunday when the five didn't show up for practice, but the incident did bring the team closer together.

Jones agreed with Holley and said that there had been a lot of distance between many members of the team before the incident closed some of that distance.

None of the four would go into detailed reasons for why the five had not shown up for practice, but both Jones and Hubert said they couldn't play for Coach Matilda Mossman anymore.

"I have mixed feeling about the lady. She is a decent coach, but I didn't agree with many of her (coaching) moves," Hubert said.

Jones said she didn't always agree with Mossman's coaching moves either.

"She is probably doing what she thinks is right and you can't fault a person for that," Jones said.

Jones said that she was disappointed with her play and that she will now concentrate on graduating in May and returning to her home in Jacksonville, Fla., to find a job and possibly coach.

The fifth member of the Lady Cats basketball team missing from practice Sunday, Cheryl Jackson, was not at practice Thursday and was not reachable by phone. It was later announced that she too has quit the team.

Jones entered the season as a pre-season honorable mention all-American by Street and Smith magazine. She averaged 17.1 points a game last season and was averaging 9.4 points a game this season.

Hubert, who came to K-State from Barton County Community College prior to her junior year, said she will work towards graduating this summer. At the beginning of the season she was projected as a possible starter for the Lady Cats, but was averaging only 3.1 points a game.

other starter, guard Cedric Hunter, is the conference leader in assists.

GAME NOTES: Game time is 1:10 due to television coverage...K-State has not beaten KU in the last five meetings between the two teams.

PROBABLE STARTERS

K-STATE

F Ben Mitchell, 6-9 (6.6 ppg)
F Norris Coleman, 6-8 (21.8 ppg)
C Ron Meyer, 6-9 (13.9 ppg)
G Benny Green, 6-3 (8.7 ppg)
G Joe Wright, 6-9 (18.1 ppg)

KANSAS

F Danny Manning, 6-11 (15.8 ppg)
F Ron Kellogg, 6-5 (16.1 ppg)
C Greg Dreiling, 7-1 (11.3 ppg)
G Cedric Hunter, 6-0 (18.7 ppg)
G Calvin Thompson, 6-6 (13.4 ppg)

K-State to renew rivalry with No. 4 Jayhawks

By TOM PERRIN
Sports Editor

Jack Hartman's first game after resigning effective at season's end as K-State coach will be a big one — the traditional rivalry with Kansas Saturday afternoon at Ahearn Field House.

KU enters the game with a No. 4 national ranking and a 19-3 record, but the Jayhawks lost their first game of the Big Eight season Wednesday to Iowa State.

K-State, 13-7 overall and 1-4 in the Big Eight Conference, is winless in three home conference games.

Hartman assessed the current K-State season at the Wednesday night news conference he called to announce his resignation.

"We started off well, leveled off and experienced some disappointing losses — particularly at home. And it's shaken their (the players') confidence somewhat and disappointed them obviously and now they're struggling a little bit," Hartman said.

"They've lost that confidence that you have to have. They've lost a little bit of the edge. But I'm totally and completely proud of them. It's a good young group," he said.

K-State forward Ben Mitchell said he hopes the team can pull together for the game with the highly-regarded Jayhawks.

"I just don't want us to continue losing for the rest of the season. I want us to get back on the right track," Mitchell said. "On the eve of this KU game — this could be a big game to get us back in the thick of it (the Big Eight race)."

Mitchell said that Thursday's team practice was no different than others this season, because Hartman didn't tell the team about his resignation until after practice had been completed.

KU, even with the loss, remains in a first place tie in the Big Eight with Oklahoma and has a 4-1 conference record.

The Jayhawks possess a balanced offensive attack led by double-figure scorers forwards Ron Kellogg and Danny Manning, center Greg Dreiling and guard Calvin Thompson. The

Virginia topples Tar Heels, 86-73

By The Associated Press

CHARLOTTEVILLE, Va. — Olden Polynice led six Virginia players in double figures and the Cavaliers withstood an early second-half rally Thursday night for an 86-73 Atlantic Coast Conference basketball victory over top-ranked and previously undefeated North Carolina.

Polynice, a junior center, scored 19 points as Virginia moved to 14-5 overall and 4-3 in the ACC. The Cavaliers broke a seven-game losing streak against the Tar Heels dating to 1982. Ralph Sampson's junior season.

John Johnson added 13, Mel Kennedy and Richard Morgan 12 apiece and Tom Sheehy 11 for Virginia.

North Carolina, losing for the first time after 21 straight wins and falling to 5-1 in ACC play, was led by Brad Daugherty's 21 points. Kenny Smith added 20 and Steve Hale 14 for the Tar Heels.

Except for a 2-2 tie in the first minute, Virginia led the entire game.

SOUTHERN ILLINOIS 65, WICHITA STATE 57

WICHITA — Steve Middleton scored 23 points and Randy House added 16 to lead visiting Southern Illinois to a 65-57 victory over Wichita State Thursday night in Missouri Valley Conference action.

The loss, Wichita State's seventh straight, placed the Shockers in the MVC cellar at 1-6, 8-10 overall. Southern Illinois improved to 2-5, 6-13 overall.

Trailing 17-16 with 6:17 left in the first half, House scored eight of the Salukis' last 12 first-half points to give them a 28-20 halftime lead.

Wichita State, shooting a mere 45 percent on 13 of 29 from the throw line for the game, could not battle back and trailed 45-31 with 9:43 to go. The Shockers tightened the gap to 49-43 with five minutes remaining.

Freshman reserve Dwight Praylow led Wichita State with 13 points.

Orioles implement drug testing program

By The Associated Press

BALTIMORE — The Baltimore Orioles, expressing concern over baseball's tarnished image, announced Thursday the formation of the game's first voluntary drug testing program.

Twenty-six of the 38 players on Baltimore's spring training roster have agreed to take part in the one-year pilot program or were already subject to similar arrangements through contract clauses or minor league testing.

The remaining 12 have not yet been contacted. General Manager Hank Peters said he hoped for 100 percent participation, but added that no disciplinary action would be taken against anyone who refuses.

"We've long been concerned with the individual welfare of our players," said Peters, "and the magnitude of the drug problem in baseball has certainly damaged the image of our game."

Noting the many public disclosures of drug abuse in baseball last year, Peters said the new program should "remove any clouds hanging over the club, or baseball."

Baseball has not had an industrywide program since the club owners withdrew from a limited testing plan last fall. Should agreement be reached on a new drug abuse program, that would supercede the Baltimore plan.

Individual players on other major league teams have agreed to drug testing in exchange for a guaranteed contract. Others have the option of voluntarily putting a drug testing clause in their contracts for image-improving purposes.

The Orioles testing program was strongly endorsed by pitcher Scott McGregor, Baltimore's player representative.

Mossman hopes Lady Cats' frustrations will disappear

By DARAN NEUSCHAFER
Sports Writer

K-State women's basketball coach Matilda Mossman is a frustrated lady right now.

Her team is probably suffering through their lowest point of the season on the court, after dropping a two-point decision to Oklahoma State in Stillwater, Okla. Wednesday night.

And off the court, things do not appear to be much better.

K-State officially announced the dismissal of three former starters of the Lady Cat team. Seniors Shelia Hubert and Cassandra Jones, along with junior Cheryl Jackson, all quit the team, citing personal conflicts as their reason for leaving.

But, as the old saying goes, "the show must go on." And for the Lady Cats, the season does go on as the defending Big Eight Conference champion Missouri Tigers will visit Ahearn Field House on Saturday.

Missouri, which also lost one of its top players recently, will bring an 11-7 overall record and 3-2 conference record into the contest.

The Tigers lost their leading scorer during semester break when Sarah Campbell, who was averaging over 22 points a game, quit the squad. Campbell also cited personal reasons for her leaving.

Junior center Renee Kelly has picked up some of the slack from Campbell, however, as she is averaging 30.4 points per game in conference play. Kelly is also averaging 12.6 rebounds per game.

With Kelly inside, the Tigers sport a strong and physical inside attack that worries Mossman.

"They are very, very physical inside, and we are going to have to try and stabilize them by putting a lot of pressure on the ball up front," Mossman said.

Mossman is hoping that her team can capitalize on Missouri's inexperience at the guard position. K-State plans on applying some full-court pressure to try to gain some turnovers and easy baskets.

"They are not very experienced at the guard position, and we feel with some pressure defensively, we can make a few things happen to help out offensively," Mossman said.

Mossman said that with everything that has been going on with the team lately (losing streak, and loss of players), she feels the team just needs to gain some confidence.

"I was happy with the way we played soild basketball for 40 minutes against Oklahoma State, but it was still a tough game to lose," Mossman said. "We need a victory to give the girls some confidence for the rest of the season."

Game time is set for 3:30 p.m. on Saturday, and will immediately follow the Kansas — K-State men's game.

Agriculture alumni boost involvement

By DIXIE GLANVILLE
Collegian Reporter

After six years of planning, the College of Agriculture's alumni association now has coordinators in every county in Kansas. The result has been increased participation in University alumni activities by agriculture alumni, according to agriculture alumni officials.

The association's goal is to involve more agriculture graduates in total University alumni activities, said Dave Mugler, director of resident instruction in the agriculture college and executive secretary of the Agriculture Alumni Association.

"Every graduate from K-State's College of Agriculture is a member with no extra dues to pay. We also encourage members to get involved in the K-State Alumni Association," Mugler said. Membership encompasses the nearly 14,000 living graduates from the college.

Phase one of the association's plan is to incorporate the 7,000 current agriculture graduates living in Kansas and the Kansas City metropolitan area into alumni activities.

Phase two includes working with alumni from across the United States and from around the world.

"By July 1, we hope to have someone employed to assist Dave in coordinating events for the alumni and development association," said Earl Van Meter, south-central area extension director and president of the alumni association.

The position's duties will include getting acquainted with alumni, planning activities of county alumni coordinators and raising funds for agricultural development including scholarships, support for extension, international agriculture programs and other programs.

In December, the association finished recruiting agriculture alumni to serve as county coordinators. The association now has at least one person in each county who serves as a link between the county and the college.

When the program began in October 1979, it was modeled after member colleges and universities of the National Agriculture Alumni and Development Association. Mugler currently serves as president of that organization.

"We see ourselves in ag alumni friend-making — tying alumni back to the University because after graduation, some find themselves getting lost in the shuffle," Van Meter said. "Two, we help in keeping track of potential students and three, link the University and the people of the state."

The bylaws encourage interest and support for scholarships, fellowship, innovative teaching, research, extension programs, international agriculture, promoting events and other alumni activities.

The College of Human Ecology also has a formalized alumni association. Its goals are similar to those of the agriculture association, said Nancy Knopp, assistant to the dean for alumni affairs in human ecology.

Human ecology found a need for graduates to identify with a smaller group, instead of all the graduates of the University in a year, Knopp said.

"Several other colleges have advisory groups or special-interest groups that serve some of these same objectives," said Amy Renz, director of membership and constituent programs for the University's alumni association. "Their programs are just not as in-depth as the College of Agriculture and the College of Human Ecology."

Research unit works on wind erosion problem

By TIM STRODA
Collegian Reporter

Wind erosion may not be high on a farmer's list of problems until crops begin to die and land productivity decreases. But it is an everyday concern to the Wind Erosion Research Unit staff.

More than 75 percent of the cropland in the United States, especially in the Great Plains, is susceptible to wind erosion if conditions are unfavorable, said Leon Lyles, research leader of the unit.

Wind erosion, the transportation of soil particles by wind, kills plants and removes active soil components. This decreases the productivity of agricultural land, Lyles said.

The research unit was established in 1947 under the Agricultural Marketing Act as part of the Soil Conservation Service.

In 1953, it became part of the Agricultural Research Service under the jurisdiction of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

"We are the only full-time wind erosion laboratory in the country, so we keep our research on a national basis," Lyles said.

Outlines showing the objectives, needs and tasks of a project are submitted by the unit's staff for review and approval by a program staff in Beltsville, Md., Lyles said.

Department of Agriculture funds are appropriated annually, so federal budget cuts will mean reduced money for equipment and supplies, he said.

"Conservation has always had to pay its own way," Lyles said.

The research unit handles three classifications of projects: those working with the processes of wind erosion, the prediction of unfavorable conditions, and methods of controlling wind erosion.

"Our work depends upon the impact wind erosion has on the farm economy and whether our controls will be economically feasible," he said.

"Our longest-running project (since 1961) is the improvement and testing of a wind erosion prediction equation. This equation predicts the long-term average soil loss from a given field based upon various values," Lyles said.

These values depend on five variables: soil erodability, climate, roughness of surface, size of field and vegetative cover, he said.

Other projects work with the principles of wind-erosion processes and developing new tillage tools and crop systems to control them. The unit also collects quantitative information on the impact of soil-blowing on soil, productivity, crop yields and air quality, Lyles said.

The unit's facilities include 10,000 square feet of laboratory space which houses two stationary wind tunnels, a portable wind tunnel, rain-tower, greenhouse, growth chamber, constant temperature room and several data acquisition and processing systems.

Thieves steal dairy's safe

By The Collegian Staff

A 300-pound safe containing approximately $600 in cash and checks was removed from the University Dairy Bar processing plant office in Call Hall, said Don Good, head of the Department of Animal Sciences and Industry.

Richard Herrman, University detective, said the safe was reported missing by a sales counter employee after reporting to work Wednesday.

The building had been locked and there was no sign of forced entry.

"An unknown person or persons either had keys to the building, access to keys or hid inside the office until after closing time," Herrman said.

Officers are seeking information from persons who may have seen activity around Call Hall between 5 p.m. Tuesday and 4 a.m. Wednesday.

Friday—Saturday—Sunday
We'll honor any local pizza
coupon!

Falsetto's
539-3830

JUAREZ
TEQUILA
The Magic of Mexico.

MANHATTAN
SHOE REPAIR

We Make Keys

Open Daily 8-5:30, Saturday 8-4
Open Thursdays to 8
Drive-Up Convenience

401 Humboldt 776-1193

Enjoy smooth, creamy
Frozen Yogurt
that tastes like Ice Cream
but with 80% less fat!

--FREE SAMPLES--

I Can't Believe It's
YOGURT!
Frozen Yogurt Stores

OPEN: 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Daily
Noon-11 p.m. Sundays
Nautilus Towers-Aggieville

Chon's RESTAURANT

SUNDAY
NIGHT

Fried Chicken
& Spaghetti
$4.50
All You Can Eat
5:30-7:30

At the Ramada Inn

CLUB REHE'S
NEIGHBORHOOD BAR
ESTABLISHED 1952

T.G.I.F.
$1.95 Pitchers
$1.00 Nacho
Platters
From Duran's
(Reg. $2.25 Value)
3:30-5:00

Join Us After The K-State-KU Game
$2.25 Pitchers

WEEKENDS AT THE CHEF
FRIDAY
Fried Chicken; Spaghetti & Meat Sauce & Salad Bar
ALL YOU CAN EAT - $3.95

SATURDAY
Gourmet Night. No Music, no alcohol, but gourmet dinners at low prices. Prime Rib - $5.95
or
Steak and Shrimp. Also other selections

SUNDAY
Open 8 a.m.-3 p.m. Featuring
Daily Dinners at $3.60 and lower.
Breakfast Served till 1:00 p.m.

The CHEF Cafe
111 S. 4th

Pizza Hut The men of Dark Horse Tavern

SIGMA ALPHA EPSILON invite
All K-State Students
to a
Private Function
Today 3-6 at Dark Horse
Free Pizza Hut Pizza
$2.50 PITCHERS
(Must Have Student ID)
Open 10:30 a.m. Sat. for pre- and post-game slams.

Congratulations to the Newly Activated Little Sisters of the Golden Rose

Laura Logback
Debbie Andrews
Crystal Walker
Beth Smith
Jeannie Hoover
Risa Pierce
Teresa Huneycutt
Diane Muller
Charlene Hess
Michelle Miller
Shelly Gillam
Betsy Stetzel
Stephanie Archer
Janet Elliott
Pam Flickinger
Debbie Doll

Darla Koons
Maggie Peil
Jackie Wendt
Lisa Godfrey
Mary Gomez
Diana McMillen
Shannon Dinkel
Nancy Walker
Linda Luthi
Rachel Smith
Shawn Mayden
Angela Borgstadter
Shawnee Call
Gina Connery
Stephanie Halpain
Karen Larson

BETA SIGMA PSI

We're Upstairs

Duran's
Mexican Restaurant

You'll have to look up to find us - but it's worth the effort!
We are a family owned restaurant, serving the finest Mexican food in Manhattan.
Come enjoy the Duran tradition of hospitality and excellence - upstairs.

MILLER LITE MONDAY - 50¢ DRAWS ALL DAY

Starting Sunday
All You Can Eat Buffet
$350
Lunch only 11:30-3:30

Duran's
1st Bank Center
Manhattan
(at the corner of Denison and Claflin 2 blocks north of the KSU field house)
Hours:
11:30-2:30
4:30-9:30

Firestone

STEEL BELTED
RADIALS, WHITEWALLS

$27.95 P155/80R13
P165/80R13 $34.95
P185/80R13 $36.95
P195/75R14 $41.95
P205/75R14 $44.95
P215/75R15 $47.95
P225/75R15 $49.95
P235/75R15 $53.95

Larry Jackson, Manager
Mon.-Fri. 7:30 a.m.-6 p.m.
Sat. 8 a.m.-5 p.m.

307 N. 3RD Ph. 776-4849

CAR CARE COUPON
Lube Oil & Oil Filter
We will lubricate the car's chassis, then drain the oil and install up to 5 quarts of quality oil and a new filter. American cars plus Toyota, Nissan, VW, Honda and light trucks are welcome. (Most Cars)
$12.67
Offer Expires: Feb. 14, 1986

CAR CARE COUPON
Front Disc Brake Job
• Install new front disc pads • Resurface rotors • Repack front wheel bearings • Install new front grease seals • Check master cylinder • Inspect brake hoses • Add fluid, as needed • Road test the car. Single piston systems. Add $15 where semi-metallic disc pads are required.
$49.67
Reg. $89.95 (Most Cars)
Offer Expires: Feb. 14, 1986

CAR CARE COUPON
Automatic Transmission Service
Includes most rear-wheel drive American cars, plus Toyota, VW and Nissan. El Dorado/Toronto $45. We'll install a new transmission filter, replace the pan gasket, clean and inspect the oil reservoir, add transmission fluid and road test your car. Automatic transmission only.
$25.67
Offer Expires: Feb. 14, 1986

CAR CARE COUPON
Electronic Ignition Tune-Up
U.S. Cars Only
Master Care will install new resistor spark plugs, adjust die speed, set timing, test battery and electrical system and inspect rotor, distributor cap, PCV valve, ignition cables and air filter. Up most cars in 4 cyl. 6 cyl. 8 cyl. computer analysis.
$24.67 $32.67 $38.67
Offer Expires: Feb. 14, 1986

House committee passes pari-mutuel gambling amendment

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA — A proposed amendment to the Kansas Constitution that would legalize pari-mutuel wagering on horse and dog races received approval from a House committee Thursday and the measure now awaits action on the House floor.

The House Federal and State Affairs Committee gave the favorable recommendation on an unrecorded voice vote after only five minutes of discussion on a change in the proposed tax rate on pari-mutuel bets. There was no discussion on the resolution itself.

However, there appeared to be more support for the measure among committee members than there was during a similar vote last week on a proposal that would allow operation of a state-owned lottery.

Earlier Thursday, House Speaker Mike Hayden said he hopes to bring the lottery resolution to a vote "in mid-February" and begin debate on the pari-mutuel measure "a couple of days later."

Before the committee voted to approve the pari-mutuel resolution, members changed a provision that called for a 5 percent state tax on all wagers and substituted a provision that calls for a tax of between 3 percent and 6 percent.

The proposed amendment must gain approval from two-thirds of the 125 members of the House and two-thirds of the 40-member Senate before it could be placed on the November ballot. A pari-mutuel proposal cleared the Senate last year but fell 10 votes short in the House.

Rep. J.C. Long, R-Harper, began the committee discussion by proposing to strike all language from the resolution that refers to the proposed tax rate.

However, Rep. Michael Peterson, D-Kansas City, said he opposed

Long's idea although he normally favoring the concept of eliminating specific tax rates and other numbers from proposed constitutional amendments.

"I think there is concern both in the Legislature and from the people about how much revenue this industry is going to produce," said Peterson, who offered the substitute tax rate of between 3 percent and 6 percent.

Pari-mutuel proponents had urged the committee to eliminate the 5 percent tax provision because they contended it could cripple the state's horse- and dog-racing industries before they have a chance to get off the ground.

After the meeting, the chairman of the committee, Rep. Robert H. Miller, R-Wellington, said he thinks there is more support in the House for the pari-mutuel measure than for the proposed state lottery.

"I disagree with those who say both will go," Miller said.

Miller said he believes fewer people are writing favorable letters to lawmakers about the lottery than pari-mutuel, which he said has more support in farm communities.

In addition, Miller said there has not been a significant increase in support among House lawmakers for pari-mutuel but the measure has more momentum as it advanced to the floor than it did last year.

In other action, the committee voted seek introduction of a bill that would plug loopholes in a 1985 law aimed at abolishing so-called happy hours.

Miller said the bill would prohibit all free drinks served with meals, allow clubs and taverns to change drink prices only once a week instead of once daily and would ban the any sales of drinks for less than the amount the drinks cost a club or tavern.

Classifieds

Display Classified Rates
One day: $4.65 per inch; Three consecutive days: $4.25 per inch; Five consecutive days: $3.95 per inch; Ten consecutive days: $3.75 per inch. (Deadline is 4:30 p.m. two days before publication.)
Classified advertising is available only to those who do not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, sex or ancestry.

ANNOUNCEMENTS 01

FETA CHEESE 10% off, also herbs and spices at Coop prices. People's Grocery Cooperative, 811 Colorado, 539-4811. Open to everyone Wednesday and Friday, 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. and Saturday 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. (83-88)

ZETA PHI Beta Sorority, Inc. presents our Formal Spring Rush Sunday, February 2, 1986, 4 o'clock in the Union, room 208. (86-88)

YOU CAN learn to drive in two weeks! Class begins Saturday, February 1 at the Little Apple Driving School. Master Card and Visa accepted. Call 539-2715 (anytime). (86-88)

"If I Should Die..." Monday, February 3, 7:30 and 9 p.m. From Union Hall. Free admission. (88)

ATTENTION 02

FLYING INTEREST you? Check into K-State Flying Club. Call Steve Dyer at 532-5600 or 537-0458. (61)

SPRING BREAK on the beach at South Padre Island, Daytona Beach, Fort Lauderdale, Fort Walton Beach or Mustang Island/Port Aransas from only $89; and skiing at Steamboat or Vail from only $86! Deluxe lodging, parties, goodie bags, more... Hurry, call SunChase Tours for more information and reservations toll free 1-800-321-5911 or contact a local SunChase Representative today! When your Spring Break counts... count on SunChase. (80-108)

HEE'S ALTERATIONS—Suits, coats, jeans, zippers and all types of alterations. 1125 Laramie Plaza, Aggieville, Monday thru Friday, 10 a.m.-5:30 p.m.; Saturdays, 10 a.m.-4 p.m. 776-7959. (87f)

SKI SPRING Break—Breckenridge, Keystone, and Copper Mountain. March 9, 10 and 11 only $220. Prices include transportation, lodging, ski rental and lift tickets. For information, call 537-2995. (83-108)

ALL SHOES, Western and Snow Boots, $10 a pair! Thursday, Friday and Saturday! Lady Foot Shoes, 221 Poyntz. (85-88)

FOR RENT-MISC 03

COSTUMES—FROM gorilla suits to Hawaiian leis. Makeup, wigs, periodical clothing, masks, grass skirts, all occasions available. Treasure Chest, Aggieville. (28f)

FOR RENT-APTS 04

THREE BEDROOM house, equipped kitchen, 1523 Fairchild. Call Barbara at 537-1329. (76-90)

AVAILABLE FEBRUARY 1st—One bedroom furnished apartment, $250 per month plus utilities. Call 776-9124. (77-88)

FOR AUGUST—Deluxe two bedroom furnished apartment, across the street from Ford Hall. 539-2482 after 4:00 p.m. (82-91)

ONE BEDROOM efficiency apartment one block east of campus. Quiet, excellent condition. $185 plus electricity. 776-3624. (83-88)

THREE BEDROOM available now. Utilities paid. Call Barbara, 537-1329. (83-88)

ONE OR two bedroom—Reasonable, one block to campus, available now. Call Barbara, 537-1329. (83-90)

TWO BEDROOM nice, furnished apartment. First month free, lease, $350. Call after 5 p.m. at 776-5934. (84-88)

EFFICIENCY APARTMENT, $185/month, heat, gas, water included. Call 537-7794 evenings and weekends. (84-93)

QUIET, FURNISHED, one bedroom, $216/month, located at 1927 College Hts. Rd. Laundry and patio. Call 537-9886 for appointment. (86-90)

LARGE FOUR bedroom house, need female non-smoker roommate. Own room, dishwasher, air conditioning, partially furnished, utilities paid. $180/month plus deposit. Call Deborah, 537-7103. (84-88)

WE HAVE studio, one, two, and three bedroom apartments available now. All prices. Call 537-1210 or 537-4244. (87f)

GREAT LANDLORDS, great location! Roomy two-bedroom apartment on top floor of complex across from Cicco Park, $335/month. Children and cats allowed. Call Beth before 5 p.m. at 532-7176 or Adrian at 1-238-4792. (87-88)

NEXT to campus—Leasing for fall, across from Marietta and Goodnow: Furnished two or one bedroom, central air, carpeting, fully equipped kitchen, balcony, off street parking. 539-2702, evenings, weekends. (88-98)

NEXT to campus—Leasing for fall, across from Haymaker, overlooking campus: Two bedroom, fireplace, central air, carpeting, fully equipped kitchen, balcony, laundry facility, off street parking. 539-2702, evenings, weekends. (88-98)

FOR RENT-HOUSES 05

THREE BEDROOM house, equipped kitchen, 1523 Fairchild. Call Barbara at 537-1329. (76-90)

BEST DEAL in town—Now taking waiting list applications. Prairie Glen Townhouses, 776-4786. (79-93)

ONE HUNDRED percent financing available to qualified buyers of new two bedroom Orchard Townhouses. Rent until closing. Details? Call Claudia Luthi, ERA Alliance Realty Co., 537-0069 or 539-9242. (81-88)

THREE BEDROOM home, 1523 Fairchild, available now. Call Barbara, 537-1329. (83-98)

FOR SALE-AUTO 06

1973 DODGE pickup. Excellent condition, $1,200. Call 537-3972. (85-89)

1976 CHEVY, 4x4, 350 two barrel, 75,000 miles. Blue and silver, chrome rims, new muds, $3,500 negotiable. 776-5633, ask for Shawn. (86-90)

DODGE ROYALE Maroon, $1,149. Maroon, excellent condition, recent tune-up, 1976 model. Call Ian, 532-3489. (86-90)

1981 SUBARU GL 4x4, three door, fantastic in the snow. Fully equipped. 537-3993 after 5 p.m. (86-90)

USED CARS, trucks and motorcycles. Many to choose from. Will take trades. Call Tom, 539-4684. (86-90)

FOR SALE-MISC 07

OFFICE SUPPLIES—Hull's Business Machines, 715 North 12th, Aggieville, 539-1413. (55f)

GOVERNMENT HOMES from $1 (U repair). Also delinquent tax property. Call 805-687-6000, ext. GH-9701 for information. (76-97)

FENDER RHODES Super Twin guitar amp. Great condition and sound. $200 firm. 776-3473 after 8 p.m. (86-90)

Clip and Save
1/4 Pound Hamburger
69¢
The Ritz
Not good with other specials
One burger per coupon
Expires 2-2-86

HEWLETT-PACKARD 7470A (2 pen) Plotter. Includes manuals and cables. Call Lela at 1-272-3722 Monday-Friday, 7 a.m.-4 p.m. (86-90)

TWO GUITARS: Gibson Invader (electric), one year old, $300; Monty Acoustic 6-string, two years old, $100. Call Mike after 6:00 p.m. at 537-0891. (87-91)

MANHATTAN CHRISTIAN College Used Book Sale—February 1st and 3rd, 10 a.m.-4 p.m., Campus Center, 1419 Laramie. (88)

FOUND 10

WHITE MALE kitten, part Siamese. Found at 12th and Vatter. 537-8512 or 539-0170. (86-88)

CALCULATOR FOUND in Seaton Hall, Monday. Call 776-6328 to identify and claim. (87-89)

FOUND—SET of keys Wednesday. Call 776-0489 to identify and claim. (88-90)

RING FOUND in front of West Hall January 24. Call 532-5535 to identify and claim. (88-90)

FOUND AT Farrell Library—Assorted scarves, caps, and gloves; one dark gray shawl found before Christmas; one Nissan motor key, labelled 026, found in room 216; three upper level psychology textbooks; two USCA yearbooks; one business text by Ivancovich, Szilagyi, and Wallace; one USL book on Energy Savings; one Ad Media notebook. They can be claimed at the Circulation Counter, Farrell Library. (88-90)

HELP WANTED 13

GOVERNMENT JOBS. $16,400-$59,230/year. Now hiring. Call 805-687-6000, ext. R-9701 for current federal list. (76-97)

COUPLE FOR Assistant Manager of large apartment complex. Live in, maintenance ability necessary. Send resume to Box 3, Collegian. (78f)

CRUISESHIPS HIRING! $16-30,000. Caribbean, Hawaii, World! Call for Guide, Cassette, News-service! (916) 944-4444, Ext. Kansascruise. (76-91)

COOK POSITION for mature (22-45), experienced cooks at summer camp for children 35 miles west of Colorado Springs, June 5-August 22. Salary negotiable, includes room and board. Write: Sanborn Camps, Florissant, CO 80816, 1-303-748-3341. (84-88)

FEDERAL OVERSEAS, nationwide jobs! $17,101-$61,104! Summer. Career! Call: Guidedirection, Applications, Listings, News-service! (916) 944-4444, ext. G.S.58. (84-103)

SUMMER EMPLOYMENT at Camp Lincoln/Camp Lake Hubert—Minnesota resident summer camps. A strong commitment to working with children required, along with activity skills and teaching experience. Specific job information and applications are available at Career Placement Office—Holtz Hall. Sign up, in advance, for personal interviews to be held on campus, Tuesday, February 4th, and Wednesday, February 5th, 1986. (84-90)

COMPUTER OPERATOR

— We are seeking a qualified computer operator to work part-time as needed during peak periods, which may also include some weekends and some holidays. Scheduled hours will vary per week, depending upon work load and availability. IBM 4341, DOS/VSE experience required. Starting wage — $6.80 per hour plus shift differential if applicable. Applicants are requested to contact the employment office, The McCall Pattern Co., 615 McCall Road, Manhattan, KS 66502. We are an equal opportunity employer. M/F

REWARDING SUMMER for sophomore and older college students in Colorado mountains working with children. Backpacking, horseback riding, crafts, wildlife, and many outdoor programs. Write now, include program interests and goals. Sanborn Western Camps, Florissant, CO, 80816. (84-88)

EXPERIENCED SHOE salesperson to work commission contract. Send resume to Lady Foot Shoes, 221 Poyntz. (85-88)

THE ACADEMIC Outreach Section of the Division of Continuing Education will be interviewing persons for a position supporting Off-Campus Coordinators. The individual should possess typing, proofreading, organizational and mathematical skills, as well as the ability to prioritize, work under deadlines, and with limited supervision. Write now, include program interests and goals. Sanborn Western Camps, Florissant, CO, 80816. (84-88)

LEAD/RHYTHM Guitarist. No want-to-be's please! We are ready to work. Jon, 539-9564. (87-88)

LOOKING FOR responsible, motivated part-time help, 15 hours per week, to work on campus. Must have own transportation. Call 537-9188. (88-89)

CYTOLOGY PREP Technician for histology laboratory. Full-time position, experience preferred. Will train a qualified person. Send resume to Peterson Clinical Laboratory, P.O. Box 128, Manhattan, KS, 66502. Equal Opportunity Employer. (88-93)

FARM HELP wanted. Call 539-6317. (88)

NOTICES 15

RENTAL COSTUMES—Over 1,000 to choose from plus much more. Marie's Costumes, 17th and Humboldt. 539-5200. Parking in the rear. (76-88)

PERSONAL 16

JANET—WANTED to wish you a very Happy 21st (see I kept my New Year's resolution). Thanks for being such a good friend. Love, Me. (88)

DDD MARIMELI, Soon my baby pledge daughter you will no longer be, for a Tri Delt active we will see! Congratulations! Love, Mom. (88)

THE AXE, Alpha Chi Epsilon, has been sharpened and is swinging downward, chop, chop. (88)

DDD DEB Brandt—The time has finally come and soon you will see, what it means to be active in DDD. ILY, Mom. (88)

DDD PLEDGES—We know you're all as excited as we are for Friday night! Pack up your sleeping bags and p's and get ready for a fun filled evening of learning and laughs. We all love each and everyone of you. Love, the Actives. (88)

DDD DEB Brandt—The time has finally come and soon you will see, what it means to be active in DDD. ILY, Mom. (88)

TUMPS—PUT on your hat and get ready for fun, it's time to party in room #1. From Poodie, Chel and Angie because we think you're a ham, have decided to surprise you so be ready to jam! Love, your roomies. (88)

JANA, KEEP smilin', keep shinin', knowing you can always count on me, for sure. That's what friends are for! Congratulations on Initiation! ILY! Your roomie, Angie. (88)

STELLA—LEGAL at last! Now we can party! Happy B-day! (88)

KU CI—The past two weeks haven't been easy, and it's going to be an even harder weekend. Glad you could come pm. Love always, D.O. (88)

THETA PLEDGES—Guided by the Kite and Twin Stars, you've worked toward tonight and you have come far. We're so proud of you! Love, the Actives. (88)

ROOMMATE WANTED 17

MALE ROOMMATE needed for next semester. Two blocks east of campus, second floor of duplex. Private bedroom, laundry facilities, $130/month plus utilities. Call Willie, 537-3695. (87f)

ROOMMATE WANTED: Furnished two bedroom, laundry, dishwasher. Two blocks to campus. $160 plus one-half electric. Call Scott, 776-6907. 350 N. 16th. #12. (84-88)

FEMALE ROOMMATE to share two bedroom apartment. Two and one-half blocks from campus. Call 537-4021. (84-88)

MALE ROOMMATE to share house, one-half block from campus. All facilities, only $133 plus shared utility costs. 1843 Hunting, 776-7355. (85-89)

WANTED—FEMALE roommate to share house, prefer graduate or older student. Five blocks from campus. Call 776-7541 weekend or evenings. Keep trying. (86-89)

RESPONSIBLE NON-SMOKING female roommate wanted. Own room, $125 plus one-third utilities. Call 537-1886 or ask for Olga at 532-5123. (88-93)

SERVICES 18

MARY KAY Cosmetics—Skin care—glamour products. Free facial call Floris Taylor, 539-2070. Handicapped accessible. (76-95)

PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free pregnancy test. Confidential. Call 537-9180. 103 S. Fourth St., Suite 25. (11f)

MANHATTAN CAMERA repairs cameras and equipment. 228 Poyntz, 776-4240. (41f)

WORD PROCESSING by computer, professional quality, letter-quality printer (not dot-matrix), disk storage. 776-6166. (131f)

LETTER QUALITY word processing on computer or typewriter. Call Bertha at 532-5950 or 776-3337. (76-88)

Typing/Editing, letter quality word processor; professional resumes, cover letters, personalized form letters; disk storage. 539-5007. (76-113)

PROFESSIONALLY WRITTEN resumes, word processed cover letters, and typing. Resume Service, 1221 Moro Place, 537-7294. (72f)

MRS. KIM—Professional dressmaker and tailor. Alterations. 27 years experience. No pattern necessary. 537-2393. (82-111)

STUDENT SPECIALS—Perms $15, cuts $5, at Artistic Hair, 415 N. 3rd St. Call 537-8169. Walk-ins welcome. (84-88)

STOP PAYING $28 hour for VW repairs. Let the Bug Doctor at J & L Auto Service repair yours and save $8 per hour! Only seven minutes each. Hiway 24. Bugs, Rabbits, Ghia's, type 3's included. 1-494-2388. St. George. (85-105)

PROFESSIONAL TYPING—Dissertations, reports, papers, resumes, cover letters. Call 539-2411. (85-89)

TUTORS WANTED: Friendship Tutoring has 33 more children that need tutors; 1st and 2nd grade, ten tutors needed; 3rd and 4th grade, two tutors needed; 5th and 6th grade, sixteen tutors needed; 7th-12th grade, five tutors needed. If you love kids and have Thursday nights from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. open, why not give Friendship Tutoring a call? Our kids need you! Call Tom Reis at 776-6566 or 532-6984. (85-88)

DATA SHEETS to dissertations and everything in between. Letter quality Word Processing. Mrs. Burden, 539-1204. (86-90)

SITUATIONS WANTED 19

$10-$360 weekly/yr mailing circulars. No quotas. Sincerely interested rush self-addressed envelope: Success, P.O. Box 470CEG, Woodstock, IL 60098. (76-105)

WANTED TO BUY 22

WANTED: FOUR KSU-KU basketball tickets for Saturday game. Call Julie, 537-8527. (87-88)

NEED TWO KU tickets for this weekend. Call 537-1210 or 537-4244. (87-88)

TWO OR three tickets to the KSU-KU basketball game. Will buy or pay comparably for use of ticket. Call 537-8447 after 5 p.m. (87-88)

TWO-FOUR KSU-KU basketball tickets. Phone 776-8406. (87-88)

WELCOMES 23

WELCOME STUDENTS! First Christian Church, 115 Courthouse Plaza. Church School 9:45 a.m., Worship 8:30 and 11:00 a.m. Ministers: Ben Duerfeldt, 539-8685; Sue Amyx, 776-0025. Transportation to church—776-8790 after 9 a.m. (88)

CHURCH OF THE Nazarene, 1000 Fremont, Sunday School, 9:45 a.m.; Morning Worship, 10:50 a.m.; Evening Service, 6:00 p.m.; Prayer Service, Wednesday, 7:00 p.m. (88)

WELCOME TO the Church of Christ, 2510 Dickens, Sunday, 9:30 a.m., Bible classes; 10:30 a.m., Worship and Communion; 6:00 p.m., Evening Worship. Andy Miller, campus minister, 539-6581 or 537-0127. (88)

ST. LUKE'S Lutheran Church (Missouri Synod), Sunset and North Delaware welcomes students to services, 8:00 and 10:45 a.m. and Bible classes, 9:30 a.m. Fellowship, Sunday, 6:00 p.m. (88)

TRINITY PRESBYTERIAN—Worship Service 10:45 a.m., Sunday School 9:30 a.m. For rides to church call Howard Phillips, 537-8478 or the church office, 539-2921. (88)

WESTVIEW COMMUNITY Church, 3001 Fort Riley Blvd., invites you to worship with them Sunday at 10:30 a.m. for Morning Worship, and at 9:00 a.m. for the College Sunday School Class at the Ramada Inn-lower level. (88)

First Baptist Church

American Baptist

2121 Blue Hills Rd.

"The Church on the hill"

SUNDAY WORSHIP 10:55 a.m.

CHURCH SCHOOL 9:45 a.m.

NURSERY AVAILABLE

For free transportation within city limits, call Bell Taxi,

537-2080

Call for more information about our young adult fellowship

537-3385

Church Office.....539-8691

Pastor.....539-6494

Campus Minister.....539-3051

Preschool.....539-8811

WELCOME STUDENTS to the Manhattan Mennonite Fellowship. We meet at 9:30 a.m. for Sunday School and 10:45 a.m. for worship at the Ecumenical Christian Ministries building at 1021 Denison (the white building with the two red doors). (88)

WELCOME STUDENTS—First Presbyterian Church, 801 Leavenworth offers you Worship Services 8:30 and 11:00 a.m. each Sunday, 9:30 a.m. Sunday School offers college class, 5:30 p.m. each Tuesday. College Outreach Bible Study in the Union. Rev. Dr. Philip S. Gittings, III, Senior Minister. (88)

University requests satellite equipment

By DAN SMITH
Collegian Reporter

Satellite transmission equipment, for the extension of Division of Continuing Education programs across the state and beyond, may become a reality at K-State, said Charles Hein, director of communications.

In June 1985 the University took a proposal to the Board of Regents for a television production facility and a satellite uplink to enable the University to transmit public service courses throughout North America. The system would be administered by the Division of Cooperative Extension.

The regents discussed the possibility, but did not approve the proposal. They did authorize the University to seek $160,000 for television equipment from this session of the Kansas Legislature. Gov. John Carlin made the proposal, providing that the proposed 1 cent sales-tax increase is passed.

"The University is very anxious for the Legislature to pursue this satellite plan," Hein said.

If approved, Hein said the proposal will be a less expensive way for land-grant universities to deliver instant classes and extension information to the state's citizens.

The College of Veterinary Medicine, for example, could transmit live surgery via satellite around the nation to update students on their work. The system is also interactive, so students can ask questions and receive quick answers, Hein said.

"This system also works for students in many other different fields, which makes it a really remarkable system," he said.

Hein said he believes the satellite-communication system will be an asset to areas of the world needing teachers. The system could also provide radio and television students with jobs, giving them a chance to work with the system and gain experience.

"This system can also be made available to other colleges and universities, and to state agencies on a contract basis," Hein said.

Other Big Eight Conference schools that have satellite-communication systems are Oklahoma State University, Stillwater, and Iowa State University, Ames. Iowa State received its system last September.

Hein said the initial cost will be $4.8 million, funded over a four-year period. This will not include the cost of the building.

Hein does not know how much the building will cost at this point. He said he will not know until the final dimensions for the building are made.

"Satellite technology will change the way we live and work, and the way we will exchange information with one another in our daily lives," he said.

Hein compared the satellite system with the invention of the automobile, in the way it will change lives.

Staff/Brad Fanshier

Gary Kells, manager of the Manhattan Graves Truck Lines Inc. terminal, directs driver Buford Motley who drove a truck into a tree branch Thursday near Shellenberger Hall while making a left turn onto Mid-Campus Drive.

Branch snags truck's trailer; driver unhurt

By The Collegian Staff

Traffic was diverted from Mid-Campus Drive for about 35 minutes Thursday afternoon after a trailer from a tractor trailer truck was snagged in a low-hanging branch.

Sgt. Rick Howard of the KSU Police Department said the driver cut the corner too short while attempting to make a right turn on Mid-Campus Drive at 5:10 p.m. He said the driver was trying to avoid a car when the trailer hit the branch.

The driver of the truck, Buford E. Motley, 330 Laramie St., was not injured in the accident. The truck and trailer are owned by Graves Truck Lines Inc., 1112 Hayes Drive.

Motley and Gary Kells, terminal manager for the truck line, freed the truck from the branch at 5:45 p.m.

Police records had no damage estimate for the trailer. The tractor was not damaged.

Kells said it was "hard to say" what the damage estimate to the trailer would be.

Students plan memorial to honor dead

By NANCY CASE
Collegian Reporter

A memorial honoring deceased architecture students is currently under consideration by students within the College of Architecture and Design and University planning officials.

The memorial is intended to commemorate students who have died within the last five years while attending the University, said Melissa Helffrich, senior in landscape architecture and president of the student chapter of American Society of Landscape Architects.

"Obviously this is a concern of the people in the college right now, to see a memorial go up for the ones who have died," Helffrich said. "I don't think that 10 years down the line there is going to be the same kind of carry over. The emotion isn't going to be as strong."

Students within the college conducted a competition to see who could present the best design for the memorial, Helffrich said. Faculty members within the college chose designs for consideration for the memorial.

Students from all of the architecture departments submitted designs which they felt would be good ideas for memorials, she said. Of those en-

'Obviously this is a concern of the people in the college right now, to see a memorial go up for the ones who have died.'

Melissa Helffrich,
senior in landscape architecture

tries, three designs were chosen. The three students whose designs were selected, all of whom are from the landscape architecture department, were then put on a memorial committee.

The committee discussed putting the memorial in the triangle by Seaton Hall. At that time it was going to be some trees and a seating arrangement, Helffrich said.

At first the memorial was going to be for one former student, but it was decided by students involved with the memorial to make it one which would honor several students who had died recently, Helffrich said.

That idea was then presented to Lawrence Garvin, University architect and director of the facilities planning office. At that time, he seemed receptive to it "although not much has really been done about it," Helffrich said.

Mark Maurer, senior in landscape architecture, said he wants to see the memorial established because "I think it's something the University can use."

Maurer said he hopes something will be started on the memorial in the next few months.

That way the students who knew the people who have died "can enjoy it a little bit, if that is possible," Maurer said. "But God only knows what will happen."

The money for such a memorial, Helffrich said, would come from some of the families of the students who have died, possibly from the college, the professional student chapters within the departments and from the Seaton Court Redevelopment Committee, which is interested in incorporating a memorial in the Seaton Court area.

Garvin said before the memorial can get started he would prefer to see some sort of program statement of what this memorial should be or what it should accomplish.

"What's come to me so far have been less than thought-through ideas, and no specific proposal has come to me," Garvin said.

Garvin suggested the students consider how they would prefer to set up the memorial and then go from there.

"I'm not going to co-opt the process. I want it to be a student memorial, so I want it to begin as a student process," he said.

"My only imposition is in making it as meaningful a statement as I know how," Garvin said.

Garvin said he hopes the "people who participate understand that whatever is decided is going to be a permanent part of the life of this campus and it warrants that kind of attention."

It has also been suggested within the last week that the memorial should be an all-University one. Because this idea is so recent, Garvin said it will have to be considered by the students on the committee before it can be pursued further.

Telephone company to offer repair service for customers

By The Collegian Staff

Customers of Southwestern Bell Telephone are being offered a new, optional telephone-repair service for interior components.

The program, Optional Home Maintenance Service/Optional Maintenance Service, scheduled to go into effect March 1, is for one-line residence and business customers only.

The optional program is designed to help customers who are seeking assistance for telephone service problems, but who are unsure as to current services for telephone systems repair.

The charge of 90 cents per month covers repair and parts for inside wiring and telephone jacks.

"We're (Southwestern Bell) responsible for the lines up to the customer's residence," said Marcie Welch, local manager of community relations for Southwestern Bell. "(The new optional service) takes over from the outside box."

Welch said if customers have problems with their phone wiring or jacks, but are not participants in the OHMS service, the company charges $32 for the first 15-minutes a Southwestern Bell technician is on the job. Each additional 15-minute segment costs the customer $16.

TONIGHT

Boockers Two

"The Spread"
7 kinds of Hors d'oeuvres
BEER-99¢
Ramada Inn
4-7 p.m.

Kansas State University

A CAREERS SEMINAR

"Landing and Keeping Your First Job"

Finance, Marketing, Journalism, Advertising. Top business executives will be speaking about and leading BREAK-OUT Sessions on career opportunities in Agri-marketing and related disciplines.

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 4, 1986

2:30-3:30 "Landing and Keeping Your First Job"
3:30 and 4:30 Concurrent Break-out Sessions addressing each career area

Attend one or all.

Big Eight Room, K-State Union

NATIONAL AGRI-MARKETING ASSOCIATION

COME IN AND TRY

PIÑATA RESTAURANTE!

Piñata Restaurante

1¢ TACOS

WHEN YOU BUY 1 AT REGULAR PRICE, YOUR SECOND IS ONLY 1 CENT

Offer good through 2-9-86 only at
Piñata Restaurante, 1219 Bluemont, in Aggieville 539-3166

Mall Moving Sale

Incredible Savings

Was NOW

- Gibson Challenger electric guitar $419 ~~$289~~
- Gibson Futura electric guitar $900 ~~$569~~
- Washburn Woodstock acoustic electric guitar (with case) $828 ~~$598~~
- 5 pc. Ludwig Rocker II $795 ~~$595~~
- 5 pc. TTS Remo $395 ~~$309~~
- Gibson Invader with Kahler Tremelo (with hardshell case) $659 ~~$539~~

Was NOW

$400 ~~$299~~

- Crate 212 Amp $600 ~~$399~~
- Fender Stage Lead 212 Amp $700 ~~$519~~
- Crate PA Speakers (pair) $639 ~~$539~~
- Fender Jazz Bass (with hardshell case)
- Classical Guitars starting from $69 (all classics on sale)

30% off DOD guitar effects
30% off all strings and drum sticks

Hayes House of Music

"We Will Not Be Undersold"

776-7983

223 Poyntz, Manhattan

Colorado Center provides location for homeless downtown businesses

By JEFF STARK
Collegian Reporter

Businesses displaced by the proposed Town Center Mall have found a new home in the Colorado Center in downtown Manhattan.

With Chris Curtin and Ron Bowman, forming the partnership of Bowman/Curtin Enterprises, the center was developed after the city sent out requests for a relocation facility.

The structure, located on the south side of the 300 block of Colorado Street, makes it possible for downtown businesses affected by construction of the proposed Town Center Mall to remain in the neighborhood.

"When the city solicited requests for a developer we were the only ones who responded," Curtin said. "We did it based on the importance of the overall importance of the project and the tremendous financial impact."

Curtin said the idea was to "build it condominium style to lower the cost for people wanting to buy."

Currently, the Center has three occupants and has room for as many as five more depending on the size of the business. The building was originally designed for ten units, but was altered to allow one tenant to purchase additional floor space.

Curtin said as soon as all the present space is sold, construction of a second structure could begin on the north side of the same block.

"We have an agreement with the city that if we can pre-lease at least half of the proposed structure we can go ahead with it. The difference between the north and the south side is we wanted to be able to offer space people would want to own on the south side. We plan to lease the north," Curtin said.

Ray and Marie Navarro, owners of Cary Co., a janitorial products retailer, relocated to the Center in early January.

"Although we feel we should have received more money for relocation assistance from the city, we feel kind of lucky in only being three blocks away from our previous location," Ray said. "Plus the parking situation is much better."

But the Navarros decided to keep their case out of court and accept the city's offer.

"With the cost of an attorney, plus the risk of not gaining anything, I am satisfied we left well enough alone," he said.

Dave McManis, owner of McManis Typesetting and Art Craft Printers, was forced to relocate or go out of business because of the mall project, resulting in his businesses relocating in mid-December.

The Art Craft Printers and McManis Typesetting buildings, previously located at 222 and 227 Poyntz Ave. respectively, didn't bring as much money as McManis thought they would. Otherwise, he said, he doesn't have much to complain about.

"Business has been surprisingly good," McManis said. "We haven't seen any slack at all.

"The sign we put in the old window has brought in business from people that very seldom came in and weren't aware of us moving," McManis said.

Art Craft Printers is now located at 401 S. Fourth St., and McManis Typesetting at 345 Colorado St.

Williams Appliance Sales and Service, another business forced to relocate for the mall project, has also relocated to Colorado Center.

Ellis Simon, a partner in ownership with Stu and Jane Williams, said he is satisfied with the new facility.

"This place has bigger doors, parking front and back and a nice glass showfront," Simon said.

Previously located at 224 Poyntz Ave. and previously owned by Phillip Williams, Stu Williams' uncle, Williams Appliance Sales and Service is now located at 339 Colorado St.

In Colorado Center since mid-December, Simon said he hasn't seen any noticeable increase in business — but on the other hand, hasn't seen it slack off either.

Although the moving wasn't fun or easy, the three displaced downtown business owners all said they were satisfied and off to a good start.

House considers loan rules

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA — The Kansas Legislature could help ease the farm credit crisis through legislation that would overturn a state treasurer's ruling that prohibits banks from offering agriculture loan securities as collateral for state government deposits, a farm credit official said Thursday.

Ron Wilson, vice president of Farm Credit Services of Wichita, told the House Agriculture Committee that farm credit securities, used to back many agricultural loans, for years were accepted as reserve collateral to safeguard the state idle fund deposits.

However, Wilson said the practice ended after the ruling by State Treasurer Joan Finney last year. He said that if banks are forbidden to use the FCS securities as collateral, demand for the securities drops until the system is forced to add incentives increase sales.

The additional incentives, or premiums, added to the yield of the securities results in higher loan costs for farmers, said Wilson, who devoted most of his time before the committee to discussion of changes in the troubled Farm Credit System.

Farm Credit Services, formerly known as the Wichita Farm Credit District, is one of 12 Farm Credit System districts. The Farm Credit System is the largest single agricultural lender in the country and provides nearly one-third of all farm loans, he said.

Wilson said his organization is providing Kansas farmers $1.8 billion in long-term Federal Land Bank loans and $193 million in short-term Production Credit Association loans.

"The new name reflects our commitment to serving agriculture, as well as the fact that a newly structured credit system is in place," Wilson said. "This reorganization is the result of a proposed restructuring plan, which our district board of directors recommended and stockholders in selected associations voted to approve last year."

BEGINNING COUNTRY SWING

DANCE CLASSES

- Mon. 7-8:30
- Tues. 7-8:30

Limited space available so sign up at the Rockin' K today. Four week course begins week of Feb. 3 for $12 per person; $20 per couple.

ROCKIN' K BAR

712 N. Manhattan • 539-9033

STEPPIN' OUT WEEKENDS

FRIDAYS

- TGIF
- Celebrity Bartender
- Reservations Accepted
- Live Piano Bar

SATURDAY

- Open for Lunch in HP's
- Prime Rib Special

SUNDAY

- Sunday Buffet Only $5.25
- 11-1:30

comprehensive health associates

- free pregnancy tests
- abortion services/counseling
- gynecology
- contraception

Overland Park, KS / 913-345-1400

T.G.I.F.

Meet your friends for free hors d'oeuvres. Old time rock and roll from 5-7.

No ticket?

Watch the KU-K-State game here! Open at noon.

FIGHT WINTER

WITH THE HEAT

Join Us For A Free TGIF Band Set & Free Sandwich Bar

Dating?

Tired of going to the single's bars to meet new faces? Then try Fantasy Computer Dating Service. For more information, send $1 and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to: Pat Ferguson, Redbud Estates Lot 335, Manhattan, KS 66502

- Alpha Delta Pi Guest D.J.
- Free Kurly K's With Pitcher

The Little American Royal is coming up April 5, 1986 AND SIGN-UP begins Wed., Feb. 5

When?

Where?

What's This?

Why?

Wed.-Thurs.-Fri. 9:30-3:30

In front of Weber 107

Call Hall lobby and K-State Union

The Little American Royal is a livestock fitting and showing contest open to any K-State student. Students participating will have the opportunity to train and prepare an animal (sheep, beef, swine, dairy or horses) for the show. Instruction will be available for beginners.

Chance for fun—to learn—to meet people—enjoy an animal.

Entry Fee: $4.50

WINTER SALE

Record and Tape Sale $1.98 and up

- *Decorative Calendars 50% Off
- *Sweatshirts 50% Off
- *Sweatpants 50% Off
- *Sweatshirt and Pant Sets 50% Off
- *K-State T-Shirts 40% Off
- *Selected Stock

Thursday, Jan. 30th thru Sat., February 1st

9-9 Mon.-Sat.

12-5 Sunday

Only $19.95

STEP AHEAD IN WILDCAT STYLE

Kansas State Wildcat shoes made available directly to you by the same manufacturers of such name brands as Reebok, Nike, Puma and Adidas.*

COMPLIMENTARY SALE

$19.95

each pair

(originally $45.95 each pair)

OUR GUARANTEE: If you can find another pair of shoes of similar quality and style for a better price, we will give you a pair of ours free.

Place: University Ramada Inn

Time: Friday, Jan. 31
8 a.m. to 5 p.m.
Saturday, Feb. 1
8 a.m. to 7 p.m.

*KU and other universities, also available

Poll shows languages important to society

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK — In today's international society, it is vital for American children to learn a second language, according to a majority of Americans in a Media General-Associated Press poll.

In fact, languages were deemed so important that most Americans believe instruction should be offered in elementary school.

Fifty-seven percent of the 1,462 adults who participated in the nationwide telephone survey said it was "very important" for English-speaking children to learn another language, while 29 percent said it was "somewhat important" and 11 percent said it was not important at all. The rest were unsure.

The respondents were less sure when asked about the success of bilingual education, that is, teaching children most courses in their native language rather than in English.

Non-English-speaking children are usually taught basic subjects like math and social studies in their own language while they tackle English in a separate class.

Forty-two percent of the respondents believed this method was successful in teaching children English, while 24 percent said it was unsuccessful. However, 34 percent of the respondents didn't answer or didn't know, indicating a great deal of uncertainty.

When asked if this traditional method of bilingual education was successful in teaching children such basic subjects as math and social studies, the responses were about the same. Thirty-eight percent believed it was successful, 23 percent believed it was unsuccessful, and 39 percent were unsure.

When it comes to teaching English-speaking children a foreign language, 84 percent of the respondents said foreign language instruction should be available in elementary school. Of those, 24 percent said language instruction should be required and 60 percent said it should be optional.

Officials believe payment too high

City appeals district court's appraisals

By MELISSA BRUNE
Business/Government Writer

The city is appealing higher appraised values for six downtown businesses and properties being acquired for the Manhattan Town Center Mall.

City Attorney William Frost filed a motion Jan. 17 with the Riley County District Court appealing court appraisals of six businesses the city must acquire for the project.

The amount the city will pay the owners for property obtained for the mall project was readjusted by District Court-appointed appraisers earlier this month after the owners rejected the city's original offers.

The appeal requests that each case be heard separately by a jury trial. City authorities believe the amounts awarded to the owners are too high.

The city's appeal involves these properties on Poyntz Avenue: Richard's Auto Parts, Sherwin-Williams Co., Quality Motor Co., Midstate Mechanics and Big A Auto Parts. Also included is Jack's Body Shop, 111 Humboldt St.

Sherwin-Williams Co. and Big A Auto Parts are the only businesses still occupying space on these properties.

Jack's Body Shop and Richard's Auto Parts are owned by Robert Sager, Mary Jane Sager and Ralph Reitz. Robert Sager is the owner of the land housing Sherwin-Williams Co. Paul Bosch and Robert Sager are the owners of Big A Auto Parts, and Paul Bosch owns Quality Motor Co. and Midstate Mechanics.

On Jan. 17, the city also placed more than $1.2 million with the court to pay for the affected properties.

Robert Sager, a Manhattan dentist, filed a request for payment for his properties at the price set by the court. Assessments for properties Sager owns either individually or jointly total $990,000. Sager said he collected the last of the money he petitioned for Tuesday.

If the city wins the appeal, Frost said Sager can collect the money for his businesses, but he will be required to pay back the money, plus the difference in appraisal values. He would also have to pay 15 percent interest on the difference. If the city loses the appeal, it will be required to pay the higher court appraisal.

After Sager filed his petition for payment, he filed an appeal to be paid for court expenses incurred for jury trials requested by the city.

"The city is costing me to hire witnesses, hire an attorney...just to show these 12 people (the jury) that the three court-appointed appraisers were right. The city is forcing me to fight them," Sager said.

City commissioners, meanwhile, accepted court appraisals for four other downtown businesses and properties. Commissioners voted unanimously Jan. 21 to accept the higher values after the owners rejected the city's original appraisals.

On Monday, the city placed $431,500 with the court to pay for these businesses.

Lawrence and Mary Frances Buatte, owners of LAB Radio and TV, 118 N. Third St., are now to receive $65,000. They were originally offered $42,500 for their property.

Hayes House of Music, 223 Poyntz Ave., owned by James D. Hayes, has been reappraised at $47,000 after an original offer of $30,000. Newell's Barbershop, 219 Poyntz Ave., owned by Newell and Helen Vathauer, has been now valued at $35,000, up from the original offer of $22,500. Lee-Pierson Post 1786, Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States, 215 Humboldt St., has been valued at $284,000.

The owners of the above businesses said they have not decided if they will appeal the most recent offers. Hayes said even the new, higher figures were low compared to what the city is offering other businesses in the area.

Commissioners have accepted offers for the purchase of two other downtown properties. At last week's meeting, commissioners agreed to the contracts for the purchase of Bentley's and Mel's Tavern, on South Third Street. The property is owned by Sally Schuchman.

TGIF WITH US!

• Free Popcorn or Homemade Onion Rings with Pitcher! 2-6:00

• $2.75 Pitchers All Weekend!

KITES BAR AND GRILL

Fish 2 for $1.00
Zebra Danio
Blue Moon
Salt & Pepper Molly
Pearl Danio

Tarantulas
$16.98 & $20.98
20 Gallon Set Up
$59.98
Parakeets
$9.98

Prices good through 2-2-86
"Come see our new bicycle shop"

GREEN THUMB
Open Monday Thru Saturday 8 to 5:30 Sunday Noon to 5:30
1105 Waters 539-4751
"Across from ALCO"

4¢ COPIES

Till 9:30 p.m. Sun.-Fri.
Till 5 p.m. Sat.

Claffin Books, Mags, & Copies
Denison & Claffin
First Bank Center

BURGER KING

Open until 2 a.m. Friday & Saturday

Collegian 99¢ Double Hamburger with coupon only

Please present this coupon before ordering. Limit one coupon per customer. Not to be used with other coupons or offers. This offer expires 2/6/86. Good only at the Burger King restaurant, 3rd and Poyntz, downtown Manhattan, KS.

Burger King—Reg. U.S. Pat. & TM Off. 1982 Burger King Corporation

TONITE, TAKE IN OUR DOUBLE FEATURE.

Just give us a call. In 30 minutes or less, we'll deliver two, delicious 12" or 16" pizzas for one special price. We call them Domino's Pizza® Doubles. And they're custom-made with the toppings of your choice.

Come on, take in Domino's Pizza® Doubles Tonight. You'll have twice the enjoyment.

Manhattan 539-0561
517 North 12th
OPEN FOR LUNCH!
Hours:
11 am - 1 am
Sun.-Thurs.
11 am - 2 am Fri. & Sat.

Free Extra Cheese!
Get FREE extra cheese on any large pizza!
Limited delivery area.
One offer per order.
Good only at listed locations.
Expires: May 15, 1986

DOMINO'S PIZZA DELIVERS FREE.

One call does it all!

McCain

Great Expectations
by CHARLES DICKENS

THE GUTHRIE THEATER
A Mid-America Arts Alliance Program

Saturday, February 8, 1986
8:00 p.m.
Box Office: (913) 532-6428

Charles Dickens' splendidly vivid characters come to life in this classic story of Pip, the orphan boy who grows up to be a gentleman of "great expectations."

This program is presented in part by the Kansas Arts Commission, a state agency, and the National Endowment for the Arts, a federal agency.

CBS RECORDING ARTISTS

the Elvis Brothers

Catch A Rising Star

The Elvis Brothers Adventure Time... latest proves that for themselves and their fans, 1985 is truly ADVENTURE TIME.

PICKS & PANS

THE ELVIS BROTHERS

APPEARING

MANNEQUINS

Raul's MEXICAN RESTAURANT
In Aggleville
1108 Laramie, on the Handi-Corner

BACK BY POPULAR DEMAND
THURSDAY NIGHT TACOS

TNT

50¢ Draws
75¢ Bottle Beer
$2.50 Pitchers

All corn tacos 55¢ or 2 for $1.00
Hours: Mon.-Thurs. 11 a.m.-9:30 p.m.
Fri. 11 a.m.-10 p.m.
Sat. 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Sun. 12-8 p.m.

MasterCard VISA

Staff photos/Brad Fanshier

Ron Jones, electronics technician for University Facilities, solders a connection on the electronic carillon bell system which produces the chimes heard every hour.

Anderson bell symbolizes heritage

By SHERI DIRKS
Collegian Reporter

It's written that its fine tone and "clear, loud peals" could be heard for five or six miles.

The Anderson Hall bell is older than all of the buildings on campus and serves as a part of University's rich heritage, said James C. Carey, former University historian and author of the book, "Kansas State University: The Quest for Identity."

Isaac T. Goodnow, solicitor for donations to Bluemont Central College, the University's original name, in 1861 persuaded Joseph Ingalls, a wealthy man from Swampscott, Mass., to donate the bell to the college. The donor's name was engraved on the bell.

"It was one of the biggest gifts to Bluemont College," said Homer Socolofsky, professor of history and University historian.

Ingalls' donation included the cost of the 513-pound bell, $175, and transportation for a total of $250. It was made by West Troy Bell Foundry in West Troy, N.Y.

The bell arrived by railway in Atchison, and from there continued by wagon to the college.

It has been relocated twice since its first installation in the Bluemont College building in 1861.

In 1875, the college was transferred to where the campus is now and the bell was relocated in the Farm Machinery Hall, which is currently Leasure Hall.

From that location the bell was moved in 1882 to the newly-built Anderson Hall.

The bell continued to ring at 7:45 and 7:55 a.m. and 12:45 and 12:55

The steeple of Anderson Hall is home of the modern chime system as well as the old Bluemont College bell.

p.m. to call students to the beginning of morning and afternoon classes. It also was rung on other occasions, such as commencement.

Carey said the bell was late in ringing once in 1905 because the clapper, the tongue of the bell, was taken during the night by a group of men who wanted it for a souvenir for their class. One of the men was Harry Umberger, who later became dean of the Division of College Extension from 1919 to 1947 and for whom Umberger Hall is named.

The Anderson bell no longer rings to assemble class, but Socolofsky said it occasionally rings on commencement and other occasions. According to Socolofsky, the last time it rang was May 1985 to commemorate the death of Milton Eisenhower, a former University president.

An electronic carillon bell system replaced the old bell in 1966. The Schulmerich Americana Bells system was donated by a Jefferson County farm couple, Mr. and Mrs. Ralf E. Hockens.

The system, when first purchased, consisted of "98 miniature bronze bell units. The bells are struck by small metal hammers, producing bell tones almost inaudible to the human ear," as described in a 1965 news release.

See BELLS, Page 12

Jones stands next to the original Bluemont College bell. The 513-pound bell was forged in 1861 and has been housed in Anderson Hall since 1882. Eight speakers, installed in 1966, now chime out the hour.

What can you do if you've had too much to drink but you need to get home after the game?

It's simple.

CALL A CAB

537-2080

and we'll even pick up the tab within the city limits of Manhattan.

DON'T DRIVE DRUNK

B.A.D.D.

Inside

Reunited

A student's search for her biological mother ends with a reunion in Kansas City. See Page 6.

Weather

Cloudy

Cloudy today with a 40 percent chance of showers and thunderstorms, high around 50. Mostly cloudy tonight.

Sports

KU De-claws 'Cats

The University of Kansas' big men were too much for the Wildcats to handle Saturday. See Page 8.

Kansas State

Collegian

Monday
February 3, 1986

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 92, Number 89

NASA says problems with shuttle will be found; June flight possible

By The Associated Press

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — NASA officials, increasingly confident they can identify the cause of Challenger's disaster and fly again soon, believe a rupture in the right rocket booster may have triggered the explosion that destroyed the shuttle and killed its crew.

NASA sources apparently feel so close to a solution to Tuesday's tragedy that they are talking about flying again as early as June if the testing and correction procedures are completed.

A flight that had been scheduled by the shuttle Columbia for June 24 appeared to be the earliest possible.

Search teams, fighting strong Atlantic currents, continued to bring in Challenger's spreading debris on Sunday, including a five-ton rocket fragment. The search area was extended to more than 40,000 square miles.

"We're finding a lot of empty ocean today," said Lt. Cmdr. James Simpson, a Coast Guard spokesman.

The apparent rupture in the strong rocket casing — whether at a seam or elsewhere — had the effect of pointing a torch at the side of Challenger's fuel tank. The theory is that the flame either burnt through the tank or a "destruct package," causing the explosion, or raised the tank pressure to intolerable limits with the same result.

This theory remained just that. NASA's acting administrator, William Graham, the only agency official speaking on the record, said Sunday that the agency still is looking for other causes for the explosion.

Photographs released by NASA show a tongue of flame apparently lashing upward from the exhaust of the right booster rocket into an area that films of previous launches showed to be clear of fire or flame. The flame appeared in the last 15 seconds of flight.

The flame was "somewhere in this vicinity," Graham said as he made the rounds of Sunday television talk shows.

He pointed to a "field joint" — the seam between the lowest segment of the right booster and the second segment. The name comes from the fact that the segments arrive here individually and are put together "in the field" — at the center.

"We haven't yet finished the analysis and measurements on film to identify the exact point at which the plume (of flame) appeared," Graham said on CBS' "Face the Nation." On NBC's "Meet the Press," he said "we haven't done the measurements yet to see whether it was at the seam or near the seam."

There has been published speculation, based on unidentified sources, that the finger of flame either burned through the fuel tank

See SHUTTLE, Page 11

Democrats should unite, lieutenant governor says

By TOM SCHULTES
Business/Government Editor

During a Saturday luncheon with members of the K-State Young Democrats Club, Lt. Gov. Tom Docking, D-Wichita, said he was seeking support for a gubernatorial bid, but declined to make a formal announcement.

"(I'm making) no formal announcement of the fact," he said, but added he would present his future plans "hopefully before Washington Day," the traditional "big day" for Democrats in Kansas.

Docking said he believes the state Democratic Party "stands in good stead at this point," noting the only other party member currently expressing interest in the race is Joan Finney, state treasurer.

Docking said it would be necessary for the state's Democrats to "put our act together... (to) pull ourselves together and do it right."

When asked who he thought his GOP opponent in the governor's race might be, providing he received the Democratic nomination, Docking said it wasn't possible to make any prediction, largely due to Attorney General Robert Stephan's withdrawal from the race.

Docking said for the next governor to be elected, the candidate must pull the state's residents together to end competition between the farm and city resident, and labor and management.

Docking said such competition is "not wise."

In reference to Gov. John Carlin's recent budget proposals, Docking, whose father and grandfather both served as

See DOCKING, Page 11

University names hall after dean

By TERESA TEMME
Collegian Reporter

About 150 people honored Donald M. Trotter, former dean of the College of Veterinary Medicine, at the dedication ceremony of Trotter Hall Friday.

"Dean Trotter made it (the veterinary medicine college) the institution it is today," said Steven D. Dudley, junior in veterinary medicine and president of the student chapter of the American Veterinary Medical Association, during the dedication ceremonies.

Trotter served as dean of the College of Veterinary Medicine from July 1971 to July 1984. The entire Veterinary Medicine Complex was funded and constructed during Trotter's tenure as dean. He served as the overall coordinator for the project.

The veterinary complex was constructed between 1972 and 1978 and houses the veterinary medical sciences, teaching and clinical science programs. The audio-visual resource center, administrative offices, lecture halls and laboratories for first-, second- and third-year veterinary medicine students and the library are located there as well.

President Duane Acker said Trotter is the appropriate name to symbolize those activities which will take place in Trotter Hall. Acker said Trotter was dedicated to the "professional student" and these students will spend much of their time in Trotter Hall.

Bill Roy, member of the Kansas Board of Regents, said the board is proud of Trotter's leadership and guidance. He added it is fitting for the building to bear the Trotter name because of Trotter's recognition as a leader by the faculty.

Dudley said Trotter provided the attitude and philosophy of the school, which is dedication to quality and excellence.

"Dedication is not an event; it is a process. Those of us as students are also dedicated — dedicated to becoming dedicated veterinarians," Dudley said.

See TROTTER, Page 11

Wildcat roar

Jeff Corder, freshman in chemical engineering, cheers for the Wildcats prior to their game Saturday against the University of Kansas. The cheers faded as K-State lost their fourth conference game in a row.

Staff/Andy Nelson

New construction underway at MCC; patron funds work

By TOM SCHULTES
Business/Government Editor

Under clear skies and moderate temperatures, groundbreaking ceremonies for a new administrative/classroom facility were held Saturday at Manhattan Christian College.

Throughout the ceremony, attended by more than 100 persons, speakers made references to the school's struggles during the past few months.

Gary Edwards, MCC vice president for development, who served as master of ceremonies, told those attending, "We are standing on ground committed to serving the Lord and his kingdom."

Edwards said the miracles for the school started in March when the school began a campaign for rezoning land to allow construction of a student service center.

The next miracle, he said, was when foreclosure by the Christian Church Extension Foundation, Denver, was halted by a $1.6 million fund-raising drive.

He said when the action was filed in Riley County District Court, he thought there was no way the school could raise the funds to stop the institution's closing.

"But it happened in less than 90 days," he said, displaying the issued building permit.

"It's been a long time coming," Edwards said.

The building, he said, would incur no new debt on the school because the two-story facility is funded by Bertha L. Coffin, Council Grove, the widow of J. Donald Coffin, a longtime supporter of the school.

Coffin, an attorney by trade, served as a developer and counselor for two family owned firms — the Council Grove Phone Co., founded by his father, and Coffin Insurance Agency, founded by his grandfather.

Donald was president of the telephone company and managed and owned the insurance agency from 1961 until his death in September 1978, the day before his 74th birthday. He had been appointed to the MCC Advisory Council that year, but died before he could attend his first council meeting.

During the ceremony, Bertha Coffin said the weather patterns during December were similar to the ups and downs of the school, with the first storm being the school's battle for rezoning for future developments, followed by clear skies.

But following those clear skies, she said, was the "great big black, dark, threatening storm (of the foreclosure action)."

"An awful lot of people had to be in tune with God's plan then," she said. "And here we are today...I'm just so excited that so many people were in tune with God's plan," she said, before turning over the first shovel of dirt.

The new facility will allow faculty and administrative offices to be in the same structure and will provide additional classrooms.

Edwards pointed out the need for new classrooms, citing the case of a portion of a classroom ceiling falling during a lecture earlier in the week. No injuries were suffered during the incident.

Others participating in the ceremony were Donn Leach, MCC vice president for academic affairs; student body representative Sheryl Kraft, senior in Christian Education; MCC Board of Trustees President Dean Burton; Manhattan Mayor Suzanne Lindamood; Empire Development Co. President Floyd Sack, Denver, whose company will construct the building; and Darel Boston, MCC board member.

MCC President Kenneth Cable was unable to attend due to illness.

Reminder

A reminder for all candidates in the upcoming Student Governing Association elections: Collegian information sheets are due by 6 p.m., Tuesday, Feb. 4 in Kedzie 116.

Reagan to propose $38 billion deficit reduction in budget

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The fiscal 1987 budget President Reagan will submit to Congress this week will propose $38 billion in deficit-reduction steps, far less than the staggering $50 billion to $60 billion previously expected, administration sources said.

He will propose roughly $30 billion in spending cuts and $8 billion in new revenues, partly from a plan to sell off federally owned assets, according to officials who spoke only on the condition of anonymity.

At the same time, the budget will call for defense spending in 1987 of $282 billion, an increase of slightly more than 6 percent above current levels, the sources said.

A new economic analysis, projecting a lower federal deficit for 1987 than believed even as recently as two weeks ago, is largely responsible for the scaling back of proposed cuts, the officials said.

In his radio address Saturday, Reagan said the budget will "propose to reform or eliminate programs and activities that are either too big or that shouldn't exist at all."

He said the budget will not reduce Social Security benefits or "essential programs to anyone who needs such assistance" and will maintain "modest growth to sustain the defense program set in motion five years ago."

The budget, to be submitted to Congress at 7:30 a.m. EST Wednesday, will still comply with the $144 billion deficit target in the new Gramm-

Rudman budget-balancing law for fiscal 1987, which begins on Oct. 1, the officials said.

Meanwhile, the president Saturday ordered the first round of Gramm-Rudman spending cuts, totaling $11.7 billion. The cuts of 4.3 percent for domestic programs and 4.9 percent for the military will take effect on March 1.

Under the Gramm-Rudman law, the president has no choice but to follow the cuts outlined in late January by Comptroller General

Charles Bowsher. The Justice Department has challenged the constitutionality of this delegation of authority in a case awaiting a decision by a three-judge federal court.

From fiscal 1987 on, automatic cuts will be made if Congress fails to reduce the deficit to targets specified by the Gramm-Rudman law, which would eliminate the deficit by 1991.

The president's Saturday order affects spending in fiscal 1986, while the budget he will send to Congress on Wednesday will address fiscal 1987 spending.

As recently as Jan. 22, Budget Director James C. Miller III testified before the Senate Budget Committee that the 1987 deficit would be $200 billion or more in 1987 if the government did no more than continue to provide the services it does now.

Since the Gramm-Rudman target for fiscal 1987 is a deficit of $144 billion, Miller and other budget officials testified that budget reductions totaling between $50 billion and $60 billion would be needed.

Briefly

INTERNATIONAL

Man throws firecracker at pope

NEW DELHI, India — Police arrested a man they said appeared "of unsound mind" after he tossed a noisy but harmless firecracker at the end of a Sunday Mass celebrated by Pope John Paul II.

The firecracker raised a plume of smoke about 40 yards from John Paul, who was leaving the indoor Indira Gandhi Stadium after saying Mass before about 25,000 people. It burned the carpet, but hurt no one.

Already tight security was increased for John Paul's 10-day tour of 14 cities, and police in the next city on the tour, Ranchi, rounded up around 100 people considered potential trouble makers.

Before the disturbance, John Paul applauded efforts by Christians and others to "relieve the burdens of misery" of India's millions of poor.

Vatican spokesman Joaquin Navarro said the pontiff heard the firecracker's loud bang but gave no sign of concern.

Police told The Associated Press the man, identified as Dominique Ouseph, was charged with mischief and violation of the explosive substances act.

Record numbers vote in election

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica — Costa Ricans turned out in record numbers to vote Sunday in a presidential election that many observers predicted would be a close race between two candidates, both considered moderates and pro-American.

Election day was a balmy day of flag-waving, horn-honking celebration for this tiny nation, Central America's oldest, most stable democracy.

The contest was viewed a toss-up between two of the six contenders, Oscar Arias, 45, and Rafael A. Calderon Jr., 37.

Arias, a London-trained economist, was the candidate of the governing National Liberation Party. Calderon, a lawyer and son of a former president, represented an opposition coalition known as the Social Christian Unity Party.

The other four presidential candidates were expected to share no more than 5 percent of the total vote, which officials said would exceed 1 million for the first time in Costa Rica's history.

REGIONAL

Authorities arrest shooting suspect

KANSAS CITY, Kan. — A 43-year-old Kansas man was being held Sunday in Wyandotte County Jail as a suspect in the death of a Bonner Springs policewoman, who was fatally shot in the head Friday with a high-powered rifle, authorities said.

Lt. Ron Miller of the Kansas City, Kan., police department said Sunday that the Bonner Springs man, who was picked up within an hour of the Friday night shooting, likely will be charged Monday in Wyandotte County District Court.

Miller would not say why the man was a suspect or explain the motive which led authorities to connect the man to the death of Officer Maureen Kelly Murphy, 28, who was shot while sitting in her patrol car writing a report.

Law enforcement officers recovered evidence in the case from two Wyandotte County residences after search warrants were served at the homes Friday night and Saturday, Miller said.

Officers determined that one large-caliber bullet fired from one or two blocks away shattered the window on the passenger's side of the patrol car. The bullet then struck Murphy in the right temple and exited through the driver's side window, Miller said.

An autopsy Saturday indicated that she was hit once, said Dr. Alan Hancock, Wyandotte County coroner. Officials said some bullet fragments were found in her head and in the car, but police were searching the ground near the car for the slug.

The shooting occurred at the intersection of Kansas 32 and Morse Street in Bonner Springs. The report Murphy was writing was not related to the shooting, Miller said.

NATIONAL

Meatpackers reject pleas for vote

AUSTIN, Minn. — Striking Hormel meatpackers rejected pleas that they vote a third time on a proposed settlement with the company, and Gov. Rudy Perpich considered Sunday whether to return National Guardsmen to the plant to protect people crossing picket lines.

"I don't know at what point you lose a labor dispute. I would certainly not be encouraged if I were a P-9 member," said Paul Goldberg, director of the state Bureau of Mediation Services.

Members of Local P-9 of the United Food and Commercial Workers Union, on strike against the Geo. A. Hormel & Co. for 5½ months, rejected a plea from Perpich and decided Saturday night against voting a third time on a federal mediator's proposal.

"It wasn't questioned by anyone, nor was it even close," P-9 President Jim Guyette said after the vote by about 900 union members. "We weighed the pros and cons. The pros, if there were any, were that the strike would be over. Personally, I didn't have any pros. Mine were all cons."

Perpich was expected to decide whether National Guard troops, stationed in Austin since Jan. 21 but moved to an armory last week, should return to the plant when it opens Monday, press aide Gerry Nelson said. The troops were sent to Austin after local authorities said they could not control the situation.

Mower County Sheriff Wayne Goodnature, who had said strikers "totally took over" outside the plant Saturday, said authorities discussed plant security Sunday.

"I'm optimistic that we're at a point (where) we've reached a high level of cooperation with everybody," Goodnature said. He said law enforcement officers from other parts of Minnesota had relieved exhausted sheriff's deputies and Austin police officers.

Union members met Saturday to discuss a report by neutral fact-finder Arnold Zack which attempted to clarify the mediator's proposal. Zack had recommended that the union vote on it again.

"I don't think this proposal addresses anything," Guyette said before the meeting. "I certainly could not agree that it would serve the needs of our members, but the rank-and-file determines what happens."

Radioactive waste spills from plant

BERWICK, Pa. — About 3,000 gallons of radioactive water leaked onto the floor of the Susquehanna nuclear power plant, but no workers were contaminated and the spill was confined to the turbine building, officials said.

Crews cleaned up about 500 square feet contaminated by the water, which spilled Saturday when a gasket on a vent line in a demineralizer at the Unit 1 reactor gave way, said Herbert D. Woodshick, a spokesman for the Pennsylvania Power & Light Co.

Demineralizers remove impurities from water that circulates in the reactors.

"No plant workers were contaminated, and there was no radioactive release from the building," Woodshick said. The faulty gasket was replaced, he said.

PEOPLE

Chess champion wins 26, loses 1

ALCOY, Spain — For world chess champion Garri Kasparov, you win some, you lose one.

Playing 32 boards simultaneously Saturday night, the Soviet champion won 26 games, drew five and lost one.

The defeat came at the hands of a local youth, Chimo Corbi, in games played at the City Hall of this town in eastern Spain before an estimated 2,000 fans.

Nevertheless, Kasparov received a trophy for the best sportsman of the world in 1985. He was elected by the sports newspaper Mundo Deportivo in Barcelona Friday night.

Campus Bulletin

ANNOUNCEMENTS

MORTAR BOARD applications are available in the Union Activities Office and are due Wednesday.

SORORITY OPEN RUSH will be from Feb. 10 through Feb. 24. There will be an informational table in the Union today. Registration forms are available in Holton 203 and are due by 5 p.m. Wednesday.

BLUE KEY applications are available in Anderson 122 and are due by 5 p.m. Friday.

CAREER PLANNING AND PLACEMENT offers computerized career planning assistance. See the receptionist in Holtz Hall for a SIGI appointment.

TODAY

ALPHA PHI OMEGA meets at 7 p.m. in Union 207.

ECONOMICS CLUB meets at 4:30 p.m. in Waters 329.

COLLEGIATE FFA meets at 9 p.m. in Waters 137.

AMERICAN SOCIETY OF INTERIOR DESIGN meets at 6:30 p.m. in Justin 115.

ALPHA KAPPA PSI: Pledges meet at 6 p.m. in Union 206. Professionals meet at 8 p.m. in the Union Big Eight Room.

FARMHOUSE LITTLE SISTERS meet at 9 p.m. at the FarmHouse fraternity. Pictures will be taken at 9:15 p.m.

FINANCIAL MANAGEMENT ASSOCIATION meets at 7 p.m. in the Union Stateroom.

LITTLE SISTERS OF ATHENA meet at 8:30 p.m. at the Alpha Kappa Lambda house.

HUMAN ECOLOGY COUNCIL meets at 5 p.m. in Justin 254.

CLOTHING RETAIL INTEREST GROUP meets at 6:30 p.m. in Justin 326.

TAU BETA SIGMA meets at 7 p.m. in McCain 135.

PEACE CORPS will have a film seminar at 6:30 p.m. in Union 203.

HORTICULTURE THERAPY CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in Waters 18.

ENTREPRENEURS meet at 6 p.m. in Calvin 102.

DATA PROCESSING MANAGEMENT ASSOCIATION meets at 7:30 p.m. in Union 206.

Looking Back

20 Years Ago — 1966

Three former Kansans, all K-State alumni, have recently been promoted to important positions within the Soil Conservation Service. Howard Hughes, a 1941 graduate, has been named assistant state conservationist of Iowa. Hurshal Boyd, a 1948 graduate, was selected as assistant state conservationist of Pennsylvania. Vern Bathurst, a 1949 graduate, was appointed state conservationist of Michigan.

15 Years Ago — 1971

Student disinterest has resulted in cancellation of the Favorite Man On Campus contest. Living groups generally consider FMOC an even bigger farce than Homecoming, said Marsha Wood, FMOC chairwoman.

City Commissioners approved the first reading of an ordinance to limit the closeness of taverns, but delayed action on a proposal to ban beverages in non-returnable containers until further discussion at their next meeting.

10 Years Ago — 1976

K-State is being caught up in a national trend of solar energy research and education. The Center for Energy Studies has hired an expert in the solar energy field and the College of Engineering is offering its first course in solar energy this semester.

5 Years Ago — 1981

Barry Blechmen, speaker at the All-University Convocation, said the temptation to turn to nuclear threats as a part of U.S. foreign policy could have horrible consequences.

A compensation package for faculty and student employees at state universities is the "highest priority" of the Board of Regents, the Senate and House Ways and Means Committees were told. The package would bring student wages up to minimum wage, raise faculty salaries 10 percent and increase the state contribution to faculty retirement by 2 percent.

Compiled from the University Archives

COUPON OFFER

With this coupon
1/2 Price Haircuts
for Men and Women
Feb. 3 - March 3

10 a.m. appointments

512 Poyntz Beauty College 776-4794

Services performed by students only

Alpha Phi Omega

National Co-ed Service Fraternity

Final Open Meeting Tonight

Union Room #207

7 p.m.

Come check us out.

HUNAM Restaurant FREE DELIVERY HUNAM EXPRESS

11 a.m.-1 a.m.

1304 Westloop 539-8888 1116 Moro

(10% Off w/KSU ID) 537-0886 (Egg Roll & Fried Rice 99¢)

ATTENTION ASSOCIATION of COLLEGIATE ENTREPRENEURS

Greg Smith

would like to be your president.

- Nine years experience
- Committed to the job.

comprehensive health associates

- free pregnancy tests
- abortion services/counseling
- gynecology
- contraception

Overland Park, KS / 913-345-1400

Only a Chiropractor can tell you if chiropractic will help.

Dr. Mark Hatesohl
Chiropractor
537-8305
1500 Poyntz Avenue

This is a shrimp

You can gobble them up all you want for just a buck/dz TONIGHT.

Bockers two

4-7 p.m.
Best Happy Hours in Town

Dairy Queen

Royal Treat Weekly Specials
Mon. Thru Fri.
THIS WEEK
DOUBLE DELIGHT 99¢

12th and Moro in Aggieville 1015 N. 3rd Manhattan

"LET'S ALL GO TO THE DAIRY QUEEN"

Serving U.S. Pat. Off. Am. & Q. Corp. Copyright 1974, Am. D.Q. Corp.

For used and scarce books, it's...

The Dusty Bookshelf

612 N. 12th St. (in Aggieville)

- Search Service • 1/2 Price Paperbacks •
- Hardbacks • National Geographics •

We BUY and TRADE

Hours: Monday-Saturday, 10 a.m.-5:30 p.m.
539-2839

Presenting...

TOM DAVIS

*Senior Vice President
*Federal Reserve Bank
of Kansas City

"Monetary Policy—Prospects For 1986"

Tues, Feb. 4th
11 a.m.-12 noon
Union Catskeller
Sponsored by: Economics Club

CASHMAN

for k-state

Experience.

Paid for by K-Staters for Cashman

NASA head says shuttle design sound

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The head of the nation's space agency described the shuttle Sunday as "fundamentally sound" and said NASA planners "don't believe it will take a very long time" before the cause of the Challenger disaster is found and flights can resume.

Sources at Kennedy Space Center said it would be June, at the earliest, before NASA could launch another shuttle.

William R. Graham, acting director of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, appeared Sunday on each of the major television networks. He told interviewers NASA is not yet certain how to interpret photographs that show a plume of flame on Challenger's right rocket booster "grow and grow...until it reaches the explosion point."

NASA sources, who insisted on anonymity, say the flame was the probable trigger to the explosion that destroyed Challenger and its crew.

Sen. John Glenn, one of original seven NASA astronauts, said "it looks like it could have caused a big problem," but that it was too soon to speculate as to whether the booster flame ignited Tuesday's explosion.

He told one interviewer it was important to look ahead.

"Once in a while we make a mistake, but that does not mean the quest stops," Glenn told the Cleveland Plain Dealer. "If it dies, we as a nation start to die. So, correct the difficulties and throttle up."

He said of the five-man, two-woman Challenger crew, "They gave it all up there. We cannot let it be in vain." Glenn added: "I'd like to go again, myself. I have already told them if they do the first geriatric study, I'd be available."

Graham — interviewed on CBS' "Face the Nation," ABC's "This Week with David Brinkley" and NBC's "Meet the Press" — was asked when the shuttle program might resume.

"There's no way to say what time we can go forward," he said on NBC. "But I can give you one statement on that."

"That is, this is a fundamentally sound system. It's gone through 24 successful flights. There was obviously an accident. There's a problem there. But the overall configuration and design we believe to be fundamentally sound and we believe it won't take a very long time to get this problem corrected."

Sources close to the shuttle program said the next flight could come as early as June if NASA can quickly pinpoint the problem and correct it. They note the shuttle had flown successfully 24 times before the explosion and that what happened likely was not a design flaw.

The shuttle Columbia had been scheduled to fly June 24, carrying three communications satellites — for Western Union and the governments of Indonesia and Great Britain.

Official condemns Soviet proposal

By The Associated Press

DAVOS, Switzerland — A U.S. Defense Department official said Sunday a Soviet call for America to scrap its "Star Wars" plan in tribute to the seven astronauts killed on the space shuttle Challenger "reeks of insensitivity and hypocrisy."

"It is crude, it is in sharp contrast to the first expressions" of (sympathy) by Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev, said Richard Perle, assistant secretary of defense in an interview with The Associated Press.

"To attempt to exploit this tragedy for political purposes is the sort of Soviet propaganda we've become accustomed to and were hoping would subside after the summit," he said. He referred to the November summit meeting between Gorbachev and President Reagan.

The Soviet Communist Party daily Pravda said in a commentary Sunday the United States should scrap its Strategic Defense Initiative (SDI), known as the "Star Wars" project, "as the best tribute to the memory of those killed in the Challenger catastrophe" last Tuesday.

It said "the drama has made the Americans think again about the 'Star Wars' program" for a space-based missile defense system.

Perle said the shuttle mission had "nothing to do with SDI" and repeated U.S. charges that the Soviets are working on their own "Star Wars" program and are not in a position to criticize U.S. research.

The SDI program has been a major obstacle in the U.S.-Soviet arms talks that began last March in Geneva and are in their fourth round.

The Soviets have said the United States will have to scrap the program before agreement can be reached on long-range and intermediate-range nuclear missiles.

But the United States has insisted the program will make the world more secure.

Get Personal
in Collegian
Classifieds

MANHATTAN
SHOE REPAIR

25% OFF
RUBBER OVERSHOES IN STOCK
DURING THE MONTH OF
FEBRUARY

Open daily 8-5:30, Saturday 8-4
Open Thursdays to 8
Drive-Up Convenience

Capitol
Airlines

KSU SPRING FLING!

Present your KSU student, faculty or staff ID to our ticket counter or to your travel agent and receive a 15% discount on Capitol Airline fares for travel between the dates of March 7, 1986 & March 17, 1986.

"CAPITOLIZE"
on your Spring Break Travel!

Reservations: 539-7623 or your travel agent

$2.25
Pitchers

Tuesday
Coors Classic
Rock Night
details tomorrow

Surprise Someone You Love

with a bunch of balloons,
a valentine card and a box of Price's Fine Chocolates

The Palace
CARDS ♦ GIFTS

704 N. Manhattan Ave. Mon.-Sat. 8:30-5:30
In Aggieville Thursday 8:30-8:30

The campus community is cordially invited to learn about a Biblical basis for achieving peace in a free lecture entitled:

God's Gentle Might

To be given by Marion Sheldon Pierpont, C.S.B. a member of The Christian Science Board of Lectureship on Thursday, February 6 at 4 p.m. in Danforth Chapel. All students, faculty, and staff are warmly invited to attend.

Sponsored by the Christian Science Organization at KSU

FEBRUARY REC REPORT

INTRAMURAL DEADLINE

Powerlifting: Friday, Feb. 7, 5 p.m.

Meet: Thursday, Feb. 13, 7 p.m.

Wrestling: Friday, Feb. 14, 5 p.m.

Meet: Thursday, Feb. 20, 7 p.m.

NUTRITIONAL COUNSELING

...A New Service!!

Come meet our nutritional counselors and learn from their presentation

"Diet & Exercise: The Winning Combination"
Thurs., Feb. 13, 7 p.m. at Umberger
Auditorium. Everyone is welcome!

AEROBIC EXERCISE

A new session has been added!

Tues. & Thurs. from 5:30-6:15 p.m.

The complete schedule is:

PETERS RECREATION COMPLEX

SUNRISE AEROBICS

Large Gym

MONDAY, WEDNESDAY, FRIDAY 6:30-7:15 p.m.

NOON HOUR AEROBICS

Large Gym

MONDAY, WEDNESDAY, FRIDAY Noon-12:45 p.m.

HAPPY HOUR AEROBICS

Small Gym

MONDAY 5:30-6:15 p.m.

TUESDAY 4:30-5:15 p.m.

WEDNESDAY 5:30-6:15 p.m.

THURSDAY 4:30-5:15 p.m.

5:30-6:15 p.m.

NATATORIUM AQUA FITNESS

6-lane pool

TUESDAY, THURSDAY 7:30-8:15 p.m.

COME JOIN THE FUN!

All sessions begin on Wednesday, Jan. 15. No registration is required—come anytime!! There is no additional charge for the aerobic sessions, but a current KSU student ID or rec services facility card is required.

Sunday

Monday

Tuesday

Wednesday

Thursday

Friday

Saturday

CODES

RC Rec Complex
P Pools
A Aerobics
ADF Aqua Fitness
ORC Outdoor Rental Center

PHONE NUMBERS

Rec Check..... 532-6000
Intramural Hotline..... 532-6292
Rec Complex: Equipment/Courts
532-6951
Rec Services..... 532-6980

REVISED

2
RC Noon-Midnight
P 1-5 pm
7-10 pm

3
RC 6 am-Midnight
P 6-7:30 am
11:30 am-1:30 pm
7:30-10 pm
A 6:30-7:15 am
Noon-12:45 pm
5:30-6:15 pm

4
RC 6 am-Midnight
P 6-7:30 am
11:30 am-1:30 pm
7:30-10 pm
A 4:30-5:15 pm
5:30-6:15 pm
ADF 7:30-8:15 pm

5
RC 6 am-Midnight
P 6-7:30 am
11:30 am-1:30 pm
7:30-10 pm
A 6:30-7:15 am
Noon-12:45 pm
5:30-6:15 pm

6
RC 6 am-Midnight
P 6-7:30 am
11:30 am-1:30 pm
7:30-10 pm
A 4:30-5:15 pm
5:30-6:15 pm
ADF 7:30-8:15 pm

7
RC 6 am-11 pm
P 6-7:30 am
11:30 am-3:30 pm
CLOSED*
A 6:30-7:15 am
Noon-12:15 pm
INTRAMURAL POWERLIFTING
DEADLINE 5 p.m.
*Kansas Invitational
in Pools

8
RC 9 am-10 pm
P Closed for bb game
7-10 pm
*Kansas Invitational
in Pools

9
RC Noon-Midnight
P 1-5 pm
7-10 pm

10
RC 6 am-Midnight
P 6-7:30 am
11:30 am-1:30 pm
7:30-10 pm
A 6:30-7:15 am
A Noon-12:45 PM
5:30-6:15 pm

11
RC 6 am-Midnight
P 6-7:30 am
11:30 am-1:30 pm
7:30-10 pm
A 4:30-5:15 pm
5:30-6:15 pm
ADF 7:30-8:15 pm

12
RC 6 am-Midnight
P 6-7:30 am
11:30 am-1:30 pm
7:30-10 pm
A 6:30-7:15 am
Noon-12:45 pm
5:30-6:15 pm

13
RC 6 am-Midnight
P 6-7:30 am
11:30 am-1:30 pm
7:30-10 pm
A 4:30-5:15 pm
5:30-6:15 pm
ADF 7:30-8:15 pm
7 pm Powerlifting Meet
7 pm Diet & Exercise

14
RC 6 am-11 pm
P 6-7:30 am
11:30 am-3:30 pm
7:30-10 pm
A 6:30-7:15 am
Noon-12:45 pm
INTRAMURAL WRESTLING
DEADLINE 5 pm

15
RC 9 am-10 pm
P 1-5 pm
7-10 pm

16
RC Noon-Midnight
P 1-5 pm
7-10 pm

17
RC 6 am-Midnight
P 6-7:30 am
11:30 am-1:30 pm
7:30-10 pm
A 6:30-7:15 am
Noon-12:45 pm
5:30-6:15 pm

18
RC 6 am-Midnight
P 6-7:30 am
11:30 am-1:30 pm
7:30-10 pm
A 4:30-5:15 pm
5:30-6:15 pm
ADF 7:30-8:15 pm

19
RC 6 am-Midnight
P 6-7:30 am
11:30-1:30 pm
Closed for bb game
A 6:30-7:15 am
Noon-12:45 pm
5:30-6:15 pm

20
RC 6 am-Midnight
P 6-7:30 am
11:30 am-1:30 pm
7:30-10 pm
A 4:30-5:15 pm
5:30-6:15 pm
ADF 7:30-8:15 pm
7 pm Wrestling Meet

21
RC 6 am-11 pm
P 6-7:30 am
11:30 am-3:30 pm
7:30-10 pm
A 6:30-7:15 am
Noon-12:45 pm

22
RC 9 am-10 pm
P 1-5 pm
7-10 pm

23
RC Noon-Midnight
P 1-5 pm
7-10 pm

24
RC 6 am-Midnight
P 6-7:30 am
11:30 am-1:30 pm
7:30-10 pm
A 6:30-7:15 am
Noon-12:45 pm
5:30-6:15 pm
LIFELINE POINTS DUE

25
RC 6 am-Midnight
P 6-7:30 am
11:30 am-1:30 pm
7:30-10 pm
A 4:30-5:15 pm
Noon-12:45 pm
ADF 7:30-8:15 pm
March Facility Use
Cards go on sale

26
RC 6 am-Midnight
P 6-7:30 am
11:30 am-1:30 pm
7:30-10 pm
A 6:30-7:15 am
Noon-12:45 pm
5:30-6:15 pm

27
RC 6 am-Midnight
P 6-7:30 am
11:30 am-1:30 pm
7:30-10 pm
A 4:30-5:15 pm
5:30-6:15 pm
ADF 7:30-8:15 pm

28
RC 6 am-11 pm
P 6-7:30 am
11:30 am-3:30 pm
7:30-10 pm
ORC 4-8 pm
A 6:30-7:15 am
Noon-12:45 pm
RUNNING CHALLENGE
DEADLINE

Rec Services office
532-6980

Rec Complex
(Court Reservation)
532-6951

Outdoor Rental Center
532-6894

Rec Check
532-6000

Intramural Hotline
532-6292

Agriculture secretary faces uphill challenge

President Reagan's nominee for secretary of agriculture, Richard E. Lyng, has solid credentials. He was California agriculture secretary for then Gov. Reagan from 1967-69 and was second in command at the USDA during Reagan's first term as president.

Congress also has expressed support for Lyng. There is a feeling Lyng might give farmers a stronger political voice because of his close ties with the president. However, congressional members from the Midwest should support the nomination of someone from this region for the No. 2 spot in the department.

Reagan and Lyng are from California and Lyng's successor in the deputy secretary post, David Norton, is a cotton and vegetable grower with farming interests that extend into California. Norton has indicated he would leave his job if the White House did not grant him an ethics waiver to permit his farm to participate in federal programs.

Regardless of what Norton does, Western farmers will be taken care of and Midwesterners should be concerned that their interests are represented as well.

Budget cuts must be made and agriculture is far from being a sacred cow. The new secretary will have to come up with plans that provide long-term economic stability for farmers without counting on overwhelming financial support from the federal government.

Lyng's strength is his background in agribusiness and his political savvy. He will need to use both to the fullest to pull the farm economy from the economic collapse it is facing.

Eric Rhodenbaugh,
for the editorial board

I'm sorry, the number you have...

In a few days the phrase, "Hang on a second — I gotta make a phone call," may take on new meaning.

Feel uncomfortable walking through campus late at night? Ever wonder if there's a Stephen King novel waiting to happen to you beyond the next weak pool of light? Fear not. The KSU Police Department has requested bond refinancing money to switch existing emergency phones from land lines to radio, saying the savings will lead to more phones in the future. No mention is made of campus lighting.

The police department's request reminds me of an American-International Pictures' Grade Z movie. Picture our heroine, Polly Purebread, as she makes her weary way home from Farrell Library. Lurking in the bushes by Seaton Court is the notorious Hal I. Tosis.

Polly, utterly unsuspecting, meanders home. (Cue in the "Jaws" soundtrack, please.)

As the music crescendos, out of the gloom springs Hal. Polly screams, and so might you. (In fact, the author would appreciate it if you would, right now. Don't feel nervous if you're in class...if you're reading the paper, you may as well enjoy it.)

"No...wait...please...don't," shudders Polly. But Hal is unrelenting. He (this really is awful) breathes on her, and Polly swoons under the combined influence of anchovy pizza and ouzo. Another victim of...The

RICH HARRIS
Collegian
Columnist

Breather. (Fade to black, roll credits.)

This unhappy scene, however, can be remedied by changing existing phones over to radio-telephones, if you believe Capt. Charles Beckom and the student refinancing committee. So flash on to "The Breather: Flopping in Action, Part Two."

Hal is back, released on probation for good brushing and flossing twice a day. Polly's younger sister Penelope is now a student at K-State.

Following in her relative's footsteps, Penelope is studying late in the Fred Bramlage Library Addition, a hut on the site of the greenhouse near King Hall. (Mildred Astigmatic, a librarian with a heavy crush on you-know-who, won the funding in the Missouri Lottery.)

As Penelope makes her way to the Union Four Seasons Restaurant for a quick snack, she is followed by our old nemesis, Hal. (Music picks up as we pan across the courtyard using infra-red scope. Cut to alternating shots of Penelope's to Hal's feet as they break into a run.)

Out of the corner of her eye, Penelope spots an Emergency Phone. She throws open the cabinet, picks up the receiver, and we hear a conversation like this:

"Roger, E-Phone One, we have a go."

"Hello? This is Penelope Purebread — I'm being followed."

"That's a 10-4, E-One. Stand by to receive transmission from Big Eagle, E-One. Wait one...go ahead, Big Eagle," the anonymous operator says.

(As Penelope waits, we see Hal getting closer.)

"E-Phone One, this is Big Eagle, KSU Security Administration, Late Night Bad Breath Molesters Division, Sub-Command Freak and Goon Squad, Office of People Who You'd Never Bring Home to Meet Mom and Dad, Approved by the American Dental Association. Go ahead, E-Phone One."

"Help! I'm being followed by Hal I. Tosis," Penelope hollers into the phone. "Please come quickly! I..."

And from the night appears Hal, grinning darkly.

All, however, is not lost. Calling on her most charm, Penelope turns to Hal and says, "Will you please wait? I'm on the phone."

Fade to black on a shot of Hal leaping against an unlit lamppost while Penelope chatters into the phone.

Foresight, anyone?

Washington needs to take notice of Acker

Sen. Bob Dole, R-Kan., announced last week his support of President Duane Acker as a candidate for the nation's second-highest ranking agricultural post. The announcement comes as quite a surprise.

Acker has only indicated publicly that nomination for the prestigious position in the U.S. Department of Agriculture would be flattering. He has not mentioned whether he had been approached about the candidacy before Dole's announcement.

Since Secretary of Agriculture John Block's administration has been consistently criticized for poor administration by federal officials, it seems probable that officials will prioritize administrative experience over agri-economical experience in future candidates.

Acker's considerable experience in administration, and particularly administration in agriculturally inclined institutions, might be what officials responsible for filling agriculture department positions are looking for.

Acker earned B.S. and M.S. degrees at Iowa State University and worked on a doctorate at Oklahoma State University while an animal husbandry faculty member.

In 1962 he was named associate dean of agriculture and director of resident instruction at K-State.

From here, he went to South Dakota State University and served 8 years as dean of Agriculture and Biological Sciences and director of the Experiment Station and Extension.

Acker served one year at University of Nebraska as vice chancellor for Agriculture and Natural Resources. He succeeded James A. McCain in 1975 as president of K-State, and resigned from that position effective June 1, 1986.

However, Acker's experience has not been limited to academic pursuits. In 1983 he gained national recognition when President Reagan announced his appointment to a three-year term to the Board of International Food and Agriculture Development.

In light of Acker's years of experience in agricultural administration, it seems probable that his nomination for a federal post in the Department of Agriculture will be seriously considered.

Jonie Trued,
for the editorial board

Workplace drug tests violate rights

Upon graduation many students here will take jobs in the private sector and perhaps face, what some consider, a serious assault on their personal liberties — drug tests and office searches for drugs conducted by their employers.

Because drug use is illegal and because drug use can affect performance on the job, it seems logical that business entities have a prerogative to conduct searches and tests.

The effects of drug use on the job are staggering. In a recent report by Time magazine, drug abuse, alcohol excluded, can account for up to three times as many on-the-job accidents and 10 or more times as many days spent in sick leave. This means inefficiency and lost productivity; costs which the firm must absorb and subsequently pass on to consumers in the form of higher prices or to stockholders through failure to declare a dividend. Drug use costs all of us.

However, when management searches one employee it must search all employees — drug users and non-drug users. The point is that an office-room search with drug-sniffing dogs or a urine test, as the case may be, is still a search whether the employees in question are innocent or guilty.

The question of constitutional rights now enters the picture. U.S. citizens are

JILL HUMMELS
Staff Writer

guaranteed by the Fourth Amendment the right to be secure in their persons, houses, papers and effects, against unreasonable searches.

Often the tests are made a condition of hiring or continued employment and often do not require a warrant. Failure to pass the examination may bring about a pink slip from the corporate office or mandatory participation in a drug-rehabilitation program.

The result of the searches and tests is not frightening, it is predictable. Instead, the frightening aspect is the searches and tests in and of themselves. No one has a civil right to violate the law through drug abuse, but corporations should not have the right to violate an employee's civil rights.

Employers have a right to expect a certain level of performance from their workers, but if that expected level of achievement is attained or exceeded the directors of the firm should not be allowed to pry into the lifestyle habits of their employees.

I don't use drugs. But the thought of being tested for drug use or having my belongings searched for drugs, which I know aren't there, leaves me cold. In addition, as a subordinate I would have no control over these corporate activities other than to resign or to submit to this treatment.

Some tests and searches are understandable and necessary, such as those conducted in munitions plants. But where does one draw the line on infringement of personal liberties?

What right does the board of directors have to search through an employee's personal belongings? What right does management have to sample the employee's urine? If only one or two people are actually using drugs does the administration hold the right to probe the lives of all employees? Further, what if the head office doesn't find drugs, but it finds out some other aspect of a worker's life that it doesn't like?

Too many questions remain unanswered. Lines must be drawn delineating which instances searching and testing by corporations is reasonable.

Kansas State Collegian

EDITOR
David Svoboda
ASSOCIATE EDITOR
Lillian Zier
NEWS EDITOR
Patty Reinert
MANAGING EDITOR
Jeri Heidrick
PHOTO/GRAPHICS EDITOR
Chris Stewart
COPY EDITORS
Jim Schmidt
Jean Teller
EDITORIAL PAGE EDITOR
Tim Carpenter
CAMPUS EDITORS
Vicki Reynolds
LeAnne Stowe
SPORTS EDITOR
Tom Perrin
ASSISTANT SPORTS EDITOR
Tim Fitzgerald
FEATURES EDITOR
Margaret May
BUSINESS/GOVERNMENT EDITOR
Tom Schultes
AGRICULTURE EDITOR
Becky Ohide
ENTERTAINMENT EDITOR
Laurie Fairburn

REVIEWERS
Barbara Baker
Gary Johnson
Randy Whitrow
COLUMNISTS
Susan Baird
Rich Harris
Steve Milligan
Tammy Rickerson
STAFF WRITERS
Shelly Chenoweth
Erin Eicher
Jessica Gard
Maribeth Gottschalk
Sheri Hager
Jill Hummels

Mike Riley
Catherine Saylor
Richard Thorpe
Jonie Trued
Sarah Kensingler
Karen Meis
Eric Rhodenbaugh
Linda Schmidt
Colleen Wilson

BUSINESS/GOVERNMENT WRITER
Melissa Brune
SPORTS WRITERS
Tony Carbarjo
Daran Neuschaefer
Doug Scheibe
EDITORIAL BOARD
David Svoboda
Tim Carpenter
Melissa Brune
Rich Harris
Steve Milligan
Patty Reinert
Vicki Reynolds
GRAPHIC ARTISTS
Carlos Corredor
Greg Crawford
STAFF PHOTOGRAPHERS
Jim Dietz
Brad Fanshler
Andy Nelson
Jeff A. Taylor
Jeff Tuttle

ADVERTISING MANAGER
Lori Wong
ASSISTANT ADVERTISING MANAGER
Mark McDermet
SPECIAL PROMOTIONS REPRESENTATIVE
Amy Wright
ASSISTANT SPECIAL PROMOTIONS REP.
Chris Stevenson
ADVERTISING REPRESENTATIVES
Chuck Bowles
Rob Drake
Jim Lundstrom
Darren McChesney
Joan Setzer
Shelly Shaffer
Pattie Shippen
DIRECTOR/NEWS ADVISER
Dave Adams
ADVERTISING DIRECTOR
Gloria Freeland
NEWS PRODUCTION COORDINATOR
Connie Nelson
ADV. PRODUCTION COORDINATOR
Wanda Haynie

Eric Rhodenbaugh
Tammy Rickerson
Catherine Saylor
Tom Schultes
Richard Thorpe
Jonie Trued
Lillian Zier

Reagan should implement doctrine

The central theme of United States foreign policy should not be anti-communism. Such a single-minded view must certainly lead to policies which run counter to the paramount criterion of a sound foreign policy: national interest.

However, to shy away from challenging communist and other totalitarian states is not only detrimental to the United States but is an abdication of an ethical responsibility to humanity.

The Reagan Doctrine is a somewhat nebulous concept which has never been codified in a single document or statement. Its nuances depend on the ideological perspective of the spokesman. At a minimum it is an attempt to give direction to U.S. actions in relation to indigenous resistance to Soviet-style regimes.

The Reagan Doctrine will be getting a great deal of attention in the media and on Capitol Hill as the president will surely seek to implement the policy through direct and covert aid. I would be amazed if it was not a key item in the foreign policy section of tomorrow's State of the Union address along with arms control, trade relations and terrorism.

The Reagan Doctrine is based on a realistic assessment of the nature of communism and Soviet foreign policy. First, we are not talking about ivory tower communism but real world Marxist-Leninist dictatorships, the ones which have to go to great lengths to prevent their populations from

RICHARD THORPE
Collegian
Columnist

fleeing to the "illusory" freedom of the West.

These regimes are so oppressive they "seem" — in comparison to their usual conduct — to be compassionate when they reluctantly allow an ill woman to receive medical treatment in the West. Note, the motivation was not mercy but ruthless Realpolitik.

On the international level Marxist-Leninism has lived up to its philosophical mandate for world conquest. It has a long tradition, beginning with the Russian Revolution of 1917, of hijacking and perverting legitimate revolutionary movements. A lesson which Nicaragua seems destined to learn firsthand.

The question becomes one of how the United States should respond to resistance movements in nations where totalitarian states have been installed by force, fraud and deceit. The Reagan Doctrine allows for a high degree of flexibility in recognition of geopolitical realities.

Furthermore, the Reagan Doctrine neither precludes human rights criteria nor does it demand a military solution. In fact, negotiated settlements are an integral element to the success of the Reagan Doctrine. Recognition of this is evidenced by the speech given by President Reagan to the United Nations last fall.

In this address Reagan proposed a mechanism for the negotiated settlement of the conflicts in Afghanistan, Angola, Nicaragua and elsewhere. To this date the Soviets have failed to cooperate in this effort.

To achieve its great promise, the Reagan Doctrine must be more than an idea, it must be actively pursued. This means it must be incorporated into the foreign policy of the United States; American businesses, such as Gulf Oil, must not serve to prop up such governments; and, using a degree of finesse, aid must be given to the Freedom Fighters.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR pertaining to matters of public interest are encouraged. All letters must be typewritten or neatly printed and signed by the author and should not exceed 250 words. The author's major, classification or other identification and a telephone number where the author can be reached during business hours must be included. The Collegian reserves the right to edit letters for style and spatial considerations, and to withhold letters from publication.

Union offers glimpse of Mardi Gras party

By LORI LUGINBILL
Collegian Reporter

"Jambalaya, catfish pie, file gumbo." Hum the tune and it should bring to mind the cultural cuisine of New Orleans.

The Union Food Service will bring those delicacies to K-State Feb. 3-11, as part of its celebration of Mardi Gras.

Mardi Gras literally means "fat Tuesday," and describes a day of merrymaking on the Tuesday before Ash Wednesday. In New Orleans, and in many Roman Catholic countries, the Tuesday celebration is preceded by a week or more of parades and parties.

The Union Food Service came up with the idea of a Mardi Gras celebration to liven up things in February, said Malley Sisson, Union Food Service director.

"After Christmas and New Year's, there is not much going on. We wanted February to be more fun. We want the Mardi Gras celebration to be kind of like a party," Sisson said.

Starting today, the Union dining rooms will be decorated with mask mobiles and upright street signs, and helium balloons will be handed out. A player piano will play Dixieland and ragtime tunes in the dining room.

Illustration by
Kenyon Madden

The emphasis of the celebration will be on food. Each day there will be a meal native to New Orleans served at breakfast, lunch and dinner, Sisson said.

Sisson did some research about New Orleans cooking styles before planning a menu for the Mardi Gras celebration, she said. In her research, she found that the New Orleans style of cooking is different from any other style because it has so many influences. The French and the Spanish governed New Orleans before America did, and the foods have blended to form a distinctive flavor.

According to "The New Orleans Cookbook," The Creoles of New Orleans, who settled there before American rule, are responsible for the New Orleans food as we know it today.

Special meals will be served after the basketball game Saturday and after the Harlem Globetrotters perform Feb. 11 — the day of the Mardi Gras.

Election committee disallows candidate

By VICKI REYNOLDS
Campus Editor

Student body president candidate "Scarface" has officially been dropped from the election ballot by the Student Governing Association Elections Committee, said Maribeth Gottschalk, senior in journalism and mass communications and committee chairperson.

Joel Christopher Pollock, who was running under the pseudonym "Scarface," was eliminated from the ballot by a unanimous committee vote at its meeting Thursday. Pollock was dropped, Gottschalk said, because he failed to make the 5 p.m. Wednesday deadline for SGA

'Scarface' fails to file expense voucher candidate expenditure reports.

"By the guidelines, the committee has to make a decision whether to take him off the ballot," Gottschalk said. "We have to be consistent in this."

Sally Routson, coordinator for student activities, said something needed to be done about the missed deadline.

"If we decide to keep him on the ballot," she said, "we must penalize him in some other way, such as not being able to post signs for a certain amount of time. Otherwise, what are rules for?"

The committee also discussed the question of absentee ballots for students who are away from campus during the spring semester, such as those participating in internship programs or student teaching.

"There's nothing in the constitution or campaign regulations about this," Gottschalk said. "But when it says that it's a student's privilege to vote, that's their privilege. Someone on an internship has the right to vote."

Problems with providing absentee ballots, Gottschalk said, include verification of students by identification cards, making those people aware of the availability of absentee ballots, getting the names of those who qualify for an absentee ballot and the cost of postage in sending out such ballots.

The committee decided to postpone a decision on the issue until after SGA elections are over.

"It's not something we can do this year," Routson said. "But it's something for this committee to think about for the future."

The committee also discussed the shortage of candidates for senate positions in the College of Human Ecology.

4¢
Copies

Reductions
&
Enlargements

Wall Street Journal
Rocky Mountain News
New York Times

Classical CD's

Claflin Books
Till 9:30 p.m.
Sun.-Fri.
Till 5 p.m.
Sat.

SPRING SPRUCE UP SALE

With the purchase of any pair of prescription lenses at our regular low discount price, you can choose ANY frame in stock and pay ONLY $10. NO LIMITATIONS on style selection or type of frame. We can fill your doctor's prescription. Facet cuts $75 additional. This ad cannot be used with any other optical promotion.

SALE ENDS: February 15, 1986.

b & l

OPTICAL STUDIO

1210 MORO • 537-1574

Mon.-Fri. 9:30 a.m.-5:30 p.m.; Sat. 9 a.m.-1 p.m.

$2.25 PITCHERS
25¢ DRAWS

S.A.M.S.
KICK-OFF
PARTY
TUESDAY

VOTE

KELLI
CARR

for STUDENT BODY
PRESIDENT

Paid for by Committee
to elect K. Carr.

ATTENTION
COLLEGE OF BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION
STUDENTS

BUSINESS CAREER OPPORTUNITY SEMINARS

Present Job Market
Future Job Opportunities
Salary Expectations

Feb. 4, 1986, 4 p.m., Calvin 209

Careers in Accounting Dr. Maurice Stark
Careers in Finance Dr. Robert Hollinger

Feb. 6, 1986, 4 p.m., Calvin 209

Careers in Marketing Dr. Wayne Norvell
Careers in Management Dr. William Liddell

RECORD—TAPE SALE

Now In Progress!

CLASSICAL ROCK FOLK
JAZZ COUNTRY

Records start as low as $1.98!
Cassette tapes as low as $3.98!

Varney's
BOOK STORE
IN AGGIEVILLE

9-9
MON.-SAT.

12-5
SUN.

On the edge of campus, in the heart of Aggieville.

UPC

Monday, February 3, 1986

UPC

From the director of Fame and The Wall, Alan Parker, comes a spellbinding tale of friendship, not only between the two leads, Al and Birdy, but between Birdy and his birds. The story covers both relationships as Birdy strives to become a bird, and as Al strives to bring him back to a human. "Fish gotta swim, Birdy gotta fly, and his best friend, Al, gotta love this weirdo—if not till he die, then at least until he is lured out of the catatonic state in which Alan Parker's delirious and challenging movie discovers him. His movie does what Birdy himself can never quite manage. It defies gravity, convention and category, and gets away with it."

—Richard Schickel, Time.

Birdy

Wednesday, February 5, 7:30 p.m.
& Thursday, February 6,
3:30 & 7:30 p.m. All shows in Little Theatre.
$1.75, KSU ID Required, Rated R

video

Come to the Video Dance! FREE PRIZES at the door! Also, refreshments are available. Prizes include albums, T-shirts, and rock posters. February 8, 9-midnight, K-State Union Catskeller, $1.00 admission. Proceeds benefit the T. J. Martell Foundation for Leukemia and Cancer research. Co-sponsored by Chevrolet and CBS records.

ERIK BUDD

Paintings and Prints
K-State Union Art Gallery
February 3-21
Monday - Friday 8a.m.-5p.m.

Elvis Presley
The Supremes
The Beach Boys
Jan and Dean
Rod Stewart
David Bowie
Bruce Springsteen
Pat Benatar
The Police
J. Geils
Men at Work
Hall & Oates

Come see this 26-minute multi-media history of rock 'n' roll from the 50's through the 80's. Four showings on February 10, at 7, 8, 9, & 10 p.m., Forum Hall. FREE ADMISSION!!!

GO HIKE THE CANYON -

SPRING BREAK
INFO MTG:

Thursday at
6 p.m.
Union Room 212

SIGN-UP:
Starts Friday in the Union Activities Center from 8:30
a.m. to 4 p.m.
$44

Let's Talk About It SERIES

POLITICAL FORUM
86

Who will be K-State's new student body president?

•meet the candidates
•hear the issues

union courtyard
thursday
Feb. 6

12 NOON

GET INVOLVED ON CAMPUS WITH THE UNION PROGRAM COUNCIL

Volunteers Wanted: Individuals interested in serving for the '86-'87 year to coordinate social, recreational, educational and cultural programs for the benefit of the KSU community.

Leadership (Committee Chairs): Applications available beginning Wednesday, January 22. Deadline: 4 p.m., Friday, February 7th.
Membership (Committee Members): Applications available beginning Monday, February 17th. Deadline: 4 p.m., Friday, March 7th.
All applications may be picked up and submitted in the Activities Center, 2nd floor of the K-State Union. For more information, call 532-6571.

Shannon Opfer, fifth-year senior in apparel design, peers through a hotel window anticipating the arrival of her biological mother, Jean Bradford, who she has never met.

A search for her biological mother leads to a...

REUNION

Her dreams finally came true.

Shannon Opfer, fifth-year senior in apparel design, was reunited with her biological mother Thursday at the Regency Park Hotel in Overland Park.

Adopted at birth in Kansas City, Mo., 23 years ago, Opfer wanted to know who her real mother is.

"My parents told me I was adopted when I was in the fourth grade, but I never really thought about wanting to meet my mother until I was in the seventh grade," Opfer said.

Being adopted was a big part of Opfer's life. Adoption was always the subject of speeches and papers she wrote in school.

With the help of friends, Opfer spent more than a year researching her biological mother without the help of adoption records.

"Because Missouri has closed adoption records, we had to do it all on our own," Opfer said.

The only piece of information she had was her birth certificate with the name "Baby Mahley."

Long hours were spent thumbing through phone books and directories trying to locate possible relatives who would help Opfer find her mother. Her friends made an adoption book in which Opfer kept all the information they collected.

Before Christmas, Opfer put away her adoption book because she felt like the right time would come pull it out again.

Opfer's brother, Kip, was killed in a car accident Jan. 10.

"When Kip was killed, I needed an outlet of happiness," she said. "I asked God to give me a sign if the time was right, and the song 'I Got a Name' by Jim Croce came on the radio and I knew it was time. I've always wanted to sing that song to my (biological) mother."

On Sunday, she phoned her biological grandmother, Betty Mahley.

Opfer started by asking her grandmother if she had a daughter who gave up her baby for adoption 23 years ago. Opfer said her grandmother seemed reluctant at first, but she gave Opfer her biological mother's name and phone number.

The following Monday, she spoke to her mother on the phone.

"It was hard. What do you say to a lady whom you've never seen before and you know she was the one who gave birth to you?" Opfer said.

Opfer's biological mother, Jean Bradford, is a 39-year-old flight attendant in Atlanta, Ga.

"Giving my baby up for adoption was the hardest thing I've ever had to do," Bradford said. "When I heard her voice on the phone, it filled a void that I never realized was so deep. I felt total joy. It was the phone call I had been waiting for for 23 years."

Wednesday, Bradford called Opfer back and told her she would be flying into Kansas City on Thursday with a two-day layover and she wanted to meet her there.

Bradford has a second child, Shane. If her second child had been a girl, her name was to be Shannon, although Bradford didn't know her first daughter was named Shannon by her adopted parents.

As Shannon opens the hotel room door, the mother and daughter's eyes meet for the first time since Shannon's birth 23 years ago.

Opfer's adopted parents, Elmer and Esther Opfer of Wichita, were supportive of Shannon's efforts.

Opfer spends her spare time modelling for various modelling agencies and advertisers.

"My mother and my grandmother both were models, too," Opfer said. "I guess it's in my blood."

"I like to refer to my adopted parents as my 'real' parents," Opfer said. "They're the ones who brought me up and taught me right from wrong."

"My parents are the ones who have always been there for me," Opfer said. "They have supported me in everything I've tried to achieve. They were there when I laughed and cried."

Opfer said her biological grandparents wanted to move 10 years ago, but didn't because they were afraid their granddaughter would try to find them.

Bradford's mother, sister, niece and best friend were all present at the reunion.

"Because of the accident in my family (her brother's death), it was a good time for me but a bad time for my parents," Opfer said. "My parents know that Jean is not taking me away from them. There's just a natural bond there that can never be broken."

Two of Opfer's close friends were also present at the reunion.

"I can't believe we finally found her after all this time," said Terri Middendorf, a friend of Opfer who helped her find her mother. "I think I'm as excited as Shannon."

Opfer said she understood the circumstances when she was placed up for adoption.

"Jean was 16 and unmarried when she became pregnant with me," Opfer said. "She loved me enough to do the best thing for me, and that was to give me up."

Opfer spent this past weekend getting to know her new family.

"Kip lived his life in the fast lane, and lived each day to it's fullest," Opfer said. "I know if he had one wish for me it would be for my dreams to come true. And they have now."

After a few seconds of looking at each other, Shannon and Jean embrace and tears begin to fall as the two are reunited.

ABOVE: Jean's sister Nancy Rendigs cries as Jean and Shannon hug. RIGHT: Shannon looks at a high school photograph of her biological mother and father.

Story by Jola Murphy

Photographs by Jeff Tuttle

'Power' starts well, but runs down

By GARY JOHNSON
Collegian Reviewer

Sidney Lumet's "Power" gets off to a great start. Richard Gere, as political consultant Pete St. John, watches as his candidate in a presidential campaign (somewhere in South America) gives a speech. As the speech nears its end, a car explodes. The candidate races through the crowd toward the burning automobile. There he finds one man dead. He clutches the man to his chest.

Film Review

Meanwhile, St. John shouts orders to the photographers, practically choreographing the scene.

Afterward, St. John is ecstatic, revealing his great plan to have the candidate wear the same blood-stained shirt at each speech — a symbol of the opposition's ruthlessness.

It's a powerful scene that hovers right on the boundary between political drama and satire, as did Lumet's excellent "Network." But from there on, "Power" is all downhill. Never again does the film even come close to evoking the same sort of outrage.

It's a movie with a strong central idea — that political consultants actually hold the power in elections — but it beats that idea to death. In scene after scene St. John orders his candidates about and designs promos, but his work never really takes on the genius it supposedly has. It's rather ordinary stuff.

In the past St. John aligned himself with whichever candidate threw the most money in his direction. He insisted that candidates could do whatever they wanted once in office, but until then they had to do everything he said, which meant softening their stances on issues.

But once St. John becomes aware that a senator, his friend and past client, played by E.G. Marshall, is being forced from office, St. John begins questioning his own unscrupulous ways. To believe that St. John is strongly affected by what happens to the senator, though, we have to believe that St. John and the senator were close friends. The movie never makes this convincing. St. John and the senator talk about being friends, but that's all.

Worse yet is the movie's ending. It's built upon a lie. We're asked to believe that St. John has really changed when he insists a candidate finally voice his own opinions, instead of what his political consultant has told him. But this is just as much a piece of political maneuvering as anything else St. John does.

Particularly disappointing is the way "Power" wastes several fine actors. Julie Christie and Gene Hackman have minor roles. Christie, as St. John's ex-wife, looks earnest. Hackman stays drunk. Kate Capshaw smiles and takes showers with Gere. (What woman wouldn't smile in that situation?) E.G. Marshall looks concerned. Beatrice Straight cries. Denzel Washington, from TV's "St. Elsewhere," has an intriguing role as St. John's adversary, but he largely just gets to lurk about in the shadows.

While Richard Gere never again captures the manic intensity that made the movie's opening so eerie, he certainly looks good in a three-piece suit. His performance is bland, though.

The ads would have us believe the movie is about how power can be more seductive than sex, more addictive than any drug, and more precious than gold. Unfortunately, "Power" never makes a good case for any of those claims.

Dairy, meats judging teams win in Fort Worth contests

By BECKY OHLDE
Agriculture Editor

K-State's dairy, meats and livestock judging teams were among the participants in the Fort Worth Stock Show, Fort Worth, Texas, last Friday.

The dairy team, coached by Charlie Norton, professor of animal sciences and industry, placed first for the second year in a row in the contest.

"The team placed first in three breed classes: Jerseys, Brown Swiss and Guernseys," Norton said. "We placed second in Holsteins."

Curt Steenbock, freshman in animal sciences and industry, was first high individual in Jerseys, fourth high individual in reasons and third high individual overall.

Liz Altwegg, sophomore in animal sciences and industry, was high individual in Brown Swiss and Guernseys, high individual in reasons and high individual overall.

Gerald Woodard, sophomore in animal sciences and industry, was the second high individual overall and placed second overall in reasons.

The fourth teammate, Mark Meyer, junior in agriculture education, placed third overall in reasons.

K-State's meats team also placed first, according to team coach Michael Dikeman, professor in animal sciences and industry.

The team placed first in lamb judging, second in beef grading, sixth in pork judging, seventh in beef judging, second in specification cuts and was the high team in reasons.

Matt Wineinger, sophomore in animal sciences and industry, was the high individual in beef grading and lamb judging and placed fifth overall in pork judging.

Susan Kimbell, senior in animal sciences and industry, placed fifth in beef grading and lamb judging and placed fifth overall.

Alan Waggoner, senior in animal sciences and industry, placed second in lamb judging and was seventh high individual overall. Bret Fox, junior in animal sciences and industry, tied for first place in specification cuts.

The livestock judging team, coached by Dave Nichols, assistant professor in animal sciences and industry, placed ninth.

In individual classes, the team placed second in beef grading, seventh in horses and eighth in sheep.

MR. K'S

25¢ MONDAYS
•25¢ Draws •$2 Pitchers
•Free Cover w/Student ID

Come & Join Us!

Monday
HIGH ROLLERS

Any Single Liquor
Call or Premium
Drink Only
$1.50

Auntie
Mac's Parlor
AGGIEVILLE

Memberships available
616 N. 12th 539-9967

Tuesday
IMPORT BEER
NIGHT

Featuring Bottles of
Mae's Favorite Beers
From Across the Seas
$1.25

With this coupon
Relaxers
50% off

Good through Feb. 28
from 8 a.m.-2 p.m. M-F.

CRUM'S 776-4794

512 Poyntz
Beauty College
All services performed by students

The Excitement is back
at
THE COTTON CLUB

$1.50 Highballs
in HP's Bar
any brand, all day, all night
$1.50 Imports
and 99¢ Beers

HP's Bar
Piano Bar Every
Friday; & Saturday

BUSHWACKER'S

TONIGHT
-COMEDY INVASION-

Featuring
JOHN PENNY

from Kansas City

ROBERT YORK

Show starts at 9 p.m.

$2.00 Tickets

539-4321

539-9727

511 N. Manhattan

SPRING BREAK IN FT. LAUDERDALE

Driving Package
Without Transportation
Quad Occupancy $165

Full Package
With Transportation
Quad Occupancy $265

YOUR TRIP INCLUDES:

- Seven nights accommodations at one of our exciting Fort Lauderdale hotels. All our hotels are deluxe properties with pool, party deck, color TV, and air conditioning.
- Round trip motor coach transportation via luxury highway coaches to Fort Lauderdale, Florida. Unlike others, we use the newest style buses available.
- Pool deck parties every other day.
- An entire list of bar and restaurant discounts for you to use to save money at places you would go anyway.
- The services of full time travel representatives available daily to show parties and take good care of you.
- All taxes and gratuities.

Arrangements by
ECHO TRAVEL, INC.
The largest in college tours in Florida
for over seven years.

To Sign Up
Or For More Info

Call
532-5107

TURN UP THE HEAT WITH CABLE TV AND HBO AND SAVE!

This winter, cable TV will really warm you up with 24-hour news, sports and music. And HBO's Red Hot Winter will keep you warm with blockbuster movies, world championship boxing and exclusive concerts. Of course, HBO shows it all non-stop, uncut and with no commercial interruptions.

So call your cable operator and order cable TV and HBO today. It's your ticket to the hottest seat in the house.

SAVE up to $20.00
with our

FREE INSTALLATION!

Plus a Free FM Traveler Radio
when you order HBO

Manhattan Cable TV Services Inc.

610 Humboldt

776-9239

(limit one per subscriber)

(offer expires 2-28-86)

Manning pulls rank; Jayhawks win battle

Staff/Jeff A. Taylor

ABOVE: K-State guard Joe Wright is squeezed between Jayhawk defenders Cedric Hunter and Danny Manning during the 'Cats' 64-50 loss. RIGHT: A few K-State fans arrange flip cards to spell out their thoughts.

Staff/Jeff A. Taylor

University of Kansas head coach Larry Brown is greeted by K-State head coach Jack Hartman prior to Hartman's final coaching appearance against the intrastate rival Jayhawks in Ahearn Field House.

By TOM PERRIN
Sports Editor

After a relatively even first half, the Kansas big men took over in the Jayhawks' 64-50 victory over K-State Saturday at Ahearn Field House.

While cold shooting plagued the Wildcats (especially leading scorer Norris Coleman, who hit only 4 of 18) throughout the game, it was KU's size advantage that finally wore K-State down in the second half before the near-capacity crowd at Ahearn.

Without a roster player standing above 6-foot-9, K-State simply had no answer to the Jayhawk duo of 6-11 forward Danny Manning, who had 18 points and nine rebounds, and 7-1 center Greg Dreiling, with 14 points and eight rebounds.

"Their size is really tough to beat," K-State Coach Jack Hartman said. "It just seemed like they were going to pound it inside (in the second half) and (Ron) Meyer and Ben (Mitchell) both had four fouls."

Hartman was particularly impressed with the heavily touted Manning but had compliments about the play of Dreiling as well.

"He's (Manning) everything that's been said about him, and I can't add to what's been said about him," Hartman said. "He's a tremendous factor in the game."

"Dreiling — that boy has made steady progress to where he's a tremendous impact. And his size is really awesome to deal with."

KU Coach Larry Brown, whose team lost its first Big Eight game of the season Tuesday at Ames, Iowa, against Iowa State, thought his team played well.

"I knew we'd respond well to the pressure — to be honest," Brown said. "I didn't know if we'd win, but I didn't want us to be afraid to lose."

While Manning and Dreiling both had big days, neither of the players coming into the game with the top two scoring averages — KU's Ron Kellogg and the Wildcats' Coleman — had big offensive days.

Kellogg had only 12 points on six of 14 shooting and Coleman missed his first seven shots before finally connecting with his only two points of the first half. Coleman had just eight points in the game.

Hartman said Coleman's lack of offensive production was damaging to K-State.

"Unfortunately he had a real bad shooting day and we rely a great deal on Norris," Hartman said. "Had some of his early shots gone down, it could have set the tone for a different rhythm in the ball game."

Hartman stayed with Coleman throughout the game, however, and said he told the freshman to continue shooting, even though he wasn't scoring.

"That's just one of those things. What do you do?" Hartman said. "I just kept trying to encourage him. Norris is not one to get visibly disturbed. He's got some maturity with him. He had an unfortunate day shooting."

"Terrible, man," was Coleman's first reaction to members of the media about his performance Saturday.

Coleman said Manning played good defense against him, but thought he still should have shot better.

"He played great defense, but I had the time and the picks — I just wasn't banging them down," Coleman said. "I missed a few and sort of lost confidence."

Brown said he was pleased with Manning's defensive coverage on Coleman, who scored only 11 points in a 86-70 loss to Oklahoma State Wednesday.

"I wanted to put our best player on their best player and hoped he could do the job. Coleman is a terrific player, and I was sure that since he was five of 16 at Oklahoma State, that he would have a great shooting day today," Brown said. "But he didn't get a few to drop early, and Danny got hit hard in his face on some, and he had a 6-11 kid on him who is pretty active."

Before the game, some K-State students were displaying a sign that read "Private Manning. Report to the Sarge," referring to Coleman. But Manning said he enjoyed playing before the Ahearn fans.

"I laughed at the sign," Manning said. "These fans aren't as bad as Missouri's. I like playing here — it's

See WILDCATS, Page 10

Staff/Jeff Tuttle

Staff/Jeff A. Taylor

ABOVE: The University of Kansas mascot is passed up the K-State student section during a time out. RIGHT: Joann Buchanan, sophomore in electrical engineering, displays a sign of encouragement for Jack Hartman, who announced his resignation Thursday.

Staff/Chris Stewart

Lady Cats forward Carlisa Thomas pulls the ball away from the outstretched arm of University of Missouri center Renee Dozier during the first half of K-State's 81-65 victory Saturday in Ahearn Field House. The win evened the 'Cats record in the conference to 3-3 and moved them to 12-7 overall.

Lady Cats rebound to win over Tigers

By DARAN NEUSCHAFER
Sports Writer

Matilda Mossman seemed to be a very relieved basketball coach late Saturday afternoon.

Mossman, coach of the K-State Lady Cats, had just witnessed her team play one of its best all-around games of the season in downing Missouri, 81-65.

The victory, besides moving K-State's record to 12-7 overall and 3-3 in conference play, was also a very important moral victory of sorts for the Lady Cats.

Mossman and her team had just been through one of the lowest points of their season and were in desperate search for a win.

After losing their third straight game on Wednesday night to Oklahoma State, Mossman announced that three former starters on this year's squad had quit the team for personal reasons.

The news appeared to leave everyone wondering what was happening to the Lady Cat program, which had gotten off to a strong start and appeared to be in position to challenge for the Big Eight Conference title.

Well, K-State attempted to prove that nothing had happened to them...at least not anything negative.

The Lady Cats almost looked like a different team in the win over Missouri — one that was all over the floor on both defense and offense, but more importantly, one that played together as a team.

Mossman said that the team now has a kind of never-say-die attitude.

"One thing that these kids will not do, is get down on themselves," Mossman said. "We have developed kind of a three musketeers theory...one for all and all for one."

"This team is playing very well together right now, and I think they proved it today."

And play well they did, as the Lady Cats took control from the outset and never looked back. K-State never trailed, and led by as many as 18 in the second half.

K-State shot over 42 percent from the field in achieving their third highest point output of the season.

"It's hard to believe our team scoring that much in a game like this," Mossman said. "Our ability to put the ball in the hole was the difference for us today."

The Lady Cats also shot extremely well from the free throw line, an area which had been plaguing them in recent games. K-State was 23 of 27 from the line for 85 percent, including nine of 10 in the second half.

K-State was just too much for the Tigers, who were never able to get into their game.

Many of Missouri's problems, however, were caused by K-State's ball-hawking defense, as the Lady Cats caused Missouri to turn the ball over 28 times in the contest — five of which were caused by Carlisa Thomas steals.

Thomas, a 5-foot-9 junior, finally broke out of her recent slump in leading the way for the Lady Cats. Besides her five steals, Thomas dish-ed out five assists, grabbed six rebounds and scored a team high 20 points.

New NCAA rule would let 'Cats drop 2 varsity sports

By DARIN RUSSELL
Collegian Reporter

K-State may drop one men's sport and one women's sport when a new NCAA rule takes effect in August, Athletic Director Larry Travis said.

Travis mentioned men's and women's golf and men's and women's tennis as sports that might be dropped, but said that no decision would be made until after the athletic budget is finalized. The decision would be made by the Intercollegiate Athletic Council, of which Travis is a member. The council consists of three faculty members, two student members, two alumni members and Travis.

"The reason for considering to drop a sport is mainly financial," Travis said. "We will also look at the advantages and disadvantages of both men's and women's sports (including) costs, the number of participants, how well the team has been competing in the Big Eight and overall performance."

Due to Proposition 60, a new rule which was adopted at the recent NCAA convention, a school will need to carry only 14 teams in its intercollegiate budget instead of the current 16 to remain in Division I-A, the highest football classification. This number is to include an equal number of men's and women's sports.

The new rule also calls for schools to maintain at least two men's team sports and two women's team sports. Golf, tennis and track are examples of sports not considered team sports. Basketball, football and volleyball are considered team sports.

Travis said the Intercollegiate Athletic Council would probably make its decision in a month.

"If we decide to drop any sports, we should know by mid March," said Travis. "We will then notify coaches and players."

Travis said that a sport would not be eliminated merely because the new ruling would allow it.

"We will try to keep all sports if we can," said Travis. "After looking at the budget, we will know if we are going to have any budget problems. If there are problems, we will drop a sport that is having a hard time being competitive."

Travis said every school in the Big Eight Conference is considering dropping one sport, except for Colorado. Colorado must add two women's sports and one men's sport by the fall of 1987 to bring their program up to present standards.

Lost legends and changing times

"There comes a day."

A day I never thought would come, came Thursday. Coach Jack Hartman's resignation as basketball coach at K-State came to pass — Hartman thought the day had arrived.

When I was young, Jack Hartman might as well have been from another world. There I was Thursday night watching the man who turned my blood purple and who was probably responsible for me coming to K-State say that his job just isn't fun anymore.

I fought a tear when I saw one of my personal heroes stand before me, himself teary eyed, and give up all that he has done in his lifetime — basketball.

One has to admire a man who said the highlight of his career was that he has always run a clean program. It would have been impossible not to think from Hartman's words Thursday that being clean makes it almost impossible to win in this day.

Jack Hartman is not happy with the state of major college athletics. He did not want to talk much on that subject because he had too much to say on it, but I'm sure Hartman will be vocal in the future about his beliefs on how to clean out much of the scum from the game.

TIM FITZGERALD
Assistant
Sports Editor

It's a shame that the filth in college athletics ran a great man out of the game, but Hartman is 60 years old and the time was nearing.

Things haven't been cheery for K-State basketball in the last three-and-a-half years. Winning hasn't come as easily to Jack Hartman teams as it once did and maybe it was best that Hartman elected to retire.

People must remember what great things Jack Hartman has done at K-State and for Wildcat basketball.

Times have changed. Coaching has changed with time. Jack Hartman wasn't able to change with those times.

Many people have called Jack Hartman "a coaching dinosaur."

Hartman has tried to change with the times, but it hasn't worked. Jack Hartman simply was not able to make a transition to the run-and-gun 1980's style of basketball and the heavy pressure recruiting required to stay great in the 80's.

Hartman — like everything else he has done — leaves K-State with class. By resigning at this time he leaves the program not in shambles, but with a group of young players he believes will be a solid framework for his successor.

Still with nine regular season games remaining there is a season which shall not be ignored, but one must look forward.

Hartman does not leave K-State "in the cold." By resigning now Jack Hartman allows a new coach to be found and to go full force in his recruiting efforts.

Athletic Director Larry Travis said at the news conference "nothing stands still." Even though Travis said he was shocked by Hartman's decision the program must begin to look soon for someone out of the Hartman mold to carry on the integrity of the Wildcat program.

Much speculation will undoubtedly be made during this search, but youthful enthusiasm will probably be very important to Travis.

K-State is a few players away from be-

See LEGENDS, Page 10

SOUTHERN
SUN

TANNING CENTER
$2.50 SESSIONS
AFTER MIDNIGHT

776-8060

COME ONE COME ALL
to the
PRESIDENTIAL DEBATE

Tuesday Feb. 4
8 p.m.
Putnam Hall Living Room
To Be Broadcast Live on KSDB FM 88.1

Sponsored by:
Putnam Hall
KSUARH

MONT BLUE APARTMENTS
Studio, one, and two bedroom apartments and town houses.

Close to Campus

Phone 539-4447

Mall Moving Sale

Incredible Savings

Was ~~NOW~~

- Gibson Challenger electric guitar $419 ~~$289~~
- Gibson Futura electric guitar $900 ~~$569~~
- Washburn Woodstock acoustic electric guitar (with case) $828 ~~$598~~
- 5 pc. Ludwig Rocker II $795 ~~$595~~
- 5 pc. TTS Remo $395 ~~$309~~
- Gibson Invader with Kahler Tremelo (with hardshell case) $659 ~~$539~~

Was ~~NOW~~

- Crate 212 Amp $400 ~~$299~~
- Fender Stage Lead 212 Amp $600 ~~$399~~
- Crate PA Speakers (pair) $700 ~~$519~~
- Fender Jazz Bass (with hardshell case) $639 ~~$539~~
- Classical Guitars starting from $69 (all classicals on sale)
- 30% off DOD guitar effects
- 30% off all strings and drum sticks

Hayes House of Music

"We Will Not Be Undersold"

776-7983

223 Poyntz, Manhattan

Wildcats

Continued from Page 8

a lot of fun." With Coleman not scoring, K-State's guard tandem of Joe Wright and Benny Green tried to pick up the scoring slack. Wright led all scorers with 19.

KANSAS	MIN	FG	FT	R	F	TP
Manning	37	8-13	2-4	9	3	18
Kellogg	36	6-14	0-2	3	2	12
Dreiling	34	6-9	2-2	8	2	14
Hunter	34	5-9	4-6	8	0	14
Thompson	35	2-8	2-2	4	3	6
Marshall	11	0-3	0-0	0	1	0
Piper	7	0-0	0-0	2	1	0
Turgeon	6	0-0	0-0	0	1	0
Totals	27-57	10-16	38	13	64

K-STATE: MIN FG FT R F TP
 Mitchell 36 2-5 2-2 7 4 6
 Coleman 38 4-18 0-0 5 3 8
 Meyer 31 2-2 3-4 6 4 7
 Green 37 5-10 0-0 4 2 10
 Wright 40 8-18 3-4 3 2 19
 Simmons 1 0-0 0-0 0 0 0
 Muff 12 0-1 0-0 3 2 0
 Eddie 2 0-0 0-0 0 0 0
 Walker 3 0-0 0-0 1 2 0
 Totals 21-54 8-10 31 19 50

Halftime score: Kansas 30, K-State 27
 Turnovers: Kansas 11, K-State 9
 Field goal percentage: Kansas 47, K-State 39
 Attendance: 10,986

Tracksters claim individual titles

By RON RENO
 Collegian Reporter

Both the K-State men's and women's track teams turned in a number of outstanding individual performances at the Missouri Invitational track and field meet at Columbia, Mo., Saturday.

Kenny Harrison won first place in the men's long jump with a national qualifying leap of 25-8½.

Coach Steve Miller was pleased with both teams' performances.

"This is probably one of the most competitive teams I have ever coached," Miller said. "Everybody takes what they have and goes out and does what it takes to win. In that respect they are really fun to watch."

In the shotput, Dan O'Mora placed second with a throw of 49-11, while teammate Dan Myers finished third with a throw of 48-5½.

Mike Rogers finished second in the two-mile run with a time of 8 minutes, 59.3 seconds.

Troy Borster took third in the high jump at 6-8. The mile relay team of Gary Leeson, Milran Leech, Harrison and Aaron Roberson also placed third with a time of 3:16.2 seconds.

In the women's competition, K-State placed in the top three in 10 different events, including four first-place finishes.

Jacque Struckhoff won the two mile run with a time of 10:06.10. She was followed by teammate Chris Vanatta with a time of 10:13.70.

Rita Graves won the high jump with an effort of 5-foot-10. Also placing first was Michelle Maxey who won the 300-yard dash with a time of 35.20.

The other first was won by Maxey, Karen Brown, Felicia

Carpenter and Kim Kilpatrick in the mile relay with a time of 3:53.23.

Anne Stadler placed second in both the mile, with a time of 4:47.98, and the 880-yard run, with a time of 2:13.25.

Also placing second were Anita Isom in the 60-yard dash with a time of 7.08 seconds, and Kim Kilpatrick who ran the 60-yard hurdles in 8.16.

Finishing third were Liz Rich in the 600-yard run with a time of 1:28.5, Karen Brown in the 60-yard dash, 7.1 seconds, and Felicia Carpenter who ran the 440 in 58.95.

Teams from Missouri, Kansas, Iowa State and Baylor also competed in the men's division, while the women's field consisted of Iowa, Iowa State, Kansas, Missouri, Georgetown and Illinois State.

Legends

Continued from Page 9

ing a great team. Norris Coleman is the stuff Final Four teams are built around — let's all hope he sticks around.

It's a sad day for K-State — we've lost our legend.

One must pay tribute to a man who has become a coaching legend. Let no one forget the man has seen brighter years than these at K-State. Recent times have been rough for Jack Hartman and for Wildcat basketball fans.

There is little reason to look back. The K-State program can not go to rest on great days gone by. One must always believe that there are greater days to come.

Despite Hartman's recent success, Travis said it well following Hartman's announcement: "What Jack Hartman brought to this program goes beyond winning and losing."

Have story or photo ideas?
 CALL 532-6556

IF I SHOULD DIE...

...an experience you'll never forget!

A three-screen, 9-projector production utilizing more than 1,000 visuals synchronized to contemporary music dramatically exploring life, death, and beyond!

Monday, Feb. 3
 7:30 p.m. and 9:00 p.m.
 Forum Theatre - KSU Union
 Free Admission

PARAGON PRODUCTIONS
 The Multimedia Ministry of Campus Crusade for Christ

Kansas State University
 "At Its Best"

A CAREERS SEMINAR

Landing and Keeping Your First Job
 "Interested in Finance, Marketing, Journalism, Advertising?"
 Top business executives will be speaking on and leading BREAK-OUT Sessions on career opportunities.
 Agri-marketing plus related disciplines.

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 4, 1986
 2:30-5:30

2:30-3:30 Overview of Agri-Marketing
 3:30 and 4:30 Concurrent Break-out Sessions
 Attend one or all as schedule permits.
 Big Eight Room, K-State Union

SPEAKERS

Ed Clement, Sam Mears
 Fletcher-Mayo Associates

David Woolfolk
 Farm Credit Services

Bob O'Brian
 U.S. Versatiles, Inc.

Hank Ernst
 Kansas Farmer Magazine

Advertising Rep.
 Harvest Publications

NATIONAL AGRI-MARKETING ASSOCIATION

IMPRESSIONS
 Hair care center
 VALENTINE'S DAY SPECIAL

$1000 OFF PERM reg. $40.00
 $500 OFF CUT & STYLE reg. $15.50
 $300 OFF HAIRCUT reg. $10.00

Lower Level Mall
 411 Poyntz
 537-1332

Bring Student I.D. Expires Feb. 15
 Georgia, Shea, Deanna & Sue

Patty Hipsher
 for Student Body President

Q. Why?
 A. Because Patty wants to make sure that your opinion counts—on all the issues.

Paid for by all students for Educational Awareness and Students for Hipsher

OSBORNE is back with this new incredible PORTABLE COMPUTER, a category that OSBORNE has set the standards in! It's a super light weight, 19 pound portable that ports a dual disk drive, a fullstroke keyboard that challenges the fastest typist, and a 7" amber monitor. That's not all! It includes over $1000 worth of free software, such as WORDSTAR, SUPERCALC, 2 MBASIC, games, and many more! A complete computing system at an affordable price.

Now 1335⁰⁰

U.S. TECH
 STEREO · VIDEO · COMPUTER

K-STATE CONNECTION

Now Zenith gives you business to go!

Now 2699⁰⁰

Computer power that travels with you. That's what you get with the new Zenith Portable Z-171 PC — a surprising combination of extraordinary hardware muscle, user-features and helpful built-in applications. All within a compact, lightweight framework that folds up for easy carrying. So now you can have all the answers when and where you need them!

The Portable Z-171 PC is IBM PC-compatible and offers you up to 640K bytes of RAM. A full-size 25-line by 80-character LCD video display screen, backlit for optimal readability. A standard keyboard. Printer and modem ports. Monochrome and RGB Color Monitor ports. A dual built-in 5¼" floppy disk drive, full-function calculator, monthly calendar, world map/clock, and appointment scheduler with programmable alarm and phone book communications feature. All weighing in at less than 17 pounds. And best of all, it's from Zenith—a name that has represented an American tradition of advanced technology, quality and dependability for over 65 years!

ZENITH

$1299
 REG. $1499

- 99.9% IBM COMPATIBLE giving you the ability to run the thousands of software packages designed for the IBM PC
- INCREASED MEMORY 128K RAM for a greater working capacity and more computing power
- PARALLEL AND SERIAL PORTS for easy hook-up to printers, modems and many other peripherals
- EXCLUSIVE TURBO SWITCH for a 60% faster processing speed

PLUS MUCH MORE...

3244 KIMBALL AVE.
 WEST OF KSU FOOTBALL STADIUM
 ACROSS FROM CICO PARK
 MANHATTAN
 837-3992

ALL MAJOR CREDIT CARDS ACCEPTED
 PROFESSIONAL CAR INSTALLATION
 OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK
 FINANCING AVAILABLE

Hours: 10-9 Mon-Fri
 10-6 Sat
 12-5 Sun

U.S. TECH
 STEREO · VIDEO · COMPUTER

COME SEE US!

Protect your valuable data, modem, & computer hardware! WIRETREE PLUS filters your power source, eliminating voltage spikes or surges!

$49

Organize today with a DISK MINDER FILING SYSTEM

$12⁹⁵
 10 Pack

$18⁹⁵

Shuttle

Continued from Page 1

tank wall and ignited its huge supply of liquid hydrogen, or that it set off the destruction mechanism by lighting a primer cord.

But Charles Redmond, a NASA spokesman, said just heating the tank would have turned the liquid hydrogen and liquid oxygen to gas, thus increasing the pressure beyond the bursting point.

Graham, asked how soon shuttle flights might resume, replied that there was "no way to say what time we can go forward."

But he added, "This is a fundamentally sound system."

Trotter

Continued from Page 1

"Quality is a highfalutin' word," Dudley said. He said expectations set too high cause one to expect perfection, and expectations set too low get in the way of quality.

"Quality is measured by the way we blend our qualities, expectations, goals and achievements with reality. This building will prove its qualities by those teachers and students who will work and study here and by men like Dean Trotter who are dedicated to quality and excellence," Dudley said.

Roy said schools of veterinary medicine should be considered natural resources.

"Only 50 percent of the states have schools of veterinary medicine," Roy said and added it was reasonable to expect the U.S. government to assist these schools, as it did in the construction of Trotter Hall.

Trotter Hall cost $2.87 million to build, of which $2.3 million was provided by the government, Roy said.

After the remarks were delivered, Trotter was presented with a certificate recognizing the occasion and his accomplishments. A reception was held in Trotter Hall after the program.

Professor teaches realistic classes

By DAN ALLEN
Collegian Reporter

A new professor in the College of Business Administration wants his course on entrepreneurship to be so realistic, his students can comfortably step from the classroom into the real world.

Robert Brockhaus, who came to the University in January, is the first person to hold the L. L. McAninch Chair of Entrepreneurship in the business administration college.

The chair is in the name of L. L. McAninch, a 1939 K-State graduate and Salina businessman. The McAninch family will provide the salary supplement for the chair for five years.

"The worst thing we heard about him (Brockhaus) was that he was one of the top 10 in the country in his field. He's probably in the top three or four," said Randolph Pohlman, dean of the business administration college.

Last fall, Brockhaus received the first position as a Fulbright Fellow in Entrepreneurship, a national honor in which he was paid a stipend to teach at the University of Waikato in Hamilton, New Zealand, during the fall semester.

Brockhaus said he believes nothing is a substitute for experience in the business world and he is trying to teach the ingredients necessary for success.

"I learned more running my restaurant for two years than I did in my masters' and doctorate studies put together," he said.

He said although he was a faculty member at St. Louis University for 12 years before accepting the Fulbright fellowship, he felt an interest in change and improvement at the University.

"I was impressed by Dean Pohlman and all the faculty I met at K-State. I felt a spirit of wanting to do things creatively," he said.

Brockhaus said the reason he came to the University was the chance to do what he really wants: an environment where he can teach, research and increase public awareness of entrepreneurship.

Brockhaus said it's obvious why 80 percent of small businesses won't be around in 10 years.

"Most businessmen don't have a very good understanding of their product or service and the niche it fits into in the market," he said.

Brockhaus is faculty adviser to a new campus club, the Association of Collegiate Entrepreneurs. ACE will meet at 6 tonight in Calvin 102.

Docking

Continued from Page 1

Kansas governors, said there would be significant cuts in many areas, with the picture for public education "bleak."

He said the reason for proposing new taxes, such as the governor's proposal for a 1 percent increase in the sales tax, is because the state is losing money, and not to create a windfall — an immediate increase in revenues.

He said the final legislation may include lesser increases in sales tax hikes along with changes in income tax structure, but not affecting the actual percentage rates for income taxes.

He said revenues raised by statewide property reappraisals, although long needed, would only be "a one-shot deal with a lot of up-front costs."

He said state proposals in tax reforms only resemble proposed federal actions "on the superficial surface." Docking said the federal proposals could hurt the public "in many, many ways" by eliminating state tax write-offs and adversely affecting "people of modest means."

"Legislators have got to look at budget proposals...and realize increased revenues are needed," he said.

Docking said the proposed state sales tax increase is an appropriate way to begin recognizing problems.

In reference to legislation on a state operated lottery to raise revenues, Docking said he likes the idea of allocating lottery funds toward education and highways, noting a lottery may provide $20 million to $40 million.

But, he noted, such income would not be an immediate windfall and any legislation must not only pass the House, but also an election by the state's voters.

He said arguments against a lottery due to its high participation rate of lower-economic groups is "a good argument against the lottery," but noted the act is "utterly voluntary."

Classifieds

Display Classified Rates

One day: $4.65 per inch; Three consecutive days: $4.25 per inch; Five consecutive days: $3.95 per inch; Ten consecutive days: $3.75 per inch. (Deadline is 4:30 p.m. two days before publication.)

Classified advertising is available only to those who do not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, sex or ancestry.

ANNOUNCEMENTS 01

MARY KAY Cosmetics—Color awareness, products, and free facial. Anna Prockish, 1001 Blumont, 537-4246. (89f)

ENTREPRENEURS OF K.S.U. meet Monday for the election of officers. Don't miss this exciting meeting at 6-7 p.m., Calvin 102. (89)

ATTENTION 02

FLYING INTEREST? Check into K-State Flying Club. Call Steve Dyer at 532-5600 or 537-0458. (8f)

SKI SPRING Break—Breckenridge, Keystone, and Copper Mountain. March 9, 10 and 11 only $220. Price includes transportation, lodging, ski rental and lift tickets. For information, call 537-2995. (83-108)

APD MEETING 7 p.m. Union, rm. 207. (89)

SPRING BREAK on the beach at South Padre Island, Daytona Beach, Fort Lauderdale, Fort Walton Beach or Mustang Island/Port Aransas from only $89; and sailing at Steamboat or Vail from only $80! Deluxe lodging, parties, goodie bags, more... Hurry, call Sunchase Tours for more information and reservations toll free 1-800-321-5911 or contact a local Sunchase Representative today! When your Spring Break counts... count on Sunchase. (80-109)

FOR AUGUST—Deluxe two bedroom furnished apartment, across the street from Ford Hall. 539-2482 after 4:00 p.m. (82-91)

THREE BEDROOM available now. Utilities paid. Call Barbara, 537-1329. (83-98)

ONE OR two bedroom—Reasonable, one block to campus, available now. Call Barbara, 537-1329. (83-98)

EFFICIENCY APARTMENT, $185/month, heat, gas, water included. Call 537-7794 evenings and weekends. (84-93)

QUIET, FURNISHED, one bedroom, $216/month, located at 1927 College Hts. Rd. Laundry and patio. Call 537-9686 for appointment. (86-90)

WE HAVE studio, one, two, and three bedroom apartments available now. All prices. Call 537-1210 or 537-4244. (87f)

BRAND NEW three bedroom. One and one-half baths, near campus. Available May, June or August, $480/month. Call 537-9800. (89f)

1530 MCCAIN Lane, overlook to campus—Luxury two bedroom, fireplace, modern appliances, laundry facilities. Available August 1. Call 537-7980 or 537-7810. (89-93)

1207 KEARNEY or 1214 Vatter—Almost new three bedroom, laundry facilities. Available August 1. Call 537-2255 or 537-7810. (89-93)

913 BLUEMONT—Brand new three bedroom building available May 15. Call 537-7980 or 537-7810. (89-93)

PLAN FOR the summer and the 1986-87 school year. McCullough Development Inc. is now accepting applications for summer and fall leases. Call us, we manage over 300 university area apartments. 776-3804. (89f)

NEXT to campus—Leasing for fall, across from Marriott and Goodnow: Furnished two or one bedroom, central air, carpeting, fully equipped kitchen, balcony, off street parking. 539-2702, evenings, weekends. (88-98)

NEXT to campus—Leasing for fall, across from Haymaker, overlooking campus: Two bedroom, fireplace, central air, carpeting, fully equipped kitchen, balcony, laundry facility, off street parking. 539-2702, evenings, weekends. (88-98)

FOR RENT—HOUSES 05

THREE BEDROOM house, equipped kitchen, 1523 Fairchild. Call Barbara at 537-1329. (76-90)

BEST DEAL in town—Now taking waiting list applications. Prairie Glen Townhouses, 776-4786. (79-93)

THREE BEDROOM home, 1523 Fairchild, available now. Call Barbara, 537-1329. (83-98)

FOR SALE—AUTO 06

1973 DODGE pickup. Excellent condition, $1,200. Call 537-3972. (85-89)

IS IT true you can buy Jeeps for $44 through the U.S. Government? Get the facts today! Call 312-742-1142 ext. 3286-A. (89)

1979 CHEVY Lux 4x4, $2,000. Call 776-6374. (89-90)

MUST SELL 1981 Jeep—50,000 miles, good condition, fun to drive. Call 537-4396. (89-93)

1976 CHEVY, 4x4, 350 two barrel, 75,000 miles. Blue and silver, chrome rims, new muds, $3,500 negotiable. 776-5633, ask for Shawn. (86-90)

DODGE ROYALE Maroon, $1,149. Maroon, excellent condition, recent tune-up, 1976 model. Call Jan, 532-3489. (86-90)

1981 SUBARU GL 4x4, three door, fantastic in the snow. Fully equipped. 537-3993 after 5 p.m. (86-90)

USED CARS, trucks and motorcycles. Many to choose from. Will take trades. Call Tom, 539-4684. (86-90)

FOR SALE—MISC 07

SPECIAL Bagel with cream cheese and a small drink for only 99¢

AL'S DELI

HEWLETT-PACKARD 7470A (2 pen) Plotter. Includes manuals and cables. Call Leina at 1-272-3722 Monday-Friday, 7 a.m. - 4 p.m. (86-90)

TWO GIBSONS: Gibson Invader (electric), one year old, $300; Montoya Acoustic 6-string, two years old, $100. Call Mike after 6:00 p.m. at 537-0891. (87-91)

FOUND 10

CALCULATOR FOUND in Seaton Hall, Monday. Call 776-6328 to identify and claim. (87-89)

FOUND—SET of keys Wednesday. Call 776-0469 to identify and claim. (88-90)

RING FOUND in front of West Hall January 24. Call 532-5535 to identify and claim. (88-90)

FOUND AT Farrell Library—Assorted scarves, caps, and gloves; one dark gray shawl found before Christmas; one Nissan motor key, labelled 026, found in room 216; three upper level psychology textbooks; two USDA yearbooks; one business text by Ivancevich, Szilagyi, and Wallace; one USL book on Energy Savings; one Ad Media notebook. They can be claimed at the Circulation Counter, Farrell Library. (88-90)

HELP WANTED 13

GOVERNMENT JOBS. $16,040-$59,230/year. Now hiring. Call 805-687-6000, ext. R-9701 for current federal list. (76-97)

COUPLE FOR Assistant Manager of large apartment complex. Live in, maintenance ability necessary. Send resume to Box 3, Collegian. (76f)

CRUISESHIPS HIRING! $16-30,000. Caribbean, Hawaii, World! Call for Guide, Cassette, News Service! (916) 944-4444, Ext. Kansasatcruise. (76-102)

FEDERAL OVERSEAS, nationwide jobs! $17,101-$61,104! Summer Career! Call: Guidedirection, Applications, Listings, News Service! (916) 944-4444, ext. G.S.58. (84-103)

SUMMER EMPLOYMENT at Camp Lincoln/Camp Lake Hubert—Minnesota resident summer camps. A strong commitment to working with children required, along with activity skills and teaching experience. Specific job information and applications are available at Career Placement Office—Holtz Hall. Sign up, in advance, for personal interviews to be held on campus, Tuesday, February 4th, and Wednesday, February 5th, 1986. (84-90)

OFFICE SUPPLIES—Hull's Business Machines, 715 North 12th, Aggieville, 539-1413. (55f)

GOVERNMENT HOMES from $1 (U repair). Also delinquent tax property. Call 805-687-6000, ext. G-9701 for information. (76-97)

FENDER RHODES Super Twin guitar amp. Great condition and sound. $200 firm. 776-3473 after 6 p.m. (86-90)

Clip and Save
1/4 Pound
Hamburger
69¢
The Ritz
Not good with other specials
One burger per coupon
Expires 2-9-86

MUST SELL Peavey electric guitar with case and amp. Must see. Call Scott. 532-6099. (89-93)

KENMORE REFRIGERATOR—3.6 cubic feet, six months old. 776-0912. (89-91)

LEE'S WESTERN WEAR
1/2 PRICE
SALE
2 1/2 m. East of Manhattan
on Hwy. 24 776-6715

EMERSON AM/FM stereo, cassette recorder, two speakers, $75. Call 776-6016. (89-91)

Sub of the Week
BELLY
BUSTER
The best submarine
joint in Aggieville
AL'S DELI

HEWLETT-PACKARD 7470A (2 pen) Plotter. Includes manuals and cables. Call Leina at 1-272-3722 Monday-Friday, 7 a.m. - 4 p.m. (86-90)

TWO GIBSONS: Gibson Invader (electric), one year old, $300; Montoya Acoustic 6-string, two years old, $100. Call Mike after 6:00 p.m. at 537-0891. (87-91)

FOUND 10

CALCULATOR FOUND in Seaton Hall, Monday. Call 776-6328 to identify and claim. (87-89)

FOUND—SET of keys Wednesday. Call 776-0469 to identify and claim. (88-90)

RING FOUND in front of West Hall January 24. Call 532-5535 to identify and claim. (88-90)

FOUND AT Farrell Library—Assorted scarves, caps, and gloves; one dark gray shawl found before Christmas; one Nissan motor key, labelled 026, found in room 216; three upper level psychology textbooks; two USDA yearbooks; one business text by Ivancevich, Szilagyi, and Wallace; one USL book on Energy Savings; one Ad Media notebook. They can be claimed at the Circulation Counter, Farrell Library. (88-90)

HELP WANTED 13

GOVERNMENT JOBS. $16,040-$59,230/year. Now hiring. Call 805-687-6000, ext. R-9701 for current federal list. (76-97)

COUPLE FOR Assistant Manager of large apartment complex. Live in, maintenance ability necessary. Send resume to Box 3, Collegian. (76f)

CRUISESHIPS HIRING! $16-30,000. Caribbean, Hawaii, World! Call for Guide, Cassette, News Service! (916) 944-4444, Ext. Kansasatcruise. (76-102)

FEDERAL OVERSEAS, nationwide jobs! $17,101-$61,104! Summer Career! Call: Guidedirection, Applications, Listings, News Service! (916) 944-4444, ext. G.S.58. (84-103)

SUMMER EMPLOYMENT at Camp Lincoln/Camp Lake Hubert—Minnesota resident summer camps. A strong commitment to working with children required, along with activity skills and teaching experience. Specific job information and applications are available at Career Placement Office—Holtz Hall. Sign up, in advance, for personal interviews to be held on campus, Tuesday, February 4th, and Wednesday, February 5th, 1986. (84-90)

THE CITY of Manhattan's Parks and Recreation Department is seeking to fill numerous part-time and summer positions. Positions include sports, arts and craft, special population, and swim, instructors, scorekeepers, umpires, day camp counselors, lifeguards, pool and concession workers, and park/forestry laborers; qualified theatre director, piano accompanist, vocal coach, puppet theatre staff, self designer and stage, sound and lighting technicians. Applicants should be 16 years old for most positions. Applications will be taken until positions are filled. 1985 employees are encouraged to re-apply. For full listing of positions and application come to the Personnel Office, City Hall, 11th and Poyntz. EOE M/F/H. (89)

AIRLINE HIRING boom! $14-$39,000! Stewardesses. Reservations! Call for Guide, Cassette, News Service! (916) 944-4444 XJAW58. (89-108)

STUDENT COMPUTER Programming positions available. Should be familiar with at least one of the following languages: Pascal, C or PL/I and able to work 15 to 20 hours per week. We will supply the necessary training in microcomputers. Summer employment is a possibility. For more information contact Mary Knapp at 532-7019. Application forms available at Computer Science Main Office or at Room 211, Umberger Hall. Applications will be accepted through February 7. (89-93)

SUMMER WORK/Umberger County, KS—Forty-hour week, $4.75/hour. Tuesday through Saturday. May through August. Work consists of door-to-door data collection. Car and driver's license required. 20 positions available. Send resume or letter of intent to: Sharon Rhoades, R/J Environmental Assoc., 6700 Squibb Rd., Suite 212, Mission, KS, 66202. 913-432-1477. (89-93)

MOVER WANTED for afternoon work. Contact George. 537-2066. (89-90)

SUMMER JOBS. National Park Co's. 21 parks, 5000 openings. Complete information. $5. Park Report. Mission, Mo. Co. 651 2nd Ave. W. N. Kansas City, MO 64101. (89-110)

ENTREPRENEURS OF K.S.U. meet Monday for the election of officers. Don't miss this exciting meeting at 6-7 p.m., Calvin 102. (89)

THE ACADEMIC Outreach Section of the Division of Continuing Education will be interviewing persons for a position supporting Off-Campus Coordinators. The individual should possess typing, proofreading, organizational and mathematical skills, as well as the ability to prioritize, work under deadlines, and with limited supervision. Publications production experience preferred. 20 hours/week. Apply by February 7, 1986, to Ed McAlister, 311 Umberger Hall, KSU EOE. (87-89)

LOOKING FOR responsible, motivated part-time help. 15 hours per week, to work on campus. Must have own transportation. Call 537-9188. (88-89)

CYTOLGY PREP Technician for histology laboratory. Full-time position, experience preferred. Will train a qualified person. Send resume to Peterson Clinical Laboratory, PO Box 128, Manhattan, KS, 66502. Equal Opportunity Employer. (88-93)

PERSONAL 16

MITCH—YOU only turn 21 once—blow off class and have a blast! You deserve it. Love. Musikal. (89)

THETA NIS. Theta love and knowledge is now yours to hold, while proudly wearing the black and the gold. Congratulations on your initiation! Love the Activists. (89)

PI KAPP Delta. The weekend is over, but we go burning bright like the star and lamp. Your Big Bro. Andy. (89)

FASHIONWISE ENTREPRENEURS—We are seeking local distributors for our unique collections of high fashion jewelry, handmade from around the world. Earn money, have fun, look great. Write to: Instone Ltd. Box 164, Coopersburg, Pa. 18036. (89-93)

BEAVER—Don't listen to Eddie if he gives you the business about "If I Should Die." Be there!—Wally. (89)

E2—YOUR talk of trap plays is so confusing, yet to you I find my heart I am losing. Love. SGR. (89)

AGD's CONGRATULATIONS upon receiving your charter. A warm welcome and best wishes are sent your way. The Women of Tri Sigma. (89)

ROOMMATE WANTED 17

MALE ROOMMATE to share house, one-half block from campus. All facilities, only $133 plus shared utility costs. 1843 Hunting. 776-7355. (85-89)

WANTED—FEMALE roommate to share house, prefer graduate or older student. Five blocks from campus. Call 776-7541 weekend or evenings. Keep trying. (86-89)

RESPONSIBLE NON-SMOKING female roommate wanted. Own room, $125 plus one-third utilities. Call 537-1886 or ask for Olga at 532-5123. (88-93)

NON-SMOKING FEMALE share two bedroom apartment $137 all utilities paid. Two blocks campus. 776-8446. Lonnie. (89-89)

SERVICES 18

MARY KAY Cosmetics—Skin care—glamour products. Free facial call Floris Taylor, 539-2070. Hand-capped accessible. (76-95)

PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free pregnancy test. Confidential. Call 537-9180. 103 S. Fourth St., Suite 25. (11f)

MANHATTAN CAMERA repairs cameras and equipment. 228 Poyntz, 776-4240. (41f)

WILLING TO tutor any math courses from level 010 to 240. Call Tech at 539-8852 or Tan at 537-4553 after 6:30 p.m. (89-90)

WORD PROCESSING by computer, professional quality, letter-quality printer (not dot-matrix), disk storage. 776-6166. (13f)

TYPING/EDITING, letter quality word processor, professional resumes, cover letters, personalized form letters, disk storage. 539-5007. (76-113)

PROFESSIONALLY WRITTEN resumes, word processed cover letters, and typing. Resume Service. 1221 More Place, 537-7294. (72f)

MRS. KIM—Professional dressmaker and tailor. Alterations. 27 years experience. No pattern necessary. 537-2393. (82-111)

STUDENT SPECIALS—Perms $15, cuts $5, at Artistic Hair, 415 N. 3rd St. Call 537-8169. Walk-ins welcome. (84-88)

STOP PAYING $28 hour for VW repairs. Let the Bug Doctor at J & L Auto Service repair your car and save $8 per hour. Only seven minutes east. Hwy 24. Bugs, Rabbits, Ghia's, type 3's included. 1-494-2386, St. George. (85-105)

PROFESSIONAL TYPING—Dissertations, reports, papers, resumes, cover letters. Call 539-2411. (85-89)

DATA SHEETS to dissertations and everything in between. Letter quality Word Processing. Mrs. Burden, 539-1204. (86-90)

SITUATIONS WANTED 19

$10-$360 weekly/yr mailing circulars. No quotas. Sincerely interested rush self-addressed envelope. Success, P.O. Box 470CEG, Woodstock, IL 60096. (76-105)

Bloom County

By Berke Breathed

Garfield

Campus group offering discussion about dying

By The Collegian Staff

The Campus Crusade for Christ, an interdenominational organization, is presenting a multi-image production, "If I should die..." The presentation deals with the reality of death. "If I should die..." is scheduled for 7:30 and 9 tonight in the Union Forum Hall.

The multi-media experience consists of contemporary music lyrics synchronized with more than 1,000 visuals rapidly projected onto three screens from nine computerized projectors.

The production portrays a college couple who are suddenly forced to confront death and how their relationship is altered. Its message communicates a dramatic examination of life, death and beyond.

The intent of the presentation is to invite the viewer to contemplate what the future holds after death and how the death of others should be handled.

The 45-minute show, produced by Paragon Productions, is free to the public.

Roles of Jewish women topic of paper, lecture

By The Collegian Staff

The heroes of two novels described by an instructor in the Department of English vividly depict the problems Jewish women face in trying to break traditional roles.

Shelly Regenbaum, instructor of English, discussed her paper, "Art, Gender and the Jewish Tradition," during Friday Focus on Women at noon in the K-State Union.

"Art, Gender and the Jewish Tradition" compares Anzia Yezierska's book, "Red Ribbon on a White Horse," and Chaim Potok's book, "My Name is Asher Lev."

Regenbaum said Anzia, the female character in Yezierska's fictional work, fails where Asher, the male character in Potok's work, succeeds. The female fails and the male succeeds because of the heavy restrictions put on Jewish women by the conservative Jewish society.

Because Anzia breaks with this tradition and refuses to follow the traditional role as wife and mother, she suffers great guilt and loneliness.

Regenbaum said where Asher is taken seriously by society and treated as a "man among men," Anzia is despised and considered a "crazed woman."

Asher refuses to sacrifice his art for the Jewish Community, Regenbaum said. However, Regenbaum said Anzia cannot live in a world of exile and resigns to tradition and stops writing.

"Anzia is in a state of narcotic bliss. She has killed the artist within her," Regenbaum said.

A discussion followed Regenbaum's presentation in which Sandra Coyner, associate professor of interdisciplinary studies, said Anzia, like most women today, willed herself to be happy with her state. Regenbaum agreed with this interpretation.

Friday Focus is sponsored by the Women's Resource Center. Next Friday at noon in Union 206 the subject is "Teaching Teachers Sex Equity." The series is open to the public.

Staff/John Thelander

Rob Pitman, senior in agronomy, hands a flier to Kim Jones, freshman in journalism and mass communications, while John Evans, junior in journalism and mass communications, measures Carol Hixon, freshman in commercial design, to determine if she will fit in a coffin Friday. The pair were promoting the Campus Crusade for Christ program "If I should die..." scheduled for 7:30 and 9 tonight in Union Forum Hall.

No shadow for groundhog; spring on its way

By The Associated Press

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa. — A reluctant, sleepy groundhog named Punxsutawney Phil was dragged from his Gobbler's Knob burrow at dawn Sunday and failed to see his shadow, predicting an early spring for only the seventh time in 99 years.

"In the cold light of the dawn...he failed to see his shadow behind him. Punxsutawney Phil declares spring is on its way," proclaimed James H. Means, president of the Punxsutawney Groundhog Club.

Groundhogs, also called woodchucks, performed similar duties at other places around the country, and some people admitted it was an excuse to get out and have fun.

Phil, a 10-pound male shoved into an electrically heated and lighted burrow hours before Sunday's ritual, last predicted an early spring in 1983. Unlike other years, the annoyed woodchuck didn't bite Means' fingers during the five-minute ceremony, although Means said he was bitten Saturday.

If the groundhog had seen his shadow, folklore says six more weeks of winter follow, which happens anyway. Spring begins March 20.

For the record, the National Weather Service, in a long-range forecast issued last week, predicted colder and wetter-than-normal weather for the East and Midwest through April.

About 1,500 spectators stood most of the night in the fallen snow and a 45-degree drizzle to cheer Phil's pronouncement of an imminent end to wintry weather.

A similar ceremony took place at Sun Prairie, Wis., where Jimmy the Groundhog couldn't see his shadow, either, and then was escorted along a two-block parade before the community joined in a pancake breakfast.

Enjoy smooth, creamy
Frozen Yogurt
that tastes like Ice Cream
but with 80% less fat!
--FREE SAMPLES--
I Can't Believe It's
YOGURT!
Frozen Yogurt Stores
OPEN: 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Daily
Noon-11 p.m. Sundays
Nautilus Towers-Aggieville

Every Monday
2-FERS
ON ANY PIZZA
Falsetto's
539-3830

Hansen Nutrition Center
Across from Village Plaza
• WEIDER BODY-BUILDING PRODUCTS
• ALL MAJOR BRANDS OF NATURAL FOODS
• WHOLE GRAIN PRODUCTS
• DRIED FRUIT, NUTS & SEEDS
• VEGETARIAN PRODUCTS
• NATURAL DIET AIDS
• BOOKS ON NUTRITION
STOP BY TODAY
537-4571
3112 Anderson
HOURS: Mon.-Sat. 9:30 a.m.-6 p.m.

NACHO NITE TONITE!
•99¢ Nachos ($1.99 Regular)
•$2 Pitchers
MEET YOUR FRIENDS AT...
KITE'S
BAR AND GRILLE

Get rid of the
Monday Blues
$1 House Drinks
ROCKIN' K BAR

MARYSOL
SPA & TANNING SALON
Aggieville
TANNING BEDS & HOT TUBS
New hours starting February 1
Mon.-Fri. 7 a.m.-1 a.m.
Sat. 9 a.m.-1 a.m.
Sun. Noon-9 p.m.
for appt. call 776-7874

Auntie Mae's Parlor
TAKE A BREAK FROM THE BOOKS
—Make Every Night Special At Auntie Mae's—

MONDAYS HIGH ROLLERS Any Single Liquor Call or Premium Drink Only $1.50	TUESDAYS IMPORT BEER NIGHT Featuring Bottles of Mae's Favorite Beers from Across the Seas	WEDNESDAYS $1.25 House Drinks $1.75 Blended Drinks $1.00 Wines
THURSDAYS $1.00 DRINKS $2.00 PITCHERS	FRIDAYS $1.25 VODKA DRINKS 75¢ DRAWS	SATURDAYS $1.25 TONIC DRINKS $1.00 SCHNAPPS

616 N. 12th AGGIEVILLE 539-9967

HOW DO THEY DO IT?
PYRAMID PIZZA
introduces its
MONDAY GLADNESS
Why be mad, when you can be GLAD?
BUY 1, GET 1 FREE
Any Size Pizza!
We deliver... FAST and Friendly-like.
*Never on Sunday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday or Saturday. Just on Mondays!!

Speedy FREE Delivery
BUY 1 SMALL 1 TOPPING PIZZA $4.75 (plus tax)
2 Small
Pepsi's
"We Pile It On!"
GOOD MONDAYS ONLY
Expires 2-3-86
539-4888
707 N. 12th
In Aggieville

Speedy FREE Delivery
BUY 1 Any Size Pizza GET 1 FREE
539-4888
GOOD MONDAYS ONLY
Expires 2-3-86
"We Pile It On!"

Weather

Cloudy

Cloudy today with a 40 percent chance for rain, high in mid- or upper 40s. Cloudy tonight, low in lower 30s.

Inside

AIDS Conference

University AIDS Committee sets education as top priority Friday in a Wichita conference. See Page 7.

Sport

Player Reunion

K-State's 1950-51 second-place NCAA basketball team gathers in Manhattan for a reunion. See Page 6.

Kansas
State

Collegian

Tuesday
February 4, 1986

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 92, Number 90

Coliseum budget crisis hits new peak

By TIM CARPENTER
Editorial Page Editor

The construction cost of the proposed Fred Bramlage Coliseum could be as much as $2 million more than the legislated maximum budget of $14.5 million, an architect for the Kansas Board of Regents said Monday.

Regent architect Warren Corman told members of the Coliseum Planning Committee, a campus group monitoring the 13,500-seat project, that coliseum architect Bill Livingston of Wichita did not include in his budget estimate the $300,000 to $800,000 cost of concrete pile supports for the seating bowl and concourse area, Corman said.

The pile supports would prevent the coliseum's concrete bowl and concourse from cracking as the soil beneath the structure shifts and resettles over the years.

Livingston told the committee in late January "most optimistically" the project would cost $500,000 to $1.1 million more than is budgeted. He did not include the cost of the piles in that estimate. The KSU Foundation has indicated it has contributions to

Funding shortage may reach $2 million cover a $500,000 budget increase, but it cannot cover a $1 million deficit.

"I'm fed up with people not facing issues and not solving them," Corman said. "You are going to have to get the architect to stand still and find out if he can build the project within your budget."

Committee Chairman George Miller, vice president for administration and finance, said if Corman's "figures are accurate we are at a point of no return" and probably cannot build the coliseum.

"There is no question about it. If we need $2 million we are out of the ball park my friend," said Fred Bramlage, a committee member and contributor of $1.75 million to the project. "I think we were hoodwinked by the architect."

The purpose of the meeting was not to address budget problems, but to consolidate the concerns and suggestions gathered from students, faculty and members of the community during two public forums held last week and draft a recommendation for President Duane Acker. No recommendation about project funding was formulated because the architect and the committee need time to address Corman's concern about the concrete pilings.

Architects representing Gossen Livingston Associates — designers of the building — K-State, the regents and the state of Kansas will meet this week in an attempt to resolve the budget crisis.

"There are a lot of figures floating around. We need to get everybody together, find out where we're at, and determine if we are $500,000 over or $2 million over," Miller said.

Following a review by the architects the committee will decide if funds are available to cover any additional cost. If so, the committee would likely make a recommendation to Acker to increase the budget and continue planning on the project. If Acker approves of the plans he would make a similar recommendation to the regents. The board is responsible for asking the Kansas Legislature for permission to alter the budget.

Acker addressed the committee before it began its deliberations and said it serves in a pivotal capacity in developing plans for the coliseum and bears "a very heavy responsibility — especially in making judgments on the quality of the facility proposed and the multi-purpose nature of the facility."

Any decision about the coliseum should be made in the context of four criteria, Acker said. The coliseum drawings must indicate the building would accommodate its planned multi-purpose functions and be built of quality materials. Sources of funding for a budget increase must also be identified and those monitoring the project must have confidence the coliseum would be bid within budget, he said.

Acker cautioned the committee to review any coliseum proposal carefully because it would be unfortunate to repeat the experience "of last year when bids departed so much from what was estimated."

In August 1985, all construction

See COLISEUM, Page 3

Scientists scrutinize remains from shuttle

By The Associated Press

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — Pathologists are examining human remains recovered from the Atlantic to see if they are those of Challenger's astronauts, sources said Monday.

NASA said Monday that it has recovered no shuttle debris so far from the ocean bottom despite six days of searching with sonar and robot submarines. Two promising "targets," the space agency said, turned out to be the old wreckage of a helicopter and a light airplane.

That left 17 other potential targets about 15 miles offshore where photographs and radar indicated that large objects hit the water, NASA said.

But with the sea yielding less debris each day, officials weighed cutting back on the search of the ocean surface. The Navy was pulling its ships out at the end of the day Monday, leaving the sea sweep to the Coast Guard, which also was reviewing whether to continue.

The sources, who spoke on condition they not be identified, would not disclose how many remains had been found or what they were but said they had been taken to a hospital at nearby Patrick Air Force Base to be preserved and studied.

Seven astronauts died in the space shuttle's explosion a week ago, and parts of the shuttle have been found as far away as 220 miles north of Kennedy Space Center.

"As we move away from this terrible day, we must devote our energies to finding out how it happened and how it can be prevented from happening again," President Reagan said Monday in naming a commission

See SHUTTLE, Page 5

Staff/Brad Fanshier

Misty touch

Drawing I students Vicki Melton, freshman in general studies, Jill Dillmon, freshman in architecture, and Shalene Davis, freshman in journalism and mass communications, use umbrellas to ward off a light mist Monday as they work on drawings outside McCain Auditorium.

Reagan's 1986 address to emphasize concern for American families

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — President Reagan prepared Monday to give a State of the Union address seeking to overhaul welfare, protect people against catastrophic health costs and improve the international monetary system.

The major radio and television networks plan to carry the half-hour speech live tonight beginning at 8 p.m. EST. The address was delayed a week because of the explosion of the shuttle Challenger.

In the speech, described by aides as an effort to "redefine the role of government" for the rest of the century, Reagan is expected to call for year-long studies leading to formal proposals to revise federal programs for the needy and initiate policies to deal with currency fluctuations and the costs of catastrophic illness.

Two officials who agreed to discuss the administration plans said the studies would be modeled after the Treasury Department's analysis of the income tax system, which Reagan called for in his 1984 State of the Union address and which led to his proposal to overhaul the tax system.

These White House officials, speaking on condition they not be identified, said Reagan's fifth report to Congress on the state of the nation would emphasize his concern for the American family.

Rather than calling for national sacrifice to meet the stringent spending cuts required by the Gramm-Rudman budget-balancing law, the sources said, Reagan will explain the necessary budget cuts in terms of public versus private priorities.

They said he would contend it is a choice between the federal budget and the family budget and that he would prefer people be permitted to make their own decisions about how much they spend on housing, education and other items rather than letting the government make such decisions through spending on federal programs.

Reagan plans to take a "pro-family" approach to overhauling welfare and support programs, proposing to eliminate provisions that tend to encourage the breakup of families and to pressure more poor people to work rather than depend on government assistance, the sources said.

And he is expected to argue that all families need protection from the skyrocketing costs of catastrophic illness, which can deplete a family's resources and force the victim to depend on government programs for the poor.

States to suffer from budget cuts; groups object to Gramm-Rudman

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — A union and two advocacy groups for the elderly opened their war on Gramm-Rudman budget cuts Monday with a report cataloging $10 billion they said states stand to lose next year in mass transit, school, nutrition and other federal aid programs.

The report from the Service Employees International Union, the National Council of Senior Citizens and the Villers Foundation concludes that the biggest impact would be felt in five of the nation's least populous states: Alaska, Wyoming, Montana, Vermont and South Dakota.

On a per capita basis, their citizens would lose the most aid from programs run by state and local governments with funds from Washington, if cuts in federal spending for fiscal 1987 are triggered this fall under the Gramm-Rudman deficit reduction law, the report said.

The report looked only at cuts in domestic programs, not the military, which by law must absorb half the Gramm-Rudman cuts if Congress fails to find other ways to hold the 1987 deficit to $144 billion.

"The Gramm-Rudman process is a prescription for long-term economic deterioration, a less educated work force, lower standards of living and fewer opportunities for the less fortunate," said the study carried out for the three sponsors by Fiscal Planning Services Inc., a consulting firm that analyzes the federal budget for state and local governments, unions and other clients.

Ronald Pollack, executive director of the Villers Foundation, a research and advocacy group for the elderly, said the report undercuts the "myths" that the poor and elderly will be spared budget cuts. Social Security, Medicaid, food stamps, Aid to Families with Dependent Children and some other social programs are exempt from Gramm-Rudman cuts.

But Pollack said that in 1987 alone, the Head Start program could lose a quarter of its funds, or $278 million; nearly $1 billion could be lopped off the remedial education program for disadvantaged children; $510 million from help for the poor to heat their homes; and $729 million from training for jobless workers.

"The automatic cutbacks...will devastate the middle-class and the poor, the old and the young, residents of urban and rural areas, and will harmfully affect people in all regions," Pollack said at a news conference.

William R. Hutton, executive director of the National Council of Senior Citizens, denounced the budget-balancing mechanism as a "horrendous piece of legislation...a gimmick which makes computers and bureaucrats the fiscal arbiters of the direction of our nation."

The report, "When Gramm-Rudman Triggers...Who Gets Shot?" was emblazoned with a picture of a fist pointing a pistol. "A pacifist's guide to the budget," quipped Pollack.

Gramm-Rudman will force $11.7 billion, or 4.3 percent in cuts, on March 1 in the 1986 budgets of the same military and domestic programs unless Congress comes up with other cuts or savings before then.

The advocacy groups' report assumed a $194 billion deficit for 1987 and $50 billion of mandatory cuts. Pollack acknowledged the cuts could be smaller or larger depending on where the deficit stands in August.

Planning board approves zoning for multiple units

By The Collegian Staff

The Manhattan Urban Area Planning Board passed a rezoning request for neighborhoods east of the University and north of Poyntz Avenue, Tuesday night.

The rezoning changes the neighborhood from an R-3, Multiple Family District to an R-M, Four Family Residential District.

The new zoning affects structures with three or more residential units, and allows a maximum of four units per dwelling in R-M zones.

The rezoning will go to the Manhattan City Commission for final approval.

The board also passed an amendment to allow legally nonconforming structures to be rebuilt even if damaged more than 50 percent.

Current law does not allow reconstruction of such units with damage exceeding 50 percent, which the board was told has delayed insurance settlements in the past.

In other rezoning action, a proposal to rezone a tract of land located north of Anderson Avenue and west of Midland Avenue, from C-1, Restricted Business District to Planned Unit Development for professional offices was tabled.

Jim Morris, 2827 Illinois Lane, who requested the rezoning, said there would be no changes in the existing property, but the change would allow for separate titles, allowing individual ownership of each building.

Bob Smith, 737 Midland Ave., said the neighborhood would support the development as a PUD, but not just the one tract of land.

The board requested the city planning staff look into three issues before that meeting, including the possibility of the city enforcing requested property restrictions, an extended PUD from the original request and a separate PUD for adjoining land.

The special meeting is scheduled for 4 p.m., Feb. 10, in the City Commission Room of the Manhattan City Administration Building, 11th Street and Poyntz Avenue.

Briefly

By The Associated Press

INTERNATIONAL

Prisoner swap to occur in Berlin

BONN, West Germany — An East-West prisoner exchange will be made next week on a Berlin bridge, a Western government source said Monday, and the word in Israel was that it includes Soviet Jewish dissident Anatoly Shcharansky.

The source in Bonn said the swap was arranged by U.S., Soviet and West German officials. Officials in Bonn and Washington refused comment on newspaper reports that such a swap was in the making, and White House spokesman Larry Speakes said, "We will have no comment, period. Top to bottom, no comment."

Israel radio said the United States had informed Israel that Shcharansky would be freed in three days as part of an East-West prisoner swap. It said the Reagan administration sent a message about the plan to Prime Minister Shimon Peres and Foreign Minister Yitzhak Shamir.

An Israeli official in Jerusalem, speaking privately, said the deal involved 12 prisoners held in Western countries to be exchanged for Shcharansky and perhaps one other person held by the Soviets.

Death toll climbs in Haitian riots

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti — President-for-Life Jean-Claude Duvalier sent soldiers to two northern trouble spots Monday and rode around in a bulletproof car in an effort to show that he is in control after a week of riots.

Doctors and other sources said more than 50 people may have been killed in the violence.

Duvalier also met with U.S. Ambassador Clayton McManaway Jr. The United States is the main source of aid to his impoverished Caribbean nation, and the amount of aid could be affected by Duvalier's human rights record.

The army convoy was seen moving through Port-au-Prince to the highway to Cap-Haitien and Gonaives, where some of the most violent riots occurred last week.

Journalists are prohibited from leaving Port-au-Prince without government authorization.

REGIONAL

Senators hear proposal on bingo

TOPEKA — Proposals to increase the number of bingo games which would be played in a week, require news organizations to pay rent for space they use in the Statehouse and allow the state to invest in economic development programs were introduced Monday in the Kansas Senate.

The bingo game bill and Statehouse rent proposal were sponsored by Sen. Ben Vidricksen, R-Salina. Under the first measure, bingo games would be allowed four days a week, instead of the current three, with just a 24-hour cooling off period rather than the current 44-hour period.

The rent proposal calls for the secretary of administration, who controls most all state office space, to enter into lease agreements with news organizations and other corporations which use space under the Statehouse dome.

NATIONAL

Bill would require label on snuff

WASHINGTON — The House, faced with mounting evidence that youngsters are turning to snuff and chewing tobacco as alternatives to cigarettes, voted Monday to require health warning labels on smokeless tobacco and to ban their broadcast advertising.

The bill, approved on a voice vote, would require one of three rotating warning labels to be added to tins and pouches: "This product may cause oral cancer," "This product may cause gum disease and tooth loss" or "This product is not a safe alternative to cigarettes."

Arrows and circles would draw attention to the warning labels. And television and radio advertising, which now often feature professional athletes touting the products, would be banned.

"The passage of this bill will allow us all to go home ... and say that we've made a major step toward protecting the health of young people throughout our country," said Rep. Mike Synar, D-Okla.

Congressmen urge regional peace

WASHINGTON — Kansas' two Democrats in Congress asked President Reagan on Monday to postpone a request for new aid to Nicaraguan rebels and instead put the "power, prestige and good offices" of the United States behind a regional peace initiative.

Reps. Jim Slattery and Dan Glickman were among 31 House members to sign a letter urging Reagan to support peace efforts involving the Contadora nations of Mexico, Colombia, Venezuela and Panama and to offer to meet with leaders of the countries "to explore any actions the U.S. might take to facilitate a diplomatic solution" in Central America.

The letter, which was sent to the White House on Monday, also asks Reagan to back the establishment of a bipartisan delegation to help support the Contadora peace effort.

Last year, Congress approved a $27 million package of non-lethal, "humanitarian" aid for the rebels. That runs out March 31, setting the stage for another round of debate on the issue. Both Slattery and Glickman voted against the $27 million last year.

PEOPLE

Doonesbury's 'Duke' possibly alive

FAIRWAY — No need to mourn Duke's death in the comic strip "Doonesbury."

The hard-drinking, self-styled recreational drug expert and veteran of shady dealings was found apparently lifeless 11 days ago by his female companion, Honey. That prompted Lee Salem, spokesman for Universal Press which syndicates Garry Trudeau's strip, to say "it appears that he's really dead."

However, Monday's strip showed Honey and another of Garry Trudeau's "Doonesbury" characters realizing that before Duke's apparent death he had been given a massage by a voodoo student and exclaiming, "He's a zombie. We buried him alive!"

The final panel was a black box that showed someone talking in the dark — presumably in a casket. "This has got to be the worst hangover of my entire life," the character said.

Campus Bulletin

ANNOUNCEMENTS

MORTAR BOARD applications are available in the Union Activities Office and are due Wednesday.

SORORITY OPEN RUSH will be from Feb. 10 through Feb. 24. Registration forms are available in Holton 203 and are due by 5 p.m. Wednesday.

BLUE KEY applications are available in Anderson 122 and are due by 5 p.m. Friday.

CAREER PLANNING AND PLACEMENT offers computerized career planning assistance. See the receptionist in Holtz Hall for a SIGI appointment.

TODAY

KAPPA DELTA PI meets at 4 p.m. in Bluemont 217.

COLLEGE REPUBLICANS meets at 7 p.m. in Union 206.

PHI UPSILON OMICRON meets at 7:30 p.m. in Union 212.

WOMEN IN COMMUNICATIONS INC. meets at 4 p.m. in Kedzie 104.

SPURS meets at 9 p.m. in Union 209.

FOODS AND NUTRITION INTEREST GROUP meets at 4:30 p.m. in Justin 149.

NATIONAL AGRI-MARKETING ASSOCIATION will have a career seminar from 2:30 to 5:30 p.m. in the Union Big Eight Room.

FRENCH TABLE meets at 12:30 p.m. in Union Stateroom 1.

ASSOCIATION OF ADULTS RETURNING TO SCHOOL meets from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. in Union Stateroom 3.

PUBLIC RELATIONS STUDENT SOCIETY OF AMERICA meets at 7:30 p.m. in Union 204.

AMATEUR RADIO CLUB meets at 7:30 p.m. in Durland 161.

PI SIGMA EPSILON meets at 7 p.m. in the Union Big Eight Room.

LITTLE SISTERS OF THE STAR AND LAMP: Officers meet at 9:30 p.m. at the Pi Kappa Phi house. A general meeting will follow at 10 p.m.

INSTITUTE OF INDUSTRIAL ENGINEERS meets at 7 p.m. in Union Forum Hall.

PRE-LAW CLUB meets at 7:30 p.m. in Union 207.

Looking Back

20 Years Ago — 1966

Three proposed budget changes affecting K-State, the Schilling Institute and the Women's Industrial Farm at Lansing were disclosed today by Gov. William H. Avery. The proposed changes include an extra appropriation of nearly $50,000 for the University to continue some research projects in wheat and grain sorghums.

15 Years Ago — 1971

Speculation about growing U.S. military involvement in Laos has prompted a group of students to petition Washington officials for some answers. The petition questions the nature of recently reported involvement in Laos and Cambodia.

Riley County met its January Selective Service quota of six. Thelma Mailen, executive secretary of Local Board 63, said it was the first time in months the board met its quota. Riley County was about 25 men short of its quota in 1970 because it couldn't call men holding numbers over 195.

10 Years Ago — 1976

Space is a problem on the entire campus, said Paul Young, vice president for University development. A study conducted by his office shows K-State needs another 50,000 square feet of space in order to adequately cover the University's needs.

A movement initiated by a Manhattan woman to have the Unification Church audited has gained the attention of the Internal Revenue Service. Last month, Sen. Bob Dole called for an IRS audit of the church at the request of a group of Kansas parents and ex-Unification Church members. The group is headed, in part, by Jean Tuttle of Manhattan.

5 Years Ago — 1981

K-State may have violated National Collegiate Athletic Association rules in its track program, The Kansas City Times has reported. In a copyright story, the newspaper said a lengthy investigation had uncovered possible violations, primarily involving unauthorized use of telephone credit card numbers.

Compiled from the University Archives

THE ICECREAM SOCIAL

Makes old-fashioned ice cream treats — still America's #1 dairy treat. You'll love our atmosphere

537-7079 1314 Westloop

LAFENE STUDENT HEALTH CENTER

532-6544

"Your Medical Facility"

MONT BLUE APARTMENTS

Studio, one, and two bedroom apartments and town houses.

Close to Campus

Phone 539-4447

Buy a 16" pizza
Get a 10" pizza

FREE

Falsetto's
539-3830

STUDENT GOVERNING ASSOCIATION FINANCE COMMITTEE

Duties Include

1. Finance Committee will make recommendations regarding the allotment of the Student activity fee.
2. Finance Committee will make recommendations regarding all special allocation bills.

Applications are available in the Student Government Services Office in the K-State Union and are due February 14 at 5:00 p.m.

DON'T MISS IT
The
Phi Alpha Theta
Annual Book
Sale
8:30-5:00
Wednesday
Feb. 5
located 2nd Floor
Eisenhower

Presenting...

TOM DAVIS

*Senior Vice President

*Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City

"Monetary Policy—Prospects For 1986"

Tues, Feb. 4th
11 a.m.-12 noon
Union Catskeller
Sponsored by: Economics Club

IMPORTANT NOTICE

ACCORDING TO THE KANSAS STATUTES AND REGULATIONS, ALL STUDENTS ATTENDING KANSAS SCHOOLS ARE REQUIRED TO MEET IMMUNIZATION REQUIREMENTS

Students Born in 1956 or Before are required to report year of:

1. Last Tetanus Injection (last within 8-10 years)
2. Intradermal TB Skin Test or Chest X-ray (within last 10 months)

Students Born in 1957 or After are required to report year you had the disease or year of immunization

1. Tetanus (3 required) (last within 8-10 years)
2. Rubella*
3. Measles*
4. Mumps*
5. MMR (Measles, Mumps and Rubella in one injection)
6. Polio (3 required) - oral or injection
7. Intradermal TB Skin Test or Chest X-ray (within last 10 months)

*Reported month and year is required

Be sure that your immunizations are up to date by stopping by Lafene Health Center.

REMEMBER - THIS IS REQUIRED BY ALL STUDENTS
LAFENE HEALTH CENTER
"Your Medical Facility"

SPRING BREAK "It's A Jungle Out There"

This is no ordinary jungle warfare. It's hot sun, frenzied action, and fabulously fit, tropically flavored swimwear from Arena. And that's not all. Beneath this sultry island look is the sinewy strength, and the rugged individualism of the world's greatest competition swimwear.

One Piece-2 Piece Swimsuits
Swim Accessories Size 28-42

BALLARD'S

1218 MORO
539-2441

SAMS ready to kick off campaign

By PENNIE BRENNEMAN
Collegian Reporter

After months of planning, Students Against Multiple Sclerosis will kick off its fund-raising campaign with a party at 8 tonight at Brother's Tavern, said Sally Traeger, senior in marketing and campus chairperson for SAMS.

"The SAMS drive is a major fund-raising event that is taking place on campus for the first time in a nationwide effort to 'Bust MS,'" Traeger said. "Campuses all over the U.S. are participating and tonight marks the beginning of competition for the contestants."

Proceeds from the event go to the National Multiple Sclerosis Society, where 53 percent will go directly to research, 40 percent to individual chapters for things such as wheelchairs, and 7 percent will go for administrative costs, Traeger said.

Tonight's party is the kick-off during which contestants will be introduced for the "Rock Alike" contest to be held Feb. 25.

"Tonight contestants will make their first appearance dressed as the rock star of their choice, and voting will begin," said Beth Winans, sophomore in pre-medicine and assistant director of the special events committee.

"At 8:30 p.m. contestants will be introduced and will raise money throughout the evening by receiving votes in a jar," she said.

"Each contestant will have a jar with his or her picture on it. Silver coins deposited will equal a positive vote, and pennies and dollars will represent a negative vote," Winans said.

Contestants are required to raise 300 points in order to qualify for the final lip-synch competition.

"I don't see the point requirement as a problem," Winans said. "Each contestant has a campaign manager who will assist in accumulating the 300 points that are necessary to qualify for the final competition."

"Enthusiasm for the contestants

so far has been great and we are expecting a large number of supporters," she said.

The winner of the final competition will go on to compete regionally and then possibly nationally. The national winner will receive an internship with Music Television and will become national spokesman for SAMS.

"The rock alikes (contestants) are excited and will need all of their supporters present to cheer them on," Winans said.

In addition to the introduction of the "Rock Alike" contestants at tonight's event, movie passes, sun-tan sessions and a hot tub party will be auctioned off by Doug Schiebe, senior in journalism and mass communications and accounting, and Mark Baker, senior in agricultural economics.

Contestants still wanting to enter the competition can turn in their entry forms today in the Student Governing Association office or tonight at Brother's.

Candidates to debate at Putnam

By The Collegian Staff

Student body presidential candidates will introduce themselves and address issues during a debate beginning at 8 tonight in the living room of Putnam Hall. The debate is sponsored by Putnam and the KSU Association of Residence Halls.

Candidates will introduce themselves and then move into three rounds of questions and a round of concluding statements.

The debate will last about 70 minutes, said Walter DeBacker, junior in finance and coordinator of the event.

In the first two rounds, the moderator will ask the initial question. Each candidate will receive the same question for one round. After a candidate answers the initial question, a follow-up question will be asked by the candidate to the speaker's right.

The second round will be similar to the first but with the speaking order reversed.

Before the debate begins, members of the audience will be asked to write out questions. From these, residents of Putnam will select several "good" questions and place them in a hat.

DeBacker said he was "excited" about the format this year "because the candidates will be asking each other questions."

The public is encouraged to attend.

Coliseum

Continued from Page 1

bids on the then planned 16,000-seat coliseum were several million dollars above the funds available. Since that time 2,500 seats, administrative and coaches offices and the concession/restroom facility at the north end of the coliseum have been eliminated in an attempt to get the project within budget.

Vince Cool, a member of the committee and the University architect in charge of the project, said last week he hoped the committee could get legislative approval to increase the budget this week so Livingston could begin work on design drawings by Feb. 10.

However, Acker said the committee should not "expect me to make an abrupt judgment." No decision would be made on the committee's recommendation until "I am perfectly satisfied the plan meets the four criteria," Acker said.

Corman said K-State "should either raise enough money to do the project right or abandon it. If you raise extra money fine. If not, hold the architect's feet to the fire. It is easy to gloss over the problems, but that's what we did last time."

As the discussion focused more on the possibility the design under consideration may not be feasible, given cost overruns and budget limits, Bramlage said K-State needs to build the facility to be competitive in the Big Eight.

"The name of the game, face it, is that you gotta have winning ball teams. (The coliseum) could be the one thing to get it. The difference in a full house and 8,000 (for basketball) and 25,000 and 40,000 (for football) is a few million. That's big bucks. We can't be in last place and expect to get people in."

Bramlage suggested Livingston should be fired and a new architect hired. The state of Kansas has paid Livingston $550,000 of his total fee of $740,000, Corman said. The balance was to have been paid during the construction phase, but is now in limbo. Bramlage did not receive widespread support from committee members present for his proposal to terminate the contract with Livingston.

The coliseum is to be funded with $7 million in student fees, $2 million from the athletic department and the remainder from the KSU Foundation. It will be located south of KSU Stadium on the northwest corner of campus.

Enjoy smooth, creamy
Frozen Yogurt
that tastes like Ice Cream
but with 80% less fat!
--FREE SAMPLES--
I Can't Believe It's YOGURT!
Frozen Yogurt Stores
OPEN: 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Daily
Noon-11 p.m. Sundays
Nautilus Towers-Aggieville

Tuesday Special
at Edgie's
Restaurant & Ice Creamery
Pepperoni Pizza Pizza Burger
Includes waffle fries and medium drink $3.49
12th & Laramie 537-3999 Open Daily Till Midnight

BUSHWACKERS
THE FUNDRIKERY
$1.50 well
$1.00 wine
80¢ draws
Tonight!
Tired of the Same Old Crowd?
Try... A reciprocating club

4¢ Copies
Reductions & Enlargements
Wall Street Journal
Rocky Mountain News
New York Times
Classical CD's
Claflin Books
Till 9:30 p.m.
Sun.-Fri.
Till 5 p.m.
Sat.

Tuesday
IMPORT BEER NIGHT
Featuring Bottles of
Mae's Favorite Beers
From Across the Seas
$1.25

Auntie Mae's Parlor
AGGIEVILLE
Memberships available
616 N. 12th 539-9967
Memberships
only $10.45
Reciprocates with all Aggie clubs.
Get yours today.

RECORD—TAPE SALE
Now In Progress!
CLASSICAL ROCK FOLK
JAZZ COUNTRY
Records start as low as $1.98!
Cassette tapes as low as $3.98!
Varney's
BOOK STORE
IN AGGIEVILLE
9-9 MON.-SAT. 12-5 SUN.
On the edge of campus, in the heart of Aggieville.

Announcing
SKINNY DIPP'N TUESDAYS

Eat a whole plate full of loaded potato skins for just 50¢. Eat all you want every Tuesday 4-7 p.m.
Ramada Inn

Love is . . .
seeing eye to eye

See us for all your regular eye care and contact lens eye care.
Soft Contact Lenses Are Available...
♥ Tinted (To accent or change the color of your eyes)
♥ Extended Wear (To sleep with, even for astigmatism)
♥ Bifocal (for reading difficulties)
♥ Regular Type (For near and far sightedness)
♥ Toric (For astigmatism)
♥ Oxygen Permeable (Rigid)
Ask us about our cosmetics for contact lens wearers.
Tinted Extended Wear Lenses Available
Payment Plans Available
Replacement Lenses and Solutions In Stock
Dr. Paul E. Bullock & Dr. Brian J. Horsch
Practice of Optometry
776-9461 404 Humboldt
Toll Free 1-800-432-0036
Manhattan, KS

BIG DOG DAY!
•99¢ Big Hot Dogs 6-9:00
•$1.39 Chili Dogs 1/4 Pounds
•50¢ Draws •$2 Pitchers
Join Us Today!
MEET YOUR FRIENDS AT...
KITE'S
BAR AND GRILLE
Greek Nite Tomorrow!

WE'LL PAY BACK YOUR LOAN, BUT THERE'S A HITCH.
You'll like it, though.
Because every year you serve with us, we reduce your college debt by one-third or $1,500, whichever is greater. Greater still, after three years your loan's repaid in full.
You'll also like the satisfaction and pride you'll feel as you learn a valuable skill. One you use to serve yourself as well as your country.
It's all a part of the Loan Repayment Program. To qualify, you must have taken out a National Direct, Guaranteed or Federally Insured Student Loan after October 1, 1975. And your loan can't be in default.
So if you'd like Uncle Sam to pay off your college loan, pay your local Army Recruiter a visit today. Or call.
CALL: 776-8551
ARMY.
BE ALL YOU CAN BE.

VALENTINE BEGINNINGS . . .

THAT GO ON & ON...
Valentines enjoy the value of a gift that lasts, pass it on!
4th through the 14th Save 10% on anything that covers your heart, blouses, sweatshirts, jackets . . .

BRASS BUCKLE
Get a 25⁰⁰ gift certificate for only 20⁰⁰ plus have it wrapped!
We're Happy To Gift Wrap — FREE!
118 South 4th Downtown Manhattan Mon.-Fri. 9-8 Thurs. 9-9 Sat. 9-6 Sun. 12-5 Buckle Charge

Editor: David Svoboda
Associate Editor: Lillian Zier
News Editor: Patty Reinert
Managing Editor: Jeri Heidrick

Editorial Page Editor: Tim Carpenter
Photo/Graphics Editor: Chris Stewart
Advertising Manager: Lori Wong
Director/News Adviser: Dave Adams

Editorial Board: David Svoboda, Tim Carpenter, Melissa Brune, Rich Harris, Jeri Heidrick, Steve Milligan, Patty Reinert, Vicki Reynolds, Eric Rhodenbaugh, Tammy Rickerson, Catherine Saylor, Tom Schultes, Richard Thorp, Jonie Trued, Lillian Zier.

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 520) is published by Student Publications, Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods. OFFICES are in the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 532-6555. Newsroom phone number is 532-6556; display advertising, 532-6560; and classified advertising 532-6555. SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: $40, calendar year; $35, academic year; $20, semester; $10, summer term. Address changes should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

Editorial

Tuesday, February 4, 1986 — 4

Land grant institutions among best

What is a land grant university?

It is a university with an outstanding collection of Australian art. It is a university with 11 Nobel laureates and 84 members of the National Academy of Sciences.

It is a university that produces a United States secretary of state. It is a university with one of the top football teams and best overall graduate institution in the nation. It is a school that produces 1,700 United Artist movies. Or a school with a library with 6.5 million volumes and with a student body composed of persons from every state and 100 foreign nations.

As the Presidential Search Committee narrows its choices one quality the next K-State president must possess is a clear understanding of the land grant tradition. Too often the term "land grant" has been used by Kansas policy makers to imply that K-State must limit itself to the study of agriculture and the mechanical arts.

On a national scale the accomplishments of land grant universities are so vast and varied as to preclude limits.

Purdue University with a sponsored research program of over $80 million best states the philosophy the nation's leading land grant universities hold in regard to the Morrill Act of 1862. Purdue's university catalog explains: "The University has sought to remain true to the spirit of the Morrill Act, particularly by promoting agriculture and industry of the state. But it has also been guided by the principles of this charter to concentrate on these technical subjects 'without excluding other scientific and classical studies and including military tactics.'"

Purdue's idea of extension is far-reaching. Its graduates have been the first and last to set foot on the moon.

President Paul E. Grey outlines the educa-

CATHERINE
SAYLER
Collegian
Columnist

tion land grant graduates of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology receive. "The attention to the humanistic elements and the human consequences of all that we do must be broadly shared. For not only do we need more science and technology, but we need to understand — and to engage — the larger social, cultural and historical domains of which they are a part."

"I would found an institution where any person can find instruction in any subject," Ezra Cornell wrote as he was planning Cornell University with the aid of land grant funds. The Ivy League university boasts of "having available in libraries, art galleries and concert halls the words of wise men and the creation of artists."

Cornell's insect collection of four million specimens is the largest anywhere and its study of palms, a plant second only to grasses in economic importance, is world renowned.

The University of Wisconsin, among the top 10 institutions in terms of academic quality since 1900, demonstrates its land grant diversity by its catalog description.

"The university has its own nuclear reactor, one of the finest textile collections in the country, a building in which nearly every conceivable environmental condition can be simulated...a collection of more than 1,700 United Artist corporation movies from 1919-51 and a mastodon skeleton."

George Washington received his honorary doctorate from Brown University which accepted funds from the Morrill Act when they became available. The University is saturated with a tradition of excellence too vast to document but its progressive ideas of 1857, a time steeped in Puritan ethics, are quite interesting.

U.S. Secretary of State John Hay during Theodore McKinley and Teddy Roosevelt's administrations, was one of several undergraduates who experimented with hashish at Brown in 1857. The drug was then linked with artistic creativity and enjoyed great respectability at Brown.

The Moody collection of Australian art is a unique twist to Pennsylvania State University's land grant tradition as is its nationally recognized football team — the Nittany Lions.

The best overall graduate institution in the nation is the University of California at Berkeley, another land grant school. The university boasts of 25 libraries with 6.5 million volumes, students from every state and 100 countries, an anthropology museum with over 600,000 specimens, 11 Nobel laureates and 84 members of the National Academy of Sciences on the faculty and more Guggenheim Fellows in the last 20 years than any other university in the country.

K-State, distinguished as the nation's first land grant university, has a tradition of diversity, too. "Recognize K-State for what it is, Kansas' land grant university... You should not apologize for that," said former Kansas Board of Regents member Wendell Lady.

Lady's words could not have been more accurate. He must have done his research.

Educational exchange benefits entire world

When President Reagan and Soviet General Secretary Mikhail Gorbachev agreed on cultural and scientific exchanges during their summit last fall, the spirits of many K-State students picked up.

The mere thought of Soviet citizens on campus leads to much intrigue as well as hope that, on an individual basis at least, Soviets and K-State students can develop a rapport. A new University Office of International Programs, established by Provost Owen Koeppe last week, may be the key to demonstrate to Washington that K-State has the organization and willingness to host such exchanges.

The new office, headed by Vernon Larson, currently the director of the international agriculture program at K-State, is designed to serve as an agency for communication and coordination of international activities. Almost every sector of the University is involved in some form of international activity and one of Larson's goals is to "have a greater diversity and to increase the number of students from other lands."

Larson will work to create a broader awareness of international opportunity, an action that both economically and culturally has great advantages. International students contribute so much to the University atmosphere, both in terms of innovative research and in their diversity of ideas, customs and values. Koeppe and Larson are aware of the decline in the number of international students at K-State in recent years and hope to reverse the trend.

The new emphasis on international awareness and cultural exchanges signifies a new age, one of individual understanding and concern. For K-State students, the change means an opportunity for broader discovery of the world. For the world, the change offers the greatest possibility for peace.

Catherine Saylor,
for the editorial board

This family reunion has a happy ending

Congratulations are in order. Congratulations to Shannon Opfer, fifth-year senior in apparel design. Congratulations to her biological mother, Jean Bradford. And congratulations to her adoptive parents, Elmer and Esther Opfer.

After years of searching, Shannon met Bradford for the first time Thursday night.

Bradford was 16 years old and unmarried when she became pregnant with Shannon. She should be commended on the selfless decision she made — to place Shannon in the hands of parents better able to care for her.

Bradford said giving up her baby was "the hardest thing I've ever had to do." But it was also a reasonable and brave thing to do. Congratulations are also in order for Shannon's adoptive parents — the two people who have loved and cared for Shannon for the past 23 years.

They can be proud — as Shannon can be — that she is enlightened enough to say of them, "My parents are the ones who have always been there for me. They have supported me in everything I've tried to achieve," and of her biological mother, "She loved me enough to do the best thing for me, and that was to give me up."

The fight to open adoption records in many states has led to much controversy. There are good arguments on both sides. Rights of the biological parents, adoptive parents and adoptees must all be balanced. But Shannon's story is one which lends support to reunions between adoptees and their biological parents — if both parties are willing.

Patty Reinert,
for the editorial board

Renaming of complex Trotter's just reward

The third largest state-owned building in Kansas was renamed Friday in honor of Donald Trotter, former dean of the College of Veterinary Medicine.

Trotter Hall is one of three buildings constructed between 1972 and 1978 housing the 483,000-square-foot veterinary medical sciences, teaching and clinical sciences facilities. Only the University of Kansas Medical Center and the state office building in Topeka are larger.

Trotter served as dean from 1971-84 and was instrumental in the planning and construction of the veterinary medicine facilities, all of which were built during his tenure as dean.

President Duane Acker commended Trotter on Friday for his 30 years of service to the University and his dedication to students. Trotter is leaving K-State, but his vision of academic excellence continues under the direction of Dean James Coffman.

Enrollment in the college is highly selective and limited to students with a commitment to professionalism. The college's excellent faculty provides students the opportunity to achieve academic excellence.

Trotter Hall is a fine tribute to a man who has been an important influence over the college during its years of transformation. K-State and its constituents have been served well by the college. We are confident it will continue to do so.

Tim Carpenter,
editorial page editor

Parks clarifies passage from book

The Native Sons and Daughters of Kansas have recognized Gordon Parks as 1985 Kansas of the Year. The Fort Scott native is internationally known as a writer, photographer, composer and film director.

Parks received his award last week at a dinner that was part of Kansas Day observances. As the toastmaster introduced Parks he read a paragraph of Parks' autobiography "A Choice of Weapons." In the passage Parks writes of leaving Kansas after his mother's death.

"Butterflies to chase through the grass as high as the chin...fireflies and restless stars, and the winding sound of the cricket rubbing dampness from its wings." This was where the toastmaster quit reading, but as Parks reached the podium he mentioned the omission of the last of the paragraph. He then quoted it for the audience.

"Yet as the train sped along, the telephone poles whizzed toward and past us, I had a feeling that I was escaping a doom which had already trapped the friends and relatives I was leaving behind. For although I was departing from this beautiful land, it would be impossible to ever forget the fear hatred

TAMMY RICKERSON
Collegian
Columnist

and violence we blacks had suffered upon it."

It's noteworthy to see the Native Sons and Daughters recognize an artist like Parks. Though it's unfortunate that they chose to overlook the ending of the paragraph. Our state's heritage and Parks' experiences come into focus when the complete passage is read. Half of a story is only half of the truth.

Ignoring the past is a mistake. We can only hope to move ahead by learning from our experiences as Parks succeeded in doing.

When Parks went on with his acceptance speech he talked about learning in Kansas.

"Much of what I've accomplished is because I've accepted the weaknesses of Kansas, but the strengths of Kansas were the things that pulled me through."

Parks learned from his mother to try and understand people regardless of their race, religion or background. This was one of the strengths Parks took with him into adulthood and life outside of Kansas when he left at age 16.

Parks was the first winner of the Julius Rosenwald fellowship which offered him the chance to study with the artist of his choice. He went to work with photographer Roy Stryker at the Farm Security Administration. Later Parks was a writer and photographer for Life magazine.

He is the author of several books including "The Learning Tree," which is a fictional account of Parks' early life in Fort Scott. He also directed the movie with the same title.

Two years ago the Manhattan Mercury commissioned Parks to do a photo-essay on Manhattan. He took a second set of pictures in 1985. Together with the Manhattan Arts Council he is selecting pictures for a showing in April.

Letters

Housing dilemma

Editor,
Re: Michael J. Leland's letter, "Smoking fire alarm," in the Jan. 23 Collegian:

After reading Leland's letter I must say I agree with his point that the "housing office has too much power" over students in the residence halls. I must disagree, however, with a couple of points he brought up. To withdraw from school is a viable excuse for leaving a residence hall. Marriage will only be acceptable if you agree to live in Jardine Terrace, for the remainder of your contract period.

The financial hardship issue is the one I have the problem with. I tried unsuccessfully to be released from my housing contract due to financial hardship. I was told by Director of Housing Thomas Frith my case was not strong enough to get me out of my contract and I would not be saving enough money living off campus to warrant the cancellation. He did say I could go before the Contract

Cancellation Committee to see what their decision would be and if they decided to let me out of my contract I would be faced with a cancellation fee which would use up most of what I would be saving by moving off campus. I want to know one thing. Who are they to decide what a substantial savings is to me?

I realize in this period of declining enrollment keeping residence halls as full as possible is one of the highest priorities of the housing department. But maybe they should decide whether it is more important to have me as a resident in their hall or to have me as a student in the University.

Shelly Nanninga
Junior in elementary education

Thanks to the band

Editor,
Now that the spring semester has begun we would like to publicly thank all those wonderful students who visited Wharton

Manor Nursing Home during the holidays. Many came in groups to sing Christmas carols and others came to share holiday greetings.

One group which visited was Paul Shull, professor of music, and his Brass Ensemble. Everyone is busy during the holidays and to come by and visit the manor and fill the dining room with beautiful music is greatly appreciated. The residents thoroughly enjoyed the entertainment and the opportunity to visit with band members. We welcome all those students who have a desire to come by and share a few moments visiting the elderly in our nursing home.

Norman G. Wallace director/administrator of Wharton Manor

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR pertaining to matters of public interest are encouraged. All letters must be typewritten or neatly printed.

Twin-screen theater closes

By The Collegian Staff

After the late showings of "The Jewel of the Nile" and "Runaway Train," the Westloop Twin Theatres' doors closed behind moviegoers for the last time Thursday night.

Commonwealth Theatres, the corporation operating the theaters, also has a six-screen complex which opened Dec. 6 in the Westloop Shopping Center.

Bob Howard, city manager for Commonwealth, said the lease for the recently opened facility included an option for either Commonwealth or their landlord, Southmark Commercial, Dallas, to end the twin-complex lease.

Southmark also owns the shopping center.

Howard said the openings of the new Commonwealth structure and the new Seth Child's Cinema, Seth Child's and Farm Bureau roads, were not decisive factors in the closing.

Howard also said the six-plex facility was doing "really good...we're really proud of it."

In addition to the Westloop Cinema 6 facility, Commonwealth also operates three other Manhattan theaters, the Campus Theatre and Varsity Theatre in Aggieville, and the Wareham Theatre downtown.

Commonwealth owns the Campus and Varsity facilities, but leases the Wareham location.

Wal-Mart rezoning to top agenda

By The Collegian Staff

An ordinance to rezone a tract of land in southwest Manhattan for a new Wal-Mart facility will have its first reading at tonight's Manhattan City Commission meeting.

The ordinance, which was received without recommendation from the Manhattan Urban Area Planning Board, would rezone about 10 acres of land west of Seth Child's Road and south of Shuss Road from a single-family residential district to a planned unit development.

The rezoning is being requested by the landowner, Jim Johns, 311 Shuss Road.

In downtown redevelopment action, the commission will review final plans and design of the Town Center Mall project with the developers and architects.

The commission will also consider authorizing deferred rental payments for Capitol Air Lines at Manhattan Municipal Airport. The deferred payments are part of a deal between the city and the airline to ease the airline's financial burden.

Commissioners are scheduled to receive the results of a land survey for a sports complex in the Hunters Island district from Park and Recreation Director Terry DeWeese. An alternate location is south of Anderson Avenue near Hudson Avenue.

In action concerning the Anderson Avenue location, commissioners will consider condemnation of railroad property, totalling about 100 acres, similar to the size of Cico Park in northwest Manhattan.

The commission meets at 7 p.m. in the Commission Meeting Room of the city administration building, 11th Street and Poyntz Avenue.

Shuttle

Continued from Page 1

to investigate the cause of the catastrophe independently of NASA. He said it would be headed by former Secretary of State William P. Rogers and former astronaut Neil Armstrong.

The interim NASA board set up to investigate will no longer exist, said White House spokesman Larry Speakes. The board is headed by Jesse Moore, an associate administrator of NASA, and includes the directors of the Kennedy Space Center and the Marshall Space Flight Center in Alabama.

Whether the human remains were washed up on the beaches or found at sea, the sources would not say. They would not say when the remains were found. NASA would neither confirm nor deny the report.

At the White House ceremony introducing the new board, NASA acting director William Graham refused to comment directly on the report.

"On the issue of human remains, all I can tell you at this point is that we are sensitive to the issue of personal effects and to the remains of the astronauts," he said. "We have plans in place to treat them with great dignity and great privacy, appropriate to the respect that we have for them."

The agency acknowledged five days earlier that one bone section washed ashore, but has never said whether it was identified as coming from an astronaut. It cautioned that the bone could be that of an animal or remains from missing fishermen and other people.

On Monday, the search area was tripled from the day before, with the concentration on 20,000 square miles.

"The problem is we are now searching all the way up to Charleston and by the end of the week you'll be out another 200 to 400 miles north," Simpson said.

HUNAM Restaurant FREE DELIVERY HUNAM EXPRESS
11 a.m.-1 a.m.
1304 Westloop 539-8888 1116 Moro
(10% Off w/KSU ID) 537-0886 (Egg Roll & Fried Rice 99¢)

Apply now for the

$1,000 W. Leroy Culbertson Steel Ring Leadership Scholarship

- Open to all Juniors in Engineering
- Based on leadership in academic & extra-curricular activities

Applications & Information available in Durland 142

MR. K'S

Just Today!

Pina Coladas Only $1!

They're New Just For You!

ATTENTION COLLEGE OF BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION STUDENTS

BUSINESS CAREER OPPORTUNITY SEMINARS

Present Job Market
Future Job Opportunities
Salary Expectations

Feb. 4, 1986, 4 p.m., Calvin 209

Careers in Accounting.....Dr. Maurice Stark
Careers in Finance.....Dr. Robert Hollinger

Feb. 6, 1986, 4 p.m., Calvin 209

Careers in Marketing.....Dr. Wayne Norvell
Careers in Management.....Dr. William Liddell

TACO TUESDAY

Have it 3 ways:

- UNO
2 Tacos + 1 Margarita $2.99
 - DOS
2 Tacos + Salad Bar $2.99
 - TRES
3 Tacos $2.75
- From 11 a.m.-4 p.m.

Bockers two

RAMADA INN

In search of the illusive Bullfrog?

$1.25 Bullfrogs

Tonight at

ROCKIN' K BAR

STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION BUDGETS DUE

Budget requests for funds from the student activity fee are due to SGA Finance Committee February 14. For more information call or stop by the Student Government Services Office (532-6541) ground floor, K-State Union.

ELIGIBILITY FOR CARE AT LAFENE STUDENT HEALTH CENTER

1. Health fees are established upon the recommendation of the Student Senate with approval by the Board of Regents.
2. All students who are enrolled and attending classes during a regular semester or summer session who have paid health fees are eligible for care.
3. Those enrolled in Special Courses, for varying periods of time, who have made previous arrangements for health care coverage at Lafene are eligible for care. (Lists of these students must be furnished prior to being seen at Lafene.)
4. Only students, who have paid the health fee, may elect to have their spouse also covered at Lafene; however, they must pay the spouse fee within 10 days of the time their own health fees are paid. (Children cannot be seen.)
5. Emergency care, prior to referral, will be given anyone who comes in.
6. Students enrolled in 6 hours or less, electing not to pay the health fee during the Fall or Spring semesters, who wish to be seen, will be charged $20 for each office visit. This charge continues until the full health fee has been exceeded, then that student will be afforded the same privileges as the regular fee paying student for the remainder of that semester.
7. Students who were enrolled in the Spring and pre-enrolled for the Fall semester but not attending summer school may pay $15 and be eligible for care during the summer. This fee may be paid within 30 days prior to summer registration and ends the day classes begin. A late fee of $20 will be accepted for the remainder of the summer.
8. Health fees are good until 12 o'clock the night the next semester begins.

NOTE: In addition to the above mentioned fees, there are minimal charges for certain supplies and services and the charges are subject to change without prior notice.

Advertisement

COLLEGE REPUBLICANS MEETING

TUESDAY, FEB. 4

UNION ROOM 206

EVERYONE WELCOME!

UPC TRAVEL PRESENTS

SPRING BREAK IN DAYTONA BEACH

MARCH

7-16, 1986

This trip is for those that care about the quality of their Spring Break vacation. UPC Travel goes the extra step to meet the needs of our trip participants. We may cost a little more, but it's well worth it. Avoid the risk and travel with UPC!

Register to win 5 free tanning sessions from MARYSOL at our table in the Union this Tuesday and Wednesday.

Put a Bang into Valentine's Day for Your Someone Special, but Don't Let Ordering Late Pop Your Plans.

Balloon Boutique

Call Today for Free Delivery

- *Decorative or rubber balloons
- *Stuffed animals
- *Variety of containers for candy
- *Largest selection in Manhattan

Balloon Boutique

619 N. 3rd 539-0106

Panhellenic Council Announces

Open Rush

February 10-24, 1986

The participating sororities are:

- Alpha Delta Pi
- Alpha Gamma Delta
- Alpha Xi Delta
- Chi Omega
- Kappa Delta
- Sigma Sigma Sigma

★ Register with Greek Affairs in Holton Hall 203

★ Registration deadline Feb. 5

Aging Wildcats recall glory

By TOM PERRIN
Sports Editor

Former K-State basketball Coach Jack Gardner has seen a lot of teams come and go, but said that seldom has he seen a finer group of men than the ones that made up the 1950-51 Wildcat team which took second in the NCAA tournament.

Each of the 14 members of that 25-4 team, along with Gardner and Assistant Coach Tex Winter, were in Manhattan over the weekend for a 35th anniversary reunion and a halftime appearance at Saturday's K-State-Kansas game at Ahearn Field House.

"This is what coaching is all about — having teams like this (50-51) one," said Gardner, a member of the National Coaches Hall of Fame. "Not only were they a great basketball team, more importantly, they were a great bunch of guys."

"They all graduated and 10 have advanced degrees, and they're all doing extremely well. To me, that's more important than the games they won — and they won more than their share."

Organizer of the event was Ed Head, a senior member of the team and a former assistant athletic director at K-State. Head now resides in Topeka and works in financial services for Waddell and Reed, Inc.

This was the second time the team had gotten together since the 50-51 season. The first time was a 20th anniversary get-together.

Head said the prior reunion, which was a more formal affair, went well. With that success in mind, Head organized the 35th reunion, which had 100 percent attendance among team members and coaches.

"At the time of the 20th reunion, Ernie Barrett (also a senior member of the 50-51 team) was athletic director and I was assistant, so we were kind of on the same scene," Head said. "This time, I thought we'd make it informal and see if the guys were interested — and they were interested."

Head said he was able to get names of the players through the alumni office.

According to Head, the weekend for the reunion wasn't chosen because of the game with KU, but more out of convenience.

"It kind of worked out that way," he said.

Jack Stone, a senior member of the team, said that among the K-State teams he played for, this Wildcat team was special "because of the people involved."

"There was a 1947 team when Ernie (Barrett) and I were freshmen that got fourth in the nation, and they have yet to have a meeting...that was not a cohesive team."

As could be expected, when asking the coaches and players about the 50-51 season, which ended with a 68-58 loss in the NCAA finals against Kentucky, the memories flowed.

"I really feel like we could have beaten Kentucky had we been at full strength," said Winter, who would later serve 15 seasons as K-State head coach. "Ernie Barrett, our all-American, had a knocked down shoulder and probably shouldn't even have tried to play. He was our best scorer and one of our team leaders."

Gardner said that in addition to being a successful team, the team was "very closely-knit."

Gardner said his greatest memory in his many years of coaching was opening Ahearn Field House in 1950.

"That was my biggest thrill, any time, any place in basketball because of what it represented," he said.

Before 1950, K-State teams had played in tiny Nichols Gym and Gardner and K-State students and administrators had pressed for a new field house.

'Cats hope to add win over Nebraska

By DARAN NEUSCHAFER
Sports Writer

K-State's women's basketball team will be hoping history repeats itself tonight when the Lady Cats travel to Lincoln, Neb., to take on the University of Nebraska.

K-State owns an impressive 19-2 series lead over the Cornhuskers, and coming off an important victory over Missouri last Saturday, the Lady Cats will be looking to add to their series lead.

Lady Cat coach Matilda Mossman, who says her team is playing "very good basketball right now," is hoping K-State can keep up their good play.

After losing three former starters last week to drop the team roster to only eight players, the Lady Cats, according to Mossman, have played a lot better team basketball in their loss to Oklahoma State and victory over Missouri.

Citing the old Three Musketeers theory of "all for one and one for all," Mossman said she is pleased with the way the revamped team has pulled together at this time in the season.

"This team is playing very well together right now," Mossman said. "And this is a crazy, crazy league...who knows what will happen come (Big Eight Post-Season) tournament time."

Mossman added, however, that she is worried about Nebraska — which has shown some signs of playing well at times, even though their 9-10 overall and 2-4 conference record might not indicate it.

"Nebraska has been playing the role of spoiler all year long," Mossman said. "They are capable of beating any team in the conference on any given night."

The Cornhuskers are led by 6-foot center Angie Miller, who is averaging 19.5 points per game. Nebraska also has two other players scoring in double figures. Sophomore guard Maurice Ivy is scoring 17 points per contest and her backcourt mate, Amy Stephens, is averaging 12.4 points per game.

Ivy is also the Cornhuskers' leading rebounder. She is grabbing 9.3 rebounds per game from her guard position.

PROBABLE STARTERS

K-STATE

F Carlisa Thomas, 5-9 (10.4 ppg)
F Amanda Holley, 6-1 (12.0 ppg)
C Sue Leiding, 6-2 (9.9 ppg)
G Susan Green, 5-8 (9.6 ppg)
G Cindy Durham, 6-6 (3.6 ppg)

NEBRASKA

F Stephanie Boli, 5-10 (9.1 ppg)
F Shelly Block, 5-8 (11.9 ppg)
C Angie Miller, 6-0 (19.2 ppg)
G Maurice Ivy, 5-9 (17.0 ppg)
G Amy Stephens, 5-8 (12.4 ppg)

Parrish completes staff by hiring NU graduate

By The Collegian Staff

K-State football coach Stan Parrish announced Monday the hiring of L.C. Cole as his final assistant coach for the 1986 season.

Cole, 30, will serve as the defensive ends coach for the Wildcats. Last season Cole coached the defensive ends at Ball State University, Muncie, Ind.

Cole graduated from the University of Nebraska, Lincoln, in 1980 after starting and lettering for the Cornhuskers three years at defensive end. He was also a team captain for Nebraska and recognized as a All-Big Eight Conference selection his senior year.

After playing one year with the New York Jets, Cole turned to coaching. He has since coached at Nebraska, Southwest Texas State University, New Mexico State University and Ball State.

Cole is the last coach to be hired by Parrish for next year's football season. Previously announced as assistants were Ken Bowman, offensive coordinator and quarterback coach; Jerry Hartman, defensive coordinator and defensive secondary coach; Mike Deal, offensive line coach; Bill Singler, wide receivers coach; Mark Deal, running backs coach; Dave Flegal, defensive line coach; Leo Brouhard, recruiting coordinator; and Rick Rachel, linebackers coach.

It was also announced Monday by Parrish that Jim Epps, the football team's academic coordinator, will have his duties expanded to include administrative assistant for the team.

Epps has worked for the athletic department for seven years. He served as an assistant academic counselor from 1979 until 1981 before being named an academic counselor.

"In a very short period of time, I have gained a deep respect for Jim's abilities," Parrish said. "Without him, the transition we are undergoing would not have been as smooth. He has the ability to do things for our organization over and above what he has been doing."

Holy Cross coach commits suicide

By The Associated Press

WORCESTER, Mass. — The suicide of Holy Cross football coach Rick Carter has stunned students and faculty at this Jesuit college, where Carter was remembered not only as a winning coach, but someone who cared.

"Most of the team is just shocked," senior quarterback Patrick McCarthy said. "It hadn't really sunk in yesterday afternoon. I'll remember him as a coach and as a friend, someone who played a big part in our lives for four years."

"He made us winners. He got us to believe," Steve Raquet said, a former Holy Cross lineman who now plays with the Montreal Concordes of the Canadian Football League.

Carter, 42, was found dead in his home at 8:14 a.m. EST Sunday by his son, Nick, a 21-year-old Holy Cross student. Worcester County District Attorney John J. Conte said Carter had hanged himself with a belt and called the death a suicide.

Carter's wife, Deanna, had spent the weekend with Carter's seriously ill mother in Kettering, Ohio.

During his 20 years of college coaching, Carter had a record of 137-58-7 and led the University of Dayton to the NCAA Division III championship in 1980 with a 14-0 record. He also had coached at Hanover College and Earlham College, his alma mater.

In his five years at Holy Cross, he had a 35-19-2 record, including a 9-1-1 season in 1983, when he was named Division I-AA Coach of the Year.

It had been a difficult year for Carter.

Friends said the sudden death of his father last summer hit him hard and said he also had been concerned about his mother's health.

Prior to the season, the Rev. John E. Brooks, the college president, announced prior to the season that Holy Cross was de-emphasizing football and would eliminate football scholarships in 1989. Then the Crusaders finished 4-6-1, only the third losing season for Carter in 20 years.

Knee injury benches Hoppen

By The Associated Press

LINCOLN, Neb. — Nebraska senior center Dave Hoppen will probably be out for the rest of the basketball season with a knee injury, Nebraska officials said Sunday.

Hoppen, all-time leading scorer at Nebraska, injured his left knee in the Cornhuskers' 77-60 win at Colorado Saturday. He was examined Sunday in Lincoln by team orthopedists Dr. Pat Clare and Dr. Tom Heiser.

Assistant trainer Jack Nickolite said the doctors found possible ligament damage and have scheduled arthroscopic surgery for Hoppen on Friday.

Nickolite said Hoppen is "most likely out for the season."

Nebraska has eight games remaining this season, plus the Big Eight Conference Tournament.

Hoppen twisted his knee in a collision with Colorado center Randy Downs with 7:28 left in the first half of Saturday's game. Hoppen started the second half with a taped knee, but left the game when his knee gave out again.

"David has done so much for our basketball programs here at the University of Nebraska that it's really tough to lose him," said Cornhusker Coach Moe Iba.

Iba said he has not decided who will replace Hoppen in the starting line up in Nebraska's next game in Lincoln Wednesday against K-State.

A two-time All-Big Eight selection, Hoppen owns 16 Nebraska records and five Big Eight marks.

Ideal 'Cat coach from Hays

Now that the shock of Jack Hartman's resignation has worn off, it's time to look ahead to the future of K-State basketball.

K-State has had solid teams for most of the past 40 or so years, but with the lack of success in the past three seasons and only a mediocre team this season, much of the winning reputation that the Wildcats have built is eroding away.

Obviously the naming of a new coach, hopefully soon after the completion of this season, will have a major impact on the future of K-State basketball and the hopes of resurrecting whatever is left of Wildcat tradition.

Soon after Hartman's resignation, the speculation began as to whom Hartman's successor might be.

Names like that of Washburn Coach Bob Chipman and Pan American (Tex.) Coach Lon Kruger — both former Hartman players popped up immediately.

Athletic Director Larry Travis said at the news conference announcing Hartman's resignation that he would like a "clone" of Hartman to take over the job from the winningest coach in K-State history.

TOM PERRIN
Sports Editor

Applications are already being accepted to fill the coaching vacancy and you have to wonder about some of the people who have applied or plan to apply.

Rumors and speculation around campus have had everyone from Chipman or Kruger to current Georgia Tech Coach Bobby Cremins ready to accept the K-State job. Travis is a former assistant athletic director at Georgia Tech.

An opportunity to come to K-State would certainly be a move up for either Chipman or Kruger, but for Cremins a giant step down.

To move from a second ranked Atlantic Coast Conference school in a major market, Atlanta, to a Big Eight Conference school in a small town would certainly be a great challenge for Cremins — but also foolhardy.

One name that hasn't been mentioned in connection with the K-State job is Fort Hays State Coach Bill Morse.

Morse would be a natural choice for a number of reasons.

First of all, he's a winner. In three seasons at Fort Hays, Morse led the Tigers to a winning percentage of over 90 percent, two consecutive National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics basketball titles in 1984 and '85 and a third place finish in '83.

Morse also seems to know something about recruiting. He has attracted outstanding talent to Hays in each of his three seasons there.

Past K-State coaches have complained about how difficult it is to draw top players to Manhattan. If Morse can draw top players to Hays, he can get them to come anywhere.

And about Morse's coaching ability, you ask? Hey, bad coaches don't win two national championships in a row like he has.

K-State needn't look much farther than a few miles down I-70 to find a coach with the credentials to take them back to the top.

Miller's search for replacement may require look in mirror

By TONY CARBAJO
Sports Writer

When Steve Miller hangs up his coaching sweats at the end of this season, forgive him for looking in a mirror when he helps seek the next K-State track and field coach.

Miller, the Wildcats' coach the past five years, earlier announced the resignation of his coaching duties effective at the conclusion of this season to concentrate full time on his new duties as assistant athletic director.

It is no secret the selection committee will be looking for someone with Miller's philosophy and credentials when they interview for the position in mid-February. A new coach is expected to be named the latter part of the month.

"If Coach Miller has a shortcoming," Miller said, "it is I have lost some of my intensity because of the diversification of my duties."

Miller said there will be a few standards the new track program director must meet.

The new coach's resume should include head coaching experience on the Division I level and a masters degree. The candidate must also be young, "not so much in age, but spirit," Miller said. And, finally, he must be a "strong recruiter." A motivating communicator and a successful background are also essential in a new coach.

Miller said he will have a strong voice in the choosing of the final three candidates, but the selection committee will have the final decision.

There are three reasons why

Miller chose to resign his coaching duties now, rather than at the seasons end, he said.

He wanted his athletes to know he would not be there after this season. He didn't want to recruit incoming athletes on a false impression that he would be back next year. And finally, he wanted the new coach in on the next recruiting class.

"I have never been able to understand how any coach in fair conscience can resign at the end of the season," Miller said.

Miller, after transforming the K-State track program into an upper division contender with a lower division budget, said there is a time in everyone's career when they can say they are ready to accept a new challenge. That challenge, for Miller, will be to help mold all of the teams in the Wildcat athletic program into upper division contenders.

With his ultimate goal of being an athletic director somewhere down the road, Miller is concentrating his efforts on the K-State sports scene for now.

"I believe Kansas State can be better than it has ever been," Miller said. "We limit ourselves by our own perceptions."

Not one to merit his philosophy on others, Miller said he takes adage in one of John F. Kennedy's inaugural sentences. "Whatever your mind can conceive or perceive, you can achieve."

Miller has used that approach in his coaching duties, and now he plans to use them in his assistant athletic director position.

AIDS committee agrees educating University top priority

By GARY BORN
Collegian Reporter

Enroute to developing recommendations for a University policy concerning AIDS, the University AIDS Committee set education as its first priority.

The committee met Monday to discuss proposals for a policy and to talk about a conference on the disease last Friday in Wichita.

Two members of the committee, Jeff Martin, intern psychologist at Lafene Health Center, and Paul Nelson, sophomore in pre-nursing, talked about an Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome conference in Wichita.

The conference, titled "The AIDS Dilemma — Higher Education's Response," dealt with policies and plans other universities have set up to deal with AIDS. Workshops were also conducted to educate participants about problems associated with AIDS.

"One thing that everyone agreed on was that education should be our top priority and that it should start with the administration," Nelson said. "The administration should be educated first so that other faculty and staff of the University will receive accurate information and it will travel from the top down to the bottom."

At the conference, Martin said, several areas of focus were presented in small groups. Areas to receive attention were policy formation and implementation, issues of confidentiality, educational programming and the legal liabilities of universities.

"There was one note that I thought was interesting; they (health care officials) are seeing a slight decline in the doubling rate (its rate of increase in the population) of this disease. It used to be 11 months and it's now at 13 months," Martin said.

The number of active cases known to the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta is 17,643, Martin said. Medical uncertainty about how the disease reacts within the body and the unpredictable range of incubation from six months to five years makes the disease difficult to manage.

Another aspect inhibiting AIDS policy formation is that the two primary groups carrying the disease — gay men and intravenous drug users — are already disenfranchised and stigmatized and it is hard to get the information to these people, Martin said.

"The conference stressed that any policies which are developed should be based on the most accurate and available medical information. That should be the guideline from where we work," Martin said.

An issue discussed at the conference was whether individuals positively diagnosed with AIDS should be forced to reveal it to their residence hall director or to their coach if they play a contact sport.

"I am unaware — in any medical literature — of any person having normal casual contact acquiring AIDS," said Dr. Robert Tout, director of Lafene Student Health Center. Just being around someone with the virus does not lead to acquisition of the disease, he said.

The committee will meet at 2:30 p.m. every Monday in Union 203 until spring break. William Sutton, vice president for educational and student services, created the committee to "be sure we had a group ahead of this problem."

Classifieds

Display Classified Rates

One day: $4.85 per inch. Three consecutive days: $4.25 per inch. Five consecutive days: $3.95 per inch. Ten consecutive days: $3.75 per inch. (Deadline is 4:30 p.m. two days before publication.)

Classified advertising is available only to those who do not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, sex or ancestry.

ANNOUNCEMENTS 01

MARY KAY Cosmetics—Color awareness, products, and free facial. Anna Prockish, 1001 Blumont, 537-4246. (89f)

ATTENTION 02

FLYING INTEREST you? Check into K-State Flying Club. Call Steve Dyer at 532-5600 or 537-0458. (8f)

SPRING BREAK on the beach at South Padre Island, Daytona Beach, Fort Lauderdale, Fort Walton Beach or Mustang Island/Port Aransas from only $89, and skiing at Steamboat or Vail from only $86! Deluxe lodging, parties, goodie bags, more... Hurry, call Sunchase Tours for more information and reservations toll free 1-800-321-5911 or contact a local Sunchase Representative today! When your Spring Break counts... count on Sunchase. (80-109)

ATTENTION LOVELORN—Tired of dead end relationships—find your perfect match! Wednesday and Thursday at the SAM's computer match up in the Union. Remember it goes toward a good cause! (90-91)

HEE'S ALTERATIONS—Suits, coats, jeans, zippers and all types of alterations. 1125 Laramie Plaza, Aggieville, Monday thru Friday, 10 a.m.-5:30 p.m.; Saturdays, 10 a.m.-4 p.m. 776-7959. (87f)

SKI SPRING Break—Breckenridge, Keystone, and Copper Mountain. March 9, 10 and 11 only $220. Price includes transportation, lodging, ski rental and lift tickets. For information, call 537-2995. (83-108)

FOR RENT—MISC 03

COSTUMES—FROM gorilla suits to Hawaiian leis. Makeup, wigs, periodical clothing, masks, grass skirts, all occasions available. Treasure Chest, Aggieville. (28f)

SEE MARIE for all your costume needs. If I don't have it, I'll make it for you. Marie's Costumes, 17th and Humboldt, 539-5200. Parking in the rear. (90f)

FOR RENT—APTS 04

THREE BEDROOM house, equipped kitchen, 1523 Fairchild. Call Barbara at 537-1329. (76-90)

FOR AUGUST—Deluxe two bedroom furnished apartment, across the street from Ford Hall. 539-2482 after 4:00 p.m. (82-91)

THREE BEDROOM available now. Utilities paid. Call Barbara, 537-1329. (83-98)

ONE OR two bedroom—Reasonable, one block to campus, available now. Call Barbara, 537-1329. (83-98)

EFFICIENCY APARTMENT, $185/month, heat, gas, water included. Call 537-7794 evenings and weekends. (84-93)

QUIET, FURNISHED, one bedroom, $216/month, located at 1927 College Hts. Rd. Laundry and patio. Call 537-9686 for appointment. (86-90)

WE HAVE studio, one, two, and three bedroom apartments available now. All prices. Call 537-1210 or 537-4244. (87f)

BRAND NEW three bedroom. One and one-half baths, near campus. Available May. June or August. $480/month. Call 537-8800. (89f)

1530 MCCAIN Lane, overlooks campus—Luxury two bedroom, fireplace, modern appliances, laundry facilities. Available August 1. Call 537-7980 or 537-7810. (89-93)

1207 KEARNEY or 1214 Valler—Almost new three bedroom, laundry facilities. Available August 1. Call 537-2255 or 537-7810. (89-93)

913 BLUMONT—Brand new three bedroom building available May 15. Call 537-7980 or 537-7810. (89-93)

PLAN for the summer and the 1986-87 school year. McCullough Development Inc. is now accepting applications for summer and fall leases. Call us, we manage over 300 university area apartments. 776-3804. (89f)

KIDS, PETS, waterbeds negotiable. Close to campus, one and two bedrooms, $225-360. Joe. 539-0909. Dick. 537-1109. (90-93)

NEXT to campus—Leasing for fall, across from Marlett and Goodnow. Furnished two or one bedroom, central air, carpeting, fully equipped kitchen, balcony, off street parking. 539-2702, evenings, weekends. (88-98)

NEXT to campus—Leasing for fall, across from Haymaker, overlooking campus. Two bedroom, fireplace, central air, carpeting, fully equipped kitchen, balcony, laundry facilities, off street parking. 539-2702, evenings, weekends. (88-98)

FOR RENT—HOUSES 05

THREE BEDROOM house, equipped kitchen, 1523 Fairchild. Call Barbara at 537-1329. (76-90)

BEST DEAL in town—Now taking waiting list applications. Prairie Glen Townhouses, 776-4786. (79-93)

THREE BEDROOM home, 1523 Fairchild, available now. Call Barbara, 537-1329. (83-98)

FOR SALE—AUTO 06

1980 GMC 4X4, 1/2 ton, four-speed, power steering, power brakes, dual tanks, dual exhausts. 532-5139 evenings. (90-94)

1980 FORD Futura—Good gas mileage, loaded, excellent condition. 776-6069 after 4 p.m. (90-92)

1979 CHEVY Luv 4X4, $2,000. Call 776-6374. (89-90)

MUST SELL 1981 Jeep—50,000 miles, good condition, fun to drive. Call 537-4396. (89-93)

EMERSON AM-FM stereo, cassette recorder, two speakers. $75. Call 776-6016. (89-91)

HEWLETT-PACKARD 7470A (2 pen) Plotter. Includes manuals and cables. Call Leina at 1-272-3722 Monday-Friday, 7 a.m.-4 p.m. (86-90)

TWO GUITARS: Gibson Invader (electric), one year old, $300. Montoya Acoustic 6-string, two years old, $100. Call Mike after 6:00 p.m. at 537-0891. (87-91)

People Power helps prevent birth defects. Support March of Dimes.

Support March of Dimes

Support March of Dimes

Support March of Dimes

Support March of Dimes

Support March of Dimes

Support March of Dimes

Support March of Dimes

Support March of Dimes

Support March of Dimes

Support March of Dimes

Support March of Dimes

Support March of Dimes

Support March of Dimes

Support March of Dimes

Support March of Dimes

Support March of Dimes

Support March of Dimes

Support March of Dimes

Support March of Dimes

Support March of Dimes

Support March of Dimes

Support March of Dimes

Support March of Dimes

Support March of Dimes

Support March of Dimes

Support March of Dimes

Support March of Dimes

Support March of Dimes

Support March of Dimes

Support March of Dimes

Support March of Dimes

Support March of Dimes

Chasing Reality

By David Krug and Steve Cooper

Bloom County

By Berke Breathed

Garfield

By Jim Davis

Peanuts

By Charles Schulz

Crossword

ACROSS
1 Inventor of the telephone
5 Summer refresher
8 Appends
12 Canal in New York
13 Wire measure
14 Tidy
15 Love apples
17 Concern
18 Viper
19 Hill-builder
20 Tossed
21 Drinking vessel
22 Card game
23 First appearance
26 Permeate
30 Rainbow
31 Purpose
32 Egyptian goddess
33 Natural gas constituent 35 Vaults
36 Free
37 Tourist transporter

38 Animal's trail
41 Swine drink
42 Pub
45 Outdoor sport
46 Breakfast items
48 Ottoman flag
49 Carney
50 Fuzz
51 Afternoon parties
52 Footlike organ
53 Propound

DOWN
1 Letter before gamma
2 Love god
3 Flaccid
4 Meadow
5 In the midst of
6 Reduce calories
7 They loop
8 Pizza
9 Diary word
10 Challenge

11 Fret
16 Tense
20 High hill
21 Pizza toppers
22 Space module
23 Obscure
24 Before
25 Morsel
26 Dessert
27 Quiet mouse
28 Party mix
29 Ending for heir or lion
31 Ampersand
34 Melody
35 Hauls
37 Contests
38 Petty row
39 Flag support
40 Olive genus
41 Fleet rodent
42 Exchange premium
43 Camera part
44 Italian noble house
46 Weaken
47 Bavarian mountain

11 Fret
16 Tense
20 High hill
21 Pizza toppers
22 Space module
23 Obscure
24 Before
25 Morsel
26 Dessert
27 Quiet mouse
28 Party mix
29 Ending for heir or lion
31 Ampersand
34 Melody
35 Hauls
37 Contests
38 Petty row
39 Flag support
40 Olive genus
41 Fleet rodent
42 Exchange premium
43 Camera part
44 Italian noble house
46 Weaken
47 Bavarian mountain

11 Fret
16 Tense
20 High hill
21 Pizza toppers
22 Space module
23 Obscure
24 Before
25 Morsel
26 Dessert
27 Quiet mouse
28 Party mix
29 Ending for heir or lion
31 Ampersand
34 Melody
35 Hauls
37 Contests
38 Petty row
39 Flag support
40 Olive genus
41 Fleet rodent
42 Exchange premium
43 Camera part
44 Italian noble house
46 Weaken
47 Bavarian mountain

11 Fret
16 Tense
20 High hill
21 Pizza toppers
22 Space module
23 Obscure
24 Before
25 Morsel
26 Dessert
27 Quiet mouse
28 Party mix
29 Ending for heir or lion
31 Ampersand
34 Melody
35 Hauls
37 Contests
38 Petty row
39 Flag support
40 Olive genus
41 Fleet rodent
42 Exchange premium
43 Camera part
44 Italian noble house
46 Weaken
47 Bavarian mountain

11 Fret
16 Tense
20 High hill
21 Pizza toppers
22 Space module
23 Obscure
24 Before
25 Morsel
26 Dessert
27 Quiet mouse
28 Party mix
29 Ending for heir or lion
31 Ampersand
34 Melody
35 Hauls
37 Contests
38 Petty row
39 Flag support
40 Olive genus
41 Fleet rodent
42 Exchange premium
43 Camera part
44 Italian noble house
46 Weaken
47 Bavarian mountain

11 Fret
16 Tense
20 High hill
21 Pizza toppers
22 Space module
23 Obscure
24 Before
25 Morsel
26 Dessert
27 Quiet mouse
28 Party mix
29 Ending for heir or lion
31 Ampersand
34 Melody
35 Hauls
37 Contests
38 Petty row
39 Flag support
40 Olive genus
41 Fleet rodent
42 Exchange premium
43 Camera part
44 Italian noble house
46 Weaken
47 Bavarian mountain

11 Fret
16 Tense
20 High hill
21 Pizza toppers
22 Space module
23 Obscure
24 Before
25 Morsel
26 Dessert
27 Quiet mouse
28 Party mix
29 Ending for heir or lion
31 Ampersand
34 Melody
35 Hauls
37 Contests
38 Petty row
39 Flag support
40 Olive genus
41 Fleet rodent
42 Exchange premium
43 Camera part
44 Italian noble house
46 Weaken
47 Bavarian mountain

11 Fret
16 Tense
20 High hill
21 Pizza toppers
22 Space module
23 Obscure
24 Before
25 Morsel
26 Dessert
27 Quiet mouse
28 Party mix
29 Ending for heir or lion
31 Ampersand
34 Melody
35 Hauls
37 Contests
38 Petty row
39 Flag support
40 Olive genus
41 Fleet rodent
42 Exchange premium
43 Camera part
44 Italian noble house
46 Weaken
47 Bavarian mountain

11 Fret
16 Tense
20 High hill
21 Pizza toppers
22 Space module
23 Obscure
24 Before
25 Morsel
26 Dessert
27 Quiet mouse
28 Party mix
29 Ending for heir or lion
31 Ampersand
34 Melody
35 Hauls
37 Contests
38 Petty row
39 Flag support
40 Olive genus
41 Fleet rodent
42 Exchange premium
43 Camera part
44 Italian noble house
46 Weaken
47 Bavarian mountain

11 Fret
16 Tense
20 High hill
21 Pizza toppers
22 Space module
23 Obscure
24 Before
25 Morsel
26 Dessert
27 Quiet mouse
28 Party mix
29 Ending for heir or lion
31 Ampersand
34 Melody
35 Hauls
37 Contests
38 Petty row
39 Flag support
40 Olive genus
41 Fleet rodent
42 Exchange premium
43 Camera part
44 Italian noble house
46 Weaken
47 Bavarian mountain

11 Fret
16 Tense
20 High hill
21 Pizza toppers
22 Space module
23 Obscure
24 Before
25 Morsel
26 Dessert
27 Quiet mouse
28 Party mix
29 Ending for heir or lion
31 Ampersand
34 Melody
35 Hauls
37 Contests
38 Petty row
39 Flag support
40 Olive genus
41 Fleet rodent
42 Exchange premium
43 Camera part
44 Italian noble house
46 Weaken
47 Bavarian mountain

11 Fret
16 Tense
20 High hill
21 Pizza toppers
22 Space module
23 Obscure
24 Before
25 Morsel
26 Dessert
27 Quiet mouse
28 Party mix
29 Ending for heir or lion
31 Ampersand
34 Melody
35 Hauls
37 Contests
38 Petty row
39 Flag support
40 Olive genus
41 Fleet rodent
42 Exchange premium
43 Camera part
44 Italian noble house
46 Weaken
47 Bavarian mountain

11 Fret
16 Tense
20 High hill
21 Pizza toppers
22 Space module
23 Obscure
24 Before
25 Morsel
26 Dessert
27 Quiet mouse
28 Party mix
29 Ending for heir or lion
31 Ampersand
34 Melody
35 Hauls
37 Contests
38 Petty row
39 Flag support
40 Olive genus
41 Fleet rodent
42 Exchange premium
43 Camera part
44 Italian noble house
46 Weaken
47 Bavarian mountain

Clip and Save
1/4 Pound
Hamburger
69¢
The Ritz
Not good with other specials
One burger per coupon
Expires 2-9-86

MUST SELL: Peavey electric guitar with case and amp. Must see. Call Scott. 532-6099. (89-93)

KENMORE REFRIGERATOR—3.6 cubic feet, six months old. 776-0912. (89-91)

EMERSON AM-FM stereo, cassette recorder, two speakers. $75. Call 776-6016. (89-91)

HEWLETT-PACKARD 7470A (2 pen) Plotter. Includes manuals and cables. Call Leina at 1-272-3722 Monday-Friday, 7 a.m.-4 p.m. (86-90)

TWO GUITARS: Gibson Invader (electric), one year old, $300. Montoya Acoustic 6-string, two years old, $100. Call Mike after 6:00 p.m. at 537-0891. (87-91)

HEWLETT-PACKARD 7470A (2 pen) Plotter. Includes manuals and cables. Call Leina at 1-272-3722 Monday-Friday, 7 a.m.-4 p.m. (86-90)

TWO GUITARS: Gibson Invader (electric), one year old, $300. Montoya Acoustic 6-string, two years old, $100. Call Mike after 6:00 p.m. at 537-0891. (87-91)

HEWLETT-PACKARD 7470A (2 pen) Plotter. Includes manuals and cables. Call Leina at 1-272-3722 Monday-Friday, 7 a.m.-4 p.m. (86-90)

TWO GUITARS: Gibson Invader (electric), one year old, $300. Montoya Acoustic 6-string, two years old, $100. Call Mike after 6:00 p.m. at 537-0891. (87-91)

HEWLETT-PACKARD 7470A (2 pen) Plotter. Includes manuals and cables. Call Leina at 1-272-3722 Monday-Friday, 7 a.m.-4 p.m. (86-90)

TWO GUITARS: Gibson Invader (electric), one year old, $300. Montoya Acoustic 6-string, two years old, $100. Call Mike after 6:00 p.m. at 537-0891. (87-91)

HEWLETT-PACKARD 7470A (2 pen) Plotter. Includes manuals and cables. Call Leina at 1-272-3722 Monday-Friday, 7 a.m.-4 p.m. (86-90)

TWO GUITARS: Gibson Invader (electric), one year old, $300. Montoya Acoustic 6-string, two years old, $100. Call Mike after 6:00 p.m. at 537-0891. (87-91)

HEWLETT-PACKARD 7470A (2 pen) Plotter. Includes manuals and cables. Call Leina at 1-272-3722 Monday-Friday, 7 a.m.-4 p.m. (86-90)

TWO GUITARS: Gibson Invader (electric), one year old, $300. Montoya Acoustic 6-string, two years old, $100. Call Mike after 6:00 p.m. at 537-0891. (87-91)

HEWLETT-PACKARD 7470A (2 pen) Plotter. Includes manuals and cables. Call Leina at 1-272-3722 Monday-Friday, 7 a.m.-4 p.m. (86-90)

TWO GUITARS: Gibson Invader (electric), one year old, $300. Montoya Acoustic 6-string, two years old, $100. Call Mike after 6:00 p.m. at 537-0891. (87-91)

HEWLETT-PACKARD 7470A (2 pen) Plotter. Includes manuals and cables. Call Leina at 1-272-3722 Monday-Friday, 7 a.m.-4 p.m. (86-90)

TWO GUITARS: Gibson Invader (electric), one year old, $300. Montoya Acoustic 6-string, two years old, $100. Call Mike after 6:00 p.m. at 537-0891. (87-91)

HEWLETT-PACKARD 7470A (2 pen) Plotter. Includes manuals and cables. Call Leina at 1-272-3722 Monday-Friday, 7 a.m.-4 p.m. (86-90)

TWO GUITARS: Gibson Invader (electric), one year old, $300. Montoya Acoustic 6-string, two years old, $100. Call Mike after 6:00 p.m. at 537-0891. (87-91)

HEWLETT-PACKARD 7470A (2 pen) Plotter. Includes manuals and cables. Call Leina at 1-272-3722 Monday-Friday, 7 a.m.-4 p.m. (86-90)

TWO GUITARS: Gibson Invader (electric), one year old, $300. Montoya Acoustic 6-string, two years old, $100. Call Mike after 6:00 p.m. at 537-0891. (87-91)

HEWLETT-PACKARD 7470A (2 pen) Plotter. Includes manuals and cables. Call Leina at 1-272-3722 Monday-Friday, 7 a.m.-4 p.m. (86-90)

TWO GUITARS: Gibson Invader (electric), one year old, $300. Montoya Acoustic 6-string, two years old, $100. Call Mike after 6:00 p.m. at 537-0891. (87-91)

HEWLETT-PACKARD 7470A (2 pen) Plotter. Includes manuals and cables. Call Leina at Personalized car tags rise in popularity

By ANGIE SCHUMAKER
Collegian Reporter

It is nearly impossible to walk through campus parking lots and not notice at least one vehicle tag with a personal message.

Since their introduction to Kansas in 1975, personalized license plates have become a popular item.

Nearly 2,000 personalized tags were issued in Kansas in 1975. This number climbed to 22,000 in 1980, and by 1985, more than 57,000 personalized plates were purchased. Ken Clark, public information director for the Kansas Department of Vehicles, said he expects this figure to continue to grow.

"We hope by the end of this year to have roughly 100,000 (personalized license plates issued)," Clark said. "Statistically, if all goes well, we should."

Those applying for personalized plates must pay a $41 fee in addition to the regular registration and property tax fees, Clark said. The tag is good for five years.

Numbers in state could reach 100,000

"With a personalized license plate, you have the only plate of its kind in your county," Clark said. "It's among the rarest things you can have in Kansas."

"There's a quality that goes with it. Other people identify you with your plate," he said.

Felicia Lockett, junior in business administration, said she ordered a personalized plate "to be different."

"I wanted to have something on the car other than a number," she said. "People see it and they know who you are."

Riley County began issuing personalized license plates in 1980, said Eileen King, Riley County treasurer. In 1984, 86 tags were purchased and this number increased to 248 in 1985.

King said the popularity of the plates could be attributed to people seeking individuality.

"Some people don't like the idea of just being another number," she said. "Some people have a message to say and some use them to advertise."

The messages people choose for their plates are interesting, King said. The most unusual request for a plate her office has received contained no message at all.

"We had someone request a blank plate," she said, "but people can't get a blank one."

Other than a blank plate, almost anything goes on personalized license plates, as long as the message contains no obscenities or vulgarities. King said her office screens the applications for the content of the plates, but said the "office in Topeka has the final say."

It takes three to four weeks to receive the personalized tags. King said the reason for the wait is because the plates are sent to Center Industries in Wichita, which has to set up a special plate to print each personalized message.

Because the tags are different, each owner must realize the plates are frequently noticed and consequently can be easily stolen, Clark said.

However, "we don't have a lot of plates stolen," he said. "The reason for this is because of the rarity of the plate. It's not the kind of item you could stick on any vehicle. Someone would see it."

According to KSU Police Department officials, about three to four personalized plates are stolen each year.

"The more unusual the plate, the more likely it is to be stolen," said Officer Reese Jackson.

Jackson said anyone caught stealing a personalized license plate could be charged with theft, and if the individual places the tag on a vehicle, that individual could be charged with illegal registration.

A CAREERS SEMINAR

Landing and Keeping Your First Job
Interested in Finance, Marketing, Journalism, Advertising? Top business executives will be speaking on and leading BREAK-OUT Sessions on career opportunities. Agri-marketing plus related disciplines.

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 4, 1986
2:30-5:30

2:30-3:30 Overview of Agri-Marketing
3:30 and 4:30 Concurrent Break-out Sessions
Attend one or all as schedule permits.

Big Eight Room, K-State Union

SPEAKERS

Ed Clement, Sam Mears Fletcher-Mayo Associates
David Woolfolk Farm Credit Services

Bob O'Brian
U.S. Versatiles, Inc.

Hank Ernst Advertising Rep.
Kansas Farmer Magazine Harvest Publications

Instructor of English dies

By The Collegian Staff

Jerome D. Johanning, 31, instructor of English, died early Monday morning at St. Francis Hospital in Wichita after suffering a massive stroke at his parents' home in Haysville Dec. 26.

Johanning, who taught English Composition II and technical writing classes at the University, remained unconscious from the time of the stroke until his death.

Johanning is survived by his wife, Gloria B. Freeland, assistant director of Student Publications Inc.; his parents, Kenneth P. and Rita F. Johanning of Haysville; three brothers, David P., Gary L. and Kenneth J. Johanning, all of Wichita; and 10 nieces and nephews.

There will be a memorial service at 2 p.m. Wednesday at St. Cecilia's Catholic Church, 1802 W. Grand St., Haysville.

The Jerome Johanning Memorial Fund for technical writing students has been established through the KSU Endowment Foundation.

comprehensive health associates
• free pregnancy tests
• abortion services/counseling
• gynecology
• contraception
Overland Park, KS / 913-345-1400

Distinctly Different...

Strecker Gallery

332 Poyntz
Tues.-Sat. 10-5

The Station
AND TACO TUESDAY
WITH TACOS

99¢ each
3 for $2.50
11:30 a.m. - 2 p.m.
5-9 p.m.

AND MARGARITAS
Strawberry or Lime
99¢ all day and night!

1115 MORO • 776-0030

COME ONE COME ALL

to the
PRESIDENTIAL DEBATE

Tuesday Feb. 4
8 p.m.
Putnam Hall Living Room
To Be Broadcast Live on KSDB FM 88.1

Sponsored by:
Putnam Hall
KSUARH

CLASSIC ROCK NIGHT

"Relive the music and fun of the '50s and '60s"

Free Coors shirts, jackets, mirrors and other prizes to be given out.

"Goldfish Swallowing Contest"

"Jello Snarfing Contest"

AND MORE!

CASHMAN

for k-state

Paid for by K-Staters for Cashman

The campus community is cordially invited to learn about a Biblical basis for achieving peace in a free lecture entitled:

God's Gentle Might

To be given by Marion Sheldon Pierpont, C.S.B. a member of The Christian Science Board of Lectureship on Thursday, February 6 at 4 p.m. in Danforth Chapel. All students, faculty, and staff are warmly invited to attend.

Sponsored by the Christian Science Organization at KSU

Mall Moving Sale

Incredible Savings

Was NOW

- Gibson Challenger electric guitar $419 $289
- Gibson Futura electric guitar $900 $569
- Washburn Woodstock acoustic electric guitar (with case) $828 $598
- 5 pc. Ludwig Rocker II $795 $595
- 5 pc. TTS Remo $395 $309
- Gibson Invader with Kahler Tremelo (with hardshell case) $659 $539

- Crate 212 Amp $400 $299
- Fender Stage Lead 212 Amp $600 $399
- Crate PA Speakers (pair) $700 $519
- Fender Jazz Bass (with hardshell case) $639 $539
- Classical Guitars starting from $69 (all classicals on sale)
- 30% off DOD guitar effects
- 30% off all strings and drum sticks

Hayes House of Music

"We Will Not Be Undersold"

776-7983

223 Poyntz, Manhattan

Weather

Cloudy

Cloudy and cold today with a 50 percent chance of snow, high in the mid-30s. Wind from the north at 10-20 mph. Cloudy tonight with a 50 percent chance of snow, low in the mid-20s.

Inside

Writer's Bug

Lee Killough, chief radiology technologist at the Veterinary Medical Hospital, is also a compulsive science fiction writer. See Page 6.

Sports

Hoppen

The Cornhuskers will be without Dave Hoppen, the Big Eight's leading scorer, tonight when they play K-State. See Page 7.

Kansas
State

Collegian

Wednesday
February 5, 1986

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 92, Number 91

Reagan faces social concerns

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — President Reagan told Congress on Tuesday the breakdown of the family structure among America's welfare recipients has reached crisis proportions and ordered his administration to devise a strategy by December to break "the spider's web of dependency."

While proclaiming "a Great American Comeback" from a land of broken dreams, Reagan directed new attention to social concerns, pledging to work with private insurers to develop affordable insurance against the costs of catastrophic illness.

In a State of the Union address delayed a week by the explosion of the shuttle Challenger, Reagan asked Congress to pause with him to "mourn and honor the valor of our seven Challenger heroes." He then delivered, as expected, a relatively brief and upbeat report on a nation that he said is "growing stronger every day."

The president suggested few initiatives in his fifth such address, boosting again his tax reform proposal and extolling Congress to cut the federal deficit by reducing spending. His remarks included an emphatic thumbs-down on tax increases.

Reagan also suggested that in his proposed budget for fiscal 1987, which he will send to Congress today, several programs and agencies will be pegged for sharp funding cuts.

Saying heavy federal deficits cloud the future, Reagan said, "We cannot win that race held back by horse-and-buggy programs that waste tax dollars and squander human potential."

In laying out his hopes to reform welfare programs, Reagan said: "In the welfare culture, the breakdown of the family, the most basic support system, has reached crisis proportions."

In a prepared response, the Democratic Party said Reagan's view of the condition of America is too rosy, that under Reagan's leadership, the nation has been faced with devastating budget deficits, a floundering farm economy and a staggering trade deficit.

The Democrats, echoing the words of Republican Senate leaders earlier this week, said that any proposals to increase taxes to reduce the budget deficit would have to come from Reagan.

"After hundreds of billions of dollars in poverty programs, the plight of the poor grows more painful," Reagan said. "But the waste in dollars and cents pales before the most tragic loss: the sinful waste of human spirit and potential."

Saying "we can ignore this terrible truth no longer," Reagan ordered his Domestic Policy Council to report by Dec. 1 with "a strategy for immediate action to meet the financial, educational, social and safety concerns of poor families."

"I am talking about real and lasting emancipation," he said, "because the success of welfare should be judged by how many of its recipients become independent of welfare."

Reagan set no specific guidelines for reform other than to acknowledge government's responsibility to "provide shelter and nourishment for those who cannot provide for themselves."

But he said, "We must revise or replace programs enacted in the name of compassion that degrade the moral worth of work, encourage family breakups and drive communities into a bleak and heartless dependency."

A longtime opponent of comprehensive national health insurance, Reagan urged creation of a new program to protect people who are vulnerable to being wiped out financially by the costs of serious illness.

"After seeing how devastating illness can destroy the financial security of a family," he said, "I am directing the secretary of health and human services, Dr. Otis Bowen, to report to me by year-end with recommendations on how the private sector and government can work together to address the problems of affordable insurance for those whose life savings would otherwise be threatened when catastrophic illness strikes."

In a third initiative, Reagan directed Treasury Secretary James A. Baker III to consider calling a world monetary conference to discuss whether to alter the free-market system of setting currency values.

Search team believes rocket booster found

By The Associated Press

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — Searchers may have found one of Challenger's two rocket boosters Tuesday, and "a very valuable pister may have been located," a NASA statement said. There was no information on the precise location.

There also was no indication whether it was the right booster, which is the chief suspect in the liftoff explosion that destroyed the shuttle and killed its seven astronauts Jan. 28. Challenger had two such boosters to help propel it into space.

"It would be a miracle if we could find the right hand segment we saw in the pictures and everybody has a hypothesis about," said Jim Mizell, a space agency spokesman. "There are many things you could tell engineering-wise if you recovered that data."

NASA spokeswoman Sarah

Keegan denied "categorically" that the cabin has been found and said she would not comment about anything pertaining to the astronauts out of respect to their next of kin. The Coast Guard, too, said it knew nothing about cabin debris.

When the shuttle blew up, the two boosters separated and began flying crazily in the sky. When one of them appeared to be headed toward the Florida coast, a range safety officer sent a radio signal that detonated an explosive charge and flew the top off both boosters.

That had the effect of shooting flame out both ends, stopping the forward motion and tumbling the rocket into the sea. Under such circumstances, the casing could have survived almost intact.

Recovery of the booster might show whether a leak in the thick metal casing caused a tongue of sored by Putnam Hall and KSU Association of Residence Halls Tuesday at Putnam Hall. Nearly 80 people attended the forum to hear the views of the five candidates.

See SHUTTLE, Page 6

Student body president candidate Patty Hipsher glances at candidate Kelli Carr as she answers a question while candidates (from left) Steven Johnson, Steve Cashman, and Keith Petracek listen during a presidential debate sponsored by Putnam Hall and KSU Association of Residence Halls Tuesday at Putnam Hall. Nearly 80 people attended the forum to hear the views of the five candidates.

Candidates discuss University's image, priority of funding

By SARAH KESSINGER
Staff Writer

University recruitment and retention, library funding and emphasis on the College of Agriculture were among the main issues discussed by candidates at the student body presidential debate last night in the living room of Putnam Hall.

The debate, attended by 75 people and sponsored by Putnam and the KSU Association of Residence Halls, consisted of three rounds.

During introductions, candidates voiced a need for communication between the next student body president and the students and administration.

In the first round, candidates were asked if the University should decrease promotion of agriculture when recruiting. Steven Johnson, sophomore in agricultural economics, said it is essential K-State highlight aspects of other colleges.

"I think that (agriculture) is an image problem and something we need to deal with," Johnson said. "Agriculture is important to K-State, but no more important than the other colleges."

Steve Cashman, junior in marketing, said the University is not predominantly an agricultural college. Emphasizing other parts of the University and educating the student body on these parts would help K-State's image, Cashman said.

The University has a problem with projecting the wrong image, although agriculture recruits and retains many students, said Kelli Carr, senior in journalism and mass communications. Television spots, radio commercials and ads in major newspapers could promote a better image, she said.

Patty Hipsher, junior in political science, said there has been a shift in academic interests and the emphasis in recruiting needs to change.

"We can't ignore our traditional strengths like agriculture, but we need to rethink how we use our ambassadors with possibly an all-University ambassador program," Hipsher said.

With emphasis on recruitment moving to metropolitan centers, K-State needs to emphasize other curricula than agriculture, said Keith Petracek, junior in electrical engineering.

The second round question asked whether the goals of improving Farrell Library and improvements in recruitment and retention were mutually exclusive and which should receive top priority.

Hipsher said K-State could work on both at the same time. State funding to the library should come "as soon as the state gets out of its budget crunch," she said. Also, the University could work for corporate funding as the University of Kansas has, she said.

The library has acquired a

See DEBATE, Page 10

City to send rezoning request back to area planning board

By MELISSA BRUNE
Business/Government Writer

The Manhattan City Commission agreed Tuesday night to send a rezoning request to accommodate a new Wal-Mart store back to the Manhattan Urban Area Planning Board, with several recommendations.

"Wal-Mart don't get discouraged. We really do want you," Commissioner Nancy Denning said as she voiced the concerns of the commission regarding the rezoning.

The rezoning would change a tract of land currently zoned as a Single-Family Residential District to a Planned Unit Development.

The property is located west of Seth Child's Road, between Fort Riley Boulevard and Shuss Road. The proposed Wal-Mart store would take up approximately 10 acres of that 27 acre tract.

The commission requested assurances of the completion of Seth Child's Road into a four-lane road before construction of the Wal-Mart store begins.

Another issue concerning commissioners is the land-use possibilities for the remaining land in the tract. Commissioners also expressed concerns about screening and landscaping for the site, and its relationship to the city's southwest entrance.

Joe Knopp, a Manhattan attorney retained by Wal-Mart, said the new store would bring economic growth to the area. He said the proposed store would create 100 new jobs in the city and generate around $25,000 in property taxes for Riley County.

Knopp said he thinks the timing is right for the store, but also said he thought Wal-Mart would agree to some degree of flexibility concerning the project's time frame.

In other action, the commission also endorsed and accepted design plans for the Manhattan Town Center Mall. The plans were introduced by Gary Ceepo, project manager for Forest City Rental Properties Corp., a co-developer for the mall.

A representative from the mall's architectural firm said they were anticipating a June groundbreaking.

Kansas House tentatively accepts medical, drug penalty proposals

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA — Bills that would allow people to refuse emergency medical service on religious grounds and increase penalties for distribution of drugs to children were among seven measures given tentative approval Tuesday in the Kansas House.

The emergency medical service proposal quickly came under fire by Rep. David Heinemann, R-Garden City, who offered a successful amendment that would allow only adults to refuse emergency services. Heinemann contended the state has a responsibility to protect children regardless of their religious beliefs.

"I can foresee many incidents when someone is called to the scene of an accident and the parent says, 'No, I want to pray for my child instead,'" said Heinemann.

Rep. Bill Reardon, D-Kansas City, also objected to giving children or their parents the right to refuse emergency services.

"You may be placing emergency health care providers in a very difficult situation when you may have a child who is 15 or 16 years old yelling for help and a parent who wants to refuse treatment," Reardon said.

The drug proposal would increase the penalty for distributing drugs to minors and change the status of the crime from a misdemeanor to a felony. Rep. Edwin Bideau III, R-Chanute, said the penalties would apply to transfers of drugs between adults and children when authorities are unable to prove a sale has taken place.

Under the proposal, penalties for distributing drugs to minors would increase from the current maximum sentence of one year in a county jail to one to 10 years in the state prison system.

Tuesday was the first day of debate on the House floor during the 1986 session.

Briefly

By The Associated Press

INTERNATIONAL

Police find bomb on Eiffel Tower

PARIS — Tourists were evacuated from the Eiffel Tower after a bomb was found in a top floor public lavatory, 40 minutes after a bomb exploded at a shopping mall on the Champs Elysees, injuring eight people, officials said Tuesday.

The discovery of the Eiffel Tower bomb was the first time the tourist attraction was known to have been the target of an attack. The bomb was found Monday night, and defused, officials said. There was no known claim of responsibility for either the tower bomb or the one which exploded at 9:20 p.m. at the Galerie Claridge shopping mall, not far from the Arch of Triumph. Five of the eight people hurt were hospitalized.

Earlier reports said seven people were injured in the bombing, which broke windows in luxury shops at the mall.

French television said the bomb at the Eiffel Tower was timed to go off at 1 a.m., one hour after the Paris landmark closes for the night.

The report could not be immediately confirmed with police or officials at the Eiffel Tower.

The Galerie Claridge explosion followed bombings in two Paris department stores Dec. 8 in which 39 people were injured. The investigation into those bombings, which occurred in quick succession at Galerie Lafayette and Printemps, are continuing.

REGIONAL

Senate honors slain policewoman

TOPEKA — The Kansas Senate Tuesday honored Maureen Kelly Murphy, the Bonner Springs policewoman who was shot to death in her patrol car Jan. 31, calling her a "highly effective police officer" whose death was a great loss to the entire state.

In a resolution adopted by unanimous voice vote, the 40-member upper chamber said Murphy's "strength as a police officer was in her ability to deal as well with the people on the street as she did with her fellow officers."

"In the death of Maureen Kelly Murphy, the state and community have lost a great police officer and an outstanding citizen," said the resolution, which was sponsored by Sen. Jack Steineger, D-Kansas City.

The resolution touched on Murphy's life and career, from her birth in Oklahoma City in 1957, to her graduation from Missouri Western State College in St. Joseph, Mo. and her work as a plainclothes investigator for the Platte County Mo., Sheriff's Department until 1980 when she joined the Bonner Springs police force.

Murphy leaves her husband, Randy, who also is a police detective, and a daughter, Morgan, who is 15 months old.

Society wants to rebuild barracks

OMAHA, Neb. — Historical society officials say they would like to reconstruct the Army barracks associated with one of Nebraska's most remembered fights between Indians and soldiers.

James Hanson, director of the Nebraska State Historical Society said he and others would like to rebuild the Cheyenne Barracks at Fort Robinson if the society could find the money. He said the barracks are "among the significant points of interest at the fort."

Rebuilding the log barracks and furnishing them would allow the society to describe events leading up to the outbreak, the clash itself and later uses of the barracks, he said.

On a bitterly cold, snowy, Jan. 9, 1879, 149 Cheyenne men, women and children who had been imprisoned for five days without food or water broke out and attempted to flee to Indian encampments in the Black Hills area and beyond, records show.

The Indians had been locked in the barracks for refusing to return to Oklahoma territory. They had been moved from their homeland near Fort Robinson to Oklahoma months earlier but walked back.

Choosing to flee rather than return to Oklahoma, the Indians fought for almost two weeks, some getting as many as 44 miles away before they were slain or captured.

Records show 64 Indians and 11 soldiers died. Seven Indians escaped and 78 were recaptured.

NATIONAL

Principal finds gun in boy's box

BOWIE, Md. — A 10-year-old boy may be expelled from the fifth grade after his principal found a loaded gun in the boy's pencil box.

The lad said he needed the automatic handgun for protection against two classmates who had attacked him after a ride home on a school bus.

The boy was suspended from school and arrested last week after Kenilworth Elementary School principal John A. O'Donnell followed up on a student's tip and found the loaded automatic handgun in the boy's desk.

"I was quite shocked," said Principal John A. O'Donnell. "I would like to think it was simply something he didn't realize the consequences of."

Prince George's County school regulations provide for expulsion in most cases of distributing drugs or carrying guns on school property. Police said the gun belonged to a relative.

"We take an extremely dim view of any person, regardless of age, bringing a handgun to school," said Brian Porter, a spokesman for the school system. "The child may suffer the consequence that may belong at the hands of his guardians for having what appears to be open access to a firearm within his own house."

Pilot lands plane at wrong airport

AUGUSTA, Ga. — A Piedmont Airlines jetliner with 111 people aboard landed at the wrong airport, and the pilot, who realized the mistake when he was about three or four feet off the ground, was questioned Tuesday about it, the airline said.

"Needless to say, someone's embarrassed," said Don McGuire, vice president of public relations for Piedmont.

The Boeing 737 was scheduled to land at Augusta's Bush Field airport Monday night, but landed instead six miles away at the smaller Daniel Field.

The Daniel Field runway is 3,877 feet long, about half the size of the longer runways at Bush.

None of the passengers was injured, and those who were scheduled to continue to Orlando, Fla., were bused to Bush to catch another flight, McGuire said.

"If I hear one more person apologize to me tonight, I think I'm going to be sick," said Ed Sheedy, a passenger from Newark, N.J., who was left waiting at Bush Field about 3 a.m. Tuesday.

"I knew right away that something was wrong," he said. "I looked out the window at all those little bitty private planes and knew it wasn't a major airport."

The complimentary drinks offered by the airline did not make up for the rough landing or the inconvenience of having to wait for another flight to Florida, he added.

The pilot, who was not identified, returned to company headquarters in North Carolina to be questioned about the incident Tuesday, McGuire said.

The tower at Bush Field closes at 11 p.m. if weather conditions are good, and incoming pilots land visually, without the help of air traffic controllers, said J. Hampton Manning, Bush Field manager.

PEOPLE

Winner's lifestyle to remain normal

NEW YORK — Pasquale Consalvo, the Staten Island construction worker who won a $30.5 million Lotto prize, says the sudden rash of cash won't affect him or his family — but his son can see at least one change for better.

"It'll only make us better looking," said Anthony Consalvo, 32, who thought it was a joke when he learned his father had won the Jan. 18 drawing.

Friends and family sang "God Bless America" as Consalvo, 59, and his wife, Angelina, accepted a large cardboard facsimile of the $1,163,616 check from Lotto officials Monday aboard the Staten Island ferry.

The check represented the amount from a $1,454,520 payment less 20 percent withheld by the Internal Revenue Service, said James Nolan, regional director for the state lottery. Consalvo will receive a similar amount each year for the next 20 years.

Campus Bulletin

ANNOUNCEMENTS
MORTAR BOARD applications are available in the Union Activities Office and are due today.

SORORITY OPEN RUSH will be from Feb. 10 through Feb. 24. Registration forms are available in Holton 203 and are due by 5 p.m. today.

BLUE KEY applications are available in Anderson 122 and are due by 5 p.m. Friday.

LITTLE AMERICAN ROYAL: Sign-up will be from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. today through Friday in the Union, Weber Hall and Call Hall.

MEN who are struggling with issues of sexual preference: A confidential support group is forming. For more information, contact Dr. Martin or Dr. Angle at the Counseling Center, 532-6927.

CAREER PLANNING AND PLACEMENT offers computerized career planning assistance. See the receptionist in Holtz Hall for a SIGI appointment.

TODAY

ASSOCIATION OF ADULTS RETURNING TO SCHOOL meets from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. in Union Stateroom 3.

UNITED NATIONS COUNCIL meets at 7 p.m. in Union 202.

STUDENT BODY PRESIDENT CANDIDATES will field questions on campaign issues from 9 to 10 p.m. For more information, call 532-6442.

Looking Back

20 Years Ago — 1966

K-State's Career Planning and Placement Center began the semester with a record number of interviewers scheduled to be on campus, said Roland Swain, director of placement.

15 Years Ago — 1971

Two K-State faculty members were among five people named by Gov. Robert Docking to be members of the Nuclear Energy Council. Curtis Chesem, head of the nuclear engineering department, was reappointed to the council and Walter Meyer, professor of nuclear engineering, received his first appointment.

10 Years Ago — 1976

Three undergraduate grading policies were reaffirmed by the Academic Affairs Committee of Faculty Senate. The policies are a credit-no credit rule, a retake policy and a policy to allow students to withdraw through the ninth week of the semester with no grade recorded.

5 Years Ago — 1981

Former K-State trackman Ardes Gardner Jr. said in a Kansas City Times article, track coach Mike Ross promised unlimited use of a school telephone credit card, cash to help pay living expenses and a job for Gardner's wife. Ross denied making such promises.

Compiled from the University Archives

MONT BLUE APARTMENTS

Studio, one, and two bedroom apartments and town houses.

Close to Campus

Phone 539-4447

ELECT SCOTT

FISCHER

ARTS & SCIENCE

SENATOR '86

Paid for by Students for Scott Fischer

South of the border party

Tonight!

$1.25 Corona

$1.00 Tequila

All other well drinks

$1.50: wine $1.00: 80¢ draws

ELIGIBILITY FOR CARE AT LAFENE STUDENT HEALTH CENTER

- Health fees are established upon the recommendation of the Student Senate with approval by the Board of Regents.
- All students who are enrolled and attending classes during a regular semester or summer session who have paid health fees are eligible for care.
- Those enrolled in Special Courses, for varying periods of time, who have made previous arrangements for health care coverage at Lafene are eligible for care. (Lists of these students must be furnished prior to being seen at Lafene.)
- Only students, who have paid the health fee, may elect to have their spouse also covered at Lafene; however, they must pay the spouse fee within 10 days of the time their own health fees are paid. (Children cannot be seen.)
- Emergency care, prior to referral, will be given anyone who comes in.
- Students enrolled in 6 hours or less, electing not to pay the health fee during the Fall or Spring semesters, who wish to be seen, will be charged $20 for each office visit. This charge continues until the full health fee has been exceeded, then that student will be afforded the same privileges as the regular fee paying student for the remainder of that semester.
- Students who were enrolled in the Spring and pre-enrolled for the Fall semester but not attending summer school may pay $15 and be eligible for care during the summer. This fee may be paid within 30 days prior to summer registration and ends the day classes begin. A late fee of $20 will be accepted for the remainder of the summer.
- Health fees are good until 12 o'clock the night the next semester begins.

NOTE: In addition to the above mentioned fees, there are minimal charges for certain supplies and services and the charges are subject to change without prior notice.

Advertisement

$2.00
Pitchers
50¢
Steins

Bob is on his way back

4¢

Copies

Reductions & Enlargements

Wall Street Journal
Rocky Mountain News
New York Times
Classical CD's

Claflin Books
Till 9:30 p.m.
Sun.-Fri.
Till 5 p.m.
Sat.

THE GUTHRIE THEATER
A Mid-America Arts Alliance Program

Saturday, February 8, 1986
8:00 p.m.
Box Office: (913) 532-6428

Charles Dickens' splendidly vivid characters come to life in this classic story of Pip, the orphan boy who grows up to be a gentleman of "great expectations."

This program is presented in part by the Kansas Arts Commission, a state agency, and the National Endowment for the Arts, a federal agency.

McCain

HUNGRY? Bakery Science Club BAKE STORE

Variety breads
Donuts
And other
Sweet goodies

Shellenberger 105
Wed., Feb. 5
3:30-5:30 p.m.

ATTENTION COLLEGE OF BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION STUDENTS

BUSINESS CAREER OPPORTUNITY SEMINARS

Present Job Market
Future Job Opportunities
Salary Expectations

Feb. 6, 1986, 4 p.m., Calvin 209
Careers in Marketing Dr. Wayne Norvell
Careers in Management Dr. William Liddell

SGA announces '86 election candidates

By The Collegian Staff

More than 130 people have filed for Student Governing Association positions, according to the SGA roster.

Six people filed for the student body president position. They are:

Kelli Carr, senior in journalism and mass communications; Steve Cashman, junior in marketing; Patty Hipeher, junior in political science; Steven Johnson, sophomore in agricultural economics; Keith Petracek, junior in electrical engineering; and "Scarface," who was listed as Joel Christopher Pollock. Pollock was officially dropped from the ballot Thursday by the elections committee after he failed to make the expenditure report deadline, said Maribeth Gottschalk, senior in journalism and mass communications and committee chairman.

Six people filed for the four Board of Student Publications positions. They are: Ronda Corie, junior in journalism and mass communications; Vicki Fernkopf, sophomore in food science and industry; Patti Hannan, junior in journalism and mass communications; Dan Hoss, freshman in secondary education; Dwayne Smith, junior in journalism and mass communications; and Tim R. Staley, sophomore in journalism and mass communications.

Students running for Student Senate in the College of Agriculture are:

Michelle Benoit, sophomore in agricultural economics; Bernard Boller, junior in animal sciences and industry; Wally Brockhoff, junior in agricultural economics; Christopher Gooding, sophomore in bakery science and management; Steve Ligon, junior in animal sciences and industry; Pat Muir, junior in agricultural economics;

Phil Nordhus, freshman in agricultural economics; Kevin Religa, junior in agronomy; Tom Ridder, sophomore in pre-veterinary medicine; Marty Ropp, junior in animal sciences and industry; Cheryl Tillberg, freshman in agricultural economics; Tim Ulrich, sophomore in pre-veterinary medicine; and Howard H. Woodbury, sophomore in animal sciences and industry.

Students running for Senate positions in the College of Architecture and Design are:

David Kaster, sophomore in pre-design professions, and Dave Tritsch, sophomore in architecture and design.

Students running for office in the College of Arts and Sciences are:

Wes Alexander, sophomore in journalism and mass communications; Ron Bailey, junior in political science; Susan D. Baird, junior in journalism and mass communications; Randall S. Beeman, junior in history; Ron Bethel, sophomore in pre-law; John Bullock, sophomore in political science; Kirk Caraway, senior in political science; Scott Carmichael, sophomore in psychology; Steve Cole, sophomore in pre-physical therapy; Kevin Eickmann, junior in information systems;

Scott D. Fischer, sophomore in psychology; Gretchen Hagen, senior in history; Gary Haulmark, freshman in political science; Colin Hickey, sophomore in political science; Tom Lally, junior in political science; Jennifer Leeds, freshman in political science; Martin Monto, junior in biology; Jay Otjen, sophomore in pre-dentistry; Ken Paulie, junior in political science;

Matt Queen, junior in pre-medicine; Leslye Schneider, sophomore in pre-medicine; Brian Sherwood, junior in pre-law; Matt Sise, freshman in geography; Dave Wagner, sophomore in journalism and mass communications; Gretchen Wagner, junior in journalism and mass communications; Pat Woolley, freshman in pre-medicine; and Gary Yager, sophomore in art.

Students running for positions in the College of Business Administration are:

Richard Blevins, junior in marketing; Brett

See ELECTION, Page 9

Debaters earn 1st place in tournament

By ANGELA O'HARA
Collegian Reporter

Determination and many late nights finally paid off for the K-State debate team with a first-place victory Monday at Southern Illinois University, Carbondale.

The team of Lisa Iulianelli, junior in speech and political science, and Al Madrid, junior in Latin American studies, was awarded a silver cup and a bottle of champagne after finishing the tournament with nine wins and one loss.

"We're a very good team," Madrid said. "I thought if we broke (to finals), we could win."

Edward Schiappa, director of debate, said he was pleased he decided to team Iulianelli and Madrid this semester. Last semester they debated with different partners.

"Both were not reaching their potential," Schiappa said. "This is the first time this year we've reached our potential at a tournament."

Schiappa said the team has just begun to build a reputation on the debate circuit and he expects more victories.

"A handful of teams have a chance to win nationals. They're one of those," Schiappa said.

However, he said he is concerned about the future of K-State's program.

"We're in danger of (student) senate severely cutting or limiting our budget, which makes recruiting and planning impossible," Schiappa said.

"I can see two opposite futures: I wouldn't be surprised if in two years we had no program or a national championship," Schiappa said. "The only question at this point is money."

A national victory would enhance "this University's symbolic commitment to academic excellence," he said.

Iulianelli and Madrid both transferred to the University specifically because of the debate program here. Both knew of Schiappa's national reputation. When they heard he was coming to the University, they said they made plans to transfer.

Schiappa came to K-State from Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill., after finishing his master's and Ph.D. He graduated from K-State and came back because he "wanted to give it a shot." He still directs a summer high school debate institute at Northwestern.

Schiappa said he is in contact with several successful high-school students, but remains concerned.

"We have lost students to inferior institutions because they had more scholarship money," Schiappa said.

In addition to recruitment, Schiappa is trying to get the teams out to tournaments as much as he can.

The next tournament the team will attend is at Louisiana State University, Baton Rouge. It will meet a team from Weber State College, Ogden, Utah, which was last year's Cross Examination Debate Association champion.

The 1986 CEDA topic is proving whether or not the United Nations is beneficial. Teams have to be prepared to defend both sides of the question.

Iulianelli and Madrid have crafted an affirmative case which claims the United Nations "hasn't met up to the expectations of the U.S. government and people because our interests are no longer being attained."

In finals, Iulianelli and Madrid debated Oklahoma Christian College, Oklahoma City. K-State was placed on the negative side, in support of the United Nations.

Being concise and leaving the concepts simple is sometimes the most persuasive way to win as negative, Madrid said.

"That's why we won," he said.

ALL NEW
The Switch
Is Coming
Feb. 14
at 6:00 p.m.

Lafene Student Health

"YOUR HEALTH CENTER"

Available Services:

- Outpatient Clinic
- Gyn Clinic
- Laboratory
- X-Ray
- Physical Therapy
- Mental Health
- Pharmacy
- Much more

Eligibility: Student must have paid health fee.

Call 532-6544

for appointment

College of Education Sweat Shirt Sale

Bluemont Hall Lobby
Wednesday & Thursday
February 5th & 6th
from
8:30 a.m. - 3:30 p.m.
$11 per shirt

BEST WESTERN CONTINENTAL INN
Restaurant and Supper Club
Alumni, friends and families-- relax in Wildcat style after the Colorado victory Saturday...

- Adjoining shopping Center
- 92 Units
- Meeting Rooms
- HBO Movies
- Direct Dial Phones
- King and Queen Beds
- Suites
- In Room Coffee

Call 776-4771 Toll-Free Number (call direct in Kansas)
1-800-432-2701
100 Bluemont at Hwy. 177 By-pass and U.S. 24

Sancho or Burrito Dinner......a large sancho or burrito covered with hot chili and melted cheese, with salad, refried beans and chips.
Sale price $2.15
Reg. $3.20

Tacos
3 for $1.25
Reg. 55¢ each

Sale Feb. 5 - Feb. 8

Hours: Sun., Mon.,
Wed., Thurs. 11 a.m.-11 p.m.
Fri. & Sat. 11 a.m.-Midnight
Closed Tuesday

TACO HUT

Where good friends get together
2809 Claflin 539-2091

STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION BUDGETS DUE
Budget requests for funds from the student activity fee are due to SGA Finance Committee February 14. For more information call or stop by the Student Government Services Office (532-6541) ground floor, K-State Union.

SGA

CHARLIE'S NEIGHBORHOOD BAR
Established 1983

Wed. $1.95 Pitchers

THURSDAY THE "ORIGINAL" $ DOLLAR DAZES

Sat. - Bud Light Nite
(Watch-Thursdays Collegian For Details)
1800 Claflin Rd. 1st Bank Center 539-9619

MR. K'S

LADIES NITE TONITE

Ladies Get...
• 25¢ Draws
• $1 Coolers
• Free Adm.
And 2 Mr. K's Ladies Men!

Plus $1.75 Pitchers For All!

The campus community is cordially invited to learn about a Biblical basis for achieving peace in a free lecture entitled:

God's Gentle Might

To be given by Marion Sheldon Pierpont, C.S.B. a member of The Christian Science Board of Lectureship on Thursday, February 6 at 4 p.m. in Danforth Chapel. All students, faculty, and staff are warmly invited to attend.

Sponsored by the Christian Science Organization at KSU

The Little American Royal is coming up April 5, 1986
AND SIGN-UP begins TODAY, Feb. 5

When? Wed.-Thurs.-Fri. 9:30-3:30
Where? In front of Weber 107
Call Hall lobby and K-State Union

What's This? The Little American Royal is a livestock fitting and showing contest open to any K-State student. Students participating will have the opportunity to train and prepare an animal (sheep, beef, swine, dairy or horses) for the show. Instruction will be available for beginners.

Why? Chance for fun—to learn—to meet people—enjoy an animal.

Entry Fee: $4.50

Love is . . .
seeing eye to eye

See us for all your regular eye care and contact lens eye care.

Soft Contact Lenses Are Available...

- ♥ Tinted (To accent or change the color of your eyes)
- ♥ Extended Wear (To sleep with, even for astigmatism)
- ♥ Bifocal (for reading difficulties)
- ♥ Regular Type (For near and far sightedness)
- ♥ Toric (For astigmatism)
- ♥ Oxygen Permeable (Rigid)

Ask us about our cosmetics for contact lens wearers.

NEW

Tinted extended Wear Lenses Available
Payment Plans Available
Most types of contact lenses available same day.

Dr. Paul E. Bullock & Dr. Brian J. Horsch
Practice of Optometry
Prof. Bldg.

776-9461 404 Humboldt
Toll Free 1-800-432-0036
Manhattan, KS

Ben Franklin Crafts

FREE! Flower Arranging

- Decorative arrangements
- Wedding bouquets, flowers
- Special occasion gifts

Custom design your own floral accent pieces for that special occasion or to coordinate with your decor. Choose your favorites from a wide selection of floral varieties and colors...and our professional staff will arrange them in your own container or in one of your decorative vases. We'll do the arranging FREE! All you pay for are the materials.

Craft Ribbon - Largest selection in the Manhattan Area

Westloop Center, Manhattan
Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m.-9 p.m., Sat. 9 a.m.-5:30 p.m., Sun. 1-5 p.m.

Editor: David Svoboda
Associate Editor: Lillian Zier
News Editor: Patty Reinert
Managing Editor: Jeri Heidrick

Editorial Page Editor: Tim Carpenter
Photo/Graphics Editor: Chris Stewart
Advertising Manager: Lori Wong
Director/News Adviser: Dave Adams

Editorial Board: David Svoboda, Tim Carpenter, Melissa Brune, Rich Harris, Jeri Heidrick, Steve Milligan, Patty Reinert, Vicki Reynolds, Eric Rhodenbaugh, Tammy Rickerson, Catherine Saylor, Tom Schultes, Richard Thorp, Jonie Trued, Lillian Zier.

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 020) is published by Student Publications, Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods. OFFICES are in the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 532-6555. Newsroom phone number is 532-6556; display advertising, 532-6560; and classified advertising 532-6555. SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: $40, calendar year; $35, academic year; $20, semester; $10, summer term. Address changes should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66504.

All tobacco products need warning labels

It is the right of Americans over the age of 18 to make personal choices regarding the use of chewing tobacco products. But the choice should be an informed one, and not made under the influence of advertising.

The House of Representatives voted Monday to require warning labels on chewing tobacco and snuff and to ban television and radio advertising of these products.

The Senate will be considering the motion in the near future. We hope the Senate will show the foresight the House has and approve the measure.

Advertising by the smokeless tobacco industry would have us believe smokeless tobacco is a safe alternative to smoking. It is not. Smokeless users have higher levels of nicotine in their blood than do smokers. Smokeless tobacco can cause gum recession, oral and throat cancer and tooth decay. Smokeless users often experience a loss of taste and smell.

Smokeless tobacco ads portray our sports heroes exhorting us to "enjoy real tobacco flavor without lighting up." Unfortunately, the ads seem to work. Smokeless tobacco sales are increasing, but it is a shame that the primary buyers are youths under 18.

Smokeless tobacco is not only unhealthy, it is disgusting as well. Spitting a stream of tobacco juice is far from the macho thing it is portrayed as being by the swaggering cowboys and athletes used in the smokeless tobacco ads.

Eric Rhodenbaugh,
for the editorial board

Student funds could be spent on lighting

When compared to $700,000, $18,000 may not seem like much to haggle about, but the proposed use of this money calls for scrutiny.

The Student Bond Refinancing Ad Hoc Committee has recommended that $18,000 of the $700,000 generated through refinancing student bonds be given to the KSU Police Department to convert existing emergency telephones on campus to a radio call box system.

The committee needs to take a common sense approach to campus security. First of all, does the emergency phone system merit more funding? Second, will changing the current system to a radio system increase security?

The current emergency phone system does not impart one with a sense of security when faced with a late-night walk across a dark campus. One is not filled with a sense of confidence knowing there is a phone, or a radio, out there somewhere in the dark to grab in case of need.

If someone was being pursued by an attacker, and was lucky enough to be near an emergency phone, chances are he or she would not stop for a quick phone call. After contacting the authorities, it is unlikely that anyone would wait by the phone for help to arrive.

The entire emergency phone system appears to be an illogical approach to campus security. Why spend more money on a system which does not serve its purpose?

If campus security can be improved through more funding, maybe a more thorough lighting system across campus is a better answer to the problem. Lighting does enhance security. One is more likely to walk confidently across a well-lighted campus than a dark campus with emergency phones.

Although it may seem to be of concern to more women than men, a better lighting system is beneficial to all.

Perhaps the committee's recommendation concerning the use of the funds released by the refinancing to pay for alterations in the emergency telephone system should be reconsidered.

Melissa Brune,
for the editorial board

College Press Service

Students near year of hard choices

Now that Scarface has taken the ax, students are left with five choices for student body president. I'm glad to see that they are a fairly responsible lot.

K-State is at a crucial turning point. We shall soon have a new University president and his first year will probably set the tone of her or his administration. How students are represented during that year may affect how they are treated by the new administration for years. We need to choose our main representative as wisely as possible.

In view of all the controversy our campus has endured for the last year, a good turnout for the student government elections is anticipated. The better the turnout, the better the chance we will elect a leader who represents students well.

So how do we go about choosing the right person? The following is a list of six guidelines for choosing a student body president.

— Awareness of the issues: Any candidate that is worth more than a hill of beans will have researched the various aspects of the coliseum, athletic fee, health fee, library, fee cards, students retention and campus security. Each of these has a hundred or more aspects. Any candidate who can come up

STEVE MILLIGAN
Collegian
Columnist

with a pat answer to any issue without knowing the complexities involved should be viewed with caution.

— Awareness of what is not at issue: A good candidate will be aware of all the issues, and a better candidate will know what are not student issues. For instance, any candidate who talks much about the proposed increase in the state sales tax does not know the role of the student body president. Another example of a subject that some candidates may be erroneously expounding on is student recruitment. Even though the future of the University will be affected by enrollment, recruitment is a concern for University administrators. The next president should deal with the problems that face students enrolled now.

— The candidate should be articulate: The position of president requires numerous public appearances. If the person we elect can articulate well, he or she will be able to create a positive and responsible impression with the new University president, Board of Regents and alumni.

— Elect a person who shares most of your views: There is no way that any candidate can say everything you would like to hear. If a candidate can agree with you on everything, he or she must not be saying much.

— Look for someone who is confident and decisive: In order to function as a student leader the president will have to make numerous decisions. If a candidate does not take a stance on an issue, he or she should have a reason for being noncommittal.

— Avoid voting for someone who belongs to the Student Governing Association Club: These people regularly stand up for the University officials despite widespread student disagreement with the University's view.

Though nearly all members of the club are nice people, the ones who surface are usually looking out more for their own futures than they are for the future of students at K-State.

Excuses shouldn't end dating game

College students are a clever breed of human beings, especially when it comes to making up excuses.

No matter what the situation is, they can always think of some excuse to avoid the problem. My favorite excuses come from people who want to avoid going out on a date.

With my luck, the most common response is that the potential date is already going out with someone else that weekend.

Some students who have a reputation for studying feel safe in saying that they "must" study. They're determined to lock themselves in their rooms and become hermits for the weekend. Whether they do or not is anyone's guess.

A third excuse is that they need to go home. Dear old Aunt Mable from Hotchkotch, Ind., is visiting for the weekend, and Mother would be so upset if they didn't come home.

A classic excuse is, "My time is already allocated to other things." In other words, "I have a list of priorities a mile long, and you're not one of them."

And how many times have you heard the line, "I can't this time, but I'd love to go some other time." The first time someone says that it sounds encouraging. The second time it raises doubts about their sincerity. By the third time, it's hopeless.

SUSAN D. BAIRD
Collegian
Columnist

One that sounds legitimate is the old line: "I'm scheduled to work this weekend but can I check with my boss and get back with you." Obviously, this is a ruse so they can look you up in the yearbook and ask their sources about you.

One response I get belongs in Barlett's Book of Quotations: "If my sister comes back from California, I'll go home to see her. But my house has a rush party that weekend, so I may stay in town for that, and then I should do a chemistry experiment. But I could fly to the West Coast with my grandparents... Could I check back with you Friday?"

How does a person deal with these fickle responses? Organization is the key.

First, if there's someone special who you'd like to take to a dance or barn party, ask at least one month in advance. But remember — if you're dying to ask someone out, someone else probably is, too.

If Prospect No. 1 can't go, don't despair. Ask someone else, but do it at least one week in advance. This gives you the opportunity to find a last-minute replacement. While waiting for a reply, make a list of who's available at a minute's notice in case you need a quick replacement.

Another solution is to keep a file box of people with whom you'd be willing — not necessarily eager — to go out with. Include under each name a list of the activities they enjoy, such as going to a formal dance, watching a mud-wrestling match or playing a game of miniature golf. If you're really industrious, make another file that lists names by activity.

And don't forget the old high school flame or the friend back home who's attending the local junior college. You'll cause a stir if you bring a mysterious stranger to the party.

If all else fails, ask Cousin John or, perish the thought, Brother Bill, but they should be used only as a last resort.

Whether you like it or not, a person may not be able to find a date for the big party. Then they use the excuse, "It's a dumb party, and I really didn't want to go anyway."

Letters

Special child care

Editor,

K-State students are needed to voice support for a program that shows the true spirit of the University, that shows what students, faculty and staff can accomplish when united in a project for the benefit of the University.

The program I refer to is the KSU Child Care Cooperative now operating in Jardine Terrace. Through the hard work of many diligent people, the center opened in remarkably short time and now cares for 89 children. The center is unique in that it serves the special child care needs of students, faculty and staff.

Why should you support this program? Here are only a few reasons. First, all of the various colleges played a part in establishing the center and will benefit from its success. Second, the center employs work study students. Third, the center will be a site for student internships.

Fourth, the center has the potential to provide K-State with national coverage. It is unique because it is cooperative, and if it meets its goal of servicing 240 children when completed — there is a documented need for a center of this size — would be one of largest university centers in the country.

Fifth, the center will draw to K-State returning and single parent students; helping to bolster the University's dropping enrollment.

The KSU Child Care Cooperative is a K-State success story. It is a valuable, functioning addition to our University, but it needs your support.

Please contact your college's student senators, and ask for their support of our center by Feb. 7 when they vote on the allocation of funds. Place a vote for the future of K-State.

Tracy Lee Schemper
freshman in business

Misleading ads

Editor,

We are writing to express a sincere grievance to the Campus Crusade for Christ organization and its handling of the advertisement of the production "If I Should Die..." presented Monday in Forum Hall.

The posters told of a program "dramatically exploring life, death...and beyond!" As an additional advertising gimmick, a group of crusaders, dressed in trench coats, was parading around campus and carrying a casket and copies of the poster. Based on this advertising, we attended, expecting a documentary of sorts on various views and experiences with death, and the possibilities of life after death.

But we got more than we bargained for. In fact, we got something totally different. What was billed as an exploration of life and death suddenly became an outright advertisement for Jesus Christ. Halfway through the show, death took a back seat to the word of God and his son.

Nowhere did any advertisements say that this was going to be a religious experience. The fact that it was put on by Campus Crusade was printed at the bottom of the poster in tiny, dark-blue letters that blended well with the black background. Nobody standing within two or three feet could read that fact, although everything else was legible.

What it comes down to is that we felt very much put upon. We were led into this theater under false pretenses. No forewarning — just, "Here. Accept this."

Many of the people in our little group are strong believers in Christ and what the program said. A few of them are not. But all of us were offended that the Crusade would use such misleading tactics. We do not wish to degrade the presentation itself — it was extremely well produced. However, we feel that Campus Crusade should be severely criticized for its handling of the advertisement. The way to "show people the light" is not to trick them into going and then throw it at them. If nothing else, the Crusade probably turned more people off to its cause than it brought into it.

Mike Schwabauer
freshman in environmental design and two others

Lighting confusion

Editor,

Re: Corwin A. Bennett's letter, "Illuminating views," in the Jan. 27 Collegian: I was surprised at Bennett's misunderstanding of lights and astronomy. He seems to have confused lumens — a unit of light — with lumens per watt, which is a unit of efficiency. It is like the difference between miles and miles per gallon.

Bennett claims that "lumens/watt are additive so that two high-pressure lights at 66 lumens/watt...would provide more light than one low-pressure light at 120 lumens/watt, given equal wattage." That is like claiming that two cars which each get 10 mpg will together travel farther on the same total amount of fuel than one car which gets 18

mpg. It is simply wrong mathematics, and embarrassing coming from an engineer. If Bennett was correct, we could use not two lamps, but three, four or 4,000, and light the whole world without increasing wattage.

Bennett also seems uninformed in saying that, "Telescopes should be moved into the country..." to avoid light interference. Does he believe observatories are in cities? Little serious astronomy is done in cities, nor has it been for decades.

Observatories, even in the country, are threatened by city lights. Because telescopes are far more sensitive than the eye, their work is ruined even by lights a 1,000 times too dim to see with the eye. California's "Hooker" telescope, once the world's largest, is nearly worthless because of the distant lights of Los Angeles.

Astronomers, like everyone else, want enough light for safety. We simply ask two things: first, that low-pressure sodium lights be used (they are the most efficient, and interfere the least with astronomy); and second, that light be directed downward, where it is useful, and not upward, where it is wasted.

Daniel Johnson
instructor of English and former employee of the NASA
Institute for Space Studies

Ethiopian officials use Live-Aid famine relief for political purposes

The hype and fervor of the Live-Aid famine relief effort has died down. That's because summer turned into winter, Live-Aid T-shirts worn alone couldn't provide sufficient warmth and also because Live-Aid was essentially a movement destined to fade as soon as its stars moved on to more prestigious, better paying appearances.

With Live-Aid's help Ethiopia's government moved on to bigger projects, too.

The American press diligently tracked and reported on the millions of dollars raised by Live-Aid as it traveled in and out of banks, as it purchased food, and finally as it fell into the waiting arms of Ethiopia's government. Its watchdog task considered complete, the press let the issue go.

Americans who want to believe that Live-Aid food reached the arms of starving villagers better stop reading here. The Wall Street Journal recently carried three articles describing what really happened to the food contributions meant for famine relief. Their story begins with a description of Ethiopia's unstable political situation when the food arrived.

Ethiopia's Lt. Col. Mengistu and his army are determined to achieve a relocation of 1.5 million Ethiopians. As a result of the project, planned in 1981 in an effort to disband at least five known guerilla groups who oppose Mengistu, conservative reports indicate at least 100,000 people have died.

The relocation program is highly developed. In areas of the country where land is fertile and rainfall sufficient, a majority of the Ethiopian people reside. This area, however, is distant from the country's government-owned mines, which are in need of workers. It is Mengistu's plan to populate areas closer to the mines with peasants from the highlands.

The resettlement is a separate development from the famine raging through the country, but the famine and relocation program became linked with the advent of Live-Aid.

Live-Aid food is being used by the Ethiopian government as bait, bribe and weapon.

According to Suzanne Garment, in an article published in the Wall Street Journal, "authorities withhold food from a community until it volunteers people for resettlement. They threaten to starve someone in a feeding

JONIE TRUED
Collegian
Columnist

center if his relatives escape from a resettlement area."

The Ethiopian government continues to claim transfers are voluntary but their tactics, as described by refugees, belie their words. Garment said authorities often feed a few people from a certain village and tell them if all the villagers come back, they can have more food. On the way to the feeding area villagers are captured and contained for relocation.

Peter Niggli, a Swiss free-lance journalist, conducted extensive interviews last year with Ethiopian refugees in Sudan.

"The resettlements take place without prior warning: It often happened that marketplaces were searched by the army on several succeeding days and every peasant and everyone taken to be a peasant because of his rags, was arrested and sent to a resettlement camp."

Niggli goes on to describe the resettlement camps to be worse than any known concentration camp. In most camps there are no latrines and sick and healthy people are not separated.

To prevent resistance some officials force peasants awaiting resettlement to survive on a hunger diet. They are given water only for drinking, and fighting is encouraged for the small amount of food allotted.

While Mengistu contends the resettlement area is fertile, but reports indicate it is infested with water parasites, malaria and tsetse flies. At least 20 percent of those sent to the relocation sites are dead on arrival.

All reports indicate Live-Aid contributions are either not being distributed or are being diverted.

Live-Aid trucks meant to carry and distribute grain are used by the government to move people while the grain rots at port sites. Harvests have been discontinued because whole villages are in hiding to avoid government troops and Mengistu's army is drawing support from relief sent to famine victims.

Instead of sending relief, it appears we have sent this militaristic government the perfect weapon to use against its own people.

It is time we re-examine our motives and methods for giving aid to foreign countries, and come to terms with the difference between aid triggered by a passing emotional appeal and aid given through existing channels.

Live-Aid was an emotional appeal made to the general public through overplayed songs and celebrities with good intentions but bad direction. Individuals responsible for directing the movement were not people who have experience in dealing with foreign cultures and customs. They did not concern themselves with the political instability of the country because they viewed it as entirely separate from their goals.

Politics, we must realize, are never separate, especially where food distribution in lesser developed countries is concerned. The Live-Aid — "let's give them food and solve their problems" — attitude compounded Ethiopia's problems instead of relieving them as it was meant to do.

While the Ethiopian government continues to use Live-Aid contributions as a weapon, the Ethiopian Red Cross has been quietly helping as many people as it can.

The Ethiopian Red Cross has also maintained a direct and invulnerable link with Americans through our own Red Cross. All donations received by the Red Cross, designated by donors to go to famine relief in Ethiopia, actually gets there. Church organizations have relief programs in virtually every country. The reason these groups can make a lasting and positive impression in lesser developed countries is because they not only receive the donations and change them into food and goods, but they deliver and distribute them with little government interference. The organization, not the government, is in control of relief efforts.

Americans can make a positive difference, and it remains absolutely clear that Ethiopian famine victims as well as others need us. If we are concerned about feeding these people we must start working with the organizations already succeeding. Creating conditions where food becomes a political weapon is not going to save lives.

Distribution of food stock remains issue

Agriculture is the world's oldest and largest industry. Production of food — our most important renewable resource — is our most basic enterprise.

TIM CARPENTER
Editorial
Page Editor

Progress in agricultural food production during this century has been phenomenal in most parts of the world. However, food production problems remain, malnutrition is an ongoing concern in Africa and countries of Latin America, where population growth is rapid, political instability exists and resources are limited.

In the future, the United States will not be able to remain the bread basket for the world. Food production and its delivery along with resource inputs will become increasingly expensive and food will need to be produced closer to the people who consume it.

There are two types of food production technologies for the future: production based on mechanization with extensive use of land, water and energy resources; and production based on biological technology, which spares resources.

Food producers should strive to shift from resource-based agriculture to one based on biological and scientific technology.

Increased food production will go far to alleviate hunger and malnutrition, but food production is not a global food problem. Distribution and delivery of food is a critical problem. The challenge is to get food to people who need it. People are malnourished and go hungry largely because of ineffective distribution systems and because of a lack of purchasing power. Government decisions frequently prohibit efficient access to food. The politics of food are real — as the situation in Ethiopia demonstrates.

We should attempt to funnel money into programs that stimulate food production closer to where the hungry, poor and undernourished live — not farther away.

UPC

Wednesday, February 5, 1986

UPC

STALLONE

No man, no law, no war
can stop him.

A 26-minute history of R & R from the 50's to 80's Monday, 7, 8, 9, & 10 p.m., Forum Hall, FREE ADMISSION!

VIDEO DANCE

Come and enjoy the latest videos while dancing the night away and win prizes including the latest album releases from Bruce Springsteen, Alison Moyet, Dead or Alive, and more. Saturday - 9 p.m. to Midnight in the Union's Catskeller. $1 admission benefits the T.J. Martell Foundation of Cancer and Leukemia Research.

k-state union
upc eclectic entertainment

RAMBO
FIRST BLOOD PART II

Friday and Saturday,
7:00 & 9:30 p.m.
Forum Hall $1.75,
KSU I.D. Required,
Rated R

k-state union
upc feature films

Matthew Modine and Nicolas Cage star as Birdy and Al. While Al lifts weights and tries to pick up girls, Birdy, a mechanical genius who breeds canaries, becomes obsessed with dreams of flying. As an adult, Birdy is traumatized by the horrors of Vietnam and confined to a hospital. Al, who also has been scarred by the war, fights to bring his near-catatonic friend back to reality.

Birdy

Tonight, 7:30 p.m., Little Theatre
Tomorrow, 3:30 & 7:30 p.m., Little Theatre
$1.75, KSU I.D. Required, Rated R

k-state union
upc kaleidoscope

GO HIKE THE CANYON - SPRING BREAK

This year's Spring Break trip will offer a choice of three Outdoor Recreation-explored trails.

Information meeting tomorrow,
Union Room 212, 6:00 p.m.
Sign-up begins Friday through March 3 in Union Activities
Center 8:30 a.m. - 4 p.m.

THE Wizard of Oz

Judy Garland and Ray Bolger, portraying Dorothy and Scarecrow, are on the yellow brick road to colorful, musical excitement in MGM's all-time classic film, "The Wizard of Oz."

Saturday,
2:00 p.m.,
Forum Hall
Sunday,
2:00 & 7:00 p.m.,
Forum Hall
$1.50,
KSU
I.D. Required,
Rated G

k-state union
upc kaleidoscope

POLITICAL FORUM '86

Who will be K-State's new student body president?

•meet the candidates
•hear the issues
union courtyard
thursday
Feb. 6
12NOON

Center plans banquet to honor namesake

By The Collegian Staff

This year's commemoration of Frederick Douglass Day, sponsored by the Douglass Community Center, 900 Yuma St., is scheduled for 6 p.m. Feb. 14.

The scheduled commemoration activities include a banquet and a speech by Rosa Parks.

Parks, a seamstress and active member of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, gained notoriety in 1955 when she refused to move to the back of a city bus in Montgomery, Ala., to make room for a white male.

Within days, with the leadership of Parks' minister, the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., blacks began boycotting the city's bus system.

Douglass was a native of Maryland and a leading black abolitionist in the 1800s. He died in Washington, D.C., in February 1895.

Persons wishing to attend the banquet are urged to make reservations as soon as possible by contacting the center at 539-2972. To attend, there is a donation of $15 per person.

SAMS begins campaign at local tavern

By PENNIE BRENNEMAN
Collegian Reporter

Students Against Multiple Sclerosis kicked off its fund-raising campaign with a party last night at Brother's Tavern.

SAMS began its part in the national fund-raising event for the fight against multiple sclerosis with a party to introduce contestants participating in the "Rock Alike" contest to "Bust MS."

The next step for contestants will be to perform lip-sync impersonations of their favorite rock stars at the "Rock Alike" event Feb. 25.

Stars who appeared at last night's event included Madonna, The Blues Brothers, Pat Benatar, The Go-Gos and Lynard Skynard.

Madonna — Metissa Edwards,

senior in marketing — was heard to comment, "I wish Sean (Penn) were here."

"There are many great candidates. However, my candidate, Madonna, is going to win," said Tom Franzen, senior in finance and Edwards' campaign manager.

Also appearing at the event was Pat Benatar — Sarah Swaim, senior in secondary education — who said she attended because "Madonna made me do it."

"This is my last semester at K-State and I wanted to participate. I enjoy working for something that is for a good cause," Swaim said.

"We're on a mission from God," said John Belushi of the Blues Brothers — Kevin Knaus, senior in journalism and mass communications.

Doug Scheibe, senior in journalism and mass communications and accounting, and Marc Baker, senior in agricultural economics, auctioned items throughout the evening to raise money for SAMS. These included dinner at the Cotton Club restaurant; tanning sessions at Mar-Y-Sol and Tropical Tan; pizzas at Domino's, Pizza Hut and Falsotto's; dinner at Burgundy's; and a hot tub party.

"Students need to forget their shyness and participate in this worthwhile event. It is not too late to sign up; applications will still be accepted in the Student Governing Association office," Scheibe said.

All items auctioned at the party were donated by area businesses to support the drive against multiple sclerosis. The hot tub party was auctioned for $210 and the Holidome package of a room and dinner sold for $110.

Additional items will be auctioned at the final "Rock Alike" event. Among these items will be the SAMS mascot, a black Labrador retriever named Sam, and a limousine service.

"It's great to see greeks and off-campus students get together and help each other raise money for such a good cause," said Max Strunk, co-owner of Brother's.

"The idea of using rock 'n' roll to promote the drive helps to make it a lot of fun," Strunk said.

Proceeds for the kick-off party totalled $930. Added to this total is 25 cents donated by Brother's for each pitcher of beer sold.

Writer uses hobby as part-time career

By NANCY CASE
Collegian Reporter

Most writers are compulsive. They would write even if no works ever sold, said Lee Killough, science fiction writer and chief radiology technologist at the Veterinary Medical Hospital.

"It's this bug that eats at you and you have to put words down on paper," she said.

Killough, whose short story "Symphony for a Lost Traveler" was nominated for a Hugo Award in 1985 was "really surprised to get a nomination."

"I didn't win, but it was still an honor to get nominated," Killough said.

The Hugo Award is the "original" award for science fiction writers. People who attended the world's science fiction convention in Australia this year voted on the award, she said.

"It's a fan award," Killough said. The short story which was nominated is about "making music based on DNA sequences," Killough said. The story appeared in Analog Magazine in March 1984.

Through the coaxing of her husband, Killough turned a hobby into a part-time career. In 1970 Killough's first short story was released after three years of trying to get it accepted, and in 1979 her first book was published.

"It was a little easier with the books because by that time I already had a name," Killough said.

Killough said when she was in junior high she read all of the horror stories and was looking for something new when she ran across a science fiction novel. She has been a lover of sci-fi since that time.

Killough has about 24 short stories and six books which have been published. She has written another book which will be released in July and has signed a contract for two more.

All of the books Killough writes are science fiction and "a number of them are science fiction mysteries," she said.

The book coming out in July, "Spider Play," is a science fiction mystery about two detectives who work out of Topeka during the next century, Killough said.

The writing time for each of her books takes an average of four to five months, not counting the four to six weeks for researching background information, she said.

Killough said the background information "will contain biographical sketches of the characters. If it's a different world, I usually have drawings of the world and all of the plants and animals named."

"If it has an alien society, I have decided on their structure, what they look like, what kind of clothes they wear, their jewelry, their banking system, educational system, religion and their marriage customs,"

Let's Talk
"PAULIE" TICS

Elect
KEN PAULIE
Arts and Science
SENATE
Member of SEA
Paid for by students to elect Ken Paulie

Brother's
KSU
IN AGGIEVILLE USA

Doors 7

Wednesday, Thursday

THE CLOCKS
FEB. 12

DAYTONA PARTY
THURSDAY,
FEB. 6, 5 - 7 pm
Free Beer for sign-ups

Killough said. "I create the world and I create the society."

Although Killough said she hasn't had much trouble getting her books published, her novel, "Blood Hunt," received 22 rejections before being accepted by Tor Books with the agreement to write a sequel, "Bloodlinks."

"The rejections always hurt. You can never get used to them. You either bleed externally so everyone can see you or you bleed quietly internally," Killough said.

Although none of the books have been "runaway best sellers," Killough said she will continue to write.

Shuttle

Continued from Page 1

flame to heat the huge external tank, setting off the blast. This flame was seen in film, although its origin was not clear.

The announcement of the possible discovery came hours after NASA severely cut back a search of the surface, which has yielded only one-tenth of Challenger's wreckage and shifted emphasis to the "relatively slow and arduous search of the ocean bottom."

Chief objects of the search besides the right booster are the crew compartment, with its cockpit voice recorder and electronics that monitor and record spacecraft systems.

NASA on Tuesday crossed off seven of 17 "targets" — objects seen in sonar soundings — after a closer look by robot submarines showed they were not parts from the shuttle.

THE RANCH SALOON
PROUDLY PRESENTS...
THE JOKER SHOW BAND
From Beatrice, Nebraska

9 p.m.-1 a.m. Wed. & Thurs. - no cover charge
9 p.m.-1:30 a.m., Fri. & Sat.

The Ranch
SALOON

Now a Private Club
East on Hwy 24 539-4989

Wendy's Wildcat Special

Offer Good: February 5 through February 11, 1986
NEW CHICKEN FRIED STEAK PLATTER

$1 off
PLUS FREE DRINK

Present coupon when ordering.

One special per coupon, please.

3004 Anderson

421 N. 3rd

GET THE RESPONSIBILITY YOU'VE EARNED

After you get your degree, get management responsibility and immediate decision-making authority. In a civilian job, it could take years. As a Navy Officer after 4 months of technical and leadership training, you're in charge with all the responsibility and respect you deserve.

NAVY OFFICERS GET RESPONSIBILITY FAST

Lt. Tina Talley, your Navy Officer Programs Representative will be interviewing on campus
Sign up in the placement center now!

WEDNESDAY NIGHT SPECIAL

For $1.75
CALL YOUR DRINK

ROCKIN' K BAR

TUNE UP YOUR WALKMAN
with

KOSS
stereophones

KC/24 comes with spare pair of cushions, level control volume adjustment and one year warranty NOW $15.00

STEREO FACTORY

1126 Moro 776-5507

VOTE PATTY HIPHER

- ENTHUSIASTIC
- DEDICATED
- INFORMED

Paid for by students for Educational Awareness

THE JEAN STATION
fritzl

EMANUELLE

ESPRIT

YOU

PO

(St. Michel)

ZENA

Aggieville, Manhattan

UNION BAY

Byer

Eber

Lee

Canarra.

SantaCruz

'86 baseball season appears interesting

With the knowledge that the groundhog failed to see his shadow last Sunday and spring is thus right around the corner, I think it's time to begin thinking about my first love — major league baseball.

Spring training doesn't officially open for the 26 major league clubs until later this month, but if off-the-field action is any indication, this could well shape up to be one of the most interesting seasons in recent memory.

I would first like to applaud the Baltimore Orioles and player representative Scott McGregor for announcing the team would implement mandatory drug tests for the players.

These tests, the results of which would be known only by the players and physicians, are the best means by which the players can show the public they truly intend to "come clean."

If each major league team would voluntarily submit to this type of testing, major league baseball would be much better off. It's time someone took a stand to bring the drug problem in sports to a halt — or at least slow it down.

When the Kansas City Royals open camp for pitchers, catchers and non-roster players later this month in Fort Myers, Fla., a familiar figure will be climbing back "up on the hill" to see if he can still pitch in the major leagues.

After three years filled with hardship and rehabilitation, Dennis Leonard has come to a most critical juncture in his career — a career that appeared finished several times following his knee injury.

Leonard has told the media that if it is judged he can't pitch well enough to stay on with a major league club, he will retire rather than spend a season or two in the minor leagues trying to make it back.

The former ace of the Kansas City

DAVID SVOBODA
Editor

staff is willing to be a starter, long reliever or even a short reliever — anything it takes to make it on the major league level.

With the recent rise of Bret Saberhagen, Mark Gubicza, Danny Jackson and Charlie Leibrandt, and with fine young pitchers like Scott Bankhead and Tony Ferreira just a step away from the majors, Leonard's battle appears to be an uphill one.

When I talked to him at the World Series, however, I saw in his eyes a burning desire to regain the form which made him the best right-hander in the game in the late 70s. Leonard wants to pitch again — he wants to make it back. I hope he does. Good luck, No. 22.

The recent acquisition of reliever Al Holland by the New York Yankees may open the door for Dave Righetti — one of the better left-handers in the game — to move back into the starting rotation on a regular basis for the first time since being exiled to the bullpen two years ago.

If "Rags" is moved back into the rotation by new Yankee manager Lou Piniella, look for New York to make a serious run at the division title in 1986.

Any team with Rickey Henderson, Don Mattingly and Dave Winfield in its lineup has to be respected, and with a starting rotation featuring Righetti and Ron Guidry, the Yanks would once again be a team to be feared...and a team we Royals fans could really grow to hate again.

Hoppen's injury alters plans

By TOM PERRIN
Sports Editor

With two-time All-Big Eight Conference center Dave Hoppen out of action for the season with a knee injury, Nebraska Coach Moe Iba definitely has a problem on his hands.

In losing Hoppen, Iba will be without the Big Eight's leading scorer (22.1 points per game) and third leading rebounder (7.7 per game), not to mention the focal point in the Cornhusker offense.

Not surprisingly, Iba has made some adjustments in his team, which will play without Hoppen, a senior, for the first time in over 3½ seasons tonight at Lincoln, Neb. against K-State.

"Defensively, we're going to pressure more. In three days time, it's very difficult to change your structure," Iba said. "We've made a few slight changes offensively and defensively that we think might help our basketball team to play against K-State."

Hoppen was injured in Nebraska's win over Colorado Feb. 1.

Iba said Nebraska players have reacted as well as could be expected to Hoppen's injury.

"The basketball team has had a good mental attitude toward the situation and that's all we can hope for," he said. "I think our team will play hard."

K-State Coach Jack Hartman said Hoppen's injury makes the task of preparing the Wildcats to play Nebraska even more difficult.

"Of course it's very difficult to prepare for them because you don't know what they're going to do," Hartman said. "With Hoppen in there, you know pretty much what they're going to do. Without him, they're an unknown quantity."

Hartman said playing Nebraska without Hoppen may be more difficult than if the 6-foot-11 All-American candidate were ready to play in tonight's game.

"I think you might consider that Nebraska might be tougher to play without Hoppen than with him," he said. "I'm sure that the Nebraska kids will try to play a little harder to try to make up for Hoppen's absence."

Iba is hoping that other players will step forward and pick up the slack for Hoppen, who is scheduled to undergo arthroscopic surgery Friday.

"Our basketball team will be a great deal different without him. We'll be very small, but I don't think that's any mystery," Iba said. "We'll turn to our experienced players and try to get some of our players that maybe haven't played so much to come in and help out.

Iba is also concerned about stopping K-State's high-scoring duo of Norris Coleman and Joe Wright.

"It seems like if Wright and Coleman come in and have (big scoring) nights together, K-State is very tough to beat," he said.

K-State will be trying to end a four game Big Eight Conference losing streak and comes off a loss to Kansas Feb. 1 at Ahearn Field House.

A recent concern of Hartman's has been the shooting slump of leading scorer Coleman, who scored only 11 points against Oklahoma State Jan. 29 and eight against KU. Hartman said he has kept encouraging Coleman and hopes the 20.4 ppg scorer can get his touch back.

"You're always trying to be positive and encouraging him (Coleman) to just go right ahead and don't worry about it — just have good rhythm and positive thoughts," Hartman said.

Hartman said he thinks Coleman may be feeling pressure to break out of his slump, since the team has been relying on the 6-8 forward to score so much this season.

"I'm certain that he (Coleman) feels a certain responsibility (to score a lot) because he's been such an important part of our offense," Hartman said. "If he doesn't get his points, he knows that he hurts us, so it brings a special pressure (for Coleman) to bear."

GAME NOTES: Game time tonight is 7:35 at the Bob Devaney Sports Center in Lincoln. Local radio coverage will be provided by KMKF (101.7 FM). Hoppen ends his career as the Big Eight's all-time third leading scorer with 2,167 points, only 23 behind second place Barry Stevens of Iowa State. K-State leads the all-time series between the teams, 94-70. The two teams split a pair of games last year. Nebraska enters the game at 13-6 overall and 3-3 in the conference. K-State is 13-8 overall and 1-5 in the Big Eight.

PROBABLE STARTERS

K-STATE

F Ben Mitchell, 6-9 (7.3 ppg)
F Norris Coleman, 6-8 (20.4 ppg)
C Ron Meyer, 6-9 (4.3 ppg)
G Benny Green, 6-3 (8.9 ppg)
G Joe Wright, 6-9 (17.9 ppg)

NEBRASKA

F Bernard Day, 6-5 (11.1 ppg)
F John Matzke, 6-7 (3.8 ppg)
C Chris Logan, 6-5 (4.7 ppg)
G Harvey Marshall, 6-3 (10.3 ppg)
G Brian Carr, 6-1 (10.8 ppg)

Staff/Andy Nelson

University of Nebraska center Dave Hoppen, the Big-Eight's leading scorer, will not play tonight against K-State. Hoppen is out for the season with a knee injury he suffered Feb. 1 during a game against Colorado.

Top-ranked Tar Heels defeat Georgia Tech

By The Associated Press

ATLANTA — Brad Daugherty sent the game into overtime with a 10-footer from the baseline and then gave top-ranked North Carolina the lead it never relinquished as the Tar Heels overcame a 13-point second-half deficit and edged No. 2 Georgia Tech 78-77 in an Atlantic Coast Conference basketball game Tuesday night.

Joe Wolf hit four free throws in the final 46 seconds of overtime, including two that iced the game with 11 seconds left, in the first meeting this season between teams ranked first and second in The Associated Press poll.

Georgia Tech appeared to have the game under control when Mark Price sank two free throws with 11:56 remaining to give the Yellow Jackets a 59-46 lead.

Wolf started a 9-0 run by the Tar Heels, who eventually cut the lead to two points on a 20-footer by freshman Jeff Lebo with 4:55 to play.

Lebo later drilled two free throws with 1:19 remaining to cut the lead to 69-68.

Antoine Ford hit one of two free throws for Georgia Tech five seconds later and Daugherty closed out the regulation scoring at 70-70 with 55 seconds left.

Price missed a 15-footer for Georgia Tech with eight seconds left in regulation and Steve Hale grabbed the rebound for North Carolina. After two timeouts, North Carolina got off two shots in the closing seconds, Kenny Smith missing an 18-footer from the left side and Lebo failing on a 10-footer from the right side as the buzzer sounded.

Daugherty had 22 points and Hale 18 for the Tar Heels, 23-1 overall and 7-1 in the ACC.

Freshman Tom Hammonds had 16 points and Price 15 for Georgia Tech, 17-3, and 6-2. It was the second time North Carolina had beaten Georgia Tech, whipping the Yellow Jackets 85-77 in Chapel Hill on Jan. 25.

Nebraska rally beats Lady Cats, 73-70

By The Collegian Staff

The Nebraska Cornhuskers defeated the K-State Lady Cats, 73-70, Tuesday at the Bob Devaney Sports Center in Lincoln, Neb.

K-State had a 35-32 lead at halftime, but wasn't able to hold on.

The game was close throughout, with the largest lead taken by either team being seven points.

In the first half, K-State moved out to a 13-12 lead with 10:52 remaining in the first half on a shot by forward Amanda Holley, who scored 16 of the team's first half points.

The lead moved back and forth in the first half until K-State went ahead 24-22 at the 6:29 mark on another shot by Holley.

After taking that lead, K-State was able to hold on to the lead for the rest of the half.

To start the second half, K-State increased their first half lead to five at 41-36 with 17:24 left to play and to seven at 43-36 with 16:52 left, both on baskets by forward Carlisa Thomas.

However, Nebraska began a comeback that would see the Cornhuskers cut the lead to 51-50 on a shot by forward Shelly Block with 11:53 remaining and go ahead 52-51 on a basket by guard Maurice Ivy.

Nonetheless, the game went down to the wire, with K-State pulling to within 73-70 with 15 seconds left on a lay-up by Susan Green.

However, the Lady Cats never had another chance to go on offense, as the team had committed few fouls in the second half, and was unable to force Nebraska to the free throw line. K-State picked up its seventh team foul with one second left.

Holley led the Lady Cats with 20 and Thea Fitzpatrick was next with a career-high 15. Guard Amy Stephens led Cornhusker scoring with 24 points and Ivy was next with 20.

New Shuffleboard Table

CALLING ALL GREEKS!

•$2 Pitchers
•$1 Coolers

See You Tonight!
MEET YOUR FRIENDS AT...

MIKE'S
BAR AND GRILLE

Apply now for the

$1,000 W. Leroy Culbertson Steel Ring Leadership Scholarship

- Open to all Juniors in Engineering
- Based on leadership in academic & extra-curricular activities

Applications & Information available in Durland 142

STUDENT GOVERNING ASSOCIATION FINANCE COMMITTEE

Duties Include

1. Finance Committee will make recommendations regarding the allotment of the Student activity fee.
2. Finance Committee will make recommendations regarding all special allocation bills.

Applications are available in the Student Government Services Office in the K-State Union and are due February 14 at 5:00 p.m.

MAKE AN EASY $25

Volunteers needed for headache study to compare Tylenol, Advil, Nuprin or a Placebo.

Volunteers must have regular tension headaches usually relieved by an over-the-counter medication.

If interested, contact Mrs. Dree Hood R.N., at Lafene Health Center.

SHUTTLE SERVICE

for temporarily or permanently physically limited students on campus, building to building.

Inquire by calling 532-6436

WEDNESDAY & THURSDAY

We'll honor any local pizza coupon!

Falsetto's

539-3830

Botha favors freeing anti-apartheid leader

By The Associated Press

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — President P.W. Botha and most of his Cabinet favor freeing jailed black-nationalist leader Nelson Mandela, the financial newspaper Business Day reported Monday.

"Government's primary constraints are fears that his release might trigger a resurgence of political violence and that it could signal weakness," Business Day reported, saying "Parliamentary circles are buzzing" that Mandela could be free by Easter.

At age 67, Mandela is the inspirational leader of South Africa's blacks.

Officials expect area measles outbreak

By The Collegian Staff

Although there have been no reported cases of measles at Lafene Student Health Center, the disease may be on the way, said Dr. Robert Tout, director of Lafene.

"We're going to get it, it's just a matter of when," Tout said.

Ann Benteman, health educator of the Shawnee County Health Department, said there have been 13 cases of measles reported as of Monday.

A week ago, seven cases of measles were reported and "we just keep adding a few at a time," Benteman said.

There have been no reported cases of measles in the Riley County area, said Kathy Dickey, nursing supervisor for the Manhattan Health Department.

"All we are trying to do is identify those students who might have received their immunizations at various times when we know the vaccine was not as effective as it should have been," Tout said.

Helen Ott, registered nurse at Lafene, said the outbreak has been in children who were immunized prior to the age of 15 months.

Anyone who received the vaccination before the age of 15 months should have it repeated or if they received the measles vaccine with the gamma globulin it needs to be repeated, Ott said.

The gamma globulin was given to babies at the age of 12 months to counteract the reyes virus. These children may not have maintained an antibody level high enough for protection, Ott said.

"A lot of the kids just really don't know how their immunization stands and they really need to check it," Ott said.

Tout said according to a letter from the American College Health Association, 18.5 percent of all the measles cases nationwide occurred in college students during the first quarter of 1985, including three deaths.

"That's the reason we are so interested," Tout said.

The most common symptoms for measles are fever, sore lymph nodes and a rash, Tout said.

Slides show hell, 'road' to salvation

By TRINA BLOOD
Collegian Reporter

A diverse audience had several different reactions to Monday night's showings of "If I should die..." in Union Forum Hall.

Both showings of the production, sponsored by Campus Crusade for Christ, drew more than 400 people. The presentation contained over 1,000 visuals rapidly projected onto three screens from nine computerized projectors. These visuals were synchronized to contemporary music lyrics in order to tell the story.

The production portrayed a college couple who is killed in a car accident. The slides then conveyed the horrors of hell and the "road" to salvation. Several verses from the Bible were quoted to suggest salvation can belong to anyone if they "believe and accept Jesus Christ into their lives."

Jo Beth Meadows, senior in accounting, said the multi-image production affirmed her belief in Christianity.

"Although the slides were too graphic for some people, I thought the production portrayed the plain facts of what really happens in life," Meadows said. "It makes you face death and it gives you something to think about."

However, to Malaura Daum, senior in journalism and mass communications, the presentation was a disappointment.

"I didn't feel the show dealt with the issue as effectively as it could have," Daum said. "It didn't deal with day-to-day coping with death."

Nancy McDonald, junior in architecture, also felt the show could have done a better job of helping people deal with the fear of dying.

"I wanted to know how the families and friends dealt with the sudden death of the couple depicted in the program," McDonald said. "Instead, I felt I was being scared into accepting Christ."

The production frightened more than one of its viewers.

"I was scared to death," said David Hadorn, a ninth grader at Manhattan High School. "My friends and I kept looking at each other and wondering if we were really going to hell."

Lisa Chase, a local secretary, said she is a Christian and believes she will be saved, "but the graphic slides of the car accident and the skeletons made me a little uneasy and afraid."

ELECT ED NICKEL FOR BUSINESS SENATOR

Paid for by Students for Ed Nickel

You can gobble a muy grande platos full of them for just 50¢/plate. All you want TONIGHT

Bockers two

4-7 p.m.
Best Happy Hours in Town
RAMADA

Auntie Mae's Parlor

$1.25 House Drinks
$1.75 Blended Drinks
$1.00 Wines
Tired of juggling classes?
Come to Mae's for a break
616 N. 12th 539-9967

CASHMAN for k-state

Familiarity

Paid for by K-Staters for Cashman

comprehensive health associates
• free pregnancy tests
• abortion services/counseling
• gynecology
• contraception
Overland Park, KS / 913-345-1400

MANHATTAN SHOE REPAIR

25% OFF
RUBBER OVERSHOES IN STOCK
DURING THE MONTH OF FEBRUARY

Open daily 8-5:30, Saturday 8-4
Open Thursdays to 8
Drive-Up Convenience

Enjoy smooth, creamy Frozen Yogurt that tastes like Ice Cream but with 80% less fat!

--FREE SAMPLES--

I Can't Believe It's YOGURT!
Frozen Yogurt Stores

OPEN: 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Daily
Noon-11 p.m. Sundays
Nautilus Towers-Aggieville

HUMAN Restaurant FREE DELIVERY HUMAN EXPRESS
11 a.m.-1 a.m.
1304 Westloop 539-8888 1116 Moro
(10% Off w/KSU ID) 537-0886 (Egg Roll & Fried Rice 99¢)

Wednesday Special at EdGee's
Restaurant & Ice Creamery
Enjoy a White Mountain Cooler & Three Tacos
Only $2.49
12th & Laramie Open Daily Til Midnight Open Sat. & Sun. 8:30 a.m. for breakfast

Blue River Pub
COME HAVE A BLAST THIS WEEKEND!
BANDS:
The Tomboys--Fri., Feb. 7.
Valentine & The Very Wealthy--
Sat., Feb. 8
$2.00 Cover
Thurs.: $2 Pitchers
537-9877 Next To Tuttle Creek Dam

JOHNSON PRESIDENT '86

JOHNSON IS:

- POSITIVE REPRESENTATION
- EFFECTIVE COMMUNICATION
- A PROVEN LEADER

JOHNSON IS:
SERIOUS ABOUT
K-STATE & YOU

Paid for by Students for Johnson

OPEN RUSH

Feb. 10 through 24, 1986

The participating sororities are:

Alpha Delta Pi
Alpha Gamma Delta
Alpha Xi Delta
Chi Omega
Kappa Delta
Sigma Sigma Sigma

TODAY IS THE LAST DAY TO REGISTER

Register with Greek Affairs in Holton Hall.

DONUT LOVER'S DOZEN

776-7529

CAROL LEE DONUTS

Open 24 hours!

1800 Claflin
(Denison & Claflin)

With This Coupon

With This Coupon

With This Coupon

One Dozen Carol Lee Donuts for $1.79

One Dozen Carol Lee Donuts for $1.79

One Dozen Carol Lee Donuts for $1.79

If you're getting married soon, be sure your name is in our Bridal Registry.

1205 Moro
in Aggieville

Highfield Cottage

accessories for the home
Member National Bridal Service

Mon - Sat 9:30 - 5:30
Thursday 9:30 - 8:30

THE ROARING TWENTIES ARE BACK

THE COTTON CLUB

Thursday night
FEATURING

- 1920s prices on drinks
- Ragtime Music
- Bathtub Gin
- Hotsy Totsy Girls
- Flappers
- Gangsters

Come dressed up and receive a bottle of champagne with your dinner.

22-Skidoo this Thursday, 5:30 at

THE COTTON CLUB

Live Entertainment by

Al Thompson and Let's Talk Sax

Candidates withdraw names from ballots

By The Collegian Staff

Four people have withdrawn their candidacy from the Student Governing Association elections, said Maribeth Gottschalk, senior in journalism and mass communications and chairman of the SGA Elections Committee.

The withdrawals were announced at the committee's meeting Tuesday afternoon.

In the College of Agriculture, Matt Wineinger, sophomore in animal science and industry, withdrew from the ballot, leaving 13 candidates for five positions.

In the College of Arts and Sciences, Francesca Royster, sophomore in English, and Tim Staley, sophomore in journalism and mass communications, withdrew their candidacies. This leaves 27 candidates for 12 positions.

In the College of Engineering, James Lebak, sophomore in electrical engineering, withdrew from the ballot, leaving 26 candidates for eight positions.

Most withdrawals were due to schedule conflicts, said Sally Routsen, coordinator for student activities.

Gottschalk also reviewed campaign posting regulations.

Candidates were allowed to begin posting campaign material at 5 p.m. Tuesday. Banners may be put up on Feb. 8 at 5 p.m. in specified areas, Gottschalk said.

Volunteers to work polls will meet Feb. 10 at 4 and 7 p.m., said Debbie Cawley, junior in family life and human development and committee member. SGA elections will be held Feb. 11 and 12.

Election

Continued from Page 3

Bromich, junior in marketing; Tad Christian, senior in marketing; Bruce Cook, junior in accounting; Dan Costello, junior in accounting; Jeff Cox, junior in marketing; Greg Gately, senior in marketing; Doug Gaumer, sophomore in finance; Michael Hadlock, sophomore in finance; Bill Hope, junior in marketing; Eric Ireland, sophomore in business administration;

Michelle Johnson, sophomore in marketing; Mike Lasman, junior in marketing; Teresa Leighty, junior in marketing; Greg Long, sophomore in business finance; John Lowe, sophomore in marketing; Troy Lubbers, freshman in business administration; John R. Morris, junior in accounting; Mark Morrison, junior in finance; Fred Neuman, junior in finance; Pete Newall, sophomore in finance; Ed Nickel, sophomore in marketing; Regina O'ford, senior in finance; Brooks Rarden, junior in finance;

Clark Renfro, senior in marketing; Brian Fred Schierling, senior in marketing; Tad Schroeder, junior in marketing; David Sell, sophomore in marketing; Stacy Smith, sophomore in accounting; Gary Stark, junior in accounting; Chris Vering, sophomore in accounting; and Judy Wolf, sophomore in marketing.

Those running for office in the College of Education are: Clint Herbie, junior in economics education; Sally A. Howard, junior in English education; Lorie Phillips, junior in elementary education; Angie Smith, sophomore in secondary education; Sherry D. Smith, junior in secondary education; Dale Strickler, junior in secondary education; Becky Svay, freshman in secondary education; and Robert Whearty, junior in agriculture education.

Students running for office in the College of Engineering are:

John Bayouth, sophomore in nuclear engineering; Daron Brown, sophomore in industrial engineering; Emad Chaudhri, senior in industrial engineering; John DeMars, junior in industrial engineering; Doug Folk, sophomore in electrical engineering; Ed Frankenberg, freshman in electrical engineering; Carrie Helmke, junior in electrical engineering;

Marshall Honeyman, junior in mechanical engineering; Mark Hooper, freshman in civil engineering; Chris Jackson, junior in electrical engineering; Jennifer Johnson, freshman in industrial engineering; Scot Keimig, freshman in mechanical engineering; Craig J. Kettler, senior in mechanical engineering; Paul Kolbeck, sophomore in electrical engineering; Tim Kuckelman, sophomore in industrial engineering; Joel Marquardt, sophomore in architectural engineering;

Troy Miller, sophomore in industrial engineering; Chris Parks, junior in electrical engineering; Susan Russell, freshman in industrial engineering; James Seymour, junior in construction science; Hilary Walker, junior in electrical engineering; Kim Warner, freshman in industrial engineering; Daniel Weyerts, junior in engineering technology; Scott Wiles, sophomore in electrical engineering; and Howard S. Wulf, senior in electrical engineering.

Students running for office in the Graduate School are:

Jess Cunnick, graduate in biochemistry; Laura J. McLellan, graduate in biology; Miranda Y. Mortlock, graduate in agronomy; Catherine Saylor, non-degree graduate; and Tammy Tracy, graduate in regional and community planning.

Students running for office in the College of Human Ecology are:

Candy Leonard, sophomore in home economics and mass communications; and Angie Rowland, junior in apparel and textile marketing.

Duane A. Belote, junior in veterinary medicine, is running for the position in the College of Veterinary Medicine.

Board denies 6th plea for Manson's freedom

By The Associated Press

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. — Mass murderer Charles Manson had his sixth bid for parole rejected Tuesday after he made a surprise appearance before the board and made a rambling statement that if released, he might go to Libya or Iran.

A three-member panel of the state Board of Prison Terms met privately for about 30 minutes before announcing Manson was unsuitable for parole from his life sentence for the slayings of actress Sharon Tate and six other people 15 years ago. They set his next hearing for the maximum period of three years.

Loretta Collier, who chaired the panel, said the parole was denied Manson because of the "cold-blooded and senseless murders"; his violent childhood; his prison behavior; and a psychiatric evaluation that showed he is a potentially violent schizophrenic.

Manson, who had vowed not to attend the hearing, appeared before the board with long gray hair and beard, a swastika on his forehead, and his hands in manacles.

He said he had a 20-page document to read at the end of the hearing, objected to the presence of a state-appointed attorney, and then answered a question on what he would do if released with a discourse on his options.

"I'd probably try to stop the rain forests from being cut down," he said. "I'd probably join the revolution down south somewhere and try to save my life on the planet Earth. I might go to Libya. I might go see the Ayatollah (Khomeini). I might go to France, catch somebody in France I'm upset with."

Manson and four followers were convicted in the August 1969 slayings of five people, including Tate, the wife of director Roman Polanski. The victims were hacked to death in a house in an exclusive area of Los Angeles.

Classifieds

CLASSIFIED RATES

One day: 15 words or fewer, $2.25, 15 cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.25, 20 cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.00, 25 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.50, 30 cents per word over 15; Five consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.75, 35 cents per word over 15.

Classifieds are payable in advance unless client has an established account with Student Publications. Deadline is noon the day before publication; noon FRIDAY FOR Monday's paper.

Student Publications will not be responsible for more than one wrong classified insertion. It is the advertiser's responsibility to contact the paper if an error exists. No adjustment will be made if the error does not alter the value of the ad.

Items found ON CAMPUS can be advertised FREE for a period not exceeding three days. They can be placed at Kedzie 103 or by calling 532-6555.

Display Classified Rates

One day: $4.65 per inch; Three consecutive days: $4.25 per inch; Five consecutive days: $3.95 per inch; Ten consecutive days: $3.75 per inch. (Deadline is 4:30 p.m. two days before publication.)

Classified advertising is available only to those who do not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, sex or ancestry.

ANNOUNCEMENTS 01

MARY KAY Cosmetics—Color awareness, products, and free facial. Anna Prockish, 1001 Blumont, 537-4246. (891f)

BRUCE COOK—Good luck with wheeling your way to Business Senator. Your Campaign Manager. (91)

PAT MUIR—Good luck with becoming K-State's first Australian Agriculture Senator. Your Campaign Manager. (91)

ATTENTION 02

FLYING INTEREST you? Check into K-State Flying Club. Call Steve Dyer at 532-5600 or 537-0458. (61f)

SPRING BREAK on the beach at South Padre Island, Daytona Beach, Fort Lauderdale, Fort Walton Beach or Mustang Island/Port Aransas from only $89, and skiing at Steamboat or Vail from only $86! Deluxe lodging, parties, goodie bags, more... Hurry, call SunChase Tours for more information and reservations toll free 1-800-321-5911 or contact a local SunChase Representative today! When your Spring Break counts... count on SunChase. (80-109)

HEE'S ALTERATIONS—Suits, coats, jeans, zippers and all types of alterations. 1125 Laramie Plaza, Aggieville Monday thru Friday, 10 a.m.-5:30 p.m.; Saturdays, 10 a.m.-4 p.m. 776-7959. (877f)

SKI SPRING Break—Breckenridge, Keystone, and Copper Mountain, March 9, 10 and 11 only $220. Price includes transportation, lodging, ski rental and lift tickets. For information, call 537-2995. (83-108)

ATTENTION LOVELORN—Tired of dead end relationships—find your perfect??? match! Wednesday and Thursday at the SAM's computer match up in the Union. Remember it goes toward a good cause! (90-91)

MICHELLE JOHNSON—Good luck! The College of Business needs more go-getters like you! (91)

JUDY WOLF—Good luck on your campaign for Student Senate! You will make a great Business Senator! Signed: K-Staters for Wolf. (91)

STACY SMITH—Go for it!—Business Senate can use people like you! Best of luck on your campaign. KSU for Smith. (91)

FOR RENT—MISC 03

COSTUMES—FROM gorilla suits to Hawaiian leis. Makeup, wigs, periodical clothing, masks, grass skirts, all occasions available. Treasure Chest, Aggieville. (281f)

SEE MARIE for all your costume needs. If I don't have it, I'll make it for you. Marie's Costumes, 17th and Humboldt, 539-5209. Parking in the rear. (901f)

FOR RENT—APTS 04

FOR AUGUST—Deluxe two bedroom furnished apartment, across the street from Ford Hall, 539-2482 after 4:00 p.m. (82-91)

THREE BEDROOM available now. Utilities paid. Call Barbara, 537-1329. (83-98)

ONE OR two bedroom—Reasonable, one block to campus, available now. Call Barbara, 537-1329. (83-98)

EFFICIENCY APARTMENT, $185/month, heat, gas, water included. Call 537-7794 evenings and weekends. (84-93)

WE HAVE studio, one, two, and three bedroom apartments available now. All prices. Call 537-1210 or 537-4244. (871f)

NEXT TO campus—Leasing for fall, across from Marlett and Goodnow: Furnished two or one bedroom, central air, carpeting, fully equipped kitchen, balcony, off street parking, 539-2702, evenings, weekends. (88-98)

NEXT TO campus—Leasing for fall, across from Haymaker, overlooking campus. Two bedroom, fireplace, central air, carpeting, fully equipped kitchen, balcony, laundry facility, off street parking, 539-2702, evenings, weekends. (88-98)

BRAND NEW three bedroom. One and one-half baths, near campus. Available May, June or August, $480/month. Call 537-8800. (891f)

1530 MCCAIN Lane, overlook to campus—Luxury two bedroom, fireplace, modern appliances, laundry facilities. Available August 1. Call 537-7960 or 537-7810. (89-93)

1207 KEARNEY or 1214 Vattier—Almost new three bedroom, laundry facilities. Available August 1. Call 537-2255 or 537-7810. (89-93)

913 BLUMONT—Brand new three bedroom building available May 15. Call 537-7960 or 537-7810. (89-93)

PLAN FOR the summer and the 1986-87 school year. McCullough Development Inc. is now accepting applications for summer and fall leases. Call us, we manage over 300 university area apartments. 776-3804. (891f)

KIDS, PETS, waterbeds negotiable. Close to campus, one and two bedrooms, $225-360. Joe, 539-0909; Dick, 537-1109. (90-93)

APARTMENTS FOR next school year and June. Two bedroom, 1212 Thurston, $300. Call 539-5059 evenings. (91-95)

AVAILABLE IMMEDIATELY—Furnished one bedroom apartment, one block from Ahearn. Call 776-9124. (91-108)

FOR RENT—HOUSES 05

BEST DEAL in town—Now taking waiting list applications. Prairie Glen Townhouses, 776-4786. (79-93)

THREE BEDROOM home, 1523 Fairchild, available now. Call Barbara, 537-1329. (89-98)

HOUSES FOR next school year, three, four, six and eight bedroom. Block west of campus. 539-5059 evenings. (91-95)

FOR SALE—AUTO 06

1980 GMC, 4 x 4, 1/2 ton, four-speed, power steering, power brakes, dual tanks, dual exhausts, 532-5139 evenings. (90-94)

1980 FORD Futura—Good gas mileage, loaded, excellent condition. 776-6069 after 4 p.m. (90-92)

MUST SELL 1981 Jeep—50,000 miles, good condition, fun to drive. Call 537-4396. (89-93)

1976 BUICK SKYLARK, $1,000. All tires leave 28,000-mile warranty, 1-month battery. Visit Willard 316 or call 776-5014 after 5 p.m. (91-94)

FOR SALE—MISC 07

OFFICE SUPPLIES—Hull's Business Machines, 715 North 12th, Aggieville, 539-1413. (551f)

GOVERNMENT HOMES from $1 (U repair). Also de-luxed tax property. Call 805-687-6000, ext. GH-9701 for information. (76-97)

TWO GUITARS, Gibson Invader (electric), one year old, $300; Montoya Acoustic 6-string, two years old, $100. Call Mike after 6:00 p.m. at 537-0891. (87-91)

NEW SANYO MBC-1250 office quality computer with Sanyo PR-5000 daisy wheel letter printer. High resolution display, two double-sided high capacity disk drives, Wordstar, Spellstar, Mailmerge, Calcstar spreadsheet, Infostar data base. Excellent complete word processing system at unbeatable price: $1,075. 539-6309 after 6 p.m. (90-93)

OVERSEAS JOBS—Summer, year round. Europe, South America, Australia, Asia. All fields. $900-2,000 month. Sightseeing, free information, write IJC, P.O. Box 52-KS-2, Corona Del Mar, Ca., 92625. (91-110)

ADVERTISING SALES: Energetic, intelligent, outgoing sales person needed for daily newspaper, ad. advertising sales department. Need appearance, good communicator, with an imagination and feel for advertising layout and copy. Good career opportunity for right person. Qualified applicants may send resume to: Michael Hellinger, Montgomery Publications, P.O. Box 129, Junction City, KS 66441 or call 913-762-5000 for an appointment. (91-100)

LOST 14

LOST—SET of several keys on a brass Snoopy-tennis racket key-chain. Lost evening of KU-K-State game. Please call 776-0446. (90-92)

NOTICES 15

MADRI GRAS Festival! Party at the Union! Be adventurous and sample our Creole and Cajun fare and listen to Dixieland and Rag Time on our player piano! Come to our party February 4-11 in the K-State Union Stairroom. (90-95)

SPRING BREAK, Daytona Beach, $205 with transportation or $119 without. South Padre, $239 or $139. Call Peggy 539-2373, or Rob 539-2321. (91-92)

FASHIONWISE ENTREPRENEURS—We are seeking local distributors of our unique collections of high fashion jewelry, handmade from around the world. Earn money, have fun, look great. Write to: Instone Ltd., Box 164, Coopersburg, Pa. 18036. (89-93)

PERSONAL 16

531 MORO Parties: During the evening of January 31 a Jam-box seemed to "escape" from our residence, taking with it several pairs of women's lingerie and a telephone. If you happen to know where they could be hiding or saw who they "caught" a ride with, please call 776-0446. (90-92)

SAE INITIATES—Through your pledge you have had both the good times and the bad. Now you'll know what it means to be an initiated member of SAE. Congratulations! Love, The Little Sisters. (90-91)

PIE BEETS Fi—Haze Queen, New Year's Eve Mash up Bash, Bro's, Chuck's, Drunk Freshmen. Help your personal so put your clothes on you date queen. (91)

DEBI—THANKS for just being you. Love you. J. (91)

MARY—HIPPO birds, two ewes. Happy 21st. Love, Ellen. (91)

MAPEKIES and Cannon—We've heard of drinks on the rocks before, but never quite like that. It was worth the wait. Thanks! Sam Eagle and Baby Dinosaur. PS. Save the red for our next adventure! (91)

HEY DELT "Fenwick"—The Tri-Delts are having a luau on February 15 and your "old bud" from Padre was wondering if you'd like to accompany her for a "walk on the beach."??? (91)

MARK—CAN'T imagine what the last three years would have been like without all your smiles, hugs, and love. Happy Anniversary! Love ya, Lori. (91)

BRUCE and Pat—Check out the Announcements! Pig. (91)

ROOMMATE WANTED 17

RESPONSIBLE NON-SMOKING female roommate wanted. Own room, $125 plus one-third utilities. Call 537-1886 or ask for Olga at 532-5123. (88-93)

SERVICES 18

MARY KAY Cosmetics—Skin care—glamour products. Free facial call Floris Taylor, 539-2070. Handicapped accessible. (76-95)

PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free pregnancy test. Confidential. Call 537-9180. 103 S. Fourth St., Suite 25. (11f)

MANHATTAN CAMERA repairs cameras and equipment. 228 Poyntz, 776-4240. (41f)

WORD PROCESSING by computer, professional quality, letter-quality printer (not dot-matrix), disk storage, 776-6166. (131f)

TYPING/EDITING, letter quality word processor; professional resumes, cover letters, personalized form letters; disk storage. 539-5007. (76-113)

PROFESSIONALLY WRITTEN resumes, word processed cover letters, and typing. Resume Service, 1221 Moro Place, 537-7294. (721f)

MRS. KIM—Professional dressmaker and tailor. Alterations. 27 years experience. No pattern necessary. 537-2285. (82-111)

STOP PAYING $28 hour for VW repairs. Let the Bug Doctor at J.L. Auto Service repair yours and save $8 per hour. Only seven minutes east, Hwy 24, Bugs, Rabbits, Ghia's, type 3's included. 1-494-2388, St. George. (85-105)

DATA SHEETS to dissertations and everything in between. Letter quality Word Processing. Mrs. Burden, 539-1204. (91-97)

TUTORS NEEDED: Friendship Tutoring still needs 26 more tutors for kids in grades 1-12. If you love kids and have Thursday nights free from 6:30-8:30 p.m., why not give us a call? Our kids need you. Call Tom Reis at 532-6984 or 776-6566 for more information. (90-93)

STUDENT SPECIALS—Perms $15, Cuts $5. Artistic Hair, 415 North 3rd St., 537-8169. (91-98)

SITUATIONS WANTED 19

$10-$300 weekly/wup mailing circulars. No quotas. Sincerely interested, self-addressed envelope. Success, P.O. Box 470CEG, Woodstock, IL 60098. (76-105)

WANTED 21

NEED TUTORING! For Chem II, a reliable competent person to help me simultaneously explain, for better understanding of course. Phone 537-1504. Call after 4 p.m. (90-93)

WANTED: USED microscope, mono or binocular. Call (402) 656-3002, daytime, or (402) 729-6361 evenings. (91-95)

Bloom County

By Berke Breathed

Garfield

By Jim Davis

Peanuts

By Charles Schulz

Crossword

- | | | | |
|-------------------------------|-----------------------------|--------------------------|--------------------------------------|
| ACROSS | 45 Ascended | 1 London district | 20 — Hill (San Francisco) |
| 1 Couch | 47 Unclean | 2 General Bradley | 23 Cake ingredient |
| 5 Ending for van | 51 Moslem magistrate | 3 House plant | 24 And not |
| 8 Ski lift | 52 U.S. president | 4 Tapestry | 25 U.S. president |
| 12 Hebrew measure | 54 Noted playwright | 5 Abandons | 27 Strong urge |
| 13 Netherlands commune | 56 Electric catfish | 6 Commotion | 29 Arid |
| 14 Trick | 57 Mint tools | 7 Soviet leader | 30 "I'll — You in My Dreams" |
| 15 U.S. president | 58 Toady's word | 8 Farm machine | 32 Field flowers |
| 17 Dull pain | 59 Stately trees | 9 U.S. president | 34 Complaints |
| 18 Adorned to excess | DOWN | 10 Tennis great | 37 Compass pt. |
| 19 Progressed slowly | | 11 Marsh grass | 39 Egyptian pyramid, in a way |
| 21 Baronet's title | | 16 Medical suffix | 42 Diplomatic agent |
| 22 Part of n.b. | | | 44 River to the Orinoco |
| 23 Ref. book | | | 45 Sour substance |
| 26 Pigeon | | | 46 Hindu queen |
| 28 Strong ties | | | 48 Soviet river |
| 31 Cape of — Hope | | | 49 Quantity of paper |
| 33 Sun. talk | | | 50 Concludes |
| 35 Steak order | | | |
| 36 Low moan | | | |
| 38 Seine | | | |
| 40 American humorist | | | |
| 41 Telephone wire | | | |
| 43 Kentucky bluegrass | | | |

Ans. to yesterday's puzzle. 53 Pub order

CRYPTOQUIP

2-5

Sentiment pulls 'Birdy' out of lofty limelight

By GARY JOHNSON
Collegian Reviewer

As do all of his movies ("Fame," "Midnight Express"), Alan Parker's "Birdy" certainly looks good. Colors fill the screen and whirl past in flourishes. Lighting is dramatic, slanting across darkened rooms, turning a brilliant gold on faces.

Film Review

But at times this turns into a liability for the movie. Scenes are too premeditated. As I watched "Birdy," I was always aware of a camera filming it all; of a director designing it all. This makes the emotions in "Birdy" come off as forced.

The movie is filled with so many fascinating characters and situations, though, that sometimes the movie's own devices are overpowered, allowing some drama to shine through.

The title character, played by Matthew Modine, is fascinated with birds. When young, he wasn't out playing baseball with the other kids; he was with his birds. He didn't care about girls, even if they threw themselves at him. He'd just stare with a bemused daze.

He finally gets a friend when a neighbor his same age, Al (Nicholas Cage), shows an interest in birds. The movie then becomes an examination of their friendship.

As the movie starts, Birdy is locked in a hospital room after being injured in Vietnam. He squats on the floor, or perches on the bedstead, twisting his head in sudden jerks — as if he were a bird.

Hoping to find a cure, the doctor calls in Al. The movie then alternates between scenes in the hospital and scenes from Al's and Birdy's youth.

The best scenes are all from the past. There's a good episode where the boys help out a dogcatcher, until they find out what he does with the dogs. And there's another good episode where the boys take their junk of a car to Coney Beach. (This includes a hilarious talk about women's breasts). The scenes in the hospital, though, are overwrought. Al screams at Birdy and Birdy stares back. The doctor screams at Al and Al screams back. These scenes are so weighted down by anguish they never take off.

In the end it is Parker's filmmaking — which emphasizes the sentimental — that pulls the movie down. We somehow need to sympathize with Birdy, but I found that difficult. Why should we care about someone so ultra-sensitive that they would prefer being a bird to being human? Well, maybe it would have worked if Birdy hadn't come off as a hopeless innocent, if the movie would've shown some rationale for why Birdy can only approach life in this way, but Alan Parker is less concerned with those explanations than with the way things look. This movie has a great looking surface, there just isn't much beneath.

New club to offer patrons quiet atmosphere

By ROXIE MCKEE
Collegian Reporter

An Aggieville alternative is what Brian Johnson, manager of Manhattan's newest 21 club, The Abbey, wants to give his customers.

"I have tried to provide a nice, quiet, relaxed atmosphere for people," Johnson said.

The Abbey, 3240 Kimball Ave. in the Candlewood Shopping Center, is scheduled to open today.

The Abbey was intended to be a franchise of the Kansas City Wine Brokers Inc., who own The Monastery, a wine and cheese bar in Kansas City. Due to management problems, The Monastery didn't work out locally, so Brian Johnson acquired the building.

"The interior work was all originally done by The Monastery for The Monastery, and I picked it up after it had already been completed," Johnson said.

An abbey is another word for a monastery or convent, and Johnson wanted to keep a name similar to monastery.

"I thought The Abbey was short and easy to remember," Johnson said.

The Abbey resembles a church with small individual booths and pew-like benches. Wine racks on the wall, along with old-fashioned tables complete the club's atmosphere.

"I've tried to make it totally different. I've tried to keep it away from hotel bar atmosphere and tried to keep it away from Aggieville atmosphere," Johnson said.

Johnson said there will not be pool tables because he is trying to stay away from the beer tavern image and there will not be a dance floor.

"There is a TV above the bar and there will be a dart board. Later on down the road we may even start some dart leagues," Johnson said.

"We will have just over 70 different types of wine," he said.

More than 22 labels of wine will be sold by the glass. Mixed drinks and beer will be sold.

Debate

Continued from Page 1

negative image, Carr said, and until the University gets the library materials needed, its image won't improve. The funding should come from the state, she said.

Petracek said he would push for a legislative bill funding the library to avoid using scholarship money. Cashman said improved recruitment and retention would bring in funds for the library. Johnson said he would work toward state funding for the library.

DON'T MISS IT

The
Phi Alpha Theta
Annual Book
Sale
8:30-5:00
Wednesday
Feb. 5
located 2nd Floor
Eisenhower

MANNEQUINS

Tonight
ALL DRINKS
$1.50

Thursday:
MTM Recording Artists
IN PURSUIT

The Backdoor's Open Again!

Say "Hi" To Nina and get a Free Donut Hole
Swanson's Bakery

225 Poyntz
776-4549

Backdoor Hours
Mon.- Sat. 9:30 p.m.-1 a.m.

Chiropractors are more than bone doctors, they are nerve specialists. Find out more, call today.

Dr. Mark Hatesohl
Chiropractor
537-8305
1500 Poyntz Avenue

SAFeway

222 N. 6th
3011 Anderson
539-3226
776-5202

New Store Hours
7 a.m. to 10 p.m.
7 days a week

Prices effective 2-5 through 2-12

Mrs. Wright's Crushed Wheat bread. buy one get one free 16oz. loaf

Lucerne grade A fresh eggs	49¢
1 doz.
Coke, 7-up, Diet Coke & Tab	$1.19
2 liter bottle
Milwaukee's Best Beer	$1.55
6 Pack Cans
Little Juan burritos	3/$1
5oz. package

Put a Bang into Valentine's Day for Your Someone Special, but Don't Let Ordering Late Pop Your Plans.

Balloon Boutique
Call Today for Free Delivery

- *Decorative or rubber balloons
- *Stuffed animals
- *Variety of containers for candy
- *Largest selection in Manhattan

Balloon Boutique
619 N. 3rd 539-0106

Today Only

Don't miss the K-State Auction

11:30 - 2:30 at the
KSU Union Courtyard

Bid on the chance to have a date with a KSU cheerleader!

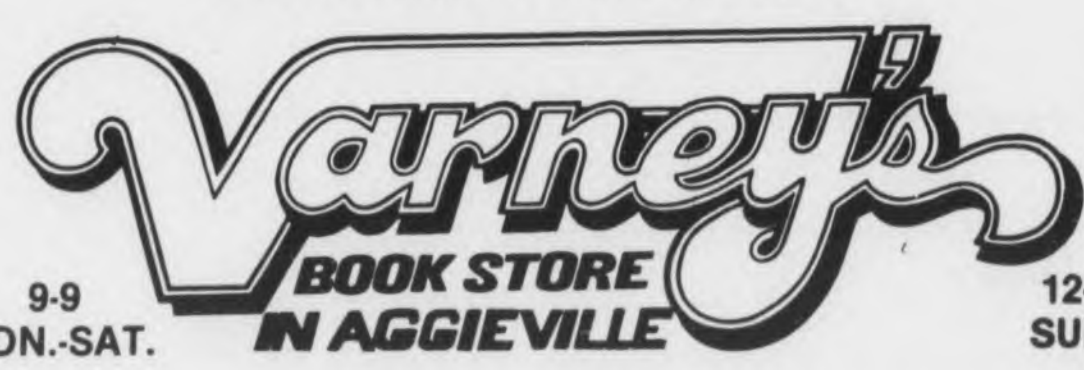

Also to be auctioned off:
VCRs, food, typewriters
AND MORE.

RECORD—TAPE SALE

Now In Progress!

CLASSICAL ROCK FOLK
JAZZ COUNTRY

Records start as low as $1.98!
Cassette tapes as low as $3.98!

Varney's
BOOK STORE
IN AGGIEVILLE

9-9 MON.-SAT. 12-5 SUN.

On the edge of campus, in the heart of Aggieville.

Daytona PARTY

at
Brother's

5-7 p.m.

Let Melissa sign you up for the time of your life. A fun filled week at Daytona Beach at the Voyager Hotel.

Let Pamela fill your glass full of spirits to start the escape to Daytona off right.

Let the ~~DJ~~ lift your soul in music.

The Party in Daytona includes:

- Round trip motor coach transportation to beautiful Daytona Beach (WE DRIVE Packages Only). We use nothing but modern highway coaches.
- FREE refreshments available on the motor coach on the way down (to begin the party).
- Eight Florida days/seven endless nights at one of our exciting oceanfront hotels, located right on the Daytona Beach strip. Your hotel has a beautiful pool, sun deck, air conditioned rooms, color TV, and a nice long stretch of beach.
- A full schedule of FREE pool deck parties every day.
- A full list of pre-arranged discounts to save you money in Daytona Beach.
- Travel representatives to insure a smooth trip and a good time.
- Optional side excursions to Disney World, Epcot, deep sea fishing, party cruises, etc.
- All taxes and tips.

You Drive $119 We Drive $209

FREE BEER for all sign ups FREE BEER for all sign ups or Call Melissa 776-8925 between 6-9 p.m.

Inside

New Sponsor

Anne Brull, is the K-State cheerleading squad's new coach and sponsor. See Page 3.

Weather

Cloudy

Cloudy today, high 35 to 40. Cloudy tonight with a 30 percent chance of snow, low 25 to 30.

Sports

'Cats Win Away

The Wildcats beat the University of Nebraska in Lincoln Wednesday, 64-54. See Page 10.

Kansas State

Collegian

Thursday
February 6, 1986

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 92, Number 92

ASK lobbies to decrease tuition for non-residents

By BECKY MARTIN
Collegian Reporter

Residency requirements for payment of in-state tuition may be lowered from one year to six months, said Kevin Elmore, senior in computer science and campus director of the Associated Students of Kansas.

The proposal to shorten the residency requirements was recommended for passage by the Kansas House Ways and Means Committee on Jan. 28.

The debate on the proposal in the House Committee was favorable, said Rep. Vern Williams, R-Wichita, who drafted the proposal. There were a few technical amendments to tighten the bill, he said.

Elmore said House bill 2679 changes residency requirements for in-state tuition from one year to six months.

This would allow in-state tuition to be paid by anyone who has built a home within the state of Kansas but has not had time to establish residency and anyone whose employer certifies in writing that he was recruited to Kansas for the purpose of accepting employment or was transferred by an employer.

"The reason for these changes is to encourage economic developments and job creation," Williams said. "It's part of the 'image problem' Kansas has as a state. Kansas is presently perceived as penalizing new residents recruited by making them pay out-of-state tuition when they in fact bona fide Kansas Citizens."

Williams said he believes the House will approve the bill but is uncertain whether the Senate will. He said he does think it has a good chance with the Senate.

All community colleges and Washburn University already have a six-month residency requirement by state law, Elmore said.

"It's going to be good for out-of-state recruiting," he said. "It will increase enrollment which will offset the cost of their tuition."

Paying resident versus non-resident tuition at K-State, The Wichita State University and the University of Kansas will save students $902 each semester. At Emporia State University, Fort Hays State

See ASK, Page 11

Federal cutbacks to affect Kansas; proposal to include student loans

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Kansans in all ways of life, from college students to farmers, will be touched by deep federal budget cuts in domestic programs proposed by President Reagan on Wednesday in his 1987 spending blueprint.

But members of Congress expressed doubts that the president's budget would survive on Capitol Hill and some pronounced it "dead on arrival."

Rep. Jim Slattery, D-Kan., a member of the House Budget Committee, predicted the Reagan spending plan would find little support from Republicans or Democrats, and said he was "very alarmed" by the administration's proposed cutbacks in agricultural programs.

"In a general sense, the president's budget is unrealistic," said Slattery. "He is not going to be able to sell it to Congress."

Reagan, in his budget message to Congress, called for about $25 billion in federal spending reductions in the fiscal year that begins Oct. 1.

A host of programs are scheduled for termination including the Rural Electrification Administration, which helps pay for power generation and transmission to Kansans; the Small Business Administration, which offers disaster assistance to farmers and business; and a program in the Farmers Home Administration that provides direct loans to farmers.

In all, the president's budget blueprint could mean fewer services to Kansans unless state, county and municipal government can offset the losses of federal dollars.

But there is a positive element for Kansas in Reagan's proposed military buildup. He calls for increasing outlays by $15.9 billion or 6.2 percent in 1987. Defense contractors in Kansas and military posts across the state would receive millions of dollars in new monies if Congress accepts the administration's recommendations.

The Wichita area, in particular, would benefit from the Defense Department increases because of its aircraft manufacturers and proposed construction at McConnell Air Force Base.

Kansas, like the rest of the nation, would feel some pain from Reagan's budgetary knife in programs for the poor, elderly and student loans.

For example, Reagan calls for Medicare cuts of $4 billion in 1987. Kansas, in 1986, is expected to receive about $77 million for the program, which offers health care to the elderly.

Medicaid, the state-federal program for health care for the poor, is slated for cuts of $1.3 billion. Kansas is estimated to receive about $14 million for the program this year, according to Fiscal Planning Services, a private Washington-based economic consulting firm.

The 1986 estimates for Kansas are likely to be lowered by automatic spending cuts expected in March from the Gramm-Rudman budget-balancing law.

Among the programs recommended for elimination by Reagan are community service block grants, which is projected to provide Kansas with about $2.8 million in 1986; urban development action grants, which will send nearly $2 million to the state this year; and the Work Incentive Program, which will provide the state with about $1.5 million in 1986.

Reagan proposed a wide range of cuts in education, including changes to wipe out federal aid to 1 million college students. Projected effects of the reductions on Kansas

See BUDGET, Page 11

Hospitals perform Army disaster drill

By JOLA MURPHY
Collegian Reporter

Memorial, Geary County and The St. Mary hospitals performed a disaster drill Wednesday night in cooperation with the U.S. Army.

The Strategic MEDEVAC exercise began in Germany at about 6:30 a.m. Wednesday, German time. The exercise included 400 troops from Fort Riley. They were sent as "wounded" through a series of military hospitals starting in Germany and ending in civilian hospitals in the Manhattan area. Seventeen troops came home to Manhattan hospitals Wednesday evening.

Strategic MEDEVAC was part of Exercise Reforger '86, a series of NATO military maneuvers which exercises took place in Germany in January. Ten thousand troops from Fort Riley participated in the exercises which were abbreviated by unusually warm weather which thawed roads and fields.

"(Strategic MEDEVAC) would enable us to evaluate Air Force Reserve evacuation systems," said Lt. Ron White.

This mission benefits civilian and army hospitals in the event of a mass-casualty situation, White said.

Each participant was tagged with their simulated injury and their final destination at Forbes Air Field Base in Topeka.

The simulated wounds included, shrapnel wounds in the chest, multiple leg wounds, broken bones, spinal cord injuries and abdominal wounds.

Each "patient" had a complete record of the simulated treatments provided at each hospital.

"It's their (civilian hospitals) first chance to really see what it is like to get 50 people in at the same time," said Lt. Dan Mika, of the National Guard.

The simulated patients were triaged at Forbes Field and then sent out to local hospitals, said Jim Reagan, associate administrator of The St. Mary Hospital.

"This exercise keeps our skills sharp in case of a disaster," said Nancy Davis, director of nursing at The St. Mary Hospital.

The simulated patients were transported to the United States in cargo planes and then to the Manhattan area in vans and ambulances.

"I'm glad I did it but I'm not sure I'd do it again," Mika said. "I'd rather ride on a plane sitting up than lying down."

"It was well organized until we reached Topeka," he said.

Mika was tagged to go to The St. Mary Hospital but was sent to Memorial Hospital instead. Sgt. Alice Wilson was tagged for Geary County and also ended up at

See DRILL, Page 11

Staff/John Thelander

Sgt. Maj. Robert Whitehouse, of the 1st Infantry Division, U.S. Army, has his vital signs checked by Linda Lassahn R.N., and Dr. Rex Fischer, both of Memorial Hospital. The group was taking part in Strategic MEDIVAC, a conclusion of the Reforger exercises Wednesday at Memorial Hospital.

Undersea robots search for Challenger's rocket

By The Associated Press

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — NASA trained undersea robot cameras Wednesday on an object that could be Challenger's suspect right rocket booster, as agency officials prepared to disclose for the first time what they think caused the shuttle to explode in flames.

Sources reported, meanwhile, that ships had recovered 17 feet of explosives from a "destruct package" that was on the side of Challenger's main fuel tank when it lifted off. The explosives had not been detonated, the sources said, removing them from the list of possible causes of the catastrophe.

Members of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's interim review board are to be witnesses in Washington Thursday when a presidential investigating commission holds its first hearing.

Their testimony will provide the first substantive public information about the accident from NASA since Challenger exploded in a fireball on Jan. 28, killing all seven in the crew.

NASA on Wednesday sent ships to a spot in the Atlantic Ocean where sonar indicates one solid rocket booster splashed down after it separated from the fireball. The ships put robot submarines overboard to photograph the object, which officials hoped was the right booster — the chief suspect in the explosion.

Depending on the remains of 149-foot booster, it might take weeks to raise the wreckage.

After President Reagan announced formation of the Challenger investigation panel on Monday, his press secretary, Larry Speakes, said NASA's interim board "will no longer exist."

But the board was told by acting administrator William Graham "to continue full speed ahead."

The group has received all tapes and photographs impounded by the agency immediately after the accident.

Candidates set to speak today

By The Collegian Staff

Student body president candidates will participate in a public debate at noon today in the Union Courtyard.

The debate is sponsored by the Union Program Council's Issues and Ideas Committee.

Presidential candidates are Kelli Carr, senior in journalism and mass communications; Steve Cashman, junior in marketing; Patty Hipsher, junior in political science and modern languages; Steven Johnson, sophomore in agricultural economics; and Keith Petracek, junior in electrical engineering.

The public is invited to attend and participate in the forum.

Oil prices to aid economies

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK — The continued plunge in oil prices has forced economists to rework predictions for 1986 that they prepared just weeks ago, and their forecasts for the U.S. and world economies have steadily brightened.

Cheaper oil should be a double blessing in 1986, helping hold down inflation at the same time it promotes economic growth, economists said in interviews this week.

The twin gains are exactly opposite from the results of the big oil price jumps of the 1970s, which created a malaise of simultaneous inflation and recession that was dubbed stagflation.

"It's basically a $10 billion gift to the United States economy," said John Hagens, a vice president of Chase Econometrics Inc., an economic research firm in Bala Cynwyd, Pa.

The savings on the U.S. oil import bill could be greater than $10 billion, because the estimate is based on an average price for crude oil of a little more than $20 a barrel, and spot prices have dipped well below that level in recent days.

On Wednesday, the price of oil in the open market rose from the seven-year lows of the previous day. Major grades of crude from the United States and North Sea, which were falling toward $15 a barrel on Tuesday, hovered around $16.

The fear of economists and bankers is that prices are falling too quickly, allowing too little time for losers to cope with the shock. In the United States, losers include the oil industry and those dependent on it.

Some economists also worry cheap oil could hurt importers like the United States into abandoning conservation measures, thus boosting demand and giving the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries a chance to reassert its power in a few years.

In spite of such concerns, though, economists share the enthusiasm over oil prices that has pushed the stock and bond markets into strong rallies.

"I take this as very good news. It gives us management problems, but on balance it is very good news," said Robert Lawrence, senior fellow at the Brookings Institution in Washington, D.C.

Each $5 drop in the price of a barrel of crude oil translates into a gain of six-tenths of 1 percent in U.S. economic output and a 1 percent reduction in consumer prices, estimates Data Resources Inc., a forecasting firm in Lexington, Mass.

To reflect the downward spiral in spot markets, Data Resources and Chase Econometrics both reworked their 1986 economic forecasts last week using lower projections for oil prices.

Briefly

By The Associated Press

INTERNATIONAL

Radiation leaks from nuclear plant

SEASCALE, England — Radiation leaked inside the world's largest nuclear reprocessing plant Wednesday and 70 workers were checked for contamination, said the state-owned British Nuclear Fuels Ltd. in northwestern England.

The company said the leak did not go outside the plant. The company said about 30 non-essential people were evacuated from the building, where spent uranium rods from nuclear power stations are stripped down in preparation for reprocessing, and from adjoining buildings in the plant. Forty other workers remained in the contaminated building and all 70 were later tested, the company said. Some 10,000 people work in the entire Sellafield plant. The plant chemically extracts spent uranium and plutonium, which is then recycled for use in nuclear warheads or at one of Britain's 15 nuclear power plants.

The source of the radiation was a faulty pump unit that was being repaired, he said. But the leak "apparently was not a danger to the public," Shaughnessy said.

The company said 70 workers were checked for contamination Wednesday night and initial tests using face and nose swabs were negative. The plant's "whole body" radiation monitor was on stand-by if needed, it said.

Soviets run arms proposal as ad

NEW YORK — The Soviet Embassy took out a full-page advertisement in The New York Times today to present the text of Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev's proposal for nuclear disarmament by the end of the century.

It was published in response to requests for copies of Gorbachev's Jan. 15 proposal and in an effort to make U.S. citizens fully aware of its contents, said Yuri Subbotin, a spokesman at the Soviet Embassy in Washington. He said he had no count of the requests.

"It's a program of disarmament for the rest of our century and from our point of view it's a document of crucial importance. That was first of all the reason why we decided to publish it in full," Subbotin said.

Gorbachev presented his plan on the eve of the resumption of Soviet-U.S. arms control talks in Geneva as a three-step procedure for "ridding the Earth of nuclear weapons" within 15 years.

PEOPLE

Staff chief explains missile weights

WASHINGTON — White House Chief of Staff Donald T. Regan got himself in trouble when he suggested most women don't understand ballistic missile throw-weights, and on Wednesday a woman asked him pointblank to supply a definition.

"Well, from the point of view, it's the amount of actual warheads that come from the curve of the missile from the time it leaves until it actually lands and how much do you actually drop," Regan replied in an interview on NBC-TV's "Today" show.

The State Department's arms control glossary defines throw-weight as: "The useful weight placed on a trajectory toward the target by the boost or main propulsion stages of the missile."

In an interview published during the Geneva summit conference last November, Regan had told a reporter that women are "not ... going to understand throw-weights or what is happening in Afghanistan or what is happening in human rights."

"Some women will, but most women — believe me, your readers for the most part, if you took a poll — would rather read the human interest stuff of what happened," he said.

The remark touched off a furor, and Regan was forced to issue a written apology.

NATIONAL

'Garbage Pail Kids' cause outcry

NEW YORK — They are called "Garbage Pail Kids," and their nastiness is — deliberately — a far cry from the sweetness of the Cabbage Patch.

The trading cards with pictures of pudgy, round-faced, ugly children doing disgusting things are the latest craze among the elementary school set, and some people are not amused.

There's Acne Amy, a pimple-plagued, brace-faced adolescent; Mad Mike, a savage in a leopardskin wielding a sword and an ax; and Wacky Jackie, in a padlocked straitjacket. Or Greaser Greg, with his death's head T-shirt and a cigarette, and Wrinkled Rita, a Miami matron with skin that looks like a dry sponge.

On the backs of the cards, children find a variety of citations, including such things as a "Bully License" or a permit to eat junk food between meals.

Several schools have banned the cards, and parents have been writing to complain.

Nevertheless, Topps Chewing Gum Inc., better known for baseball cards and Bazooka bubble gum, cannot manufacture the cards fast enough to meet demand.

Study shows handwriting problem

BOSTON — A study that set out to learn the quality of doctors' handwriting has found, to no one's surprise, that it's very bad indeed. Dr. Karen B. White and John F. Beary III of Georgetown University Hospital in Washington screened the handwriting of 50 physicians in patients' charts.

"We conclude that a considerable portion of most handwritten medical records are illegible, which confirms the common but unpublished wisdom on this subject," they wrote.

They found that 16 percent of the words in the reports were illegible, as were 80 percent of the doctors' signatures. Because of the poor penmanship, 42 percent of the patient reports could not be fully comprehended.

"The price we pay for illegibility includes lower quality of care, a waste of professional time, potential legal problems and a waste of resources in duplicating data that are functionally lost because of illegibility," the doctors wrote in a letter in Thursday's New England Journal of Medicine.

REGIONAL

Accused man hangs himself in jail

BONNER SPRINGS — A man accused of killing a policewoman apparently hanged himself in his jail cell Wednesday even though his attorney had brought notes of "love and encouragement" from the man's wife and four children.

Esteban Davis, 43, was found hanged by a towel in the Wyandotte County jail about 4:30 a.m. by a jailer making rounds. Davis had been seen alive less than an hour earlier, said Undersheriff Tim Johnson.

Wyandotte County Attorney Nick Tomasic said an investigation would be made of the death of Davis, who was accused of shooting Bonner Springs Officer Maureen Kelly Murphy on Friday.

Davis had become despondent when he was told by attorney Harry Miller that his wife had seen a lawyer on the day of the shooting to talk about a divorce, Miller said.

"He did not realize his wife had seen an attorney about divorcing him," Miller said. "When I told him he became very upset. He said some things ... he became very despondent."

"It (suicide) crossed my mind. Looking back, I should have known."

The 28-year-old Officer Murphy, who was buried Tuesday after services attended by 1,500 people, was struck in the head by one bullet as she sat in her patrol car writing a report near Davis' home. Authorities believe the bullet was fired from one or two blocks away.

Campus Bulletin

ANNOUNCEMENTS
BLUE KEY applications are available in Anderson 122 and are due by 5 p.m. Friday.

LITTLE AMERICAN ROYAL: Sign-up will be from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. today and Friday in the Union, Weber Hall and Call Hall.

MEN who are struggling with issues of sexual preference: A confidential support group is forming. For more information, contact Dr. Martin or Dr. Angle at the Counseling Center, 532-6927.

CAREER PLANNING AND PLACEMENT offers computerized career planning assistance. See the receptionist in Holtz Hall for a SIGI appointment.

STEEL RING: There will be an engineering freshman and sophomore design contest April 2. More information is available in Durland 142.

TODAY

SAILING CLUB meets at 8:30 p.m. in Union 207.

WOMEN'S SOCCER CLUB meets at 9 p.m. in Union 213.

MEDICAL TECHNOLOGY meets at 7 p.m. in Eisenhower 14.

HORTICULTURE CLUB meets at 7:30 p.m. in Waters 244.

AG STUDENT COUNCIL: The executive committee meets at 5 p.m. in Waters 137. A general meeting follows at 5:30 p.m.

ANOREXIA NERVOSA AND ASSOCIATED DISORDERS meets at 7:30 p.m. at Lafene Student Health Center.

AMERICAN SOCIETY OF CIVIL ENGINEERS meets at 7:40 p.m. in Ackert 120.

COLLEGIATE 4-H: Officers meet 7 p.m. in Union 206. A general meeting follows at 7:30 p.m.

CAMPUS CRUSADE FOR CHRIST meets at 7 p.m. in Throckmorton 131.

BAPTIST STUDENT UNION meets at 7 p.m. at the Baptist Campus Center, 1801 Anderson Ave.

FREE HEARING TESTS for students are available from 12:30 to 2 p.m. in Leisure 107.

Looking Back

20 Years Ago — 1966

U.S. Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Frank Hussey has been designated keynote speaker for the upcoming 16th annual Kansas Cooperative Directors and Managers Conference on campus.

15 Years Ago — 1971

The total value of building permits issued for the city in January soared to nearly $1.5 million, more than three times the amount for a year ago.

10 Years Ago — 1976

Touchdown VIII, the University mascot, will have his cage replaced. The new cage, to be used for transporting the wildcat to all football and coaching games, will be of a metal frame with two sides of clear polyglass. The ends of the cage will be a grill to allow proper ventilation. Correct air movement was considered a problem with his previous cage.

International graduate teaching assistants, whose first language is not English, may hinder students' learning. The problem many students face is an inability to understand a lecture given by a foreign GTA's, said Chris Loschke who coordinated a survey for the Academic Affairs Committee of Faculty Senate.

5 Years Ago — 1981

Student Senate voted to stop funding student ID cards. Because of the move, next semester's cards will not have pictures.

Man charged with murder

By The Collegian Staff

A Manhattan man was charged Wednesday in Riley County District Court with second-degree murder and child abuse of a 3-year-old girl.

Kevin Pinckney, 23, Rural Route 3, Apt. 6, is being held in the Riley County jail on $50,000 bond for the death of Monique Tidmore, his wife's daughter.

The beating allegedly occurred Monday night but the child was not taken to Memorial Hospital until early Tuesday morning, said Lt. Allen Raynor, of the Riley County Police Department.

The child was taken to Memorial Hospital and then transferred to the University of Kansas Medical Center, Kansas City, Kan., where she died Tuesday afternoon.

Correction

Due to a source's error, James A. Seymour, junior in construction science, was incorrectly stated as a Student Senate candidate from the College of Engineering in Wednesday's story "SGA announces '86 election candidates." Seymour is running for a position on the Board of Student Publications.

Enjoy smooth, creamy
Frozen Yogurt
that tastes like Ice Cream
but with 80% less fat!
--FREE SAMPLES--
I Can't Believe It's
YOGURT!
Frozen Yogurt Stores
OPEN: 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Daily
Noon-11 p.m. Sundays
Neutius Towers-Aggieville

KMAN 1350

RADIO AUCTION

The items listed below will be auctioned to the highest bidder this Saturday from 8:05 a.m. to noon. Visit the sponsors... inspect the merchandise...determine your bid. Keep your radio on KMAN 1350 and your hand near the phone. Just call in and bid on the KMAN auction line: 776-1333.

AUCTION DATE: FEBRUARY 8, 1986

	RETAIL VALUES
One Four Hour D.J. Service; K-77 ROAD SHOW	$175.00
$25 Cert towards Cleaning; SERVICE MASTER	$ 25.00
TYCO 70 Piece Super Blocks; MANHATTAN HOBBIES & TOYS	$ 20.52
Jonsered 520 Chain Saw; ROBS SMALL ENGINE	$344.95
22" Decorated Grapevine Wreath; THE CONTAINERY	$ 22.00
Oil & Lube Maintenance Check; WAYNE'S QUICKLUBE	$ 19.95
8 Piece Cook N Look Cooking Set; HIGHFIELD COTTAGE	$110.00
$50 Merchandise Certificate; DRAPERY WORLD	$ 50.00
Dinner for 4 Sizzlin Sirloin; SIRLOIN STOCKADE	$ 26.17
7" 14 K Yellow Gold Tinsel-Rope Bracelet; DIAMOND CONN.	$ 60.00
Vermont American Tool Box; FARMERS UNION COOP STATION	$ 21.37
10 K Yellow Gold Diamond & Emerald Pendant; DIAMOND CONN.	$ 99.00
Single Family House Cleanout; AMERICAN PEST MANAGEMENT	$125.00
$50 Clothing Merchandise Certificate; CASUAL ENCOUNTER	$ 50.00
One Case Mountain Dew; PEPSI BOTTLING CO.	$ 8.55
Pkg. of 5 Passes for Two; SETH CHILDS CINEMA	$ 30.00
$100 Certificate for Guttering Job; WILDCAT EXTERIORS	$100.00
Honda Tiller F210; SNYDERS HONDA	$395.00
$50 Merchandise Certificate; PFEIFELY JEWELERS	$ 50.00
Ideal's Chipmunks doll; MANHATTAN HOBBIES & TOYS	$ 26.60
One Case Pepsi in Cans; PEPSI BOTTLING CO.	$ 8.55
Precious Moments Collectors Plate; THE PALACE	$ 40.00
S.A.S. Leather Bag; BROWN'S SHOE FIT	$ 48.00
2-$10 Pizza Merchandise Certificates; PIZZERIA	$ 20.00
$25 Hair Care Certificate; SNIP N CLIP	$ 25.00
Dinner for 4; PINATA	$ 22.40
Set of 4 Kansas Theme T-Shirts; KANSAS WYNDE	$ 36.00
Sylvania 9" ACDC Color T.V.; ADY'S APPLIANCE	$319.00
$38 Cert for Naturalizer Shoes, Lady's; BROWN'S SHOE	$ 38.00
Complete Custom Wash & Wax; BUDGET CAR CARE	$ 35.00
One Case Diet Pepsi; PEPSI BOTTLING CO.	$ 8.55
Scrabble People Building Set; MANHATTAN HOBBIES & TOYS	$ 31.90
House Treatment for Roaches etc.; AMERICAN PEST MGMT.	$ 65.00
$25 Merchandise Certificate; THE PALACE	$ 25.00
$75 Merchandise Certificate; CROWN DECORATING	$ 75.00
20 Piece Setting Hyde Park by Mikasa; PFEIFELY JEWELERS	$159.80
$25 Dinner Certificate; RAOU'L'S	$ 25.00
Cabbage Patch Porcelain Doll; THE PALACE	$250.00
Seafood Buffet for Two; BOCKERS II	$ 30.00
14K Yellow Bold 20" Herringbone Chain; DIAMOND CONN.	$118.00

Re-elect
Susan Baird
A&S
Senator

WEDNESDAY & THURSDAY
We'll honor any
local pizza coupon!

Falsetto's
539-3830

LIVING ETHICAL WILLS
Union State Room #1
12 Noon
TODAY

This series gives an excellent opportunity to receive the "bequest" of a campus leader, in terms of what she/he hopes to leave humanity as guiding principles for life.

Earl Nolting
• Director, Center for Student Development

MONT BLUE APARTMENTS
Studio, one, and two bedroom
apartments and town houses.

Close to Campus

Phone 539-4447

BEST WESTERN CONTINENTAL INN

Restaurant and Supper Club

Alumni, friends and families-- relax in Wildcat style after the Colorado victory Saturday...

• Adjoining shopping Center

- 92 Units
- Meeting Rooms
- HBO Movies
- Direct Dial Phones
- King and Queen Beds
- Suites
- In Room Coffee

Call 776-4771 Toll-Free Number (call direct in Kansas)
1-800-432-2701
100 Bluemont at Hwy. 177 By-pass and U.S. 24

Capitol Airlines

KSU SPRING FLING!

Present your KSU student, faculty or staff ID to our ticket counter or to your travel agent and receive a 15% discount on Capitol Airline fares for travel between the dates of March 7, 1986 & March 17, 1986.

"CAPITOLIZE"
on your Spring Break Travel!

Reservations: 539-7623 or your travel agent

New cheerleader coach appreciates differences in KU, K-State squads

By MARIBETH GOTTSCHALK
Staff Writer

Hearing the roar of the crowd in Ahearn Field House, the sound of the "Wabash Cannonball" and seeing the purple and white of the K-State Wildcats, instead of the crimson and blue of the University of Kansas Jayhawks, was a new twist for Anne Brull.

Effective Feb. 1, Brull, former KU cheerleader, took the position as the new coach and sponsor of the K-State cheerleading squad. She replaced Scott Shell, junior in Veterinary Medicine, so he could continue his studies.

Brull was the assistant cheerleading coach and sponsor before Shell's resignation. The Department of Intercollegiate Athletics moved Brull into the position after Shell left it.

"The thing I really appreciate is that they (the cheerleaders) will tell you how they feel," Brull said. "They are really honest with each other, and they will let each other know if something is not right. That makes my job a lot easier."

Kim Kinslow, senior in journalism and mass communications and cheerleader, said Brull has been a great mediator for the group.

"Anne is a good balance for the group, and works hard with us. If things start to get tense, she knows when to slow down," Kinslow said.

The squad, which practices five days a week and at least two hours each day, will go over and over a pyramid or routine until it is perfected and each member feels good about it.

Brull said when practicing pyramids it is important to have good spotters.

Last year, Fort Hays State University sophomore, Amy Rodriguez, fell from a trilevel pyramid during a pregame practice. Rodriguez injured her spinal cord and is paralyzed from the waist down. The result of this accident prompted officials to look at the safety of pyramids.

"If we look shaky, we don't do it at the game," Brull said.

Brull said this squad is different from other squads because they are friends even when practice is over.

She said there is a difference between the two squads she has worked with. When she cheered on the KU squad they practiced twice as much as K-State's does and when practice was over they, for the most part, went their separate ways, she said.

Brull was a cheerleader at KU for one year and then, due to an accident, was not able to cheer again. She then began coaching the junior-varsity squad.

Buy, Sell or Trade
in Collegian Classifieds

Staff/Jim Dietz

Anne Brull, a former University of Kansas cheerleader, has been selected as the new coach and sponsor of the K-State cheerleading squad. Brull replaced

Scott Shell, junior in veterinary medicine, as the sponsor Feb. 1, so he could continue his studies.

PLYE DRIVER SPEAKERS

Pyle Drivers give you quality, handcrafted speakers with Power-Proof voice coils, high-temperature Kapton forms, and Long-Life cone suspensions for everyday affordable prices.

SAVE 25%

On all automotive and home woofers

STEREO FACTORY

1126 Moro 776-5507

WE'RE FIGHTING FOR YOUR LIFE

THE ICECREAM SOCIAL

Makes old-fashioned ice cream treats — still America's #1 dairy treat. You'll love our atmosphere

537-7079

1314 Westloop

PRESENT

THE 3rd ANNUAL BEACH PARTY

Aggie's original and funnest. Wed., Feb. 26th. Watch The Collegian for details.

Often copied but never matched.

The campus community is cordially invited to learn about a Biblical basis for achieving peace in a free lecture entitled:

God's Gentle Might

To be given by Marion Sheldon Pierpont, C.S.B. a member of The Christian Science Board of Lectureship on Thursday, February 6 at 4 p.m. in Danforth Chapel. All students, faculty, and staff are warmly invited to attend.

Sponsored by the Christian Science Organization at KSU

S.E.A.

Paid for by students for Educational Awareness

STUDENT BODY PRESIDENT

PATTY HIPSHER

BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

SUSAN D. BAIRD
RANDAL S. BEEMAN
KIRK CARAWAY
KEN PAULIE
FRANCESCA ROYSTER
BRIAN SHERWOOD

ENGINEERING

EIRENE TATHAM
DANIEL WEYERTS
HOWARD S. WULF

EDUCATION

SALLY HOWARD

GRADUATE STUDENT SENATORS

JESS CUNNICK
LAURA J. McLELLAN
CATHERINE SAYLER
MANINDER SINGH
(WRITE IN)

VOTE

KELLI CARR

for STUDENT BODY
PRESIDENT

Paid for by Committee
to elect K. Carr.

Auntie Mac's Parlor
AGGIEVILLE

$1
House Drinks

50¢
Draws

$2
Pitchers

616 N. 12th
539-9967

JOIN THE CLUB

BOOKERS' TWO
OVER 250 RECIPROCAL CLUBS
MORE THAN SHOWCASE
THE ONLY CARD YOU'LL NEED

Join Today
Fill Out and Mail or Drop By with Standard Fee of $15.68

NAME _____

ADDRESS _____

PHONE _____

HOME ADDRESS IF STUDENT _____

CITY _____

STATE _____

DATE OF BIRTH _____

Enclose check for $15.68 and mail to Bookers Two, Box 578, Manhattan, Kansas 66502, 66502.

The Roaring Twenties are back

The COTTON CLUB
Tonight! Tonight! Tonight!
FEATURING

• 1920's Prices on drinks • Ragtime Music • Bathtub Gin
Hotsy Totsy Girls • Flappers • Gangsters

Come dressed up and receive a bottle of champagne with your dinner.

22-Skidoo this Thursday, 5:30 at

The COTTON CLUB
downtown 418 Poyntz

Live Entertainment
by
Al Thompson and
Let's Talk Sax

Editor: David Svoboda
Associate Editor: Lillian Zier
News Editor: Patty Reinert
Managing Editor: Jeri Heidrick

Editorial Page Editor: Tim Carpenter
Photo/Graphics Editor: Chris Stewart
Advertising Manager: Lori Wong
Director/News Adviser: Dave Adams

Editorial Board: David Svoboda, Tim Carpenter, Melissa Brune, Rich Harris, Jeri Heidrick, Steve Milligan, Patty Reinert, Vicki Reynolds, Eric Rhodenbaugh, Tammy Rickerson, Catherine Saylor, Tom Schultes, Richard Thorp, Jonie Trued, Lillian Zier.

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 020) is published by Student Publications, Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods. OFFICES are in the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 532-6555. Newsroom phone number is 532-6556; display advertising, 532-6560; and classified advertising 532-6555. SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: $40, calendar year; $35, academic year; $20, semester; $10, summer term. Address changes should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

Economy could grow as oil prices plummet

The once mighty 13-nation Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, which dictated to the market a decade ago, is currently involved in a life-or-death struggle to survive. OPEC was accused in years past of shamelessly raising the price of oil by acting as an international cartel. However, a world oil surplus is working to decrease OPEC's power and prices recently tumbled to a 10-year low of $18 a barrel.

The U.S. economy is affected by the price of oil because a change makes the economy grow or shrink and inflation rise or fall. Economists estimate the lower cost of oil will add about 1 percentage point to the country's annual growth rate and act as a $40 billion tax cut, providing cash for higher consumer spending.

This is good news for the federal government considering the mammoth U.S. trade deficit, which mushroomed to nearly $150 billion in 1985. Declines in oil prices means less inflation and faster economic growth means businesses and consumers earn more money, which means in the long run the government collects more tax revenues.

The price decline has brought some worries, however. Economists qualify optimistic predictions for the year with warnings that a price war could prove disastrous for many nations, and particularly for Mexico, which owes foreign creditors $96 billion.

Competition from Mexico, Britain, Norway and OPEC to maintain oil exports is causing speculation among some analysts that prices may dip to $15 a barrel before leveling. Such a severe price plunge would harm the ability of Third World producers to pay their debts. American banks that hold loans also are getting edgy.

Most of the domestic oil companies will take a drubbing as the static demand for oil and gasoline keeps prices down. Offshore producers will be particularly hurt and bankruptcies more common.

It is a basic supply and demand problem: relentless production as oil stocks grow pushes prices down. Without any unity among OPEC and the other oil exporting nations, it is unlikely producers will restrain production long enough to have an impact on prices.

We should enjoy the price reprieve at the gasoline pump while it lasts, but we should not feel comfortable with the decline of foreign economies.

Tim Carpenter,
editorial page editor

Challenger coverage verges on cruel hype

In the aftermath of the explosion of the space shuttle Challenger, some media critics are claiming the accident has become something more than a media event; that the media are using the tragedy to sell themselves, rather than the news. This concern is justified.

It is true that after the initial explosion the media did not exploit the grief of the families of the seven who died aboard the shuttle, but they are capitalizing on the accident now.

Magazines, as well as newspapers, have devoted entire sections — even entire editions — to coverage of the accident, no matter how miniscule or insignificant the bit of news is. Reporters all over the country are scanning their contacts in order to dredge up anyone who is, or ever has been, remotely connected with the space program to capture that "human interest" angle.

It is not only the media who are exploiting the accident, however.

Opponents and even proponents of the space program are using the tragedy to promote their points of view about the wisdom of continuing space exploration and the possible cancellation of the program.

It is time for the media to again begin serving the public's interests on this matter, rather than their own. How many bone fragments or scraps of metal must we hear about before the real issue is addressed: What caused the accident in the first place and what can be done to prevent the occurrence of such accidents in the future?

The media should be commended for their restraint in dealing with coverage of the grief-stricken families of the astronauts, but they should also remember they are in business to present information, not bombard the public with sensationalism.

Vicki Reynolds
for the editorial board

Editorial

Thursday, February 6, 1986 — 4

Brown, Acker, Carlin quite a team

Imagine my surprise when I found out that Gov. John Carlin is still being considered for the presidency at K-State. I was surprised until I got to thinking about the rather bad habit K-State has for choosing poor leaders.

Take Steve Brown, student body president, for example. Among Brown's major accomplishments are...well, come to think of it, Steve hasn't had any major, or for that matter, minor accomplishments of which to be proud.

In fact, I believe Brown's major campaign promise was to get the average student involved in student government. But what were the first things Brown looked for in student applications for the Presidential Search Committee? High grade point averages and participation in numerous extra-curricular activities — rather non-average student behavior one might say. Way to go, Steve.

Moving up the ladder of University leadership we come to President Duane Acker. Under Acker's outstanding leadership we've done things like erect football stadium lights (which incidentally weren't used too much last season), considered building a new basketball coliseum and so on.

The only problem is that while we've been spending money on lights and coliseums, we've also considered doing away with the majors of mathematics, statistics and anthropology. Why? Lack of money is the major reason. That's a sign of a really on-top-of-things administration, one that spends

CHRIS
WILLIAMS
Guest
Columnist

money on the non-educational aspects of a university at the expense of the educational ones.

The bankruptcy of the Acker administration has other manifestations, too. Remember when football Coach Jim Dickey, a man who has a reputation for being an honest, was fired? Acker justified the whole incident by muttering some nonsense about how the people of K-State weren't concerned with winning — we simply wanted honest coaches. The logic of that statement has evaded me to this day. Way to go, Duane.

Focusing now on Carlin, it becomes relatively clear that the governor would fit right in at K-State. Obviously, running the University, judging from past leaders, doesn't take too much time and isn't too mentally taxing. Carlin would probably be attracted to the job because he could find, and divorce, that oh-so-right woman (or perhaps I should say women) and not be too encumbered with official K-State stuff.

I guess I'm getting ahead of myself, however, because Carlin never has come out and said whether he'd like to be president of the University. I thought I'd call him to find out, but when I called all I got was a busy signal — John was probably calling in to request some rock music. In a random check of 70 of the governor's long distance phone calls made from his office, all were personal calls and some were to a rock radio station's request line. Yes, I feel that regardless of what Carlin may decide about being president, he would fit in well at K-State.

I suppose the reason I'm so upset about this whole matter of University leadership is that I've never been considered for the K-State presidency. I'm sure I'd fit in with the rest of the misfits, but I'd also promise to have a personality, too. I'd give speeches in the Union on Fridays telling everyone what a great school K-State is and what a great bunch of folks K-Staters are — in short, I'd be just like President Reagan. I'd also do other neat stuff — take the island out in the Pacific Ocean — I'd claim it as a territory of K-State. Yes, I'd put K-State on the map.

Now, people might question my competency so I'll set my position straight right from the start. Of course, I'd be incompetent, but it doesn't matter because competency has never been a major prerequisite for University leaders. Think about it.

Chris Williams is a junior in pre-law.

THIS IS THE GROUP
BEHIND THE ARMOR-PIERCING BULLET...

THIS IS THE GROUP
IN FRONT OF IT...

Letters

Obscene students

Editor,

It was nice to see all of you come out of your playpens Saturday to let parents, alumni and recruits know that you can throw things, yell obscenities in unison and show a lack of basketball knowledge that only comes from not bothering to support your team all season long.

As my 13-year-old and I left Ahearn Field House after the game, he said to me, "Dad, I thought KU people were bad, but the K-State fans stink."

I only hope all of you go back to your little shows and stay the heck away from Ahearn until you grow up enough to act your biological age.

Kirk Wyckoff,
Altamont resident

Anderson access

Editor,

A handicapped friend of mine told me his woes of facing Student Senate. He is trying to introduce a bill that would make Anderson Hall accessible to handicapped students. He has to do the political formalities of getting a petition signed and letting Senate know there is a problem to be corrected. I would dearly like to help him with the latter.

The cornerstone of K-State is inaccessible to handicapped students and is a reason for the University's handicapped to say, "Excuse me, but could you please go to Anderson for me and pick up my admission papers?"

I see in the Collegian where $700,000 has fallen into the hands of Senate. Of that total, $340,000 may go to the renovation of Holton Hall and $19,000 to the KSU Police Department for emergency telephones.

Let's see, that's $340,000 plus $19,000 which equals $359,000...then $700,000 minus $359,000 equals $341,000. This $341,000 goes to the student endowment fund and collects interest as a frozen asset.

My friend tells me making Anderson accessible to the handicapped would cost $150,000. That would still leave $191,000 to be toyed with in the student endowment fund.

However, Senate won't listen to my friend. It says accessibility for the handicapped is a state responsibility. The state used to believe in a thing called "capital improvements" which means the state makes areas accessible for the handicapped. It used to believe in this until 1978 — even though it's supposedly still the state's third highest priority. The state's been turning down these requests for the last eight years.

Therefore, I believe Senate should stop passing the buck. By spending $150,000, the University could build an elevator on the southwest side of Anderson that would comly with historical laws and would not be an eyesore. It's up to us. We can build the elevator for our the handicapped, or we can let Anderson do the talking for us — something like, "Hey, we don't want you here anyway." I sure hope not.

Brad Boyd
senior in microbiology

Goal not to mislead

Editor,

Re: Mike Schwabauer's letter, "Misleading ads," in the Feb. 5 Collegian:

I truly hope that you are wrong when you say that the Paragon show "probably turned more people off to its cause than it brought into it," because the cause was to introduce people to Jesus Christ, not to Campus Crusade for Christ.

Since last November, when I became a Christian, I have been very encouraged by the Crusade's belief that all men can have a personal relationship with God through Jesus Christ. Receiving Christ is the only way to God. And you know, man needs God, even to have an abundant life on this side of death.

If you feel it was a problem, then know that I am sorry about the advertising. I was involved with handing out the yellow fliers. If anyone asked about the ad I told them that it was for a big screen show presenting the claims of Christ. I have faith that other Crusaders were just as capable of answering any question asked.

As for the little blue letters, the show was for everyone, not for Crusade. The ad was for Paragon, not for Crusade. I believe that anyone interested enough to attend could have known that the show was sponsored by Crusade. The Collegian stated this plainly in its coverage of the coffin walk. And what could Crusade present but what it supports as true?

I know how glad I am "halfway through" my life that death took a backseat to God and his son. The ads never meant to mislead. I am sorry if they were misunderstood.

Amy Smith
sophomore in general

Ditto on the ads

Editor,

Re: Mike Schwabauer's letter, "Misleading ads," in the Feb. 5 Collegian:

After reading Schwabauer's letter I felt it necessary to shed further light on what I feel is a disturbing situation. I too was misled by Campus Crusade for Christ. Last semester I was approached by two people who asked me if I would like to take part in a survey.

They asked me several questions concerning my beliefs about nuclear weapons, the meaning of love and what I felt about my life. The questions had several answers to choose from. After I had given my answers to their "survey," they started pulling out pamphlets and literature and identified themselves as being involved with Campus Crusade. It was very disturbing to me that this religious organization felt they had to resort to dishonesty to gain my attention for their recruitment process.

I am not against religious organizations. Religion is a very important part of many cultures. But I have strong reservations about getting involved with any group that misleads me. Isn't religion based on faith? And isn't faith based on trust? I feel as Mike does. The Crusade will probably turn off many people with these tactics.

Allen Parsons
senior in natural resource management

Fans out of line

Editor,

After giving it some thought and reviewing the incidents that occurred at the K-State vs. Kansas basketball game, we felt compelled to express ourselves concerning the various items that were thrown onto the court during the game.

While the chickens are somewhat crude, they have become an accepted part of the game in Ahearn Field House. However, the paper and cups that found their way onto the court have no place at any basketball game.

Their appearance was an embarrassment to the University, the athletic department and the basketball team. Most of all, it was Coach Jack Hartman's final game against Kansas in Ahearn. It was certainly not the most fitting farewell. While we were disappointed with the fans, we were also disappointed with the administration and Hartman for not doing more to control the situation. The only attempt was a feeble announcement by the public address announcer.

Why didn't Athletic Director Larry Travis or Hartman, someone students respect, ask the fans to refrain from throwing debris? Such a request might not have had a major affect on the crowd's conduct, but it certainly would have been worth the effort. The lack of action to try to control the problem bothers us almost as much as the problem itself. We hope this behavior does not become commonplace at K-State. Actions such as throwing objects onto the basketball court serve only to embarrass our team and school. Positive school support can get much more accomplished.

Jeff Wing
freshman in civil engineering and eight others

Amanda Arnold School principal receives Man-of-the-Year award

By BECKY LUCAS
Collegian Reporter

As he was walking down the halls of Amanda Arnold Elementary School, many students looked up, waved, and called out, "Hi, Mr. Anderson."

To some 490 students, Robert Anderson is the principal of their school at 1435 Hudson Ave. To the Manhattan area, Anderson is a well-known figure, recently chosen as Man of the Year by the Manhattan Chamber of Commerce.

Anderson received the award at the Chamber's annual awards dinner Jan. 22.

"When they started talking I found myself trying to figure out which person it was. Then when they got into education, I tried to figure which educator; then when they started describing specifics, I knew. I was just like a kid; it was really surprising," he said.

Anderson, who has been a Manhattan area principal for 33 years, said he believes the reason he had been chosen for the honor was because of the many years given to the community in educational services and by serving in national leadership roles.

Being active in the Chamber was also important to him, Anderson said, because he feels strongly about participating in the community.

"Giving something back, especially because (the community) has given me so much" is important, he said.

When Amanda Arnold opened Aug. 26, 1985, Anderson was dealing with a personal tragedy, the death of his wife two days prior. He said the support of his staff and the staffs at other elementary schools helped the new school get off to a successful start.

The children have been especially cooperative and supportive, Anderson said, adding they understood and didn't complain when they had no playground equipment. Jan. 28 was the first day the school's students had playground equipment.

Anderson said others in the community also assisted him during that time. They planted a garden outside his office window.

"It was just a super experience to see what people will do for you," Anderson said.

Anderson said the best part of being principal was working with people on a daily basis.

"I kind of feel I am a people person," Anderson said. "I just thoroughly enjoy boys and girls this age. They bring in the sincerity and honesty that is really refreshing, and that I am afraid some of us lose as we get older."

He said he also gets to see the children grow, and develop more at this age than when they get older.

Anderson has served not only on local and regional levels, but also on the national level in the National Association of Elementary School Principals, serving as president of this association in 1982-83. While in this position, he visited the White House three times, including when the report, "A Nation At Risk," from the National Commission on Excellence in Education was released.

Anderson said he has also appeared on "Good Morning America" and "traveled the length and breadth of this country."

Anderson said his experiences as the association's president taught him a lot about organizing a political campaign.

Anderson, originally from Osage City, attended a small Presbyterian college in Emporia, which is no longer in operation. After spending a short time in Alaska teaching at Presbyterian church schools, he returned to Emporia State University and worked on his master's degree.

With the spring came a job offer from Council Grove, where he served as a teacher, principal and coach.

After arriving in Manhattan, Anderson served as principal at Eugene Field Elementary School for 18 years, and for 14 years at Marlatt Elementary School.

Hanging in the window of Anderson's office is a string of construction paper T-shirts made by one of the school's classes.

Behind his desk hangs a computer printout sign which designates the room as belonging to "Mr. Anderson."

After looking at the smiles the children give to Anderson, it is no wonder he said of his job, "I just thoroughly enjoy coming to work in the morning."

Staff/Jim Dietz

Robert Anderson, Amanda Arnold Elementary School principal, has been chosen Man of the Year by the Manhattan Chamber of Commerce. Anderson has been an area principal for 33 years.

Bill favors more jobs for inmates

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA — The Kansas Correctional Industries program needs to provide more jobs for inmates to combat prison idleness and to prepare convicts for employment in the outside world, the House Committee on Federal and State Affairs was told Wednesday.

"Unless we can give these people some job training in a realistic world situation, we're in trouble," said George Arneson, chairman of the Kansas Correctional Industries advisory board. "We just have to do something."

Arneson was testifying in support of a bill that would stiffen requirements that state agencies buy products, such as paint and soap, made by inmates in the Kansas Correctional Industries program. No action was taken Wednesday.

Unless they have received an exemption from the secretary of administration, state agencies now are required to buy as many prison-made products as possible. They receive exemptions if the products are not of the necessary quality or they cannot be immediately obtained.

But Arneson said the agencies are finding ways to get around the law because the guidelines aren't strict enough.

The bill would require state agencies to notify the secretary of any bids taken on products made under the prison-goods act. Any exemption would have to be granted through a written application and agencies would be encouraged to adopt product specifications which would allow use of goods made by the inmates.

"The department isn't attempting to take away business from private industry," said Richard Mills, secretary of corrections. "But the state has an obligation to let the department continue to be self-sufficient."

Lenny Ewell, director of correctional industries, said the stiffer regulations would provide more inmates with jobs because more agencies would have to buy the prison-made products.

He estimated that about 40 to 50 inmate jobs would be created in the first year.

Fifty percent of the inmates in Kansas prisons are now employed under the program, Mills said. Twenty percent of the inmates simply can't or won't work.

The remaining 30 percent of the inmates would like to work, he said, but no jobs are available to them.

Arneson said the bill would produce about $1.5 million in new revenue for the corrections department. But he said the money would not be as important as the educational, training and job opportunities the jobs would provide and the help for inmates attempting to re-enter society.

"If they don't have these opportunities, we just question whether they go back as better citizens," he said.

Don't Forget!

Sancho or Burrito Dinner

Sale price $2.15 Reg. $3.20

A large sancho or burrito covered with hot chili & melted cheese with salad, refried beans & chips.

Tacos 3 for $1.25

Reg. 55¢ each

Hours: Sun., Mon.,
Wed., Thurs. 11 a.m.-1 p.m.
Fri. & Sat. 11 a.m.-midnight
Closed Tuesday

TACO HUT

2809 Clafflin 539-2091

Sun Tan Booths

Will be open to the public from 12-5 p.m. Monday thru Sat. and 1-4 Sunday.

Ten 30 minute sessions for $30
or $4 for each 30 minute session

Call ahead for appointment 776-1750

3238 Kimball Ave. Candlewood Shopping Center
Across from Cico Park

$1.50
Pitchers
45¢
Steins

TGIF with us
and Pizza Hut

Remember your Special Valentine with Crystal from

SWAROVSKI®

Authentic 32% Full
Lead Austrian Crystal

Campbell's
Use Our Bridal Registry

Poyntz & 5th 1227 Moro
776-9667 539-1891

Tonight
at

Free Beer
(5-7 p.m.)

and Free Party Passes
to
the

For all signups
to the Greatest Daytona

PARTY

On Campus

or

Call Melissa

776-8925

COUPON SPECIAL

$1.01 OFF!
Western Omelette

Served with hash browns and toast or homemade biscuits.

Limit 1 order per coupon, one coupon per customer. Not valid in combination with any other offer.

Regular $3.00

Breakfast Hours:

6-10 30 Mon. - Sat

7-10 30 Sunday

Coupon expires 2/16/86

Manhattan—1911 Tuttle Creek Blvd.

Manhattan • Emporia • Lawrence • Great Bend

Vista
RESTAURANTS

GET THE RESPONSIBILITY YOU'VE EARNED

After you get your degree, get management responsibility and immediate decision-making authority.
In a civilian job, it could take years.
As a Navy Officer after 4 months of technical and leadership training, you're in charge with all the responsibility and respect you deserve.

NAVY OFFICERS GET RESPONSIBILITY FAST

Lt. Tina Talley, your Navy Officer Programs Representative will be interviewing on campus
Sign up in the placement center now!

KCC approves phone-service program

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA — The Kansas Corporation Commission Wednesday approved a change requested by Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. in the way it will market its new optional home maintenance program, although KCC Chairman Michael Lennen strongly defended legitimacy of the original plan.

Lennen said the unpopular "negative response" plan the commission had authorized Bell to use in a December order constituted a fair and valid way to hold down the cost of local telephone service in the wake of court-mandated breakup of the Bell telephone system.

He said the KCC staff would work with Southwestern Bell to develop a new "positive selection" insert in customers' telephone bills to explain the options available to them under the new repair service payment system.

The new marketing plan requires the company to provide the service only to those who request it, not to those who — for whatever reason — didn't mail back a card or call their local Bell business office saying they didn't want it.

Bowing to customer pressure, the company announced Tuesday it was asking the commission to change its order authorizing the new payment plan. The commission acted quickly on the request, approving it at its weekly administrative meeting Wednesday.

Southwestern Bell recently began sending out flyers with its monthly bills. The flyers informed customers that unless they filled out a card and sent it back with their bill or called their local business office they would automatically be put on the new maintenance program March 15, at a cost of 90 cents a month which would be added to their bills.

Having to make the "negative response," rather than being sold on the program and signing up for it, brought a significant amount of protest from customers, Bell and KCC officials acknowledged.

Under the change approved Wednesday, Bell will aggressively market the new program, asking its customers to voluntarily sign up for it.

Customers who sign up will have repair work on inside wiring and jacks as well as investigations of equipment trouble done whenever they need it for the 90 cents a month. Otherwise, they will be charged $32 for the first 15 minutes of a repairman's time and $16 for each additional 15 minutes.

In a statement issued through the KCC's information office after the administrative meeting at which the switch was approved, Lennen said:

"There are inexorable upward pressures on the basic local exchange rate that are the result of actions taken by the Federal Communications Commission.

"The general direction of the FCC is to decrease revenue obtained through interstate rates, such as long distance, and leave costs to be covered by intrastate revenue increases.

"The KCC, in conjunction with Southwestern Bell, has attempted to address these unavoidable increases through a two-pronged effort. The KCC, through the rate case process, has always required cost minimization on all service rates and has also encouraged local telephone companies to look at optional services as additional sources of revenue in an effort to keep the basic local service rate stable."

Lennen also noted that the so-called "negative selection" procedure is being used in about 30 other states and "was not unique to Kansas."

Bell officials had estimated they could generate $4.5 million in new revenue annually through the 90-cent a month charge for the new home repair service. That is money they would not have to seek in any future rate increase request.

Besides the consumer complaints, Mike Mallaly, an inspector for the U.S. Postal Service in Kansas City, said an investigation had been started into the Bell mailings because of what he said was a possible violation of the domestic mail manual's prohibition on solicitation in the guise of bills.

Thieves steal several items from Pi Beta Phi sorority

Sometime between Dec. 18 and Jan. 2, a suspect or suspects stole several items from Pi Beta Phi sorority house, 1819 Todd Road.

Taken was a Panasonic Omnivision VHS video cassette recorder with wireless remote control, model number PV-1340; a Canon Sureshot 35mm camera, serial number 3662875; Wilson golf clubs in a black golf bag; a Pioneer AM/FM cassette portable stereo, serial number SK-350; a Unitech AM/FM cassette portable stereo, serial number CX-1214; and a Sanyo AM/FM cassette portable stereo with removable speakers.

Also taken was a ladies 1½-inch long, arrow-shaped pin with a line of eight pearls, two gold chain necklaces and one pearl necklace. The reported total loss is more than $1,600.

ATTENTION COLLEGE OF BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION STUDENTS

BUSINESS CAREER OPPORTUNITY SEMINARS

Present Job Market
Future Job Opportunities
Salary Expectations

Feb. 6, 1986, 4 p.m., Calvin 209

Careers in Marketing.....Dr. Wayne Norvell
Careers in Management.....Dr. William Liddell

4¢
Copies

Reductions
&
Enlargements

Wall Street Journal
Rocky Mountain News
New York Times
Classical CD's

Clafflin Books
Till 9:30 p.m.

Sun.-Fri.
Till 5 p.m.
Sat.

TGIF HOMEMADE ONION RINGS!

BEER & BURGERS TONITE!

•25¢ Draws
•$1.75 Pitchers
•99¢ Burgers & Homemade
Kurly Q's 6-9 p.m.

MEET YOUR FRIENDS AT...

KITE'S
BAR AND GRILLE

Elgee's
Restaurant & Ice Creamery

Fantastic All the Works Burger

1/2 lb. 90% lean burger piled high on a sesame seed bun, covered with your choice of cheese, sautéed onions, mushrooms and bacon. Includes medium drink & waffle fries.

$3.49

12th & Laramie

537-3999

open daily till midnight

Brother's
KSU
IN AGGIEVILLE USA

TONIGHT

THE CLOCKS
Feb. 12, Wed.

Daytona
Party Tonight
5-7 p.m.

Free Beer for sign ups

Raul's
MEXICAN RESTAURANT
In Aggieville
1108 Laramie, on the Hand-Corner

BACK BY POPULAR DEMAND
THURSDAY NIGHT
TACOS

TNT

50¢ Draws
75¢ Bottle Beer
$2.50 Pitchers

TNT

All corn tacos 55¢ or 2 for $1.00

Hours: Mon.-Thurs. 11 a.m.-9:30 p.m.

Fri. 11 a.m.-10 p.m.

Sat. 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Sun. 12-8 p.m.

MasterCard

VISA

HAPPY DAYS

THURS. NITES

$1.25 House
Drinks

.50¢ Steins

ROCKIN' K BAR

A lot of candidates approach the job of Student Body President as a game of "Let's Make A Deal".

But let's face it, hasn't the student body's position been compromised enough in the last few years?

No, Patty doesn't want to "make a deal", but she does want to work to represent YOU, the student.

VOTE
PATTY HIPSHER
FEBRUARY 11 & 12

Paid for by Students for Educational Awareness

Special
Value
All of February

Warm up with a bowl of hot, savory soup, our popular Vistaburger and a 75¢ savings. Because you enjoyed this special so much in January, we've brought it back! Vistaburger and Soup of the Day Special.....at Vista!

Vistaburger & Soup
of the Day $1.79

Save 75¢ on a 12 oz. bowl
A different soup featured each day

Vegetable Beef
Chicken Noodle
English Clam Chowder
French Onion
Cauliflower Cheese
Cream of Broccoli
Cream of Potato

Wisconsin Cheddar
Cheese
Tomato

Vista
RESTAURANTS

1911 Tuttle Creek Blvd./Manhattan

Moving Sale

"Borck Brothers is Moving to Westloop"

2 For 1 Sale

Fall Sweaters
Fall Sport Shirts
Fall Slacks
Fall Sport Coats
Selected Neckwear

Selected fall suits

REG.	WERE	SALE
*165-*215	*129	*109⁰⁰
*225-*265	*189	*169⁰⁰
*275-*295	*219	*199⁰⁰
*315-*325	*249	*229⁰⁰

50% Off

All Ladies fall clothing and accessories
Heavy Outerwear
Hats, Robes, P.J's and Gift Bar items

Sale Now thru Feb. 22nd

BORCK
Brothers

HUMBOLDT AT THIRD
913.537.8636 9:30-5:30 M SAT TILL 8:30 THURS

Ambassador program works to motivate, inform recruits

By MICHAEL D. BROWN
Collegian Reporter

With the recent concern about declining enrollment, the K-State Ambassador Program is working to recruit students through classes designed to inform ambassadors about every aspect of the University, said Don Smith, assistant to the dean of the College of Arts and Sciences.

Established in 1977, the system consists of seven independent programs, each representing its respective college. The College of Veterinary Medicine has no specific program.

Out of the seven, the College of Arts and Sciences is one of the most comprehensive, Smith said.

Currently, the Arts and Sciences Ambassador Program is the only one which requires its applicants to take a fall-semester course titled "New Student Seminar," taught by Marilyn B. Trotter, director of new student programs, and Smith, in two sessions per week.

The course lasts eight weeks and consists of fact-learning sessions covering all aspects of the University. Class topics range from "Admission Procedures and Policies" to "Academic Programs." The course also helps prepare the students for speech writing and delivery in order to aid them in their ambassador duties, Smith said. Overall, the course is designed to produce the best possible information guides to the University, he said.

Robin Harnden, sophomore in journalism and mass communications and an arts and sciences ambassador, said she believes the course is important because it provides the class with a larger background of information about the University.

"I feel like I have learned a lot more than I would have on my own," Harnden said.

However, long before the students ever see a classroom, each is carefully reviewed and selected by an Ambassador's Committee. Selection is based on an interview and the applications they submitted the previous spring.

"The program is looking for someone who is currently a freshman or sophomore — though we wouldn't turn away an upperclassman — who wants to get involved and brag about K-State," Smith said.

Andy Martin, senior in chemical science, said he became an ambassador to improve his overall understanding of University procedures and to become involved with students working with other students.

"One of the best ways of understanding what a university is like is through its students," Martin said.

Once the selected students complete the course, they begin serving one-year positions as ambassadors. It is here that the real duties begin.

Phone calls make up a large portion of the ambassadors' responsibilities.

"Every college sends out letters, but few take the time to call. It's the personal things that count," Smith said.

A program called TeleStudent takes place in both the fall and spring and for one week in the summer. In early November, American College Test and Pre-Scholastic Aptitude Test students are contacted. In mid-January and late April prospective and admitted students are phoned for a one-on-one chat. These calls give possible students the chance to ask questions that may not have been covered in newsletters, such as "What's Aggieville like?"

Another gap the ambassador program fills is one created in the "Code of Good Practices" established by high-school counselors and the Kansas Association of Collegiate Registrars and Admissions. This code discourages any university representative from making a formal appearance at a high school to recruit students for that individual's university.

To morally sidestep this barricade, William Stamey, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, sent out letters to various high schools, informing them about the appointment of qualified arts and sciences ambassadors and of their formal training and knowledge concerning the University. This was done so that when ambassadors returned to their old high schools to informally chat, the staff there would have confidence in them, Smith said.

"Though this is not a solution to the problem, it has worked very well," Smith said.

At a time when many people are running around talking about enrollment being down, Smith said he feels that the presence of the program has been good and has succeeded in bringing new students to the University.

Ultimately, the program is designed to benefit the University and for ambassadors to have a good time, Smith said.

Harnden said she believes the program provides students with the opportunity to get involved at the University and to help someone at the same time.

"There are many things about this school that are amazing and people don't know about them," Smith said. "Our job is to point them out."

Collegian Classifieds
Cheap, but Effective

Marcos criticizes, degrades rivals

By The Associated Press

MANILA, Philippines — President Ferdinand E. Marcos, at his last rally before the election, Wednesday accused his opponents of sowing hatred and revolution during the bitter presidential campaign. Opposition candidate Corason Aquino called him an old dictator whose time has passed.

Speaking in a Manila park during a heavy rain, Marcos addressed these remarks to Aquino and her supporters: "Slow down, you children of little brains, you're no match for the administration."

"I ask my opponents to stop what they have begun. You have sowed an atmosphere of hatred, anger and revolution. Now I say to you, the government of the Philippines is not defenseless," Marcos said on the last day of campaigning allowed by law for Friday's presidential election.

The city was plastered with posters calling Aquino "empty-headed."

Aquino, 53, told a crowd in her home province of Tarlac: "Marcos is my only enemy." She blames him for the 1983 assassination of her husband, Benigno, who had been the president's main political foe.

She said in a final campaign message issued by her headquarters that her campaign of "people power" had won, "and as the old dictator lurks in his palace with his dwindling band of cronies...I warn him: Do not cheat the people on Friday."

Marcos, 68, has been in power since 1965 and ruled by martial law for eight years beginning in 1972.

An official U.S. observer delegation of 20 members is here, led by Sen. Richard Lugar, R-Ind., and Rep. John Murtha, D-Pa.

INTERNSHIPS

The Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City is seeking qualified candidates for Management Development Internship positions. Interns demonstrating strong management potential will be considered for full time Analyst positions upon graduation.

We will be available for on campus interviews: Wednesday, February 26, 1986 For more information please contact your placement center or:

Karen Winter
Federal Reserve Bank
of Kansas City
925 Grand Ave.
Kansas City, Mo 64198

MR. K'S

Today Is

1950's NITE
just Like The Good Ol' Days!

- $1 Pitchers
- $1 Admission with KSU ID
- 50s Music

TGIF News: Chris Braun, Sigma Nu guest DJ plus free 24' submarine!

CASHMAN

for k-state

Paid for by K-Staters for Cashman

WILDCATS

—The Movie—

Join Willie and the KSU Cheerleaders at the special sneak preview of Wildcats, Warner Bros. new movie starring Goldie Hawn. The feature shows on Thursday, Feb. 13, at 7 pm located at the beautiful Seth Childs Cinemas.

Tickets are just $2
and can only be purchased at the Ahearn Field House
ticket office

comprehensive health
associates

- free pregnancy tests
- abortion services/
- counseling
- gynecology
- contraception

Overland Park, KS / 913-345-1400

T.N.T.
★ Thursdays ★
Tacos "N"
TEQUILA
50¢ TACOS
with drinks
$1.00 Margaritas
4-6 p.m.

—No Cover Charge—
Members and Guests only
At the Ramada Inn
776-5780

Bockers
two
At the RAMADA INN

HOLIDAY STYLE

"Love lifts us up where we belong."

Valentine Engagement Rings
from Danenberg's

425 POYNTZ MANHATTAN 913-776-7821

FREE racquetball CLINIC

FEBRUARY 12, 1986

Everything You Wanted To Know About Racquetball
But Were Afraid to Ask ■ Informal Racquetball Clinic ■

Wednesday, February 12, 1986 from 1 to 3 p.m. ■ Instructed by Bill Shafer, Head Racquetball Pro ■

Cottonwood Fitness Center, 3615

Clafin Road, 776-6060 ■

Unlimited Racquetball for as little as $15.68 per month ■

Single memberships $15.68

monthly ■ Family memberships $26.13 monthly.

3615 Clafin Road 776-6060

Battered, bruised, but better

On Sept. 16, 1983, May Mead, a 28-year-old working mother from Auburn, fired a fatal bullet from her husband's .357 Magnum, killing him self-defense in their darkened bedroom as she thought he had a .22 caliber-pistol in the gun rack in their bedroom. May had been married to Norman Mead, 30, for 10 years, during which time she suffered physical and mental abuse. May was charged with second-degree murder and went to trial in Shawnee County District Court on Jan. 30, 1984. On Feb. 3, 1984, May stood in shock as the eight-man, four-woman jury returned a verdict of not guilty.

The first time he hit me we weren't even married a year yet. He hit me on the face, and I got a scar on my face from his class ring. I was a mess for a long time from that. He just kept hitting me because I was in a car and I couldn't get out.

What caused it was he had been drinking and he thought I had been cheating on him. Never had. So he was upset about that. The next day he was sober and everything was fine, but you never knew when he would blow off the handle.

He never did ever actually hit me again, but he would grab my arms or throw something at me, but I never really ever had a scar.

He said, "one of these nights, I'm going to go off and the first one I'm going to kill is you. After that, I don't care who I kill."

You do something wrong, and he blows up and says, "I told you to do it this way."

OK, you change and you do it that way. A week later he gets mad and tells you to do it the way you was doing it in the first place.

Hell if you do and hell if you don't

You don't know which way to turn.

He would hit the kids too hard. He'd smack 'em, and we'd go round on that. I'd say you're hitting them too hard.

He says "no, I got to hit them hard or they won't feel it."

I said "when you leave black and blue marks, they can feel it."

Then he'd quit even correcting them. It really got worse I guess, in the last year of his life and it was happening about every three weeks.

He'd blow up about something — this night that he came home — it's silly why he blew up.

He'd been out drinking. Comes home — hadn't been home from work yet at 9:30 at night — and Troy, 6, just started jabbering at him about what he'd done that day. Well I had to listen to it at 5, so I thought he should have to listen to it at 9:30.

I had to kids up, you know. It was a Friday night; they were up watching "Matt Houston" at the time.

I was going to put them to bed at 10. He got upset because the kids were still up at 9:30, so that's what started it all.

He started calling me every name in the book, but white, which I was used to. He tried to choke me several times, and told me to get the kids in bed.

We fought back and forth and he said he had a gun. And that's when it happened.

According to court testimony, Norman tried to choke May several times. She told him to "at least give her a chance." Norman said he was going to give her a chance to get a gun and she grabbed the gun, jumped to the door and cocked the gun. She told him to stay on the bed, and they'd talk it out. He moved toward a gun rack and she fired one shot and missed, then flicked a bedroom light on, then off again. He remarked that she may have missed him, but he wouldn't miss her. She thought he had the gun. She fired again.

Story by LeAnne Stowe

Illustration by Carlos Corredor

We ran out of the house and ran over to the neighbors and they called.

The cops were cautious when they got here, because I told them I thought Norm had a gun.

The cops were very courteous out here — they didn't put any handcuffs on me. Overall the police were very nice, except the guy down at the station — I didn't care for him.

It was kinda like he badgered me. He kept saying, "You could have run out. He wouldn't have followed you."

I ran out one night with nothing on but my housecoat trying to get away from him. I was that enough scared to run out with nothing on, he was

His content of alcohol that night was very high. This happened Friday night and his alcohol blood count was high. This happened Friday night and his alcohol blood count was high and they didn't do the autopsy until Saturday afternoon. He lost a lot of blood and it was still high.

From the time it happened in September to the trial in January, I didn't have time to feel the loss of a husband because I was more worried about the kids.

I asked my lawyer if they (the jury) come back with guilty, what's that mean? Am I gone that day?

He said, "The judge will listen and place them where you want them."

thought it was going to go guilty. I just figured that was the way it was going to go, and I told the kids. I just couldn't believe they were going to come back not guilty. I just came home that night — went to bed. I said two prayers that night, and it must have worked.

I couldn't believe it when they came back not guilty. I stood in that courtroom until the judge told me I could go. I couldn't believe it was going my way.

My lawyer told me from day one it could be anything from involuntary manslaughter to second-degree murder but they couldn't charge me with first-degree murder. One of the jurors, after it was all over with, came up to my mother and told her he had no trouble sleeping until the night before the verdict came in.

May is working again, but spending time with her children is top priority. A few months after the verdict came back, May started to try to get her life back to normal. Friends and relatives told her she seemed back to her old self. While May admitted the struggle to raise children alone is difficult, the home life is more peaceful and happy.

People wouldn't think about it before it happened to them. Even if they're living in it, they don't want to admit it to themselves. It's not so much physical abuse. There is mental abuse. You're told for 10 years that you're no good; you're ugly; if we divorce you'll never find anybody. Ten years of that and you'll start believing it no matter what.

No matter what you try to do or anything else. Even if you're on good terms, and somebody says "well, you're doing this wrong." If you hear it day in and day out, you're going to start believing it. It's not so much the physical as it is the mental abuse.

Some people say, "well, why don't you get out?" Well, No. I is fear.

Women really do love them. When it's over he apologizes; everything is running smooth.

With Norm, the alcohol had a lot to do with it. He told me one night that something was bothering him. He wasn't drinking that night and he told me "you're the best thing that ever happened to me." Then a few weeks later, he'd turn on me like that. You know.

If someone had told me six months before it happened, that this was going to happen, I'd said you're crazy.

I don't like guns. I had taken so much. I just never saw myself fighting back, I guess when you are scared enough, the Lord gives you enough strength to fight back.

Women always hang on to that hope too, that things are going to get better. "Come back, we'll make it work, I'll quit." A couple weeks, a month, it's back to the same old thing.

I knew if I ever left him, he'd kidnap the kids and leave the state. I could see that happening. Or like that guy in Wichita who killed his kids. I could see that. Just revenge.

The Crisis Center Inc.
1985 Summary of Cases Housed

just mad enough. The cop just didn't know.

He'd have followed me. You're so scared you're not thinking straight. I stayed in jail until Tuesday morning.

I was so scared. They asked me, "What were you thinking before you pulled the trigger?"

I was so scared I don't think I was thinking anything. I told Mom when he was screaming I thought, if he kills me, the two kids are next. I could just see him going off on the kids.

May buried her husband and started preparing her defense for the trial.

When I was writing down stuff for the lawyer before the trial, I had a picture of Eileen, then 10, when Norm beat her when she was just a little over a year old. And that was just because she peed her pants. She had bruises and welts all the way up.

I told the kids I might have to be away from them for a while. My lawyer said it would be at least two years. I was prepared for that.

When the jury was out, it seemed like forever.

They went out Thursday — went out at 1 or 2 p.m. and at 5 p.m. there was no decision yet. So we had to come back at 9 a.m. Friday and the decision came back at 11 a.m. or so.

It was really bad because we were sitting in this room and everytime someone opened the door we all would freeze. The minister had walked in just a few minutes before 11 a.m., and we all jumped. Then when it came time, not too long after that, and the man walked in we didn't hear him.

He asked, "Are you ready to go?"

I said no. So we all went back over there. All along I

Dating service to help singles come together

By KIM KINSLOW
Collegian Reporter

Manhattan singles wanting to meet a member of the opposite sex now have a alternative to bars, church functions and grocery stores.

The new option, Fantasy Computer Dating Service, is a dream come true for Pat Ferguson, owner and operator of the service.

"I've always wanted a business of my own," Ferguson said. "I've been raised that if you can have your own business it's best."

Ferguson said she thought of the service as a fun and interesting thing to do for other people and, she hopes, make a little money for herself.

The dating service is designed to get single people together in a setting other than a bar, she said. Singles interested in the service can mail a self-addressed, stamped envelope and a dollar to receive a membership application and informational letter telling them more about the dating service.

The information Ferguson receives from an application is fed into the computer and is kept confidential. After the information is stored in the computer, Ferguson said, she then tries to call the members to get a "feel" for what they are like. It is hard to get to know a person from a piece of paper, she said.

By calling the members, Ferguson said she believes she can more readily find better matches and in doing so will make her service more credible.

The biggest problem she has is getting people to believe her new business is not a "scam," but another alternative to meet single people which is why she added the more personalized touch, she said.

"I want people to find the person of their dreams," Ferguson said. "I'm going to do the best I can."

For a three-month membership the cost is $25, she said. This includes three to 10 introductions. There are also six-month, nine-month and one-year memberships available. Each member receives two to three introductions initially, and may choose everyone on the list or no one.

If the person does not receive the minimum number of introductions, they will get their membership extended until the number is met.

Ferguson said there are many singles wanting to meet other single people but they don't know how to go about it. Her service matches people with the same likes, dislikes, occupations, backgrounds or hobbies so people who have a hard time meeting others will have the opportunity.

The computer dating service covers the areas of Manhattan, Junction City, Ft. Riley and Topeka, she said.

Ferguson said if the information on the application form is distorted or false, or if dates are treated poorly, the member will be terminated from the service. This is to ensure her business reputation is maintained as well as to give the members the best opportunity to find a date they like.

Senate to hear more appeals for $700,000

By The Collegian Staff

Five-minute presentations from groups appealing the Senate Bond Refinancing Ad Hoc Committee's recommendations for the use of the $700,000 made available through student bond refinancing will be heard at the Student Senate meeting at 6 tonight in the Union Big Eight room.

To accommodate the amount of business, the meeting was moved back an hour so all of the speakers may be heard.

Steve Ligon, junior in animal sciences and industry, said he is asking for a $70,000 endowment for the agriculture judging teams. The money would be drawing interest which the teams would use to travel and compete.

"The money we would be drawing would almost double, each year, what ag judging is getting now," Ligon said.

The KSU Childcare Cooperative is asking for $86,182 to expand its programs and facilities, making it one of the largest campus facilities in the country.

An appeal for $150,000 to construct an elevator in Anderson Hall to make it accessible to handicapped individuals will also be heard.

KSDB-FM is asking for $23,600 for additional equipment to update its program.

In other business, David Dakin, fifth-year senior in architecture, is sponsoring a bill which would require a referendum each time a new student fee is proposed. Proposed student fees now go to senate for approval.

In other business, senate will form an ad hoc committee to review the feasibility of the proposed student athletic fee.

JOHNSON

PRESIDENT '86

STUDENT BODY
PRESIDENT.

Paid for by Students for Johnson

WORLD RADIO'S

51st ANNIVERSARY SALE

HURRY... SALE ENDS SUNDAY!

UNDER $20 PER MONTH*

FISHER $449

Complete Fisher Home Stereo Component System

- 50 Watt Per Channel Integrated Amplifier with 5 Band Stereo Equalizer
- Quartz Digital AM-FM Stereo Tuner
- Dual Cassette Deck w/High Speed Dubbing
- Quality Semi-Automatic Turntable
- A Pair of 3-Way High Efficiency Speakers
- Deluxe Glass Door Component Cabinet

Now at Great Savings. Model 5380

Thousands of customers have already discovered that World Radio's 51st Anniversary Sale means the deals of a lifetime! Now, save big money on stereo, VCRs, color TVs, car stereo, microwaves and more!

YAMAHA $1399

100 Watt Per Channel Stereo System with Compact Disc Player

- Programmable Compact Disc Player
- 100 Watt/Channel Stereo Amplifier
- Quartz Digital AM/FM Stereo Tuner

Now at incredible savings. Model SY5-67

Technics $77

35 Watt Per Channel AM/FM Stereo Receiver

Model SA-120. List price $160

SHARP $88

Auto Reverse Stereo Cassette Deck with Dolby B/C NR

Model RT-320. List price $149

SANYO $69

Indash AM/FM Auto Reverse Car Stereo Cassette

Great stereo sound for the road. Features locking fast forward/rewind, with local distance switching. Model FTU-50.

PIONEER $59 PAIR

6X9 3-Way Car Stereo Speakers

Handles up to 80 watts of total power. Model TS-6905. List $145 pair.

maxell $177

High Bias 90 Minute Audio Cassette Tapes

Stock up now. Model XLII 90

$499 EACH

Beta or VHS Video Cassette

T-120 or L-750. List $9.95 each

YOU PAY $39 LESS QT&T REBATE $10 AFTER REBATE $29

Compact Telephone Answering Machine

Voice activated. Model ROF-200

19" DIAGONAL $177

19" Color Television with Preset Automatic Color

Get great life-like color and tint. Features a 100% solid state chassis. Model AM-1901

RCA $288

19" Cable Ready RCA Colortrak Television

Has RCA's "X-tended life" chassis and super accufilter picture tube

ZENITH SYSTEM 3 $377

19" Remote Control Cable Ready "System 3" Color TV

Has advanced color sentry, and a chromacolor high contrast picture tube

"LITTLE LITTON" Goes Under The Kitchen Cabinet

"Little Litton" Compact Microwave Oven

Features a compact design to fit most anywhere. Has an automatic dial timer, with cookbook included. Model 1110

LLOYD'S $249

Front Load VHS Cable Ready Video Recorder with Wireless Remote

Features one touch recording, with memory rewind/auto rewind, and 105 channel cable capability. Model L-826

$379 SANYO

Cable Ready SuperBeta Hi-Fi Video Recorder with Wireless Remote

Get improved 20% better "SuperBeta" picture quality. Model VCR-7250

$549 FISHER

4 Head VHS Stereo/MTS Cable Ready VCR with Wireless Remote

Has a stereo record/playback system with Dolby NR. Model FVH-825

Litton

How can a Credit Union help you?

New car loan
10.8% apr share loan
Used car loan
Mobile home loan
Furniture loan
Life insurance
Appliance loan
Loans up to $15,000
Home improvements
Downpayment
Home computer loans
Loan insurance
Vacation loan
12% apr regular loan
Medical loan
No-wait share loan
Tax loan
Three-month CD
KSU travel loan
On-campus convenience
Investment loan
Hi-yield passbook saving
RV camper loan
Financial advising
$100,000 NCUA insured

KSU Federal Credit Union

A service for faculty, staff, and qualified graduate assistants
Anderson Hall, Room 24A
Open 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.
Monday through Friday
532-6274

Financing available: Visa, Mastercard & American Express welcomed. Some quantities may be limited. Sale prices good thru February 9 or while quantities last. No Dealers Please.

* Professional Car Stereo Installation Available At This Location

MANHATTAN 11th & Moro in Aggleville 537-4190

* WITH APPROVED CREDIT. Based on 21% APR with 20% down and 24 monthly payments. Sales tax of 4% included. Monthly payments APR and sales tax will vary from state to state.

over 50 years of Electronics

WORLD RADIO

'Cats command wounded Nebraska

By TOM PERRIN
Sports Editor

LINCOLN, Neb. — K-State Coach Jack Hartman turned to an old friend — the 3-2 zone defense — to help his Wildcat team break a four-game losing streak with a 64-54 victory over Nebraska Wednesday night in Lincoln.

Hartman, whose K-State teams of the '70s and early '80s built a national reputation with the 3-2, effectively used the defense to pressure a cold-shooting Nebraska team throughout the game.

Nebraska, missing the offensive production lost with a knee injury to all-Big Eight Conference center Dave Hoppen, was forced to rely on its outside shooting, which was ineffective all night long.

"I really like what we did on defense," Hartman said. "We made some good adjustments. Nebraska is known for their patience, but I think our defense made them go beyond patience and, of course, they really missed Hoppen."

Nebraska Coach Moe Iba said K-State's defense had much to do with the 'Huskers' poor shooting performance.

"We didn't have much movement against their zone," Iba said. "When things didn't go right for us, we panicked."

While it's difficult to measure the impact Hoppen's absence had on the Cornhuskers, the hapless Nebraska offense, which could manage only 34 percent shooting from the field, probably gave as good an indication as anything.

"I think they missed him (Hoppen) on offense the most. He's a tremendous threat from anywhere on the floor, and he opens up so many things for them," Hartman said.

Iba had little positive to say about his team's performance.

"We've got problems," Iba said. "We're going to try to work them out, but we've got to have better effort."

Hartman was also pleased with K-State's offensive showing.

"We had good patience and ball movement," he said. "We got the ball where we wanted it and we had good shot selection."

Making his return as a major force in the K-State offense after a two-game slump was Norris Coleman. Coleman hit for a team-high 26 points on 12-of-22 shooting from the field.

"Norris looked like himself again and had a real good ballgame," Hartman said.

Nebraska jumped out to a 10-5 lead early in the first half before

K-State put together a string of 10 consecutive points to give the Wildcats a 15-10 lead. Ben Mitchell and Joe Wright both scored four points in this span.

Nebraska suffered from a scoring drought that lasted more than six minutes before they could draw to within 15-12. The 'Huskers' cold shooting persisted, allowing K-State to move to a 30-23 halftime lead.

The Cornhuskers had plenty of shooting opportunities in the half but hit only 10 of 32 shots from the field. K-State wasn't much better, shooting 12 of 30.

Coleman first showed signs of regaining his shooting touch in the first half, scoring 11 points on 5-of-10 shooting.

K-State pounced on the 'Huskers' early in the second half, going to Coleman, who was able to connect on five consecutive shots to open the second half.

K-State moved out to a 40-27 lead on a fastbreak basket by Wright off a feed by Kevin Muff, who started the second half in place of Ron Meyer, who had three first-half fouls.

From that point, K-State extended upon the lead, going up 46-31 on a drive by Benny Green, and finally by 20 points off of a pair of free throws by Green.

Nebraska put together a string off points after the outcome of the game had already been decided to make the final margin.

Before the game a presentation was made to the retiring Hartman. After the presentation the crowd of 9,679 in the Bob Devaney Sports Center gave the K-State coach a standing ovation.

"It (the ovation) made me feel very, very good and humble. Nebraska fans have always been good to me and my teams," Hartman said.

K-STATE	MIN	FG	FT	R	F	TP
Mitchell	23	2-2	5-6	1	4	9
Coleman	40	12-22	2-6	8	1	26
Meyer	24	0-5	0-0	6	5	0
Green	35	3-11	2-2	10	0	8
Wright	40	8-14	3-4	8	2	19
Walker	4	0-0	0-0	1	0	0
Muff	27	1-2	0-0	5	3	2
Dobbin	6	0-0	0-0	2	1	0
Smith	1	0-0	0-1	0	0	0
Totals	26-56	12-19	45	17	64

NEBRASKA	MIN	FG	FT	R	F	TP
Day	39	6-11	5-6	14	5	17
Matzke	26	3-7	0-1	5	2	6
Logan	25	2-7	2-2	4	3	6
Marshall	31	6-17	1-2	3	3	13
Carr	33	4-12	0-0	1	1	8
Brown	10	0-2	0-0	0	0	0
Bailous	13	0-2	0-0	2	2	0
Sealer	1	0-0	0-0	0	0	0
Neubert	7	0-0	2-2	2	1	2
Jackman	10	1-3	0-0	1	0	2
Martz	5	0-3	0-0	0	0	0
Totals	22-64	10-13	35	17	54

Halftime score: K-State 30, Nebraska 23
Turnovers: K-State 9, Nebraska 6
Field goal percentage: K-State 46, Nebraska 34
Attendance: 9,679

K-State forward Norris Coleman tries to block a shot by University of Nebraska forward Chris Logan during the 'Cats' 64-54 win over the Cornhuskers Wednesday in Lincoln. Coleman led the Wildcats with 26 points.

Parrish seeks fulfillment of promises

By TONY CARBAJO
Sports Writer

When head football coach Stan Parrish came to K-State in December, he said he would do three things to turn around the ailing Wildcat football program.

Upon inheriting a 1-10 team that finished in a last-place tie in the Big Eight Conference, Parrish said the three things needed to resurrect the program were improving team morale, passing the ball "from the time we get off the bus" and recruiting on a national basis.

On Feb. 12 — national letter-of-intent day for high school seniors — the football faithful at K-State will get a chance to see if Parrish can be successful in recruiting on a national level.

As the national signing day approaches, Parrish and his newly appointed staff of nine assistants have been busy luring prospective athletes to K-State. He has kept true to his word by traveling all over the country to find the 29 or 30 prospects he hopes to sign.

Parrish concentrated his recruiting efforts in five states: California, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Florida and Texas.

The Wildcat recruiting staff has been looking to fill four areas of the team — what Parrish refers to as the "skill positions."

"Obviously we are working on creating team speed," Parrish said. "We are concentrating on running backs and quarterbacks especially. The positions of defensive back, running back, receiver and quarterback are on the top of our list, although we have not forgotten about the men up front."

Parrish said a normal recruiting week consists of boarding an airplane on Sunday afternoon and recruiting until Thursday and returning to show visiting recruits around on Friday and Saturday. Sunday he boards another airplane and starts the same routine over again.

"It has been that way since I came on," he said. "My assistants have been out there since they have been named."

Parrish said that the recent passage of Proposition 48 at the National Collegiate Athletic Association's national convention, which made grade requirements for incoming freshman more stringent, has not made his job that much more difficult.

"It has changed our recruiting somewhat, but we were all prepared for that," Parrish said. "All coaches are doing it (looking at some recruits who are going to be close academically). Some kids haven't taken the tests yet. We are still in on some who haven't taken them but that we feel have come on and shown the desire and ambition to make it in college."

Parrish said the response to football has been "very favorable" by the K-State community.

"The cooperation has been fantastic. Everybody wants to help out," he said.

As for the recruiting battles, Parrish said he has not had a chance to hear the negative talk about K-State's losing football tradition, but he "is sure they have used that against us."

"I might be the most positive person in the world," Parrish said. "There is not a doubt in my mind that we can turn this thing around."

Ichabods' Chipman suspends 6 players

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA — Washburn basketball coach Bob Chipman announced Wednesday he has suspended six of his players, including his three top reserves, for unexplained "disciplinary reasons."

Four of the players were suspended for the Ichabods' two Central States Intercollegiate Conference games this weekend at Fort Hays State and Kearney State, while two others were suspended indefinitely, Chipman said.

The two suspended indefinitely are Washburn's No. 3 scorer, Marcelles Graves, a 6-8 junior center from Chicago who is averaging 10 points a game season and Calvin Godine, a 6-2 junior guard from Houston.

Big Eight's ranked teams win

By The Associated Press

LAWRENCE — Danny Manning scored 14 of his 20 points in the opening six minutes to get sixth-ranked Kansas rolling to a 100-64 rout of Colorado Wednesday night and setting an Allen Fieldhouse record for consecutive victories.

The Jayhawks, 21-3 overall and 6-1 in the Big Eight, roared to a 54-28 halftime lead and were never threatened by the outmanned Buffaloes, whom now fall to 8-12 on the season and 0-7 in the conference.

Manning and the other Kansas starters played little in the second half, but Colorado still got no closer than 25 points in the second half.

Calvin Thompson had 18 points for the Jayhawks. Ron Kellogg had 14 and Archie Marshall added 10.

Matt Bullard led Colorado with 15 points and Randy Downs had 10.

OU 106, OSU 84

NORMAN, Okla. — Tim McCalister scored 24 points to lead a parade of six Oklahoma players in double figures as the fifth-ranked Sooners downed Oklahoma State, 106-84, in Big Eight Conference basketball Wednesday night.

The victory was the 46th straight at home for the Sooners, who improved to 21-1 overall, 6-1 in the Big Eight. Oklahoma State fell to 12-8 in all games, 3-4 in the conference.

The Sooners blew the game open early, taking an 11-0 lead before Melvin Gilliam hit a running jumper at the 16:40 mark to put Oklahoma State on the scoreboard.

Aside from McCalister, Anthony Bowie scored 18 points and Darryl Kennedy 15.

Gals Perms
including Cut and Style
and Free Eyebrow Wax
Apple Pectin $35
Warm and Gentle $40
Guys Perms $20
Deep Conditioning Treatment
with Haircut $10

HUNAM Restaurant FREE DELIVERY HUNAM EXPRESS

11 a.m.-1 a.m.
1304 Westloop 539-8888 1116 Moro
(10% Off w/KSU ID) 537-0886 (Egg Roll & Fried Rice 99¢)

CHARLIE'S NEIGHBORHOOD BAR
Established 1966

SATURDAY Bud Light Cup Night
Bring in any 16 oz. Bud Light cup for 50¢ refills for Bud Light only.
(Limited supply to be given away at KSU/Colorado game)

$1.95 Pitchers of Bud Light
GUEST APPEARANCE BY BUD LIGHT DAREDEVILS

TGIF
$1.95 Pitchers
25¢ Ham Sandwiches 3:30-5
Amateur D.J. Night
(Inquire at Charlies)

THURSDAY $DOLLAR DAZE$

1800 Claflin 539-9619

Your Teddy Bear Headquarters
Visit the Biggest Bear in Town!

COUNTRY GIFT SHOP

Mon.-Sat.
10 a.m.-5:30 p.m.
539-3854

2206 Ft. Riley Blvd.

Optometrists
general practice
dedicated to Optometry in a friendly manner

"We'd like to be your Optometric office"

TO SLEEP WITH

- Extended wear, Gas permeable, Tinted extended wear, Tinted soft contact lenses.
- All types of F.D.A. approved contacts.
- Approx. 5000 contact lenses in stock.
- Free consultation and trial contact lens fitting.

Drs Price, Young and Odle
1119 Westloop Place, Manhattan
537-1118

free door side parking

ASK

Continued from Page 1

University and Pittsburg State University, the savings each semester would be $588.

"This dollar savings is particularly significant if several members of a family attend college," Williams said.

The bill which will be presented for debate on the House floor sometime this week, is supported by ASK, the Kansas Board of Regents, the Chamber of Commerce and Industry and the Department of Economic Development.

Budget

Continued from Page 1

were not available, but the state is estimated to receive about $48 million in student higher education aid this year, including monies for Pell Grants, college work-study and supplemental educational opportunity grants.

Agriculture would be hit by an 18 percent spending cut in the Reagan budget. And Kansas, as a farm state, would feel the reductions in nearly every area.

Reagan recommended sharply reducing spending on the Cooperative Extension Service, and called for cuts of about $400 million in soil and water conservation programs. That includes termination of federal money for cost-sharing of small watershed projects, and elimination of federal monies to support meat and poultry inspection. The president suggested that user fees be levied to cover meat inspection costs. Kansas, as the nation's No. 1 beef producer in 1985, has much at stake in the inspection program.

Despite the push for spending cutbacks, Kansas would pick up monies for two water projects under the 1987 budget — $2.6 million for flood control at Great Bend and $1.1 million for flood prevention in the city of Halstead.

In general, Kansas would benefit from proposed defense contracts of nearly $871 million next year and $57 million in construction projects at military posts across the state.

Here is a breakdown of the Pentagon's proposed weapon system purchases from Kansas defense contractors, including monies for spare parts and research:

—$865.8 million for installing new engines and modernization of 50 KC-135 tankers for the Air Force. The Boeing Military Aircraft Co. is the prime contractor for airframe work. The request is up from last year's $648 million for work on 43 planes.

—$5.1 million for spares for RC-12D Guardrail aircraft for the Army. Beech Aircraft in Wichita is the prime contractor of the aircraft. Guardrail is an air and ground communications and intelligence system made up of a twin engine turbo-prop aircraft and mobile electronics equipment for processing information on the ground. Last year the Pentagon asked for $13.7 million for spare equipment.

This year the Pentagon did not seek money for T-34C Mentor training aircraft or C-12 twin-engine planes from Beech. In its 1986 budget, the military sought $30 million for 12 C-12 planes and $24 million for 19 T-34 trainers.

Drill

Continued from Page 1

Memorial.

The participants traveled to the United States in cargo planes that had three different sections, Wilson said. The first section had seats and the back section carried cargo. The middle section of the plane contained bunks stacked five-high where the "patients" rode.

The 400 Fort Riley "wounded" were able to come back two weeks before the remaining U.S. troops by participating in this exercise, Reagan said.

Classifieds

CLASSIFIED RATES

One day: 15 words or fewer, $2.25, 15 cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.25, 20 cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.00, 25 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.50, 30 cents per word over 15; Five consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.75, 35 cents per word over 15.

ANNOUNCEMENTS 01

MARY KAY Cosmetics—Color awareness, products, and free facial. Anna Prockish, 1001 Bluemont, 537-4246. (891f)

BRUCE COOK—Good luck with running for Business Senator. We all know where you stand on the issues. Your Campaign Manager. (92)

PAT MUIR—Good luck with Ag Senate. But how can you win in the kangaroo voting off season. Your Campaign Manager. (92)

ATTENTION 02

HEE'S ALTERATIONS—Suits, coats, jeans, zippers and all types of alterations. 1125 Laramie Plaza, Aggieville. Monday thru Friday, 10 a.m.-5:30 p.m.; Saturdays, 10 a.m.-4 p.m. 776-7959. (871f)

SKI SPRING Break—Breckenridge, Keystone, and Copper Mountain. March 9, 10 and 11 only $220. Price includes transportation, lodging, ski rental and lift tickets. For information, call 537-2995. (83-108)

FLYING INTEREST? Check into K-State Flying Club. Call Steve Dyer at 532-5600 or 537-0450. (61f)

SPRING BREAK on the beach at South Padre Island, Daytona Beach, Fort Lauderdale, Fort Walton Beach or Mustang Island/Port Aransas from only $89; and skiing at Steamboat or Vail from only $86! Deluxe lodging, parties, goodie bags, more... Hurry, call Sunchase Tours for more information and reservations toll free 1-800-321-5911 or contact a local Sunchase Representative today! When your Spring Break counts... count on Sunchase. (80-109)

FOR RENT—MISC 03

COSTUMES—FROM gorilla suits to Hawaiian leis. Makeup, wigs, periodical clothing, masks, grass skirts, all occasions available. Treasure Chest, Aggieville. (281f)

SEE MARIE for all your costume needs. If I don't have it, I'll make it for you. Marie's Costumes, 17th and Humboldt, 539-5200. Parking in the rear. (901f)

FOR RENT—APTS 04

FOR AUGUST—Deluxe two bedroom furnished apartment, across the street from Ford Hall. 539-2482 after 4:00 p.m. (92-102)

THREE BEDROOM available now. Utilities paid. Call Barbara, 537-1329. (83-98)

ONE OR two bedroom—Reasonable, one block to campus, available now. Call Barbara, 537-1329. (83-98)

EFFICIENCY APARTMENT, $185/month, heat, gas, water included. Call 537-7794 evenings and weekends. (84-93)

WE HAVE studio, one, two, and three bedroom apartments available now. All prices. Call 537-1210 or 537-4244. (871f)

NEXT TO campus—Leasing for fall, across from Marlatt and Goodnow. Furnished two or one bedroom, central air, carpeting, fully equipped kitchen, balcony, off street parking. 539-2702, evenings, weekends. (88-98)

NEXT TO campus—Leasing for fall, across from Haymaker, overlooking campus. Two bedroom, fireplace, central air, carpeting, fully equipped kitchen, balcony, laundry facility, off street parking. 539-2702, evenings, weekends. (88-98)

BRAND NEW three bedroom. One and one-half baths, near campus. Available May, June or August, $480/month. Call 537-8800. (891f)

1530 MCCAIN Lane, overlook to campus—Luxury two bedroom, fireplace, modern appliances, laundry facilities. Available August 1. Call 537-7980 or 537-7810. (89-93)

1207 KEARNEY or 1214 Vattier—Almost new three bedroom, laundry facilities. Available August 1. Call 537-2255 or 537-7810. (89-93)

913 BLUEMONT—Brand new three bedroom building available May 15. Call 537-7980 or 537-7810. (89-93)

PLAN FOR the summer and the 1986-87 school year. McCullough Development Inc. is now accepting applications for summer and fall leases. Call us, we manage over 300 university area apartments. 776-3804. (891f)

KIDS, PETS, waterbeds negotiable. Close to campus, one and two bedrooms, $225-360. Joe, 539-0909; Dick, 537-1109. (90-93)

APARTMENTS FOR next school year, three, four, five and six bedrooms, $300. Call 539-5059 evenings. (91-95)

AVAILABLE IMMEDIATELY—Furnished one bedroom apartment, one block from Ahearn. Call 776-9124. (91-108)

NEAR KSU for August—Four to five bedroom house at 312 North 15th Street, $560 per month. Also two bedroom newly remodeled furnished basement apartment. Heat, water, trash paid, laundry facilities, $275 per month. 539-2482 after 4 p.m. (92-96)

FOR RENT—HOUSES 05

BEST DEAL in town—Now taking waiting list applications. Prairie Glen Townhouses, 776-4786. (79-93)

THREE BEDROOM home, 1523 Fairchild, available now. Call Barbara, 537-1329. (83-98)

HOUSES FOR next school year, three, four, six and eight bedrooms. Block west of campus. 539-5059 evenings. (91-95)

FOR SALE—AUTO 06

1980 GMC, 4 x 4, 1/2 ton, four-speed, power steering, power brakes, dual tanks, dual exhausts, 532-5139 evenings. (90-94)

1980 FORD Futura—Good gas mileage, loaded, excellent condition. 776-6069 after 4 p.m. (90-92)

MUST SELL 1981 Jeep—50,000 miles, good condition, fun to drive. Call 537-4396. (89-93)

1976 BUICK SKYLARK, $1,000. All tires have 28,000-mile warranty, 1-month battery. Visit Willard 316 or call 776-5014 after 5 p.m. (91-94)

FOR SALE—MISC 07

OFFICE SUPPLIES—Hull's Business Machines, 715 North 12th, Aggieville, 539-1413. (551f)

$1 BAG SALE

All items must go!
Stuff your bag full $ each
B&L Thrift Shop
107 North 2nd
Manhattan, KS.

GOVERNMENT HOMES from $1 (U repair). Also delinquent tax property. Call 805-687-6000, ext. GH-9701 for information. (76-97)

Clip and Save
1/4 Pound
Hamburger
69¢
The Ritz
Not good with other specials
One burger per coupon
Expires 2-9-86

NEW SANYO MBC-1250 office quality computer with Sanyo PR-5000 daisy wheel letter printer. High resolution display, two double-sided high capacity disk drives, Wordstar, Spellstar, Mailmerge, Calculator spreadsheet, Infostar data base. Excellent complete word processing system at unbeatable price! $1,075. 539-6309 after 6 p.m. (90-93)

MUST SELL! Peavey electric guitar with case and amp. Must see. Call Scott, 532-6099. (89-93)

LEE'S WESTERN WEAR
1/2 PRICE
SALE
2 1/2 m. East of Manhattan
on Hwy. 24 776-6715

30% OFF
All Strings, Guitars
and DOD Effects
Hayes House of Music
"We Will Not Be Undersold"
776-7893
223 Poyntz

HELP WANTED 13

GOVERNMENT JOBS $16,040-$59,230/year. Now hiring. Call 805-687-6000, ext. R-9701 for current federal list. (76-97)

COUPLE FOR Assistant Manager of large apartment complex. Live in, maintenance ability necessary. Send resume to Box 3, Collegian. (761f)

CRUISESHIPS HIRING! $16-30,000. Caribbean, Hawaii, World! Call for Guide, Cassette, Newsletter. (916) 944-4444, Ext. Kansasatecruise. (76-102)

CYTOLGY PREP Technician for histology laboratory. Full-time position, experience preferred. Will train a qualified person. Send resume to Peterson Clinical Laboratory, P.O. Box 128, Manhattan, KS. 66502. Equal Opportunity Employer. (88-93)

AIRLINE HIRING boom! $14-$39,000! Stewardesses. Reservations! Call for Guide, Cassette, Newsletter. (916) 944-4444 XUAWS8. (89-108)

STUDENT COMPUTER programming positions available. Should be familiar with at least one of the following languages: Pascal, C or PL/1 and able to work 15 to 20 hours per week. We will supply the necessary training in microcomputers. Summer employment is a possibility. For more information contact Mary Knapp at 532-7019. Application forms available at Computer Science Main Office or at Room 211, Umberger Hall. Applications will be accepted through February 7. (89-93)

SUMMER WORK/Johnson County, KS—Forty-hour week, $4.75/hour, Tuesday through Saturday, through August. Work consists of door-to-door data collection. Car and driver's license required. 20 positions available. Send resume or letter of intent to: Sharon Rhoades, RJM Environmental Assoc., 6700 Squibb Rd., Suite 212, Mission, KS 66202, 913-432-1477. (89-93)

SUMMER JOBS, National Park Co. 21 parks, 5,000 openings. Complete information, $5. Park Report, Mission Mtn. Co., 651 2nd Ave. W.N., Kalispell, MT 59901. (89-110)

WAITERS and Waitresses, servers and cashiers, cook's assistants and dishwashers through May 17 who can work 10:30 a.m.-1:30 p.m. Monday through Friday, Monday-Wednesday-Friday, or Tuesday-Thursday. We offer student pay plan, job variety and a centrally located work place where you work with other students. We require that you must obtain a Food Handler's Card, must be able to work 10 hours weekly, must be honest, reliable and display a sense of urgency, must be neat, clean and wear appropriate attire. We prefer to hire work study students and students who are eligible to work 30 hours per week. Apply at the K-State Union Food Service Office. (89-93)

OVERSEAS JOBS—Summer, year round, Europe, South America, Australia, Asia. All fields. $900. 2,000 month. Sightseeing, free information, write IJC, P.O. Box 52-KS-2, Corona Del Mar, Ca. 92625. (91-110)

ADVERTISING SALES. Energetic, intelligent, outgoing sales person needed for daily newspaper, advertising sales department. Neat appearance, good communicator, with an imagination and feel for advertising layout and copy. Good career opportunity for right person. Qualified applicants may send resume to: Michael Hellingner, Montgomery Publications, P.O. Box 129, Junction City, KS 66441 or call 913-762-5000 for an appointment. (91-109)

SUMMER JOBS—Rock Springs Ranch 4-H Conference Center. Recreation instructors, lifeguards, kitchen, custodial and maintenance workers. Write: Summer Staff Application, Rock Springs Ranch, R.R. 1, Box 55, Junction City, KS 66441. Telephone: 913-257-3221. (92-94)

BUSHWACKERS NOW accepting applications for waitresses and barbacks. Apply in person Wednesday and Thursday 5-9 p.m. (91-92)

REWARD! WOMEN'S wedding band/engagement ring, yellow gold with oval-cut diamond. Possibly in Cardwell or Dickens Hall or vicinity. Call Martha 532-6883 or 539-5705 after 5 p.m. (92-95)

NOTICES 15

MADRID GRAS Festival! Party at the Union! Be adventurous and sample our Gracie and Cajun fare and listen to Dixieland and Rag Time on our player piano! Come to our party February 4-11 in the K-State Union Stairroom. (90-95)

SPRING BREAK: Daytona Beach. $205 with transportation or $119 without. South Padre, $239 or $139. Call Peggy 539-2373 or Rob 539-2321. (91-92)

531 MORO Parties: During the evening of January 31 a jam box seemed to "escape" from our residence, taking with it several pairs of women's lingerie and a telephone. If you happen to know where they could be hiding or saw who they "caught" a ride with, please call 776-0446. (90-92)

SIGMA PLEDGES—Thanks for making last semester so much fun. If you ever need anything, remember you can always come to me. Keep up the hard work! Sigma love, Connie. (92)

TRI DELT Laurie R.—You're an inspiration, not only to your pledge class, but to us all as well. Congratulations. I'm one proud mommy! Love ya, Judi. (92)

SAE LITTLE Sisters—Meeting tonight at 8 p.m. Be there! Bring second semester dues. Valentine's party immediately following. Dress Valentine's. Make cards for sons and dads. Phi Alpha? (92)

ED NICKEL—You make good sense. Good luck on the campaign trail for Business Senator. Your C.M. (92)

FRED NEUMAN—Best of luck to you in your bid for Business Senator. (92)

KAPPA DELTA Rooms—Kappa Deitars are excited about their new roommates Carmen, Judy and Natalie!! (92)

ROOMMATE WANTED 17

RESPONSIBLE NON-SMOKING female roommate wanted. Own room, $125 plus one-third utilities. Call 537-1886 or ask for Olga at 532-5123. (88-93)

SERVICES 18

MARY KAY Cosmetics—Skin care—glamour products. Free facial call Floris Taylor. 539-2070. Handicapped accessible. (76-95)

PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free pregnancy test. Confidential. Call 537-9800, 103 S. Fourth St., Suite 25. (11f)

MANHATTAN CAMERA repairs cameras and equipment. 228 Poyntz, 776-4240. (41f)

WORD PROCESSING by computer, professional quality, letter-quality printer (not dot matrix), disk storage. 776-6166. (131f)

Typing/Editing, letter quality word processor, professional resumes, cover letters, personalized form letters, disk storage. 539-5007. (76-113)

PROFESSIONALLY WRITTEN resumes, word processed cover letters, and typing. Resume Service, 1221 Moro Place, 537-7294. (721f)

MRS. KIM—Professional dressmaker and tailor. Alterations. 27 years experience. No pattern needed. 537-2393. (82-111)

STOP PAYING $28 hour for VW repairs. Let the Bug Doctor at J & L Auto Service repair yours and save $8 per hour. Only seven minutes east. Hwy. 24. Bugs, Rabbits, Ghias, type 3's included. 1-494. 2388 St. George. (85-105)

DATA SHEETS to dissertations and everything in between. Letter quality Word Processing Mrs. Burden. 539-1204. (91-97)

TUTORS NEEDED: Friendship Tutoring still needs 26 more tutors for kids in grades 1-12. If you love kids and have Thursday nights free from 6:30-8:30 p.m., why not give us a call? Our kids need you. Call Tom Reis at 532-6984 or 776-6566 for more information. (90-93)

STUDENT SERVICES—Perms $15, Cuts $5. Artistic Hair. 415 North 3rd St. 537-8169. (91-98)

SITUATIONS WANTED 19

$10-$360 weekly/mailing circulars. No quotas. Sincerely interested rush self-addressed envelope. Success, P.O. Box 470CEG, Woodstock, IL 60098. (76-105)

SUBLEASE 20

SUBLEASE: FURNISHED two bedroom apartment two and one-half blocks from campus. Move in now. $320. February rent free. 537-1083. (92-94)

WANTED 21

NEED TUTORING? For Chem II, a reliable competent person to help and simply explain, for better understanding of course. Phone 537-1504. Call after 4 p.m. (90-93)

WANTED: USED microscope, mono or binocular. Call (402) 656-3002, daytime, or (402) 729-6361 evenings. (91-95)

Chasing Reality

By David Krug and Steve Cooper

Bloom County

By Berke Breathed

Garfield

By Jim Davis

Peanuts

By Charles Schulz

Crossword

ACROSS

- 1 Sandwich shop, for short
- 5 Toddler
- 9 Collection
- 12 Word of agreement
- 13 Actor
- 14 "Chances"
- 15 Painful finale
- 17 Untruth
- 18 Moe or Larry
- 19 Grains
- 21 Crab Key
- 22 Unexalted
- 24 Church part
- 27 Lapidary's concern
- 28 March time
- 31 Old auto
- 32 French friend
- 33 Eggs
- 34 Common test
- 36 Fate

DOWN

- 37 Like some cheeses
- 38 Lear's daughter
- 40 Greek letter
- 41 Sugar source
- 43 Hastens
- 47 Flightless bird
- 48 Cajole
- 51 Mayday call
- 52 Saga
- 53 "Now — me down..."
- 54 Nocom-poop
- 55 Actor
- 56 Zero
- 1 Finger-paints
- 2 Give off
- 3 "Dune" duke
- 4 Chant
- 5 Reveal
- 6 Pub brew
- 7 Prohibit
- 8 Furnish with
- 9 income
- 9 Sailor
- 10 Famed canal
- 11 High schooler
- 16 Conceit
- 20 Actress
- 22 Bad car
- 23 Overlook
- 24 Museum content
- 25 Apiece
- 26 Grouchy one
- 27 Festive
- 29 Night before
- 30 Blue
- 35 Slippery one
- 37 Capital of Texas
- 39 "Beau —"
- 40 Lunatic
- 41 Plateau
- 42 Andy's partner
- 43 Smell strongly
- 44 Aura
- 45 Verve
- 46 Terrier type
- 49 Card game
- 50 Yale player

Avg. solution time: 27 min.

Ans. to yesterday's puzzle.

CRYPTOQUIP

HTMW IKLWL VVJTTE MY IVFJTFLVF MEP YV ETT M
SVJLT: EVST WLPT LY KVV.
Yesterday's Cryptoquip: I RECALL THAT OUR LONG-WINDY POLITICIAN WAS A FIGURE OF SPEECH.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: P equals K

Planting still possible for winter grains

By SAM HOSTETTLER
Collegian Reporter

Because of adverse weather conditions in September and October, some farmers were unable to start or finish planting their winter wheat and barley. However, there may still be a chance to obtain a late crop, according to a state extension agronomist.

"The optimum time to plant wheat is between Sept. 10 and Oct. 15," said Jim Shroyer, state extension agronomist. "Due to the weather conditions of the past year, however, the farmers had a tough time meeting this deadline."

"This is not to say that a farmer will not get in a crop if this deadline isn't met. It simply states that these are the best times for farmers to plant their crop so they can get a good yield when they harvest their crop in the summer."

"If a farmer doesn't have his wheat planted by now," Shroyer said, "there may be a yield reduction between 40 percent and 60 percent."

Many farmers planted their wheat in early January and some are still trying to plant now. But later in February most farmers will not plant wheat or will plant another crop, such as spring oats, on the field where they were going to plant the wheat, Shroyer said.

The major reason for farmers to plant wheat in September and October is the crops need a sufficient vernalization period.

"The vernalization period is the cold period requirement that winter crops need to change them from a vegetative stage to the reproductive stage in the spring," Shroyer said. "If the crops don't get this cold period, they won't head out and they won't get as good a yield."

Another reason farmers want to get their crops planted as soon as possible is to avoid the infestation of insects such as greenbugs.

"As late planted crops are beginning to grow, the insects are at their worst," Shroyer said. "Also, leaf diseases may affect the crop. Two of these diseases are leaf rust and stem rust."

Shroyer suggests if the weather won't permit the farmer to plant winter wheat or barley, he shouldn't just let the field lay idle.

"The farmer should always have some sort of cover on the field to avoid wind and water erosion," he said. "If the farmer can't get winter wheat or barley planted, he should try to plant spring oats or barley because they don't require a vernalization period."

"The farmer should get these crops planted as soon as possible — the third week in March at the latest. Get into April and your yields are really shot," he said.

"Also, fertilizer is not cheap, and a farmer will be losing money if he lets the field lay idle without utilizing the applied fertilizer," Shroyer said.

Speedy FREE Delivery

$1.00 OFF ANY SIZE PIZZA

539-4888

"We Pile It On!"

PYRAMID PIZZA

Mark Edmund Moore
President, Pyramid Pizza, Inc.
Expires 2-12-86

With this coupon, receive a duplicate set of prints free when presenting one roll of color print film (C-41 process) for developing and printing at One Hour Moto-Photo. Offer limited to one roll per coupon. Not valid with any other promotion.

Free Extra Set of Prints!

one hour moto-photo

Under the big yellow sign

South of Westloop 776-9030

Get into the fun of it at

Eegee's

Restaurant & Ice Creamery

2 FREE TOPPINGS

from the designer fare when you purchase an Eegee's Burger (1/3 lb., 90% lean, 100% Beef)

M-Fr 11 a.m. till midnight
Sat & Sun 8:30 a.m. till midnight

Expires 2-13-86
537-3999

12th & Laramie
Aggieville

VALUABLE COUPON

- 3 1/2¢ Self service copies
- 3 1/2¢ Self service reductions and enlargements
- 10% Off compact discs
- 20% Off "Lake Wobegon Days"

Clafin Books

Till 8 p.m. Sun.-Fri. till 5 p.m. (With Coupon)

Herb!

BURGER KING

Get a FREE Hamburger when you buy a Double Cheeseburger (59¢ value)

Please present this coupon before ordering. Limit one coupon per customer. This offer expires

Feb. 12, 1986

Good only at Manhattan, Junction City, Salina, Hutchinson, Great Bend

kinko's copies

COUPON

2 for 1 Binding

Good with this coupon/offer expires 2-13-86

UPC Thursday, February 6, 1986 UPC

video

Dance

Free prizes at the door, refreshments, and prizes include awards, 1 shirt, and rock posters

February 8, 9-12m K-State Union
Catskeller $1.00 Admission

Proceeds benefit the J. J. Moore Foundation for Leukemia and Cancer research. Cosponsored by Chevrolet and CBS records.

Birdy

THE POWER OF FRIENDSHIP, THE POWER OF FLIGHT
Today at 3:30 & 7:30 in the Little Theatre
KSU ID required; $1.75; Rated R

k-state union
upc kaleidoscope

Get Involved with the Union Program Council

Applications being accepted for committee chairpersons for:

- UPC President
- UPC Arts
- UPC Eclectic Entertainment
- UPC Special Events
- UPC Outdoor Recreation
- UPC Feature Films
- UPC Kaleidoscope Films
- UPC Travel
- UPC Issues and Ideas
- UPC Promotions

Deadline is 4 p.m. Tomorrow, in the Union Activities Center

k-state union
program council

YES, IT'S BACK!!

The Wizard of Oz
Saturday at 2 p.m.
Sunday at 2 & 7 in Forum Hall
$1.50; KSU ID required; Rated G

k-state union
upc kaleidoscope

RAMBO

FIRST BLOOD PART II

A peaceful mission turns into war, but don't worry, Rambo is there!

Tomorrow & Saturday at 7 & 9:30 in Forum Hall. KSU ID required; $1.75; Rated R

k-state union
upc feature films

GRAND CANYON BACKPACKING

GO HIKE THE CANYON - SPRING BREAK

SIGN-UP:
Starts Tomorrow from 8:30 to 4 p.m. in Activities Center

Info. Meeting Tonight at 6 in Union Rm. 212

$44

k-state union
upc outdoor rec.

With This Coupon

Duran's

Enchilada Dinner - $3.00

Dinner includes free soft drink or draw beer

THE VERY BEST AUTHENTIC MEXICAN CUISINE

Upstairs 1st Bank Center Claflin & Denison 539-9666

Speedy FREE Delivery

Special $6.66 Coupon Offer

Buy a medium single topping & get second topping all for only $6.66

539-4888

"We Pile It On!"

PYRAMID PIZZA

Mark Edmund Moore
President, Pyramid Pizza, Inc.
Expires 2-12-86

T-Shirts
Valentine Underwear

20% OFF

Good til Feb 12, 1986

The Palace

CARDS ♦ GIFTS

704 N. Manhattan In Aggieville

20% OFF

all VALENTINE
merchandise

Good through Feb. 12, 1986

Highfield Cottage

accessories for the home

1205 Moro In Aggieville

Entertainment

Entertainment Plus

The Guthrie Theater will perform Charles Dickens' "Great Expectations" Saturday in McCain Auditorium. See story in Entertainment Plus.

Weather

Cloudy

Cloudy today with a 50 percent chance of snow, high around 30. Mostly cloudy tonight.

Sports

Intramural Action

"Bodies in Motion" defeat the "Schizoidmaniacs" in intramural action Thursday. More sports Page 6.

Kansas State

Collegian

Friday
February 7, 1986

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 92, Number 93

Carlin not finalist for presidency

By The Collegian Staff

Gov. John Carlin, who is barred by the Kansas Constitution from seeking another term as governor when his second term expires in January 1987, is not among the finalists to replace President Duane Acker, the Wichita Eagle-Beacon reported in today's edition.

Carlin, a graduate of K-State, was among 45 semi-finalists for the job, according to a January story published by the Eagle-Beacon. However, Michael Swenson, a spokesman for the governor, said Carlin would reserve comment on the K-State presidency until a replacement is chosen.

The Presidential Search Committee, organized in September 1985, is charged with the task of forwarding to the Kansas Board of Regents a minimum of three and a maximum of five candidates for the position. The regents make the final determination.

Committee Chairman Jerome Frieman, associate professor of psychology, said Thursday that identifying who is no longer a candidate is not of importance.

"The real news is who the board picks. At this point things are still fluid. Things change. Who is third, fourth...or ninth? How many? Who? That all changes," Frieman said. "What's fixed is that we will arrive at three, four or five names."

In October 1985, the 15-member committee unanimously approved a presidential "position description" — which contains statements of qualifications and responsibilities of a K-State president — that said candidates "should possess scholarly academic credentials" and that "an earned doctorate or appropriate terminal degree is desirable."

Since Acker announced June 27, 1985, that he would make his resignation effective one year later, speculation has surfaced that Carlin, a 1962 graduate with a bachelor of science degree, might be interested in succeeding Acker.

A month later, Carlin confirmed that the presidency was among job possibilities he might consider when his term as governor expires. Carlin said at the time that he was "not closing the door on any option that might come up after my term ends."

During a committee meeting last year, committee member Charles Reagan, professor of philosophy and Faculty Senate president said, "I can't imagine us considering a person who had not stepped foot on a campus after getting an undergraduate degree."

The committee has set a personal deadline of March 1 for completion of its work. The regents will probably select the new president in late March, according to the timetable set by the committee.

Carlin was speaker of the Kansas House from 1977-79 and was a state legislator from 1971 until his election as governor. He served as chairman of the National Governors' Association in 1984-85 and was vice chairman the year before.

Staff/Jeff A. Taylor

A small crowd gathers to hear student body president candidates debate Thursday in the Union Courtyard. The debate, sponsored by the Union Programs Council Issues and Ideas Committee, gave students the opportunity to hear the views of the candidates.

Presidential candidates address campus issues

By VICKI REYNOLDS
Campus Editor

Recruitment, retention of students and the feasibility of the proposed Fred Bramlage Coliseum were the main issues the five student body president candidates addressed during the "Political Forum '86" Thursday in the Union Courtyard.

Nearly 150 people listened as the candidates participated in the forum, sponsored by Union Program Council Issues and Ideas Committee. The five candidates who participated were Kelli Carr, senior in journalism and mass communications; Steve Cashman, junior in marketing; Patty Hipsher, junior in political science; Steven Johnson, sophomore in agricultural economics; and Keith Petracek, junior in electrical engineering.

Petracek opened the forum by outlining the two qualifications he believes are essential in a student body president. One is that the student body president be a qualified student leader. The other qualification stipulates the person be willing and able to work with the administration.

"I see the student body president as having four jobs," Petracek said. "These are as ambassador, communicator, educator and cheerleader."

Carr emphasized the role of the student body president as being "first and foremost a student."

"The student body president is a leader," she said. "The student body president is informed. I am a team member. I'm not a political 'yes man.' I am also not a cure-all. False goals or impossible goals are to be avoided."

Cashman outlined three goals he would pursue if elected student body president. The goals include informing students, soliciting student participation in the recruitment process and starting a class for freshmen to aid in retention.

Cashman also emphasized his concern with student interests.

"I can get nowhere, I cannot be successful and I cannot make K-State greater if I just do what I think ought to be done," he said. "If it's not a concern of yours, it's not a concern of mine."

Johnson reiterated that the main plank of his platform is the emphasis on the student body president as an effective communicator.

"This is essential for the office of student body president," he said. "It takes a lot of cooperation with a lot of groups."

Hipsher said she wants to increase awareness about student issues and work for student benefits.

"Being both responsible and responsive are two important goals for the student body president," Hipsher said.

The candidates also participated in a question-and-answer session when members of the audience asked candidates questions about current campus issues.

Cashman said getting students actively involved in the recruitment process is essential.

"No one's ever asked students as a whole to recruit formally. There are students out there who want to actively help recruit students," Cashman said.

Carr said she believes expanding the ambassador program will aid in student recruitment.

"There are two K-State ambassadors going out and making contact. The position is too thin for two people to hold," Carr said.

Hipsher said the University needs to put greater emphasis on the diversity of its programs in order to attract students.

"K-State doesn't brag as much as it should. We tend to let our reputation speak for itself," she said.

Petracek said the University needs to change its approach in recruitment techniques.

"Where we're recruiting has changed to the urban areas," he said. "We need to change our emphasis in our recruiting efforts."

Johnson addressed the recruitment issue by emphasizing the need to promote all of the University's programs.

"We are a University with a lot of good programs," he said.

Groups petition senate for shares of $700,000

By RENEE BEAUDOIN
Collegian Reporter

Student Senate heard appeals from groups asking for funding from the $700,000 available through the refinancing of existing student bonds at its meeting Thursday evening in the Union Big Eight room.

Groups giving five-minute appeals presentations were agriculture judging teams; KSU Childcare Cooperative; Anderson Hall accessibility; and KSDB-FM.

Steve Ligon, junior in animal sciences and industry, presented a request for $70,000 to fund the ag judging teams. The money would be placed in an endowment account, with the teams using the interest for travel and practice expenses.

"Our funding problem has become quite serious," Ligon said. "Right now we're not getting even a portion of what we need."

Another appeal was for $150,000 for the construction of an elevator to make Anderson Hall accessible for handicapped students.

Since the grade is steep into the building, a ramp up the stairs is not feasible, and either an elevator or a chair lift will be necessary to make the building accessible.

"Anderson Hall is the focal point of this University," said Bruce Cook, junior in business administration. "Anderson Hall is also used as a promotional aid by this university. What do you say to a handicapped student looking at coming to school here who wants to see this famous building?"

"Not one dollar has come to this campus since 1978 to improve accessibility and that is for classrooms only. They will not let us fund Anderson with state money," said Gretchen Holden, coordinator of services for physically limited students.

KSU Childcare Cooperative appealed to senate for $86,182 for expansion of building space and child capacity.

"We have 1,600 students with children under the age of 13 and only capacity for 48 children in Stonehouse and the Early Childhood labs. These facilities have a waiting list of 244 children," said Errol Williams, member of the cooperative's board of directors. "Our need for such a facility is quite great."

With the funding, the child care unit would be able to expand from its present capacity of 90 children to 240 children. It would also be able to add programs to provide infant care and after-school care. The child care unit can now only provide care for children ages 1 to 5.

There are presently six openings for infant care in the city of Manhattan in commercial facilities.

KSDB-FM is requesting $23,600 to help them move up in power so they could serve a larger area.

"We are now in danger of losing our broadcasting privileges and possibly our license if we do not go up in power soon," said Lee Buller, assistant professor of journalism and mass communications. "We are up against the wall on this one."

The station is also planning annual fund-raising events, including on-the-air auctions

See SENATE, Page 7

Filipinos vote in today's election; Aquino calls for end to 'evil rule'

By The Associated Press

MANILA, Philippines — Filipinos cast ballots today to determine whether they will be led by Ferdinand E. Marcos, who has held power for two decades, or Corazon Aquino, whose husband was the president's main political rival until he was assassinated.

The polls opened at 7 a.m. (6 p.m. EST Thursday) for an eight-hour voting day, with counting to begin immediately afterward.

Aquino issued an election eve statement in the form of a prayer: "Deliver us from this evil, this crisis which 20 years of evil rule has brought us." She holds Marcos responsible for Benigno Aquino's death.

Marcos said in his final statement that the election was "not a battle between good and evil." He accuses Aquino of leading the country toward communism.

Regular campaigning ended by law at midnight Wednesday. Marcos supporters predicted he would win with 53 percent of the vote. Aquino said she would need 65 percent to compensate for the fraud and cheating she expected from the president's people.

Cardinal Jaime L. Sin, spiritual leader of the dominant Roman Catholic community, urged people to be orderly and avoid violence. "One little incident, one single spark could ignite a raging fire," he said.

Hundreds of soldiers and riot police guarded the presidential palace Thursday night. Marcos, 68, was to vote in Batac, his hometown 250 miles north of Manila.

Aquino, 53, was voting on her family's sugar plantation, Hacienda Luisita, 70 miles north of the capital in Tarlac province.

The election attracted widespread interest in the United States because of the close political, financial and military relations between the two countries. Both candidates have pledged to retain the strategic U.S. bases located here — Aquino at least until 1991 when the current agreement expires and Marcos beyond that time. U.S. officials have put increasing pressure on Marcos for his failure to quell a growing communist rebel threat and have demanded military, economic and social reforms.

Marcos called the special presidential election more than a year before the end of his current term ended, partly because of American pressure.

American officials made clear that they recognize Aquino as a worthy candidate despite her lack of political experience. Her candidacy was created by the murder of her husband, who was shot to death in August 1983 while being escorted by a military guard from a commercial airliner that brought him home from voluntary exile in the United States.

Marcos said that if he won another six-year term he would establish an advisory council that might include some of his opponents. He also said he would allow peaceful transition if he lost.

See ELECTION, Page 7

Staff/Jeff A. Taylor

Charge it

Myung Kim, junior in architectural engineering, helps a friend charge the battery in his car Thursday afternoon south of Ackert Hall. A light snow fell throughout the afternoon and is expected to continue today.

Briefly

By The Associated Press

INTERNATIONAL

Kennedy meets with Soviet leader

MOSCOW — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy praised Andrei Sakharov at a meeting of the dissident's former scientific colleagues Thursday, then met with Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev.

American cameramen permitted to film initial greetings at the Kremlin said Georgy Arbatov, the Soviet adviser on U.S. affairs, also was present. They said Gorbachev repeated condolences about the explosion of the space shuttle Challenger last week in which seven American astronauts were killed.

Kennedy is on a three-day visit as the guest of the Soviet parliament. His speech to the academy, of which Sakharov still is a member although he now is in internal exile, outlined possible U.S.-Soviet cooperation to overcome the nuclear threat.

He offered the November summit in Geneva between Gorbachev and President Reagan as evidence of "new rays of hope" in super-power relations, and said the two nations "stand on the verge of a decisive breakthrough."

"I also pay tribute here to another eminent Nobel laureate, the first Soviet citizen to receive the Nobel Peace Prize, a member of your academy, Dr. Andrei Sakharov," Kennedy said. "The indispensable value of science is its ability to speak truth to power."

REGIONAL

Explosion at oil facility injures 1

CONWAY — One man was injured Thursday morning in an explosion at the Home Petroleum storage facility on Kansas 56, about a mile east of Conway.

Clair Cordell, 49, of Little River, was listed in stable condition at McPherson Memorial Hospital. A nursing supervisor said he had minor burns to the face and was being kept for observation for possible internal injuries.

Officials said Cordell was the only person in the 30- by 40-foot building when the explosion occurred at 8:03 a.m. Dean Krell, an investigator for the McPherson County sheriff's department, said a number of other people had left the building shortly before the blast.

Anti-abortion group supports bill

TOPEKA — A bill that would require all doctors and health care facilities to file reports with the state on abortions they perform sparked debate before a House panel Thursday between pro- and anti-abortion groups.

Currently, only hospitals are required by law to file the abortion reports but many doctors and private abortion clinics do so voluntarily.

Spokesmen for anti-abortion groups told the House Federal and State Affairs Committee all abortions should be reported — much like death certificates are required to be filed with the state.

In addition, most speakers representing pro-abortion groups said they believe the new reporting requirements are designed to restrict the availability of abortions.

NATIONAL

Navy fails to improve health care

WASHINGTON — The Navy had failed to correct health care problems when a high-ranking officer was assuring Congress the system was improving, Sen. Pete Wilson asserted Thursday.

Wilson, R-Calif., released an internal military document, which he said contradicted with an assessment of Navy health care given to a Senate subcommittee during a public hearing. In the document, the Navy inspector general concluded last October that "very little progress has been made to correct the deficiencies" identified in a 1984 review.

"I am disturbed and angered by this discrepancy," Wilson told a news conference. "Business as usual in military medicine is simply not acceptable."

Wilson said he was demanding an explanation from Navy Secretary John Lehman, but said he had not yet received an answer. A Navy spokesman, Lt. Cmdr. Bill Harlow, said the service did not have an immediate response to Wilson's statements.

Federal court rules on budget cuts

WASHINGTON — A special three-judge federal court said Thursday it will hand down a ruling Friday on the constitutionality of the Gramm-Rudman law that requires a balanced federal budget by 1991.

The decision is to be made public at noon, and no matter what it says, is expected to prompt an appeal to the Supreme Court for speedy review.

The law, passed by Congress in December, was challenged by Rep. Mike Synar, D-Okla., and 11 other members of Congress.

Alan Morrison, who heads a pro-consumer organization affiliated with Ralph Nader, represented the challengers in three hours of arguments before the three-judge panel last month.

PEOPLE

Reagan says he feels young at 75

WASHINGTON — President Reagan celebrated his 75th birthday with prayer and merriment Thursday, saying he is "a little amazed" at the events of his lifetime and still feels young despite a year of health problems and international crises.

The president began his day attending the National Prayer Breakfast at a Washington hotel, where he bowed his head in prayers led by the Rev. Billy Graham and others and listened as Vice President George Bush read greetings from world leaders.

The crowd, estimated at more than 3,200, then serenaded the president with "Happy Birthday."

"I am enormously touched," the president said. "Yes, today is my birthday. Seventy-five years ago I was born in Tampico, Ill., in a little flat above the bank building. We didn't have any other contact with the bank. And here I am sort of living above the store again."

Campus Bulletin

ANNOUNCEMENTS
BLUE KEY applications are available in Anderson 122 and are due by 5 p.m. today.

LITTLE AMERICAN ROYAL: Sign-up will be from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. today in the Union, Weber Hall and Call Hall.

TODAY

TAU BETA SIGMA meets at 7 p.m. in McCain 135.

INTER-VARSITY CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP meets at 6 p.m. at the south doors of the Union.

SATURDAY

NEWMAN will have a Valentine's dance at 8:30 p.m. in the basement of St. Isidore's, 711 Denison Ave.

K-LAIRES: There will be a pick dance from 8 to 10:30 p.m. at Marlatt School with the Wagonwheel Whirlers. Meet at 7:30 p.m. at the south doors of the Union for rides.

BETA SIGMA PSI LITTLE SISTERS: There is a rush party at 8 p.m. at the Beta Sigma Psi house.

SUNDAY

THETA XI LITTLE SISTERS meet for swing dancing at 7 p.m. at the Theta Xi house.

DELTA UPSILON LITTLE SISTERS meet at 9 p.m. at the Delta Upsilon house.

MEENONITE STUDENT GROUP meets at 6:30 p.m. in Union 208.

BETA SIGMA PSI LITTLE SISTERS meet at 9 p.m. at the Beta Sigma Psi house.

PI KAPPA ALPHA LITTLE SISTERS meet at 7 p.m. at the Pi Kappa Alpha house.

K-LAIRES will have a Valentine's dance from 7 to 10 p.m. in the Union K, S and U Rooms.

NEWMAN MINISTRY meets at 7 p.m. in the basement of St. Isidore's, 711 Denison Ave.

Looking Back

20 Years Ago — 1966

A proposal for eliminating traffic congestion at the intersection of Anderson and Marlatt avenues was approved last week by K-State and Manhattan officials. The plan calls for a by-pass to be constructed across the southeast corner of campus to connect Bluemont and Anderson avenues.

10 Years Ago — 1976

A 1951 K-State alumnus, Col. Richard Q. McDonald, has been awarded the Legion of Merit. The award is given to members of the armed forces for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services.

15 Years Ago — 1971

The City Planning Board will continue the public hearing on changing sections of the zoning ordinance at its meeting this week. The board will also give preliminary consideration to rezoning for development of a 70-acre plot of land north of Kimball Avenue and east of K-113.

5 Years Ago — 1981

The prospects of getting state or federal funding assistance for the Manhattan's southern arterial is so bleak that Kansas Sen. Merrill Werts, R-Junction City, said if he were in the shoes of the city officials he would be considering all possible means of local financing.

Compiled from the University Archives

"LAST CHANCE!!!"
to sign up for the Little American Royal
Today is the last day.
Sign up in Call Hall, Union, Weber Hall

T. G. I. F.
Anniversary Month Bar Specials
Brass Rail $1.25 Well High Balls
$1.50 Premium High Balls
Friday, Free Tacos 4-7
537-8440
Across from the Holidome

Dracula
Directed by Pat Fultz
February 7, 8, 14, 15, 21, 22
8:00 p.m.
Manhattan Civic Theatre
11th and Poyntz
Tickets on sale at 7 p.m. each performance night
Adults $4
Students $3
12 & under $2

Brother's
KSU
IN AGGIEVILLE USA
FREE SANDWICH BAR
TGIF WITH US
THE CLOCKS
Feb. 12, Wed.

TONIGHT
Bocker's
"The Spread"
7 kinds of
Hors d'oeuvres
BEER-99¢
Ramada Inn
4-7 p.m.

SUNDAY SUPPER
5:30
(50¢ donation or free if needed)
1021 Denison Ave.
(Look for the two red front doors)
presenting
The Meaning of Sanctuary
with speaker
Mary K. Myer
Sponsored by
CUMENICAL
CHRISTIAN MINISTRIES

ATTENTION, K-STATE BASKETBALL FANS!
At I Can't Believe It's YOGURT!
You "Win" when the WILDCATS "WIN"!
Tomorrow when the Men's Kansas State Basketball team is victorious, we'll help with the treats!
Here's How It Works:
You'll receive the percent off your total purchase that matches the point spread. For instance, if the Wildcats win by 15 points, you'll receive a 15 percent discount. If they win by 30, it'll be 30 percent, etc.
Cheer the Wildcats on to victory tomorrow against Colorado and then come in to celebrate with us!
We now serve Hot Chocolate Floats, Hot Apple Cider, Hot Tea and Hot Coffee!
I Can't Believe It's YOGURT!
Frozen Yogurt Stores
705 N. 11th
Nautilus Towers
Open: 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Daily
Noon-11 p.m. Sunday

LOVE is in the AIR
TAKE YOUR APPEARANCE TO HEART AND MAKE AN APPOINTMENT NOW!
20% OFF
All types of manicures, sculptured nails, nail tips and pedicures.
Special good through Feb. 21, 1986
Valentine's Day is the best excuse this semester to pamper and primp.
Lamaur, Nexxus & Redkin hair care products and Lamaur cosmetics available.
We also offer ear piercing
Beauty Mart
YOUR FULL FASHION SALON
Mon-Fri. 8 a.m. - 8:30 p.m.
Sat. 8 a.m. - 4 p.m.
Sun. 12 p.m. - 6 p.m.
126 Sarber Lane
(street between K-Mart & Wal-Mart) 537-7118

WEEKENDS AT THE CHEF
FRIDAY
Fried Chicken; Spaghetti & Meat Sauce & Salad Bar
ALL YOU CAN EAT - $3.95
SATURDAY
Gourmet Night. No Music, no alcohol, but gourmet dinners at low prices. Prime Rib - $5.95
or
Steak and Shrimp. Also other selections
SUNDAY
Open 8 a.m.-3 p.m. Featuring
Daily Dinners at $3.60 and lower.
Breakfast Served till 1:00 p.m.
The CHEF Cafe
111 S. 4th

Ship recovers tip of fuel tank

By The Associated Press

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — A salvage vessel brought the pointed tip of Challenger's huge fuel tank to port Thursday, and NASA believed it located the shuttle's second rocket booster under the ocean 15 miles from the launch pad.

Public affairs officers for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said privately that sonar soundings indicated the left booster had been located. But, acting under instructions that any statement must be cleared with agency investigators, the spokesmen could not confirm that officially.

The agency's recovery ships have been concentrating on an area 35 miles offshore where they believe the right booster lies under 1,100 feet of water. But, spokesmen cautioned, the soundings can't be validated until robot submarines photograph the wreckage.

In any case, it will be days, if not weeks, after positive identification before either of the heavy rocket casings can be raised by Navy salvage crews. Some engineers said privately they fear the casings may be broken into pieces and scattered on the ocean floor.

The finding of the fuel tank tip was a different matter. News photographs showed sailors on the USS Preserver, a World War II Navy salvage ship out of Little Creek, Va., lifting the tip of the fuel tank's cone from one deck to another.

On liftoff, the 154-foot tank contained more than a half-million gallons of supercold liquid hydrogen and liquid oxygen. When it exploded, 73 seconds into the flight, the fuel turned into a fireball of white and orange, and tons of shuttle debris fell into the ocean.

The crew of seven was killed. Although some human remains have been found since the Jan. 28 accident, NASA has refused to say whether the remains have been identified as those of any of the astronauts.

In the search, NASA is using four ships that are normally employed to recover the spent boosters when they fall away from the shuttle after two minutes of flight.

At least two of the ships returned to port Thursday, a cloudy and windy day, to be outfitted with different equipment. The Coast Guard was using six planes and six ships to search a huge slice of the east coast from Cape Canaveral to Cape Lookout, N.C.

NEW TALENT

RON HOFFMAN photography

NEW TALENT

SUSAN OVIATT watercolor

NEW TALENT

MARIA SALAS ceramics

Reception for the artists Friday, Feb. 7, 5-7 p.m.

STRECKER GALLERY

332 Poyntz 539-2139

NEW VCR OWNERS

17¢

MOVIE RENTALS

That's right. If you've purchased a new VCR in the past 60 days, from any store, just show us the receipt and you can get 12 National Video Movie Rentals movie rental certificates, for just $1.99. That means you can see any movie for less than 17¢.

NATIONAL VIDEO

OPEN DAILY

1123 Westloop

537-0089

ALL YOU CAN EAT

Sunday Night

Pan Fried Chicken and Spaghetti

with mashed potatoes, salad bar and veg.

just $3.95

along a long

17th Anderson RAMADA INN

COME IN AND TRY

PIÑATA RESTAURANTE!

COUPON

$1 OFF Regular price $3.10

SMOTHERED BURRITO One coupon per visit

Offer good through 2-16-86 only at Piñata Restaurante, 1219 Bluemont, in Aggieville 539-3166

American Heart Association

WE'RE FIGHTING FOR YOUR LIFE

CHARLIE'S

NEIGHBORHOOD BAR

T.G.I.F.

$195 Pitchers

25¢ ham sandwiches 3:30-5

Amateur DJ Night (Inquire at Charlie's)

SATURDAY

Bud Light Cup Night

50¢ refills of Bud Light with any 16 oz. cup

Guest appearance by BUD LIGHT DAREDEVILS

TGIF WITH US!

Free Popcorn or Homemade Onion Rings with Pitcher! 2-6:00

$2.75 Pitchers All Weekend!

KITE'S BAR AND GRILL

RUSHWATERS

THE FUNSHIRERS

Crawl out from under the books and join us for Free Hors d'oeuvres

Old time rock and roll and don't forget the Monday night Comedy Invasion.

TGIF!

Carol Lee Donut Shop now has limited delivery service available for living groups, residence halls, or any special event where you just want-

A LOT OF DONUTS!!

—Call Now For Further Details

776-7529

Carol Lee Donuts 1812 Claflin (1st Bank Center)

STEPPIN' OUT WEEKENDS

THE COTTON CLUB

FRIDAYS

- TGIF
- Celebrity Bartender
- Reservations Accepted
- Live Piano Bar

SATURDAY

- Open for Lunch in HP's
- Prime Rib Special

SUNDAY

- Sunday Buffet Only $5.25 11-1:30

OUR HOT NEW PHILLY IS STACKED WITH STEAK,

COMES WITH A FREE PEPSI!

AND TASTES BETTER WITH THIS COUPON.

A Philly is sizzling Choice steak grilled in onions, mushrooms, green peppers and melted cheese all lovingly piled onto six inches of our famous Sub & Stuff bun. It's certain to cause cravings for a medium ice-cold Pepsi®. So bring in this coupon before Feb. 28, 1986. When this offer stops sizzling.

Sub & Stuff Sandwich Shop

One coupon per visit, please. 12th & Moro Aggieville

VOTE FOR

KEITH PETRACEK

For Student Body President

"A K-STAT FOR A BETTER UNIVERSITY"

February 11 & 12

Paid for by K-Staters For Petracek

"Her loveliness I never knew until she smiled at me."

Henry Hartley

Smile enhancement by the professionals

Teeth cleaning from $20

SAGER DENTAL ASSOCIATES, P.A.

514 Humboldt Plaza Hygiene Department 913-537-8823

Editor: David Svoboda
Associate Editor: Lillian Zier
News Editor: Patty Reinert
Managing Editor: Jeri Heidrick

Editorial Page Editor: Tim Carpenter
Photo/Graphics Editor: Chris Stewart
Advertising Manager: Lori Wong
Director/News Adviser: Dave Adams

Editorial Board: David Svoboda, Tim Carpenter, Melissa Brune, Rich Harris, Jeri Heidrick, Steve Milligan, Patty Reinert, Vicki Reynolds, Eric Rhodenbaugh, Tammy Rickerson, Catherine Saylor, Tom Schultes, Richard Thorp, Jonie Trued, Lillian Zier.

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 020) is published by Student Publications, Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods. OFFICES are in the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 532-6555. Newsroom phone number is 532-6556; display advertising, 532-6560; and classified advertising 532-6555. SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: $40, calendar year; $35, academic year; $20, semester; $10, summer term. Address changes should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

Coliseum supporters victimize University

"Bait and switch" is a favorite — and illicit — tactic of unscrupulous salesmen. This scam consists of getting the interest of the buyer by showing him an incredibly good deal and then, because that deal is no longer available and actually never was, switch the customer to a drastically inferior product.

Doing this creates a great psychological burden on the customer who has already made the commitment to buy. That is why this "sales technique" was outlawed.

The K-State community has been similarly victimized. We — students, faculty, alumni, friends and supporters — were sold a quality coliseum: 15,000 plus seats, quality wiring, sufficient restrooms, broad multi-purpose uses, the athletic department picking up $2 million of the cost.

What we are expected to accept is something else all together. The proposed Fred Bramlage Coliseum has 13,500 seats of lower quality. Several attempts to critically reduce the quality of the building materials have been narrowly avoided thanks to the watchful eye of Kansas Board of Regents architect Warren Corman.

The restroom and concession situation are at best marginally better than at Ahearn Field House. The purposes that made the coliseum "multi-purpose" are dropping one by one. Finally, the athletic department has had to get a line of credit from the KSU Foundation.

Student Senate has proven ineffectual, by its nature, in forcing a much-needed reevaluation of the coliseum project. Luckily for the University community there is hope, albeit from unexpected sources, President Duane Acker and Warren Corman.

These men have the power to bring the coliseum back to reality and they have recently indicated a willingness to do so.

Yet, for those who have recognized the coliseum for the monstrosity it is, this is no time to rejoice. The coliseum gets its life-force from people who display the symptoms of demonic possession whenever the subject is discussed.

They are driven to build a coliseum — regardless of cost, regardless of how shoddily constructed, regardless of any intrusion on reality — just build! As a result the coliseum has more resilience than Jason of "Friday the 13th" fame.

Richard Thorp,
for the editorial board

Legislation could aid retention, enrollment

A proposal to change residency requirements for enrollment at Kansas educational institutions could significantly aid retention and recruitment at the University.

The Kansas House Ways and Means Committee recommended passage of a bill that would lower residency requirements from a year to six months to be eligible for payment of in-state tuition at state universities.

Anyone who builds a home in the state, or is recruited or transferred to the state by an employer may be considered an in-state resident under the legislation.

The state will not lose money by charging less out-of-state tuition. It will, in fact, gain money through additional enrollment. Students will be encouraged to come to Kansas to attend college if they can afford tuition.

Increased enrollment would not only benefit the state economy through revenue; it would also boost the image of the state's universities nationwide. Kansas educational institutions have good reputations, but with higher retention and enrollment their reputations could be even better.

The bill stands an excellent chance of passage in the House, said Rep. Vern Williams, R-Wichita, who drafted the bill. Legislators should support the bill for the good of the state's image.

The bill is supported by the Associated Students of Kansas, the Kansas Board of Regents, the Chamber of Commerce and Industry and the Department of Economic Development. Let's show additional support from University faculty and students by expressing interest in this bill.

Lillian Zier,
for the editorial board

Editorial

Friday, February 7, 1986 — 4

Name makes difference in politics

WASHINGTON — First, a confession and then a boast. For all the years I have been writing about politics, I have never been able to establish a steady source of leaks. That puts me at a terrible disadvantage compared to the other political columnists, and deprives you, the readers, of the good, juicy, insider stuff you love.

Now the good news: For the 1986 campaign year, I have signed a contract for exclusive leaks from Padraic Cardwell, one of the nation's top pollsters and public psychologists. Padraic the Magician as he is known, is a man who can transform an unemployed ex-governor or a second-rate senator into presidential material. Today's memo is the first of several scheduled leaks from the Master of Media Manipulation you will be reading exclusively in this space. It was sent last week to New York Gov. Mario M. Cuomo:

Dear Mario:

You asked me how I think you came out of last week's fight about prejudice against Italian-Americans and other ethnic groups. Frankly, you blew it.

I can understand your getting sore when Brand X (another political column) said your candidacy for the 1988 Democratic nomination could run into problems in the South because there aren't "any Marios" down in Dixie. You got all puffed up and said that it showed how much some bigots hate people with vowels at the end of their names.

That response is bad politics because it is based on sloppy analysis. Our research shows the American people are very tolerant of vowels and are indifferent to their placement in the name. The critical factor in determining how well you (or any other other candidate) will do in the presidential race is not the number of vowels, but the ratio of consonants to vowels — what we call the C-factor.

We have just completed the most sophisticated study ever done on voter

DAVID BRODER
Syndicated Columnist

reaction to candidate names. In oversimplified terms, vowels connote softness and compassion, while consonants (with their hard edges) suggest strength and decisiveness. Each letter has its own relative weight, but you don't need to know the details. What you must understand is that people want a good C-factor in their leader, and his name is where they look for it.

My computer whiz has run all of the presidential matchups back to the Civil War, and in all but three races, the candidate with the better C-factor balance of consonants to vowels has won. The exceptions came in times of scandal, recession or war.

The bad news, governor, is that no candidate with a C-factor of less than 620 has ever been elected. The name by which you're now known, Mario Cuomo, has six vowels and only four consonants — a fatal 400 C-factor.

We've been gaming several possible strategies here. We considered having you change your name. One of our more literary guys suggested Martin Chuzzlewit (to cash in on the Dickens craze.) That's got a C-factor of more than 700 and bonus points for the double-Z. It should be a winner, but considering the trouble Gary Hart had in 1984 with his name change, we decided not to recommend it.

There's a safer and better way to deal with the problem. We have to change your moniker, without changing your legal name. How? By using our heads — and your initials.

Your great predecessor in Albany did not get elected president four times as Franklin Delano Roosevelt. He was FDR — with an unbeatable C-factor of 1,000.

Lyndon Baines Johnson won his landslide when the country went "All the Way with LBJ" — another 1,000 C-factor. John F. Kennedy couldn't even get on the ticket until he became JFK: C-factor 1,000. In our own time, Ronald Reagan (C-factor 585) might have lost to Walter Mondale, but when Reagan became the Gipper (four hard consonants, including the powerful double-P, bracketing two of the quiet vowels, for a C-factor of 810), Mondale was finished.

What I'm getting to is that as quickly as possible, we want to reintroduce you to the public, not as Mario Cuomo, but as MC.

There's no historical precedent for a two-initial tag catching on, but if we are going to save your candidacy, we've got to take risks.

Opening strategies we suggest are these: All buttons, billboards and literature for the re-election campaign will include the line, MC for Me. We will get a ghostwriter to do a book with Cuomo to be titled, "Me and MC."

We will look for events where you can appear in a tuxedo, to strengthen the identification of you as being in the great Bert Parks-Ronald Reagan tradition.

I don't think I have to tell you the importance of keeping this memo and the outlined strategy confidential.

Yours, Padraic.

ANYONE MAY submit a guest column offering an opinion on a topic of public interest. Columns should be about two double-spaced typewritten pages. Individuals submitting a column will be asked to show identification and have a picture taken. The Collegian reserves the right to reject any material or edit it.

EAT ALL YOUR RICE, RAMU...REMEMBER THERE ARE THOUSANDS OF FARM CHILDREN GOING HUNGRY IN KANSAS...

Letters

State forgets role

Editor,

As a student of history, I am constantly amazed by certain political ironies; for example, how the Republicans, claiming to be the party of Lincoln, can, in all conscience, oppose sanctions on South Africa.

We in Kansas have forgotten the role this state played in the vital struggle for black emancipation and civil and political rights. This state was forged 125 years ago as a monument to the Free State cause. As the Missouri Republican wrote on August 31, 1856, "Lane (James H. Lane of Kansas) is said to be bold and defiant, and to proclaim that he is making war against the proslavery party — a war that he intends to keep up until the last man of the party is killed or driven off."

Lane spoke for the Kansans of his day. Now our representatives, in the name of Kansas, unabashedly proclaim that the Republican Party of today has become the pro-slave party — make no mistake, the condition of blacks in South Africa is one of slavery. Moreover, there is more than a remote connection between apartheid in South Africa and the unfinished crusade for civil and economic equality in the United States.

It may not be a case of racism, although that is implied. It is, however, clearly a case of the Republican Party in this state abandoning the moral high ground of the founders of the party. Lloyd Lewis, in a speech titled, "The Man the Historians forgot," said of Lane, the father of Kansas Republicanism: "There was a larger class that wanted Lane out of History — the well-born and well-fed. Lane was for the masses, the rag tag and bob tail, so the conservatives did not admire him."

Those who are genuinely conservative want to conserve what Kansas stood for — freedom, equal opportunity, and democracy. Rather than accept things as "business as usual" the people of this state should be like Jim Lane, bold and defiant, and insist that their representatives actually represent their best interests. To do otherwise is to forget history and worse, to make a mockery of the mission of this great nation and in so doing, surrender our rights as citizens.

Matt M. Matthews
senior in history

Support child care

Editor,

Where is K-State going? Are we going to meet our future needs? Did you know that there are more and more older adults returning to school with children? The numbers of these types of students are increasing yearly. K-State has a chance to attract more of these students now that the co-op is in existence. We are hoping to incorporate the special needs of a college into our programs.

All students, with or without children, must help the KSU Child Care Cooperative in its effort to gain support from Student Senate for a portion of the $700,000 made available by bond refinancing. We are trying to fill a vital need that exists at K-State and we need help to fulfill that need.

Did you know that 80 percent of the children attending the co-op are children of students? Our facility is open to anyone affiliated with the K-State community. We, as students, paid the $700,000 originally. Now we can have a real say in how it is spent! Wouldn't you rather see the money spent on something that would help the future students at K-State in an area where there is really need than on something that has nothing to do with students? I would!

For those students who don't yet have children, one day you may be in a position to return to school to further your education, whether you're seeking a higher degree or because you may have dropped out earlier.

Whatever the reason, you find yourself wanting to go back to college, but who will take care of your children?

We have plans to eventually be open in the evenings for those students taking evening classes, and on weekends when extra study time is needed. We are open as long as K-State is open. How many other day-care facilities can boast that in Manhattan? Students, parents, we need your help! The vote on this vital issue is fast approaching. Contact your senators now! Go to the senate meetings to help us mold the future of K-State!

Paula Cochran
junior in information systems/business

'If I should die...'

Editor,

Paragon's "If I Should Die..." offended me. When I saw it I was expecting a show that would help me cope with the death of loved ones, and help me face my own death with courage and dignity. I, like many others went in order to hear what I wanted to hear.

But instead death was shown to be what it really is — a gruesome reality. This is not what I wanted to see, but it is something we all have to face one day. Ask anyone who has come into contact with death — it is a terrible thing. But God in His infinite love for us has abolished death through His son Jesus Christ.

"If I Should Die..." shook me, it made my own mortality a reality; it made me uncomfortable. But it made me think, and showed me that God has power over death. I first saw this show over Christmas break in Dallas. When I heard it was coming to K-State I fully promoted and supported it. If the promotion of this show misled anyone, I hope you will accept my apology. If the show offended anyone or shook anyone, I can honestly say I understand.

Mary Nicoll
sophomore in horticulture

City removes Aggieville parking meters

By JEFFREY J. BIELSER
Collegian Reporter

Shoppers in Aggieville don't have to "feed" the parking meters anymore — they have been removed.

The Manhattan City Commission recently voted to remove meters, replacing them with two-hour parking limits for on-street and public parking lots.

The exception in the Aggieville district is the public lot on the northwest corner of 12th and Laramie streets, which has a three-hour limit.

The ordinance, which went into effect Jan. 28, also prohibits parking from 3 to 6 a.m. on the following streets: Moro Street from 11th Street to Manhattan Avenue; North 12th Street from Laramie Street to Bluemont Street; the south side of old Anderson Avenue cutoff, the one-way street running eastward along

Ordinance imposes new parking limits

the north side of Varney's Book Store to North Manhattan Avenue; and the east side of North Manhattan Avenue from Laramie Street to Bluemont Avenue.

The reason for the no-parking restrictions during these times is to allow street maintenance.

Lt. Allen Raynor, night commander for the Riley County Police Department, said the regulations are "difficult to enforce" because "meter officers work basically daylight hours."

He said he didn't know if the police officers on patrol in Aggieville after 6 p.m. would "patrol for compliance or not."

"The fear in removing parking meters (in the downtown area) was that employees would take spots from customers," said Tom Whalen, director of operations for the Manhattan Chamber of Commerce.

He said the Aggieville Business Association "made it clear" that owners and employees should not park in front of their own stores.

Jim Schottler, president of the Aggieville Business Association, said the association had been working on removal of the parking meters "off and on for about a year." He said the removal was part of a plan to unify the entire Aggieville district.

Schottler said the removal of the meters would help create a turnover of customers.

"Some customers thought shopping in Aggieville was inconvenient because of the meters," he said.

Schottler said the loss of revenue from the parking meters would even out with an increase in customers.

Revenue from the parking meters was about $20,000 per year said Bruce McCallum, city director of public works, adding the request to remove the meters was "more or less an image deal."

MANHATTAN SHOE REPAIR

25% OFF
RUBBER OVERSHOES IN STOCK
DURING THE MONTH OF
FEBRUARY

Open daily 8-5:30, Saturday 8-4
Open Thursdays to 8
Drive-Up Convenience

The following couples have registered their bridal needs

Alice Everett

&

David Haines

&

Lori Goering

&

Michael Tortorice

&

Beth Hughes

&

Jerry Holm

&

Kaylynn Ireland

&

Magdi Azer

&

Lynne Jackson

&

Eddie Elder

&

Martha Keil

&

Chuck Scott

&

Susan Paden

&

Brady Tinker

&

Jan Poelma

&

Bryan Crowover

&

Deanna Rodlund

&

Mike Mejia

&

Barbara Rogers

&

Charles Kincaid

&

Teri Zentz

&

Ronny Berry

&

Beth Barker

&

Jeff Paine

&

Lynne Sharline

&

Paul Cefalo

Let us help select a gift for these couples and we will gladly gift wrap it free

1205 Moro St.

In Aggieville

Dairy Queen Royal Treat Weekly Specials Mon. Thru Fri.

THIS WEEK
DOUBLE DELIGHT 99¢

12th and Moro
in Aggieville

1015 N. 3rd
Manhattan

Prices good thru 2-9-86

FISH 2 FOR $1.00

Glow lite tetra

Black Molly

10 gallon Tank set-up $24.98

Black or White Gerbils $3.98

All Hamsters $1.98

African Grey Parrot

$199.98

Orange Wing Amazon

$199.98

White eyed Conure

$45.98

Nandy Conure

$35.98

GREEN THUMB

Open Monday Thru
Saturday 8 to 5:30
Sunday Noon to 5:30

"Across from ALCO"

KENNEDY'S CLAIM - J.D.'S STEAKHOUSE

FEBRUARY ANNIVERSARY

Daily Dining Specials

Monday: Veal Marsala.....$8.95

Tuesday: Beef Roll on Rice Pilaf...$7.95

Wednesday: BBQ Ribs (All You Can Eat) $6.95

Thursday: Steak Diana.....$10.50

Friday: 16 oz. T-Bone.....$10.95

Saturday: Sole Monterey.....$9.25

(All dinners include Salad Bar and Potato)

Sunday: All You Can Eat

Family Style Chicken.....$4.95

Spaghetti With Meat sauce.....$3.95

(includes salad)

537-8440

Across From The Holidome

JOHNSON

STUDENT BODY
PRESIDENT.

Paid for by Students for Johnson

The Backdoor's Open Again!

Say "Hi" To Nina and get a Free Donut Hole
Swanson's Bakery

225 Poyntz
776-4549

Backdoor Hours
Mon.- Sat. 9:30 p.m.-1 a.m.

VOTE

Roger McClellan

Ag Council President

Paid for by students for McClellan

A 26-minute, multi-media history of rock 'n' roll from the 50's through the 80's.

Sponsored by: U.P.C. Feature Films

Monday, February 10, at 7, 8, 9, 10 p.m., Forum Hall

FREE ADMISSION — Look for the Kodak Photo Exhibit in the Union

Don't miss Kodak's Rock and Roll Time Tunnel at the Plaza Hotel

Daytona Beach, Florida, March 11-29, 1986

SOUND SUPPLIED BY BOSE

SPONSORED BY KODAK

Up in arms

Shelley Woodard, of "Bodies in Motion," blocks out two members of the "Schizoidmaniacs" while going for a loose ball during co-recreational intramural action Thursday at the Chester E. Peters Recreation Complex. "Bodies in Motion" defeated the "Schizoidmaniacs," 59-11.

Staff/Steve Rasmussen

NCAA gets tough on grades

Do universities use student athletes and spit them out when they are done with their athletic abilities? Many would say yes. Most schools admit student-athletes whom would not normally be admitted due to sub-par academic records. Do these individuals' physical abilities excuse their lack of book knowledge?

Many on the other side of the issue would say yes to this. Even though every school might admit under-qualified student-athletes, the admittance of these individuals offers them a chance to succeed.

The National Collegiate Athletic Association's passing of Proposition 48 will strengthen academic admittance requirements for incoming freshman recruits.

The NCAA has decided that an athlete must be better academically skilled than previously required to compete in his/her sport. This decision will inevitably have devastating effects upon the lives of many who have always relied on their physical skills to get by.

University of Georgia President Fred C. Davison is testifying at a law suit by a former Georgia employee who claims she was fired from teaching in a remedial studies program for protesting preferential treatment of athletes.

In his testimony, Davison said student-athletes are often admitted when they normally wouldn't be, but that the athlete benefits from this more than the university.

"Every student that comes to the university benefits by being there," Davison said. "If an individual

Tim Fitzgerald
Assistant
Sports Editor

learns only how to communicate better, that is some justification."

Point well taken. What good could possibly come to an athlete by being denied the chance at additional education when a lack of knowledge is his/her shortcoming?

The chance to continue competing in athletics and gain additional education — no matter how little the individual might gain — is certainly better for the person than turning them loose in society with a lack of proper education.

Davison also said he believes high schools have failed to provide student athletes with a basic education, creating a "subculture" of football and basketball players who have graduated from high school but cannot read.

This "subculture" can only be increased by making academic requirements for incoming athletes more stringent.

The long term goal of the new ruling must be to encourage athletes at the high school level to realize the importance of making the good grade so they might continue in their athletic endeavors.

This is a very noble idea on the part of the NCAA, but how about those two or three years of kids who are stuck in between? These people started high school with one set of rules and must finish with another.

It simply isn't fair the rules of the game have been changed right before some of them were about to become big winners.

By making the new ruling retroactive, the NCAA may have increased the population of the "subculture" to which Davison referred.

If the NCAA had made this rule effective in two or three years, all students would know about it while they can improve their education enough to qualify to compete in NCAA sports.

Instead of making admittance requirements more stringent — denying some kids their only chance to escape from being another member of a "subculture" of losers — the NCAA could have adopted a "learn-to-play" rule. This rule would require the use of the athlete's "red-shirt" year during their freshman year, requiring them to make good grades to continue on in their athletic pursuits.

Society demands quality performance from athletes, so it is only natural athletes should be required to perform in the classroom also. Hopefully, though, by demanding too much too fast from student-athletes, the NCAA hasn't spit out some underqualified young men and women into a society they were only trying to please with their athletic abilities.

Player shortage plagues Lady Cats

By DARAN NEUSCHAFER
Sports Writer

Playing in the Big Eight Conference with only eight players on your roster can sometimes be quite nerve-racking. Besides making it tough to scrimmage in practice, it tends to make things a bit more interesting during games. Just ask K-State women's coach Matilda Mossman.

Last Saturday against Missouri, Mossman was faced with the possibility of not having enough players to finish the game. Four Lady Cat players had four fouls on them with over five minutes remaining. Luckily no one fouled out, and K-State came away with the victory.

Even though it has made things a little rough on the Lady Cats, the team has been able to face the adversity and remain in what now appears to be a dog fight for the conference championship.

K-State must play well the remainder of the season, however, and hopefully beat some people like Kansas and Oklahoma on the road. But first they must get by Colorado tomorrow in Ahearn Field House.

"Colorado just beat Missouri on the road Wednesday night, so that should tell you about the improvement of Colorado," Mossman said. "They are a much more experienced team now than they were when we played them out there."

The Lady Buffs have three starters averaging in double figures and have a major force with their inside game. Tracy Tripp and LeaAnn Banks, besides averaging 13.8 and 11.2 points per game respectively, are both averaging 11.8 rebounds per outing.

"They have some size and power inside, and that could make things a little difficult for us to match up with them," Mossman said.

Colorado is also getting some good play out of its backcourt duo, especially out of freshman Bridgette Turner. Turner, who had a team high 14 points against K-State in the first meeting, is averaging 10.9 points per game and has been doing a good job of running the Lady Buff offense.

GAME NOTES: The Lady Cats game is scheduled to begin at around 3:30 Saturday afternoon, after the conclusion of the men's game... K-State defeated Colorado in an earlier meeting this season.

PROBABLE STARTERS

K-STATE
F Carlisa Thomas, 5-9 (10.5 ppg)
F Amanda Holley, 6-1 (12.3 ppg)
C Sue Leiding, 6-2 (8.5 ppg)
G Susan Green, 5-8 (9.8 ppg)
G Cindy Durham, 6-0 (3.8 ppg)

COLORADO

F Tracy Tripp, 5-9 (13.8 ppg)
F Crystal Ford, 6-2 (7.3 ppg)
C LeaAnn Banks, 6-1 (11.2 ppg)
G Kris Holawarda, 5-10 (5.9 ppg)
G Bridgette Turner, 5-8 (10.9 ppg)

K-State to play 0-7 Buffaloes

By TOM PERRIN
Sports Editor

Colorado comes into Ahearn Fieldhouse Saturday as the only winless team left in Big Eight Conference play, but K-State Coach Jack Hartman still has plenty of respect for the 0-7 Buffaloes.

"We look to every game as a real challenge," Hartman said. "Colorado is a dangerous team because they are looking for their first conference win."

"They have a fine young team. They shoot the ball well and they have a lot of size."

Colorado was a 100-64 loser at Lawrence Wednesday night against Kansas. The Buffaloes have lost their last nine games overall.

K-State broke a four-game Big Eight losing streak Wednesday night at Lincoln against Nebraska, winning 64-54.

Hartman utilized the 3-2 zone defense to hold Nebraska to 34 percent shooting from the field.

"We've used it (the three-two) off and on," Hartman said. "It's been good to us. Sometimes it works better against some teams than others."

The Wildcats' leading scorer, Norris Coleman, broke out of a two-game scoring slump with 26 points on 12 of 20 shooting from the field against the Cornhuskers.

Hartman said he didn't do anything special to help Coleman get back on track.

"Norris had a very good game," Hartman said. "We just kept encouraging him and telling him what he was doing was fine and letting him know nothing was wrong."

Colorado Coach Tom Apke said his team is looking forward to the opportunity to avenge a 77-69 overtime victory by K-State over the Buffaloes Feb. 8 in Boulder.

"We feel like the revenge factor is in our favor since Kansas State beat us in our building earlier in the season," Apke said. "We think we can play better against them than we did in Boulder, and we're looking to play a good game in Manhattan."

Apke is especially concerned about containing Coleman, who burned the Buffaloes for 39 points and 14 rebounds in the first meeting between the teams, as well as Wildcat guards Joe Wright and Benny Green.

"We've got to contain Norris Coleman, and at the same time, limit their guards. They shot the lights out against us in their building last year, so we've got to tighten the screws defensively," he said.

GAME NOTES: Game time is 1:10 Saturday afternoon... With seven games left on the schedule, not counting the Big Eight tournament and possible post-season play, Hartman has a chance to win his 300th game as K-State coach.

PROBABLE STARTERS

K-STATE

F Ben Mitchell, 6-9 (7.4 ppg)
F Norris Coleman, 6-8 (29.7 ppg)
C Ron Meyer, 6-9 (1.1 ppg)
G Benny Green, 6-3 (8.9 ppg)
G Joe Wright, 6-9 (17.9 ppg)

COLORADO

F Torin Williams, 6-9 (12.7 ppg)
F Matt Bullard, 6-10 (12.7 ppg)
C Randy Downs, 6-9 (13.7 ppg)
G Mike Reid, 6-1 (8.4 ppg)
G Michael Lee, 6-4 (11.1 ppg)

Friday—Saturday—Sunday
We'll honor any local pizza
coupon!

Falsetto's
539-3830

Auntie
Mac's Parlor

T.G.I.F.
Friday Specials
$1.25 House Drinks
75¢ Draws
$1.00 Schnapps
SATURDAY
PRE-GAME PARTY
OPENS at 11:00 a.m.
with
$1.00 Bloody Marys
$1.00 Screwdrivers
$1.00 Schnapps
$1.25 Tonic Drinks

This Weekend
Come to where the party is

616 N 12th 539-9967

TAKE CARE OF YOUR VCR

STEREO FACTORY

1126 Moro 776-5507

MONT BLUE APARTMENTS
Studio, one, and two bedroom apartments and town houses.

Close to Campus
Phone 539-4447

Again, on Sundays we're accepting
all valid coupons for free drinks!

Godfather's Pizza.
Dine in—carryout only
1118 Laramie 539-5303

Get a large (1 topping) Thin Crust
Pizza for $5.99 OR a large (1 topping)
Original Crust Pizza for $6.99

(You can always order extra toppings for a small additional charge)
Dine-in, Carryout or Delivery—(Add $1 For Delivery)
Limit one pizza per coupon. Please present coupon before ordering or upon delivery. Not valid with any other offer. Good only at participating Godfather's Pizza restaurants. Price does not include tax.
Expires 2-28-86
No cash value. Limited delivery area.

HUNAM FREE DELIVERY HUNAM
Restaurant 11 a.m.-1 a.m. EXPRESS
1304 Westloop 539-8888 1116 Moro
(10% Off w/KSU ID) 537-0886 (Egg Roll & Fried Rice 99¢)

K-State Union Program Council Special
Events Committee Proudly Presents
The HARLEM
GLOBETROTTERS
Tuesday, Feb. 11, 1986
7:30 p.m.
Ahearn Field House
All seats reserved
Tickets: $9 & $8
($2 discount available for students with valid KSU ID, Sr. Citizens, children under 12, and groups of 25 or more)
Tickets available now at the following locations:
K-State Union Box Office, open 10-4
Aggie Ski & Sport, 10-5:30 p.m.
For more ticket information, call 532-6571.
k-state union
special events

Daredevils to entertain K-State fans

By MARIBETH GOTTSCHALK
Staff Writer

Hang on to your hats, K-State Wildcat fans, the Bud Light Daredevils are here!

The Daredevils, a four-member gymnastics team, including former K-State yell leader, Brad Bromich, will perform an eight-minute acrobatic slam dunk routine during halftime at the K-State vs. University of Colorado basketball game, 1:10 p.m. Saturday in Ahearn Field House.

Ty Cobb, former University of Mississippi yell leader and Daredevil team member, began the team three years ago.

While cheering at "Ole Miss," Cobb would do acrobatic dunks, and his routine began to catch on. That is when Cobb decided to turn it into a profession, Bromich said.

The team also consists of Cobb's brother, Guy, also a former "Ole Miss" yell leader, and Evan Elliott, who cheered at North Texas State University in Denton.

Since beginning its tour in September 1985, the team has done nearly 70 shows in the United States, has traveled throughout Europe and Japan and has performed at National Basketball Association, National Collegiate Athletic Association and Continental Basketball Association games.

The Daredevils perform about 10 different combination dunks during a game. They always have a special performance during a timeout in the first half, Bromich said.

Bromich said being a member of the team has given him the chance to see the world and meet people from all walks of life.

"After a lot of practice, it feels good to get out in front of a crowd and put on a show that people enjoy," he said.

Election

Continued from Page 1

Aquino pledged to give Marcos the justice she says he did not give her husband, and to lead nationwide demonstrations if she lost.

A 20-member American observer team led by Sen. Richard Lugar, R-Ind., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations committee, and Rep. John Murtha, D-Pa., came here at Marcos' invitation.

The election commission ruled that members of the team could visit voting stations, but other observers and foreign journalists could not approach within 50 feet.

Senate

Continued from Page 1

to help to offset their expenses. Senate also heard a bill which would require that any noneducational fees be presented to the student body for a referendum.

"This vote will take place during the enrollment and fee payment process and will be held at least one semester prior to the proposed semester of the fee increase/decrease," the bill states.

Senate has also decided to set up an ad hoc committee to gain student input concerning the viability of the proposed athletic fee.

Classifieds

ANNOUNCEMENTS 01

MARY KAY Cosmetics—Color awareness, products, and free facial. Anna Prochaska, 1001 Bluemont, 537-4246. (89-91)

ATTENTION 02

FLYING INTEREST? Check into K-State Flying Club. Call Steve Dyer at 532-5600 or 537-0458. (61f)

SPRING BREAK on the beach at South Padre Island, Daytona Beach, Fort Lauderdale, Fort Walton Beach or Mustang Island/Port Aransas from only $89, and skiing at Steamboat or Vail from only $89! Deluxe lodging, parties, goodie bags, more... Hurry, call Sunchase Tours for more information and reservations toll free 1-800-321-5911 or contact a local Sunchase Representative today! When your Spring Break counts... count on Sunchase. (80-109)

HEE'S ALTERATIONS—Suits, coats, jeans, zippers and all types of alterations. 1125 Laramie Plaza, Aggieville. Monday thru Friday, 10 a.m.-5:30 p.m.; Saturdays, 10 a.m.-4 p.m. 776-7959. (87f)

SKI SPRING Break—Breckenridge, Keystone, and Copper Mountain. March 9-10 and 11 only $220. Price includes transportation, lodging, ski rental and lift tickets. For information, call 537-2995. (83-108)

FOR RENT—MISC 03

COSTUMES—FROM gorilla suits to Hawaiian leis. Makeup, wig, periodical clothing, masks, grass skirts, all occasions available. Treasure Chest, Aggieville. (28f)

SEE MARIE for all your costume needs. If I don't have it, I'll make it for you. Marie's Costumes, 17th and Humboldt, 539-5200. Parking in the rear. (90f)

FOR RENT—APTS 04

FOR AUGUST—Deluxe two bedroom furnished apartment, across the street from Ford Hall. 539-2482 after 4:00 p.m. (92-102)

THREE BEDROOM available now. Utilities paid. Call Barbara, 537-1329. (83-98)

ONE OR two bedroom—Reasonable, one block to campus, available now. Call Barbara, 537-1329. (83-98)

EFFICIENCY APARTMENT, $185/month, heat, gas, water included. Call 537-7794 evenings and weekends. (84-93)

WE HAVE studio, one, two, and three bedroom apartments available now. All prices. Call 537-1210 or 537-4244. (87f)

NEXT to campus—Leasing for fall, across from Mariatt and Goodnow. Furnished two or one bedroom, central air, carpeting, fully equipped kitchen, balcony, off street parking. 539-2702, evenings, weekends. (88-98)

NEXT to campus—Leasing for fall, across from Haymaker, overlooking campus. Two bedroom, fireplace, central air, carpeting, fully equipped kitchen, balcony, laundry facility, off street parking. 539-2702, evenings, weekends. (88-98)

BRAND NEW three bedroom. One and one-half baths, near campus. Available May, June or August. $480/month. Call 537-8800. (89f)

1530 MCGAIN Lane, overlook to campus—Luxury two bedroom, fireplace, modern appliances, laundry facilities. Available August 1. Call 537-7980 or 537-7810. (89-93)

1207 KEARNEY or 1214 Vattier—Almost new three bedroom, laundry facilities. Available August 1. Call 537-2255 or 537-7810. (89-93)

913 BLUEMONT—Brand new three bedroom building available May 15. Call 537-7980 or 537-7810. (89-93)

PLAN FOR the summer and the 1986-87 school year. McCullough Development Inc. is now accepting applications for summer and fall leases. Call us, we manage over 300 university area apartments. 776-3804. (89f)

KIDS, PETS, waterbeds negotiable. Close to campus, one and two bedrooms, $225-360. Joe, 539-0908; Dick, 537-1109. (90-93)

APARTMENTS FOR next school year and June. Two bedroom, 1212 Thurston, $300. Call 539-5059 evenings. (91-95)

AVAILABLE IMMEDIATELY—Furnished one bedroom apartment, one block from Ahearn. Call 776-9124. (91-108)

NEAR KSU for August—Four to five bedroom house at 312 North 15th Street, $560 per month. Also two bedroom newly remodeled furnished basement apartment. Heat, water, trash paid, laundry facilities. $275 per month. 539-2482 after 4 p.m. (92-96)

BRAND NEW deluxe two, three and four bedroom apartment complexes for fall. All close to campus, reasonably priced. Call 537-2919. (93-115)

NICE ONE, two, three and four bedroom apartments and houses. Also an elegant five bedroom house with three baths. Most near campus, available now, summer and fall. Good prices. Call 537-2919. (93-115)

FURNISHED ONE bedroom duplex. Move in immediately! No pets or smokers. Call 537-2811. (93-97)

FOR RENT—HOUSES 05

BEST DEAL in town—Now taking waiting list applications. Prairie Glen Townhouses, 776-4786. (79-93)

THREE BEDROOM home, 1523 Fairchild, available now. Call Barbara, 537-1329. (83-98)

HOUSES for next school year, three, four, six and eight bedroom. Block west of campus. 539-5059 evenings. (91-95)

SEVERAL THREE, four, and five bedroom houses for June occupancy. Clean and good condition guaranteed. $395 and up. Call 537-1269. (93f)

FOR SALE—AUTO 06

1980 GMC, 4 x 4, 1/2 ton, four-speed, power steering, power brakes, dual tanks, dual exhausts, 532-5139 evenings. (90-94)

MUST SELL 1981 Jeep—50,000 miles, good condition, fun to drive. Call 537-4396. (89-93)

1976 BUICK SKYLARK, $1,000. All tires leave 28,000-mile warranty, 1-month battery Visit Willard 316 or call 776-5014 after 5 p.m. (91-94)

FOR SALE—MISC 07

OFFICE SUPPLIES—Hull's Business Machines, 715 North 12th, Aggieville, 539-1413. (55f)

GOVERNMENT HOMES from $1 (U repair). Also delinquent tax property. Call 805-687-6000, ext. GH-9701 for information. (76-97)

$1 BAG SALE
All items must go!
Stuff your bag full $ each
B&L Thrift Shop
107 North 2nd
Manhattan Ks.

NEW SANYO MBC-1250 office quality computer with Sanyo PR-5000 daisy wheel letter printer. High resolution display, two double-sided high capacity disk drives, Wordstar, Spellstar, Mailmerge, Calcstar spreadsheet, Infostar data base. Excellent complete word processing system at unbeatable price: $1,075. 539-6309 after 6 p.m. (90-93)

MUST SELL: Peavey electric guitar with case and amp. Must see. Call Scott, 532-6099. (89-93)

ROCKFORD FOSGATE punch 75 amplifier, $200. Alpine 3015 computer controlled Equalizer, $200. 776-3628, ask for Gary. (92-93)

Clip and Save
1/4 Pound Hamburger
69¢
The Ritz
Not good with other specials
One burger per coupon
Expires 2-9-86

MACINTOSH MEMORY upgrades $229, 800K external disk drive with exchange $250, without exchange $350. 532-4855. (92-96)

IBM PC Jr., color monitor, 128K parallel interface, includes writing ass't. program. $750. 539-1781. (92-98)

GOVERNMENT SURPLUS! Raincoats, overcoats, field jackets, camouflage clothing, sleeping bags, camping gear, much more! St. Marys Surplus Sales, 1-437-2734. (92-101)

10 SPEED Schwinn bike for sale. Call 776-1294, ask for Alan. (93-94)

30% OFF
All Strings, Guitars
and DOD Effects
Hayes House of Music
"We Will Not Be Undersold"

776-7893
223 Poyntz

GOVERNMENT JOBS $16,040-$59,230/year. Now hiring. Call 805-687-6000, ext. R-9701 for current federal list. (76-97)

COUPLE for Assistant Manager of large apartment complex. Live in, maintenance ability necessary. Send resume to Box 3, Collegian. (78f)

CRUISESHIPS HIRING! $16-30,000. Caribbean, Hawaii, World! Call for Guide, Cassette, Newsletter. (916) 944-4444, Ext. Kansascruise. (76-102)

HELP WANTED 13

GOVERNMENT JOBS $16,040-$59,230/year. Now hiring. Call 805-687-6000, ext. R-9701 for current federal list. (76-97)

COUPLE for Assistant Manager of large apartment complex. Live in, maintenance ability necessary. Send resume to Box 3, Collegian. (78f)

CRUISESHIPS HIRING! $16-30,000. Caribbean, Hawaii, World! Call for Guide, Cassette, Newsletter. (916) 944-4444, Ext. Kansascruise. (76-102)

GOVERNMENT JOBS $16,040-$59,230/year. Now hiring. Call 805-687-6000, ext. R-9701 for current federal list. (76-97)

COUPLE for Assistant Manager of large apartment complex. Live in, maintenance ability necessary. Send resume to Box 3, Collegian. (78f)

CRUISESHIPS HIRING! $16-30,000. Caribbean, Hawaii, World! Call for Guide, Cassette, Newsletter. (916) 944-4444, Ext. Kansascruise. (76-102)

GOVERNMENT JOBS $16,040-$59,230/year. Now hiring. Call 805-687-6000, ext. R-9701 for current federal list. (76-97)

COUPLE for Assistant Manager of large apartment complex. Live in, maintenance ability necessary. Send resume to Box 3, Collegian. (78f)

CRUISESHIPS HIRING! $16-30,000. Caribbean, Hawaii, World! Call for Guide, Cassette, Newsletter. (916) 944-4444, Ext. Kansascruise. (76-102)

GOVERNMENT JOBS $16,040-$59,230/year. Now hiring. Call 805-687-6000, ext. R-9701 for current federal list. (76-97)

COUPLE for Assistant Manager of large apartment complex. Live in, maintenance ability necessary. Send resume to Box 3, Collegian. (78f)

CRUISESHIPS HIRING! $16-30,000. Caribbean, Hawaii, World! Call for Guide, Cassette, Newsletter. (916) 944-4444, Ext. Kansascruise. (76-102)

GOVERNMENT JOBS $16,040-$59,230/year. Now hiring. Call 805-687-6000, ext. R-9701 for current federal list. (76-97)

COUPLE for Assistant Manager of large apartment complex. Live in, maintenance ability necessary. Send resume to Box 3, Collegian. (78f)

CRUISESHIPS HIRING! $16-30,000. Caribbean, Hawaii, World! Call for Guide, Cassette, Newsletter. (916) 944-4444, Ext. Kansascruise. (76-102)

GOVERNMENT JOBS $16,040-$59,230/year. Now hiring. Call 805-687-6000, ext. R-9701 for current federal list. (76-97)

COUPLE for Assistant Manager of large apartment complex. Live in, maintenance ability necessary. Send resume to Box 3, Collegian. (78f)

CRUISESHIPS HIRING! $16-30,000. Caribbean, Hawaii, World! Call for Guide, Cassette, Newsletter. (916) 944-4444, Ext. Kansascruise. (76-102)

GOVERNMENT JOBS $16,040-$59,230/year. Now hiring. Call 805-687-6000, ext. R-9701 for current federal list. (76-97)

COUPLE for Assistant Manager of large apartment complex. Live in, maintenance ability necessary. Send resume to Box 3, Collegian. (78f)

By Berke Breathed

By Jim Davis

By Charles Schulz

Garfield

Peanuts

Crossword

ACROSS
1 Doc's org.
4 Ensnare
8 Scheme
12 Baste
13 Grow dim
14 "Othello" villain
15 Opinion
17 Canned, in a way
18 Crooked
19 Long, long time
21 — my party...
22 Special offer
26 Pouring
29 Campaigned
30 Yes, Captain
31 Boleyn, e.g.
32 Legal matter
33 Got the top grade
34 G-man
35 Spar
36 Winter gliders
37 Cheap
39 Take to the slopes

DOWN
40 Greek H
41 Poolside hut
45 At any time
48 Deceitful one
50 Easter flower
51 Emerald Isle
52 Fury
53 Cut down
54 "Monopoly" card
55 Uno doubled
2 Stable
3 Deserter's init.
4 Common bill
5 Talks derisively
6 Fornicary resident
7 Spanish coins
8 Duchin's instrument
9 Lenient
10 Longevity
11 Show agreement
16 Olivier's "Sleuth" co-star
20 Possess
23 Confront
24 Ogled
25 Beatty movie
26 River vessel
27 Freshly
28 Prefix for China
29 Critic Reed
32 Spun
33 Excuse
35 Computer unit
36 Emulated Heiden
38 Greenish gem
39 Sports-caster's reading
42 In the thick of 43 Famed fiddler
44 War god
45 Sprite
46 Contend
47 Right angle
49 How, in Hamburg

DELTA BABE SET
A R E
B I T T E R E N D L I E
S T O O G E O A T E N
N O L O W L Y
A P E G E M I D E S
R E O A M I O V A
T R U E L O T A G E D
R E G A N N U
M A P L E R U S H E S
E M U S W E E T T A L K
S O S T E R I K I L A Y
A S S E R I K I N O N E

ANS. to yesterday's puzzle.

CRYPTOQUIP

2-7
M Z D N J E V P Q U H Y E Z I W C I N W U H
Q P U D J Q V N Q M J H C W K K W K C
V D C H V V I H I Q K C D Y W V.
Yesterday's Cryptoquip: REAL CHILI LOVERS, AT CONVENTION, ASK TO SEE A MOVIE: "SOME LIKE IT HOT."

Today's Cryptoquip clue: K equals N

NOTICES 15

MADRID GRAS Festival Party at the Union! Be adventurous and sample our Creole and Cajun fare and listen to Dixieland and Rag-Time on our player piano! Come to our party February 4-11 in the K-State Union Stateroom. (90-95)

FASHIONWISE ENTREPRENEURS—We are seeking local distributors of our unique collections of high fashion jewelry, handmade from around the world. Earn money, have fun, look great. Write to Instone Ltd., Box 164, Coopersburg, Pa. 18036. (89-93)

REWARD! WOMEN'S wedding band/engagement ring. Yellow gold with oval cut diamond. Possibly in Cardwell or Dickens Hall or vicinity. Call Martha 532-6883, or 539-5705 after 5 p.m. (92-95)

NEED PART-time/full-time help at Kaw Valley Greenhouse. Call Saturday, February 8 between 8 a.m. and 3 p.m. only. 776-8585. (93)

LOST 14

G-PH Neophytes—Congratulations! Your big day is finally here. We're all very proud of you! Love, The Activists. (93)

SIGMA N I's to be: This weekend you will find the true meaning of Sigma Sigma Sigma. Sigma love, The Activists. (93)

TAMMY—MY waterbed flooded and your earnings are starting to rust. Come pick them up, room 22, SAE. (93)

SAE'S ARISE, a challenge awaits us, war is at hand. (93)

WANTED: YOUNG, energetic, easily intoxicated, but harmless warriors to raid certain stuffy fraternity houses. Apply at SAE house. (93)

DD'S, AD P's, Alpha Xi's, Gamma Phi's—Thanks for being good sports on initiation night. We owe you one. SAE's. (93)

SIGMA CHIRISSY—I'm as proud as I can be, because you're so special to me. Congrats! Sigma love, Mom. (93)

SIGMA LARA—Saturday at initiation Sigma secrets you will swear—but don't forget two pairs of —I Marrie. (93)

KKG INTERIM Cooks: What an awesome pair! We couldn't survive without you. Love, The Kappas! (93)

AD P's, Thetas, and Alpha Xi's—Take good care of our girls. The Kappas. P.S. We'll miss you Carley, Diane and Kristi. (93)

ATO MATT—You sexy guy, I'm your secret admirer in psych class. (93)

LISA THOMPSON: Happy Birthday to our favorite prep. Hope it's great. Love, DJS. (93)

SIGMA SISTERS—Joia, Kathy, and Kristina: We will miss your smiling faces. Have fun while you're away and come visit us soon. Your Sisters of Tri Sigma. (93)

CAROLINE, TONI, and Linda—A big "welcome" home with you. You're excited to share our home with you and may the visit be as special to you as it is for us. Sincerely, The Tri Sigmas. (93)

LAMBDA CHI Tim S.—Hope this week has been special for you. You truly are a Lambda Chi at heart. Love, Seri. (93)

KAREN—HAPPY 20th! Sorry I'm not here to celebrate, but have a great one. Michele. (93)

SIGMA CARLA Hipp: We're so sorry we're going to miss your special day. We'll be thinking of you! Lots of Sigma love, Beth and Christy. (93)

SIGMA KRISTINA Reynolds: Have fun rotating away but don't forget "us", we won't forget you! We'll miss you! Sigma love, your roommates. (93)

ROOMMATE WANTED 17

RESPONSIBLE NON-SMOKING female roommate wanted. Own room, $125 plus one-third utilities. Call 537-1886 or ask for Olga at 532-5123. (88-93)

SERVICES 18

MARY KAY Cosmetics—Skin care—glamour products. Free facial call Floris Taylor. 539-2070. Handicapped accessible. (76-95)

PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free pregnancy test. Confidential. Call 537-9180. 103 S. Fourth St., Suite 25. (11f)

MANHATTAN CAMERA repairs cameras and equipment. 228 Poyntz, 776-4240. (41f)

WORD PROCESSING by computer, professional quality, letter quality printer (not dot-matrix), disk storage. 776-6166. (131f)

Typing/Editing: letter quality word processor, professional resumes, cover letters, personalized form letters, disk storage. 539-5007. (76-113)

PROFESSIONALLY WRITTEN resumes, word processed cover letters, and typing. Resume Service. 1221 Morale Plaza. 537-7294. (72f)

MRS. KIM—Professional dressmaker and tailor. Alterations, 27 years experience. No pattern necessary. 537-2393. (82-111)

STOP PAYING $28 hour for VW repairs. Let the Bug Doctor at J & L Auto Service repair yours and save $6 per hour. Only seven minutes east. Highway 24. Bug's Rabbits, Gna's type 3's included. 1494-2388. St. George. (85-105)

DATA SHEETS to dissertations and everything in between. Letter quality Word Processing. Mrs. Burden. 539-1204. (91-97)

TUTORING needed: Friendship Tutoring still needs 26 more tutors for kids in grades 1-12. If you love kids and have Thursday nights free from 6:30-8:30 p.m., why not give us a call? Our kids need you. Call Tom Reis at 532-6984 or 776-6566 for more information. (90-93)

STUDENT SPECIALS—Perms $15. Cuts $5. Artistic Hair. 415 North 3rd St. 537-8169. (91-98)

PROFESSIONAL TYPING—Dissertations, reports, papers, resumes, cover letters. Call 539-2411. (93-97)

Academic games to promote competition among students

By The Collegian Staff

Seventy-six students in animal sciences and industry, and pre-veterinary medicine will compete next week in the Academic Quadrathlon, sponsored by the Department of Animal Sciences and Industry.

Nineteen teams will be competing in this year's quadrathlon, said Walt Smith, associate professor in animal sciences and industry and co-chairman of the quadrathlon. The teams consist of four members each and compete in a public presentation, laboratory practical, written examination and quiz bowl.

A contest orientation meeting for participants is scheduled for 7 tonight in Weber 230.

Laboratory practical instruction begins at 5 p.m. Monday in Weber 230. A few teams begin the laboratory practical competition at this time. Some teams compete in the oral presentation starting at 7 p.m.

Round-robin competition, including the continuation of the oral presentations, the written exam and the beginning of the quiz bowl preliminaries begin at 5:30 p.m. Tuesday in several rooms in Weber and Call halls.

Completion of the oral presentations and quiz bowl preliminaries begin at 5:30 Wednesday evening. The quiz bowl preliminaries will be in Call 202.

The quiz bowl final competition and announcement of the quadrathlon results will take place at 8 p.m. Feb. 18 at the Block and Bridle club meeting in Weber 107.

Collegian Classifieds
Cheap, but Effective

KU removes reactor fuel from idle nuclear facility

By The Associated Press

LAWRENCE — The University of Kansas is in the process of removing fuel from its nuclear reactor, which has not been used since June of 1984.

Robin Eversole, director of university relations, said Thursday that the work is expected to be completed by around March 1. The building housing the research reactor was cordoned off by campus and city police on Jan. 28 and again last Sunday, but Eversole said, "I'm not aware of any activity like that right now."

She said federal regulations prevented the university from releasing details about fuel removal.

The reactor, built in 1961, is being phased out because the university has discontinued its program to train students in radiation biophysics and stopped manufacturing radioactive isotopes for research.

Eversole said the next step for the university could be decommissioning the reactor, which would involve removing all materials and equipment.

"I don't think there's any schedule for doing that at this time, but I suppose some time in the future we'll probably consider doing it," she said.

THE ECONOMICS CLUB PROUDLY PRESENTS THE ARRIVAL OF... OMICRON DELTA EPSILON ECONOMICS HONORARY

Requirements: 3.0 G.P.A.

12 Hours of

Economics

Applications are available in Room 327 Waters Hall and are due Feb. 19 at 5 p.m.

Pancake Feed All You Can Eat

$2.50

includes sausage and milk

Sunday, Feb. 9 5-7 p.m.
Weber Hall

Sponsored by KSU Block & Bridle

Blue River Pub PRESENTS:

THE TOMBOYZ - Fri., Feb. 7

VALENTINE & THE VERY WEALTHY

$2.00 Cover
Sat., Feb. 8

537-9877

Next to Tuttle Creek Dam

MR. K'S

TGIF

•Chris Braun
Sigma Nu is Today's Guest DJ!

PLUS...FREE 24' SUBMARINE AND
40¢ DRAWS!

The JEAN STATION

Choose from the largest selection of Junior Swimwear you'll find anywhere! Sizes 5-13.

Aggieville
Manhattan

Great Expectations
by CHARLES DICKENS

THE GUTHRIE THEATER
A Mid-America Arts Alliance Program

Saturday, February 8, 1986
8:00 p.m.
Box Office: (913) 532-6428

Charles Dickens' splendidly vivid characters come to life in this classic story of Pip, the orphan boy who grows up to be a gentleman of "great expectations."

This program is presented in part by the Kansas Arts Commission, a state agency, and the National Endowment for the Arts, a federal agency.

McCain

Before you make a long distance commitment, make sure you know what you're getting into.

If Fletcher Christian and Captain Bligh had known what being stuck in the same boat would mean, chances are neither would have set foot aboard.

And if you're stuck in the same boat with a long distance company that doesn't give you all the services you need, it's easy to harbor mutinous thoughts.

But when you pick AT&T as your long distance company, you know you're in for smooth sailing. You'll get trouble-free, reliable service. Immediate long distance connections—even at the busiest hours. And long distance operators to assist you with immediate credit for wrong numbers and collect calling.

And you'll get discounts off our Day Rate on your state-to-state calls. With savings of over 50% during weekends until 5pm Sundays, or nights from 11pm to 8am, Sunday through Friday. And 40% discounts evenings between 5pm and 11pm, Sunday through Friday.

So when you're asked to choose a long distance company, sign aboard with AT&T. With AT&T Long Distance Service, you'll never be left stranded. Just call 1 800 222-0300 for more information or to choose AT&T. Reach out and touch someone.

AT&T
The right choice.

Weather

Partly Cloudy

Partly cloudy and cold today, high around 20. Partly cloudy tonight and Tuesday. Low tonight around zero.

Inside

SGA Candidates

The Collegian introduces the Student Governing Association election candidates today in a four-page section beginning on Page 7.

Sports

Home Win

The Wildcats break a four-game home losing streak by beating the University of Colorado Saturday. See Page 13.

Kansas State

Collegian

Monday
February 10, 1986

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 92, Number 94

Nine semifinalists competing for K-State presidential post

By TIM CARPENTER
Editorial Page Editor

The Presidential Search Committee is focusing on nine semifinal candidates with strong academic and administrative backgrounds to replace President Duane Acker, who will step down in June, according to published reports.

This weekend, the Wichita Eagle-Beacon quoted an unnamed source as saying the field had been narrowed to nine men and that Dean of the College of Engineering Donald Rathbone, who has served in that capacity since 1973, is in the running for the position.

Rathbone acknowledged he applied for the $92,000-a-year but said the search committee not indicated whether he is the semi-finalists.

"I felt the job was a great tunity. This is a great instituti this was something I could do the University. I felt it would positive kind of thing. Certs know Kansas State," he said.

Another candidate, Robert Ford, president of the Univer Texas at Dallas, said he respo a nomination and applied post, but the committee has "one way or another" if he is the running.

"My career in higher education at land-grant universities in the upper-Midwest is lengthy and Kansas State is a very respected university," Rathbone said. "I'm happy where I am, but the University of Texas at Dallas is not a comprehensive university like Kansas State. We have a restricted mission — there are no freshmen or sophomores here."

The search committee, organized in September 1985, is charged with the task of forwarding to the Board of Regents a minimum of three and a maximum of five candidates for the position. The regents will make the final determination.

people who we want to invite for an interview."

Stanley Koplik, executive director of the regents and a non-voting committee member, confirmed the accuracy of the candidate names listed in the Eagle-Beacon. The candidates, all from institutions in the eastern half of the United States, as listed in the newspaper were:

— Donald Rathbone, dean of engineering at K-State. Since his appointment, two buildings in the Durland Hall engineering complex have been constructed. Rathbone received a bachelor's degree in electrical engineering from Purdue University in West Lafayette, Ind.,

Filipinos say votes falsified

By The Associated Press

MANILA, Philippines — Thirty computer operators marched out of the government's election commission Sunday, claiming the ballot-counting that showed President Ferdinand E. Marcos defeating Corazon Aquino was falsified.

An international observer group, meanwhile, accused Marcos' partisans on Sunday of vote-buying, intimidation, snatching ballot boxes and tampering with election returns in Friday's crucial presidential elec-

Entertainment Plus

A Viewer's Guide to Leisure Arts — A Weekly Feature of the Collegian

Friday, Feb. 7, 1986

Divers 1

By The Associated Press

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — Divers Sunday intensified the shore search for wreckage space shuttle Challenger, but to locate an explosive booster rocket spotted und by sonar.

The 32,000-pound booster, ed of two solid-fuel rocket was believed to be in an area northeast of the launch site parts of the shuttle's crew ment, one of its two solid fue boosters and other debris ha reported.

"There is plenty of mate there, but they have found identifiable" in 100- to 120-fo late Saturday and all day said Navy spokesman Cmdr. E. Norton.

"There is nothing furt report," he said Sunday after the divers halted their. The weather and visibility w Sunday after heavy rain and ing hampered operations lat day. The search was schet resume today.

Norton said the 22 divers the Navy salvage shi Preserver concentrated thei Sunday in a zone where "got images" showed the 10-by "inertial upper stage" rocl resting on the ocean bottom.

The IUS was to have booste million NASA communication satellite into higher orbit afte carried into space Challenger, which exploded toff Jan. 28, killing all sever on board.

The Navy focused on the boosters rather than on searc the shuttle crew compartme boosters that propel the sp because "they're pretty sure they've got there, and it's in ly shallow water. So, it's a the-hand type of situation," said.

The IUS, powered by 27,400 of solid fuel, will be havi

Univers

By ERIC RHODENBAU
Staff Writer

Fifty-two electrical trans on campus will be replaced because they contain taminated with polychlor biphenyl (PCB), said Ferguson, general man physical facilities.

Ferguson said it will co $200,000 to replace or flusi

Focus/4

Charles Dickens' tale of "Great Expectations," a performance by The Guthrie Theater.

Weather

Partly Cloudy

Partly cloudy and cold today, high around 20. Partly cloudy tonight and Tuesday. Low tonight around zero.

Inside

SGA Candidates

The Collegian introduces the Student Governing Association election candidates today in a four-page section beginning on Page 7.

Sports

Home Win

The Wildcats break a four-game home losing streak by beating the University of Colorado Saturday. See Page 13.

Kansas State

Collegian

Monday
February 10, 1986

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 92, Number 94

Nine semifinalists competing for K-State presidential post

By TIM CARPENTER
Editorial Page Editor

The Presidential Search Committee is focusing on nine semifinal candidates with strong academic and administrative backgrounds to replace President Duane Acker, who will step down in June, according to published reports.

This weekend, the Wichita Eagle-Beacon quoted an unnamed source as saying the field had been narrowed to nine men and that Dean of the College of Engineering Donald Rathbone, who has served in that capacity since 1973, is in the running for the position.

Rathbone acknowledged he is an applicant for the $92,000-a-year job but said the search committee had not indicated whether he is among the semi-finalists.

"I felt the job was a great opportunity. This is a great institution and this was something I could do for the University. I felt it would be a positive kind of thing. Certainly, I know Kansas State," he said.

Another candidate, Robert Ford, president of the University of Texas at Dallas, said he responded to a nomination and applied for the post, but the committee has not yet decided "one way or another" if he is among the finalists.

Divers 1

By The Associated Press

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — Divers Sunday intensified the search for wreckage of the space shuttle Challenger, but to locate an explosive booster rocket spotted under by sonar.

The 32,000-pound booster, one of two solid-fuel rockets, was believed to be in an area northeast of the launch site. Parts of the shuttle's crew compartment, one of its two solid-fuel boosters and other debris had been reported.

"There is plenty of material there, but they have found nothing identifiable" in 100- to 120-foot late Saturday and all day Sunday, Navy spokesman Cmdr. E. Norton said.

"There is nothing further report," he said Sunday after the divers halted their search. The weather and visibility were poor Sunday after heavy rain and fog hampered operations late Saturday. The search was scheduled to resume today.

Norton said the 22 divers on the Navy salvage ship Preserver concentrated their search Sunday in a zone where "good images" showed the 10-by-10-foot "inertial upper stage" rocket resting on the ocean bottom.

The IUS was to have boosted the million NASA communication satellite into higher orbit after being carried into space by Challenger, which exploded at 11:14 a.m. Jan. 28, killing all seven on board.

The Navy focused on the search for the shuttle crew compartment boosters that propel the shuttle because "they're pretty sure they've got them, and it's in relatively shallow water. So, it's a relatively hand type of situation," said.

The IUS, powered by 27,400 pounds of solid fuel, will be having the running. "My career in higher education at land-grant universities in the upper-Midwest is lengthy and Kansas State is a very respected university," Rathbone said. "I'm happy where I am, but the University of Texas at Dallas is not a comprehensive university like Kansas State. We have a restricted mission — there are no freshmen or sophomores here."

The search committee, organized in September 1985, is charged with the task of forwarding to the Board of Regents a minimum of three and a maximum of five candidates for the position. The regents will make the people who we want to invite for an interview."

Stanley Koplik, executive director of the regents and a non-voting committee member, confirmed the accuracy of the candidate names listed in the Eagle-Beacon. The candidates, all from institutions in the eastern half of the United States, as listed in the newspaper were:

— Donald Rathbone, dean of engineering at K-State. Since his appointment, two buildings in the Durland Hall engineering complex have been constructed. Rathbone received a bachelor's degree in electrical engineering from Purdue

Filipinos say votes falsified

By The Associated Press

MANILA, Philippines — Thirty computer operators marched out of the government's election commission Sunday, claiming the ballot-counting that showed President Ferdinand E. Marcos defeating Corazon Aquino was falsified.

An international observer group, meanwhile, accused Marcos' partisans on Sunday of vote-buying, intimidation, snatching ballot boxes and tampering with election returns.

2 Friday, February 7, 1986

Television Index

Manhattan Cable
KSNT (NBC)	7
WIBW (CBS)	3
KLDH (ABC)	2
KSHB (IND)	8
KTWU (PBS)	11
WGN (IND)	10
WTBS (IND)	12

Premium cable:
HBO, Showtime,
CINEMAX, ESPN

Additional cable channels not listed in guide: Manhattan cable channels 4 (NBC),
5 (CBS) and 9 (ABC) correspond to channels 7, 3 and 2, respectively.

Entertainment Plus

EDITOR
David Svoboda
ENTERTAINMENT EDITOR
Laurie Fairburn
PHOTO/GRAPHICS EDITOR
Chris Stewart
REVIEWERS
Barbara Baker
Gary Johnson
Randy Withrow
ADVERTISING MANAGER
Lori Wong

On Our Cover

The following passage written about Charles Dickens was published in "The Saturday Review," London, May 8, 1858: "We do not believe in the permanence of his reputation... Fifty years hence, most of his allusions will be harder to understand than the allusions in 'The Dunciad,' and our children will wonder what their ancestors could have meant by putting Mr. Dickens at the head of the novelists of his day."

Cover illustration of Charles Dickens by Carlos Corredor.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 8, 1986

KSNT 27	WIBW 13	KLDH 49	KSHB 41	KTWU 11	WGN	WTBS	HBO	SHOW	MAX	ESPN
7:00 Snorks 8:30 Smurfs	8:00 Muppets	8:00 Ewoks & 8:30 Droids 9:00 Scooby-Doo 9:30 Start Of 10:00 Something Big	8:00 Tom And Jerry 8:30 Puttin' On 9:00 S. Previews 9:30 Woodwright 10:00 Here's Health	8:00 To Computers 8:30 Photo Vision 9:00 Photo Vision 9:30 S. Previews 10:00 World Tom 10:30 Star Games	8:00 Farm Report 8:30 Wild Kingdom 9:00 Armstrong 9:30 Business 10:00 Charlando 10:30 People	8:00 Wrestling 8:30 Movie: "The Devil" 9:00 "Heidi" 9:30 National 10:00 Geographic 10:30 Explorer	8:00 Movie: "The Devil" 8:30 "Heidi" 9:00 "On The 9:30 Waterfront" 10:00 "Hellfighters" 10:30 "On The 11:00 Waterfront"	8:00 Movie: "The Devil" 8:30 "Heidi" 9:00 "On The 9:30 Waterfront" 10:00 "Hellfighters" 10:30 "On The 11:00 Waterfront"	8:00 "Rhinstone" 8:30 "Cont'd" 9:00 "Rhinstone" 9:30 "Cont'd" 10:00 "Rhinstone" 10:30 "Cont'd"	8:00 "Rhinstone" 8:30 "Cont'd" 9:00 "Rhinstone" 9:30 "Cont'd" 10:00 "Rhinstone" 10:30 "Cont'd"

SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 9, 1986

KSNT 27	WIBW 13	KLDH 49	KSHB 41	KTWU 11	WGN	WTBS	HBO	SHOW	MAX	ESPN
7:00 J. Kennedy 8:00 L. Lundstrom 8:30 Robert	7:00 Jerry Falwell 8:00 Discovery 8:30 Truth	7:00 Jimmy Swaggart 8:00 Kenneth 8:30 Copeland	7:00 Sunday Mass 8:00 World Tom 8:30 Wrestling	7:00 Sesame Street 8:00 Sesame Street 8:30 Sesame Street	7:00 J. Kennedy 8:00 R. Schuller 8:30 Sunday Mass 9:00 Church	7:00 Bugs Bunny 8:00 And Friends 8:30 Cont'd 9:00 Andy Griffith	7:00 "The Empire 8:00 Strikes Back" 8:30 "The Empire 9:00 Strikes Back"	7:00 Les Miserables 8:00 "Suzy's War" 8:30 "Suzy's War"	7:00 Movie: "How Sweet It 8:00 Is!" 8:30 "Cont'd"	7:00 SportsCenter 8:00 College 8:30 Basketball

Univers

By ERIC RHODENBAU
Staff Writer

Fifty-two electrical trans on campus will be replaced because they contain tainted with polychloro biphenyl (PCB), said Ferguson, general manager of physical facilities.

Ferguson said it will cost $200,000 to replace or flush

Comedy Invasion
Featuring the finest comedians from across the country
CRAIG HAWKSLEY and VIRGIL WASHINGTON
Show starts at 9 p.m.
$2.00 tickets

Home Cinema

Grand Opening Celebration

Saturday, Feb. 8

If you can track us down:
*Refreshments
*T-shirt Giveaway (Limited Supply)
*Free maps to find your way home
*No membership fees

ALL MOVIES
99¢
No reservations

Open Daily
10 a.m. — 9 p.m.

Hiding in the ditch between Alco and Seth Childs Road

537-1115

Weather

Partly Cloudy

Partly cloudy and cold today, high around 20. Partly cloudy tonight and Tuesday. Low tonight around zero.

Inside

SGA Candidates

The Collegian introduces the Student Governing Association election candidates today in a four-page section beginning on Page 7.

Sports

Home Win

The Wildcats break a four-game home losing streak by beating the University of Colorado Saturday. See Page 13.

Kansas State

Collegian

Monday
February 10, 1986

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 92, Number 94

Nine semifinalists competing for K-State presidential post

By TIM CARPENTER
Editorial Page Editor

The Presidential Search Committee is focusing on nine semifinal candidates with strong academic and administrative backgrounds to replace President Duane Acker, who will step down in June, according to published reports.

This weekend, the Wichita Eagle-Beacon quoted an unnamed source as saying the field had been narrowed to nine men and that Dean of the College of Engineering Donald Rathbone, who has served in that capacity since 1973, is in the running for the position.

Rathbone acknowledged he applied for the $92,000-a-year but said the search committee not indicated whether he is in the semi-finalists.

"I felt the job was a great opportunity. This is a great institution this was something I could do for the University. I felt it would be a positive kind of thing. Certainly know Kansas State," he said.

Another candidate, Robert Ford, president of the University of Texas at Dallas, said he responded to a nomination and applied for the post, but the committee hasn't "one way or another" if he is

the running.

"My career in higher education at land-grant universities in the upper-Midwest is lengthy and Kansas State is a very respected university," Rathbone said. "I'm happy where I am, but the University of Texas at Dallas is not a comprehensive university like Kansas State. We have a restricted mission — there are no freshmen or sophomores here."

The search committee, organized in September 1985, is charged with the task of forwarding to the Board of Regents a minimum of three and a maximum of five candidates for the position. The regents will make the final determination.

people who we want to invite for an interview."

Stanley Koplik, executive director of the regents and a non-voting committee member, confirmed the accuracy of the candidate names listed in the Eagle-Beacon. The candidates, all from institutions in the eastern half of the United States, as listed in the newspaper were:

— Donald Rathbone, dean of engineering at K-State. Since his appointment, two buildings in the Durland Hall engineering complex have been constructed. Rathbone received a bachelor's degree in electrical engineering from Purdue University in West Lafayette, Ind..

Filipinos say votes falsified

By The Associated Press

MANILA, Philippines — Thirty computer operators marched out of the government's election commission Sunday, claiming the ballot-counting that showed President Ferdinand E. Marcos defeating Corason Aquino was falsified.

An international observer group, meanwhile, accused Marcos' partisans on Sunday of vote-buying, intimidation, snatching ballot boxes and tampering with election returns in Friday's crucial presidential elec-

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 10, 1986

KSNT 7	WIBW 9	KLDH 10	KSHB 11	KTWU 11	WGN	WTBS	HBO	SHOW	MAX	ESPN
7:00 Today	CBS Morning News	Good Morning America	Flintstones Joyce	Special Mister Rogers	Bozo	Jeannie Bewitched	Movie: "Runaway"	Movie: "Running"	Movie: "Love Me Or Leave Me"	Nation's Business
8:00 " "	" "	" "	Bugs Bunny Beaver	Sesame Street	Hillbillies	Hazel I Love Lucy	" "	Brave"	" "	Skiing PGA Seniors
9:00 Hour Magazine	Pyramid Card Sharks	700 Club	Family Ties Day At A Time	Sesame Street	Waltons	Movie: "The Man With No Name"	Movie: "Turk 182"	Movie: "The"	Movie: "Coal Miner's"	Golf Treasure
10:00 Family Ties Scramble	Price Is Right	Bruce Forsyth New Love	Laverne & Shirley	Body Electric Algebra	Big Valley	A Cloak"	" "	Safecracker"	Daughter"	Coast Classic SportsLook
11:00 Password NBC News	Young And The Restless	Ryan's Hope Loving	M.T. Moore Bewitched	Write Course To Computers	Little House On The Prairie	Perry Mason	Movie: "Dreamscape"	Movie: "The Flamingo"	MaxTrax Movie: "The"	Aerobics Hang Gliding
12:00 News Days Of Our	Midday As The World	All My Children	Dick Van Dyke My 3 Sons	Sesame Street	Midday	Movie: "Valley Of The"	" "	"Kid"	"Camelot"	NHL Hockey Edmonton
1:00 Lives Another World	Turns Capitol	One Life To Live	I Love Lucy Andy Griffith	Nature	What's Hot Carol Burnett	Kings"	Movie: "Fandango"	Movie: "Meet Me In"	" "	Oilers at Buffalo
2:00 Santa Barbara	Guiding Light	General Hospital	Gomer Pyle Beaver	Wildlife McLaughlin	Andy Griffith Scooby Doo	Bugs Bunny And Friends	Barbra	"Las Vegas"	" "	Sabres
3:00 Gilligan	Dallas	Of Power Scooby Doo	Scooby Doo GoBots	Cooking Aerobics	Heathcliff M.A.S.K.	Flintstones Brady Bunch	Streisand Adventures Of	Valen's Day Movie: "The Brass Ring"	Movie: "Westward The Women"	World Cup Skiing
4:00 Happy Days Diff. Strokes	Donahue	He-Man G.I. Joe	Superfriends Jetsons	Mister Rogers 3-2-1 Contact	Transformers G.I. Joe	Beaver Rocky Road	Robin Hood Movie: "The"	Comedy	" "	Surfing O.P. Champs
5:00 3's Company NBC News	News ABC News	Benson ABC News	Diff. Strokes Good Times	Sesame Street	Good Times Jeffersons	Down To Earth Safe At Home	"St. Helens"	Movie: "Running"	Movie: "Man In The"	SportsLook Outdoor Life
6:00 News Wheel Fortune	News Ent. Tonight	Buddies Newsweds	Mork & Mindy Gimme Break	MacNeil / Lehrer	Barney Miller Bob Newhart	M.T. Moore Sanford	Fraggle Rock	Brave"	Wilderness"	SportsCenter D. Vitale
7:00 TV Bloopers	Scarecrow And Mrs. King	Hardcastle	It's A Living Buddies	WdrWks.	Dempsey & Makepeace	Movie: "Promise Her"	"Ice Man"	Robin Hood Movie: "Camelot"	" "	College Basketball
8:00 Movie: "An Officer	Kate & Allie Newhart	Movie: "Harem"	Movie: "Gray Lady"	American Playhouse	Greatest American Hero	Anything"	" "	Movie: "Purple"	" "	St. John's at Georgetown
9:00 And A Gentleman"	Cagney & Lacey	" "	Down"	A Theatre Indian Artists	News	Gunsmoke	Movie: "Fandango"	Hearts"	" "	College Basketball
10:00 News	News Barney Miller	Benson Taxi	News Matt Houston	TV Classics Business Rpt.	WKRP Trapper John	National Geographic	Movie: "The Flamingo"	Movie: "Coal Miner's"	Bradley at Illinois State
11:00 Best Of Carson	Night Heat	Nightline Kung Fu	Get Smart	Lone Star	M.D. Movie: "Band Of Angels"	Explorer	"Turk 182"	Kid"	Daughter"	SportsCenter Fishing
12:00 David Letterman	"Ultimate Warrior"	Ind. News	Andy Griffith Three Stooges	" "	"City Beneath The Sea"	" "	Movie	Movie	" "	Salt Water Outdoor Life

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 11, 1986

KSNT 7	WIBW 9	KLDH 10	KSHB 11	KTWU 11	WGN	WTBS	HBO	SHOW	MAX	ESPN
7:00 Today	CBS Morning News	Good Morning America	Flintstones Joyce	Special Mister Rogers	Bozo	Jeannie Bewitched	Movie: "Harry And"	Movie: "Nate And"	Movie: "Rhinstone"	Nation's Business
8:00 " "	" "	" "	Bugs Bunny Beaver	Sesame Street	Hillbillies	Hazel I Love Lucy	Son"	Hayes"	" "	Basketball PGA Seniors
9:00 Hour Magazine	Pyramid Card Sharks	700 Club	Family Ties Day At A Time	Sesame Street	Waltons	Movie: "Toy Tiger"	Movie: "On The"	Movie: "Gaslight"	Movie: "Country"	Golf Treasure
10:00 Family Ties Scramble	Price Is Right	Bruce Forsyth New Love	Laverne & Shirley	Body Electric Ecology	Big Valley	" "	Waterfront"	" "	" "	Coast Classic SportsLook
11:00 Password NBC News	Young And The Restless	Ryan's Hope Loving	M.T. Moore Bewitched	Mod. Maturity Of Culture	Little House On The Prairie	Perry Mason	Movie: "Skokie"	Movie: "The Empire"	Movie: "A Man's"	Aerobics Basketball
12:00 News Days Of Our	Midday As The World	All My Children	Dick Van Dyke My 3 Sons	Sesame Street	Midday	Movie: "Rivkin"	" "	Strikes Back"	Castle"	College Basketball
1:00 Lives Another World	Turns Capitol	One Life To Live	I Love Lucy Andy Griffith	Masterpiece Theatre	What's Hot Carol Burnett	Bounty Hunter	Video Jukebox Movie: "The"	" "	"Man Who Saw Tomorrow"	Bradley at Illinois State
2:00 Santa Barbara	Guiding Light	General Hospital	Gomer Pyle Beaver	Mod. Maturity Living	Andy Griffith Scooby Doo	Bugs Bunny And Friends	"The Goodbye Girl"	"Roseanna McCoy"	Movie: "Garbo Talks"	College Basketball
3:00 Gilligan	Dallas	Of Power Scooby Doo	Scooby Doo GoBots	Cooking Aerobics	Heathcliff M.A.S.K.	Flintstones Brady Bunch	Life On Earth	Movie: "Ups & Downs"	" "	St. John's at Georgetown
4:00 Happy Days Diff. Strokes	Donahue	He-Man G.I. Joe	Superfriends Jetsons	Mister Rogers 3-2-1 Contact	Transformers G.I. Joe	Beaver Hillbillies	Rumpel	" "	Rod Stewart In Concert	Fishin' Hole
5:00 3's Company NBC News	News ABC News	Benson ABC News	Diff. Strokes Good Times	Sesame Street	Good Times Jeffersons	Andy Griffith Carol Burnett	Movie: "King Of"	Movie: "To Be Or Not"	Movie: "The"	SportsLook Women
6:00 News Wheel Fortune	News Ent. Tonight	Buddies Newsweds	Mork & Mindy Gimme Break	MacNeil / Lehrer	Barney Miller Bob Newhart	M.T. Moore Sanford	Comedy"	To Be"	Westerner"	SportsCenter Action Sports
7:00 A-Team	Bugs Bunny Charlie Brown	Who's Boss? Growing Pains	Return To Eden	Nova	College Basketball	Our Finite World: India	Movie: "The Brother"	Movie: "The Empire"	Movie: "The"	College Basketball
8:00 College Basketball	Movie: "Vital Signs"	Moonlighting	Movie: "The World's"	Frontline	DePaul at Old Dominion	" "	"From Another Planet"	Strikes Back"	Breakfast Club"	DePaul at Old Dominion
9:00 Missouri at Kansas	" "	Spenser: For Hire	Greatest Lover"	Stalin: The Red Tzar	News	NBA Basketball	The Hitchhiker	" "	Movie: "The Formula"	America's Cup '87 Challenge
10:00 News Tonight	News Barney Miller	Benson Taxi	News Matt Houston	TV Classics Business Rpt.	WKRP Trapper John	Lakers at Warriors	"Songwriter"	Movie: "Nate And Hayes"	" "	Winterworld SportsCenter
11:00 David Letterman	Remington Steele	Nightline Kung Fu	Get Smart	Undercover Operations	M.D. Movie: "The Lost Man"	Movie: "Easy Rider"	Movie: "The Keep"	Movie: "Frank And I"	" "	In The PGA Top Rank
12:00 Letterman Gene Scott	Movie	Ind. News	Andy Griffith Three Stooges	" "	"A Force Of One"	" "	Movie	Movie	" "	Boxing

Friday, February 7, 1986

3

Rock 'n' roll video history to be shown

By JUDY GOLDBERG
Collegian Reporter

If you've been in the Union lately you've probably seen Bruce Springsteen's picture, along with 22 other in-concert shots, on the large photo exhibit just past the information desk.

Monday you will have the chance to see him again, along with over 100 other performers, including Elvis Presley, Bob Dylan and The Supremes, in "The Rock and Roll Time Tunnel." The show is projected onto a 6-foot-by-24-foot screen, with a special sound system supplied by Bose.

Kodak Film is sponsoring the 26-minute multimedia history of rock 'n' roll, documenting the '50s through the '80s. The program was produced by The Museum of Rock Art in Los Angeles.

Presented by the Union Program Council Feature Films Committee, the show also includes The Rolling Stones, The Police, Prince and The Beatles.

It will be shown free Monday in Forum Hall at 7, 8, 9 and 10 p.m., said Marilyn Woodward, program adviser for UPC.

"Rock 'n' Roll Time Tunnel," features projected video and film images, said Gail Schwedock, account executive of the promotion agency for Kodak, Brian Winthrop International, LTD.

"There will be three images on the screen at all times," she said.

It has been on tour since the fall of '85 and will be shown on 120 campuses by this fall. K-State will be about the 60th university to see the film, Schwedock said.

"Kodak's primary motivation for sponsoring the show is to create goodwill among college students," she said.

Woodward said a sponsorship that allows people to see a program like this for free is not uncommon.

"Corporate sponsorships are becoming more popular on campuses," she said.

"We felt that this was something we couldn't pass up. It is an opportunity to do something free that would appeal to the majority of the campus," Woodward said.

Divers

By The Associated Press

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — Divers Sunday intensified their shore search for wreckage space shuttle Challenger, but to locate an explosive booster rocket spotted under by sonar.

The 32,000-pound booster, ejected of two solid-fuel rocket was believed to be in an area northeast of the launch site, parts of the shuttle's crew element, one of its two solid-fuel boosters and other debris had reported.

"There is plenty of material there, but they have found identifiable" in 100- to 120-foot late Saturday and all day, said Navy spokesman Cmdr. E. Norton.

"There is nothing further report," he said Sunday after the divers halted their search after heavy rain and fog hampered operations late day. The search was scheduled to resume today.

Norton said the 22 divers of the Navy salvage ship Preserver concentrated their Sunday in a zone where "good images" showed the 10-by-10-foot "inertial upper stage" rocket resting on the ocean bottom.

The IUS was to have boosted million NASA communication satellite into higher orbit after carried into space by Challenger, which exploded at 11:05 a.m. Jan. 28, killing all seven on board.

The Navy focused on the boosters rather than on searching the shuttle crew compartment boosters that propel the space shuttle because "they're pretty sure they've got there, and it's in relatively shallow water. So, it's a more hand type of situation," said.

The IUS, powered by 27,400 of solid fuel, will be having

Univers

By ERIC RHODENBAUM
Staff Writer

Fifty-two electrical trans on campus will be replaced because they contain tainted with polychlorobiphenyl (PCB), said Ferguson, general manager physical facilities.

Ferguson said it will cost $200,000 to replace or flush

AGGIEVILLE

FLOWERS

Valentine's Day

coming soon...

ORDER

EARLY!

COME SEE US.

12th & Laramie

537-9549

Entertaining Specials

from

702 N. 12th

Aggieville

Whirla Whip

and

By-the-Slice

539-4888

SPECIAL 1-2-3 COU. ON OFFER
Buy your 1st Pyramid Pizza at our regular price and 539-4888 Expires 2-11-86 or our second pizza for only $1.99! $2 medium pizza $3 large pizza
We Pile It On!

SPECIAL $6.66 Coupon Offer
Buy a medium single topping pizza for only $6.66 539-4888 Expires 2-11-86
We Pile It On!

SOUTHERN SUN

TANNING CENTER

$2.50 Sessions

after midnight

776-8060

519 N. 12th Aggieville

Weather

Partly Cloudy

Partly cloudy and cold today, high around 20. Partly cloudy tonight and Tuesday. Low tonight around zero.

Inside

SGA Candidates

The Collegian introduces the Student Governing Association election candidates today in a four-page section beginning on Page 7.

Sports

Home Win

The Wildcats break a four-game home losing streak by beating the University of Colorado Saturday. See Page 13.

Kansas State

Collegian

Monday
February 10, 1986

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 92, Number 94

Nine semifinalists competing for K-State presidential post

By TIM CARPENTER
Editorial Page Editor

The Presidential Search Committee is focusing on nine semifinal candidates with strong academic and administrative backgrounds to replace President Duane Acker, who will step down in June, according to published reports.

This weekend, the Wichita Eagle-Beacon quoted an unnamed source as saying the field had been narrowed to nine men and that Dean of the College of Engineering Donald Rathbone, who has served in that capacity since 1973, is in the running for the position.

Rathbone acknowledged applicant for the $92,000-a-year but said the search committee not indicated whether he is the semi-finalists.

"I felt the job was a great opportunity. This is a great institution this was something I could do for the University. I felt it was a positive kind of thing. Certainly, I know Kansas State," he said.

Another candidate, Robert Ford, president of the University of Texas at Dallas, said he resists a nomination and applied post, but the committee has "one way or another" if he

the running.

"My career in higher education at land-grant universities in the upper-Midwest is lengthy and Kansas State is a very respected university," Rathbone said. "I'm happy where I am, but the University of Texas at Dallas is not a comprehensive university like Kansas State. We have a restricted mission — there are no freshmen or sophomores here."

The search committee, organized in September 1985, is charged with the task of forwarding to the Board of Regents a minimum of three and a maximum of five candidates for the position. The regents will make the final determination.

people who we want to invite for an interview."

Stanley Koplik, executive director of the regents and a non-voting committee member, confirmed the accuracy of the candidate names listed in the Eagle-Beacon. The candidates, all from institutions in the eastern half of the United States, as listed in the newspaper were:

— Donald Rathbone, dean of engineering at K-State. Since his appointment, two buildings in the Durland Hall engineering complex have been constructed. Rathbone received a bachelor's degree in electrical engineering from Purdue University in West Lafayette, Ind.

Filipinos say votes falsified

By The Associated Press

MANILA, Philippines — Thirty computer operators marched out of the government's election commission Sunday, claiming the ballot-counting that showed President Ferdinand E. Marcos defeating Corazon Aquino was falsified.

An international observer group, meanwhile, accused Marcos' partisans on Sunday of vote-buying, intimidation, snatching ballot boxes and tampering with election returns.

4 Friday, February 7, 1986

The time for 'Great Expectations'

By The Collegian Staff

The sordid, turbulent side of Victorian England provides the setting for Charles Dickens' "Great Expectations," to be performed Saturday in McCain Auditorium.

Brought to the stage by the Guthrie Theater, the play centers around Pip, an orphan who begins humbly as a young blacksmith's apprentice, and grows to become a gentleman of "great expectations" through the generosity of a mysterious benefactor.

Pip is raised by his rather unkind sister and her more understanding husband, and seems to be destined for a middle-class life. Having been sent since a young age to the aging mansion of Miss Havisham to play with her daughter Estella, Pip suspects it is she who has provided the legacy, so he may be properly groomed as a husband for Estella.

Pip has always been taken with the arrogant Estella. However, Miss Havisham, left at the altar on a wedding day long since past, she has sought revenge by raising Estella to distrust men.

Pip's life is full of fascinating

"Every good actor plays direct to every good author, and every good writer of fiction, though he may not adopt the dramatic form, writes in effect for the stage. He may write novels always, and plays never, but the truth and wisdom that are in him must permeate the art of which truth and passion are the life, and must be more or less reflected in that great mirror which he holds up to nature."

Charles Dickens
March 29, 1858

characters: Magwitch, an escaped convict Pip befriends, the lawyer Mr. Jaggers, the wealthy, reclusive Miss Havisham and her beautiful, but coolly distant daughter Estella.

Dickens' story, first published in 1861, is said to be a blend of adventure, romance, comedy and Gothic horror.

"It's a perfect play for The Guthrie Theater to share with the rest of the country," said director Stephen Kane, who describes the play as a "real who-done-it."

The production promises to be a thriller full of exciting drama. In one of the more theatrical scenes, the stage becomes the River Thames and Pip, in his rowboat, collides with a steamer.

Members of the cast take turns as narrator, and many portray more than one character.

The Guthrie Theater, a repertory company from Minneapolis is the oldest repertory company in the country. October marked the beginning of a 30-week, 100-city tour of "Great Expectations." A grant from the IBM Corporation, administered through the Mid-America Arts Alliance has made possible the 15-city midwest leg of the tour.

Ticket prices range from $12 to $10 for the general public and $7 to $5 for students and senior citizens. Reservations for the 8 p.m. performance may be made through the McCain box office, 532-6428.

Film Review

Film amiable, but lacking in energy

By GARY JOHNSON
Collegian Reviewer

"Pleasant" is the key word in describing "Murphy's Romance." It's a very pleasant movie. Pleasant to a fault.

The actors, Sally Field and James Garner, are very likable and the story is a very congenial one, but there isn't much emotion beneath it all.

It all looks good, but in a sort of bland fashion.

Sally Field plays Emma Moriarty, a divorced but determined 33-year-old woman who buys a rundown ranch in Arizona and moves in along with her 12-year-old son Jake.

In the nearby town of Eunice she runs into Murphy Jones (James Garner), the owner of a corner drugstore.

Jones is an agreeable sort. He can get nasty at times, particularly when the city tells him he can't park his Model T outside of his own store. Every day he gets a ticket, but he won't budge. Underneath the rough exterior, though, he's a pussycat.

Emma and Murphy run into each other about a dozen times before the movie is through. And in each of their meetings it becomes clear they are bound to fall in love. That premise is clear from early in the film.

It isn't necessarily a liability, but to make it work in their favor the filmmakers needed to come up with someone who could come between Emma and Murphy.

Emma's ex-husband, Bobby Jack, is supposed to serve this function, but he's too pleasant a guy to really ruffle any feathers. He gets drunk and makes a few nasty accusations, but in the long run, he's harmless — an adult trapped in adolescence.

So who will end up getting Emma — her ex-husband Bobby Jack or Murphy, the old man at the corner drugstore?

As "Murphy's Romance" plays it, there isn't much suspense in that arrangement. Bobby Jack is needed to shake things up, but little happens.

Everything remains very amiable. It bounces from one episode to the next with little logic, occasionally sprinkling in some drama.

There's a pleasant enough scene at a bingo game and a nice scene at an auction. But that's just the problem: The filmmakers were so concerned with being friendly that the movie lacks energy.

"Murphy's Romance" is a surprisingly inconsequential little drama, considering it's directed by Martin Ritt, the same man who directed "Hud," "Norma Rae" and "Sounder."

Divers

By The Associated Press

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — Divers Sunday intensified shore search for wreckage of space shuttle Challenger, but to locate an explosive booster rocket spotted on by sonar.

The 32,000-pound booster of two solid-fuel rockets was believed to be in an area northeast of the launch site. Parts of the shuttle's crew, one of its two solid-fuel boosters and other debris had been reported.

"There is plenty of material there, but they have found identifiable" in 100- to 120-ft late Saturday and all day said Navy spokesman Cmdr E. Norton.

"There is nothing further report," he said Sunday after the divers halted their search and visibility was hampered by heavy rain and fog.

Norton said the 22 divers of the Navy salvage ship Preserver concentrated the search in a zone where "good images" showed the 10-by-10 "inertial upper stage" resting on the ocean bottom.

The IUS was to have boosted million NASA communications satellite into higher orbit after carried into space by Challenger, which exploded Jan. 28, killing all seven on board.

The Navy focused on the boosters rather than on searching the shuttle crew compartment boosters that propel the shuttle because "they're pretty sure they've got there, and it's in shallow water. So, it's a hand-type of situation," said.

The IUS, powered by 27,400 lb of solid fuel, will be University

By ERIC RHODENBART
Staff Writer

Fifty-two electrical transformers on campus will be replaced because they contain contaminated with polychlorinated biphenyl (PCB), said Ferguson, general manager of physical facilities.

Ferguson said it will cost $200,000 to replace or flush

Student finds success on stage

Theater festival full of surprises

By GARY BORN
Collegian Reporter

One would not expect a talent agent to visit Springfield, Mo., much less have that talent agent offer a K-State student a chance to read a script from a popular daytime drama.

But forget the unexpected, because this is exactly what happened to Connie Ramos, fifth-year senior in architecture, when she competed in the American College Theatre Festival Jan. 22 in Springfield, Mo.

Five students from K-State attended the festival with three advancing to the semifinals and one making it to the final round. Tom Overmyer, senior in theater, and Brad Atchison, sophomore in pre-physical therapy, advanced to the semifinals. Ramos advanced to the final 12.

The competition started with 80 students, each performing a 5½ minute presentation. The field was then narrowed to 34 semifinalists, with a final 12 making the finals.

Harold Nichols, head of the Department of Speech, said he was very proud of everyone's performances.

"Performing in a competition of this caliber gives the students a lot of exposure to other graduate schools and agents," Nichols said.

For the competition, Ramos chose to perform a selection from the musical "Working" by Studs Terkel, and a monologue from the play "Nuts" by Tom Tabor.

"I was really surprised and excited when I made it to the top 12," Ramos said.

Ramos was nominated to compete in the festival after members of the ACTF saw her in the K-State production of "The Buck Stops Here."

"I really owe a lot to Kate Anderson, who cast me in the play. A lot of schools won't cast parts for people who aren't theater majors," Ramos said. Ramos has been in two K-State productions.

Along with a chance to compete in the nationals, students were also competing for the Irene Ryan Scholarship Award. Ryan may be best remembered as she played Granny on "The Beverly Hillbillies." When she died in 1973, she left a sum of money to be used to help pay for the education of young actors.

For Ramos, the festival was full of out-of-the-ordinary happenings, including when she gave her presentation. Each time a contestant advanced to another round, they had to pick a number so they would know in what order they would perform. For each three rounds that Ramos qualified for, she drew the number 12.

"I drew 12 for the first two rounds and when I started to draw for the third I thought 'Wouldn't it be wild if I drew 12 again?' and I did!" Ramos said.

After the final rounds were over, a lot of the students just wanted to party, but when Ramos walked out of the elevator she had another surprise waiting for her.

"A talent agent came up to me and asked if I wanted to read a script from a soap opera and I said 'sure, why not?' I read the part of Hope Brady on "Days Of Our Lives" and then he critiqued me and I left."

Most students are surprised when she tells them she's majoring in architecture, but she likes to think that theater and architecture complement each other.

"I enjoy doing both and I want to do both excellently," Ramos said. So far Ramos has managed to do both well. She has performed in summer theater and has used her architecture to work for Walt Disney as a land-use planner.

Connie Ramos, fifth-year senior in architecture, balances hours on stage with hours in studio. Ramos was one of 12 American College Theatre Festival regional finalists.

Weather

Partly Cloudy

Partly cloudy and cold today, high around 20. Partly cloudy tonight and Tuesday. Low tonight around zero.

Inside

SGA Candidates

The Collegian introduces the Student Governing Association election candidates today in a four-page section beginning on Page 7.

Sports

Home Win

The Wildcats break a four-game home losing streak by beating the University of Colorado Saturday. See Page 13.

Kansas State

Collegian

Monday
February 10, 1986

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 92, Number 94

Nine semifinalists competing for K-State presidential post

By TIM CARPENTER
Editorial Page Editor

The Presidential Search Committee is focusing on nine semifinal candidates with strong academic and administrative backgrounds to replace President Duane Acker, who will step down in June, according to published reports.

This weekend, the Wichita Eagle-Beacon quoted an unnamed source as saying the field had been narrowed to nine men and that Dean of the College of Engineering Donald Rathbone, who has served in that capacity since 1973, is in the running for the position.

Rathbone acknowledged he applied for the $92,000-a-year job but said the search committee not indicated whether he is among the semi-finalists.

"I felt the job was a great opportunity. This is a great institution this was something I could do for the University. I felt it would be a positive kind of thing. Certainly know Kansas State," he said.

Another candidate, Robert Ford, president of the University of Texas at Dallas, said he resorted to a nomination and applied for the post, but the committee hasn't "one way or another" if he is

the running.

"My career in higher education at land-grant universities in the upper-Midwest is lengthy and Kansas State is a very respected university," Rathbone said. "I'm happy where I am, but the University of Texas at Dallas is not a comprehensive university like Kansas State. We have a restricted mission — there are no freshmen or sophomores here."

The search committee, organized in September 1985, is charged with the task of forwarding to the Board of Regents a minimum of three and a maximum of five candidates for the position. The regents will make the final determination.

people who we want to invite for an interview."

Stanley Koplik, executive director of the regents and a non-voting committee member, confirmed the accuracy of the candidate names listed in the Eagle-Beacon. The candidates, all from institutions in the eastern half of the United States, as listed in the newspaper were:

— Donald Rathbone, dean of engineering at K-State. Since his appointment, two buildings in the Durland Hall engineering complex have been constructed. Rathbone received a bachelor's degree in electrical engineering from Purdue University in West Lafayette, Ind.,

Filipinos say votes falsified

By The Associated Press

MANILA, Philippines — Thirty computer operators marched out of the government's election commission Sunday, claiming the balloting that showed President Ferdinand E. Marcos defeating Corason Aquino was falsified.

An international observer group, meanwhile, accused Marcos' partisans on Sunday of vote-buying, intimidation, snatching ballot boxes and tampering with election returns in Friday's special presidential elec-

Film Review

'The Color Purple' fails in spirit

Spielberg misses interpretation of characters

By GARY JOHNSON
Collegian Reviewer

Steven Spielberg's long-awaited "The Color Purple," based on Alice Walker's Pulitzer Prize-winning novel, begins its run in Manhattan today.

It represents Spielberg's move to the adult world. His past movies were either about children or about special effects. Even the adult characters in Spielberg's excellent "Close Encounters" were less important than the colorful flying saucers. "Jaws" was about a shark; the people were secondary. And "E.T." was a child's eye view of the world, adults were villains.

Now don't get me wrong: I'm a big fan of Spielberg's and I love "Close Encounters," "Jaws," and "E.T.," but I was getting a bit suspicious of Spielberg. Could he really make a movie about adults?

"The Color Purple" is this movie. It represents his move away from special effects and fantasy and into the world of adults and their concerns. But, unfortunately, "The Color Purple" is a flawed movie.

The story begins in Georgia in 1906. Celie, little more than a child herself, gives birth to two children, from a father she calls "Pa." He takes the children away from her and tells her nothing about them. Through her close friendship with her sister, Nettie, Celie gets by from day to day. But eventually Pa breaks the sisters up by "giving" Celie to a man she calls "Mister." With him she becomes little more than a servant.

Meanwhile Nettie becomes the servant for two missionaries headed for Africa. Nettie writes Celie on occasion but Mister won't let any of the letters reach Celie. (Nettie wouldn't let Mister have his way with her, so he holds a grudge.) The two sisters will be separated for many years.

While the film does have much going for it, including some excellent cinematography and sets, the spirit of the film is wrong right from the beginning. Spielberg makes everything so literal. The credits roll past in purple lettering. Next there's a field filled with purple flowers. The first few moments of the movie are drenched in the color purple. This lessens the importance of the bit of dialogue about this color that comes later in the film.

Danny Glover and Whoopi Goldberg star as the ill-tempered Mr. _____ and Celie, the downtrodden woman who escapes and outgrows him — until they make a healing peace late in life, in "The Color Purple." The Warner Brothers film opens today in Manhattan.

But the real key to what is amiss in the movie is the book that Spielberg gives these two girls to read — "Oliver Twist." Like poor little Oliver, Spielberg primarily sees Celie as a victim. It's important that Celie is a victim in Walker's novel as well, but Walker also stresses how Celie's lack of will and knowledge play an important role in her remaining under the power of men. Spielberg glosses over this and ends up with a heroine who is a model of perfection.

That's unfortunate, because taking away the depth of Celie's character robs the movie of its conviction. The results then venture into melodrama and sentimentality. Spielberg is good at producing melodrama but it's not good Alice Walker.

Walker's novel no doubt gave screenwriter Menno Meyjes some problems because Celie, as the first-person narrator, tells her stories in bits and fragments, revealed as letters to God and later to Nettie. The movie keeps a fragmentary approach as well, but the scenes on film are missing Celie as interpreter.

Sometimes the choice of scenes is very suspect, as when Celie is ordered to get Mister's father a glass of water. She spits in the water and we wait to see if he will end up taking a drink. Spielberg teases us throughout the scene, playing up the moment for all it's worth and then some. But if this is all Celie can do then her actions are rather sad. Spielberg plays the scene for laughs, though.

Screenwriter Meyjes does make some good decisions, though, such as reducing the time spent on Nettie in Africa. But he also reduces to just the mere suggestion the relationship between Celie and Shug.

The best scenes in the movie are provided by Avery as Shug, the singer and Mister's long-time love. Once Celie sees a picture of Shug, she doesn't become jealous. She becomes fascinated to the point of infatuation. Avery's movements are smooth and sultry. She can be gentle and yet vicious.

Most of the performances in the film are good. Danny Glover as Mister combines both an adult meanness with the wonder of a child. And Oprah Winfrey plays Sofia with a hardness that is never just posturing.

Whoopi Goldberg's performance is filled with problems, though. Goldberg smiles like a little minx. When she plays the scenes with some restraint her performance works, but too often she gets to clown around.

"The Color Purple" is an impressive-looking movie and it certainly leaves audiences grabbing for their hankies, but it never captures the spirit of Walker's novel. Neither is it successful as melodrama. As melodrama it's flat. Spielberg goes for the middle of the road and ends up with a compromise.

Divers 1

By The Associated Press

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — Divers Sunday intensified the shore search for wreckage of the space shuttle Challenger, but to locate an explosive booster rocket spotted under by sonar.

The 32,000-pound booster, one of two solid-fuel rockets, was believed to be in an area 1 northeast of the launch site, parts of the shuttle's crew compartment, one of its two solid fuel boosters and other debris had reported.

"There is plenty of material there, but they have found identifiable" in 100- to 120-foot late Saturday and all day Sunday, said Navy spokesman Cmdr. E. Norton.

"There is nothing further report," he said Sunday after the divers halted their search. The weather and visibility were Sunday after heavy rain and fog hampered operations late day. The search was scheduled to resume today.

Norton said the 22 divers of the Navy salvage ship Preserver concentrated their Sunday in a zone where "good images" showed the 10-by-10-foot "inertial upper stage" rock resting on the ocean bottom.

The IUS was to have boosted million NASA communication satellite into higher orbit after carried into space by Challenger, which exploded at 11:05 a.m. Jan. 28, killing all seven on board.

The Navy focused on the boosters rather than on searching the shuttle crew compartment boosters that propel the space shuttle because "they're pretty sure they've got there, and it's in a shallow water. So, it's a the-hand type of situation," said.

The IUS, powered by 27,400 pounds of solid fuel, will be having

Univers

By ERIC RHODENBAUM
Staff Writer

Fifty-two electrical transistors on campus will be replaced because they contain contaminated with polychlorinated biphenyl (PCB), said Ferguson, general manager of physical facilities.

Ferguson said it will cost $200,000 to replace or flush

UPC to sponsor video dance to raise money

By JANELL BERROTH
Collegian Reporter

Music, videos, dancing, prizes and a $1 admission that will go to a great cause. It's called a video dance.

The dance is co-sponsored by the Union Program Council's Eclectic Entertainment Committee and the T.J. Martell Foundation of Cancer and Leukemia Research. The dance will take place from 9 p.m. to midnight in the Union Catskeller.

Susan Bender, UPC program adviser and graduate student in journalism and mass communications, said a marketing agency from New York, who works with students and other activities organizations, con-

Proceeds will benefit cancer research

tacted Bender about the co-sponsorship.

She said Chevrolet and CBS Records are donating T-shirts, rock posters, keychains and albums to be given away. These companies are also donating the videos and the music.

Bender said the Eclectic Entertainment Committee is charging admission and donating the proceeds to the T.J. Martell Foundation.

"The video dance particularly appealed to us because the co-sponsoring companies are doing this for a good cause in addition to getting their names into universities. Also because it's not costing much. Students have another activity to attend and they can leave with a prize worth more than the admission," she said.

Bender said the eclectic entertainment committee has been wanting to offer dances because of the drinking age change and because they want to add another activity to sponsor.

"Hopefully it will go over well so we have the chance to do other dances, such as dances with live bands," she said.

Bender said the Eclectic Entertainment Committee is in an experimental stage now. The committee is looking more toward comedians and free daytime entertainment with professionals.

She said the committee needs to know what kind of dances students want before planning ahead.

"We are trying to offer some very quality activities. We want to make sure students benefit from donating and that students get more out of it. It matters to know the money is going for a good cause. We are glad to use co-sponsorship if it goes along with our ethical goals," she said.

Weather

Partly Cloudy

Partly cloudy and cold today, high around 20. Partly cloudy tonight and Tuesday. Low tonight around zero.

Inside

SGA Candidates

The Collegian introduces the Student Governing Association election candidates today in a four-page section beginning on Page 7.

Sports

Home Win

The Wildcats break a four-game home losing streak by beating the University of Colorado Saturday. See Page 13.

Kansas State

Collegian

Monday
February 10, 1986

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 92, Number 94

Nine semifinalists competing for K-State presidential post

By TIM CARPENTER
Editorial Page Editor

The Presidential Search Committee is focusing on nine semifinal candidates with strong academic and administrative backgrounds to replace President Duane Acker, who will step down in June, according to published reports.

This weekend, the Wichita Eagle-Beacon quoted an unnamed source as saying the field had been narrowed to nine men and that Dean of the College of Engineering Donald Rathbone, who has served in that capacity since 1973, is in the running for the position.

Rathbone acknowledged his application for the $92,000-a-year but said the search committee not indicated whether he is the semi-finalist.

"I felt the job was a great tunity. This is a great institut this was something I could do the University. I felt it wou positive kind of thing. Cert know Kansas State," he said.

Another candidate, Robert ford, president of the Univ Texas at Dallas, said he resp a nomination and applied post, but the committee has "one way or another" if he i

the running.

"My career in higher education at land-grant universities in the upper-Midwest is lengthy and Kansas State is a very respected university," Rathford said. "I'm happy where I am, but the University of Texas at Dallas is not a comprehensive university like Kansas State. We have a restricted mission — there are no freshmen or sophomores here."

The search committee, organized in September 1985, is charged with the task of forwarding to the Board of Regents a minimum of three and a maximum of five candidates for the position. The regents will make the people who we want to invite for an interview."

Stanley Koplik, executive director of the regents and a non-voting committee member, confirmed the accuracy of the candidate names listed in the Eagle-Beacon. The candidates, all from institutions in the eastern half of the United States, as listed in the newspaper were:

— Donald Rathbone, dean of engineering at K-State. Since his appointment, two buildings in the Durland Hall engineering complex have been constructed. Rathbone received a bachelor's degree in electrical engineering from Purdue

Filipinos say votes falsified

By The Associated Press

MANILA, Philippines — Thirty computer operators marched out of the government's election commission Sunday, claiming the ballot-counting that showed President Ferdinand E. Marcos defeating Corazon Aquino was falsified.

An international observer group, meanwhile, accused Marcos' partisans on Sunday of vote-buying, intimidation, snatching ballot boxes and tampering with election returns

6 Friday, February 7, 1986

Music Review

'Mechanics' album passes sound test

By JILL HUMMELS
Staff Writer

Mike and the Mechanics can do more than rotate tires — they can spin tunes with great adept.

Mike Rutherford, of Genesis, has assembled a collection of songs — and artists to perform them — which accelerate in the performance tests. Rutherford, who co-wrote all of the songs on the album, once again proves his ability to eclipse many pop-song writers today.

Some of the handymen he brings together include vocalists Paul Young and Paul Carrack who take turns with lesser-known vocalists as lead singer. Rutherford and producer Christopher Neil also mix both slow and propelling songs, but the album maintains consistency and character throughout sides A and B.

Through the course of the work there is not a harsh or jarring sound. The songs on the album make smooth transitions in a way that seems just right. Each song has its own distinct presence, but together they form a cohesive family unit like brothers and sisters.

The album is pop rock with a feel that supplies sensations of deja vu as one hears each song for the first time. This effort should provide many successful songs for the Mechanics, including their current hit "Silent Running."

Yet the album avoids the common stereotype associated with pop or bubble-gum rock — Madonna it is not. Sung in a convincing manner rather than a childish fashion, the lyrics show a little more depth and maturity. The result being that a song about true love sounds like a song about true love instead of mere infatuation.

The music makes use of the best in techno-pop equipment to provide a full-bodied, rhythmic sound that shuns a choppy, tin-like sound usually accompanying state-of-the-art instruments.

"Mike and the Mechanics" is well worth the time and money, and promises to provide some of the better of this spring's cruising tunes.

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 12, 1986

KSNT 27	WIBW 13	KLDH 39	KSHB 41	KTWU 11	WGN	WTBS	HBO	SHOW	MAX	ESPN
7:00 Today	CBS Morning News	Good Morning America	Flintstones Joyce	Special Mister Rogers	Bozo	Jeannie Bewitched	Movie: "Arabian"	Movie: "Rope" Cont'd	Movie: "Tex"	Nation's Business
8:00 " "	" "	" "	Bugs Bunny Beaver	Sesame Street	Hillbillies	Hazel I Love Lucy	Adventure	Honeymooners	" "	Seniors Golf PGA Seniors
9:00 Hour Magazine	Pyramid Card Sharks	700 Club	Family Ties Day At A Time	Sesame Street	Waltons	Movie: "Pat And"	Movie: "Sahara"	Movie: "Neptune's"	Movie: "Stage Door"	Golf Treasure
10:00 Family Ties Scrabble	Price Is Right	Bruce Forsyth New Love	Laverne & Shirley	Body Electric Algebra	Big Valley	Mike	" "	Daughter	" "	Coast Classic SportsLook
11:00 Password Wheel Fortune	Young And The Restless	Ryan's Hope Loving	M.T. Moore Bewitched	Write Course To Computers	Little House On The Prairie	Perry Mason	Movie: "Splash"	Joshua Movie: "The Hunter"	" "	Aerobics Outdoor Life
12:00 News Days Of Our	Middy As The World	All My Children	Dick Van Dyke My 3 Sons	Sesame Street	Middy	Movie: "Bombers"	" "	"Midnight Madness"	Movie: " "	College Basketball
1:00 Lives Another World	Turns Capitol	One Life To Live	I Love Lucy Andy Griffith	Nova	What's Hot Carol Burnett	B-52	Farm Aid	Movie: "Bringing Up Baby"	" "	DePaul at Old Dominion
2:00 " "	Guiding Light	General Hospital	Gomer Pyle Beaver	Am. Interests Bridge Basics	Andy Griffith Scooby Doo	Bugs Bunny And Friends	"The Adventures Of"	"Rope"	" "	Top Rank Boxing
3:00 " "	Dallas	Afterschool Special	Scooby Doo GoBots	Cooking Aerobics	Heathcliff M.A.S.K.	Flintstones Brady Bunch	Buckaroo Banzai	Movie: "Fatty Finn"	Movie: "The Empire"	Stevie Cruz vs. Rocky
4:00 Happy Days Diff. Strokes	Donahue	He-Man G.I. Joe	Superfriends Jetsons	Mister Rogers 3-2-1 Contact	Transformers G.I. Joe	Beaver Hillbillies	Adventures Of Robin Hood	Joshua	Strikes Back	Garcia Horse Wk.
5:00 3's Company NBC News	News CBS News	Benson ABC News	Diff. Strokes Good Times	Sesame Street	Good Times Jeffersons	Andy Griffith Carol Burnett	Movie: "The Dresser"	Dire Straits	"Start The"	SportsLook In The PGA
6:00 News Wheel Fortune	News Ent. Tonight	Buddies Newlwyeds	Mork & Mindy Gimme Break	MacNeil / Lehrer	Barney Miller Bob Newhart	M.T. Moore Sanford	" "	Honeymooners	Revolution Without Me	SportsCenter NBA Today
7:00 Highway To Heaven	Mary Foley Square	MacGyver	Lifestyles	National Geographic	Movie: "Rear"	Movie: "A Man Called"	Movie: "Starman"	Brothers Bizarre	Movie: "The Hunter"	Fishin' Hole
8:00 Blake's Magic	Crazy Like A Fox	Dynasty	Movie: "Bill"	Planet Earth	Window	Horse	" "	Movie: "Mischief"	" "	World Cup Skiing
9:00 St. Elsewhere	Equalizer	Hotel	" "	Gold Lust	" "	" "	Farm Aid	" "	Movie: "Bringing Up"	Roller Derby
10:00 News Tonight	News Barney Miller	Benson Taxi	News Matt Houston	TV Classics Business Rpt.	Trapper John,	"Dallas"	Movie: "Christine"	Movie: "After The Fall"	" "	SportsLook SportsCenter
11:00 David	Simon & Simon	Nightline Kung Fu	Get Smart	Old House Motorweek	M.D. Movie:	" "	" "	Of New York	Movie: "The Empire"	Skiing Mag. Ski TV
12:00 Letterman Gene Scott	Movie: "Five Of Me"	Ind. News	Andy Griffith Three Stooges	"A Piece Of The Action"	"The Wrong Man"	"Hotel New Hampshire"	"Midnight Madness"	Strikes Back	" "	Tennis Mag. NBA Today

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 13, 1986

KSNT 27	WIBW 13	KLDH 39	KSHB 41	KTWU 11	WGN	WTBS	HBO	SHOW	MAX	ESPN
7:00 Today	CBS Morning News	Good Morning America	Flintstones Joyce	Special Mister Rogers	Bozo	Jeannie Bewitched	Movie: "Mrs. Soffel"	Movie Cont'd	Movie Cont'd	Nation's Business
8:00 " "	" "	" "	Bugs Bunny Beaver	Sesame Street	Hillbillies	Hazel I Love Lucy	" "	Waylon Jennings	"Benji"	Horse Wk. NBA Today
9:00 Hour Magazine	Pyramid Card Sharks	700 Club	Family Ties Day At A Time	Sesame Street	Waltons	Movie: "Sweet"	Movie: "Warlords Of"	Movie: "Cynara"	Movie: "Rio Bravo"	Ski TV Skiing
10:00 Family Ties Scrabble	Price Is Right	Bruce Forsyth New Love	Laverne & Shirley	Body Electric Ecology	Big Valley	Hostage	Atlantis	Honeymooners	" "	SportsLook
11:00 Password Wheel Fortune	Young And The Restless	Ryan's Hope Loving	M.T. Moore Bewitched	Of The Dragon Of Culture	Little House On The Prairie	Perry Mason	Movie: "Where The"	Movie: "Running"	Movie: " "	Aerobics PKA Full
12:00 News Days Of Our	Middy As The World	All My Children	Dick Van Dyke My 3 Sons	Sesame Street	Middy	Movie: "Flareup"	Boys Are	Brave	"Man In The Wilderness"	Contact Karate
1:00 Lives Another World	Turns Capitol	One Life To Live	I Love Lucy Andy Griffith	American Playhouse	What's Hot Carol Burnett	" "	Movie: "Turk 182"	Movie: "Until They"	Movie: " "	Tennis Mag. Tennis
2:00 " "	Guiding Light	General Hospital	Gomer Pyle Beaver	Decisions Oil Painting	Andy Griffith Scooby Doo	Bugs Bunny And Friends	" "	Sail	"Come And Get It"	" "
3:00 " "	Dallas	Of Power Scooby Doo	Scooby Doo GoBots	Cooking Aerobics	Heathcliff M.A.S.K.	Flintstones Brady Bunch	Remember When	Suzi's War Movie:	Movie: " "	Roller Derby
4:00 Happy Days Diff. Strokes	Donahue	He-Man G.I. Joe	Superfriends Jetsons	Mister Rogers 3-2-1 Contact	Transformers G.I. Joe	Beaver Hillbillies	The Phantom Treehouse	"Kidco"	"Tank"	Skiing Mag. SportsCenter
5:00 3's Company NBC News	News CBS News	Benson ABC News	Diff. Strokes Good Times	Sesame Street	Good Times Jeffersons	Andy Griffith Carol Burnett	Movie: "Bugs Bunny /"	Movie: " "	Movie: " "	SportsCenter
6:00 News Wheel Fortune	News Ent. Tonight	Buddies Newlwyeds	Mork & Mindy Gimme Break	MacNeil / Lehrer	Barney Miller Bob Newhart	M.T. Moore Sanford	"O'Hara's Wife"	Road Runner Movie:	Movie: "Benji"	College Basketball
7:00 Cosby Show Family Ties	Magnum, P.I.	Ripley's	Fantasy Island	Civilization And The Jews	Movie: "Breaker!"	Movie: "Standing"	Movie: "Greystoke"	Movie: "Running"	Movie: "Man In The"	ODU at VCU
8:00 Cheers	Simon & Simon	The Colbys	Solid Gold Countdown	Mystery!	Breaker!"	Tall	The Legend Of Tarzan, Lord	Brave	Wilderness	College Basketball
9:00 Hill Street Blues	Knots Landing	20 / 20	'85	A House S. Previews	News	American Portrait	Of The Apes	Honeymooners	Movie: "The Mean"	Md. at NC State
10:00 News Tonight	News Barney Miller	Benson Taxi	News Matt Houston	TV Classics Business Rpt.	WKRP Trapper John,	Movie: "Betrayed"	"Mrs. Soffel"	"Hopscotch"	Season	SpeedWeek SportsCenter
11:00 David	T.J. Hooker	Nightline Kung Fu	Get Smart	Mystery!	M.D. Movie:	" "	Not News	"Island Of"	Movie: "Tomboy"	Auto Racing Parker 400
12:00 Letterman Gene Scott	Movie: "Hit And Run"	Ind. News	Andy Griffith Three Stooges	"For Love Of Ivy"	Movie	" "	Movie: "Turk 182"	1000 Delights	Movie	Fishin' Hole

Divers

By The Associated Press

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — Divers Sunday intensified their search for wreckage space shuttle Challenger, but to locate an explosive booster rocket spotted only by sonar.

The 32,000-pound booster, ed of two solid-fuel rocket was believed to be in an area northeast of the launch site parts of the shuttle's crew ment, one of its two solid fuel boosters and other debris had reported.

"There is plenty of mate there, but they have found identifiable" in 100- to 120-foot late Saturday and all day said Navy spokesman Cmdr E. Norton.

"There is nothing further report," he said Sunday after the divers halted their The weather and visibility w Sunday after heavy rain and ing hampered operations lat day. The search was sch resume today.

Norton said the 22 divers the Navy salvage shi Preserver concentrated their Sunday in a zone where "got images" showed the 10-by "inertial upper stage" rool resting on the ocean bottom.

The IUS was to have booste million NASA communicatio satellite into higher orbit after carried into space Challenger, which exploded toff Jan. 28, killing all sever on board.

The Navy focused on the boosters rather than on searc the shuttle crew compartme boosters that propel the sp because "they're pretty sure they've got there, and it's in ly shallow water. So, it's a the-hand type of situation," said.

The IUS, powered by 27,400 of solid fuel, will be hav

Univers

By ERIC RHODENBAU
Staff Writer

Fifty-two electrical trans on campus will be replaced because they contain taminated with polychlo biphenyl (PCB), said Ferguson, general man physical facilities.

Ferguson said it will co $200,000 to replace or flus

Downhill Ski Rental

Low Rates — Excellent Equipment
Free Travel Days
Ski Racks

Hit the slopes the minute you get there
No Waiting!

1111 Moro Aggieville 539-5639

VIDEO RENTALS - SALES

HOURS:
10:00 - 9:00 MONDAY - SATURDAY
CLOSED SUNDAYS
2030 TUTTLECREEK BLVD 539-1533

33 1/3% OFF

Process & Print

with this coupon
From 110, 126, 35mm or disc color print film
Example: 24 exp. film reg. $9.94...
NOW $6.82!

2700 Anderson Ave.
(Near Westloop)
Open Mon. Sat. 8 a.m. to 9 p.m.
Sundays 12 p.m. to 6 p.m. 839-8819

Weather

Partly Cloudy

Partly cloudy and cold today, high around 20. Partly cloudy tonight and Tuesday. Low tonight around zero.

Inside

SGA Candidates

The Collegian introduces the Student Governing Association election candidates today in a four-page section beginning on Page 7.

Sports

Home Win

The Wildcats break a four-game home losing streak by beating the University of Colorado Saturday. See Page 13.

Kansas State

Collegian

Monday
February 10, 1986

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 92, Number 94

Nine semifinalists competing for K-State presidential post

By TIM CARPENTER
Editorial Page Editor

The Presidential Search Committee is focusing on nine semifinal candidates with strong academic and administrative backgrounds to replace President Duane Acker, who will step down in June, according to published reports.

This weekend, the Wichita Eagle-Beacon quoted an unnamed source as saying the field had been narrowed to nine men and that Dean of the College of Engineering Donald Rathbone, who has served in that capacity since 1973, is in the running for the position.

Rathbone acknowledged he is an applicant for the $92,000-a-year post but said the search committee had not indicated whether he is among the semi-finalists.

"I felt the job was a great opportunity. This is a great institution and I felt I could do something for the University. I felt it would be a positive kind of thing. Certainly, I know Kansas State," he said.

Another candidate, Robert Ford, president of the University of Texas at Dallas, said he responded to a nomination and applied for the post, but the committee hasn't decided "one way or another" if he is

the running.

"My career in higher education at land-grant universities in the upper-Midwest is lengthy and Kansas State is a very respected university," Rathbone said. "I'm happy where I am, but the University of Texas at Dallas is not a comprehensive university like Kansas State. We have a restricted mission — there are no freshmen or sophomores here."

The search committee, organized in September 1985, is charged with the task of forwarding to the Board of Regents a minimum of three and a maximum of five candidates for the position. The regents will make the final determination.

people who we want to invite for an interview."

Stanley Koplik, executive director of the regents and a non-voting committee member, confirmed the accuracy of the candidate names listed in the Eagle-Beacon. The candidates, all from institutions in the eastern half of the United States, as listed in the newspaper were:

— Donald Rathbone, dean of engineering at K-State. Since his appointment, two buildings in the Durland Hall engineering complex have been constructed. Rathbone received a bachelor's degree in electrical engineering from Purdue University in West Lafayette, Ind.,

Filipinos say votes falsified

By The Associated Press

MANILA, Philippines — Thirty computer operators marched out of the government's election commission Sunday, claiming the ballot-counting that showed President Ferdinand E. Marcos defeating Corason Aquino was falsified.

An international observer group, meanwhile, accused Marcos' partisans on Sunday of vote-buying, intimidation, snatching ballot boxes and tampering with election returns in Friday's special presidential elec-

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 14, 1986

KSNT	WIBW	KLDH	KSHB	KTWU	WGN	WTBS	HBO	SHOW	MAX	ESPN
7:00 Today	CBS Morning News	Good Morning America	Flintstones	Special: Mister Rogers	Bozo	Jeannie Bewitched	Movie: "St. Helens"	Miserables	Movie: "Ada"	Nation's Business
8:00 " "	" "	" "	Bugs Bunny	Sesame Street	Hillbillies	Hazel I Love Lucy	"Two Of A Kind"	"College Basketball"	" "	" "
9:00 Hour Magazine	Pyramid Card Sharks	700 Club	Family Ties	Sesame Street	Waltons	"Three Hundred Miles"	Movie: "The Brother"	Movie: "Meet Me In"	Movie: "The Karate"	ODU at VCU
10:00 Family Ties	Price Is Right	Bruce Forsyth	Laverne & Shirley	Body Electric	Big Valley	For Stephanie	From Another Planet	Las Vegas	Kid	In The PGA SportsLook
11:00 Password	Young And The Restless	Ryan's Hope	M.T. Moore	Photovision	Little House	Perry Mason	Movie: "Ice Man"	Movie: "Ups & Downs"	Movie: "Love Me Or Leave Me"	Aerobics SpeedWeek
12:00 News	Midday As The World	All My Children	Dick Van Dyke	Sesame Street	Midday	Movie: "The Deadly"	" "	" "	" "	College Basketball
1:00 Lives	Turns	One Life To Live	I Love Lucy	Mystery!	What's Hot	Hunt	Movie: "Android"	Movie: "The Main"	Movie: " "	Md. at NC State
2:00 Santa Barbara	Guiding Light	General Hospital	Gomer Pyle	Aloha China	Andy Griffith	Bugs Bunny	Emma	Event	"Hambone And Hillie"	Women Horse Wk.
3:00 Gilligan	Dallas	Of Power	Scoby Doo	Cooking	Healthcliff	Flintstones	Movie: "Mysterious"	Les Miserables	Movie: "The"	Wrestling
4:00 Happy Days	Donahue	He-Man	Superfriends	Mister Rogers	Transformers	Beaver	Stranger	Valen's Day	Westerner	Tennis Mag.
5:00 3's Company	News	Benson	Diff. Strokes	Sesame Street	Good Times	Andy Griffith	Movie: "The Main"	Movie: "Ups & Downs"	Movie: "Ada"	SportsLook Salt Water
6:00 News	News	Buddies	Mork & Mindy	MacNeil / Lehrer	Barney Miller	M.T. Moore	Event	" "	" "	SportsCenter Wrestling
7:00 Disney	Twilight Zone	Webster	Star Games	Wash. Week	College	Movie: "Last Train"	Movie: "Too Scared"	Movie: "The Karate"	Movie: "The Karate"	Top Rank
8:00 Knight Rider	Dallas	Movie: "Best Friends"	Dempsey & Makepeace	Basketball	Beastmaster	From Gun Hill	To Scream	Breakfast Club	Kid	Boxing Sammy
9:00 Miami Vice	Falcon Crest	" "	Lou Grant	Statehouse '86	News	NBA Basketball	Movie: "Purple"	Tears For Fears	Movie: " "	Fuentes vs. Marvin Garris
10:00 News	News	Benson	News	TV Classics	WKRP	Celtics at Trail Blazers	Movie: "The Main"	Movie: "Firestarter"	College Basketball	Ore. St. at Wash.
11:00 Wrestling	Star Search	"The Exorcist"	"Hand Of Night"	Brown Sugar	M.D.	Movie: "Songwriter"	Event	Movie: " "	" "	World Cup Skiing
12:00 Gene Scott	Millionaire	" "	Three Stooges	"Let's Do It Again"	Power Play	Night Tracks	Movie: "Two Of A Kind"	"Vanessa"	Movie: " "	" "

Divers

By The Associated Press

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — Divers Sunday intensified the search for wreckage of the shuttle Challenger, but to locate an explosive booster rocket spotted under by sonar.

The 32,000-pound booster, one of two solid-fuel rockets, was believed to be in an area northeast of the launch site. Parts of the shuttle's crew compartment, one of its two solid-fuel boosters and other debris had been reported.

"There is plenty of material there, but they have found nothing identifiable" in 100- to 120-foot late Saturday and all day Sunday, said Navy spokesman Cmdr. E. Norton.

"There is nothing further report," he said Sunday after the divers halted their search. The weather and visibility were Sunday after heavy rain and fog hampered operations late Sunday. The search was scheduled to resume today.

Norton said the 22 divers on the Navy salvage ship Preserver concentrated their search in a zone where "good images" showed the 10-by-10-foot "inertial upper stage" rocket resting on the ocean bottom.

The IUS was to have boosted the shuttle into higher orbit after being carried into space by the Challenger, which exploded on Jan. 28, killing all seven on board.

The Navy focused on the boosters rather than on searching for the shuttle crew compartment boosters that propel the shuttle because "they're pretty sure they've got there, and it's in relatively shallow water. So, it's a the-hand type of situation," said.

The IUS, powered by 27,400 gallons of solid fuel, will be having

Univers

By ERIC RHODENBAU
Staff Writer

Fifty-two electrical transistors on campus will be replaced because they contain polychlorinated biphenyl (PCB), said Ferguson, general manager of physical facilities.

Ferguson said it will cost $200,000 to replace or flush

COMMONWEALTH THEATERS

Wareham 410 PONTIAC

Sally Field

James Garner

MURPHY'S ROMANCE

DAILY 5-7:10-9:20
MAT. SAT. & SUN. 3

Campus

The Color Purple

DAILY 5 & 8
MAT. SAT. & SUN. 2

Varsity

A state of mind... Brazil

DAILY 5-7:15-9:30

WESTLOOP CINEMA 6

DOWN AND OUT IN BEVERLY HILLS

2:30-4:45-7:15

A Comedy about life, hope, and getting even. PG-13

THE BEST OF TIMES

1:45-3:45-5:45-7:45-9:45

My CHAUFFEUR

1:45-3:45-5:45-7:45-9:45

LOUIS GOSSETT, JR. IRON EAGLE

2:30-4:45-7:15

POWER

2:45-5:15-7:15-9:30

THE GODS MUST BE CRAZY

2:45-5:15-7:15-9:30

A PASSAGE TO INDIA

The Academy Award-winning epic of clashing cultures in turn-of-the-century India.

HBO

Manhattan Cable TV Services, Inc.

610 Humboldt 776-9239

MANNEQUINS

FRI. & SAT.:

J.T.N.

KANSAS CITY'S HI-FIDELITY ROCK N ROLL BAND!

DRINK SPECIALS NIGHTLY

Page 3

Mon.-Sat. 8:30-5:30
Thursday 8:30-8:30

Weather

Partly Cloudy

Partly cloudy and cold today, high around 20. Partly cloudy tonight and Tuesday. Low tonight around zero.

Inside

SGA Candidates

The Collegian introduces the Student Governing Association election candidates today in a four-page section beginning on Page 7.

Sports

Home Win

The Wildcats break a four-game home losing streak by beating the University of Colorado Saturday. See Page 13.

Kansas State

Collegian

Monday
February 10, 1986

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 92, Number 94

Nine semifinalists competing for K-State presidential post

By TIM CARPENTER
Editorial Page Editor

The Presidential Search Committee is focusing on nine semifinal candidates with strong academic and administrative backgrounds to replace President Duane Acker, who will step down in June, according to published reports.

This weekend, the Wichita Eagle-Beacon quoted an unnamed source as saying the field had been narrowed to nine men and that Dean of the College of Engineering Donald Rathbone, who has served in that capacity since 1973, is in the running for the position.

Rathbone acknowledged he is an applicant for the $92,000-a-year job, but said the search committee has not indicated whether he is among the semi-finalists.

"I felt the job was a great opportunity. This is a great institution and this was something I could do to help the University. I felt it would be a positive kind of thing. Certainly, I know Kansas State," he said.

Another candidate, Robert Rutford, president of the University of Texas at Dallas, said he responded to a nomination and applied for the post, but the committee hasn't said "one way or another" if he is still in the running.

"My career in higher education at land-grant universities in the upper-Midwest is lengthy and Kansas State is a very respected university," Rutford said. "I'm happy where I am, but the University of Texas at Dallas is not a comprehensive university like Kansas State. We have a restricted mission — there are no freshmen or sophomores here."

The search committee, organized in September 1985, is charged with the task of forwarding to the Board of Regents a minimum of three and a maximum of five candidates for the position. The regents will make the final determination.

Committee Chairman Jerome Frieman, associate professor of psychology, said he remains committed to the committee's long standing policy of candidate confidentiality. To comment would only add credibility to the reports, he said.

"Now that a list of names is out, regardless of its accuracy, a lot of people will get hassled — some unnecessarily. For some people it doesn't matter if their names are made public. It serves to enhance their position, but for others it causes grief," Frieman said. "We don't have a final list per se. We are just now getting together a list of those people who we want to invite for an interview."

Stanley Koplik, executive director of the regents and a non-voting committee member, confirmed the accuracy of the candidate names listed in the Eagle-Beacon. The candidates, all from institutions in the eastern half of the United States, as listed in the newspaper were:

— Donald Rathbone, dean of engineering at K-State. Since his appointment, two buildings in the Durland Hall engineering complex have been constructed. Rathbone received a bachelor's degree in electrical engineering from Purdue University in West Lafayette, Ind., where he graduated first in his class. He holds a master's degree in electrical engineering from Northwestern University in Evanston, Ill., and a doctorate in engineering from the University of Pittsburgh in Pittsburgh. K-State has an enrollment of approximately 17,000.

— John Slaughter, chancellor of the University of Maryland at College Park. He is a 1956 graduate of K-State with a bachelor's degree in electrical engineering. Slaughter received his master's degree from UCLA and a doctorate in engineering

See SEARCH, Page 16

Divers fail to recover rocket

By The Associated Press

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — Navy divers Sunday intensified their offshore search for wreckage of the space shuttle Challenger, but failed to locate an explosive satellite booster rocket spotted underwater by sonar.

The 32,000-pound booster, composed of two solid-fuel rocket motors, was believed to be in an area 18 miles northeast of the launch site, where parts of the shuttle's crew compartment, one of its two solid fuel rocket boosters and other debris have been reported.

"There is plenty of material out there, but they have found nothing identifiable" in 100- to 120-foot dives late Saturday and all day Sunday, said Navy spokesman Cmdr. Arthur E. Norton.

"There is nothing further to report," he said Sunday evening after the divers halted their search. The weather and visibility were good Sunday after heavy rain and lightning hampered operations late Saturday. The search was scheduled to resume today.

Norton said the 22 divers aboard the Navy salvage ship USS Preserver concentrated their efforts Sunday in a zone where "good sonar images" showed the 10-by-17 foot "inertial upper stage" rocket was resting on the ocean bottom.

The IUS was to have boosted a $100 million NASA communications relay satellite into higher orbit after it was carried into space aboard Challenger, which exploded after liftoff Jan. 28, killing all seven people on board.

The Navy focused on the satellite boosters rather than on searching for the shuttle crew compartment or the boosters that propel the spaceship because "they're pretty sure of what they've got there, and it's in relatively shallow water. So, it's a bird-in-the-hand type of situation," Norton said.

The IUS, powered by 27,400 pounds of solid fuel, will be have to be declared safe by Navy explosive experts before it is brought to the surface by the Preserver, which is capable of lifting up to 10 tons.

The IUS was considered "a hazardous object," Norton said earlier.

"Our divers are identifying and mapping a small area of the ocean floor, taking photographs and eyeballing," Norton said Sunday. "We can leave this (the IUS) and go anywhere that may be considered more important at any time."

NASA chief considers resigning, officials say

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Reagan administration officials insist they are not trying to force the resignation of indicted NASA chief James M. Beggs, but there is growing speculation he will quit, and names of potential successors are emerging.

The lack of a permanent NASA administrator — Beggs is on leave — was brought into sharp focus by the space shuttle Challenger disaster that killed its five-man, two-woman crew.

Rumors of Beggs' possible resignation were fueled Friday when White House deputy press secretary Larry Speakes said the administrator "has apparently told some people — members of Congress and others — that he is considering stepping aside, and may do so."

Speakes added, "We are exploring whether we want to look for a permanent replacement." He said it was up to Beggs whether he should quit.

By openly discussing the possibility that Beggs may resign, the White House spokesman seemed to be signaling the wishes of key administration officials.

Names of potential successors quickly emerged on Capitol Hill and at the White House, including

"Our people are committed as long as it takes. We may be here months. ... The idea is to get the job done."

Navy and NASA officials would not say if there had been any progress in recovering Challenger's crew cabin, rocket boosters or remains from any of the seven astronauts.

Space agency officials would only say that three NASA ships were at sea conducting sonar sweeps and photographing underwater objects with robot subs.

William Graham, the agency's acting director; former NASA administrators James C. Fletcher and Thomas O. Paine; another former NASA official, Hans Mark; former astronaut Frank Borman, currently board chairman of Eastern Airlines, and former astronaut and one-time GOP Sen. Harrison Schmitt.

Another White House official, speaking on condition he not be identified, said Beggs' plans were unclear. The official said no one in the White House had suggested directly or indirectly to Beggs that he should resign, and that President Reagan "would be supportive of Beggs whatever he decides to do."

Beggs could not be reached by telephone for comment. He has been on indefinite paid leave since his indictment Dec. 2 for allegedly trying to hide cost overruns on a federal defense contract while he was executive vice president of General Dynamics Corp.

As Beggs' future was being discussed at the White House, a presidential commission investigating the Jan. 28 shuttle explosion met in closed session next door in the Old Executive Office Building

See SHUTTLE, Page 6

Staff/Andy Nelson

Window fans

Afternoon light filtering through a long window in Ahearn Field House silhouettes three Wildcat fans as they cheer Saturday during K-State's 79-53 conference victory over the University of Colorado.

Filipinos say votes falsified

By The Associated Press

MANILA, Philippines — Thirty computer operators marched out of the government's election commission Sunday, claiming the ballot-counting that showed President Ferdinand E. Marcos defeating Corason Aquino was falsified.

An international observer group, meanwhile, accused Marcos' partisans on Sunday of vote-buying, intimidation, snatching ballot boxes and tampering with election returns in Friday's special presidential election.

The computer operators wept on each others' shoulders after parading single file out of the Marcos-appointed commission's counting center.

"There was something wrong," a woman operator explained. "What's posted on the tabulation board does not tally with the computer board, and we don't know who is doing it. We can't take it any more."

The woman, who refused to give her name, told The Associated Press that workers spotted the problem Saturday night, when Aquino was leading in the commission's count by 100,000 votes. By midday Sunday, Marcos had taken over the lead.

By Monday morning, with 28 percent of the precincts reporting, the commission's unofficial tally gave Marcos 3,056,236 votes to Aquino's 2,903,348, a split of 51.28 percent to 48.72 percent.

But an independent count by the National Movement for Free Elections, a citizens' ballot-monitoring group known as Namfrel, had Aquino in the lead by 5,576,319 votes to 4,806,166 for Marcos, or 53.7 percent to 46.3 percent.

The Namfrel tally represented 49.14 percent of the Philippines' 86,036 precincts. Final election results from this nation of 7.100 islands are not expected for days.

Marcos' latest six-year term was due to expire in 1987, but he called the special election to show domestic and foreign critics, particularly in the United States, that he still enjoyed overwhelming support in the Philippines.

Certification of the election result is up to the National Assembly, which was due to begin its own separate canvass Monday.

Citing the difference between the two counts, Political Affairs Minister Leonardo Perez said he would seek the assembly's approval to terminate all other vote-counting immediately.

Sen. Richard Lugar, R-Ind., co-leader of a 20-member U.S. delegation observing the elections, said the election is "teetering on the brink of disaster but still in place."

Speaking on ABC's "This Week With David Brinkley" in an interview from Manila, Lugar added: "No one has any idea who's ahead."

An international observer group, composed of 44 poll-watchers from 19 nations, said delays in the count were "damaging to the credibility of the process."

The statement, read by former President Misael Pastrana of Colombia, read: "We saw many instances of vote-buying, attempts at intimidation, snatching of ballot boxes and tampered election returns." It said many voters, particularly in Manila,

See ELECTION, Page 6

University to replace, flush PCB-contaminated transformers

By ERIC RHODENBAUGH
Staff Writer

Fifty-two electrical transformers on campus will be replaced or flushed because they contain oil contaminated with polychlorinated biphenyl (PCB), said Fred Ferguson, general manager of physical facilities.

Ferguson said it will cost about $200,000 to replace or flush the 31 transformers located in the campus proper.

Thomas J. Frith, director of the department of housing, said 21 transformers containing PCB are located in housing areas. Frith estimated the cost of replacing or flushing the housing transformers at $400,000. The higher cost for housing is due to the transformers in Jardine Terrace which were built into buildings.

The seven transformers at the K-State Union do not contain PCB, Ferguson said.

John Lambert, director of campus safety, said the primary danger of PCB-containing transformers was the building housing the transformer catching fire.

"PCB itself is not toxic; it is carcinogenic (cancer-causing). When it burns it gives off a product of combustion (dioxin), which is toxic,"

Lambert said. "PCB itself is dangerous when it is ingested. The body does retain it in the muscles, fat (and other tissues). There is no danger as long as the oil stays inside the transformers."

Leo Alderman, of the region VII office of the Environmental Protection Agency, said skin contact with PCB can also be dangerous.

"Laboratory studies on animals have shown cancerous effects, but no studies have been done on humans," Alderman said. "(On humans,) it causes chloracne, a skin rash."

Ferguson said transformers take high voltages from the power source and, through a series of copper coils wrapped around an iron core, take a set amount of voltage from the high-voltage source. The oil in the transformers cools the coils.

"One requirement of the oil in the transformers is to have good insulating and preservation qualities. To the best of my knowledge, the PCBs were put in the oil because they added to these properties," Ferguson said.

According to the Federal Register, the newest regulation was made effective Aug. 16, 1985. In effect, it prohibits use of PCB transformers with a secondary voltage greater than 480

See PCB, Page 3

Briefly

INTERNATIONAL

Riots quieting in Haiti after coup

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti — After two nights of wild rejoicing and mob retaliation against the hated secret police of the ousted Duvalier regime, life began returning to normal Sunday in this slum-ridden city of 1 million people.

Trashed, burned-out shells of businesses that were associated with the 28 years of Duvalier family rule bore silent witness to a celebration that turned violent, killing at least 100 people and causing great material damage.

Jean-Claude Duvalier became Haiti's "president-for-life" in 1971 at age 19 on the death of his father, Francois "Papa Doc" Duvalier. He fled to France on Friday on a U.S. Air Force plane with about 25 family members, guards and associates after the United States and Jamaica convinced him to step down in the face of mounting violence.

A military-civilian council assumed interim control.

Duvalier's departure sparked riots and revenge killing against the Tonton Macoutes, the Duvalier dynasty's dreaded private militia.

The provisional military-civilian council on Saturday announced Haiti's new Cabinet. The Cabinet is expected to issue its first communique Monday, including a date to reopen schools closed Jan. 8 because of national unrest in this impoverished Caribbean island nation of 6 million people.

Canadian train collision kills 29

HINTON, Alberta — The first two bodies were recovered Sunday from the smoking rubble of a head-on train wreck in which 29 people were presumed dead. "Nobody could have survived that," said a medical examiner.

Caterpillar tractors, earth-movers, and railroad cranes pulled apart mangled locomotives and cars from a westbound, 114-car Canadian National freight train and an eastbound, nine-car Via Rail passenger train that collided Saturday morning.

The freight train was on the wrong track.

REGIONAL

Day care center faces abuse charge

OVERLAND PARK — An Overland Park day care center has closed after authorities began questioning the operator's three juvenile sons in connection with the alleged sexual abuse of four children at the facility.

The Johnson County district attorney's office is considering filing charges against the three boys, ages 10, 12 and 16, according to Michael B. Buser, an assistant district attorney.

The operator's name and the location of the center were not disclosed. The operator voluntarily closed the center Friday, authorities said.

Three of the girls allegedly abused were 6 years old, and the other was 5, Buser said.

The incidents involving the four girls allegedly took place over several months with the most recent occurring around Christmas, authorities said.

NATIONAL

Marilyn Klinghoffer dies of cancer

NEW YORK — Marilyn Klinghoffer, the widow of Leon Klinghoffer who was killed by terrorists on the cruise ship Achille Lauro, died Sunday of cancer. She was 58.

Klinghoffer died about 5 a.m. at Lenox Hill Hospital, said Letty Simon, a family spokeswoman. She had been in the hospital for about two weeks, Simon said.

The Klinghoffers were aboard the Italian ship when it was hijacked by Palestinian terrorists Oct. 7. Klinghoffer, who had suffered a stroke and was confined to a wheelchair, was shot and his body tossed into the Mediterranean Sea.

The passengers were later freed. The suspected terrorists were apprehended after the United States intercepted an Egyptian plane taking them to freedom and turned over to Italy.

Marilyn Klinghoffer announced shortly after her release that she would establish a foundation to reward and educate people who oppose terrorism.

Appearing before a House Foreign Affairs subcommittee in late October, she said: "My husband's death has made a difference in the way people now perceive their vulnerability. I believe what happened to the passengers on the Achille Lauro and to my family can happen to anyone at any time and at any place."

Marilyn Klinghoffer is survived by her daughters Ilsa and Lisa, a son-in-law, Jerry Arbittier, and her mother, Rose Windwehr.

PEOPLE

College students enjoy 4-star treat

URBANA, Ill. — The mystery-meat of college folklore is not on the menu at a University of Illinois dining room.

Instead, it's likely to be chateaubriand for two, served by candlelight, with fresh flowers on the table and classical music in the background — at least once a week, anyway.

Each Friday, students scramble for a chance to eat at a tiny restaurant in Allen Hall called Reservations Only.

They might select the Chinese shiu-bow appetizer, steamed buns stuffed with pork, egg and sausage in oyster sauce; an orange and jicama salad; a pear with grated cheese, topped with a raspberry; a spicy Africa chicken groundnut stew; carrots and grapes sauteed in butter with a sweetened vodka sauce; crepes suzettes; and a beverage.

The check: $4.50 plus a punch of their meal ticket (worth about $1.10).

Reservations Only was created by Maria Ramos, campus director of residence hall food service, who wanted students to experience gourmet dining.

She also wanted a place where she and a few colleagues could get away from administrative chores and do what they enjoy most — creating haute cuisine.

Most students are very grateful. One summed up his feelings this way:

"My only regret is that my stomach isn't bigger."

Campus Bulletin

ANNOUNCEMENTS

COLLEGE OF EDUCATION STUDENT COUNCIL: Applications are available in Union 13 through today.

INCOME TAX ASSISTANCE: is available in the SGA Office from 2 to 4 p.m. today and Thursday.

BETA ALPHA PSI will provide income tax assistance for the public from 4 to 5:45 p.m. today and Thursday at the Manhattan Public Library.

TODAY

MARKETING CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in the Union Big Eight Room.

AMERICAN SOCIETY OF HEATING, REFRIGERATING AND AIR CONDITIONING ENGINEERS meets at 7 p.m. in Union 213.

COLLEGE OF BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION OPEN HOUSE COMMITTEE meets at 4 p.m. in Union 209.

ALPHA PHI OMEGA meets at 7 p.m. in Union 207.

BUSINESS COUNCIL meets at 4 p.m. in Union 209.

BETA ALPHA PSI meets at 7 p.m. at Dark Horse Tavern.

HUMAN ECOLOGY AMBASSADORS meet at 3 p.m. in Union 204.

Looking Back

20 Years Ago — 1966

Faculty Affairs Committee recently presented four proposals to Faculty Senate for improving on-campus parking space. Increased enrollment will cause the campus parking problem to grow more serious each semester, committee members said.

firefighters from Zeandale, Ashland and Manhattan, battled smoke and flames for almost four hours before extinguishing a grass fire which consumed a few square miles of wooded area and rangeland south of Manhattan yesterday, said Del Petty, director of civil defense for the county.

15 Years Ago — 1971

Faculty Senate approved a proposal giving no credit to students making a D or F while taking courses on a credit-no credit basis.

5 Years Ago — 1981

Members of the Riley County Rural Fire Department, assisted by

According to results of a mass transit survey conducted by the Student Affairs Committee of the Student Governing Association, many students are tired of trying to find a parking space and would use a mass transit system if one were made available to them.

Compiled from the University Archives

comprehensive health associates
• free pregnancy tests
• abortion services
• counseling
• gynecology
• contraception
Overland Park, KS / 913-345-1400

Christopher GOODING

VOTE

for

AG STUDENT SENATE

Paid for by students for Gooding

Elect
Doug Folk
for Engineering Senate
Representing You
Paid for by students for Doug Folk

MONT BLUE APARTMENTS
Leasing for fall
Studio, one, and two bedroom
apartments and town houses
Close to Campus
Phone 539-4447

Make Your Picks
VOTE
in '86
February 11 & 12

State Room Level Union 7:30 a.m.-6 p.m.
Vet. Med. Center 11 a.m.-1 p.m.
Bring your KSU I.D.
Exercise your right to vote

A voter may only vote in his/her designated college.

There may not be any campaign materials (buttons, hats, t-shirts, etc.) within 50 feet of the polls.

GRADUATES,
INTERNATIONAL STUDENTS and WOMEN

Let me represent you on Student Senate.
Let your view be heard where it matters.

Vote Miranda Mortlock on Feb. 11 and 12!

Paid for by students to elect Miranda Mortlock

LEEDS/WARNER

Arts and Sciences
Senator

Engineering
Senator

Paid for by students to elect Jennifer Leeds and Kim Warner

Every Monday
2-FERS
ON ANY PIZZA

Falsetto's
539-3830

K-State Union Program Council Special
Events Committee Proudly Presents

The
HARLEM
GLOBETROTTERS

Tuesday, Feb. 11, 1986

7:30 p.m.

Ahearn Field House

All seats reserved

Tickets: $9 & $8

($2 discount available for students with valid KSU ID, Sr. Citizens, children under 12, and groups of 25 or more)

Tickets available now at the following locations:

K-State Union Box Office, open 10-4

Aggie Ski & Sport, 10-5:30 p.m.

For more ticket information, call 532-6571.

Sun Tan Booths

Will be open to the public from 12-5 p.m. Monday thru Sat. and 1-4 Sunday.

Ten 30 minute sessions for $30
or $4 for each 30 minute session

Call ahead for appointment 776-1750

3238 Kimball Ave. Candlewood Shopping Center
Across from Cico Park

SWEETHEART SPECIAL!

Bring in your sweetheart
for Valentine's savings!

The first cut is $8,
the second cut is only $4.
This week only!

(no double discounts)

MasterCuts
family haircutters

Little Apple Square

539-2535

PCB

Continued from Page 1

volts after Oct. 1, 1990, in or near all commercial buildings. PCB transformers are those with a PCB concentration of more than 500 parts per million.

Alderman said the University is not required to replace or flush transformers with PCB concentrations of 50 to 500 parts per million.

When a transformer is flushed, it must be completely shut down. The oil is then drained and replaced with mineral oil. The transformer is tested for PCB after running 90 days at full capacity. The process is repeated until the PCB concentration is below 50 parts per million.

Ferguson said the University is in the process of hiring a contractor, certified by the Environmental Protection Agency, to flush or remove the transformers. Some of the transformers must be replaced as soon as possible. The EPA requires full compliance by 1990.

"All the transformers we will be removing right away have to do with areas involved in feed processing," he said.

Frith said the process of replacing the housing transformers has begun. The transformer near Derby Food Center will be removed and a "given number" of the ones in Jardine Terrace Apartments will be replaced each year. The transformer near Kramer Food Center does not contain PCB.

"We will start a continuing program to have the ones in Jardine removed," Frith said. "We couldn't afford to do them all at one time."

Ferguson said earlier EPA requirements called for the quarterly inspection of all transformers containing PCB.

"If you didn't know if it was a PCB transformer you had to assume it was. We had an independent lab test them all so we would know which ones had PCB," he said.

Ferguson said a further modification of the EPA's rule allowed the transformers to remain, but only if extensive ventilation and fire-prevention modifications were done to the building housing the transformer. He said the University would replace or flush all transformers regardless of questions about the rulings.

"It would be more economical, practical and safer to just remove or flush the transformers," Ferguson said. "That way we never have problems. If they're not here, they can't cause problems."

Frith said housing will also replace all transformers containing PCB as a "matter of safety and prudence" despite questions on interpretations of the EPA regulations.

"It is reasonably clear that transformers with PCB in the near vicinity of food-preparation areas, near drinking water or near public drainage areas must be replaced," Frith said. "None of our transformers are in such areas and there is nothing mandated on the others."

Ferguson said University Facilities will have to remove a wall to get to the transformer in Umlerger Hall.

"Many (transformers) were built into the building as it was being constructed. They didn't discover there was a problem (with PCB) until recently," he said.

Ferguson said temperatures in the transformers reach between 40 and 50 degrees Celsius (104 to 112 degrees Fahrenheit).

"That's the same temperature your vacuum cleaner motor runs at," Ferguson said. "There is no possibility that a transformer can catch on fire internally because the oil got too hot."

Ferguson said facilities will put a six-inch "M" and a two-inch "L" on all doors to rooms containing transformers "to inform the local fire department so they will not fight a fire in the room without protective equipment."

Ferguson, Frith and Lambert all said there has never been a case of PCB-related health problems at the University.

"They've been here 20 to 30 years or more with no problem, but we feel we need to abide by the regulations," Ferguson said.

Collegian Classifieds
Cheap, but Effective

Ag Senate Needs

PHIL WILLPOWER

Paid for by Student to elect Nordhus

PHIL NORDHUS

Re-Elect
Martin Monto
Arts and Sciences Senator
Paid for by candidate

Attention 1986-87 Juniors
Applications for
Chimes Junior Honorary

Applications are available for any 86-87
Junior with a GPA of 3.0 or above in the Union Activities Center, 3rd floor.

Due Friday, Feb. 21 at 5 p.m.
in the Union Activities Center

New Shuffleboard Table!

NACHO NITE
TONITE!

•99¢ Nachos ($1.99 Regular)
•$2 Pitchers

Plus 50¢ Steins!

MEET YOUR FRIENDS AT...

KITE'S

BAR AND GRILLE

4¢

Copies

Reductions
&
Enlargements

Wall Street Journal
Rocky Mountain News
New York Times
Classical CD's

Claflin Books
Till 9:30 p.m.
Sun.-Fri.
Till 5 p.m.
Sat.

How can a Credit Union
help you?

New car loan
10.8% apr share loan
Used car loan
Mobile home loan
Furniture loan
Life insurance
Appliance loan
Loans up to $15,000
Home improvements
Downpayment
Home computer loans
Loan insurance
Vacation loan
12% apr regular loan
Medical loan

No-wait share loan
Tax loan
Three-month CD
KSU travel loan
On-campus
convenience
Investment loan
Hi-yield passbook saving
RV camper loan
Financial advising
$100,000 NCUA insured

KSU
Federal Credit Union

A service for faculty, staff, and qualified graduate assistants
Anderson Hall, Room 24A
Open 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.
Monday through Friday
532-6274

RUSHWACKERS

along with

Budweiser.

KING OF BEERS.

presents

Comedy Invasion
with Craig Hawksley
and
Virgil Washington
Show starts at 9 p.m.

$2 tickets

539-4321 A reciprocating club

RECORD—TAPE SALE

Now In Progress!

CLASSICAL ROCK FOLK JAZZ COUNTRY

Records start as low as $1.98!
Cassette tapes as low as $3.98!

Varney's

9-9
MON.-SAT.

BOOK STORE
IN AGGIEVILLE

12-5
SUN.

On the edge of campus, in the heart of Aggieville.

Principal-Counselor-Student Conference

The Office of Admissions cordially invites former students of the high schools listed below to attend the 1986 Principal-Counselor-Student Conference. High school principals and counselors will be on campus to visit with their former students about the student's preparation for and experiences in KSU academic programs, the student's feelings as to how the high school curriculum could be improved, and the student's concerns about their adjustment from high school to university life.

Your participation will help the University build a stronger relationship with your former high school, while gaining valuable information about making your KSU experience a more meaningful one for you. It is also an excellent opportunity for you to renew old friendships with former classmates.

Students attending are welcome to drop by the location below anytime between 10:15 a.m. and 12:15 p.m. on Wednesday, Feb. 12. The Provost has asked that your instructors excuse you from these class periods.

SCHOOL LOCATION CODE

U—Union Rooms
FHT—Field House Tables are located on the track surrounding the basketball floor. Tables are numbered 1-150.

FHS—Field House Sections 1-16 are in the balcony.
Field House Sections A-N are on the main floor.

Ableton High School—FHT 17
Andale High School—FHT 81
Anderson High School—FHT 90
Arkansas City High School—FHT 33
Ashland High School—FHT 140
Atchison Co. High School—FHT 73
Atchison Co. High School—FHT 100
Atwood High School—FHT 49
Augusta High School—U-Courtyard
Axtell High School—FHT 98
B&B High School—FHT 145
Bellevue High School—FHT 36
Beloit High School—U-Courtyard
Bennington High School—FHT 118
Bern High School—FHT 99
Bishop Miege High School—FHT 58
Blue Valley High School (Randolph)—FHT 52
Blue Valley High School (Stanley)—U-'U' Ballroom
Bluestem High School—FHT 138
Bonner Springs High School—FHT 82
Buhler High School—U-Courtyard
Caldwell High School—FHT 19
Central High School—FHT 129
Centralia High School—FHT 16
Centre High School—FHT 149
Chanute High School—FHT 139
Chaparral High School—FHT 111
Chapman High School—FHT 25
Chase High School—FHT 79
Chase Co. High School (Cottonwood Falls)—U-Courtyard
Cheney High School—FHS K
Cherryvale High School—U-Courtyard
Cimarron High School—FHT 8
Circle High School—FHT 150
Clarke High School—FHT 83
Clay Center Comm. High—U-Courtyard
Clearwater High School—FHT 65
Clifton-Clyde High School—FHT 34
Coldwater High School—FHT 130
Concordia High School—FHT 131
Conway Springs High School—U-Courtyard
Dighton High School—FHT 7

Dodge City High School—U-Big Eight
Douglass High School—FHT 86
Downs High School—FHT 141
El Dorado High School—U-Courtyard
Elkhart High School—FHT 93
Ellinwood High School—FHT 66
Ellis High School—FHT 110
El-Saline High School—FHT 35
Ellsworth High School—FHT 122
Emporia High School—FHT 59
Erie High School—FHT 142
Eureka High School—FHT 57
Fairfield High School—FHT 47
Field Kindley Mem. High—FHT 148
Frankfort High School—FHT 15
Fredonia High School—U-Courtyard
Garden City High—FHT 91
Garden Plain High—FHT 127
Gardner-Edgerton High—FHT 20
Garnett High School—FHT 85
Goddard High School—FHT 112
Goodland High School—FHT 45
Great Bend High School—U-'U' Ballroom
Hanover High School—U-Courtyard
Hanson High School—FHT 135
Haven High School—FHT 2
Hays High School—FHT 143
Hennington High School—U-Courtyard
Hessman High School—FHT 96
Hawthorn High School—FHT 62
Highland Park High—U-Big Eight
Hill City High School—FHT 72
Hillsboro High School—FHT 89
Hosington High School—FHT 53
Horton High School—U-Courtyard
Hope High School—FHT 120
Hoxie High School—FHT 130
Hugoton High School—FHT 101
Hutchinson High School—FHS A
Immaculate High School—FHT 125

Independence High—FHT 60
Inman High School—FHT 3
Ioia High School—FHT 24
Jackson Heights High—FHT 37
Jefferson Co. North—FHT 56
Jefferson West High—FHT 9
Jermore High School—U-Courtyard
Junction City High—Forum Ballroom
Kaplan-Mt. Carmel High—FHT 70
Kingman High School—FHT 144
Labette Co. High School—FHT 4
Lacrosse High School—FHT 108
Lansing High School—U-212a
Larned High School—FHT 67
Lawrence High School—U-207b
Leavenworth High School—U-212d
Lincoln High School—FHT 39
Lindsborg High School—FHT 80
Linn High School—FHT 92
Little River-Windom-Genesee—FHT 77
Lucas-Luray High School—FHT 128
Luckey High School—FHT 94
Lyndon High School—FHT 107
Madison High School—FHT 26
Maize High School—FHT 10
Manhattan High School—U-213
Mankato High School—FHT 116
Marion High School—U-Courtyard
Marmaton Valley High—FHT 11
Marysville High School—FHT 74
McPherson High School—U-202
Mission Valley High—FHT 61
Moundridge High School—U-Courtyard
Mulvane High School—FHT 75
Mulvane High School—FHT 137
Nauvoo High School—FHT 40
Nebraska Valley High School—U-Courtyard
Neodesha High School—FHT 14
Ness City High School—FHT 23
Nickerson High School—FHT 63
Northern Hts. High School—FHT 115
Northern Valley High—FHT 132

Norton Comm. High School—FHT 106
Oakley High School—FHT 51
Olathe North High School—U-212b
Olathe South High School—FHT 113
Orange High School—FHT 114
Osage City High School—FHT 87
Oswatimie High School—U-Courtyard
Os-Bison High School—FHT 134
Ottawa High School—FHT 105
Paola High School—FHT 12
Parsons High School—FHT 88
Peabody High School—FHT 27
Phillipsburg High School—FHT 69
Pike Valley High School—FHT 64
Piper High School—FHT 95
Plainville High School—FHT 21
Pleasant Ridge High School—FHT 38
Prairie View High School—FHT 28
Pretty Prairie High School—FHT 50
Protection High School—FHT 48
Quivira Hgts. High School—FHT 5
Riley Co. High School—U-Courtyard
Rose Hill High School—FHT 121
Rossville High School—FHT 78
Royal Valley High School—FHT 104
Russell High School—FHT 133
Sabatha High School—FHT 136
Sacred Heart High School—FHT 55
St. George High School—FHT 117
St. Mary's High School—FHT 41
St. Paul High School—FHT 109
St. Xavier High School—FHT 46
Salina Central High School—U-'S' Ballroom
Salina High School South—Forum Main
Salatita High School—FHT 103
Scott Comm. High School—U-Courtyard
Seaman High School—U-'K' Ballroom
Shawnee Hgts. High School—Forum Ballroom
Shawnee Mission East High—U-204
Shawnee Mission North High—U-'S' Ballroom
Shawnee Mission Northwest—U-208
Shawnee Mission South High—U-203

Shawnee Mission West High—U-209
Silver Lake High School—FHT 68
Smith Center High School—FHT 42
Solomon High School—FHT 113
South Haven High School—FHT 19
Southeast of Saline High—U-Courtyard
Spearville High School—FHT 118
Stafford High School—FHT 54
Sublette High School—FHT 13
Summer Academy of A&S—U-Council Chambers
Sylvan Grove High School—FHT 29
Tescott High School—FHT 18
Thayer High School—FHT 109
Tonganoxie High School—FHT 32
Topeka High School—U-Big Eight
Topeka West High School—FHS D
Trego Comm. High School—FHT 102
Troy High School—FHT 76
Turner High School—U-'K' Ballroom
Valley Falls High School—FHT 43
Valley Hgts. High School—FHT 71
Wabunsee High School—FHT 86
Waconia East High School—FHT 124
Wakefield High School—U-Courtyard
Wamego High School—FHT 147
Washington Rural High—U-212c
Washington High School—Forum Main
Washington High School—FHT 123
Wellington High School—FHT 22
West Smith Co. High School—FHT 31
Westmoreland High School—FHT 97
Wetmore High School—FHT 119
White City High School—FHT 120
Wichita Co. High School—FHT 44
Wichita East High School—U-205
Wichita Hgts. High School—U-Little Theatre
Wichita North High School—U-207a
Wichita South High School—FHS J
Wichita Southwest High—U-206b
Wichita Southeast High—U-Little Theatre
Wichita West High School—U-206a
Wilson High School—FHT 6
Winfield High School—FHT 146
Wyandotte High School—FHS C

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 12, 1986 10:15 A.M.-12:15 P.M.
IN THE K-STATE UNION AND AHEARN FIELD HOUSE

Reagan's budget cuts to hit education hard

Student Senate candidates should be especially concerned with President Reagan's proposed federal budget cuts in education, which include elimination of federal aid to 1 million college students. The cuts will deeply affect Pell Grants, college work-study and supplemental educational opportunity grants.

This proposed decrease in federal funding comes at a time when colleges and universities are being forced to annually increase tuition and fees, forcing some students to forgo a college education.

If education continues to be a target of budget slashers, all higher education institutions will suffer even more severely in retention and recruitment areas than they have already.

By decreasing support for students in higher education institutions, Reagan is sending confusing signals on the administration's position on higher education. While he voices concerns about the quality of education and promotes excellence in the field, he makes moves to undercut federal support. Concurrently, he speaks constantly about the need to beef up national security, but he fails to recognize the importance of higher education to that goal.

It appears that the only federal monies guaranteed to be forthcoming to higher education institutions from the Reagan administration will be those funds designated for the Strategic Defense Initiative research being conducted on campuses across the nation.

As K-State continues to face deepening recruitment and retention problems, students and administration officials must realize the effects of the federal budget cutting process. At the most basic level enrollment and attendance depends on the students ability to survive financially, and the survival of the institution depends upon its students.

Jonie R. Trued,
for the editorial board

Susan Anthony week reflects Kansas' past

"Indeed the faculty and Directors are not of the gassing order," early feminist Clarinna I.H. Nichols wrote of the Manhattan college faculty in 1868. Nichols, often described as the "forgotten feminist of Kansas," endured a lot of "gassy" men full of hot air in her time. During her Manhattan visit, however, she found the "feast of reason and the flow of soul."

Manhattan's celebration of Susan B. Anthony Week holds special historical significance. Two of the town's and the University's founders, Issac Goodnow and Joseph Denison, were avid feminists and insisted that women receive education and voting rights equal to men. The families of the two had broken from the Congregational Church of New England in protest of the church's rule disallowing women to speak in meetings.

Nichols' accomplishments in Kansas during 1859 were the first small step toward women's suffrage. Due to her lobbying efforts, the Kansas constitution granted women the unprecedented right to acquire and possess property and have just as much right to the custody of their children as a man. Nichols' cry for equal voting rights went unheard but she set the stage for later debates.

Not until 1867 did Kansas consider equal voting rights for women. Kansas was the first state in the Union to do so and thus attracted Anthony and others to lobby for the cause. The issue failed 19,857 to 9,070, but, pleased to capture one-third of the votes, Anthony wrote to a friend, "Never was defeat so glorious a victory...I appreciate the Herculean work that you have done the past four long months in Kansas."

Nichols and Anthony and the strong convictions of early Manhattan citizens did much to advance women's suffrage in Kansas. As feminist George Train used to chant, "Three cheers for virtue and beauty and brains."

Catherine Saylor
for the editorial board

Letters

Book return snafu

Editor,

Have you received any erroneous overdue notices from Farrell Library in the recent months? If you have, you are not alone. Yesterday I received a second overdue notice from the library. Once I saw the words "second notice," I looked at the notice closely because I have never returned any book late.

But the title of the overdue book was familiar to me. I remembered that I had returned that book a couple of weeks ago. In fact, I went through the hassle to clarify my integrity after receiving the first erroneous notice. The hassle was that I had to convince the circulation personnel that I had returned the book.

To convince the personnel, I had to prove that the book had been returned. To get proof, I had to pick up the book from the stack and bring it to the circulation counter. The individual at the counter said everything would be taken care of and apologized for the inconvenience.

Unfortunately, for the second notice I was not that lucky. The book was not on the shelf and neither was it in the sorting area. Luckily, Charles, the person who had seen me going through this on the first notice, remembered that I had gone through this before. He filled out a "problem" form and said the matter would be dealt with.

The reason I am writing this letter is that I am tired of this nuisance and do not want to deal with it anymore, as I am going to borrow many books from the library in the near future and do not want to face this type of problem again.

Since the automated checking system is unreliable, I suggest that an official return slip be issued to the borrower whenever books are returned. In this way, borrowers do not have to go through the hassle again and again.

Hongyayu Chua
graduate in computer science in teaching the course. These reports should be made relative to other courses the student has previously enrolled in.

Teacher evaluations are not a sounding board for complaints from lazy students. Nor are they intended for voicing sour grapes. I believe that the student's awareness of the importance of these evaluations is the basis for the abuse. Students who feel they've been cheated out of a grade use the evaluation to cry "unfair" and get revenge. This kind of manipulation is needless and if not curbed, will lead to invalid evaluations and their eventual discontinuation.

I'm all for judging an incompetent teacher rightly so, but when the judgment is based on contempt, then it is merely an emotional opinion. So for those of you who anticipate teacher evaluations to take out your vengeance, keep your pen in check — people's careers are at stake.

Recently I learned that students were parading into deans' offices to whine about the amount of work being required in the course. These were seniors enrolled in required courses. I ask you, what did you expect? The GPA boosters are out there for those of you who need them, but leave the students and teachers who are serious about education and jobs alone. Come on, people — it is time to grow up and get serious. There is life after graduation and life is not a pud course.

Sandy Winter
junior in journalism and mass communications

A haven for theft

Editor,

I am writing to hopefully open up some eyes concerning our police protection here on campus. Recently I had my car broken into on campus. I had my side window broken, a very expensive stereo removed and a few other minor items taken. My car was parked on the ever-so-famous B-3 parking lot (north of Haymaker Hall), where anyone can steal something from a car.

I was notified that my car was broken into by my roommate after he had gone out to his car on Monday, Feb. 3. When I went to the campus police to report the theft, they had already known the previous Saturday night about my window being broken and had failed to notify me. My car had set out in the lot with a window broken for a day and a half. Also, the police apparently failed to check inside my car because they did not know anything about my stereo being taken. In addition, my hanging parking permit was also stolen, so I had to pay an extra $5 to get a new number so I can still park in a lot that appears to be unsafe.

I feel that there needs to be some steps taken to help increase the security of our vehicles in B-3, especially more lighting. Most of us have a rather large sum of money invested in our vehicles, which we are paying to be watched. I realize that the crime that was committed probably could not have been prevented, but I could have been reached and informed. I urge everyone to voice his or her opinion on the matter.

Doug Robben
freshman in agricultural economics

Attack on Carlin

Editor,

Re: Chris Williams' guest column, "Brown, Acker, Carlin quite a team," in the Feb. 6 Collegian:

Where do you get off lambasting the governor of this state? My complaint is based on the way you presented your argument about Gov. John Carlin. Your opinions of President

Duane Acker and Student Body President Steve Brown were based upon their performance as leaders. This seems fair enough. However, you chose to attack Carlin with a stand on his personal life.

First of all, it must be comforting going through life with your "holier than thou" attitude. As you have run your life as you see fit, wouldn't it be easier to allow others the same right? Second, have you ever held a responsible position in your life? Leadership, whether it be a student body president, a university president or governor of this state, is much more difficult than you make it appear.

If one of these three men wrote an editorial on leadership, it would carry a little more weight than some obscure student spouting personal opinions. The only thing we agree on is your incompetence. It's pretty easy to pick out a few human moments from a person's life and make them look stupid. If this is an example of your work, I'd love to have you as my lawyer.

Curtis Decker
senior in computer science and pre-law

Altering state law

Editor,

As students of K-State, we are concerned with the present Kansas laws relating to open access to drinking establishments. The current law states, "The open saloon shall be and is hereby forever prohibited." Kansas is one of three states in the country that prohibits liquor by the drink. Polls have indicated that the image of Kansas is negatively affected by the policy.

In addition, the inconsistency of the law projects an image of a backward state that is not looking to prosper and grow. For example, people who have purchased a number of club cards essentially have liquor by the drink. Those of us who have not, are being denied access because of these discriminatory practices.

We feel that a solution to this problem should be based on the following criteria: The policy should be enforced statewide; be simple for business owners and officers of the law to enforce; allow residents and non-residents of Kansas who are 21 years of age to consume alcoholic beverages in a licensed establishment; appeal to potential residents and businesses of Kansas; and encourage economic growth in the state.

The Kansas Legislature has determined that this is an important enough issue to allow the people of the state to decide for themselves during the November 1986 election. We would like to encourage all registered voters to exercise their right to vote for consistent and intelligent laws.

Cherie Fiske junior in business administration and five others

Letters Policy

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR pertaining to matters of public interest are encouraged. All letters must be typewritten or neatly printed and signed by the author and should not exceed 250 words. The author's major, classification or other identification and a telephone number where the author can be reached during business hours must be included. The Collegian reserves the right to edit letters for style and spatial considerations, and to withhold letters from publication. All letters submitted become the property of the Kansas State Collegian.

Kansas State Collegian

EDITOR
David Svoboda
ASSOCIATE EDITOR
Lillian Zier
NEWS EDITOR
Patty Reinert
MANAGING EDITOR
Jeri Heidrick
PHOTO/GRAPHICS EDITOR
Chris Stewart
COPY EDITORS
Jim Schmidt
Jean Teller
EDITORIAL PAGE EDITOR
Tim Carpenter
CAMPUS EDITORS
Vicki Reynolds
LeAnne Stowe
SPORTS EDITOR
Tom Perrin
ASSISTANT SPORTS EDITOR
Tim Fitzgerald
FEATURES EDITOR
Margaret May
BUSINESS/GOVERNMENT EDITOR
Tom Schultes
AGRICULTURE EDITOR
Becky Ohlde
ENTERTAINMENT EDITOR
Laurie Fairburn
REVIEWERS
Sarah Kessinger
Karen Meis
Eric Rhodenbaugh
COLUMNISTS
Susan Baird
Rich Harris
Steve Milligan
Tammy Rickerson
STAFF WRITERS
Shelly Chenoweth
Erin Eicher
Jessica Gard
Maribeth Gottschalk
Sherri Hager
Jill Hummels

Linda Schmidt
Colleen Wilson
Mike Riley
Catherine Saylor
Richard Thorp
Jonie Trued
Sarah Kessinger
Karen Meis
Eric Rhodenbaugh
Linda Schmidt
Colleen Wilson

BUSINESS/GOVERNMENT WRITER
Melissa Brune
SPORTS WRITERS
Tony Carhajo
Daran Neuschaefer
Doug Scheibe
EDITORIAL BOARD
David Svoboda
Tim Carpenter
Melissa Brune
Rich Harris
Steve Milligan
Patty Reinert
Vicki Reynolds
GRAPHIC ARTISTS
Carlos Corredor
Greg Crawford
Kenyon Madden
STAFF PHOTOGRAPHERS
Jim Dietz
Brad Fanshier
Andy Nelson
Jeff A. Taylor
Jeff Tuttle
ADVERTISING MANAGER
Lori Wong
ASSISTANT ADVERTISING MANAGER
Mark McDermott
SPECIAL PROMOTIONS REPRESENTATIVE
Amy Wright
ASSISTANT SPECIAL PROMOTIONS REP.
Chris Stevenson
ADVERTISING REPRESENTATIVES
Rob Drake
Patti Hannan
Jim Lundstrom
Darren McChesney
Joan Seitzer
Shelly Shaffer
Pattie Shippen
DIRECTOR/NEWS ADVISER
Dave Adams
ADVERTISING DIRECTOR
Gloria Freeland
NEWS PRODUCTION COORDINATOR
Connie Nelson
ADV. PRODUCTION COORDINATOR
Wanda Haynie

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 020) is published by Student Publications Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods. OFFICES are in the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 332-6555. Newsroom phone number is 332-6556; display advertising, 332-6560; and classified advertising, 332-6555. SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: $40, calendar year; $35, academic year; $20, semester; $10, summer term. Address changes should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

'Great Expectations' brings novel alive

By LAURIE FAIRBURN
Entertainment Editor

Saturday was an evening blessed with "Great Expectations."

Play Review

From the moment the lights came up on the cast, the audience was caught, hopelessly charmed by the many eccentric characters who dart in, then out of the life of Pip, the poor orphan who grows up to be a gentleman in Charles Dickens' "Great Expectations."

Barbara Field's adaptation of the comic, yet tragic tale was so well crafted, the narration and the dialogue so tightly meshed, the actors are allowed to share Dickens' tale in the fullest sense — as characters and as storytellers. The skill with which each was able to make the transition from character to narrator to character made the 11-member ensemble seem like a cast of dozens, a tribute to their convincing portrayals.

The packed house of McCain Auditorium could not have asked for more from the outstanding performers of the Guthrie Theater.

Timothy Wahrer, as Pip, was a joy to sympathize with, as we watched him struggle first with the limitations of his lifestyle, then with his desire to be the perfect gentleman in order that he may have his one true love, Estella. Portrayed by Ann-Sara Matthews, Estella was as beautiful as she was unapproachable. And deceptively alluring, much to Pip's dismay.

At times though, it was difficult to understand why, after Pip becomes a grown man, a gentleman, he remained so impish; alternating between childish spasms and undying gratitude for those who have helped to shape his life. And he never seemed bothered that his life, controlled financially through the lawyer Mr. Jaggers, was never truly his own.

A most outstanding performance was delivered by Darrie Lawrence, as the aged, jilted bride Miss Havisham. So frail in her weathered lace wedding gown, she looked as though she might break with a sneeze. Yet her presence covered the room like a blanket laden with all the torment and rage and pain that filled her broken heart.

Two truly engaging performances were delivered by Stephen D'Ambrase, as Pip's trusted friend and tutor, and Matthew Kimbrough, in all his characters: Uncle Pumblechook, Bentley Drummie and especially Wemmick. Both gentlemen were hilarious, and the dry wit provided lots of chuckles all the way through.

The only flaw was in a difficulty in understanding the beginning dialogue, before the listener became accustomed to the British accents. After the first few minutes, the uncomfortable strain to decipher the characters' exchange became taxing. But eventually all became clear, and the performance turned relaxing and thoroughly enjoyable.

Correction

Due to a source's error in Friday's story, "Groups petition senate for shares of $700,000," it was incorrectly reported Student Senate approved a bill to set up an ad-hoc committee to study the viability of proposed athletic fees. Senate actually tabled the bill.

CHRIS VERING

Vote

Chris Vering

for

BUSINESS

Senator

Paid for by Students to Elect Vering

ELECT

MATT
QUEEN

STUDENT SENATE

COLLEGE OF ARTS & SCIENCES

Paid for by Students for Queen

Gals Perms
including Cut and Style
and Free Eyebrow Wax
Apple Pectin $35
Warm and Gentle $40
Guys Perms $20
Deep Conditioning Treatment
with Haircut $10

Stacy
SMITH
student SENATE

ELECT

DOUG
GAUMER
For STUDENT SENATE

COLLEGE
OF
BUSINESS

Paid for by Students to elect Gaumer

It's no fluke!

Fluke Multimeters

15% below list price

Orders will be taken Feb. 10-12 in Durland atrium.

Sponsored by IEEE.

Susan B. Anthony
Cultural Week

Monday - Feb. 10

10:00 a.m. - 12:00 p.m.

Tuesday - Feb. 11

10:00 a.m. - 12:00 p.m.

Wednesday - Feb. 12

10:00 a.m. - 12:00 p.m.

Thursday - Feb. 13

10:00 a.m. - 12:00 p.m.

Friday - Feb. 14

10:00 a.m. - 12:00 p.m.

Saturday - Feb. 15

10:00 a.m. - 12:00 p.m.

Sunday - Feb. 16

10:00 a.m. - 12:00 p.m.

Monday - Feb. 17

10:00 a.m. - 12:00 p.m.

Feb. 10 - Feb. 15

WRC

PRESENT

THE

SUN OF A
BEACH PARTY

Feb. 26

In conjunction with

DERBY DAYS
KICK-OFF PARTY

DOOR PRIZES:

GRAND PRIZE: TRIP FOR 2 TO ANY OF 3 HOT SPOTS TO FLORIDA.

1st PRIZE: FREE HOT TUB PARTY
CASH PRIZES FOR: BEST TANS, BEST BEACH
BUM & TOP LIMBO SPECIALIST
BEST PALEFACE RECEIVES FREE TANNING
SESSIONS!

PLUS MANY OTHER FREE PRIZES SUPPLIED BY:

So come and support Derby Days and remember: This is the party often chased but never caught!!

HUNAM Restaurant FREE DELIVERY HUNAM EXPRESS
11 a.m. - 1 a.m.
1304 Westloop 539-8888 1116 Moro
(10% Off w/KSU ID) 537-0886 (Egg Roll & Fried Rice 99¢)

Monday Special
at Elgee's
Restaurant & Ice Creamery
Flour tortilla filled with spicy meat, refried beans, lettuce, tomato, cheese, served with chips and cheese sauce.
$2.99 (Includes med. drink)
Open Daily Till Midnight
Open Sat & Sun
8:30 a.m. for Breakfast

KQLA 104 ALL NEW
The Switch
Is Coming
Feb. 14
at 6:00 p.m.

K-STATE MARKETING CLUB Meeting Tonight
Hallmark Cards
"Product Management"
Union Big 8 Room
7 p.m.
AMERICAN MARKETING ASSOCIATION

A 26-minute, multi-media history of rock 'n' roll from the 50's through the 80's.

Sponsored by: U.P.C. Feature Films

Monday, February 10, at 7, 8, 9, 10 p.m., Forum Hall

FREE ADMISSION — Look for the Kodak Photo Exhibit in the Union
Don't miss Kodak's Rock and Roll Time Tunnel at the Plaza Hotel
Daytona Beach, Florida, March 11-29, 1986

SOUND SUPPLIED BY BOSE

SPONSORED BY KODAK

College faculty promotes equality

By TERESA TEMME
Collegian Reporter

Teaching sex equity to future educators is a goal of the College of Education's faculty, said Nancy Smith, associate professor of curriculum and instruction.

Sex equity is the practice of presenting material to students in an unbiased manner.

Faculty members presented curricula revised to include topics in sex equity at Friday's Focus on Women in the Union.

Many textbooks and other teaching materials do not include experiences and contributions of women, or the elimination of sexism and sex differences, representatives of the education college said.

The faculty expressed a desire for future teachers to go into the teaching field understanding sex equity problems, and they should be able to revise curricula to include sex equity.

"We encourage them to select non-biased and multi-cultural texts," said Nancy Mangano, assistant professor of curriculum and instruction.

She said she provides a list from which students may select non-sexist, multi-cultural and award-winning books.

Mongano said basic elementary readers, including the "Dick and Jane" series, have problems with representing women although there have been changes over the years.

Smith said 11 faculty members participated in a study examining teaching materials for inclusion of sex equity. The faculty members did their own research, revised their courses and wrote a monograph about what they learned. The faculty were not working to change the system, but to see what they could do within the system, Smith said.

"I think we have done some real pioneering work," Smith said.

Smith said the faculty's work could be used by teachers throughout the nation, and she believes there is a market for their studies.

Paul Burden, assistant professor of curriculum and instruction, said he analyzed 13 textbooks and found .57 percent of the material dealt with sexism in some manner.

"The idea is to infuse sex equity throughout the course" where it doesn't exist, Burden said.

Michael Perl, coordinator of laboratory experiences in the education college, said he encourages students to use what they have learned about sex equity in their classes. Because he works with student teachers, Perl urges cooperating teachers to use sex equity in their evaluations of the student teachers.

TIM ULRICH

Responsive Willing Responsible

AG. SENATOR

Paid for by students to elect Ulrich

RE-ELECT

KEVIN EICKMANN

ARTS & SCIENCES

SENATOR

Paid for by candidate

Flowers for him and her

Valentine's Day Flower Sale

K-State Union Main Floor

9-5 p.m.

or until sold out

$3-$10

Retail Floriculture Club

Patty Hipsher doesn't think a term as student body president should be just another listing on a resume. She wants to be an effective leader by presenting and promoting the students' feelings to the administration, the Board of Regents and the public. That's the president's job—to be the most effective communicator the students can find.

Vote for good communication and dedication

VOTE PATTY HIPSHER

Students for Educational Awareness

STRICKLER
For EDUCATION SENATE

Paid for by Students for Strickler

S.E.A. Student Involvement Quality Education Awareness of Issues

An organization that wants you, the student, to become involved in the decisions and issues that affect you and your university. On Tuesday and Wednesday show you care!

Paid for by Students for Educational Awareness

Shuttle

Continued from Page 1

and heard testimony about classified information, spokesman Mark Weinberg said.

It was the panel's second meeting in two days.

Sources, speaking on condition they not be identified, said the commission heard about the Defense Department's participation in the shuttle program, which has involved deployment of several Pentagon payloads.

Meanwhile, the Coast Guard ended its sea sweeps in the Atlantic for floating shuttle debris, as the Navy sent divers to relatively shallow waters off Cape Canaveral, Fla., to search for underwater wreckage.

In Houston, experts at Mission Control said they have been studying millions of computer data bits from Challenger's 73-second flight but have found no anomalies serious enough to indicate that the shuttle was going to explode.

"It was flying exactly the way it was supposed to fly," said a flight control expert who has reviewed the impounded data in minute detail.

The expert spoke only on condition they not be identified.

Election

Continued from Page 1

where Aquino was heavily favored, found their names were not on registration lists.

In Baclaran, Aquino, 53, widow of assassinated opposition leader Benigno Aquino, appeared at Masses in her honor.

"Despite all the cheating and violence, right will prevail," said Aquino, who was escorted into the church by a wedge of private security guards. "We will pass through the barrage of lies to win this election."

For Arts & Sciences Senator

Elect:

Leslye Schneider

—She'll Work

For You—

Paid for by students for Schneider

COUPON SPECIAL

$1.01 OFF!

Western Omelette

Served with hash browns and toast or homemade biscuits.

Limit 1 order per coupon, one coupon per customer. Not valid in combination with any other offer.

Regular $3.00

Breakfast Hours:

6-10:30 Mon. - Sat.

7-10:30 Sunday

Coupon expires: 2/16/86

Manhattan—1911 Tuttle Creek Blvd.

Manhattan • Emporia • Lawrence • Great Bend

Vista
RESTAURANTS

Graduated Savings.

JOSTENS
$15 OFF ALL 10K GOLD	$30 OFF ALL 14K GOLD	$40 OFF ALL 18K GOLD

One week only, save on the gold ring of your choice. For complete details, see your Jostens representative at:

Feb. 11-14 10am-4pm

Deposit Req: $20.70 non-refundable

Supply floor k-state union bookstore 0302

Payment plans available. ©1985 Jostens, Inc.

JOSTENS

AMERICA'S COLLEGE RING™

STUDENT BODY PRESIDENT

PATTY HIPSHER

STUDENT SENATE

ARTS & SCIENCES

SUSAN D. BAIRD

RANDAL S. BEEMAN

KIRK CARAWAY

KEN PAULIE

FRANCESCA ROYSTER

BRIAN SHERWOOD

GRADUATE STUDENT SENATORS

JESS CUNNICK

LAURA J. MCLELLAN

CATHERINE SAYLER

MANINDER SINGH

(WRITE-IN)

BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

PETE NEWALLIS

DAN COSTELLO

REGINA OXFORD

EDUCATION

SALLY HOWARD

ENGINEERING

EIRENE TATHAM

DANIEL WEYERTS

HOWARD S. WULF

Student Body President — Vote for 1

KELLI CARR
Senior in journalism
and mass communications

The student body president is a student, then a decision-maker, campus leader, an ambassador and much more.

My major qualification to be student body president is that I understand and can communicate with students. As a student I have lived in a residence hall system, off campus in an apartment and am affiliated with a greek living group now. I have completed terms as president both in the residence hall where I lived and in my greek living group. I feel this makes me uniquely qualified to be student body president in addition to my other campus involvements.

The issues I will address include the proposed Fred Bramlage Coliseum. I believe a new coliseum would be an asset to K-State, but I feel it must be one of which we will all be proud. Most of all, it must be one we can afford.

Recruitment and retention will continue to be an issue now and in the future for this University. A more intense marketing program is needed for recruitment, but we can't forget retention of students already here.

There are, of course, many other issues to discuss, including Lafene Student Health Center, the proposed athletic fee, Farrell Library and the $700,000 recommendations.

As student body president I would establish an open door policy for all students, with no appointments required. I would also encourage the new University president to establish a similar policy and invite him or her to join me in holding open forums in the Union on a regular basis.

I hope to establish and build a lasting trust between students, student government and the administration.

STEVE CASHMAN
Junior in marketing

K-State is going through a time of change; a time when the next student body president will have the opportunity to make a major impact on K-State. I feel that my familiarity with students, administrators and the University will allow me to work well with the administration, and my student government experience will give me the foresight to fight effectively for our concerns.

Some goals that I have are —
RECRUITMENT: 1. Coordinate the ambassador programs of the eight colleges into one centralized recruiting effort. 2. Get students actively involved in the recruiting process. A satisfied student is a better communicator than an administrator.

RETENTION: 1. I have already proposed to start a freshman orientation class, in which new students would learn about student services, campus organizations, University policies, drop/add procedures, etc. This class is designed to create a knowledge, awareness and familiarity with K-State. 2. Promote our University consistently to students and to the state of Kansas. Awareness breeds enthusiasm.

Finally, one thing that we must keep in mind. As student body president, I cannot be effective unless I know your concerns and have your support. That's why I strongly believe that, if it's not a concern of yours, then it's not a concern of mine.

PATTY HIPSLER
Junior in political science

My qualifications? The core of the question is quality and not quantity of activities. My two most important qualities are responsibility and responsiveness. As a responsible leader I have learned how to positively affect the decision-making process. As for responsiveness, student interests don't always coincide with those in Anderson Hall. My loyalties lie with the students.

Building a stronger University community must be the goal for the '80s. The current "survival plan" is not enough. We must go beyond survival to growth.

Due to the sagging farm economy, many students can no longer afford college. I would provide strong leadership in lobbying for increases in scholarships and work-study funds.

Ten percent of the student population has children who are under 13 years old. Because this number is expected to increase in the future, I support a strong child care program. This will provide an invaluable service to students and attract more nontraditional students to our campus.

I have reservations about the proposed Fred Bramlage Coliseum. Realistically, it can't be constructed within budget and efforts to generate more funds will jeopardize scholarship fund-raising efforts.

STEVEN JOHNSON
Sophomore in agricultural economics

The main role I see the student body president fulfilling is one of representation — to the Board of Regents and the Legislature, to prospective students and their parents, to the faculty and administration and to the alumni.

For successful execution of this role, it is essential that the person have good communications skills. I have developed these skills by working with three national youth organizations as their elected leader. As such, I took the organizations' concerns to the boards which sponsored them, working for program changes and presenting requests for funding. I traveled across the United States speaking to many groups as a representative of the organizations. These representative activities are quite similar to the duties of the student body president.

At K-State I have been a senator and a Judicial Council member. Thus, I have worked with the legislative and judicial branches of student government and have obtained a good understanding of the system.

I want to be realistic about what the student body president can do. I try to be straight-forward with my ideas, and I believe it is just as important that I hear yours.

KEITH PETRACEK
Junior in electrical engineering

When I first considered running for this position, I tried to figure out what qualities the new student body president should have. The two qualities I decided on were that he or she should be a proven student leader and have experience working with the administration. I feel I fit both of these qualifications. As president of KSU Association of Residence Halls, I have worked with students and organizations to the point that I feel I am a proven student leader. One of my tasks as KSUARH president was to work with faculty and administrators on such committees as Housing Council and Council on Student Affairs. This has allowed me to meet many of the administrators, which would be an advantage should I become student body president.

One other feeling I have about student body president candidates is that they must let the students know how they stand on issues. I would be glad to talk to anyone about any issues concerning him or her.

Questions Senate candidates were asked...

Candidates for Student Senate were asked to answer the following questions and to respond accordingly: Yes, No, Undecided. Responses are given beside each candidate's photograph.

1. Would you support legislation establishing a student athletic fee?
2. Do you support building a coliseum within the current $14.5 million construction budget?
3. Would you support an increase in student fees to fund Lafene Student Health Center?
4. Would you support an increase in student fees to fund Farrell Library?
5. Do you think the recommendations for the $700,000 freed by the refinancing of student bonds are appropriate? (Recommendations include Holton Hall renovation, campus police phone lines, remainder in account.)

Senate candidates were also asked what legislation they intend to author or co-author if elected.

Voting Procedures

To vote Tuesday and Wednesday in the Student Governing Association elections, students must present a validated K-State ID. Voting will take place between 7:30 a.m. and 6 p.m. on the Stateroom Level of the Union. Veterinary medicine students may vote in the Veterinary Medicine Complex between 11 a.m. and 1 p.m.

College of Agriculture Vote for 5

1. Undecided
2. No
3. No
4. Yes
5. No

MICHELLE BENOIT — Sophomore in agricultural economics

If elected as a student senator, I intend to propose legislative action that would form an ad hoc committee to look into our present system of recruitment and retention of students enrolled at K-State. This committee would be responsible for analyzing the problem and looking into ways of rectifying it.

1. Undecided
2. No
3. No
4. Yes
5. No

WALLY BROCKHOFF — Junior in agricultural economics

With the transition of a new president, three new coaches and five relatively new deans, I see an opportunity for an enthusiastic future helped by an aggressive, perceptive senate. I would support legislation that is image-building, such as support of ag judging teams and funding of student recruitment.

1. Undecided
2. Yes
3. No
4. Yes
5. No

CHRISTOPHER GOODING — Sophomore in bakery science

I would strongly support legislation allocating monies to ag judging teams because it is the work of the judging teams which attracts a lot of students to the College of Agriculture, which is undoubtedly valuable to K-State.

1. Undecided
2. Yes
3. No
4. Yes
5. No

STEVE LIGON — Junior in animal sciences and industry

If elected to a second term in Student Senate, I plan on drafting some sort of bill that would help bring Farrell Library up to par. Also, depending on the outcome of the ag judging team endowment, I would sponsor legislation to get funding for this cause.

1. Yes
2. Yes
3. No
4. No
5. No

PAT MUIR — Junior in agricultural economics

I really believe that legislation supporting our agriculture judging teams is very important. Recruitment is a problem in our college and I think that our judging teams are excellent tools for recruiting agriculture students. I would also like to see legislation that promotes handicapped accessibility all over campus.

1. No
2. No
3. Yes
4. Yes
5. Yes

PHIL NORDHAUS — Freshman in agricultural economics

I am committed to seeing that K-State progressively supports and funds the programs, organizations and judging teams of the College of Agriculture. I propose that our University increase its effort to bring more employers to its agriculture students so they may receive full reward for their education.

1. Yes
2. Yes
3. No
4. Yes
5. Yes

KEVIN RELIGA — Junior in agronomy business and industry

Let's face it — K-State has an image problem. It is a problem that can't be entirely solved by renovations and new athletic facilities. Of course, these programs can help boost the image of K-State, but I believe the real emphasis should be placed on public relations programs and recruitment.

1. No
2. Undecided
3. No
4. Undecided
5. No

TOM RIDDER — Sophomore in pre-veterinary medicine

If elected to Student Senate, I intend to implement a council to support and allocate monies for the agriculture judging teams. This would allow the use of Ag Council funds in other areas such as Ag Careers Day and Open House, which will help boost enrollment in the College of Agriculture.

1. Undecided
2. Yes
3. No
4. Yes
5. No

MARTY ROPP — Junior in animal sciences and industry

I would support an appropriation to provide an endowment for use by the agriculture judging teams. I am also a supporter of increased funding for expanding the services at Farrell Library.

1. Undecided
2. No
3. No
4. Undecided
5. Yes

CHERYL TILLBERG — Freshman in agricultural economics

No statement

1. No
2. No
3. Undecided
4. Yes
5. Yes

TIM ULLRICH — Sophomore in pre-veterinary medicine

The 1986-87 Student Senate must face three significant issues: the status of the proposed Fred Bramlage Coliseum; the appropriations of the excess $700,000 from student bonds; and turn around of the declining enrollment trend. The current coliseum plans won't meet student needs and therefore I would propose a careful reconsideration of plans.

1. No
2. No
3. No
4. Yes
5. No

HOWARD H. WOODBURY — Sophomore in animal sciences and industry

I would like to author legislation to hold the line on, or decrease student fees. One of our main problems is decreasing student enrollment and I feel high fees are the main problem in this area.

Did not turn in form: BERNARD BOLLER — junior in animal sciences and industry

College of Arts and Sciences — Vote for 12

Exercise your right as a fee-paying student VOTE!

- 1. Yes
- 2. Yes
- 3. No
- 4. No
- 5. Yes

WES ALEXANDER — Sophomore in journalism and mass communications

I would author legislation that allows K-State to grow and reach out to more people, whether it would be appropriating funds for a new student-operated television station or continuing to support our pursuit in academic excellence. Progress is the solution.

- 1. Yes
- 2. No
- 3. No
- 4. Yes
- 5. No

RONALD BAILEY — Junior in political science

No statement.

- 1. Undecided
- 2. No
- 3. No
- 4. Yes
- 5. No

JENNIFER LEEDS — Freshman in political science

In the event that I would be elected student senator, I intend to initiate legislation for the establishment of a freshman orientation course to promote the retention of first-year students.

- 1. No
- 2. Yes
- 3. Undecided
- 4. Undecided
- 5. No

SUSAN D. BAIRD — Junior in journalism and mass communications

If bids on the Fred Bramlage Coliseum are over the budget, I would consider co-sponsoring legislation that asks the Board of Regents to halt the project.

- 1. No
- 2. Undecided
- 3. No
- 4. Yes
- 5. No

MARTIN MONTO — Junior in biology

I would look for a way to prioritize student monies to fund Farrell Library. If this isn't possible, I would suggest a fee increase for that purpose. I would also consider a $2 to $3 student activity fee increase because Student Senate has had to turn down so many legitimate requests.

- 1. No
- 2. No
- 3. Undecided
- 4. Yes
- 5. No

RANDALL S. BEEMAN — Junior in history

If elected, I intend to formulate proposals that will benefit the social and cultural needs of the University community. My priorities shall be increased support for Farrell Library, KSDB-FM, the Child Care Cooperative, handicapped accessibility, the International Coordinating Council and Associated Students of Kansas.

- 1. No
- 2. No
- 3. Undecided
- 4. No
- 5. No

KENNETH W. PAULIE — Junior in political science

As a student senator, I would be concerned with issues involving retention and would support legislation to increase enrollment. I would be more concerned with present student issues such as Child Care Cooperative and handicapped accessibility — yes; the proposed Fred Bramlage Coliseum — yes, current plans — no; and student involvement — yes.

- 1. Yes
- 2. Yes
- 3. No
- 4. No
- 5. No

RON BETHEL — Sophomore in pre-law

Legislation which I intend to co-author deals with handicapped accessibility, with the first priority making Anderson Hall accessible. I also support the concept of implementing a freshman course that would encourage student retention.

- 1. Yes
- 2. Yes
- 3. No
- 4. No
- 5. No

MATT QUEEN — Junior in pre-medicine

I would author legislation to form a Student Senate/student committee which deals specifically with future planning at K-State. This way we can start looking ahead to better our University while avoiding confusion and conflicts that surround future plans, i.e. the coliseum, that we have now.

- 1. Yes
- 2. No
- 3. No
- 4. No
- 5. Yes

JOHN BULLOCK — Sophomore in political science

A big problem facing K-State is falling enrollment. As your student senator, I would author legislation calling for students, administration and faculty to improve recruiting efforts and to generate interest in K-State. K-State has been called "the best-kept secret in the Midwest." I think it's worth sharing, don't you?

- 1. No
- 2. No
- 3. No
- 4. Yes
- 5. No

LESLEY SCHNEIDER — Sophomore in pre-medicine

I am for a coliseum, but only a good coliseum, not one that will not fulfill the University's needs. Therefore, I would author legislation that would restrict the use of student funds by the administration for a coliseum that is below par.

- 1. Undecided
- 2. No
- 3. Yes
- 4. Yes
- 5. No

KIRK CARAWAY — Senior in philosophy

People hand Student Senate architectural plans and accounting records and expect senate to vote on these almost sight unseen. I would like to see committees of architecture and accounting students to help senate make better decisions on these important items and make student government more effective.

- 1. No
- 2. Yes
- 3. No
- 4. Yes
- 5. Yes

BRIAN SHERWOOD — Junior in pre-law

The major problem facing the University is declining enrollment. K-State must work for the opportunity and advancement of the education system. I would like to author or co-author any bill that would promote the University's image. This University must not strive for mediocrity but for excellence.

- 1. Undecided
- 2. No
- 3. No
- 4. Yes
- 5. Yes

STEVE COLE — Sophomore in pre-physical therapy

I would sponsor legislation to increase funding for Farrell Library. Farrell is the smallest library in the Big Eight Conference and the only one which has not been accepted into the Association of Research Libraries. By not increasing this funding we are depriving students of a proper preparation for their future.

- 1. Yes
- 2. No
- 3. No
- 4. No
- 5. Yes

MATT SISE — Freshman in geography

No statement

- 1. Yes
- 2. Undecided
- 3. No
- 4. Yes
- 5. Undecided

KEVIN EICKMANN — Junior in information systems

I feel retention and declining enrollment are two of K-State's main problems right now. We need to find ways to make the University more inviting to incoming freshmen and students already here. There are a few ways in which these problems may be solved, but the list is too lengthy to list here.

- 1. Yes
- 2. No
- 3. No
- 4. Yes
- 5. No

DAVE WAGNER — Sophomore in journalism and mass communications

Stabilizing student fees and emphasizing student recruitment are two issues of concern. In evaluating both, they counteract each other. Thus, by increasing recruitment and exhibiting excellence and pride in all the colleges within the University to prospective students, enrollment would rise.

- 1. Undecided
- 2. Yes
- 3. No
- 4. Undecided
- 5. No

SCOTT FISCHER — Sophomore in psychology

Students' opinions are a vital part to success in Student Senate. Before concrete decisions can be made on any issues, the student body's opinion should be heard through discussion with senators or by a vote. My main concern as a senator would be to represent students.

- 1. Undecided
- 2. No
- 3. No
- 4. Yes
- 5. Yes

GRETCHEN WAGNER — Junior in journalism and mass communications

I would support a resolution pressuring the state to renovate some of the older buildings on campus, such as Holton Hall, Calvin Hall and the Art Building. Because they are state-funded, I feel the students' fees should not be used for this purpose.

- 1. No
- 2. No
- 3. Yes
- 4. Yes
- 5. No

GRETCHEN HAGEN — Senior in history

During the past year in Student Senate I realized you cannot predict the major issues for the coming year because things change rapidly. I feel, however, that the main issue facing senate and the University is student recruitment and retention and that senate should focus on this issue.

- 1. Yes
- 2. Yes
- 3. Undecided
- 4. Yes
- 5. Yes

PATRICK WOOLLEY — Freshman in pre-medicine

I would sponsor a bill asking for money from the students and the state of Kansas to build a new wing on Farrell Library. I would also sponsor a bill that would appropriate more funds for research at K-State.

- 1. Yes
- 2. No
- 3. Undecided
- 4. Yes
- 5. No

GARY HAULMARK — Freshman in political science

If I were elected as a student senator, I would author a bill directing that most of the $700,000 freed by the refinancing of student bonds be put into the maintenance of the University. This includes hall renovation and making buildings accessible to handicapped people.

- 1. No
- 2. No
- 3. No
- 4. Yes
- 5. Yes

GARY YAGER — Sophomore in art

I would support an increase in student fees to fund Farrell Library. I also would support the need for more parking spaces for the students.

- 1. No
- 2. Yes
- 3. No
- 4. No
- 5. Yes

COLIN HICKEY — Sophomore in political science

As a student senator, I would be initiating legislation to broaden the focus of the University's publicity from a mostly athletic one to an academic and athletic oriented program. This change of policy can only be advantageous because K-State is nationally prominent in a wide range of curricula.

Did not turn in form: SCOTT CARMICHAEL — sophomore in psychology
TOM LALLY — junior in political science
JAY OLTJEN — sophomore in pre-dentistry

College of Education Vote for 3

Graduate School Vote for 4

- 1. No
- 2. No
- 3. Yes
- 4. Yes
- 5. No

SALLY A. HOWARD — Junior in English

Mainly I would support a student referendum to approve the final breakdown of the allocation of student fees. Right now the majority of students are not informed what is being funded with the $75.50. Also, I would end the $3 fee funding Holton Hall at the end of the spring semester 1987.

- 1. No
- 2. No
- 3. No
- 4. No
- 5. No

JESS CUNNICK — Graduate in biology

The coliseum is sapping our financial resources. We need to re-establish our priorities for a quality, affordable education and in meeting the needs of the individual student. To this end, I want to utilize existing funds for library improvements, child care, and increased handicapped accessibility without increasing already excessive fees.

- 1. Yes
- 2. Yes
- 3. No
- 4. Undecided
- 5. Yes

ANGELA SMITH — Sophomore in secondary education

I believe the interests of our handicapped students should be represented. I will strongly support the implementation of extended accessibility routes for the disabled.

- 1. No
- 2. No
- 3. Undecided
- 4. Yes
- 5. No

LAURA J. MCLELLAN — Graduate in biology

I will support legislation which increases the quality and scope of education at K-State. If student fees must be channeled in any of the proposed directions, they should be directed toward Farrell Library, and to support activities which broaden international awareness. Support education, not recreation.

- 1. Undecided
- 2. Yes
- 3. No
- 4. Yes
- 5. No response

DALE STRICKLER — Junior in secondary physical science

Student recruitment and improvement of Farrell Library are my main concerns. Our dropping enrollment is the single biggest issue facing this University, while our library is woefully inadequate in comparison to other Big Eight schools.

- 1. No
- 2. No
- 3. No
- 4. No
- 5. No

MIRANDA Y. MORTLOCK — Graduate in agronomy

I should like to be involved with campus decision making and want to represent the international and graduate student perspectives. I believe regulations should be nondiscriminatory to everyone. My concerns are to keep fees down, improve graduate housing, and to make student views actually make a difference.

- 1. Yes
- 2. No
- 3. No
- 4. Yes
- 5. Undecided

BECKY SVATY — Freshman in secondary education/economics

Should I become a student senator I would like to author or co-author a bill to make more buildings, such as Anderson Hall, accessible for the handicapped.

- 1. No
- 2. No
- 3. Undecided
- 4. No
- 5. No

CATHERINE SAYLER — Non-degree graduate

My voting record for the last four years better defines legislation I'd support than I can do in this short space. I'm concerned with maintaining an academic atmosphere and fostering a University community which provides support and encouragement to all its students. Yes to child care, University For Man and international programs.

- 1. Undecided
- 2. Yes
- 3. No
- 4. Yes
- 5. No

BOB WHEARTY — Junior in secondary agriculture/biology

As a senator in the College of Education, I would support the Fred Bramlage Coliseum proposal and Farrell Library improvement. I would be opposed to freeing the $700,000 from student bonds, but I feel endowment funds should be established for allocation proposals. Recruitment and retention could be a concern at K-State and the College of Education.

- 1. Undecided
- 2. No
- 3. No
- 4. No
- 5. No

TAMMARA TRACY — Graduate in regional and community planning

Areas of possible action include, however not limited to, the call for a comprehensive orientation for international students, encourage the adoption of a year-round intensive English program, encourage an increase of resource allocations toward Farrell Library, and also support for the Child Care Cooperative.

Did not turn in form: CLINT HERBIC — junior in education/economics
LORIE PHILLIPS — junior in elementary education
SHERRY D. SMITH — junior in secondary education

College of Business Administration — Vote for 8

- 1. Yes
- 2. No
- 3. No
- 4. No
- 5. No

RICHARD BLEVINS — Junior in marketing

Two problems that face K-State are student recruitment and retention. Both are extremely important. By slowing down the yearly increases in student fees and showing potential students that K-State offers good curricula other than agriculture and engineering, I feel that we can begin to solve these problems.

- 1. Yes
- 2. Yes
- 3. No
- 4. No
- 5. No

BARRETT BROMICH — Junior in marketing

I would sponsor legislation that would enact an athletic fee, because it would eliminate the need for students to buy football and basketball tickets, reducing the total cost to students. I don't support using student fees for Farrell Library because it would endanger state funds appropriated for the library.

- 1. Yes
- 2. Undecided
- 3. No
- 4. Yes
- 5. Undecided

TAD CHRISTIAN — Senior in marketing

I would like to see a task force set up that would be involved in recruitment of future students at the University. The need for promotion of K-State outside the University is evident because of the broadening decline of student enrollment in recent years.

- 1. Yes
- 2. Undecided
- 3. No
- 4. No
- 5. No

BRUCE COOK — Junior in accounting

I would like to see a definite distinction between items the students should fund and items that are the state's responsibility. If the items or programs are the state's responsibility, we the students don't need fee increases. We need aggressive lobbying in the state Legislature.

- 1. No
- 2. No
- 3. Undecided
- 4. No
- 5. No

DAN COSTELLO — Junior in accounting

I feel some of the most important issues include responsible planning for the proposed Fred Bramlage Coliseum, increasing student retention, making Anderson Hall accessible and ensuring that student funds are allocated in a responsible manner, which would benefit the University as a whole.

- 1. Yes
- 2. No
- 3. No
- 4. No
- 5. No

JEFF COX — Junior in marketing

I would support a student athletic fee because it would lower students' costs for games and increase support for athletic programs. Also, the current coliseum proposal is a compromise and has gone over the $14.5 million budget. I would support a more satisfactory proposal.

- 1. Undecided
- 2. Yes
- 3. No
- 4. No
- 5. Undecided

GREG GATLEY — Senior in marketing

K-State needs to establish a positive image. This is an integral part for a successful University as well as the College of Business Administration. I would push for the renovation of Calvin Hall in order to reflect the eminence of our business college.

- 1. Yes
- 2. No
- 3. No
- 4. Yes
- 5. No

DOUG GAUMER — Sophomore in finance

I would support legislation to form a committee to investigate our various individual college ambassadors and see what can be done to improve our recruitment programs. As students we must take an active role in declining enrollment. We as students need to put pressure on the administration to restructure and centralize our student recruitment efforts.

- 1. Yes
- 2. No
- 3. No
- 4. Yes
- 5. No

BILL HOPE — Junior in marketing

One of the ways our University can increase its visibility and popularity with incoming freshmen is through our athletic program. For this reason I support an athletic fee for students. By doing this we can improve the quality of our athletic programs and thereby improve the image of our school.

- 1. Yes
- 2. Yes
- 3. No
- 4. Yes
- 5. No

ERIC IRELAND — Sophomore in business administration

I believe that as a University we should show support, such as financial, toward smaller groups like the KSU Child Care Cooperative as well as toward larger ones. I put my support behind these smaller groups and I want to inform others of the need to support them.

- 1. Yes
- 2. Yes
- 3. No
- 4. Yes
- 5. No response

MICHELLE JOHNSON — Sophomore in marketing

If elected, I would support a stronger recruitment and retention program. This could be accomplished through a combined effort of the individual college ambassadors' stressing K-State's academic strengths as a whole. Also, within the business college, we need to increase the amount of ambassadors because our total numbers have increased.

- 1. Yes
- 2. No
- 3. No
- 4. Yes
- 5. Undecided

MIKE LASSMAN — Junior in marketing

An important, but sometimes overlooked, problem at K-State is the fact that enrollment is declining. If elected, I intend to take steps toward stabilizing the decline and to begin a rebuilding process to increase our attendance. I would support research and adequate funding toward attributes that would enable us to attain this goal.

- 1. Yes
- 2. Yes
- 3. No
- 4. Yes
- 5. No

TERESA LEIGHTY — Junior in marketing

I would support legislation which would form an ad hoc committee to look into the possibilities of securing Calvin Hall's renovation. This would be at the top of my priority list.

- 1. Yes
- 2. Yes
- 3. No
- 4. No
- 5. No

GREG LONG — Sophomore in finance

I am against legislation that would increase tuition. I feel that before we pass any legislation which would increase tuition, we should see about re-evaluating some of the current $16.9 million being received by K-State through students' tuition.

- 1. Yes
- 2. Yes
- 3. No
- 4. Undecided
- 5. Undecided

JOHN LOWE — Sophomore in marketing

I would support some type of legislation that would increase interaction between student senators and students in the colleges they represent. One way this could be accomplished is by requiring the senators to hold an open forum at regular intervals throughout the year.

- 1. No
- 2. Undecided
- 3. Yes
- 4. Yes
- 5. Undecided

JOHN R. MORRIS — Junior in accounting

A bill that could be beneficial is one allowing the sale of cereal malt beverages in the KSU Stadium. Although this sounds perfect for partying people, the revenue raised could be used to aid in the funding for Farrell Library. It could also help curb the amount of alcohol coming into the stadium.

- 1. Yes
- 2. Undecided
- 3. Undecided
- 4. Yes
- 5. Yes

MARK MURRISON — Junior in finance

The College of Business Administration is the largest at this University, yet its needs are often overlooked. There is an inadequate number of classes offered for certain required courses and Calvin Hall is not accessible to the handicapped. If the business college is to continue to grow, the needs of its students must be met.

- 1. Undecided
- 2. No
- 3. Undecided
- 4. Undecided
- 5. No

FRED NEUMAN — Junior in finance

As a senator, any legislation I author would show the new administration the strength of the students' opinions in decision-making. The University is here for the students and the students' voices should be heard in all decisions. If I am elected, the students' voices shall be heard.

- 1. No
- 2. Yes
- 3. Undecided
- 4. No
- 5. No

PETE NEWALLIS — Sophomore in finance

I want to push the state for increased support. Money is tight, so we have to fight for our support. If the University of Kansas can find the money, so can we. This school needs money and effort spent on us now.

- 1. Yes
- 2. Yes
- 3. No
- 4. Yes
- 5. No

ED NICKEL — Sophomore in marketing

If elected as a student senator, I would sponsor legislation that would be in the best interest of the students. There are many issues to be considered that will affect all students. If elected, I would do my best to make sure resources are placed where they can be put to the best use.

- 1. No
- 2. No
- 3. No
- 4. No
- 5. No

REGINA OXFORD — Senior in finance

If elected to Student Senate, I would not support legislation that would increase student fees. The existing allocations must be altered to more appropriately match the needs of the majority of the student body. I would like to see funds shifted toward Farrell Library and other education-oriented services, child care facilities and possibly a transit system.

- 1. Yes
- 2. Yes
- 3. No
- 4. Yes
- 5. Yes

BROOKS RARDEN — Junior in finance

The most controversial issue at K-State is, of course, the proposed Fred Bramlage Coliseum. Because I was a Student Senate intern this past term, I have come to learn much more than the average student here, so I feel I am aware of the issues that have sprouted concerning its construction. Therefore, I am in favor of building a quality coliseum.

- 1. Yes
- 2. No
- 3. No
- 4. Undecided
- 5. Yes

CLARK RENFRO — Senior in marketing

K-State enrollment figures are consistently dropping. I would like to see a restructuring of our ambassador and/or recruitment programs. K-State has a lot to offer, but we must sell it in a manner to attract the quality students across the state in order to increase enrollment.

- 1. Yes
- 2. Yes
- 3. No
- 4. No
- 5. No

BRIAN FRED SCHIERLING — Senior in marketing

I feel that K-State needs to concentrate on projecting the positive aspects of the University. Because I have been a student at K-State for four years, I feel I have had ample time to experience the bureaucracy inevitable at such a large institution, and have gained the knowledge necessary to deal with it.

- 1. No
- 2. No
- 3. No
- 4. Yes
- 5. No

TAD SCHROEDER — Junior in marketing

If elected I would support increased funding for renovation at Farrell Library. I also believe that the proposed Fred Bramlage Coliseum project should be reassessed. It just doesn't make sense to me to receive a mediocre facility for $14 million. Communication and common sense are the backdrops of my campaign.

- 1. Yes
- 2. Yes
- 3. Yes
- 4. Undecided
- 5. Yes

DAVID SELL — Sophomore in marketing

I would support an athletic fee if it were justified and detailed by Larry Travis, and contingent upon upcoming bids. I approve of the coliseum plans as revised. Also, Lafene Student Health Center must have support, and the immediate renovation of Holton Hall appears economically wise. The Farrell Library issue, however, demands more information.

- 1. Yes
- 2. Yes
- 3. No
- 4. Yes
- 5. Yes

STACY SMITH — Sophomore in accounting

A joint effort is in drastic need. Currently, each separate college handles recruitment individually. By pooling these resources through a well-informed committee, a more organized single effort could be made. As a senator, I would be willing to serve actively on such a committee to help promote the University.

- 1. Yes
- 2. Yes
- 3. No
- 4. Yes
- 5. No

GARY STARK — Junior in accounting

The reasons for our problems with student recruitment and retention include the defeatist attitude among students, attributable largely to traditionally poor athletics. Support for a student athletic fee would show support and enthusiasm for the University. I intend to support or author this or any legislation which would make K-State greater.

- 1. Yes
- 2. No
- 3. Yes
- 4. Yes
- 5. No

CHRIS VERING — Sophomore in accounting

I feel that student retention is a problem which we need to face with immediate action, because without students, nothing else at K-State matters. If I were elected, I would propose or co-author legislation dealing with increasing our efforts for a larger student population at K-State.

- 1. Yes
- 2. Yes
- 3. No
- 4. Yes
- 5. Yes

JUDY WOLF — Sophomore in marketing

If elected, I would push for an intensified recruitment and retention program. It would tie in with such areas as our academic strengths as a University, not just eight separate colleges recruiting for their own individual interests. K-State's recruitment can be stronger as a whole.

College of Human Ecology Vote for 3

- 1. Yes
- 2. No
- 3. No
- 4. Yes
- 5. No

CANDY LEONARD — Sophomore in home economics and mass communications

I would be in favor of sponsoring legislation to coordinate the many groups on campus already involved in recruitment. Working jointly to promote K-State, we could reach a greater number of potential students. I can foresee the involvement of more students will assist in retention efforts as well.

- 1. Undecided
- 2. Yes
- 3. Undecided
- 4. Yes
- 5. No

ANGIE ROWLAND — Junior in apparel and textile marketing

I would like to see legislation introduced that would form a student-based committee to deal with retention because of the immediate problem of keeping students at K-State. I would also favor a proposal that would achieve a blanket program able to coordinate the use of the individual college ambassador programs in recruitment.

Did not turn in form: MICHAEL HADLOCK — sophomore in finance
TROY LUBBERS — freshman in business administration

College of Architecture and Design Vote for 2

- 1. Yes
- 2. Undecided
- 3. No
- 4. No
- 5. No

DAVID TRITSCH — Sophomore in architecture and design

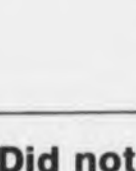

Each year representatives are elected who promise to increase communication between the Student Governing Association and students. The gap has closed considerably, but much improvement is needed. As senator for the College of Architecture and Design, I would author legislation to increase funds for the SGA bulletins.

College of Veterinary Medicine Vote for 1

Did not turn in form: DAVID KASTER — sophomore in pre-design professions

Did not turn in form: DUANE A. BELOTE — junior in veterinary medicine

College of Engineering — Vote for 8

 JOHN BAYOUTH — Sophomore in nuclear engineering When considering the proposed Fred Bramlage Coliseum, we should not make hasty, emotional decisions. Before a vote can be cast, all available resources must be considered. This does not mean that legislation should remain stagnant nor progress at a lethargic rate, but rather that no decision should be rushed into blindly. 1. No 2. No 3. Yes 4. Yes 5. Undecided	 PAUL KOLBECK — Sophomore in electrical engineering I would try to make improvements concerning accessibility to handicapped students for various halls. I would also be completely sure that the money for the proposed Fred Bramlage Coliseum be used for a quality one. 1. Yes 2. Undecided 3. No 4. Yes 5. No
 DARON BROWN — Sophomore in industrial engineering I would author a bill calling for handicapped accessibility to Anderson Hall and I would also like to work with the administration on student retention. 1. Yes 2. Yes 3. No 4. No 5. No	 TIM KUCKELMAN — Sophomore in industrial engineering It was the intention of the KSU Foundation, the Department of Intercollegiate Athletics, the alumni and students of this University to have a coliseum built. Student Senate responded accordingly several years ago, but stalled. I intend to get the gears turning again and get a coliseum built as was originally planned. 1. Yes 2. Yes 3. No 4. Yes 5. No
 JOHN DeMARS — Junior in electrical engineering My main concern is that current Student Senate policy frequently runs counter to common sense. I can make competent, logical decisions. Something that will become a big issue soon is the financial status of Lafene Student Health Center. With creative input Lafene can continue to operate effectively without raising fees. 1. No 2. No 3. No 4. Undecided 5. No	 JOEL MARQUARDT — Sophomore in architectural engineering As a senator from the College of Engineering, I would work to see the proposed Fred Bramlage Coliseum built. The current proposals have not adhered to preliminary guidelines which include a large overrun on the budget. The development of a financially feasible coliseum will be the mainspring of my efforts. 1. Yes 2. Yes 3. No 4. Yes 5. No response
 DOUG FOLK — Sophomore in electrical engineering I am concerned with improving both K-State's image and its benefits to students. A step toward these goals is to upgrade Farrell Library and lengthen its hours. This would be the intent of legislation I would author. The source of funding for this improvement would depend on general student opinion. 1. Undecided 2. No 3. No 4. Yes 5. Yes	 TROY MILLER — Sophomore in industrial engineering I would support a student athletic fee in order to draw more spectators. I'm in favor of the proposed Fred Bramlage Coliseum as a drawing card for K-State. A structured library is a valuable asset in a learning environment. I'm against raising fees for Lafene Student Health Center and undecided about the $700,000 from student bonds. 1. Yes 2. Yes 3. No 4. Yes 5. Undecided
 ED FRANKENBERG — Freshman in electrical engineering In looking at the downward trend of enrollment, the leading priority must be to market K-State, and especially engineering, better than ever before to all potential Kansas and surrounding area students. We have the ability at K-State to provide the top education needed for the future of America. 1. Yes 2. Yes 3. No 4. Yes 5. Yes	 CHRIS PARKS — Junior in electrical engineering I would author a bill to increase funding for Farrell Library by means other than increasing student fees. The library needs more funds and since the students already carry a full fee load, I believe the only way to achieve an accredited library is to solicit outside funding. 1. Yes 2. Yes 3. No 4. No 5. No
 CARRIE HELMKE — Junior in electrical engineering I intend to help sponsor legislation for the renovation of Anderson Hall. With recruitment an important issue, we must be aware of the needs of all potential students and start by making K-State 100 percent accessible. It is especially unfair that the handicapped are denied access to our most important building on campus. 1. Yes 2. No 3. Yes 4. Yes 5. No	 SUSAN RUSSELL — Freshman in industrial engineering I would like to author or co-author some legislation that would increase the lighting on campus. Students taking night classes or exams should be able to feel secure and safe, and the proper lighting is the key. 1. Yes 2. No 3. Undecided 4. Yes 5. No
 MARSHALL HONEYMAN — Junior in mechanical engineering I think the proposed student athletic fee would definitely help our athletic program. In order to attract quality athletes, we must show better support for their interests. The benefits go beyond athletics to the University as a whole by making K-State more appealing to prospective students. 1. Yes 2. Yes 3. No 4. Yes 5. No	 EIRENE TATHAM — Junior in construction science I intend to author a referendum to publish material to be accessible to high school students interested in engineering. This material would cover some of the lesser-known, but proud accomplishments such as the space glove, the environmental engineering experiments and the Department of Physics' accelerator. 1. No 2. Undecided 3. Undecided 4. Undecided 5. Undecided
 MARK HOOBER — Freshman in civil engineering I would like to write legislation concerning handicapped accessibility on campus. I would also like to co-author legislation concerning campus lighting and safety. 1. Yes 2. No 3. No 4. Yes 5. No	 KIM WARNER — Freshman in industrial engineering In addition to my views on the five main issues, I have strong feelings on the development of K-State's cultural atmosphere. Increased Student Senate support of the Landon Lecture Series, Union Program Council events and McCain Auditorium events would not only improve campus life but also serve as an attraction to potential K-Staters. 1. No 2. No 3. No 4. No 5. Yes
 CHRIS JACKSON — Junior in electrical engineering I would like to see legislation concerning handicapped accessibility for all campus buildings. In addition, I would like to see a complete and final list of recommendations for the $700,000 made available recently that would have the longest lasting and most visible effects on K-State. 1. Yes 2. No 3. No 4. No 5. No	 DANIEL WEYERTS — Junior in engineering technology I would support legislation for responsible use of student fees and would favor using a referendum on issues as important as a student athletic fee. I don't think a quality coliseum can be built on the present site for $14.5 million, so conscientious legislation should reflect that fact. 1. No 2. No 3. No 4. No 5. No
 JENNIFER JOHNSON — Freshman in industrial engineering I would like to co-author legislation to make improvements on campus. I think more lights are needed for safety at night and more safety features and renovations are needed in the older buildings. 1. Undecided 2. Yes 3. No 4. Yes 5. Yes	 SCOTT WILES — Sophomore in electrical engineering I would like to see legislation establishing a reserved student parking lot. This would be available to students at a higher rate than normal, but there would be only one permit sold for each stall in this lot. 1. Undecided 2. Undecided 3. No 4. No 5. Yes
 SAMMY KAYARA — Junior in electrical engineering I would like to author legislation to let students rate teachers within their departments and to make these results public. Also, I would like to sponsor legislation that gives students the right to vote for or against major fee increases. Basically I support legislation that gives the student power over his or her life. 1. No 2. No 3. Yes 4. Yes 5. Yes	 HOWARD S. WULF — Senior in electrical engineering I would support a resolution to remove student funds from the coliseum project and use the money already collected for scholarships, parking and retirement of the student fee revenue bonds. I would also support a resolution requiring the publication of the Student Senate meeting minutes in the Collegian, along with the votes of each senator on all resolutions. 1. No 2. No 3. No 4. No 5. No
 CRAIG J. KETTLER — Senior in mechanical engineering Any legislation that I author would continue to support the positive changes which have been occurring over the last four years that I have been at K-State. I would especially like to see more money allocated for technical equipment that is needed if we are to remain a quality institution. 1. Undecided 2. No 3. No 4. Yes 5. Yes	Did not turn in form: EMAD CHAUDHRI — senior in industrial engineering SCOT KEIMIG — freshman in mechanical engineering HILARY WALKER — junior in electrical engineering

Board of Student Publications — Vote for 4

 RONDA CORLE Junior in journalism and mass communications The quality of student publications depends on direct student input and feedback campus-wide and the careful selection of editors and advertising managers. If elected to the board that reviews and governs student publications, I would work to see that students receive the most from the money they invest in their student publications. As an employee of Student Publications Inc. for the past three years, I have knowledge of how the system works and an understanding of the people involved with the day-to-day operations. Student Publications Inc. is the one organization on campus where the students can actually see their fees at work through campus-wide distribution of the Collegian, subsidized ad rates for students and a low cost for the Royal Purple.	 VICKI FERNKOPF Sophomore in animal sciences and industry I believe I am qualified for the Board of Student Publications because of my experience in working for two years on the Royal Purple and one summer on the advertising staff. Working in these different areas has given me the opportunity to understand the production process of campus publications. K-State publications have an award-winning tradition that is essential to maintain. If elected, I would ensure that highly qualified people are hired to maintain, and build upon, this tradition.	 PATTI HANNAN Junior in journalism and mass communications Student Publications Inc. has a history of quality publications that offer students valuable experience. It is a corporation made of students, for the students and funded by the students. If elected, I would keep students' needs and goals in mind in all considerations. I have worked in every aspect of Student Publications Inc. and have a deep understanding of how the system works. I have worked on the advertising staff, as a Collegian reporter and as a section editor for the Royal Purple. I am dedicated to maintaining Student Publications Inc.'s excellence and feel I can make informed hiring decisions.	 DAN HOSS Sophomore in journalism and mass communications I feel I am qualified to make the decisions that will directly influence the future of student publications at K-State because of my experience after serving as a staff member on the Royal Purple. Through my experiences I have gained an understanding of the necessary elements that are needed to produce top quality publications. As a member of the board I would be committed to the continued involvement and representation of the students on this campus. Student publications are produced by students, for students. As a student majoring in journalism and as an experienced publication staff member I feel qualified to represent the student population's interests in this area.	 JAMES A. SEYMOUR Junior in construction science Student Publications works well. "If it ain't broke, why fix it?" Having held this office before, I know I am capable of fulfilling its requirements. "Advertising is the rattling of a stick inside a swill bucket." — George Orwell. I refuse to litter our campus with campaign posters proclaiming near godhood. I must be a nice guy. After all, my mother likes me. (So does my dog.)	 DWAYNE SMITH Junior in journalism and mass communications The Board of Student Publications is important to the K-State campus. I feel that it is important that effective journalists represent the Collegian and Royal Purple as editors. If elected to this position, I would appoint individuals who understand journalistic principles and student concerns. My journalism background includes working at KSDB-FM in news and sports reporting. In addition, I have served as a news reporter intern for a television station in Jefferson City, Mo.	 TIM STALEY Sophomore in journalism and mass communications I am applying for a position on the Board of Student Publications because of my basic interest in journalism. Being a journalism and mass communications student, I feel my experience gained both in and out of the classroom is important. I've worked on different publications in the greek system and I also worked for my high school newspaper. As for changes I would like to see implemented, I don't see that any major changes are needed.
---	--	---	--	--	---	--

New Shuttle Service van aids students

By DAN SMITH
Collegian Reporter

Physically limited students may now ride to campus in a new "Cadillac."

The new K-State Shuttle Service van, for students with permanent or temporary disabilities, has been on the road for two weeks.

"Most of the students who ride the new van call it the Cadillac," said Mike McAdams, driver of the van.

The new 1985 Ford van, which cost $20,000 and was purchased through President Duane Acker's end-of-the-year funds, is something Gretchen Holden, coordinator for the Center for Student Development, has wanted for quite some time.

"The old one, which had been in operation for the past four to five years, is getting too run-down," Holden said.

The new van offers a raised ceiling, something the old van did not have. The lower ceiling caused students considerable difficulty when getting in and out of the van, Holden said.

"One guy who rode the shuttle, and who is in a wheelchair, wouldn't ride the old van because it was easier for him to get in and out of his car than the shuttle," McAdams said.

The new van also has an AM/FM radio, a more sufficient heating and cooling system, more room, a smoother ride and less noise.

One special feature is a hand-cranked lift device which enables the driver to work the hydraulic lift by hand in case something goes wrong with the hydraulics. If the old one broke down, there was no way of getting the lift to go up or down, McAdams said. He also said the new lift is smoother, and he feels more comfortable running it.

McAdams said the old shuttle had no insulation, a small lift opening and an annoying blind spot in the right rear window where the sign advertising the shuttle was placed. The new van offers students the opportunity to look out the windows more, McAdams said.

"These students don't get to see that much of the whole campus when they're in a wheelchair," McAdams said.

Permanently disabled students ride free, while temporarily disabled students pay $1 a day or $40 a semester, McAdams said. If the student pays for a semester and doesn't ride the whole semester, the student's money is refunded. The van is not allowed to go off-campus, he said.

The van runs Monday through Friday from 7:20 a.m. to 5:20 p.m. To get a ride, students must call the afternoon before they need the ride or early the next morning.

McAdams cautions pedestrians to keep alert for the van when crossing the street.

"Students need to be aware of the van while crossing the streets on campus," McAdams said. "If a student walks right out in front of me, I have to slam on the brakes, throwing disabled students out of their wheelchairs."

FLOAT AWAY ON A GREAT AMERICAN ADVENTURE WITH MARK TWAIN'S HUCKLEBERRY FINN

Don't miss this special adult drama of the classic you loved first as a child. An all-star production featuring Jim Dale, Lillian Gish, Barnard Hughes, Geraldine Page, Richard Kiley, Sada Thompson and Sam-Art Williams. ☐

Starts Tonight 8 PM
Feb. 10-Mar. 3

11
KTWU
TV Worth Watching

Brother's
KSU
IN AGGIEVILLE, USA

$2.25 PITCHERS
25¢ DRAWS

It's time for
THE CLOCKS
Wed.!!

RE-ELECT
MARTIN MONTO
Arts and Sciences Senator
"One Senator who did a lot for you!"
Paid for by students to elect Monto

BUSINESS MEANS
CHRIS VERRING
Vote
Chris Verring
for BUSINESS
Senator
Paid for by Students to Elect Verring

accents & images, inc.
1112 Laramie
537-9024

Valentine Special
15% off any picture hanging on the wall with red in it.
Good now thru Feb. 15th
Hours: Mon. thru Sat. 11 a.m. - 5:30 p.m.

Posters, Prints
Custom Framing

Enjoy smooth, creamy
Frozen Yogurt
that tastes like Ice Cream
but with 80% less fat!
--FREE SAMPLES--
I Can't Believe It's
YOGURT!
Frozen Yogurt Stores
OPEN: 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Daily
Noon-11 p.m. Sundays
Nautilus Towers-Aggieville

ASH
WEDNESDAY
SERVICES
7 a.m. St. Francis House
1402 LeGore
12:10 p.m. Danforth Chapel
5:15 p.m. St. Francis House

ST. FRANCIS EPISCOPAL
537-0593

BIG SAVINGS

All Relaxers 1/2 off
Perm Waves 1/4 off
—WITH THIS COUPON—
Appointments accepted
Monday thru Friday 8 A.M. to 7 P.M.
All services performed by students are closely supervised by instructors

Haircuts 50% off
FOR 8:00 A.M. to 8:30 P.M. APPOINTMENTS ONLY
—WITH THIS COUPON—
MONDAY thru FRIDAY
All services performed by students are closely supervised by instructors
Must present coupon
Crum's Beauty College
512 Poyntz (Expires March 3, 1986) 776-4794

McCain

The Mitchell-
Ruff
Duo

"Two jazz giants who will set your soul on fire"
—Dizzy Gillespie

McCain Auditorium
Friday, February 14, 1986
8:00 p.m.
Box Office:
(913) 532-6428

Our Permanent Waves Are Different. They're Done by Experts

The Hair Experts

Feb.—PERM SPECIAL—Feb.
★ Free $34⁹⁵ 1500 WATT Blow Dryer with your perm. Perms $38⁰⁰ and up

1209 Moro 776-4455 Manhattan

VOTE FOR

KEITH PETRACEK

For Student Body President

"A K-STATER FOR A BETTER UNIVERSITY"

February 11 & 12 Paid for by K-Staters For Petracek

JOHNSON
PRESIDENT '86

JOHNSON IS:

—Leadership tailored to the K-State Community.

—Serious about K-State
& You.

Paid for by Students for Johnson.

HOW DO THEY DO IT?

PYRAMID PIZZA
introduces its
MONDAY
GLADNESS
Why be mad, when you can be GLAD?

BUY 1,
GET 1
FREE

Any Size
Pizza!

We deliver...
FAST and Friendly-like.

Speedy FREE Delivery
BUY 1 SMALL
1 TOPPING PIZZA $4.75 (plus tax)
2 Small
Pepsi's
"We Pile It On!"
PYRAMID PIZZA
GOOD MONDAYS ONLY
Expires 2-10-86

539-4888
707 N. 12th
In Aggieville

Speedy FREE Delivery
BUY 1
GET 1
FREE
Any Size Pizza
539-4888
GOOD MONDAYS ONLY
Expires 2-10-86
PYRAMID PIZZA
"We Pile It On!"

539-4888
Open weekends until 2 a.m.

Serenade III brings back concert choir alumni

By JUDY GOLDBERG
Collegian Reporter

A reunion of concert choir members since 1966 is planned for Saturday, Feb. 15, during Serenade III: "The Best of Broadway."

Serenade III is the third annual dinner concert sponsored by the Department of Music, said Rod Walker, associate professor of music.

"I've been the director of choral activities for 20 years and we sent out announcements to people who had been in concert choir since 1966," he said.

Serenade III is scheduled for Feb. 14 and 15 at the Holiday Inn and Holidome, 530 Richards Drive.

An informal gathering of alumni choir members will be at 5:30 in the ballroom of the Holidome.

The evening will begin at 6:30 p.m. with refreshments. Dinner will be served at 7 p.m. and the performance will begin at 8 p.m., Walker said.

The concert will contain selections from the musicals "Oliver," "Cats,"

"Fiddler on the Roof," "Hello Dolly" and "Annie."

There are 18 soloists scheduled to perform in "The Best of Broadway."

"It's a good way to get a lot of the students involved," Walker said.

There will also be a special arrangement with the percussion ensemble, Walker said.

The ensemble, along with the concert choir, will perform an arrangement by Thomas L. Davis of selections from "West Side Story." Davis is a percussion instructor at the University of Iowa, said Stan Finck, band director and assistant professor of music.

"It's really a knock-out arrangement," Walker said.

The first Serenade dinner concert included a performance by two Welsh pianists who were teaching master classes here, Walker said.

Walker said he arranged for that first concert because he thought it would be something different which hadn't been done here before. The dinner concert was so well attended the choir decided to use it as a fundraiser the following year, he said.

ELECT

SCOTT

FISCHER

SENATOR '86

Vote Tuesday & Wednesday

PAID FOR BY STUDENTS FOR SCOTT FISCHER

ARTS & SCIENCE

1126 LARAMIE

Aggieville

Manhattan, KS

(913) 776-2426

SUN

CONNECTION

TANNING SALON

10 Sessions only $30

Bring this ad in and receive

1 FREE SESSION with purchase

M

H

Marshall

Honeyman

for

Student

Senate

College of Engineering

PAID FOR BY STUDENTS TO ELECT HONEYMAN

WONDER

Bakery

Thriftshop

2305

Stagg Hill Rd.

M-F 9-5:30

Sat. 9-5:00

$2.50 off

any $5.00 or more purchase with this

coupon.

One Coupon per customer.

Not valid with any other offer.

Exp. Feb. 22, 1986

Duran's

Happy Valentines Day

For a Sensational Valentine Present,

Bring your Sweetheart to Duran's.

Daily Special

ALL-YOU-CAN-EAT BUFFET

$3.95

Upstairs 1800 Claflin

539-9666

Dairy Queen

Royal Treat Weekly Specials

Mon. through Fri.

THIS WEEK

Old-fashioned Cherry Sodas 99¢

12th and Moro

in Aggieville

Reg. $1.45

1015 N. 3rd

Manhattan

Dairy Queen

MANHATTAN

SHOE REPAIR

25% OFF

RUBBER OVERSHOES IN STOCK

DURING THE MONTH OF

FEBRUARY

Open daily 8-5:30, Saturday 8-4

Open Thursdays to 8

Drive-Up Convenience

CHARLIE'S

NEIGHBORHOOD BAR

ESTABLISHED 1981

MONDAY

$1.95

PITCHERS!

Open Pool

Tournament

Tonight

at 9:00

Cash Prizes

TUESDAY

$1.95 Pitchers

1800 Claflin

539-9619

VOTE FOR

BECKY SVATY

COLLEGE OF EDUCATION

SENATOR

Paid by students to elect Svaty

I'M NOT HERE TO START NO TROUBLE, JUST VOTE FOR BULLOCK ON THE DOUBLE!!!!

JOHN BULLOCK

For Arts/Science Senate

PAID FOR BY COMMITTEE TO ELECT BULLOCK

MARYSOL

SPA & TANNING SALON

Aggieville

85' Customers Receive

1 Free Tanning Session

in appreciation for business last year

(use by Feb. 15)

NEW HOURS: Mon.-Fri. 7 a.m.-1 a.m.

Sat. 9 a.m.-1 a.m.

Sun. Noon-9 p.m.

776-7874 for appt. call

Send Sweet

Nothings to your

Sweetheart

With a Collegian Personal

(Name)

(Phone)

Ads will run Feb. 14.

Write your message in the space above,

clip the coupon and bring it with your pre-payment to Kedzie 103

anytime before 10 a.m. Feb. 13.

$2.50 for 20 words

15¢ each

extra word

Take your Sweetheart away.

Far away to experience the time of your lives at Daytona Beach.

The Party in Daytona includes:

- Round trip motor coach transportation to beautiful Daytona Beach (WE DRIVE Packages Only). We use nothing but modern highway coaches.
- FREE refreshments available on the motor coach on the way down (to begin the party).
- Eight Florida days/seven endless nights at one of our exciting oceanfront hotels, located right on the Daytona Beach strip. Your hotel has a beautiful pool, sun deck, air conditioned rooms, color TV, and a nice long stretch of beach.
- A full schedule of FREE pool deck parties every day.
- A full list of pre-arranged discounts to save you money in Daytona Beach.
- Travel representatives to insure a smooth trip and a good time.
- Optional side excursions to Disney World, Epcot, deep sea fishing, party cruises, etc.
- All taxes and tips.

You Drive $119

We Drive $209

Plan your Escape

at

Brother's

Thursday and Friday 5-7 p.m.

FREE BEER

for all sign-ups

or

Call Melissa 776-8925

Lady Buffs come back for victory

By DARAN NEUSCHAFER
Sports Writer

Inconsistency has hurt the K-State women's basketball team throughout the season. And on Saturday against Colorado, the Lady Cats inconsistent play again cost them a win.

After leading by as many as nine points in the first half, the Lady Cats appeared to be a different team in the second half in losing to Colorado 69-57 in Ahearn Field House. The loss dropped K-State's record to 12-9 overall and 3-5 in the Big Eight Conference.

K-State appeared to be ready to cruise past the Lady Buffs just as they had done earlier in the year, when K-State defeated Colorado 67-55. The Lady Cats got out of the gate quickly and grabbed an early 7-2 lead before Colorado fought back to take the lead midway through the first half.

But K-State came right back and outscored Colorado 24-12 during the rest of the half to take a 32-25 lead into the locker room.

Colorado coach Ceal Barry had flashbacks of this year's first meeting between the two teams, when her team seemed to get beaten by themselves instead of by their opponents.

"I thought here we go again," Barry said. "We beat ourselves in the game at Boulder. And I thought we were going to do it again in the first half. But we played and shot the ball really well in the second half."

The Lady Buffs made an abrupt turnaround and completely dominated the second half. After shooting only 39 percent from the field in the first period, Colorado got red hot and shot 55 percent in the second half, as they scored 44 points during the period.

Much of Colorado's success was due to the effort of sophomore Erin Carson, who poured in a game high 20 points, with 14 of those points coming in the second half. Carson was able to get the hot hand after coming off the bench even though K-State was playing man-to-man defense.

"Carson just went crazy," K-State coach Matilda Mossman said. "We always had someone in her face, but she still got it down from the outside."

While Colorado was having a field day in the second half, K-State was having trouble. The Lady Cats managed only to shoot 35 percent in the second stanza and got outrebounded 26-14.

Besides Carson, Colorado had three more players in double figures in scoring.

K-State was led by junior Carlisa Thomas, who scored 13 points. The Lady Cats' backcourt duo of Susan Green and Cindy Durham scored 12 points each.

See LADY CATS, Page 14

Staff/Jeff A. Taylor

University of Colorado guard Ken Countryman drives the lane as K-State forwards Norris Coleman and Ben Mitchell attempt to block his shot Saturday in the 'Cat's 79-53 win over the Buffaloes in Ahearn Field House. Coleman, who scored a career high 39 points the last time the two teams met, tallied 25 points to lead the Wildcats.

No. 4 Blue Devils down 2nd ranked Georgia Tech

By The Associated Press

DURHAM, N.C. — Mark Alarie scored 24 points and Johnny Dawkins added 22 as fourth-ranked Duke broke open a tight game early in the second half and beat second-ranked Georgia Tech 75-59 in an Atlantic Coast Conference game Sunday.

The victory improved the Blue Devils' record to 22-2 overall and 9-2 in the ACC, a game behind top-ranked North Carolina. Georgia Tech has lost two of its last three, both ACC games, and dropped to 18-4 and 6-3.

The combination of a ball-hawking defense and Georgia Tech's cold shooting helped the Blue Devils race off on a 16-6 spree at the start of the second half.

Georgia Tech committed 21 turnovers, 12 in the second half, and cooled off to 46 percent from the field after shooting 56 percent in the first half.

'Cats' 2nd half rips Colorado

By TOM PERRIN
Sports Editor

After four consecutive Big Eight Conference home losses, K-State figured it was about time to give the home fans a win.

And what team could possibly be a better one to provide the Wildcats with that victory than the slumping Colorado Buffaloes?

With Saturday afternoon's 79-53 K-State victory over Colorado, the Buffaloes have now lost ten straight overall and eight in a row in the Big Eight.

After a slow first half that K-State Coach Jack Hartman described as "not very pretty," the Wildcats came out quickly in the second half, after leading 28-22 at halftime, and beat Colorado going away.

"In the second half, I thought we really played well," Hartman said. "We got some (baskets on) transition plays, moved the ball in our offense better, got more open shots and shot better."

K-State's leading scorer, Norris Coleman, could manage only 3 of 10 shooting in the first half, taking mostly outside shots. But an adjustment by Hartman moved Coleman closer to the basket for the second half, and that move turned into one of the keys to the Wildcat victory. Coleman shot seven of nine from the field in the second half and scored 26 points for the game.

"We put Norris in the middle and that really got us going," Hartman said.

Coleman agreed that his second half move to the middle helped the team get going.

"Our objective was to go inside (in the second half) because I wasn't hitting too many jump shots in the first half. Normally when I'm missing jump shots like that, we try to go inside," Coleman said. "Then I hit a few turnarounds inside and started to feel my rhythm on the floor outside."

Saturday's performance by Coleman appeared to put an end to the two-game scoring slump he suffered from in K-State losses to Kansas and Oklahoma State.

The "Sarge" also scored 26 points in the Wildcats' win at Nebraska Wednesday night. In the previous week, Coleman scored only eight points against KU and 11 against Oklahoma State.

"I've finally come out of my slump and I'm beginning to play ball," Coleman said. "I hope I don't have any more slumps. It seems like I play six games and then have a little two or three game slump. If that's true, my next slump is probably due when post-season play comes."

For the second game in a row, Colorado Coach Tom Apke went with a new starting line-up that included four freshmen and two sophomores. After two losses on a Sunflower state road trip — a 100-64 drubbing by Kansas Wednesday night in Lawrence and Saturday's defeat by K-State — Apke may be wondering if his move, which practically writes off this season to prepare for the future, is really going to pay off.

"Our inexperience gets us into some tough places sometimes, but with this new line-up of younger players, that's going to happen," Apke said. "With the young players we played, I think they have a great future. This losing streak is tough, but hopefully we can get after it on Wednesday and break it."

While not playing as consistently as young a roster as Colorado, K-State played a number of their younger players Saturday as well.

Freshman Guard Ty Walker and redshirt freshman forward Mark Dobbins saw their most extensive playing time of the season. At one time late in the second half, K-State was playing a lineup that included five freshmen — Coleman, Walker, Dobbins, Lance Simmons and Benny

See WILDCATS, Page 14

Tennis team drops season opener

By TONY CARBAJO
Sports Writer

The K-State women's tennis team opened their spring schedule this weekend when they played Southwest Missouri State and Notre Dame at Springfield, Mo.

The women fell to Southwest Missouri Saturday afternoon, 8-1, with the lone victory coming from No. 2 singles player Sigrid Ivarsson. Ivarsson downed Terri Williams, 6-4, 6-1.

The 'Cats' No. 1 doubles team of Ivarsson and Annika Emtehl narrowly missed victory as they were defeated 7-6 (7-3), 6-4.

On Sunday, K-State battled regional power Notre Dame and fell 6-1.

Lena Svensson, playing in the No. 1 position, captured the lone singles victory when she defeated the Fighting Irish's Susie Panther, 6-4, 6-3.

Ivarsson pushed Notre Dame's Mary Colligan to three sets before falling, 6-3, 5-7, 7-6 (7-4), in the No. 2 spot.

The No. 1 and 2 doubles matches were not played due to a time factor.

Coach Steve Bietau said although he and the team members were a little disappointed they didn't bring back a few more wins, they improved from match to match.

"The key was that they improved Sunday," Bietau said. "Both (of the other) teams had played before this weekend and I expected them (opposition) to play well right off the bat."

"Sigrid is playing good tennis. She should have beaten the girl from Notre Dame," Bietau said. "She let up on a few points and let her girl back into the match."

The women continue the spring season when they travel to Natchitoches, La., to battle Northwest Louisiana State March 10. That match will start a five-day southern tour.

Track team strong at Nebraska meet

By DARIN RUSSELL
Collegian Reporter

Jacque Struckhoff ran the fastest women's collegiate two-mile in the United States of the indoor season this weekend at Lincoln, Neb., during the Husker Invitational track and field meet.

Overall the K-State track team set seven seasonal bests, seven lifetime bests, two school records and had five national qualifiers. K-State also had three women place in the national standings.

"We just had a fabulous meet today. The crowd was fabulous, the competition was fabulous and our athletes were great," Wildcat Coach Steve Miller said.

K-State had three women and two men place first at the meet. Rita Graves qualified for the NCAA national indoor meet in the high jump with a jump of 6-foot. Anne Stadler placed first in the mile with a time of 4:47.61. Struckhoff set a school record and qualified for nationals when she ran the fastest collegiate two-mile time in the nation this year at 9:52.75.

For the men, Brad Speer placed first in the high jump with a jump of 7-4, and Bryan Carroll placed first in the three-mile run with a time of 13:53.30.

There were three other Wildcats who qualified for nationals, placing second at the invitational. Chris Vanatta ran the third fastest time this season in the nation in the two-mile, qualifying for the nationals behind Struckhoff, with a time of 9:58.20.

Michelle Maxey qualified for nationals in the 600-yard run with a time of 1:19.56, setting a school record and posting the second fastest time in the nation. Kenny Harrison qualified for nationals in the triple jump with a jump of 53-11.

Other top performers for the women were: Anita Isom, third in the 60-yard dash; Karen Brown, fourth in the 60-yard dash; and Felicia Carpenter, third in the long jump and fourth in the 440-yard dash. For the men, Kenny Harrison placed third in the long jump with a leap of 25 feet and Jim Knudsen placed fourth in the two-mile.

Miller was pleased with the individual effort and overall team performance.

"Certainly, when you have five national qualifiers a coach is going to be pleased. Then you add in the fact that Jacque ran the nation's best time this year, and she is a real student-athlete (she has a 4.0 grade point average). I am very, very pleased," said Miller.

Thirty-eight athletes qualified for nationals at the meet, including 25 women and 13 men.

A few K-State athletes who didn't qualify for the Husker Invitational went to the Jayhawk Invitational in Lawrence.

For the women, Dimita Jones placed first in the 880-yard run with a time of 2:15.12. Liz Rich placed fourth in the 600-yard run, and Kelly Abernathy placed 6th in the shot put.

For the Wildcat men, Ken Nash placed second in the shot put with a throw of 53-2 1/2, followed by Dan O'Mara who placed fifth. In the pole vault, Jeff Holmes placed second with a vault of 15-6. Also placing were Scott Ward, fourth in the pole vault and Pat Hessini fourth in the mile.

The K-State team will not compete next week.

Former yell leader flips over new job

By TONY CARBAJO
Sports Writer

If halftime shows could be compared to cars, the fans at Ahearn Field House Saturday afternoon were treated to a Rolls Royce production.

The Bud Light Daredevils, featuring former K-State yell leader Brad Bromich, entertained basketball game patrons with their flamboyant, high-flying style of slam dunking the basketball behind upbeat background music.

"It makes it go so much better," Bromich said of the music. "It helps psych us up."

The Daredevils, a team of four former college yell leaders, utilize mini-tramps to do acrobatic feats near the basketball goal — then proceed to slam dunk the ball.

Bromich joined the Daredevils last fall, after completing his undergraduate accounting degree at K-State. After a training session that lasted the duration of September and October, the group toured Japan and Europe before embarking on their American swing.

"It has been really neat. It gives me a good opportunity to see the country," Bromich said. "It is real fast paced — we are in and out of places."

Performing in front of the K-State fans for the first time since his departure last spring was more than Bromich had imagined. He said the crowd was definitely at the top of his list.

"That was incredible — it was a rush," Bromich said after his high flying halftime show. "The people here were so receptive."

"I told somebody else this also," he said. "The fans got into it more

Staff/Andy Nelson

Former Wildcat yell leader Brad Bromich, who now performs with the Bud Light Daredevils, flips from a mini-trampoline as he prepares to throw a basketball off of the backboard for another Daredevil to dunk during halftime of the K-State — Colorado game Saturday in Ahearn Field House.

here than any other fans anywhere we have gone."

The group, based in St. Louis, has already visited the campuses of Georgia Tech, North Carolina, Georgetown and Mississippi, just to name a few.

They will also be at the NCAA Final Four at Reunion Arena in Dallas, but will not work any of the games. They will do demonstrations at the Final Four convention and work an all-star game there.

"People always say 'why don't you do football games,'" Bromich said. "But it just wouldn't work. It is all based around the slam dunk. The atmosphere is just not there for football."

The group practices for two months prior to the beginning of the season to perfect their flipping routines. Bromich said if the group gets a chance they will warm up about 45 minutes prior to a game.

In the off-season, the members all teach cheerleading classes and work clinics.

The routines have been almost accident-free for the performers thus far, but in one routine a Daredevil wears a protective hockey mask when doing a slam dunk routine.

"That jump is hard to judge," Bromich said. "One guy hit his face on the rim earlier this year and he was black and blue for about a week."

Lady Cats

Continued from Page 13

COLORADO	MIN	FG	FT	R	F	TP
Ford	35	4-7	3-3	7	2	11
Trapp	37	2-9	3-4	3	3	7
Hanks	26	3-5	4-6	10	3	10
Holwerda	19	3-3	1-2	3	0	7
Turner	36	3-10	6-9	12	0	12
DeWitte	19	1-4	0-0	5	5	2
Carson	25	9-14	2-2	3	2	20
Moore	3	0-0	0-0	0	0	0
Totals	25-32	19-26	46	15	69

K-STATE	MIN	FG	FT	R	F	TP
Thomas	34	5-12	3-7	6	3	13
Holley	28	3-12	2-2	7	4	8
Leiding	18	3-5	0-2	2	5	6
Green	36	6-12	0-0	4	2	12
Durham	37	5-14	2-2	2	3	12
Blecinski	11	0-1	0-1	2	0	0
Pitpatrick	26	3-6	0-0	1	3	6
Kuebelbeck	8	0-0	0-0	0	0	0
Totals	25-62	7-14	29	20	57

Halftime score: Colorado 25, K-State 32
Turnovers: Colorado 21, K-State 15
Field goal percentage: Colorado 48, K-State 40
Attendance: 1,450

Late Virginia steal helps Cavaliers edge Missouri

By The Associated Press

COLUMBIA, Mo. — Olden Polynice canned two free throws with two minutes left and Richard Morgan swiped a Missouri pass at the five-second mark Sunday, allowing Virginia to slip past the Tigers 64-62 in an intersectional college basketball game.

The lead changed hands 11 times in the second half of the game, which featured representatives of the Big Eight and Atlantic Coast conferences.

Missouri's Derrick Chievous hit a short jumper to put the Tigers on top 62-59 with 3:33 to play, then Virginia's Tom Calloway trimmed one point off the lead with a free throw and Mel Kennedy tied it at 62-62 with a bank shot from underneath.

Missouri brought the ball downcourt but guard Jeff Strong threw it out of bounds and a few seconds later Gary Leonard committed the foul that sent Polynice to the line for what proved the winning free throws.

Chievous had 16 points for Missouri.

Wildcats

Continued from Page 13

Green. Only Coleman and Green are starters.

"They are some young kids that hungry to play — not to imply that the others aren't — but when a kid comes off the bench to play, he's wound up pretty tight," Hartman said.

COLORADO	MIN	FG	FT	R	F	TP
Countryman	22	0-4	1-2	3	2	1
Bullard	30	6-13	0-0	9	4	12
Wilke	28	8-11	4-6	9	4	20
Penix	31	3-5	0-2	2	0	6
Kuostman	32	2-6	0-0	1	4	4
Downs	12	2-3	1-1	2	0	5
Reid	14	1-2	1-1	0	2	3
Williams	17	1-3	0-2	1	1	2
Lee	3	0-2	0-0	1	0	0
Robinson	3	0-0	0-0	0	0	0
Totals	23-50	7-14	23	15	53

K-STATE	MIN	FG	FT	R	F	TP
Mitchell	28	5-7	1-2	8	0	11
Coleman	38	10-19	5-6	6	1	25
Meyer	15	1-2	0-0	2	4	2
Green	26	2-6	0-0	2	0	4
Wright	34	7-14	5-5	4	4	19

Muff	17	0-0	2-2	2	3	2
Walker	18	4-5	0-1	0	2	8
Dobbins	13	2-9	0-0	5	1	4
Simmons	7	1-1	0-0	0	2	2
Smith	2	0-0	0-0	0	0	0
Eddie	2	1-2	0-0	0	0	0
Totals	33-65	13-16	33	17	79

Halftime score: K-State 28, Colorado 22
Turnovers: K-State 10, Colorado 20
Field goal percentage: K-State 51, Colorado 46
Announced attendance: 8,383

Collegian Classifieds
Cheap, but Effective

Get rid of the
Monday Blues

$1 House Drinks

ROCKIN' K BAR

This is a shrimp

You can gobble them up all you want for just a buck/dz TONIGHT.

Bockers two

4-7 p.m.
Best Happy Hours in Town

The Excitement
is back
at
THE COTTON CLUB

$1.50 Highballs
in HP's Bar
any brand, all day, all night
$1.50 Imports
and 99c Beers

HP's Bar
Piano Bar Every Friday; & Saturday

ELECT
WES ALEXANDER

ARTS & SCIENCES
SENATOR

STEP AHEAD WITH ED

VOTE
FRANKENBERG ENGINEERING
SENATOR

Paid for by Students To Elect Frankenberg

College of Education

Candidates for Education Council:
Reception for all applicants

TONIGHT,
Mon., Feb. 10, 8 p.m.

Bluemont Hall 106

Sponsored by Ebony Theatre Company and K-State Players

The American Dame

by Phillip C. Lewis

Feb. 13, 14, 15
Purple Masque Theatre
8:00 pm

$2.00 general $1.00 student
Ticket information: 532-6398

This note is Legal Tender for $5.00 Off Your Next Service except specials

$5

Clay will give you a new look and "save" with this $5⁰⁰ coupon

The Hair Experts
1209 Moro
776-4455

Clay Freeman

FIVE DOLLARS Expires 3-1-86 $5

Who is
KELLI CARR?

- A Concerned Student
- Informed & Determined Leader
- A Strong Voice For Students

Your Candidate for Student Body President

Paid for by students to elect K. Carr

UPC

Monday, February 10, 1986

UPC

A 26-minute, multi-media history of rock 'n' roll from the 50's through the 80's.

The Rock and Roll Time Tunnel

Tonight in Forum Hall
4 SHOWS-7,8,9 & 10 p.m. FREE

UPC state union
upc feature films

Wednesday at 7:30
Thursday at 3:30 & 7:30
All shows in Little Theatre
KSU ID required;
$1.75; Rated R

CAL

Out of Ireland's struggle, a passionate love is born.

"Cal," a passionate whisper from a darkling plain, takes a firm grasp on one's attention. It is a very fine thing."

"A beautiful, mournful movie which has been gracefully adapted and equally well directed."

"Superbly filmed and scored, 'Cal' is a rare adult, intelligent, good movie. It's recommended."

"Profoundly moving. A picture of this quality honors the country and people that make it."

k-state union
upc kaleidoscope

GRAND CANYON BACKPACKING
GO HIKE THE CANYON -
SPRING BREAK
SIGN-UP:

In Union Activities Center
8:30 a.m.-4 p.m.
through Monday,

March 3rd.
Trail #1 $38
Trail #2 $44
Trail #3 $44

k-state union
upc outdoor rec.

midday arts
PRESENTS:
Calligraphy

Demonstration
by Nina Miley
in the Union Art Gallery
Thursday Noon
to 1 p.m.

k-state union
upc arts

VICTORIAN VALENTINES
by Rosemary Postai
in the 2nd Floor Showcase

k-state union
upc arts

Susan B. Anthony's spirit evident during lifelong suffrage campaign

By ANGIE SCHUMAKER
Collegian Reporter

The undying spirit of Susan B. Anthony is summed up by a statement she made at her final public appearance, one month before her death.

"Failure is impossible," she said, and it was on this phrase she based her life and campaigns for women's suffrage and the abolition of slavery.

This week the Women's Resource Center is celebrating the anniversary of Anthony's birthday on Feb. 15 with a series of weeklong events. The events honor Anthony for her achievements in fighting for women's rights.

Anthony was born Feb. 15, 1820, in Adams, Mass. She studied at Quaker schools including the Friends Boarding School in Philadelphia from 1836 to 1838.

When she was 15, she began a teaching career and earned $1.50 a week plus room and board. She taught at several academies and was the head of the Female Department of the Canajoharie Academy in New York from 1848 to 1849.

Influenced by her father's work with abolitionists, as well as visits with Frederick Douglass, William Garrison and Wendell Phillips, Anthony took a strong stand in opposition to slavery.

A meeting of the Sons of Temperance sparked another interest for Anthony. It was at this meeting she was publicly discriminated against because of her sex. Although she was always in favor of women's rights, it was not until after this meeting in 1851 that she began actively campaigning for this cause. In 1852, she started the Woman's State Temperance Society of New York.

Her first major legislative victory came in 1860 when the New York State Married Woman's Property and Guardianship Law was passed granting women long-awaited rights to personal property.

Anthony served as an American anti-slavery agent from 1856 to 1861 and helped establish the International Council of Women in London in 1888.

Anthony organized the Women's National Loyal League. It was this organization which started petitions leading to the passage of the 13th Amendment to abolish slavery.

In 1890, the National and the American Woman Suffrage associations merged, and Anthony became vice president of the organization. From 1892 to 1900, she served as president.

Anthony was arrested during the 1872 presidential race as she and 15 other women registered to vote in the election. She was fined, but refused to pay.

She campaigned actively throughout her life by attending meetings, legislative sessions, speaking publicly and campaigning door-to-door. William Henry Channing referred to Anthony as "the Napoleon of the women's rights movement."

Because women were frequently omitted from historical literature, Anthony began writing the "History of Woman Suffrage."

In her later years, Anthony suffered from a slight visual defect, but she continued avidly pursuing her campaign even at the age of 86. She died of heart failure on March 13, 1906.

Only four states granted women the right to vote at the time of her death, but 14 years later, the 19th Amendment or Suffrage Amendment was added to the Constitution.

Group to honor feminist

By ANNETTE FANKHAUSER
Collegian Reporter

More than 160 years after the birth of Susan B. Anthony, the University is recognizing the culmination of the feminist's efforts for equality during the Women's Resource Center's annual Susan B. Anthony Week.

Anthony, an early organizer of the women's rights movement, was born Feb. 15, 1820. She campaigned for women to have the right to vote, control their property and have custody over their children in case of a divorce.

Fourteen years after her death the "Anthony Amendment," which gave women the right to vote, went into effect. The amendment became the 19th Amendment Aug. 18, 1920.

In conjunction with Susan B. Anthony Week the Women's Resource Center will sponsor a series of events.

An open house will be held from 3 to 5 p.m. today in the center's office in Holton 111. The purpose of the open house is to familiarize visitors with the center and what it has to offer.

The center will hold its weekly forum at noon Tuesday in Union 213. Sandra Coyner, associate professor of interdisciplinary studies, will speak about "Susan B's Legacy - Contemporary Feminism." Sue Zschoche, assistant professor of history, will also talk about Anthony. Zschoche's topic will be "Happy Birthday, Susan B."

Tuesday evening the center will kick off its round-table discussions at Kramer Food Center. The informal discussions will involve the staff and volunteers of the Women's Resource Center and the students, and will be from 5:30 to 6:30 p.m. The topics will vary from week to week. In conjunction with the weeklong round of activities, the center will discuss Anthony and women's rights.

Thursday, the center will sponsor an all-women band from Lawrence. The "Full Circle Band" will play from 8 to 10 p.m. in the Union Caskeller. The band plays a variety of music which should appeal to anyone, said Caroline Peine, director of the Women's Resource Center. A minimum donation of $3 will be accepted.

Friday, the center will sponsor a luncheon in the Union Sunflower room titled "Women You'll Wish You Had Known." The slide presentation was prepared by the Wichita National Organization for Women. The presentation puts a special emphasis on Kansas women. Kelli Wondra, senior in theater, will narrate the presentation.

The luncheon will be held from noon to 1 p.m. and will cost $6 per person. Anyone wishing to attend may make reservations with the center.

The Women's Resource Center will conclude its Susan B. Anthony Week with Coffeehouse from 7 to 10 p.m. Friday at University For Man, 1221 Thurston St.

Classifieds

Display Classified Rates
One day: $4.65 per inch; Three consecutive days: $4.25 per inch; Five consecutive days: $3.95 per inch; Ten consecutive days: $3.75 per inch. (Deadline is 4:30 p.m. two days before publication.)

ANNOUNCEMENTS 01

MARY KAY Cosmetics—Color awareness, products, and free facial. Anna Prockish, 1001 Bluemont, 537-4246. (891)

IF YOU want straight answers from a well informed individual, if you don't want and or uh, well, you know and kinda sorta, vote for Patty Hipshar as your Student Body President. (94)

ATTENTION 02

FLYING INTEREST? Check into K-State Flying Club. Call Steve Dyer at 532-5600 or 537-0458. (81)

SPRING BREAK on the beach at South Padre Island, Daytona Beach, Fort Lauderdale, Fort Walton Beach or Mustang Island/Port Aransas from only $89, and skiing at Steamboat or Vail from only $86! Deluxe lodging, parties, goodie bags, more... Hurry, call Sunchase Tours for more information and reservations toll free 1-800-321-5911 or contact a local Sunchase Representative today! When your Spring Break counts... count on Sunchase. (80-109)

HEE'S ALTERATIONS—Suits, coats, jeans, zippers and all types of alterations. 1125 Laramie Plaza, Aggieville. Monday thru Friday, 10 a.m. 5:30 p.m.; Saturdays, 10 a.m. 4 p.m. 776-7959. (871)

SKI SPRING Break—Breckenridge, Keystone, and Copper Mountain. March 9, 10 and 11 only $220. Price includes transportation, lodging, ski rental and lift tickets. For information, call 537-2995. (94-108)

APO MEETING 7 p.m. Union, Rm. 207. (94)

STUDENT NEEDS ride to campus from Tuttle Creek Blvd. area. Will pay gas. Please call 539-1936. (94-98)

FRED NEUMAN—Best of luck to you in your bid for Business Senator. (94)

FOR RENT—MISC 03

COSTUMES—FROM gorilla suits to Hawaiian leis. Makeup, wigs, periodical clothing, masks, grass skirts, all occasions available. Treasure Chest, Aggieville. (281)

SEE MARIE for all your costume needs. If I don't have it, I'll make it for you. Marie's Costumes. 17th and Humboldt, 539-5200. Parking in the rear. (901)

FOR RENT—APTS 04

FOR AUGUST—Deluxe two bedroom furnished apartment, across the street from Ford Hall. 539-2482 after 4:00 p.m. (92-102)

THREE BEDROOM available now. Utilities paid. Call Barbara, 537-1329. (83-98)

ONE OR two bedroom—Reasonable, one block to campus, available now. Call Barbara, 537-1329. (83-98)

WE HAVE studio, one, two, and three bedroom apartments available now. All prices. Call 537-1210 or 537-4244. (871)

NEXT to campus—Leasing for fall, across from Marriott and Goodnow. Furnished two or one bedroom, central air, carpeting, fully equipped kitchen, balcony, off street parking. 539-2702, evenings, weekends. (88-98)

NEXT to campus—Leasing for fall, across from Haymaker, overlooking campus. Two bedroom, fireplace, central air, carpeting, fully equipped kitchen, balcony, laundry facility, off street parking. 539-2702, evenings, weekends. (88-98)

BRAND NEW three bedroom. One and one-half baths, near campus. Available May, June or August. $480/month. Call 537-8800. (891)

PLAN FOR the summer and the 1986-87 school year. McCullough Development Inc. is now accepting applications for summer and fall leases. Call us, we manage over 300 university area apartments. 776-3804. (891)

APARTMENTS FOR next school year and June. Two bedroom, 1212 Thurston, $300. Call 539-5059 evenings. (91-95)

AVAILABLE IMMEDIATELY—Furnished one bedroom apartment, one block from Ahearn. Call 776-9124. (91-108)

NEAR KSU for August—Four to five bedroom house at 312 North 15th Street, $550 per month. Also two bedroom newly remodeled furnished basement apartment. Heat, water, trash paid, laundry facilities. $275 per month. 539-2482 after 4 p.m. (92-96)

BRAND NEW deluxe two, three and four bedroom apartment complexes for fall. All close to campus, reasonably priced. Call 537-2919. (93-115)

NICE ONE, two, three and four bedroom apartments and houses. Also an elegant five bedroom house with three baths. Most near campus, available now, summer and fall. Good prices. Call 537-2919. (93-115)

FURNISHED ONE bedroom duplex. Move in immediately! No pets or smokers. Call 537-2811. (93-97)

AVAILABLE NOW! One bedroom duplex four blocks from campus. 537-2575 or 539-1894. (94-98)

PRAIRIE GLEN—A really nice place to live. Two bedroom unit available. 776-4786. (94-108)

FOR NEXT school year—One bedroom furnished, block west of campus. Call 539-5051 or see Dave. # 4, 1024 Sunset. (94-98)

FOR NEXT school year, August—Two bedroom combo, one-half block west of campus, up to four people. $520. Call 776-4528 or see Dean #5, 1829 College Hts. (94-98)

FOR RENT—HOUSES 05

THREE BEDROOM home, 1523 Fairchild, available now. Call Barbara, 537-1329. (83-98)

HOUSES FOR next school year. Three, four six and eight bedroom. Block west of campus. 539-5059 evenings. (91-95)

SEVERAL THREE, four, and five bedroom houses for June occupancy. Clean and good condition. guaranteed, $395 and up. 537-1269. (931)

FOR SALE—AUTO 06

1980 GMC 4 x 4 1/2 ton, four-speed, power steering, power brakes, dual tanks, dual exhausts. 532-5139 evenings. (90-94)

1976 BUICK SKYLARK, $1,000. All tires leave 28,000 mile warranty. 1 month battery. Visit Willard 316 or call 776-5014 after 5 p.m. (91-94)

1977 Honda Accord—5 speed, high mileage, excellent performance. Call 537-9059. (94)

IS IT true you can buy Jeeps for $44 through the U.S. government? Get the facts today! Call 1-312-742-1142, ext. 3296-A. (94)

FOR SALE—MISC 07

OFFICE SUPPLIES—Hunt Business Machines, 15 North 12th, Aggieville. 539-1413. (551)

30% OFF

All Strings, and DOD Guitar Effects

Hayes House of Music

"We Will Not Be Undersold"

776-7893

223 Poyntz

GOVERNMENT HOMES from $1 (U repair). Also delinquent tax property. Call 805-687-6000, ext. GH 9701 for information. (76-97)

Sub of the Week

TURKEY & CHEESE

SUB

only at

soon to be famous

AL'S DELI

718 N. Manhattan in Aggieville

MACINTOSH MEMORY upgrades $229, 800K external disk drive with exchange $250, without exchange $350. 532-4855. (92-96)

IBM PC Jr. color monitor, 128K parallel interface, includes writing assist program. $750. 539-1781. (92-98)

GOVERNMENT SURPLUS! Raincoats, overcoats, field jackets, camouflage clothing, sleeping bags, camping gear, much more! St. Mary's Surplus Sales, 1437-2734. (92-101)

Clip and Save

1/4 Pound

Hamburger

69¢

The Ritz

Not good with other specials

One burger per coupon

Expires 2-16-86

10 SPEED Schwinn bike for sale. Call 776-1294, ask for Alan. (93-94)

METAL DESK—39" x 29", stands 28 1/2" tall, with key lock, only $60. Call 539-6711. (94-95)

FOUR PIECE set of Slingerland drums with Zildjian hi-hat and crash. 539-5812. (94-98)

FOUND 10

CHAIN WITH coin attached found in Holton Hall, February 6th. Come to room 102 Holton to identify and claim, or call 532-6432. (94-96)

HELP WANTED 13

GOVERNMENT JOBS. $16,040-$59,230/year. Now hiring. Call 805-687-6000, ext. R-9701 for current federal list. (76-97)

COUPLE FOR Assistant Manager of large apartment complex. Live in, maintenance ability necessary. Send resume to Box 3, Collegian. (761)

CRUISESHIPS HIRING! $16-30,000. Caribbean, Hawaii, World! Call for Guide, Cassette, Newsletter. (916) 944-4444, Ext. Kansascruise (76-102)

SITUATIONS WANTED 19

$10-$360 weekly/mailing circulars. No quotas. Sincerely interested. Rush self-addressed envelope. Success, P.O. Box 470CEG, Woodstock, IL 60098. (76-105)

SUBLEASE 20

SUBLEASE: FURNISHED two bedroom apartment two and one-half blocks from campus. Move in now. $320/month rent free. 537-1083. (92-94)

WANTED 21

WANTED: USED microscope, mono or binocular. Call (402) 656-3002, daytime, or (402) 729-6361 evenings. (91-95)

Bloom County

By Berke Breathed

Garfield

By Jim Davis

Peanuts

By Charles Schulz

Crossword

ACROSS
1 It follows young or prank
5 Sailor's drink
8 Author of Bellow
12 Mata—
13 Samuel's mentor
14 Entreaty
15 On tiptoe
16 Time tellers of yore
18 Unravel the message
20 Castle feature
21 Solid
23 Stop up
24 Dengue
28 Ananias, for one
31 TV actor Robert
32 Dogma
34 The Concorde, for short
35 Serve
37 Lie on the beach
39 Weaken

41 Zoo favorite
42 Deputies
45 Mourning
49 "Butch Cassidy and the Kid"
51 Author of Ludwig
52 Being
53 Play by—
54 Nora's husband
55 Biblical name
56 Printer's measures
57 "Jolly Roger" crewman

DOWN
1 Food fish
2 London gallery
3 Singer Clapton
4 Swindle: colloq.
5 Additional supplies
6 Eskimo knife
7 Money-maker
8 "The—
9 Scare-monger
10 African river
11 Endure
17 Defective bomb
19 Calorie counter's regimen
22 Bills of fare
24 Hold session
25 Indian
26 Bosh!
27 Revokers, in bridge
29 Residue
30 Map abbr.
33 Ski lift
36 Anger: colloq.
38 Strangers
40 School org.
42 Confused
43 Puff of wind
44 Dirk
46 Biblical people
47 "Miami—
48 Actress Sommer
50 Engine part

Avg. solution time: 26 min.

AMAZON TRAP PLAN
SEW WANE LAGO
TWO CENTS LAXED
AS LANT LEO
SLITS TWO FER
RAINY RESAYED
ANNE REASACED
FED BOX SLEDS
TWO BOKSKI
TWO BOKSKI
EVERY TWO LOMO
FELL EIRE LOMO
FELL EIRE LOMO

Ans. to yesterday's puzzle.

CRYPTOQUIP

YUEK, FLJQKNNXJHYE YTZ
FZHTDZLXND, WZND QXHXNSKO
NTSJJE, HKKON Y WYU
Yesterday's Cryptoquip: SLOW BUT CAREFUL HIGH-WIRE ACROBAT WAS BEGINNING TO GET THE HANG OF IT.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: F equals P

Search

Continued from Page 1

from the University of California at San Diego. He has served as the director of the National Science Foundation in Washington, D.C., and has been chancellor at Maryland for three years, which has an enrollment of 28,000.

— John Campbell, dean of the College of Agriculture at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign. He obtained his bachelor's degree in agriculture, a master's degree in dairy manufacturing and a doctorate in dairy cattle nutrition from the University of Missouri-Columbia. He was named dean of the agriculture college in 1983. Enrollment at Illinois is 26,000.

— Jon Wefald, chancellor of the Minnesota seven school state university system. Wefald has a bachelor's degree in history and political science from Pacific Lutheran University in Tacoma, Wash., a master's in history and political science from Washington State University in Pullman and a doctorate in history and political science from the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor. He has served as president of Southwest State University in Marshall, Minn., and has been chancellor of the Minnesota system since 1982.

— Robert Rutford, president of the University of Texas at Dallas. He has bachelor's, master's and doctoral degrees in geography from the University of Minnesota. Rutford has served as vice chancellor for research and graduate studies and interim chancellor at the University of Nebraska at Lincoln. He became president of the Texas institution in 1982, which has an enrollment of approximately 7,000.

— Greg O'Brien, provost at the University of South Florida in Tampa. He has a bachelor's degree in social relations from Lehigh University at Bethlehem, Pa., and a master's and doctorate in social psychology from Boston University. He has served as provost at the University of Michigan in Flint and has been provost of South Florida, which has an enrollment of 20,000, since 1980.

— Charles Sidman, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences at the University of Florida in Gainesville. He received his bachelor's and master's degree from John Carroll University in University Heights, Ohio, and a doctorate in history from the University of Wisconsin. He was chairman of the history department at the University of Kansas for 12 years and on the faculty for 18 years before moving to Florida in 1978. The University of Florida has an enrollment of 36,000.

— John La Tourette, provost and vice president for academic affairs at Northern Illinois University in DeKalb. He has a bachelor's, master's and doctorate degree in economics from Rutgers University in New Jersey. He was provost for graduate studies at the State University in Bowling Green, Ohio, before becoming provost at Northern Illinois. He was acting president of Northern Illinois in 1985. The school has an enrollment of 25,000.

— William Mobley, dean of the College of Business Administration at Texas A&M University at College Station. He has a bachelor's degree in psychology and economics from Denison University at Granville, Ohio, and a master's and doctorate in industrial psychology from the University of Maryland. Texas A&M has an enrollment of approximately 30,000.

In October 1985, the 15-member committee began the task of narrowing a field of nominees and applicants which eventually totaled more than 100. By December, published reports indicated the list had been cut to 45. The committee plans to interview the semifinalists in two weeks before submitting a list of finalists to the regents.

$2.25 Pitchers

Tuesday Coors Classic Rock Night
details tomorrow

Vote for Student Input

JOHN LOWE

Business Senator

Paid for by Students to elect Lowe

VOTE

Roger McClellan

Ag Council President

Paid for by students for McClellan

This Valentine's Day, go all out.

Go ahead, show that special someone how much you care by sending the FTD® Hearts 'n' Flowers® Bouquet. A beautiful arrangement in an impressive keepsake caddy. It's so easy. Just call your FTD Florist. Go ahead. Do something really exciting!

VALENTINE'S WEEK IS FEBRUARY 9-15.

®Registered trademark FTDA

LAST CHANCE

1212 MORO, AGGIEVILLE 776-6451

CHEAP MONDAYS & TUESDAYS!

70¢ DRAFT BEERS

★ $2.25 PITCHERS

★ ★ 85¢ BOTTLED DOMESTIC BEER

★ ★ HAVE YOU JOINED OUR AROUND THE WORLD BEER CLUB?

Monday HIGH ROLLERS

Any Single Liquor Call or Premium Drink Only $1.50

Auntie Mae's Parlor

AGGIEVILLE

Memberships available 616 N. 12th 539-9967

Tuesday IMPORT BEER NIGHT

Featuring Bottles of Mae's Favorite Beers From Across the Seas $1.25

Godfather's PIZZA PURSUIT

Ridiculous facts concerning pizza and its origins...

Pizza was actually invented in 1623, when the wife of Luigi Pizzilano accidentally sat on a large ball of bread dough left to rise on a chair. The resulting pancake had such an interesting, saucer-like shape that she spread it with tomato sauce, tossed on some cheese, and popped it into her stone oven. Later, when pizza had become a Pizzilano family staple, Luigi's wife took to throwing it at him, Irish style, when he didn't come home on time. The first pizza delivery!

ABSOLUTELY THE BEST PIZZA & POP VALUE IN MANHATTAN. USE THESE COUPONS MONDAY-WEDNESDAY. FOR DELIVERY ONLY; AVAILABLE 5 TILL 11 P.M. 539-5303

Godfather's Pizza

1118 Laramie 539-5303

(You can always order extra toppings for a small additional charge)

USE THESE COUPONS MON.-WED. FOR DELIVERY ONLY; AVAILABLE 5 TILL 11 P.M.

Limit one pizza per coupon. Please present coupon before ordering or upon delivery. Not valid with any other offer. Good only at participating Godfather's Pizza restaurants. Offer expires 2/28/86. No cash value. Limited delivery area.

LARGE THIN CRUST PIZZA WITH 1 TOPPING AND 4 FREE 16 oz. BOTTLES OF DELIVERED FOR $8.99 PLUS TAX

Godfather's Pizza

1118 Laramie 539-5303

(You can always order extra toppings for a small additional charge)

USE THESE COUPONS MON.-WED. FOR DELIVERY ONLY; AVAILABLE 5 TILL 11 P.M.

Limit one pizza per coupon. Please present coupon before ordering or upon delivery. Not valid with any other offer. Good only at participating Godfather's Pizza restaurants. Offer expires 2/28/86. No cash value. Limited delivery area.

MEDIUM THIN CRUST PIZZA WITH 1 TOPPING AND 3 FREE 16 oz. BOTTLES OF DELIVERED FOR $6.99 PLUS TAX

Godfather's Pizza

1118 Laramie 539-5303

(You can always order extra toppings for a small additional charge)

USE THESE COUPONS MON.-WED. FOR DELIVERY ONLY; AVAILABLE 5 TILL 11 P.M.

Limit one pizza per coupon. Please present coupon before ordering or upon delivery. Not valid with any other offer. Good only at participating Godfather's Pizza restaurants. Offer expires 2/28/86. No cash value. Limited delivery area.

SMALL THIN CRUST PIZZA WITH 1 TOPPING AND 2 FREE 16 oz. BOTTLES OF DELIVERED FOR $4.99 PLUS TAX

MONDAY, TUESDAY & WEDNESDAY ONLY AT WORLD RADIO!

Compact Disc Sale

COMPACT DISC... The Greatest Sound You've Ever Heard ON SALE NOW!

FANTASTIC SOUND... Digital laser compact disc technology gives the best stereo you've ever heard. Covers the widest range from soft to loud, low notes to high, with no static or hiss. It's just like being at the concert. You've got to hear it to believe it!

EASY TO USE... Just slip in a disc and press a button. Many of our CD players let you play back the song on a disc in any order you want. Repeat as often as you like. Some even have wireless remote control for total convenience.

NO RECORD WEAR... Safe low power laser "reads" music sealed inside the disc. No scratches, needles or delicate record grooves. Your favorite CD album sounds as great after 100 plays as it did on the first.

WORKS WITH YOUR SYSTEM... You can upgrade your present stereo system by adding a CD player. Plugs in to most stereo receiver or amplifiers.

BIG SELECTION OF DISCS... Record companies know CD is the fastest growing format. More than 6,000 of the top albums and artists are available right now, with more new albums added every day!

WE KNOW STEREO... World Radio is the Midwest's leader in electronics, with more than 50 years in the business! Let us help you pick the CD player for your system, your music, for you!

BIG SELECTION... We've got the latest models from top manufacturers of CD players, with the features and performance you want!

FANTASTIC SAVINGS... We want you to have the incredible sound of compact disc audio right now! So we've put our entire selection of CD players on sale at special low prices!

SHARP $149

Sharp Programmable Digital Compact Disc Player

Features an automatic program search system, with cue and review capability and digital display for track number and time counter. Model DX-110. List $249.

YAMAHA $249

Superior Yamaha Natural Sound Compact Disc Player

This quality CD player incorporates a full digital filter for a more natural sound. Has a 3-way music search system with programmable random access and auto repeat. Superior sound from Yamaha. Model CDX-5.

Technics $249

From Technics... The New Generation Compact Disc Player

High speed linear motor for instant access with full programming capability up to 20 tracks, and Accu-Servo laser guidance. SLP-100.

SONY $298

Sony Programmable Compact Hi-Fi Disc Player

Features a 3 beam laser pick-up system, with random music sensor and automatic music sensor. Model CDP-70.

FISHER $199

Fisher's Latest in Compact Disc Player Technology

Get the latest in laser technology from Fisher. Has index search capability, and 3 position repeat button. Model AD-813/23.

YAMAHA $319

Top Quality Programmable Compact Disc Player

Has sequential programming capability, with audible track search and direct access program search. Model CD-37.

harman/kardon $599

Compact Disc Player with Remote Control and Harman/Kardon Sound

Perhaps the finest compact disc player in the industry! Has convenient front loading, with forward reverse cueing and full function remote control. Model HD 500.

ALLSOP $24

Allsop Compact Disc Cleaner

Great value. Model 59000.

FREE! Compact Disc

From Allsop With Purchase!

over 50 years of Electronics

WORLD RADIO

MANHATTAN 11th & Moro in Aggieville 537-4190

Financing available: Visa, MasterCard & American Express welcomed. Some quantities may be limited. Sale prices good thru February 12 or while quantities last. No Dealers Please!

*WITH APPROVED CREDIT: Based on 21% A.P.R. with 20% down and 24 monthly payments. Sales tax of 4% included. Monthly payments, A.P.R. and sales tax will vary from store to store.

Weather

Partly Cloudy

Partly cloudy and cold today, high in the teens. Wind northeast 5 to 15 mph. Fair and cold tonight, low 0 to 5 below.

Vote Today

Remember to cast your Student Governing Association ballot from 7:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. today in the Stateroom Level of the Union.

Power Coach

Russ Riederer has been strength coach for the Wildcat football team for six years. See Page 9.

Kansas
State

Collegian

Tuesday
February 11, 1986

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 92, Number 95

Philippine assembly to determine winner of violent national election

By The Associated Press

MANILA, Philippines — The government-dominated National Assembly held the first meeting Monday on its official vote canvass, which by law will determine who won the disputed presidential election.

In the slow count of ballots cast last Friday, the government election commission showed President Ferdinand E. Marcos leading by 53 percent to 47. An unofficial count by a citizens' poll-watching group of more votes showed challenger Corazon Aquino ahead by the same margin.

The election was marred by violence, which continued Monday. A gunman fired at about 50 Aquino supporters in an open truck from which Aquino had delivered a speech earlier, killing a 20-year-old man and wounding a woman.

At the gathering in suburban Makati, Aquino had told 2,000 cheering supporters she was "claiming the people's due," and pledged: "We are going to take power. The people have won this election."

Aquino accuses Marcos of widespread election fraud in attempting to extend his 20 years of rule over this archipelago of 7,100 islands.

Both Aquino supporters and official U.S. election observers called the slow count an attempt by Marcos to manipulate the results. The observers left for home Monday.

In Washington, a senior Reagan administration official appealed to Filipinos

"not to have violence, not to have demonstrations in the street just because you didn't like the election (outcome)."

"Get on the team and work with the government to form a government, whether it's Marcos or Aquino," said the official, who spoke on condition of anonymity.

National Assembly members, two-thirds of whom are from the president's New Society Movement, spent four hours Monday debating rules for the canvass and then adjourned until Tuesday afternoon. The galleries were packed with Marcos supporters and Aquino loyalists who chanted their candidates' names. Thousands more gathered outside.

Returns at the end of the day from the so-called quick count by the government commission gave Marcos 4,017,277 votes, or 53 percent, to 3,610,099, or 47 percent, for Aquino, with 35 percent of the precincts count.

A count by the National Movement for Free Elections, a poll-watchers' group known as Namfrel, had Aquino ahead by 6,658,838 votes to 5,971,693, a 53-to-47-percent lead, with 60.4 percent of precincts reported.

The election commission's count was suspended after 30 computer operators walked out Sunday, charging fraud in the tabulation that showed Marcos leading.

Pedro Baraoidan, an army colonel who runs the commission's computer operation, said he was studying whether to file charges against them.

"My theory is that there was a plot to sabotage the operation," Baraoidan told reporters. He said the 18-hour suspension was caused by an equipment breakdown, not the walkout.

Radio Veritas, a Roman Catholic Church station, said eight more of the commission's 120 computer technicians walked out Monday. Baraoidan and government workers refused comment.

Aquino had stood on the truck that later was fired upon to speak to supporters at an outdoor Catholic Mass.

A witness, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said the shots were fired from a car that pulled alongside at a traffic light and sounded as if the gun was equipped with a silencer. He said the car sped off after the shooting.

Witnesses said the dead man had been holding up a poster reading "Marcos Concede" when the bullet hit him in the chest, killing him instantly. The woman, 19, was wounded on the forehead.

More than 90 people have been killed in election-related violence since the campaign began Dec. 6.

The 178-member National Assembly has 15 days to complete the canvass of vote tally sheets from 137 locales — 74 provinces, 53 cities and 10 Manila district offices. A member of the ruling party said the job could be done in 48 hours if all were in hand, but only 60 had been received by Monday.

Consultants to conduct geological study of site for proposed coliseum

By The Collegian Staff

Architects and engineers for the entities working on the proposed Fred Bramlage Coliseum met Monday to formulate a construction cost estimate which will not fluctuate, but walked away empty-handed, the University planner said shortly after the meeting.

Representatives of the University, the Board of Regents, the State Division of Architectural Services and the architectural firm of Gossen Livingston Associates of Wichita met at the request of the Coliseum Planning Committee, a campus group monitoring the project, to determine if the project is $500,000 or $2 million over budget.

Disagreement among the parties working on the project as to the necessity of placing concrete piles under the coliseum to prevent the foundation from cracking when the soil beneath the building shifts and resettles over the years and the prospect of paying for the $300,000 to $800,000 piles has put the project on hold.

University Planner Larry Garvin said the geology firm of Stuart & Barnett, Topeka, insisted a more complete study of the proposed coliseum site south of KSU Stadium must be done to determine if the piles are necessary.

The University sits atop an ancient river bed and the clay, sand and gravel composition of the soil, which cannot be adequately drained with a dewatering system, is the focus of the geologist's review.

Bill Livingston, a partner in Gossen Livingston, will study the geologist's report and compile a "cost estimate that will not fluctuate" so President Duane Acker can decide on a committee recommendation that the construction budget be increased, Garvin said.

Livingston, who said he believes "most optimistically" the project is $500,000 over budget, will complete his analysis of the geologist's report and arrive at a cost estimate in two to three weeks.

On Feb. 3, the coliseum committee met to draft a recommendation for Acker to increase the construction budget from a legislated maximum of $14.5 million to at least $15 million. However, regent architect Warren Corman informed the committee at the meeting the piles would have to be included in the plans.

The committee has delayed action on a recommendation pending the outcome of reports from the geologist and Livingston.

Investigators examine booster seals of shuttle

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — NASA investigators believe Challenger's right booster rocket may have pivoted into the huge space shuttle fuel tank, crushing it and setting off the fireball that destroyed the ship and killed its crew.

A space agency source, who declined to be identified, said such a scenario — first outlined Monday in the industry magazine Aviation Week and Space Technology — is one of several possibilities under examination.

A major focus of the investigation has been the possibility that a leak between segments of the right booster allowed a plume of flame to spurt toward Challenger's liquid fuel tank, either puncturing it or raising the pressure inside to cause the explosion.

The source said other avenues of investigation include wind shears aloft as the 4.5-million-pound shuttle stack climbed through a period of maximum stresses, and a seal leak between two segments of the booster rocket that caused a sideways thrust and put additional structural loads on the ship.

The presidential commission investigating the Jan. 28 accident met in secret session Monday to discuss an internal memorandum last July warning officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration that shuttle flight safety was "being compromised by potential failure" of booster seals.

"Failure during launch would certainly be catastrophic," one NASA analyst warned in a memorandum, according to The New York Times.

Arriving for Monday's commission meeting, chairman William P. Rogers said the Times story gave the impression that NASA had not told his panel everything it knew about the boosters' history.

"That's not the case and I hope we can correct that," he said, adding that the public will learn more about the documents at an open meeting Tuesday.

Aviation Week said a redesign of the joints might cause the next shuttle mission to be postponed a year.

The magazine said NASA's interim accident review board believes that the plume of fire jetting out of the side of the right rocket booster rocket caused the bottom half of the rocket to separate from the tank.

"The lower portion of the booster then rotated outward from the climbing vehicle," Aviation Week said. "As the bottom of the booster moved outward, its top section pivoted into the external tank and crushed the upper right side of the tank."

Pictures taken of the liftoff show a bright flash at the upper right of the tank.

"This impact ruptured the tank's oxygen-hydrogen sections, causing the explosion that killed the seven-member crew and destroyed the $1.5 billion orbiter," Aviation Week said, giving no attribution.

A spokesman for the booster manufacturer, Morton Thiokol, Inc. of Chicago, declined comment. "We have taken a corporate posture not to speculate on various theories," said Thomas Russell, vice president for corporate development.

The review board, now called NASA's Data Design and Analysis Task Force, has ordered tests on the structural design of the booster joint and lubricants to see what effect unusually cold temperatures at the Cape Canaveral, Fla., launch site might have affected seals between the segment.

Out on a limb

Deve Pressler, University Facilities grounds keeper, hangs on a branch while trimming dead limbs Monday afternoon from a tree on the west lawn of Seaton Hall. University Facilities employees spent the day pruning to improve the appearance of the trees.

Struggle between anti-apartheid groups results in 5 deaths

By The Associated Press

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — Police said Monday they found the bodies of five blacks who were bound, stabbed and burned with what has become known as the "necklace" — gasoline-soaked tires placed around them and set afire.

The killings appeared to be part of the struggle between rival anti-apartheid groups that differ on how to fight white-minority rule.

Four of the bodies were found together, with more tires piled on them to form a funeral pyre, and the fifth was a short distance away. Press reports said the men may have been sentenced to death by unofficial "people's courts" operating in black townships.

Col. Gerrie van Rooyen, police spokesman for the eastern region that includes Cape Province, said the victims were stabbed, their hands and feet bound with thin wire, then gasoline-soaked tires were placed around their bodies and set alight. The corpses were found on a street in a section of New Brighton township, outside the industrial center of Port Elizabeth.

He said the men probably were killed Sunday.

Their deaths brought the weekend toll from black in-fighting to seven.

Besutu Ntsheta, a leader of a small group called Azanian National Youth Unity, said attackers beat and hacked two of its members to death Saturday and abducted several others. His organization believes only blacks should fight for black rights.

Ntsheta said he did not know whether the victims found Monday were among those kidnapped. Police said they had not identified the men.

The Youth Unity group broke from the Azanian People's Organization, a black consciousness group that includes Asians and people of mixed race, known here as "coloreds," in its definition of blacks.

Ntsheta said those who attacked his people were members of the United Democratic Front, a multiracial coalition considered the largest group opposing apartheid, the racial policy that reserves privilege for South Africa's 5 million whites and denies rights to the 24 million blacks.

The Front has a large following in the Port Elizabeth area, and its members have fought those from both the Azanian People's Organization and the breakaway group.

Edgar Ngoyi, the United Democratic Front's leader in the area, was out in the townships Monday and unreachable for comment, a spokesman at his office said. Front leaders have appealed in the past for a halt to the in-fighting, which they say serves the white minority.

Ashraf Karodia, regional spokesman for the Azanian People's Organization, said his group was not involved in the necklace slayings or in the attacks on the Youth Unity members.

The necklace has become a ritual method of killing blacks accused of collaborating with the white government, including policemen and members of township councils, during the 17 months of anti-apartheid violence in which more than 1,100 people have died.

Briefly

INTERNATIONAL

Mafia trial commences in Italy

PALERMO, Sicily — The largest Mafia trial in Italian history opened Monday, with defendants in steel cages and police escorts for the judges who will hear charges against the 474 accused mobsters. The government hopes the trial, where charges include drug smuggling and multiple murder, will mark the turning point in its long fight against the mob.

Authorities said 115 of the defendants were at large, including most of the top-ranking bosses indicted after a three-year investigation by five of Italy's top investigating magistrates.

The courtroom was built for the trial at a cost of $17 million. The defendants are held in 30 steel-barred cages guarded by armed police officers. About 100 defendants were present for the trial's opening.

A reputed leader of the Corleone faction, Luciano Liggio, sat alone in Cage 23, dressed in a blue tracksuit and white sneakers, smoking a cigar. In the adjoining cage was Pippo Calo, called the "grand cashier" of the Mafia, who allegedly recycled mob money until his arrest in Rome last year.

Most occupants of the cages wore neat, dark suits.

One minute of silence was observed in schools, offices and factories throughout Sicily when the trial began at 10 a.m. Many schools in Palermo devoted their first classes to a discussion of the Mafia, which has been a pervasive influence in Sicily for centuries.

Prosecutors claim to have some of the best-documented evidence ever gathered against the mob, which they say will mean less reliance than in past trials on testimony from mob members turned informants.

Moslems, Christians continue war

BEIRUT, Lebanon — Syrian-backed Moslem militias trying to oust President Amin Gemayel battled Christian troops in the central mountains Monday, and at least 14 deaths were reported in 24 hours of fighting around the country.

In the port of Tripoli, 50 miles north of Beirut, gunmen killed a Syrian soldier after 50,000 Sunni Moslems attended a funeral for Khalil Akkawi, the Sunni fundamentalist leader who was assassinated in an ambush the day before.

Three supporters of Akkawi's Islamic Tawheed, or Islamic Unification Movement, were slain in gunfights with Syrian troopers after his burial, police reported.

Tension was reported high in the city, Lebanon's second largest, where Syrian-backed forces crushed the Islamic Tawheed in bloody fighting last fall.

Police in Beirut said at least one civilian, a woman, was killed by snipers using silencer-equipped rifles during fighting Monday along the Green Line, which divides the capital into Christian and Moslem sectors.

Earlier, three fighters in Beirut died and 18 combatants and civilians were wounded in night-long clashes, police said. The shooting tapered off at daybreak, but snipers fought throughout the day, some of them using silencer-equipped rifles.

The fighting in the central mountains east of Beirut centered on the strategic Dawwar-Ayroun crossroads above Gemayel's hometown of Bikfaya, 10 miles northeast of the capital.

The army's mainly Christian 5th Brigade, loyal to Gemayel despite an appeal by Moslem generals for Christian units to stay out of the fighting, battled with tanks, artillery and 106mm guns.

There was no immediate report of casualties among the soldiers or the Syrian-backed militias facing them in the snow-blanketed mountains.

PEOPLE

Balloonist sets new speed record

ORLANDO, Fla. — Joe Kittinger, the first solo balloonist to cross the Atlantic Ocean, had a much easier time establishing an air-speed record for a flight from Philadelphia to Orlando.

No record existed in the commercial turboprop category for the route before Kittinger flew it Sunday in two hours and 39 minutes.

The flight, one of three weekend record-setters aimed at building a name for the Cheyenne 400 LS by Piper Aircraft Corp., was more of a joy ride than a challenge since there was no record to beat, said Kittinger.

Collins collects royalty settlement

LONDON — "Dynasty" star Joan Collins and her partners collected more than $200,000 Monday in partial settlement of a suit over royalty payments from "The Stud," the 1978 film which revived the 52-year-old actress' career.

As Miss Collins' suit was about to go before the High Court, the film group Brent Walker Ltd. offered the settlement of a $206,126 interim payment and $56,000 for an independent account of the film's profits to determine how much more they are owed.

Miss Collins, her former husband Ron Kass and sister, author Jackie Collins, accepted the offer and withdrew charges of fraud and conspiracy for breach of contract against Brent Walker.

NATIONAL

Spas may host prostitution rings

DETROIT — Oriental health-spas in Michigan may be fronts for international prostitution rings and the laundering of money obtained illegally by Korean crime groups, investigators say.

Police, the FBI, the Internal Revenue Service and the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service have joined the Michigan probe.

"How organized or structured it is on a national basis, we don't know yet," said Ken Walton, special agent in charge of the FBI office in Detroit.

Seventeen people were arrested in October during raids in the Detroit suburb of Farmington Hills.

Authorities found evidence that large amounts of money passed through the spas, which charged an average $40 for a massage, said William Dwyer, Farmington Hills police chief.

Three bank purchaser's receipts bearing the same date and totaling nearly $30,000 were paid to one spa owner, according to court testimony.

"Our investigation may reveal this is a laundry operation for money made by Korean organized crime," Dwyer said.

Authorities said they also were investigating whether there was a conspiracy to transport female spa workers between states to commit prostitution and whether the women and spa operators were evading taxes.

Surgeon faces manslaughter charge

WASHINGTON — Navy surgeon Donal Billig, beginning his defense today against charges of involuntary manslaughter in the deaths of five heart patients, presented expert testimony aimed at showing his vision was good enough to perform surgery.

The first defense witness was eye surgeon Mansour Armaly, who described damage to Billig's right eye, impaired as a result of an injury by a tennis ball, as producing a blind spot.

Armaly showed the nine-member jury of officers pictures and slides of Billig's inner eye showing scar tissue. He was asked by defense attorney Denver Graham about suggestions that Billig was "legally blind" in one eye.

"There is no such term," Armaly said, adding that a person is legally blind only if the best vision in either eye is 20-200 or worse.

Defense attorney Graham said Billig was tested in various eye examinations over the last five years as having 20-20 vision, or perfect vision, in his left eye. He said his vision in his right eye was tested variously at between 20-400 and 20-25.

Armaly said Billig's vision probably fluctuated due to the nature of the damage and that there was no way for him to say what Billig's vision was in 1983 and 1984, when he was head of heart surgery at Bethesda Naval Hospital outside Washington.

REGIONAL

Bill would make hazing unlawful

TOPEKA — It would be a class A misdemeanor for student organizations and other groups to "recklessly haze" new members under a bill introduced Monday in the Kansas Senate.

The Senate Judiciary Committee sponsored the proposal, which would allow hazing victims to sue in civil court for physical or mental harm caused by such initiation rites.

The list of those liable in hazing lawsuits would include all participants in the hazing, any organization which authorized, commanded or tolerated the hazing and the local director, trustee or officer of the organization.

In addition, the bill would not allow those accused of "recklessly participating in the hazing of another" to defend their actions by saying the victim consented to the hazing and therefore assumed the risk of physical or mental harm.

A class A misdemeanor carries a possible jail sentence of one year and a maximum $2,500 fine.

Conservation fund issue in House

TOPEKA — Kansas should use some revenue it generates from the present state sales tax to set up a soil conservation fund, a Johnson County representative told the House Ways and Means Committee Monday.

Although the state already appropriates about $3.6 million to the state Conservation Commission for such programs, it needs to do more to make Kansans aware of the problems of soil erosion and to stop it, said Rep. Samuel Burr Sifers, R-Mission Hills.

Sifers is the sponsor of a bill that would create an agricultural lands conservation fund by earmarking 0.5 percent of the state's sales tax revenues, or about $2.8 million a year, for soil conservation. The money would be used for conservation and educational programs.

"Erosion gnaws steadily at our soil and hillsides," Sifers said. "We have to show stewardship for this gift of sustenance we have been entrusted with."

Rep. Bill Bunten, R-Topeka, the committee chairman, said he did not know when the panel would discuss or act on the bill.

Campus Bulletin

ANNOUNCEMENTS

INDUSTRIAL ENGINEERS who have not voted in class for the Sts. Pat and Patricia nominees may do so in the industrial engineering office today or Wednesday.

STEEL RING: There will be an engineering freshmen and sophomore design contest April 2. More information is available in Durland 142.

CHIMES: Applications are available in the Union Activities Center and are due at 4 p.m. Feb. 21.

MEN who are struggling with issues of sexual preference: A confidential support group is forming. For more information contact Dr. Martin or Dr. Angle at the Counseling Center, 532-6927.

CAREER PLANNING AND PLACEMENT is distributing second semester interview visit lists and has registration forms available for 1986 graduates permitting participation in on-campus interviews.

FREE INCOME TAX ASSISTANCE, sponsored by Beta Alpha Psi, will be from 4 to 6:45 p.m. today at the Manhattan Public Library.

TODAY

STUDENT DIETETIC ASSOCIATION meets at 7:30 p.m. in Justin 149.

AGRICULTURAL ECONOMICS CLUB meets at 6 p.m. in the Union Big Eight Room.

SOCIETY OF WOMEN ENGINEERS meets at 6:30 p.m. in Durland 152.

FOOD SCIENCE CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in Call 202.

HORSEMEN'S ASSOCIATION: Executives meet at 7 p.m. in Weber 129. A general meeting will follow at 7:30 p.m.

DAIRY SCIENCE CLUB meets at 8:30 p.m. in Call 140.

AGRICULTURAL MECHANIZATION CLUB meets at 7:30 p.m. in Union 206.

AGRICULTURAL COMMUNICATORS OF TOMORROW meets at 6 p.m. in Waters 135.

WHEAT STATE AGRONOMY CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in Throckmorton 313.

TAU BETA PI SMOKER will be at 7 p.m. in the Union Cottonwood Room.

FINANCIAL MANAGEMENT ASSOCIATION meets at 7 p.m. in Union 213.

FLINT HILLS WATER SKI CLUB meets at 8:30 p.m. in Bluemont 110.

Looking Back

20 Years Ago — 1966

Three students seeking to become candidates in the upcoming Student Governing Association primary elections failed the qualifying test administered last night.

Student Senate has decided to present to the Board of Regents in March its resolution for the repeal of a ban on the sale of cigarettes on the campuses of the regents institutions.

15 Years Ago — 1971

R.D. Harmon and John Ronnau will face each other in a runoff election for student body president Feb. 17 as neither candidate captured a majority of the 2,900 votes cast. Harmon collected 1,345 votes, while Ronnau garnered 869.

A resolution denouncing a decision by the Board of Regents requiring students at the Kansas State College at Pittsburg to live in residence halls is expected to be introduced in Student Senate tonight by Pat Bosco, student body president.

10 Years Ago — 1976

The Endowment Association's total contributions jumped from $1,505,969 in 1974 to $1,696,236 in 1975 — an increase of 12.6 percent. Cash gifts were up almost 40 percent over 1974 figures, said Kenneth Heywood, director of the association.

5 Years Ago — 1981

A fund-raising campaign to add a $1.5 million third floor to Sellenberger Hall is underway. The addition will provide room for offices, a classroom, equipment space and laboratory facilities. A total of $450,000 has been appropriated by the Legislature and an additional $300,000 in University funds has been allocated. The remaining funding is expected to come from corporate pledges.

After the third debate among the four student body president candidates, a complaint was filed against Dave Hogeboom, moderator of the event.

Compiled from the University Archives

Looking for an apartment?
Check Collegian Classifieds

MR.K'S

DOLLAR DAY!

$1 NAB DRINKS

- Pina Coladas
- Strawberry Daiquiris
- Hawaiian Splendor

$2 PITCHERS

•FREE ADM. with KSU ID

Ladies Nite Tomorrow With Our 2 Very Own Ladies Men!

HOLIDAY STYLE

Love is still a feeling that fits in the palm of your hand.

1/2 carat heart-shaped diamond solitaire ring
$970

425 POYNTZ MANHATTAN 913-776-7821

Looking for an apartment?
Check Collegian Classifieds

Pregnant . . .

and don't know what to do?

CALL BIRTHRIGHT

We'll help you make the decisions you will have to make. Help that is free, confidential. Help that is as close as your phone.

Free pregnancy test, confidential help

537-9180

Vote for Student Input
JOHN LOWE
Business Senator
Paid for by Students to elect Lowe

Re-elect
Susan Baird
A&S
Senator

SPRING BREAK TRIPS!!!

for more information contact:
Rob Winter
(539-2321)
Peggy MacNaughton
(539-2373)

Collegiate Tour and Travel
Trips to South Padre Island and Daytona Beach
South Padre
$139 without transportation
$239 with transportation
Daytona Beach
$119 without transportation
$205 with transportation
Seven nights accommodations
Sign up now to assure a reservation
Tuesday night sign-up
7:00 p.m. at Charlie's
Free Beer

Haiti government to share wealth

By The Associated Press

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti — The head of the interim government pledged Monday to share wealth fairly in Haiti, whose people were ground into poverty during three decades that made the Duvaliers and their friends fabulously rich.

Lt. Gen. Henri Namphy, president of the six-man interim government council, said at swearing-in ceremonies for the new Cabinet that there will be free elections by universal suffrage and a new, "liberal" constitution to create a "real and working democracy." He did not set a date for the elections or elaborate on the new constitution.

Haiti's last free election was the one that brought Francois "Papa Doc" Duvalier to power in 1957. He later declared himself president-for-life.

His son Jean-Claude, who succeeded at age 19 when "Papa Doc" died in 1971, fled with his family and aides Friday in a U.S. military plane and now is in France.

The remarks by Namphy, who is the army chief of staff, followed a weekend orgy of celebration and violence. Haitians rioted, sacked homes owned by the departed dictator and his lieutenants, and hunted down members of the dreaded Duvalier private militia, the Tonton Macoute.

As many as 300 people were killed over the weekend, including members of the Tonton Macoute who were hacked and beaten to death.

"Macoute hunts," as they were called here, have been conducted in poor neighborhoods by army patrols with civilian guides. Soldiers with automatic weapons moved through rows of hovels kicking aside chickens and scrawny dogs.

Residents pointed out the homes or hiding places of suspected militiamen, shouting: "Long live the army! Down with the Macoutes!"

Reporters watched as a mob just outside the capital stoned one of the men to death Sunday in a dirt street. Children walked to the victim, picked up large rocks and smashed them down on him.

Namphy announced the dissolution of the Tonton Macoute, and asked the people to stop attacking its members.

He called in his speech for "a fair division of the national wealth" in this poorest of the Western Hemisphere nations, most of whose people earn less than $150 a year.

The weekend outburst did not remove reminders of the Duvaliers. Hundreds of schools are named for Jean-Claude, there are three Jean-Claude Duvalier streets in the capital alone, the government-owned communications satellite station bears his name, and visitors arrive at the Francois Duvalier International Airport.

The State Department said in Washington that the ruling council was "off to a good start" by releasing political prisoners and restoring press freedom.

Pope completes tour of India

By The Associated Press

BOMBAY, India — Pope John Paul II ended an exhausting, 10-day pilgrimage across India on Monday with a call for peace and unity, as Hindu militants tried to burn him in effigy.

The 65-year-old pontiff, speaking to more than 100,000 Christians at a youth rally at Shivaji Park, praised India's rich spiritual and cultural heritage and called on Christians to try to heal the nation's many sectarian and communal divisions.

John Paul, leader of the world's 840 million Roman Catholics, said the challenge facing Christians was to reject "all discrimination based on race, religion, sex, social condition or language groups."

Before he began his final speech in India, about 30 Hindu fanatics shouted "Pope go home!" and "The pope is an agent of the CIA!" They said he had no business visiting secular, predominantly Hindu India.

Police rounded up militants as they tried to set fire to an effigy of the pope and broke up the protest quickly, without violence.

The protest was organized by right-wing Hindus, who staged demonstrations upon the pope's arrival in the Indian capital, New Delhi, on Feb. 1.

The pope, looking pale and tired, visited 14 cities on his 6,000-mile tour across the subcontinent, during which he repeatedly urged an end to divisions in Indian society and told Catholics they had a mission to unite India.

Of India's 750 million people, Christians make up 3 percent and Hindus about 83 percent. There are about 24 million Christians in India, 13 million of them Catholics.

At the youth rally, the pope told Indian Catholics to remain "faithful to your national heritage and your community, yet realizing that you belong to the universal church and to the world community."

"Come back, holy father, come back to India!" the crowd yelled as the pope waved back at them as he slowly walked from the park stadium to leave for the airport and a special Indian air force plane that took him back to Rome.

Among those seeing him off was Mother Teresa, the Nobel Peace Prize winner known as the "saint of the gutters" for her work in Calcutta's slums. The pope visited her home for the dying and destitute on Feb. 3.

The trip, the pope's 29th foreign tour, took him from the foothills of the Himalayas to tropical southern India, where most of India's Christians live.

Among the Indian political and religious leaders he met was Prime Minister Rajiv Gandhi.

John Paul attracted crowds of up to a half million at open air Masses and at appearances on beaches and in fields.

Court charges man with homicide

By The Associated Press

MULVANE — An Iowa truck driver was charged Monday with six counts of aggravated vehicular homicide Monday in connection with an accident that claimed the lives of six people on the Kansas Turnpike near Mulvane.

Harold Hickey, 46, of Dallas, Iowa, made an initial appearance in Sumner County District Court and was ordered held in lieu of $13,500 bond. He was also charged with driving while intoxicated and driving too fast for conditions.

Hickey, who was treated at a Wellington hospital and later released for minor injuries suffered in Sunday night's accident, was ordered to appear at a preliminary hearing tentatively set for Feb. 20.

Kerwin Spencer, assistant county attorney, said the aggravated vehicular homicide counts are felonies that each carry a maximum possible sentence of two to five years in prison and a $10,000 fine. He said DWI was a misdemeanor that carried a possible maximum sentence of one year in jail and a $1,000 fine providing there had been at least two prior DWI convictions. Spencer said authorities hadn't yet obtained Hickey's driving record from Iowa to determine whether he has any prior traffic offenses.

The driving too fast for conditions charge also is a misdemeanor. Spencer said the charge would normally be treated as a minor traffic violation carrying a $20 fine, but could carry a possible maximum fine of $500.

A motorist, who said he was driving 50 mph at the time, told investigators Hickey allegedly passed him at a high rate of speed minutes before the accident, Spencer said.

The assistant county attorney said he didn't have laboratory results yet showing the level of alcohol allegedly in the truck driver's blood. But Spencer said officers at the scene reported Hickey had an odor of alcohol on his breath and had difficulty walking a straight line, reciting the alphabet and following simple instructions.

Hickey allegedly lost control of his southbound tractor-trailer truck, which crossed the median and jackknifed in front of two northbound cars on the four-lane divided turnpike. The roadway was covered with ice and snow at the time, a Kansas Highway Patrol spokesman said.

The cars lodged under the truck, and the northbound lanes of the turnpike between Mulvane and Wellington were closed Sunday night for nearly three hours while the wreckage was removed.

KHP Lt. Frank Goddard said four members of a Derby family in one car and two Junction City men in a second car were killed. Two other children from the Derby family were injured.

The patrol identified the Junction City victims as Robert Thornberg, 50, the driver, and Emmett Tooley, 50, a passenger in Thornberg's car.

4¢

Copies

Reductions
&
Enlargements

Wall Street Journal
Rocky Mountain News
New York Times
Classical CD's

Claflin Books
Till 9:30 p.m.
Sun.-Fri.
Till 5 p.m.
Sat.

VOTE TAD Business Senate
SCHROEDER
Paid for by Tad Schroeder

VOTE FOR
BECKY SVATY
COLLEGE OF EDUCATION
SENATOR
Paid for by the Angel Sisters

"AGGIE'S CLASSIC ROCK BAR"
COORS CLASSIC ROCK NITE
LISTEN TO THE MUSIC
YOU GREW UP WITH
$200 PITCHERS
$200 15 oz. DHT GLASSES
KEEP THE CUP AND GET 75¢ REFILLS

PUT FRED NEUMAN
BACK IN OFFICE - BUSINESS SENATOR
Paid for by students to elect Fred Neuman

Principal-Counselor-Student Conference

The Office of Admissions cordially invites former students of the high schools listed below to attend the 1986 Principal-Counselor-Student Conference. High school principals and counselors will be on campus to visit with their former students about the student's preparation for and experiences in KSU academic programs, the student's feelings as to how the high school curriculum could be improved, and the student's concerns about their adjustment from high school to university life.

Your participation will help the University build a stronger relationship with your former high school, while gaining valuable information about making your KSU experience a more meaningful one for you. It is also an excellent opportunity for you to renew old friendships with former classmates.

Students attending are welcome to drop by the location below anytime between 10:15 a.m. and 12:15 p.m. on Wednesday, Feb. 12. The Provost has asked that your instructors excuse you from these class periods.

SCHOOL LOCATION CODE

U—Union Rooms
FHT—Field House Tables are located on the track surrounding the basketball floor. Tables are numbered 1-150.

FHS—Field House Sections 1-16 are in the balcony.
Field House Sections A-N are on the main floor.

Abilene High School—FHT 17
Andale High School—FHT 81
Andover High School—FHT 90
Arkansas City High School—FHT 33
Ashland High School—FHT 140
Atchison High School—FHT 73
Atchison Co. High School—FHT 100
Atwood High School—FHT 49
Augusta High School—U-Courtyard
Axtell High School—FHT 98
B&B High School—FHT 1
Baldwin High School—FHT 145
Belleville High School—FHT 36
Beloit High School—U-Courtyard
Bennington High School—FHT 118
Bern High School—FHT 99
Bishop Meigs High School—FHT 58
Blue Valley High School (Randolph)—FHT 52
Blue Valley High School (Stanley)—U-U' Ballroom
Bluestem High School—FHT 138
Bonner Springs High School—FHT 82
Buhler High School—FHT 19
Caldwell High School—FHT 129
Central Hgts. High School—FHT 16
Centralia High School—FHT 148
Centre High School—FHT 139
Chanute High School—FHT 111
Chapman High School—FHT 25
Chase High School—FHT 79
Chase Co. High School (Gottowood Falls)—U-Courtyard
Cheney High School—FHS K
Cherryvale High School—U-Courtyard
Cimarron High School—FHT 8
Circle High School—FHT 150
Claflin High School—FHT 83
Clay Center Comm. High—U-Courtyard
Clearwater High School—FHT 65
Clifton-Clyde High School—FHT 34
Coldwater High School—FHT 48
Concordia High School—FHT 131
Conway Springs High School—U-Courtyard
Dighton High School—FHT 7

Dodge City High School—U-Big Eight
Douglass High School—FHT 86
Downs High School—FHT 141
El Dorado High School—U-Courtyard
Elkhart High School—FHT 93
Ellinwood High School—FHT 66
Ellis High School—FHT 110
Elk Saline High School—FHT 35
Elsworth High School—FHT 122
Emporia High School—FHT 59
Erie High School—FHT 109
Eudora High School—FHT 142
Eureka High School—FHT 57
Fairfield High School—FHT 47
Field Kindley Mem. High—FHT 148
Frankfort High School—FHT 15
Fredonia High School—U-Courtyard
Garden City High—FHT 91
Garden Plain High—FHT 127
Gardner-Edgerton High—FHT 20
Garrett High School—FHT 85
Goddard High School—FHT 45
Goodland High School—U-U' Ballroom
Great Bend High School—U-U' Ballroom
Hanover High School—FHT 135
Haven High School—FHT 2
Hays High School—FHT 143
Herrington High School—U-Courtyard
Hessman High School—FHT 96
Hiawatha High School—FHT 62
Highland High School—FHT 30
Highland Park High—U-Big Eight
Hill City High School—FHT 72
Hillsboro High School—FHT 89
Hoxworth High School—FHT 53
Holtan High School—FHT 120
Hoxie High School—FHT 101
Hugoton High School—FHT 101
Hutchinson High School—FHS A
Immaculate High School—FHT 125

Independence High—FHT 60
Inman High School—FHT 3
Iola High School—FHT 24
Jackson Heights High—FHT 37
Jefferson Co. North—FHT 56
Jefferson West High—FHT 9
Jettmore High School—U-Courtyard
Junction City High—Forum Balcony
Kaplan-Mt. Carmel High—FHT 70
Kingman High School—FHT 144
Labette Co. High School—FHT 4
Lacrosse High School—FHT 108
Lansing High School—FHT 212a
Larned High School—FHT 67
Lawrence High School—FHT 126
Leavenworth High School—U-212d
Lincoln High School—FHT 39
Lindsborg High School—FHT 80
Linn High School—FHT 92
Little River-Windom-Geneseo—FHT 77
Louisburg—FHT 126
Lucas-Luray High School—FHT 128
Lucky High School—FHT 94
Lyndon High School—FHT 107
Madison High School—FHT 26
Maize High School—FHT 10
Manhattan High School—U-213
Mankato High School—FHT 116
Marion High School—U-Courtyard
Marmaton Valley High—FHT 11
Marysville High School—FHT 74
McPherson High School—FHT 202
Mission Valley High—FHT 61
Moundridge High School—U-Courtyard
Mulvane High School—FHT 75
Natura High School—FHT 137
Nemaha Valley High School—U-Courtyard
Nessdale High School—FHT 14
Ness City High School—FHT 23
Nickerson High School—FHT 63
Northern Hgts. High School—FHT 115
Northern Valley High—FHT 132

Norton Comm. High School—FHT 106
Oakley High School—FHT 51
Olathe North High School—U-212b
Olathe South High School—FHS B
Onaga High School—FHT 114
Osage City High School—FHT 87
Osawatomie High School—U-Courtyard
Ottawa High School—FHT 134
Ottawa High School—FHT 105
Pawnee High School—FHT 12
Parsons High School—FHT 88
Peabody High School—FHT 27
Phillipsburg High School—FHT 69
Pike Valley High School—FHT 64
Piper High School—FHT 95
Plainville High School—FHT 21
Pleasant Ridge High School—FHT 38
Prairie View High School—FHT 28
Pretty Prairie High School—FHT 50
Protection High School—FHT 48
Quivira Hgts. High School—FHT 5
Riley Co. High School—U-Courtyard
Rose Hill High School—FHT 121
Rossville High School—FHT 78
Royal Valley High School—FHT 104
Russell High School—FHT 133
Sabettia High School—FHT 136
Sacred Heart High School—FHT 55
St. George High School—FHT 117
St. Mary's High School—FHT 41
St. Paul High School—FHT 109
St. Xavier High School—FHT 46
Salina Central High School—U-U' Ballroom
Salina High School South—Forum Main
Saratoga High School—FHT 103
Scott Comm. High School—U-Courtyard
Seaman High School—U-U' Ballroom
Shawnee Hgts. High School—Forum Balcony
Shawnee Mission East High—U-204
Shawnee Mission North High—U-U' Ballroom
Shawnee Mission Northwest—FHT 6
Shawnee Mission South High—U-203

Shawnee Mission West High—U-209
Silver Lake High School—FHT 68
Smith Center High School—FHT 42
Solonville High School—FHT 113
South Haven High School—FHT 19
Southeast of Saline High—U-Courtyard
Spearville High School—FHT 118
Stafford High School—FHT 54
Sublette High School—FHT 13
Summer Academy of A&S—U-Council Chambers
Sylvan Grove High School—FHT 29
Tescott High School—FHT 18
Traylor High School—FHT 109
Tonganoxie High School—FHT 32
Topeka West High School—U-Big Eight
Trego Comm. High School—FHT 102
Troy High School—FHT 76
Turner High School—U-U' Ballroom
Valley Falls High School—FHT 43
Valley Hgts. High School—FHT 71
Wabaussee High School—FHT 86
Wacanda East High School—FHT 124
Wakarusa High School—FHT 121
Warrensburg High School—FHT 147
Washington High School—U-212c
Washington High School (Kansas City)—Forum Main
Washington High School—FHT 123
Wellington High School—FHT 22
West Smith Co. High School—FHT 31
Westmoreland High School—FHT 97
Wetmore High School—FHT 119
White City High School—FHT 120
Wichita Co. High School—FHT 44
Wichita East High School—U-205
Wichita North High School—U-Little Theatre
Wichita Northwest High—FHS J
Wichita South High School—U-206a
Wichita Southeast High—U-Little Theatre
Wichita West High School—U-206a
Wilson High School—FHT 6
Winfield High School—FHT 146
Wyandotte High School—FHS C

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 12, 1986 10:15 A.M.-12:15 P.M.
IN THE K-STATE UNION AND AHEARN FIELD HOUSE

Tomorrow is...
Ash
Wednesday
Services at
ST. ISIDORE'S
12 noon
4 p.m.
5:30 p.m.

The Station
AND TACO TUESDAY
WITH TACOS
99¢ each
3 for $2.50
11:30 a.m. - 2 p.m.
5-9 p.m.

AND MARGARITAS
Strawberry or Lime
99¢ all day and night!

1115 MORO • 776-0030

Editor: David Svoboda
Associate Editor: Lillian Zier
News Editor: Patty Reinert
Managing Editor: Jeri Heidrick

Editorial Page Editor: Tim Carpenter
Photo/Graphics Editor: Chris Stewart
Advertising Manager: Lori Wong
Director/News Adviser: Dave Adams

Editorial Board: David Svoboda, Tim Carpenter, Melissa Brune, Rich Harris, Jeri Heidrick, Steve Milligan, Patty Reinert, Vicki Reynolds, Eric Rhodenbaugh, Tammy Rickerson, Catherine Saylor, Tom Schultes, Richard Thorp, Jonie Trued, Lillian Zier.

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 620) is published by Student Publications, Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods. OFFICES are in the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 532-6555. Newsroom phone number is 532-6556; display advertising, 532-6560; and classified advertising 532-6555. SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: $40, calendar year; $35, academic year; $20, semester; $10, summer term. Address changes should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

SGA platforms state concerns, limitations

It is clear from the candidates' soapboxes that they are concerned about student interests at the University. However, concern does not necessarily mean action will follow.

For example, two major concerns among candidates are recruitment and retention of students. Although a few candidates have suggested specific ways in which to remedy declining enrollment (such as coordinating one massive ambassador program and establishing a mandatory class about the University for freshmen), realistically there is not much a student senator, or even the student body president, can do to make a major impact in these areas.

The proposed Fred Bramlage Coliseum is also a major concern of candidates. Most of them agree that the students should not settle for less than a quality facility, but few candidates, if any, outline exactly what that quality facility entails. Again, the major influences in this area will not be those in student government.

Candidates are also concerned with increasing student fees for projects such as Lafene Student Health Center and upgrading Farrell Library. Although these are noteworthy goals, student senators alone cannot make the decision. In fact, senators may only make recommendations to the administration, who makes the final decisions.

Handicapped accessibility on campus has also become a concern in this election period. However, it is the state who will ultimately be responsible for changes in this area.

Candidates should be commended for focusing on the interests of students; at the same time, they should realize their limitations and should not promise what they can't deliver. Students should keep this in mind when voting today and Wednesday.

Vicki Reynolds,
for the editorial board

Candidate disclosure may not delay search

Now that the names of the semifinalists for the presidency of the University are known some people may expect the Presidential Search Committee to conduct the remainder of its work in public. However, bringing the nine candidates to campus for an interview and to interact with the University community may not be appropriate.

The 15-member search committee, appointed by the Kansas Board of Regents in September 1985, is charged with the job of finding the best president for K-State. It was clear then, as it is now, that the regents trust the group to conduct a thorough search and forward the names of three to five qualified individuals to the board.

Judging from the quality of individuals under consideration the search committee is fulfilling its charge in an admirable manner. We should maintain confidence in the search committee's ability to perform its task.

We should also hope that none of the semifinalists withdraw simply because his name is public knowledge. The institutions at which the candidates are working should not feel betrayed because one of its colleagues has applied. It is an honor to be considered for the presidency of K-State, no one should shy away from the position.

The search committee has an important responsibility because the next president must move the University into the 20th century.

Difficult decisions remain. The list of nine must be cut to at least five by the search committee and that will not be an easy job. The regents will be faced with a more difficult task, however, because they must select the single most qualified individual. The search committee should be allowed to vigorously continue its work without interference from outside interests.

Tim Carpenter,
editorial page editor

Civilian rulers launch reforms in Guatemala

Guatemalan President Vinicio Cerezo Arevalo last week abolished a secret police unit accused of human-rights violations under former military regimes.

Six hundred officers of the Technical Investigations Department were taken into custody during "Operation Surprise" and will be turned over to the courts for prosecution. Cerezo, of the Christian Democratic Party, took office Jan. 14 — ending 16 years of military rule.

The secret police unit, which investigated thefts, robberies and homicides, is believed to be responsible for the disappearances of many Guatemalan civilians.

According to the Guatemala

Health Rights Support Project, the No. 1 cause of death among Guatemalan males of all ages is homicide. Overall, homicide is the nation's third leading cause of death, with wounds from accidental or intentional infliction taking fourth place.

The secret police unit will be replaced with a new criminal investigation unit, staffed with technically trained personnel. It is hoped this unit will not stoop to the level of corruption exercised by its predecessor, and that "Operation Surprise" may be another step toward a more stable government in Guatemala.

Patty Reinert,
for the editorial board

Editorial

Tuesday, February 11, 1986 — 4

Student fee hikes could go to vote

"Taxation without representation" is how Dave Dakin describes the current method of assessing student fees.

Dakin, fifth-year senior in architecture, has proposed to revise the Student Governing Association constitution so that any bill to impose a new student fee or fee increase must be voted on by the student body. The revision calls for the vote to take place during the registration process to ensure every student has equal easy access to the polls.

Dakin's proposal received its preliminary review last week in Student Senate. Judging from the multitude of questions asked by senators, the proposed constitutional revision is in trouble. The major drawback of voting at registration is the 4,000 to 5,000 incoming freshmen who would be uninformed at the beginning of the fall semester.

Most fee increase proposals would take place during the spring semester, Dakin said, but through orientation, mailings and lobbying during the summer it would be possible to inform freshmen in the event of an August vote. He believes since freshmen would be paying the new fee for the longest period of time they, more than any group of students, have the right to vote.

The Fred Bramlage Coliseum fee of $20.75 and the Holton Hall renovation fee of $3 are examples of fees which were voted in by senators rather than by the student body. Whether senate is representative of the student body has been a longstanding concern, and one Dakin hopes his constitutional revision will alleviate.

Voter turnout for SGA elections usually runs between 10 percent and 15 percent.

CATHERINE
SAYLER
Collegian
Columnist

Students may indeed be apathetic but many argue the low voter turnout also reflects the inability of a voter to responsibly choose representatives.

This year, for example, 32 students are running for eight positions in the College of Business Administration and 29 students for 12 positions in the College of Arts and Sciences. A voter cannot hope to become acquainted with approximately 30 candidates and must rely solely on posters and the Collegian to collect information to evaluate options.

The Collegian, in an attempt to help the voter, has asked each candidate for his or her view on five issues and to author a 50-word essay on what legislation each candidate intends to propose. Few voters, however, can take the time necessary to read through the information with enough critical attention to rank the 30-odd candidates from best to worst.

Dakin argues the voter is more suited to make an informed decision on a single issue of a fee increase than to make an informed decision on which candidates will make the correct, representative decision on a fee increase. Making fee increases possible only through student vote forces proponents to sell their idea to the entire student population rather than to 50 student senators. Responsible communication and persuasion of the entire student body has been lacking in recent years as evidenced by the controversy over the proposed coliseum.

If Dakin's bill passes, the athletic fee of $20 per semester will probably be the first brought before the students. If a survey conducted by a class of Richard P. Coleman, professor of marketing, is correct, the athletic fee will pass. Student Senator Monte Griffin, senior in marketing, was involved in the survey which has not yet been released and said the survey group only briefly discussed the method by which the athletic fee should be voted in.

"(Athletic Director) Larry Travis is concerned that we get a proper polling of students," Griffin said. "The second question we asked (on the survey) was whether (those surveyed) thought the athletic fee would pass by student referendum. Fifty-five percent said, 'No.'"

Most likely, Dakin's bill will be amended to change the polling from registration to a student referendum held at a later date. With a referendum, students will have to make a conscious effort to appear at the polls at the proper place and time.

Either way, Dakin should be commended for the intent of his proposal. Placing student fee increases into the hands of the students is the only way to ensure students are fairly represented.

Letters

Sharing a message

Editor,

I was very satisfied with Paragon's production, "If I Should Die." In our time of obnoxious campus and television evangelists, it was good to hear a presentation that eliminated the name calling and did not avoid the real message — we will all die and face God someday. Will we be prepared for that time? To add to the presentation, it was done creatively, professionally and sponsored by an international Christian movement: Campus Crusade for Christ.

I agree with Allen Parsons that it is very wrong to not immediately identify oneself as being with a Christian organization when talking with others. Jesus tells us in the Bible that his message of salvation will be offensive to many people no matter how it is presented, whether it be through a multimedia presentation or one-on-one interaction.

But many of the people who viewed the show Feb. 3 had very positive comments and seriously contemplated the message of Jesus Christ that was communicated. Almost four years ago, I realized my happiness could not come from anything except an active relationship with Jesus Christ. Since then my life has changed. I enjoy the promise of eternal life as well as an exciting life here on earth. There are hundreds of other K-Staters who feel the same way, and we just want to share the treasure of God's love that we have found with the rest of K-State.

Matt Jackson
senior in business education

Offensive preview

Editor,

Saturday I took my four-year-old son to Forum Hall to see "The Wizard of Oz." I remember enjoying this movie as a child, but I also remember being somewhat frightened by certain parts, so I prepared my son for these before we went. Imagine my chagrin when we went into this movie, one which has wide appeal for children of all ages, and were faced with previews totally inappropriate for children of any age. "Rambo" and "The Hills Have Eyes" were previewed — both of them showing what seemed to me to be interminable violence, hatred and horror.

Fortunately, we came in a little late and we missed the beginning of the "Rambo" preview, but we were treated to all of "The Hills Have Eyes" which included numerous attacks on helpless victims, and frame after frame of women screaming in horror, pain and fear. This was not what I took my son to see.

I appreciate the service Union Program Council performs by bringing classic movies to the University community, and we have enjoyed many of these. However, I hope that in the future UPC will give more thought to the type of audience a feature film is expected to attract. Main features intended for children should include previews geared for an audience of children — or none at all.

This spring several family type films will be presented at the Union. It would have been much more suitable to have had previews of "The Sound of Music," "Mary Poppins" or "Old Yeller" than those shown at "The Wizard of Oz" this weekend.

Franja Bryant
senior in elementary education

Constitution reform

Editor,

I recently learned that Sen. Nancy Kassebaum, R-Kan., is one of the co-chairmen of the Committee on the Constitutional System. The working papers of the committee violate the principles embodied in the Constitution. Examples of the proposals of the committee are as follows:

— A prospective candidate who did not support the dictates of the party's leadership would probably not be admitted on the ballot as a member of the party.

— The U.S. president would be entitled to appoint as members of the House one person for every five congressional districts, and designate as senators of the United States one person for each state, resulting in one-sixth of all representatives and one-third of all senators not being chosen by the voters. Instead these additional legislators would be designated by the party whose candidate has been elected president. This proposal would virtually destroy the vital separation of powers that exists between the executive and legislative branches of government.

— Two-thirds of either the House or Senate would have the power to present any bill and if the president signed that bill, the bill would become law. Thus, one body of Congress would not be able to check the other body.

— The president would have the power to make treaties, provided a majority of each house of Congress concurred. By weakening the Constitutional check on the president's negotiations with foreign powers, the possibility of the United States entering into unwise treaties that compromise our sovereignty would be increased.

I am against these principles and I protest Kassebaum's involvement in the destruction of our Constitution.

George S. Devins
Kansas City, Mo., resident

Correction

The name of Hongyau Chua, graduate in computer science, was spelled incorrectly in the letter, "Book return snafu," in the Feb. 10 Collegian.

Center for cancer research aids in student stipends, scholarships

By JEFF STARK
Collegian Reporter

According to the American Cancer Society and the National Cancer Institute, one of every four people will have a clinical case of cancer in their lifetime, said Terry Johnson, director of the Division of Biology and the Center for Basic Cancer Research.

Through financial assistance provided by donors, the Center for Basic Cancer Research provides student stipends and scholarships, research support and laboratory equipment for the development of research and education programs to fight cancer.

Johnson is one of 25 scientists in the Division of Biology who, in addition to teaching or administrative duties, does research for the center.

The Center for Basic Cancer Research is the only one of its kind in the state.

"The thing that makes us different is we don't treat patients. We do the research and pass on what we find to aid in the treatment of patients," Johnson said.

"We're unusual. The Division of Biology is not like most departments because there are so many disciplines of biology. In addition to the resources within our department we have an opportunity to draw from the many talents and capabilities the University has to offer when approaching specific research problems," he said.

Along with the support of private donations, the center competes for federal support and "with the success the center has had with financial support it makes us a multimillion dollar corporation," Johnson said.

The biology division was recently awarded a $218,720 pre-doctoral training grant from the National Cancer Institute. The grant, a renewal of an award made five years ago, will be used to train five pre-doctoral students with faculty in the departments of biology, biochemistry and laboratory medicine in the College of Veterinary Medicine, said Richard Consigli, professor of biology.

The center gives 13 student scholarships per year valued at $500 each, and hires about 100 undergraduates to assist in labs, "doing anything from washing lab utensils to doing experiments," Johnson said.

"We feel the scholarships are important. The students we educate and train must be ready and capable of meeting tomorrow's challenges. We may not find an overall cure for cancer in my lifetime, so somebody needs to carry on the research we have started," he said.

"We put out two products. One is the information we find and the other is the students we have trained," Johnson said.

ed," Johnson said.

However, when it comes to knowledge the general public has about cancer, there are misconceptions, he said. One is the myth that cancer is "one disease with one cure" when in reality there may be more than 100 different and varied forms of cancers in humans alone.

Another myth is that there has not been any progress made toward a cure.

"There are forms of cancer that can be controlled fairly successfully," Johnson said.

There are four ways to treat cancer, Johnson said. One is surgery to remove cancerous tumors.

"One of the problems with surgery is that you have to get it all (the tumor) because if you don't it will just keep on growing," he said.

"Two others, radiotherapy (the use of rays from a radioactive substance) and chemotherapy (the administration of chemical drugs) have side effects. The idea behind them is that getting sick from the treatments is not much to give up if the treatments are successful," Johnson said.

A fourth kind of treatment is immunotherapy, which is the use of antibodies to stimulate the body to fight tumor growth.

Johnson describes the Center for Basic Cancer Research as being "like a family with a problem."

AIDS committee reviews law

Group to construct policy

By GARY BORN
Collegian Reporter

Abiding by legal guidelines and educating University administrators and faculty about AIDS were the priorities established Monday by the University AIDS Committee to construct an all-University AIDS policy.

"We should start with reviewing a statement from the American Council on Education or some source which will enforce what we already know about Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome and then we can base a policy on what we actually know," said Dorothy Thompson, associate University attorney.

Thompson, who recently attended a meeting of the Association of University Attorneys, reviewed some of the policies which were discussed at the last meeting. Steps mentioned as legally acceptable are:

— Requiring a student with AIDS to accept counseling about the disease.

— Requiring a student with AIDS to agree to regular medical monitoring of the disease.

— Requiring a student with AIDS to be isolated from contact with others if the medical authorities deem it necessary.

— In cases where other students refuse to work with a student with AIDS, a transfer would be considered for the employee without AIDS.

— Recognition of special problems in residence halls which must be dealt with. Guidelines may be developed for living units in addition to general campus guidelines.

— Prohibit a student with AIDS from class attendance if his or her immune system is so weak as to not sufficiently protect him or her from exposure to other students.

The committee plans to review AIDS policies at other universities. Some policies discussed were those at San Francisco State University, the University of Colorado, Boulder, Colo., and the University of California, Berkeley, Calif.

The committee also discussed the Infectious Disease Guidelines, which cover state employees. The guidelines are in draft form and questions arose about their use for the University.

"One thing that needs to be studied is whether this policy will cover student employees of the Union or of a residence hall food center and if the student who is working will have to compromise the student's rights with the worker's rights," Thompson said. Thompson also questioned whether AIDS would be considered an "infectious disease."

"AIDS is not like measles or chicken pox, but it is still infectious, though I haven't heard about a case being transferred through normal contact," said Robert Tout, director of Lafene Student Health Center.

During the next meeting at 3:30 p.m. Feb. 19, the committee will tentatively set an agenda and address guidelines for the University AIDS policy.

Buy, Sell or Trade
in Collegian Classifieds

Clark Renfro
For Business Senate
Paid for by committee to elect Renfro

Wheat producers seek increase in efficiency

By JIM LUNDSTROM
Collegian Reporter

Increase in efficiency, not yield, is a concern in wheat production research today, said a University plant pathologist.

"Increases in efficiency mean raising the same amount of bushels with fewer dollars," said Fred Schwenk, professor of plant pathology. "If we start increasing yields and creating more surplus, the price of wheat decreases and people come out behind."

Schwenk said the plant pathology department obtains funding for increased efficiency research from the Kansas Wheat Commission, a branch of the state board of agriculture.

"Part of the Kansas Wheat Commission's work is to fund research and one of the last things they want to fund is increased yield," Schwenk said.

"They say yields are too high already and the price of wheat is too low, so they want to do other things rather than fund increases in yield. That is why we are concerned about increases in efficiency," he said.

Increasing yield per acre and decreasing acreage is one method used to increase efficiency, Schwenk said. This allows farmers to produce the same amount of wheat at a lower cost.

Production costs would be lower when trying to increase yield per acre because farmers would be saving fuel, time and equipment wear by tilling less land. Surplus would be avoided because the overall yield would be unchanged, he said.

Farmers have dealt with a variety of problems to increase production efficiency, Schwenk said.

"Disease has been one of the main problems faced by wheat growers in Kansas within the past few years," he said. "One disease, wheat soil-borne mosaic, is a virus caused by an excess of nucleic acid in the protein of the wheat plant."

"By cutting the virus into pieces and injecting a piece into the DNA of the wheat, it becomes resistant to the virus."

Many plant diseases could be controlled by these types of injections, Schwenk said.

"Plant pathology is the study of plant diseases, their cause, effect and control," he said. "What we've done so far in the past years in plant pathology is control diseases such as wheat soil-borne mosaic by whatever methods are available, but the diseases are becoming more difficult."

Until disease can be controlled, increases in production efficiency will be a difficult task because yield per acre will be affected, Schwenk said.

Schwenk said his department exchanges information with other universities and private industries to work on problems such as disease. The departments share research techniques to improve tactics for attacking diseases to increase production efficiency.

"No department is isolated; all work together to reach a common goal," Schwenk said.

ELECT

Wes ALEXANDER
Paid for by students for Wes

KSU . . . The Whole Nine Yards

ARTS & SCIENCES
SENATOR

MONT BLUE APARTMENTS

Leasing for fall
Studio, one, and two bedroom
apartments and town houses
Close to Campus
Phone 539-4447

PAT WOOLLEY
FOR ARTS & SCIENCE
STUDENT
SENATOR
Paid for by Students for Pat Woolley

Vote Patty Hipsher
for a Responsible and Responsive
Student Body President

- Concerned about international student interests
- strong leadership in lobbying for student financial aid

Students for Educational Awareness

comprehensive health associates
•free pregnancy tests
•outpatient abortion services
•alternatives counseling
•gynecology
•contraception
Overland Park, KS 913-345-1400

Put a Bang into Valentine's Day for Your Someone Special, but Don't Let Ordering Late Pop Your Plans.

Balloon Boutique

Call Today for Free Delivery

- *Decorative or rubber balloons
- *Stuffed animals
- *Variety of containers for candy
- *Largest selection in Manhattan

Balloon Boutique

619 N. 3rd 539-0106

Bet on BROOKS for BUSINESS

Brooks Rarden
Business Senator
Paid for by students for Brooks Rarden

TODAY

Faculty Luncheon Series

The Philippines: Nation in Conflict

Dr. Linda Richter

11:30 a.m.-1:00 p.m.

Union Room 204

Sponsored by American Baptist
Campus Ministry

VOTE FOR

KEITH PETRACEK

For Student Body President

"A K-STAT FOR A BETTER UNIVERSITY"

February 11 & 12

Paid for by K-Staters For Petracek

VOTE

JOHNSON
PRESIDENT '86

ACCESSIBILITY

- Leadership tailored to K-State
- JOHNSON is serious about K-State and you.

Paid for by Students for Johnson

House may revise 'happy hour' ban

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA — Some private clubs in Kansas are "pushing the intent" of a law the Kansas Legislature passed last year banning happy hours, the state's chief liquor enforcement officer on Monday told a House committee that is considering beefing up the happy hour prohibition.

"A majority of the clubs, I think, are complying with the intent but we have our hands full with those who are not," said John Lamb, director of the state Division of Alcoholic Beverage Control.

Lamb told the House Federal and State Affairs Committee the Legislature should either scrap the happy hour law or approve a bill that would tighten some loopholes.

Under the current happy hour law, no club or tavern can change its drink prices more often than once a day, offer free drinks except with meals, serve more than two drinks to one person at one time or hold contests which involve drinking or drinks as prizes.

The intent of the law was to prohibit happy hour drink promotions and so-called drink and drown nights. However, Lamb said some clubs and taverns have circumvented the law with daily drink specials, free drinks with the purchase of a hot dog "meal," and by selling drinks at prices below acquisition costs.

Changes would eliminate loopholes

The bill the committee is considering would prohibit the sale of drinks at prices below their acquisition costs, allow price changes only once a week, mandate a large price list sign in each club or tavern and ban free drinks with meals.

Lamb said many of the new provisions would be unnecessary if the weekly price change and acquisition cost language were inserted into the law. Lamb said he believes weekly price change rules are the reason happy hour prohibitions have worked well in Massachusetts and Arizona.

Lamb said 90 percent of Kansas' 1,400 private clubs are complying with the happy hour prohibition, 5 percent have violated the law by mistake and the final 5 percent have intentionally broken the law. He said the latter category will grow if the Legislature does not tighten loopholes in the law.

However, R.E. "Tuck" Duncan, a lobbyist for the Kansas Wine and Spirits Wholesalers Association, called the happy hour ban "a silly law that will probably never be able to be enforced" and said the main solution to excessive drinking is public education.

Duncan showed the panel a number of alcohol education posters and played a tape recorded public service announcement paid for by a national alcohol wholesalers organization in which Sen. Nancy Kassebaum, R-Kan., urged moderation in drinking.

"It seems to me that we create a whole variety of problems every time we add a bunch of new restrictions to the law," Duncan said.

But Duncan's education pitch enraged the Rev. Richard Taylor, director of the anti-liquor Kansans for Life at its Best, who charged that the liquor industry makes 80 percent of its sales to alcoholics and must "produce new alcoholics to replace the old ones who die."

In addition, Taylor contended any education someone may receive about alcohol and excessive drinking is wiped out by the effects of a few drinks.

"If education was the answer...why would medical doctors have the highest percentage of alcoholism of any profession," Taylor asked. "You have found out once more that if you want to try to control the people who deal in this dangerous drug, you're not going to get the job done."

Taylor reminded lawmakers that the happy hour ban was one of a package of measures the Legislature passed last year as a "trade-off" for approval of a constitutional amendment that would allow liquor-by-the-drink if voters endorse it in November.

Chris Edmonds, a spokesman for the Kansas Club and Tavern Association, said the existing happy hour law and the proposed changes discriminate against clubs and taverns while imposing no restrictions on convenience stores and other retailers who use beer as a "loss leader."

Edmonds claimed that if a law banning the sale of drinks to intoxicated people were enforced, there would be no need for a happy hour law.

"I wouldn't be truthful if I said there weren't some taverns that are violating the (happy hour) law," Edmonds said. "But I think those violations are more out of frustration than anything else."

Students to share college life with principals, counselors

By The Collegian Staff

For the 34th year, K-State students will meet with former high school principals and counselors to share how well they thought they were prepared for college in high school.

The annual Principal/Counselor/Student Day will be Wednesday in the K-State Union and Ahearn Field House. K-State students are invited to visit with their former high school counselors and principals from 10:15 a.m. to 12:15 p.m., said John Flemming, associate director of admissions. The Admissions Office is sponsoring the event.

Flemming said admissions officials are expecting 212 Kansas high schools to participate. That number does not include the schools invited from Kansas City and St. Louis, Mo., Omaha, Neb., and a few other Nebraska cities close to the Kansas border.

The Union usually houses the larger schools and Ahearn the smaller ones. However, Flemming said, admissions tries to rotate them every year.

The admissions office sent cards to 6,000 K-State students inviting them to participate. Three hundred and sixty principals and counselors will be available to meet with those students, Flemming said.

Flemming said in years past, "as a rule, small schools turn out more than large ones." The fewer number of students in a small school allows students to become closer to their counselor and principal. This closeness probably accounts for the smaller schools having a better attendance, he said.

"Maybe by going after seniors we'll be able to learn more like, now that you've been through four years of college, what could have been better?" Flemming said.

FREE DATE TONIGHT!

at
MANNEQUINS MOVIE NIGHT

8 p.m. Beverly Hills Cop
10:30 p.m. Caddyshack

$1.00 Drinks

Drinking and Dancing Afterwards!
at

MANNEQUINS

22 reject order for ag change

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA — Gov. John Carlin submitted to the Legislature Monday his controversial executive order to reorganize the state Board of Agriculture, but it arrived in the Senate without much of any sign of life.

The Associated Press learned that 22 senators agreed Monday to sponsor a resolution rejecting Carlin's executive order, one more than is needed to kill the plan. They included 21 of the 24 Senate Republicans and one of 16 Democrats.

Sen. Jim Allen, R-Ottawa, chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee, who circulated the resolution of disapproval for sponsorship, said the measure would be introduced in the Senate Tuesday afternoon.

Allen also said his committee would hear proponents of the executive order at 10 a.m. Friday during its regular meeting and would hear opponents next Monday morning.

Sponsors of the resolution to kill Carlin's plan to make the state Board of Agriculture advisory and take from it the power to appoint the state secretary of agriculture include Allen, Senate President Robert V. Talkington, Senate Vice President Joe Harder and Senate Majority Leader Paul "Bud" Burke.

Other Republicans who signed on as sponsors include Neil Arasmit, Gus Bogina, Ross Doyen, Roy Ehrlich, Robert Frey, Francis Gordon, Jeanne Hoferer, Dave Kerr, Fred Kerr, Audrey Langworthy, Don Montgomery, Alicia Salisbury, Dan Thiessen, Ben Vidricksen, Jack Walker, Merrill Werts and Eric Yost.

The only Democrat was Joe Warren, the most senior senator and a farmer-rancher from Maple City.

Only Republicans who didn't sign it are Bill Morris of Wichita, Ed Reilly of Leavenworth and Wint Winter Jr. of Lawrence.

The resolution calls for disapproval of the executive order as provided in Section 6 of Article 1 of the state Constitution. If either house of the Legislature rejects the resolution it is dead.

Allen said his reason for leading the effort to kill the resolution is simple: The present system "is working."

"I've not heard from my territory or anyone across the state coming to me saying they want to change it," Allen said. "I just think the state board, as it is now constituted, can do a better job for Kansas agriculture and agri-business."

Jim Ploger, an assistant to the governor in the policy office, said it came as no great surprise that 22 senators would sponsor a resolution to kill the executive order.

Have story or photo ideas?
CALL 532-6556

Announcing
SKINNY DIPP'N TUESDAYS

Eat a whole plate full of loaded potato skins for just 50¢. Eat all you want every Tuesday 4-7 p.m.

Ramada Inn

Capitol Airlines

KSU SPRING FLING!

Present your KSU student, faculty or staff ID to our ticket counter or to your travel agent and receive a 15% discount on Capitol Airline fares for travel between the dates of March 7, 1986 & March 17, 1986.

"CAPITOLIZE" on your Spring Break Travel!

Reservations: 539-7623 or your travel agent

VOTE TAD Business Senate
SCHROEDER
Paid for by Tad Schroeder

HUNAM Restaurant FREE DELIVERY
11 a.m.-1 a.m.
1304 Westloop 539-8888 1116 Moro
(10% Off w/KSU ID) 537-0886 (Egg Roll & Fried Rice 99¢)

VOTE Brian Sherwood
member of S.E.A.
Arts & Sciences Senate
Paid for by students for Sherwood

VOTE Roger McClellan
Ag Council President
Paid for by students for McClellan

CHEF
The Chef Cafe
111 S. 4th

TUESDAY NIGHT SPECIAL
BBQ Ribs, Baked Beans & Salad
ALL YOU CAN EAT
$3.95

SEMESTER IN SPAIN

Not just for Spanish majors only, but for everyone: beginners, "in between" students, and advanced. Put some excitement into your college career!

BEGINNER OR ADVANCED—Cost is about the same as a semester in a U.S. college: $3,670. Price includes jet round trip to Seville from New York, room, board, and tuition complete. Government grants and loans may be applied towards our programs.

Live with a Spanish family, attend classes four hours a day, four days a week, four months. Earn 16 hrs. of credit (equivalent to 4 semesters taught in U.S. colleges over a two year time span). Your Spanish studies will be enhanced by opportunities not available in a U.S. classroom. Standardized tests show our students' language skills superior to students completing two year programs in U.S. Advanced courses also.

Hurry, it takes a lot of time to make all arrangements.

SPRING SEMESTER — Jan. 30 - May 29
FALL SEMESTER — Aug. 29 - Dec. 19
each year

FULLY ACCREDITED — A Program of Trinity Christian College.

For full information — send coupon to:

SEMESTER IN SPAIN
2065 Laraway Lake Drive S.E. F-9
Grand Rapids, Michigan 49506
(A Program of Trinity Christian College)

F-9

college you attend _____

your name _____

your present street address _____

city _____ state _____ zip _____

If you would like information on future programs give permanent address below:

your permanent street address _____

city _____ state _____ zip _____

8 ways to get a man to ask you out again.

1. When he mentions "The Bears," know they're from Chicago.
2. Seem unimpressed when he tells you he scored a hat trick in the third period.
3. Take his word for it when he tells you that 1984 was a very good year for Chardonnays.
4. Laugh at his jokes, even when he forgets the punch lines.
5. Avoid, at all costs, letting him see you reapply your lipstick.
6. Order something more exotic than a white wine spritzer.
7. Compliment him on his taste in colors, even if he arrives in jeans and a T-shirt.
8. Tell him you'd ask him up for a Suisse Mocha, but you only do that on second dates.

Celebrate the moments of your life with General Foods® International Coffees.

Your favorite flavors available at Kansas State Union Bookstore

© 1985 General Foods Corporation

Local housing market begins upswing

By TOM SCHULTES
Business/Government Editor

With the large numbers of multiple-unit dwellings under construction in the city, it may have appeared contractors were ignoring the single-family residential market last year.

Records from the Manhattan Code Inspection Office, supplied by Dan Woellhof, department head, indicate 43 permits for single-family units were issued last year, compared to 89 the previous year.

Although records indicate 43 units was the lowest in about three decades, the number relates closely to permits issued in 1982. That year, 48 new construction permits were issued.

Woellhof said the number was low, but predicted 1986 would be a better year for new housing starts, citing nine permits were issued in January, which is usually a slow month in the housing industry.

He attributed "the decent weather more than anything" for the relatively large number of January permits.

In a housing cost survey, published in the January issue of Kansas Business News magazine, the average new home in Manhattan cost $87,000, compared to the cost in Salina of $75,000.

Dan Bearth, editor of KBN, said

Construction reaches low in 1985

the price reflected the actual selling price, including assessments and land.

The magazine's survey was "based on opinions of Better Homes and Gardens brokers for an upscale home in a desirable neighborhood with approximately 1,600 square feet (of living space), three bedrooms and 1½ to two bathrooms."

Jim Blanton, of Blanton Realty, 2310 Anderson Ave., attributed the relatively poor year for new home construction to the high number of used single-family residences available, which owners may have been willing to sell at lower prices.

He said the lower prices kept profit margins down for new units, which made their construction less attractive to builders.

Other years, and the number of permits issued were: 1983, 89 permits; 1981, 68 permits and; 1980, 67 permits.

Nationwide, analysts are expressing the same optimism as Woellhof.

In a recent Associated Press article, a report from the National Association of Realtors stated, "The trend has been toward less rather than more home ownership, a trend that seems in defiance of the for existing homes.

Another reason Brown states is because income increases "haven't been growing at the same rate as housing costs."

"Typical homeowners paid 34 percent of their income in monthly payments (for housing in 1984) compared to only 24 percent in the early 1970s," Brown said.

Blanton said he expects more new-home construction starts this year because more people are wanting to buy, a goal assisted by declining interest rates.

"(We've got) the best interest rates we've seen in 6½ years," Blanton said.

He also said the overbuilding of apartment units in the city affects new home construction, with many prospective new-home buyers living in rental units.

"Certain people like new homes," Blanton said, using the example of military personnel who are in the area for shorter time periods, and do not want to have to put money into maintenance and repairs of older units.

"We anticipate a good year with changes in the market," Blanton said.

Another change he cited was the reduction of short-term residential purchases for investment purposes.

Round Table Discussion to include women's issues

By The Collegian Staff

Feminism is the theme of the first Round Table Discussion presented by the Women's Resource Center at 5:30 tonight in room 203 of Kramer Food Center.

Items to be discussed include feminism, Susan B. Anthony Week and future Round Table Discussion topics, said Caroline Peine, director of the center.

Each Tuesday at 5:30 p.m. a different subject will be highlighted at the informal dinner gathering at Kramer, Peine said.

"We are doing it during the dinner hour so it will not cut into anyone's study or playtime. Everyone is welcome to attend," Peine said.

"If it catches on than we will try to do a similar thing in Derby," she said.

The cost is $3.50 for people not living in a residence hall, said Pat Pesci, director of Kramer.

The discussions will be on issues which affect men as well as women, she said.

Possible future topics include "Two Career Marriages," "What is Feminism," "Women and the Media," "Sexism in the Classroom" and "Equality in Relationships," Peine said.

"If residents want to hear about something that is not on the suggested list, we're very receptive to that," Peine said.

Group questions federal tax incentives

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Forty-four big profitable corporations used tax incentives for investment to wipe out their federal income taxes during President Reagan's first term, but actually cut jobs and spending for new plant and equipment, a private research group said Monday.

On the other hand, said Citizens for Tax Justice, 43 companies that paid at least one-third of their profits in federal taxes increased investment by 21 percent and boosted their employment rolls by 4 percent from 1981 through 1984.

The report questioned the value of the estimated $120 billion a year worth of incentives that the federal tax laws give corporations in an effort to spur investment and job creation.

The House, in passing a major tax-overhaul bill last December, reduced some of the incentives, and Reagan is now demanding that the Senate restore some of them if the legislation is to win his support.

"Our 'riverboat gamble' with throwing money at corporations simply has not panned out," Robert S. McIntyre, director of federal tax policy at Citizens for Tax Justice, said in releasing the report. "Corporate tax 'incentives' have been a huge failure at stimulating more investment or jobs."

Citizens for Tax Justice, a liberal oriented group which engages in research and lobbying, is financed by labor unions, churches and various "public-interest" organizations.

Some of the nation's richest corporations, instead of using billions of dollars that Congress had approved for job creation, "took the money and spent it on virtually everything but new investment," the study concluded. They increased dividends, raised the pay of their chief executives, and financed mergers, McIntyre said.

The study, based chiefly on the companies' reports to shareholders, found, for example, that the Boeing Co. made $2.1 billion in profits during the four years, paid no federal income tax and received refunds of $285 million. But Boeing investments declined 38 percent, employment dropped 18 percent and dividends rose 1 percent, the study said.

Harold Carr, public-affairs director for Boeing in Seattle, did not dispute the tax figures but said the firm spent $2.4 billion on research and development during the period — "when we went through the final stages of developing, manufacturing, testing and certification of three new commercial transports, the 767, 757 and 737-300."

"Airlines order planes when economic conditions are good," Carr said. Reflecting those increased orders, he added, is that Boeing employment is about 3,000 above the figure at the end of 1981.

The study is a followup to one done by the organization last August, which surveyed 275 of the nation's biggest and most profitable corporations and found that 50 of them had paid no federal income tax over the 1981-84 period. During at least one of the four years, 129 used tax breaks to not only wipe out their tax liability but receive rebates of past taxes paid.

Although the companies may have paid no federal income tax during one or more of the four years, that does not mean they avoided the tax collector altogether. For example, they paid federal Social Security taxes on workers' wages; most paid state and local taxes; many paid taxes to foreign countries and, under the law, took that into account when they calculated U.S. taxes.

Collegian Classifieds
Cheap, but Effective

Get Involved!
VOTE FOR
KEN PAULIE
ARTS & SCIENCES
SENATE

I'm concerned with student awareness and involvement
Paid for by Students for Paulie

SHUFFLEBOARD
TOURNEY
SIGN-UP PARTY!

- Doubles Shuffleboard sign-up tonight
- $45 1st place

Plus $2 Pitchers!

MEET YOUR FRIENDS AT...

KITE'S
BAR AND GRILLE

New chicken sandwich!

K-State Union Program Council Special Events Committee Proudly Presents

The
HARLEM
GLOBETROTTERS

TONIGHT
7:30 p.m.
Ahearn Field House

All seats reserved
tickets: $9 and $8

($2 discount available for students with valid KSU ID, Sr. Citizens, children under 12 and groups of 25 or more)
Tickets available at the following locations: K-State Union Box office, Open 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.
Tickets on sale at the Ahearn Box Office, 5 p.m. to showtime
For more information, call 532-6571.

k-state union
special events

INFORMED Re-elect
Brett
Bromich
Business
Senator

EXPERIENCED

Paid for by students to re-elect Brett Bromich

TOM RIDDER

Agriculture - a strong tradition of leadership...
...continue it!

FOR AG SENATE

paid for by students for Tom

KIRK CARAWAY

ARTS & SCIENCES
SENATOR

Paid for by SNC Inc.

SNOWMAN FOR SENATE

Elect
CANDY LEONARD

Student the Most Human Ecology Senator

Paid for by the Angel Sisters

VOTE
ERIC IRELAND

STUDENT SENATE

BUSINESS

Paid for by students for Ireland

KSDB 88.1

The Music Alternative

Manhattan, Ks.

	MON.	TUE.	WED.	THU.	FRI.	SAT.	SUN.
6 a.m.	NPR MORNING EDITION					Jazz in the Morning	Sunday Morning Classics	8 a.m.
8 a.m.	AM MANHATTAN
9 a.m.	JAZZ IN THE MORNING
12 Noon	NEW ALBUM ROCK					New Album Rock	Hispanic Beat	12 Noon
							Bluegrass	1 p.m.
							Dr. Demento	3 p.m.
5 p.m.	NPR ALL THINGS CONSIDERED						Modern Requiem	5 p.m.
6:30 p.m.	[Bob & Ray Comedy]							6 p.m.
7 p.m.	NEW ALBUM ROCK					Jam the Box	Metal Head	8 p.m.
							Midnight Bread	11 p.m.

Malpractice proposal draws opposition

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA — Victims of medical malpractice offered stirring evidence that it would be unfair to place a $1 million limit on the amount juries can award in malpractice cases during impassioned testimony Monday before the House Judiciary Committee.

Three women told lawmakers the arbitrary cap on awards would not cover the medical expenses some victims incur and they had serious problems with the proposed $250,000 ceiling on pain and suffering.

"I don't believe you people want to put a cap on awards," a tearful Patricia Renfro said in halting testimony. "You're not taking into consideration the patient — the one who does all the suffering."

"I plead that you don't put a cap on medical malpractice awards. There's no way you can know how much it costs. And I don't know how you can measure pain and suffering and set one figure. There's no way you can understand what I've been through mentally with this."

What Renfro, 40, has experienced is five operations in four years for breast cancer that she said did not exist. Tests which showed she was a low-risk cancer patient. Her doctor, however, performed surgery three times before finding out later there was no reason to operate.

As a result of her experience, and others who suffered similar and even worse fate at the hands of the same surgeon, Renfro said she's convinced something must be done about incompetent doctors.

"I can't understand why this man hasn't lost his license to practice medicine," she said. "If anybody deserves to lose his license, it should be him. He didn't foul up once or twice, he fouled up many times."

Her testimony supported provisions in the bill calling for more

"I plead that you don't put a cap on medical malpractice awards. There's no way you can know how much it costs. And I don't know how you can measure pain and suffering and set one figure. There's no way you can understand what I've been through mentally with this."

Patricia Renfro

strict detection and discipline of incompetent doctors in hopes of cracking down on those who repeatedly are guilty of medical malpractice.

In addition, the bill would allow for structured settlements of malpractice awards, meaning a doctor or hospital could buy an annuity to pay a victim a certain amount of money over a period of years rather than paying one lump sum.

Another victim, Amy Morris of Overland Park, said arbitrary caps ignore the needs of patients.

"Every individual case should be judged by themselves," said Morris. "Some people might need more for expenses than the cap you are recommending."

Morris is confined to a wheelchair following an operation in September 1978 during which damage was done to a nerve near her spine and left her unable to walk.

A jury awarded her $1.2 million which the Kansas Supreme Court struck down as excessive and a new trial has been ordered on the damage phase of the proceedings. Her attorney cited that as evidence excessive awards will not be tolerated by the courts.

And Charlotte Gregory of Wichita, told the committee about her boyfriend, Mark Marquette of Leavenworth, who is comatose in a hospital after he suffered respiratory arrest prior to an orthoscopic exam of his knee.

Marquette, 31, worked as a correctional officer at the Federal Penitentiary at Leavenworth prior to the incident. He injured his knee in an automobile accident in October 1985 and the orthoscopic procedure was to correct damage.

However, the loss of oxygen to the brain left him in a coma and Gregory said he is expected to remain unconscious during the remainder of his lifespan.

"Mark is going to need continuous care for the rest of his life, maybe 10 to 30 years," said Gregory, who also is Marquette's legal guardian. "The bills are already very high and by the time we take legal action, I imagine his bills will be well over the $1 million cap."

"Mark deserves the highest quality care I can give him. But that's going to be expensive."

She said it was wrong to limit damages when medical expenses alone will exceed the cap.

The emotion-charged testimony by the women was received by a hushed committee and found at least one sympathetic ear in Rep. John Solbach, D-Lawrence, who noted that "these people will pay the price" and subsidize doctors "so we can lower insurance costs for the medical community."

Also testifying Monday was a Cottonwood Falls physician, Jimmie L. Browning, who said he and many of his colleagues will be leaving their family practices in rural Kansas if something isn't done about rising malpractice insurance premiums.

Browning, 35, said he's considering returning to active duty with the Army or moving his wife and family to rural medical practice in Texas or Iowa unless something is done here to stabilize premiums.

"The rug is being pulled out from under my feet on my plans to live and work here," Browning said. "If there's some control, there's hope for me. If there's no control, I can't afford to stay. Actually, my patients can't afford for me to stay."

Of the $230,000 his practice generated last year, Browning said he made only about $60,000 following overhead, expenses and Medicaid write-offs.

His malpractice premiums have jumped from $1,700 when he started practice in 1981 to $6,300 last year and one company wanted to charge him $11,000. He said his rates, $16 for an office visit and $550 to deliver a baby, are as high as his patients can afford.

The Kansas Chamber of Commerce and Industry also registered its strong support for the bill, saying only that it balks at limiting awards for future medical expenses.

No action was taken Monday.

Contestants prepare to run pancake race

By The Associated Press

LIBERAL — Women in Liberal are ready to compete today against English housewives across the Atlantic in the 37th running of an International Pancake Race.

Under the rules, women in Liberal and Olney, England, dash 415 yards with their skillet on an S-shaped course. The contestants, who are required to wear housewife's attire of skirt, apron and head scarf, must flip the pancake at the start and finish of the run.

The race has been a tradition in England for more than 500 years.

Sorority ends dispute; SAEs to pay damages

By The Collegian Staff

Pi Beta Phi has elected not to file charges against the Sigma Alpha Epsilon house in response to an incident which occurred the night of SAE initiation.

After initiation Jan. 31, pledges from the SAE house, 1015 Denison, ran through the Pi Phi house, 1819 Todd Road; the Delta Delta Delta house, 1834 Laramie; and the Alpha Delta Pi house, 518 Sunset.

The Pi Phis brought the SAEs before the Interfraternity Council for mediation. The sorority decision was not to press charges, but if it happens again, the SAEs will have to pay a $500 fine, said Pi Phi president Polly Phillips, sophomore in interior design.

Phillips said the decision not to press charges hinged on SAE's willingness to replace a broken window pane and to perform a community service project.

"I'm writing them a letter explaining the situation and what our terms are," Phillips said. Phillips suspects the SAEs of running through the house two previous times this year.

"Fraternalities have done this kind of thing to (sorority) houses before," said ADPi president Mindy Dutton, sophomore in pre-med. "They just run through the house and yell and wake everybody up late at night."

"These guys just took it one step further, and somebody pulled a fire alarm," Dutton said. No action was taken against the SAEs by the other sororities involved.

SAE president Eric Allen, junior in electrical engineering, declined comment, saying the matter is being settled between the two houses.

THE ICECREAM SOCIAL

Makes old-fashioned ice cream treats — still America's #1 dairy treat. You'll love our atmosphere

537-7079 1314 Westloop

TACO TUESDAY

Have it 3 ways:

- UNO
2 Tacos + 1 Margarita
$2.99
- DOS
2 Tacos + Salad Bar
$2.99
- TRES
3 Tacos $2.75

From 11 a.m.-4 p.m.

Bockery two

RAMADA INN

In search of the illusive Bullfrog?

$1.25 Bullfrogs

This includes all vodka drinks

Tonight at ROCKIN' K BAR

K

Memberships available

WE'RE IN HERE DRINKING LITE BECAUSE IT'S LESS FILLING AND TASTES GREAT. BESIDES, WE CAN'T SKI.

DICK BUTKUS & BUBBA SMITH

EVERYTHING YOU ALWAYS WANTED IN A BEER. AND LESS.

Lite BEER NASTAR

© 1985 Miller Brewing Co. Milwaukee, WI

Friends don't let friends drive drunk.

High scoring Sooners await K-State

By TIM FITZGERALD
Assistant Sports Editor

Jack Hartman's Wildcats probably won't receive a friendly greeting when they enter the Lloyd Noble Center in Norman, Okla., tonight for a 7:35 contest.

Oklahoma is coming off of their second loss of the season and they will be looking to hold that total at two. The Sooners were defeated Saturday afternoon by the Iowa State Cyclones in Ames, Iowa, 73-70, dropping their conference record to 6-2 and their season record to 21-2.

The run-and-gun oriented Sooners were taken out of their game by the upset-minded Cyclones. Fifth-ranked Oklahoma's 70 points against Iowa State were over 20 points below their season scoring average.

Things probably won't get much easier for the Sooner offense tonight. K-State brings the leading defense in the Big Eight, which is only giving up 64.8 points per game, to Norman and they want to use it to their advantage.

The combination of the Wildcats' tough defense and the explosive scoring abilities of K-State forward Norris Coleman has Oklahoma Coach Billy Tubbs not taking the game lightly and wishing that Coleman hadn't left the military.

"I really feel like we need Coleman serving in the line of duty of his country. I'm going to talk to my congressman to see if Coleman shouldn't be reactivated," Tubbs said.

And Tubbs went as far as to compare the 'Cat freshman to a forward whom Tubbs coached last year.

"He's very good. He reminded me a little bit of Wayman (Tisdale)," Tubbs said. "Now I know a little bit of what people felt like trying to guard Wayman. About the only thing you can do is foul and him and he makes his free throws, so that's not encouraging."

Tubbs realizes Coleman is not K-State's only offensive weapon — he is intimidated by the scoring abilities of both Coleman and Wildcat guard Joe Wright. Tubbs believes the only solution to the pair's scoring prowess is to keep the ball out their hands.

"That's the only way to stop them. If they get it, you just say a prayer," Tubbs said.

K-State is coming off a 79-53 trouncing of the hapless Colorado Buffaloes Saturday in Ahearn Field House. The victory was the first home conference win this season for the Wildcats, who are now 3-5 in Big Eight play and 15-8 overall.

Hartman was pleased to finally tally a conference victory in Manhattan.

"We're happy to win on the corner of Poyntz and Denison — we're happy to win anywhere," Hartman said with a smile.

Staff/Jeff Tuttle

University of Oklahoma head basketball coach Billy Tubbs is not taking the Wildcats lightly in tonight's conference game against K-State at the Lloyd Noble Center in Norman, Okla.

Hartman was encouraged with his team's performance against Colorado, especially the play of freshman guard Ty Walker.

"Ty Walker played well. He's going to be a fine player. Our kids are more determined everytime (they play). I'm proud of that — their level of intensity, interest, excitement and enthusiasm (keeps increasing)," Hartman said.

That determination is going to have to be raging at full force tonight if the Wildcats plan on upsetting the Sooners at home — Oklahoma brings a 46-game home court winning streak into tonight's ball game.

Lady Cats set to square off with Sooners

By DARAN NEUSCHAFER
Sports Writer

Usually when the second half of the Big Eight Conference season rolls around and teams start playing each other for the second time, coaches know a little about what to expect when their team takes the court. But in the case of the Lady Cats and coach Matilda Mossman, this time around the conference schedule is almost like playing the teams for the first time.

Since the dismissal of three players from the team last month, Mossman has been doing a lot of shuffling with her lineups, trying to get the best possible matchups with the eight remaining players that she has. And tonight in Norman, Okla., when the Lady Cats take on the Oklahoma Sooners, it will be no exception.

"Last time we played them, we felt like we matched up well, but this time we don't match up nearly as well," Mossman said.

"They are a quick team that is also a force in the middle, and we just don't have the personal we had last time. We are going to have to resort to more zone defense to compensate for some mismatches."

That "last time" was on Jan. 22 when Oklahoma handed K-State its first conference loss, 83-72. The Lady Cats have since lost four of their last five games and stand at 12-9 overall and 3-5 in the Big Eight.

Oklahoma, which has been ranked in the Top 20 all season, brings a 17-4 and 5-3 record into the contest. The Sooners find themselves in the midst of a four-way tie for the conference lead with Kansas, Colorado, and Iowa State. Oklahoma lost to Iowa State over the weekend, 81-72.

Mossman is calling this week an important one if the Lady Cats are to remain a threat during the rest of the year. She is referring to the fact that besides playing powerful Oklahoma, K-State must also travel to Iowa State on Saturday.

"This week could make or break us," Mossman said. "It is crucial that we keep our confidence up during these games."

See LADY CATS, Page 10

NFL Cardinals announce hiring of Stallings as head coach

By The Associated Press

ST. LOUIS — Gene Stallings, a disciplinarian and protégé of coaching legends Paul "Bear" Bryant and Tom Landry, was named Monday to succeed Jim Hanifan as coach of the St. Louis Cardinals.

"I'm sorry Coach Bryant couldn't be here," Stallings said at a news conference where he was introduced by team owner William V. Bidwill. "I know somewhere he's smiling."

The appointment of Stallings, an assistant to Landry with the Dallas Cowboys and a former head coach at Texas A&M, ended Bidwill's arduous search for a coach. Hanifan and his assistants were fired just 15 minutes after the Cardinals lost the final game of the 1985 NFL season to the Washington Redskins Dec. 21.

It also filled the last vacant NFL coaching job.

The 1985 Cardinals posted a disappointing 5-11 record after being picked by some experts to win the NFC East. Critics contended that, although Hanifan was well-liked by his players, he did not impose the discipline needed to win and make the playoffs.

Stallings agreed with descriptions of himself as tough, but added that he also can be compassionate.

"There's nothing wrong in liking your players," Stallings said. "I've got a job to do and that is to make Mr. Bidwill glad that he hired me."

Bidwill said he was glad the hunt was over.

"It's been a long search and I've talked to a lot of fine football coaches and fine men," Bidwill said in introducing Stallings.

The 50-year-old Stallings, a native of Paris, Texas, became the Cardinals' ninth head coach since the team moved here from Chicago in 1960.

Wildcat strength coach enjoys his job

By JEFF TUTTLE
Collegian Reporter

No matter what the sport is, the stronger an athlete is the better he or she will perform.

This is the philosophy of Coach Russ Riederer, who is in his sixth year as strength coach for the K-State football team.

Riederer began his career at K-State as a football recruit in 1975, coming from Holton High School where he was an all-state linebacker.

Riederer chose K-State over Kansas and Arkansas because his father went to school at K-State in 1949 through 1952.

"My dad has always been an influence to me, especially in athletics," said Riederer. "He is crippled with muscular dystrophy, and that made me want to make my body strong and do the best I could in sports."

For three years, Riederer played second-string behind all-American linebacker Gary Spani, who is now with the Kansas City Chiefs, and in 1978 he earned a starting position.

Riederer graduated in 1980 with a bachelor of science degree in physical education and was hired as an assistant strength coach under Bill Allerheilgen, who is now with the Houston Oilers.

"I learned a lot from Bill, he gave me a lot of exposure to all the aspects of being a strength coach," said Riederer.

Allerheilgen left the following year and Riederer was promoted as his replacement.

Riederer has held that position for the last six years, and after most of the coaches were released from the team this year, K-State's new head coach, Stan Parrish, asked Riederer to remain.

"Coach Parrish has made my job a little easier," said Riederer. "He is a strong disciplinarian, and he really has the players working hard, and that helps me because they come in here wanting to work hard."

Riederer is responsible for setting up training programs for the football players. The programs are not the same for the entire team. The linemen and the linebackers are given a more extensive weight program, and the defensive backs, running backs and receivers are geared more toward a running program.

"I stress five components in the program for all the players," Riederer said. "Strength, flexibility, speed, agility and cardiovascular endurance. These components are important, and a player with these com-

Staff/Jeff Tuttle

Russ Riederer, strength coach for the K-State football team, began his career at K-State in 1975 as a linebacker for the 'Cats. Riederer has been the K-State strength coach for six years.

ponents will be a better player on the field."

Riederer's does not work exclusively at K-State. Last summer, he worked as a helper at the Kansas City Chiefs mini-camp and training camp. He also spent a week with the Green Bay Packers over Thanksgiving break.

Riederer is also the Kansas director of the National Strength Conditioning Association and has been nominated for regional director of the NSCA for the Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas, Arkansas, Louisiana and Missouri area.

In the future, Riederer hopes to work for a professional team, but for now he is happy at K-State.

"I love my job, and the most rewarding part is working with the players," said Riederer. "I want to make them the best they can be by helping them anyway I can."

Powerlifting meet interest increases

By ROXIE MCKEE
Collegian Reporter

Rec Services will have its annual powerlifting meet on Feb. 13 at 7:15 p.m. in the small gym at the Chester E. Peters Recreation Complex.

The meet is open to any student, faculty or staff member, and there will be different weight classes and divisions in each group.

Intramural coordinator Steve Martini said that as of Monday, 13 men and one woman had signed up for the meet. He said in the past, anywhere from eight to 20 people participated. Last year, four women and six men lifted in the meet.

Although powerlifting is not an Olympic event, it is becoming increasingly popular across the United States.

"In 1992 it's (powerlifting) going to be an exhibition sport (in the Olympics)," Nathan Burnette, meet director said.

Burnette said powerlifting is beginning to get popular, especially among women.

Powerlifting, which was founded in the mid-1960s, is predominantly a strength sport, which involves three major strength areas of the body — the chest, back and legs.

The three major lifts in a powerlifting meet are the bench press, squat lift, and dead lift. Participants have three chances to make a lift at each weight, and there are judges who verify whether the lift was good or a foul.

Burnette said in competition the "pause technique" is used, where lifters are supposed to pause and keep the bar motionless until the judge issues the command "press," when the lift is completed. This is to discourage the lifter from "bouncing" the weight, which is not allowed in competition.

"In other words, if you're benching 300 pounds, with the pause, you may only bench 260 or 275," Burnette said.

Martini encourages anyone who is able to try powerlifting, and would like to see more people get involved.

Martini said that Rec Services looks at the meet as an opportunity.

See LIFTING, Page 10

American pole vaulters to meet top challenger

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK — Sergey Bubka of the Soviet Union, world outdoor record holder in the pole vault, will enter Friday night's Wanamaker Millrose Games against Billy Olson and Joe Dial, the two men with whom he has taken turns breaking the indoor mark this winter.

Much of the magic in the meet at Madison Square Garden is expected from the three pole vaulters, who together have set new world indoor bests seven times this season. Olson has been the leader, breaking the mark four times, raising it to 19 feet, 5½ inches last Saturday night at the Vitalis-U.S. Olympic Invitational at East Rutherford, N.J.

Bubka is the owner of the outdoor record at 19-8¼.

"I'm excited that he's going to be there," Olson said.

Olson said he has faced Bubka about five times indoors and outdoors — and never has beaten him.

"I don't think anybody has," he noted.

Their most recent meeting was at London last July 19 — Olson's 27th birthday. "He thrashed me pretty good," recalled Olson, who began his record-breaking skein with a jump of 19-2¾ Dec. 28 at Saskatoon, Saskatchewan.

"But this is the first time I feel capable of beating him ... honestly," he said.

The closest Olson came to beating Bubka was two years ago at Los Angeles, where the Soviet vaulter set a world indoor best of 19-1½ and the Texan cleared 19-0¼.

Athletics concern candidates

By TONY CARBAJO
Sports Writer

With athletics at colleges and universities playing a bigger role than ever on today's campuses, the five SGA Student Body Presidential candidates were asked three questions relating to athletics at K-State.

Each candidate was asked their view on the proposed Fred Bramlage Coliseum, the proposed student athletic fee and where athletics fit in to the university.

KELLI CARR, senior in journalism and mass communications.

COLISEUM— The Coliseum will be an asset to K-State, not a cure. I feel until we can afford to build the facility the students voted on, we should not go ahead. I want a coliseum the people can be proud of now and for years to come. Until we can afford that, don't build a thing.

ATHLETIC FEE— The athletic fee is feasible, although there are few problems that need to be worked out. I agree with Larry Travis that we need more student input on it before going to the Senate. There are a lot of people who will pay into it that won't ever use it, if passed.

ATHLETICS— Athletics have been a key point of University life for many years. I feel strong winning athletic teams play a major part in the morale of the University. People like to be associated with winners. When K-State is winning, the sense of pride in the University is at a peak.

STEVE CASHMAN, junior in marketing.

COLISEUM— I think first of all, a coliseum could be good for K-State, but it must be a quality building. I am not for the building as it is designed now. Most likely, it cannot be built for $14.5 million. We need a coliseum we can be proud of now and 50 years from now. I don't like the idea that we have to build a coliseum because we have $14.5 million. Nobody knows what is really going on. Until we know everything about the thing, they should not build it. It can have its good points toward the University, if it is built right.

ATHLETIC FEE— In order to have a successful athletic program — Larry Travis says if he has money, he can put a winner on the field. He has a proven background at Georgia Tech and that says it all. Women's basketball loses $200,000, track loses $200,000 — it all takes money. But, I feel the students should have the vote on it. It can be good. We give money to other services on campus. The key is that Larry Travis has proven success and he can do it. It is good for the students if it gives them a break in ticket prices.

ATHLETICS— My campaign philosophy is to sell K-State to students and to Kansans. You have to sell academic programs and athletic programs — every program at the University you have to sell. Athletics plays a role in how alumni and prospective students perceive the University's image. The sports page is free advertisement for a university.

PATTY HIPSHER, junior in political science.

COLISEUM— I have a lot of reservations on the coliseum because of the problems with the bids going over budget. After that, it seems we have had a lot of trouble with it. Last week, Warren Corman said the geological studies showed the land where it (the coliseum) is to be built cannot support the structure without concrete supports being added. It

(the need for concrete supports) seems to be the biggest negative we have had in the last year. The administration, the students and the faculty are all caught up in it. Without running down an alley blindly, I have reservations about this project.

ATHLETIC FEE— I have a lot of problems with it also. I don't think it is appropriate or philosophically sound to ask students to pay this amount. I'm sure there are people who would rather spend $15 attending a McCain event or some other event. I think we need to keep in mind what athletics are. It is not a student service like Lafene or Rec Services — it is for student entertainment. It should not be a requirement for pursuing academics. We are already paying $31 dollars for the Coliseum, I would hate to burden the students with another fee. Larry Travis said the athletic department is being run like a business. If it would have been run like a business 10 years ago, we would not have this problem.

ATHLETICS— I feel athletics are very important — they help get morale up. I work in the admissions office and I heard when K-State defeats KU in football or basketball that the admissions applications come pouring in. The priorities at K-State need to be academic excellence over athletic excellence.

STEVEN JOHNSON, sophomore in agricultural economics.

COLISEUM— Any way we go (refurbishing Ahearn or building a new coliseum) we are looking at a multi-million dollar facility. After seeing the plans that were presented to Senate last week, I still feel this is a quality facility. It will have to go within the budget to be a good deal for the University.

ATHLETIC FEE— I think a student athletic fee can do some good things for the University. The role for a president is to see that it goes through Senate. If they pass it, I would be in favor of it because it would be students' views. We need to get it out to the students and let them know how it affects K-State and what it will do for them.

ATHLETICS— I think athletics are very important to any university. It is the major window to K-State and to any university. Athletics are essential to recruitment, and right now that is one of our big problems. I think it is important that we uphold good athletic teams. I wouldn't put it at the top of the list — academics are — but it is important to field good teams.

KEITH PETRACEK, junior in electrical engineering.

COLISEUM— I feel a quality Coliseum will benefit the University. If what we build does not fit those of Nebraska, Oklahoma and Iowa State (recently built coliseums), it does not do us as much good as Ahearn does.

ATHLETIC FEE— We really don't have anything proposed to us yet. We need student input on this. The athletic department has needs. We need something that fits the students and the athletic departments needs. We have to weigh what the students feel and what the athletic department needs so we can get what will work for both of them beneficially.

ATHLETICS— They are very important. For a lot of people, that is their first image of the University. If people see winners in athletics they relate that to the University.

Get Personal
in Collegian Classifieds

LAFENE
STUDENT HEALTH CENTER

532-6544

"Your Medical Facility"

ELECT

MATT QUEEN

STUDENT SENATE

COLLEGE OF ARTS & SCIENCES

Paid for by Students for Queen

Graduated Savings.

$15
OFF
ALL 10K GOLD

$30
OFF
ALL 14K GOLD

$40
OFF
ALL 18K GOLD

One week only, save on the gold ring of your choice. For complete details, see your Jostens representative at:

Feb. 11-14 10am-4pm

Deposit Req: $20.70 non-refundable

Supply floor k-state union
bookstore 0302

Payment plans available. ©1985 Jostens, Inc.

JOSTENS

AMERICA'S COLLEGE RING™

will be broadcast by WIBW (580) AM on a taped delayed basis immediately following the Oklahoma vs. K-State men's contest at approximately 9:15 p.m. CST... Amanda Holley, who has been in a little bit of a scoring slump lately, continues to lead the Lady Cats in scoring with a 12.3 points per game average... Junior guard Susan Green has been named to the District Seven GTECoSIDA All-Academic Team.

PROBABLE STARTERS

K-STATE

F Carlisa Thomas, 5-9 (10.5 ppg)
F Amanda Holley, 6-1 (12.3 ppg)
C Sue Leiding, 6-2 (8.5 ppg)
G Susan Green, 5-8 (9.6 ppg)
G Cindy Durham, 6-8 (3.8 ppg)

OKLAHOMA

F Jaquetta Hurley, 6-1 (12.8 ppg)
F LaTrenda Phillips, 6-0 (13.9 ppg)
C Lisa Allison, 6-3 (13.7 ppg)
G Vickie Green, 5-9 (13.5 ppg)
G Vicki Streets, 5-6 (10.5 ppg)

GAME NOTES: Tonight's game

RE-ELECT
MARTIN MONTO
Arts and Sciences Senator
"One Senator who did a lot for you!"
Paid for by students to elect Monto

Howard
WOODBURY
for Ag
Senate
Paid for by Students for Howard

Buy a 16" pizza
Get a 10" pizza

FREE

Falsetto's
539-3830

NBA pleased with All-Star game

By The Associated Press

DALLAS — The first National Basketball Association All-Star weekend to take place in Texas has convinced NBA players and officials that the state where football is king is learning to appreciate their sport.

"The people in Dallas have become knowledgeable basketball fans," said Kareem Abdul-Jabbar after the East's 139-132 victory over the West at Reunion Arena. "They have come a long ways in a few years."

The NBA awarded the game to the expansion Dallas Mavericks in only their sixth season in the league, the first time the All-Stars had come to Texas.

The older Houston Rockets and San Antonio Spurs have yet to host the game.

"This is a sophisticated city and the fans this weekend got a chance to see the sites," Abdul-Jabbar said.

"This was a great opportunity. Basketball is played more than any other sport. It is the national sport."

Reunion Arena had successive sellouts of 16,573 fans on both days of the All-Star extravaganza.

On Saturday, the Old-Timers Game, the long distance three-point shootout, and slam-dunk contests drew a jammed house.

The Slam-Dunk day tickets were priced at $5 but scalpers were asking as much as $20.

Lifting

Continued from Page 9

ty for people who are just getting started in weightlifting, although there will be some experienced lifters competing.

"We kind of look at this meet as a real good opportunity for somebody that never has lifted in a meet that wants to get experience," Martini said.

Martini said the meet will be run the same way regular powerlifting meets are run.

"The risks are more limited in a meet," he said.

Martini believes many people are intimidated by weights, and don't like the idea of lifting in front of a lot of people.

Barnette said the current world record in powerlifting, which is held by Bill Kazmaier, is around 2,400 pounds.

1126 LARAMIE
Aggieville
Manhattan, KS
(913) 776-2426

SUN
CONNECTION
TANNING SALON

$2.50 sessions after 11 p.m.

10 sessions only $30

ELECT

DOUG
GAUMER
For STUDENT SENATE

COLLEGE OF
BUSINESS

Paid for by Students to elect Gaumer

SPRING BREAK IN FT. LAUDERDALE

Driving Package
Without Transportation
Quad Occupancy $165

Full Package
With Transportation
Quad Occupancy $265

YOUR TRIP INCLUDES:

- Seven nights accommodations at one of our exciting Fort Lauderdale hotels. All our hotels are deluxe properties with pool, party deck, cable TV, and air conditioning.
- Round trip motor coach transportation via luxury highway coaches to Fort Lauderdale, Florida. Unlike others, we use the newest style buses available.
- Pool deck parties every other day.
- An entire list of bar and restaurant discounts for you to use to save money at places you would go anyway.
- The services of full time travel representatives available daily to throw parties and take good care of you.
- All taxes and gratuities.

Arrangements by
ECHO TRAVEL, INC.
The largest in college tours to Florida
for over seven years.

To Sign Up
or for More Info

CALL

Beth

532-5107

or leave a message at 532-5582

Globetrotters, former KU player present magic tonight in Ahearn

By JANELL BERROTH
Collegian Reporter

The Harlem Globetrotters, celebrating their 60th season this year, made sports history recently when they opened their World Premiere Tour Oct. 17 in Brisbane, Australia.

For the first time ever, a female, Lynette Woodard, was in the lineup of the world famous team. This marked the debut of male-female shoulder-to-shoulder competition in professional sports and can be witnessed at 7:30 tonight in Ahearn Field House, sponsored by the Union Program Council's Special Events Committee.

Woodard, a native of Wichita, attended the University of Kansas. As a freshman, she led the nation in rebounds, averaging nearly 15 per game. As a sophomore, she led the nation in scoring, averaging 31.9 points. She has acquired the nickname of "Leaping Lizard" because of her jumping ability.

She began her odyssey when she was selected as one of 10 to attend the preseason team training camp after an intense and highly competitive session at the Women's Tryout Camp. The final decision, based on talent, finesse and ballhandling skills, was made at the training camp just before the club's departure for Australia.

The Harlem Globetrotters have brought their style of basketball to millions of cheering fans since their 1927 debut at the Savoy Ballroom in Chicago, Ill.

The name "Harlem" was chosen to indicate the team was an all-black organization. "Globetrotters" was chosen to give the impression the team played in many locations.

During their first world tour in 1950, they played in drained swimming pools, bull rings, opera houses, airplane hangars and in the middle of the jungle in the Philippines, where the wealthy owner of a sugar plantation laid out a solid mahogany court.

The Trotters had an important role in establishing and popularizing the National Basketball Association, playing double-headers with the fledgling league and drawing hundreds of excited new fans into arenas across America. They introduced the slam dunk, the fast break and the famous "weave." Their fancy passing and faking permeated the pro game, as white and black players developed a superior style.

Head Coach Russell Ellington said the crowd indicates to the players when to go into the weave.

"It's something that you can just feel. We come off according to the audience. If the fans are up, we take our time," he said.

When the Globetrotters first started, jazz was just becoming popular and Harlem was the center for big band jazz. This is when the Trotters acquired their theme song, "Sweet Georgia Brown."

The Trotters have had the disadvantage of lacking a home court, but it has never stopped them from playing their best. In the early days the team was unsure of what surface they would play on, especially where basketball was an unknown sport. They have played in freezing weather conditions when plywood was used to cover an ice rink, and they have played on top of 200 desks wired together for a floor.

In the '50s and '60s, the team started transporting their own court wherever they went, eventually accumulating 10 full-sized portable floors stored in different locations around the world.

The Washington Generals, the chief opponents of the Harlem Globetrotters, haven't won a game against the Trotters since 1971. Red Klotz, coach of the Washington Generals, has been around the world four times with the Trotters. His teams, drawn from college all-stars and minor-league teams, have never lost a game against any other team.

East, West to trade prisoners

By The Associated Press

BERLIN — Soviet officials have agreed to release dissident Anatoly Shcharansky moments before three Western spies in the expected East-West prisoner exchange because the United States insisted he not be treated like an undercover agent, a newspaper said Monday.

A U.S. official, meanwhile, confirmed at a news briefing that Shcharansky would be part of the swap, expected to take place today on the Glienicke Bridge between West Berlin and Communist East Germany.

"He will be on the bridge. The exchange will be made and the cars will drive out," the official said, speaking on condition of anonymity.

He indicated Shcharansky would leave Berlin immediately from the U.S. military's Tempelhof airport and head for Israel.

A U.S. diplomatic source in Berlin, speaking on condition of anonymity, told The Associated Press, "It will happen on the bridge before noon."

The Hamburg newspaper Bild said in an article written for today's editions, "An agreement has been reached so that Shcharansky will clearly be freed before the other prisoners."

The newspaper telexed the report in advance to other news media. It did not identify its sources, but the newspaper has had other exclusive reports from the Soviet Union that have turned out to be accurate.

Bild said the swap will begin at 11 a.m. (5 a.m. EST) today.

"U.S. and Russian military vehicles will drive to the middle of the bridge from both sides — then the passengers will be handed over," Bild said. "The East bloc will let Soviet rights activist Shcharansky free first."

"The exchange was in real danger once again in the last few days. The Soviets insisted that Shcharansky would be swapped 'as an agent, like the others,'" Bild said. The Americans objected, saying Shcharansky is a human rights activist, according to Bild.

Shcharansky, 38, was convicted in 1978 on a charge of spying for the CIA and was sentenced to 13 years in prison and labor camp. The United States denies he was an agent.

Shcharansky, a mathematician and computer scientist, has said his only crime was seeking to emigrate from the Soviet Union to Israel.

Western specialists on the Soviet Union have said Moscow hopes by freeing Shcharansky along with imprisoned spies to convey to the world its position that he is a spy, too.

Bild quoted an unidentified West German official as saying, "Whether the Soviets stick to the plan (to free Shcharansky first), only God knows."

Reporters have been positioned at the Glienicke Bridge since Bild reported Feb. 1 that an exchange was pending.

Enjoy smooth, creamy
Frozen Yogurt
that tastes like Ice Cream
but with 80% less fat!
--FREE SAMPLES--
I Can't Believe It's YOGURT!
Frozen Yogurt Stores
OPEN: 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Daily
Noon-11 p.m. Sundays
Nautilus Towers-Aggieville

VOTE
Christopher Gooding
Ag Student Senate
"Determined to work for you in the College of Agriculture"
Paid for by students for Gooding

Instructor balances communication

By KELLY HODGE
Collegian Reporter

Realizing the importance of communication in her role as a Manhattan city commissioner and transferring that importance to her students, has made two seemingly separate jobs more alike for Nancy Denning, instructor of English.

Denning, who teaches technical writing for engineers, said the link between the "separate worlds" is communication.

"Communication is so important," Denning said. "It has become more important for me to really stress this with my students."

She said she realized the importance of good communication after being involved with the city commission.

"There is so much going on with a major project like the downtown development. The left hand needs to know what the right hand is doing," she said. "Also with the Quality of Life Bond issue, there are many public meetings and there is a need for public input."

Denning, who was elected to the city commission last April, said she ran for the position because "(I) felt Manhattan had given me so much, that it was time to repay some of that."

"Manhattan is on the threshold of being a regional shopping area," Denning said. "It's like a sleepy town coming alive. It's a leader of its time."

"It's been a real growing time for me," she said.

Although Denning said she enjoys the position, she also said it has been a trying time.

"There have been many tough decisions," she said.

However, Denning said she believes pain and growth go hand-in-hand.

"People sometimes think there's no pain in growth," she said. "There is a great deal of pain in growth, but then the wounds start to heal."

TUESDAY
$1.95 Pitchers
Welcome
Padre Sign up
Party
CHARLIE'S
NEIGHBORHOOD BAR
ESTABLISHED 1962
1800 Claflin 539-9619

Flowers for him and her
Valentine's Day
Flower Sale
K-State Union Main Floor
9-5 p.m.
or until sold out
$3-$10
Retail Floriculture Club

RECORD—TAPE SALE
Now In Progress!
CLASSICAL ROCK FOLK
JAZZ COUNTRY
Records start as low as $1.98!
Cassette tapes as low as $3.98!
Varney's
9-9 MON.-SAT. 12-5 SUN.
BOOK STORE
IN AGGIEVILLE
On the edge of campus, in the heart of Aggieville.

JOHN BULLOCK
For Arts/Science Senate
Paid for by committee to elect Bullock

putting the issues in black & white
VOTE
daron
BROWN
engineering senator
Paid for by Students for Brown

CASHMAN
for k-state
Concern
Paid for by K-Staters for Cashman

Wendy's Wildcat Special

Offer good: February 11 through February 18, 1986

COMBO SPECIAL

(single, fries, small Pepsi)

$1.99*

*Cheese extra

Present coupon when ordering

one special per coupon please

3004 Anderson

421 N. 3rd

KITCHENS PLUS

MANHATTAN'S MOST UNIQUE GIFT AND GOURMET SHOP

WE HAVE A GREAT SELECTION OF VALENTINE ITEMS FOR THE LOVE OF YOUR LIFE...

VERY UNUSUAL CARDS AND GIFTS

OPEN

MONDAY-SATURDAY 9:30 A.M.-6:00 P.M.
THURSDAY EVENINGS UNTIL 8:30 P.M.
EVERY SUNDAY NOON TO 5:00 P.M.

1310 WESTLOOP
SHOPPING CENTER
537-4046

$3.00 Off Gift Certificates

(10 or more sessions)
"They look great inside
Valentine Cards..."

*Offer good today - Sunday
*Good only with coupon

Tropical Tan

FirstBank Center/Second level
Denison and Claflin

537-0744

Treat your Valentine to
"A Whisper of Love."

Our Special Valentine
Sundae
THE

ICECREAM

SOCIAL

Bring your valentine out to Taco Hut for our authentic Mexican food at reasonable prices with great service.

Love is Blind

But you shouldn't be

Get your glasses at
the

OPTICAL DISPENSARY

Dr. Price
Dr. Young
Dr. Odle

1119 Westloop
Manhattan, Ks.
(913) 537-1331

ALCO

DISCOUNT STORE

$2.48 REG. $2.97
BIG HERSEY'S KISS
Solid milk chocolate. 8 ozs.

$5.96 REG. $7.46
BRACH'S CHOCOLATES
Flower boxed. Delicious. 1 lb.

$1.63 SPECIAL
6-PACK COCA-COLA
7-Up, Classic, Cherry & Dt. Coke.

$10.88
10" FLOOR SHOW PLANTS
Choose from Fig
Trees, Palms, Norfolk Pines and many more.

$2.99
4 1/2" BLOOMING
POTTED PLANTS
Choose from Violets,
Mums, Cineraria and Calceolaria. Special.

Visit ALCO'S Complete Plant Shop!

Daily 9 to 9, Sunday 11 to 6

ALCO

3007 Anderson

MANNEQUINS

Tonight & Tomorrow Night
BOYS with TOYS
Valentine's Day
Specials

$3.00 per person
$4.00 per couple
with this coupon

Hair Cut

$5.00

with coupon

Styling for men and women
Walk-ins welcome!

1129 Westloop (on the west side)

539-2921

Steal your Valentine's heart tonight with

$1.50 well
$1.00 wine
80¢ draws

for Your Valentine

HOUSEPLANTS

For Your Special

VALENTINE!

We have a large selection of sizes & varieties, including some which are blooming.

Ask about our SALE!

Blueville Nursery, Inc.

2 1/2 miles west of The Loop Shopping Center on Anderson Ave.

539-2671

Hours: Mon.-Sat. 8-5

Litchfield Theatres

SETH CHILDS CINEMAS
Seth Childs At Farm Bureau Rd

STARTS FRIDAY

Tickets for Thursday February 13th Sneak preview are available through the KSU Athletic Ticket Office. All proceeds go to KSU athletics. Feature opens February 14th.

GOLDIE HAWN
WILDCATS

QUICKSILVER
WINNING IS A FEELING YOU NEVER LOSE.

Go by Green Thumb Bicycle Shop or Seth Childs Cinemas and register to win a Raleigh "Capri" 10-speed. Drawing to be held Feb. 24th.
Chuck Norris
Lee Marvin
DELTA FORCE (R)

MOVIE INFO. 776-9886

Westloop Floral
537-2845

Let us do something for your Valentine!

1346 Westloop Place

THE CLOTHES TREE

Don't show up "Red-Faced" on Valentine's Day!
Buy any red-colored regular priced item... you'll receive

15% off

Choose from suits, blouses, pants, knit tops, skirts, jewelry
Where fashions are affordable

1150 Westloop
Manhattan
Sizes 4-54

Hours
M-Sat. 9:30-5:30
Thur. 11-8
Sunday 1-5

Hair Westloop
539-6001
1318 Westloop

- Haircuts
- Styling
- Shampoo/sets
- Perms
- Relaxers
- Hair Color
- Manicures Male/Female
- Sculptured Nails
- Facial Waxing
- Ear Piercing

NAILTIPS $30

Mon.-Fri. 8 a.m.-6 p.m. Sat. 8 a.m.-5 p.m.
Appointments preferred, walk-ins welcome

Alicia and Co.
for hair

wishes you Love!

Alicia, Tammie,
Annette, C.P.

2805 Claflin
Phone 537-9825
by appt.

You Got Me Babe

My Heart Belongs to You

Send a Cookie-Gram to your favorite cookie

Swanson's Bakery
225 Poyntz
call early 776-4549

Bring your Sweetheart to the Abbey for a uniquely romantic evening.

The Abbey

Manhattan's newest private club.

Serving fine wine, food and spirits.

3240 Kimball (across from Cico Park)

VALENTINE'S DAY SPECIAL

ONLY $6.50

"Limited Edition" ROSE CAKES

Give the long-stemmed rose that's not only beautiful, but delicious, too.

made by those who care

REYNARD'S WEST

Call 539-4322 to order or stop by 1101 Westloop

*Rose cakes are limited, so order early, also whole pies available.

If your valentine gives you an engagement ring.....

Then come see us for your wedding portrait.

We offer a variety of packages to choose from.

Heirloom Portraits

3031 Anderson Avenue
Manhattan, Kansas 66502
776-1175

You love, because...

HONEY

To My Dear Mother WITH ALL MY LOVE

...of so many special reasons! Express your feelings with a Hallmark Valentine card that contains the very thoughts you wish to convey to the one you love. Remember Hallmark, your Valentine store!

ARBUTHNOT'S Hallmark

Village Plaza Shopping Center
3915 Anderson Avenue
Manhattan, Kansas 66502

REAL FLOWERS WILT...

Give a Silk Floral Arrangement from BEN FRANKLIN, Like Your Love They Last FOREVER!

Ben Franklin Crafts

Westloop Shopping Center
Manhattan

Democrats unveil programs aimed at poor farm economy

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA — Democrats unveiled Monday legislative initiatives aimed at stimulating the state's poor farm economy, including a "buy Kansas products" program, a requirement that state institutions purchase more home-grown foodstuffs and resurrection of a multi-state grain marketing compact.

"If we invest our dollars in Kansas products, we are investing in jobs for our neighbors, dollars for our local economies and greater revenues returning to the state as a result of increased economic activity," Sen. Michael Johnston, D-Parsons, the Senate minority leader, told a Statehouse news conference.

While purpose of the news conference was to reveal the minority party's agriculture proposals, most of the questions centered on how much support Gov. John Carlin could count on from his fellow Democrats for his proposed reorganization of the state Board of Agriculture.

Johnston and Rep. Marvin Barkis, D-Louisburg, the House minority leader, said they are convinced the governor's proposal will receive a fair hearing in both houses, and said they hope it will be judged on its merit and not on the politics of who "controls" agricultural policy in Kansas.

However, the comments of two other Democratic legislators who appeared at the news conference underscored the uphill battle Carlin faces in getting the board changed from running the state Department of Agriculture to just being an advisory body. Under Carlin's plan, a future governor and not the board would appoint the state agriculture secretary.

Most farm organizations, led by the Kansas Farm Bureau and the Kansas Livestock Association, strongly oppose the change because they don't want to surrender the power they now have in naming the board and the secretary. Only the Kansas Farmers Union has publicly endorsed the proposal.

Sen. Richard Gannon, D-Goodland, and Rep. Lee Hamm, D-Pratt, both rural legislators, said they understand the governor's position and may agree with him in principle. However, both indicated the wishes of their constituents may dictate that they vote against the proposal.

"I personally agree with him," said Hamm. "But I'm not going to say I'm going to vote for it. I've got a lot of people out there who don't approve of it. A lot of Farm Bureau people are against it."

Gannon said he was keeping an open mind until the issue is heard in the Senate Agriculture Committee. "I intend to do what I feel is right for my district, as well as for the people of Kansas," Gannon said.

Barkis said, "Hopefully, merit will win out. I think everyone who looks at it on merit cannot help but be per-sueded that it makes very good sense."

The Democrats four agricultural proposals include:

— A resolution creating in the Department of Economic Development a marketing program to encourage sale of Kansas food products. It would include sale of advertising materials to local merchants and stickers to be placed on products to identify them as being made in Kansas. "In states where this program has been adopted, local sales have increased, (and) the public has developed an almost patriotic attitude about buying products made at home..." Johnston said.

— A bill enacting a bid preference law under which state producers and processors would be given preference in bidding on 5 percent of the foodstuffs purchased by state institutions, starting in mid-1987. The percentage would diminish by 1 percent each year until the program was phased out in 1992. "We want to encourage Kansas interests to adjust their style of production, increase in-state processing of raw foodstuffs and become more competitive in the bidding for state contracts," Johnston said.

— A resolution requiring the state purchasing system to advertise the five-year bid preference program for state producers and processors.

— A bill to create another Interstate Agricultural Grain Marketing Commission.

Classifieds

Student Publications will not be responsible for more than one wrong classified insertion. It is the advertiser's responsibility to contact the paper if an error exists. No adjustment will be made if the error does not alter the value of the ad.

Items found ON CAMPUS can be advertised FREE for a period not exceeding three days. They can be placed at Kedzie 103 or by calling 532-6555.

Display Classified Rates

One day: $4.65 per inch; Three consecutive days: $4.25 per inch; Five consecutive days: $3.95 per inch; Ten consecutive days: $3.75 per inch. (Deadline is 4:30 p.m. two days before publication.)

Classified advertising is available only to those who do not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, sex or ancestry.

ANNOUNCEMENTS 01

MARY KAY Cosmetics—Color awareness, products, and free facial. Anna Prockish, 1001 Blumont, 537-4246. (891f)

VOTE TODAY in Student Government Elections, State Room level, Union 7:30 a.m.-8:30 p.m.; Vet Med Center 11 a.m.-1 p.m. Bring your KSU I.D. (95-96)

PAT MUIR—You guys have already won the American Cup and now you're after an Agriculture Senator spot! Good luck anyway. Your Campaign Manager. (95)

BRUCE COOK—Good luck with Business Senator. We all know you'll be comfortable in your new seat. Your Campaign Manager. (95)

PATTY HIPSHER—You've done your homework. The soles of your shoes are worn from your research and fact finding expeditions. You are the most well informed candidate, furthermore, you speak straight and don't hedge your words. Best of luck! (95)

FRED NEUMAN—Hope the votes are flowing in for you as Business Senator. The Chairman man is pulling for you. (95-96)

TERESA LEIGHTY—Good luck in elections. I know you'll be a great Business Senator. Also, you have a spiffy, not to mention bodacious, Campaign Manager. I must say. (95)

ANNE WILEY—Best of luck for elections. You'll be an awesome Human Ecology Senator. By the way, your campaign manager is some sort of neat gal, too. (95)

GOOD LUCK Ed Frankenberg and Kevin Religa in the elections. Brian (95)

BECKY SVATY (Swattie)—Best of luck in your campaign for Education Senator. Love, your sister. (95)

MISS LEONARD—I'm hoping you're a Human Ecology Senator. Good luck! Becky. (95)

ATTENTION 02

FLYING INTEREST you? Check into K-State Flying Club. Call Steve Dyer at 532-5600 or 537-0458. (81f)

SPRING BREAK on the beach at South Padre Island, Daytona Beach, Fort Lauderdale, Fort Walton Beach or Mustang Island/Fort. Arkansas from only $89 and skiing at Steamboat or Vail from only $96! Deluxe lodging, parties, goodie bags, more... Hurry, call Sunchase Tours for more information and reservations toll free 1-800-321-5911 or contact a local Sunchase Representative today! When your Spring Break counts... count on Sunchase. (80-109)

HEE'S ALTERATIONS—Suits, coats, jeans, zippers and all types of alterations. 1125 Laraine Plaza, Aggieville, Monday thru Friday, 10 a.m.-5:30 p.m.; Saturdays, 10 a.m.-4 p.m. 776-7959. (87f)

SKI SPRING Break—Breckenridge, Keystone, and Copper Mountain, March 9, 10 and 11 only $220. Price includes transportation, lodging, ski rental and lift tickets. For information, call 537-2995. (83-108)

STUDENT NEEDS ride to campus from Tuttle Creek Blvd. area. Will pay gas. Please call 539-1936. (94-98)

FOR RENT—MISC 03

COSTUMES—FROM gorilla suits to Hawaiian leis. Makeup, wigs, periodical clothing, masks, grass skirts, all occasions available. Treasure Chest, Aggieville. (281f)

SEE MARIE for all your costume needs. If I don't have it, I'll make it for you. Marie's Costumes, 17th and Humboldt, 539-5200. Parking in the rear. (80f)

FOR RENT—APTS 04

FOR AUGUST—Deluxe two bedroom furnished apartment, across the street from Ford Hall. 539-2482 after 4:00 p.m. (92-102)

THREE BEDROOM available now. Utilities paid. Call Barbara, 537-1329. (83-98)

ONE OR two bedroom—Reasonable, one block to campus, available now. Call Barbara, 537-1329. (83-98)

WE HAVE studio, one, two, and three bedroom apartments available now. All prices. Call 537-1210 or 537-4244. (87f)

NEXT to campus—Leasing for fall, across from Marriott and Goodnow. Furnished two or one bedroom, central air, carpeting, fully equipped kitchen, balcony off street parking. 539-2702, evenings, weekends. (88-98)

FURNISHED ONE bedroom duplex. Move in immediately! No pets or smokers. Call 537-2811. (93-97)

AVAILABLE NOW! One bedroom duplex four blocks from campus. 537-2575 or 539-1894. (94-98)

PRAIRIE GLEN—A really nice place to live. Two bedroom unit available. 776-4786. (94-108)

FOR NEXT school year—One bedroom furnished, block west of campus. Call 539-5051 or see Dave #4, 1024 Sunset. (94-98)

FOR NEXT school year, August—Two bedroom combo, one-half block west of campus, up to four people, $520. Call 776-4528 or see Dean #5, 1829 College Hts. (94-98)

IMMEDIATELY—NEED female non-smoking roommate. $125 plus utilities and own room. Call 537-4858. (95-97)

EFFICIENCY APARTMENT, $185/month. Heat, gas, water included. Call 537-7794 evenings and week ends. (95-104)

CLOSE to campus—Two bedroom furnished apartment complex, laundry facilities, leasing for fall for two to four students. 537-0152. (95-107)

THREE BEDROOM in a new near nineplex—One and a half baths, living room, dining room and fully equipped kitchen. Roomy and large closets. Limit four persons, $125 each or $450. Call 537-7087. (95-99)

Chasing Reality

By David Krug and Steve Cooper

Bloom County

By Berke Breathed

Garfield

By Jim Davis

Peanuts

By Charles Schulz

Crossword

- ACROSS
- Skills
 - Cut off
 - Yield
 - Island feast
 - Swiss canton
 - Man in the will
 - Reticule
 - Bridge
 - Marsh plant
 - Valuable thing
 - Ancient
 - Edge
 - Hoard
 - Dupe
 - Audience
 - Chicle
 - Spanish queen
 - Sailing vessel
 - Rancher's mark
 - "Kid-napped" author's initials
 - Stinger
 - Purlin

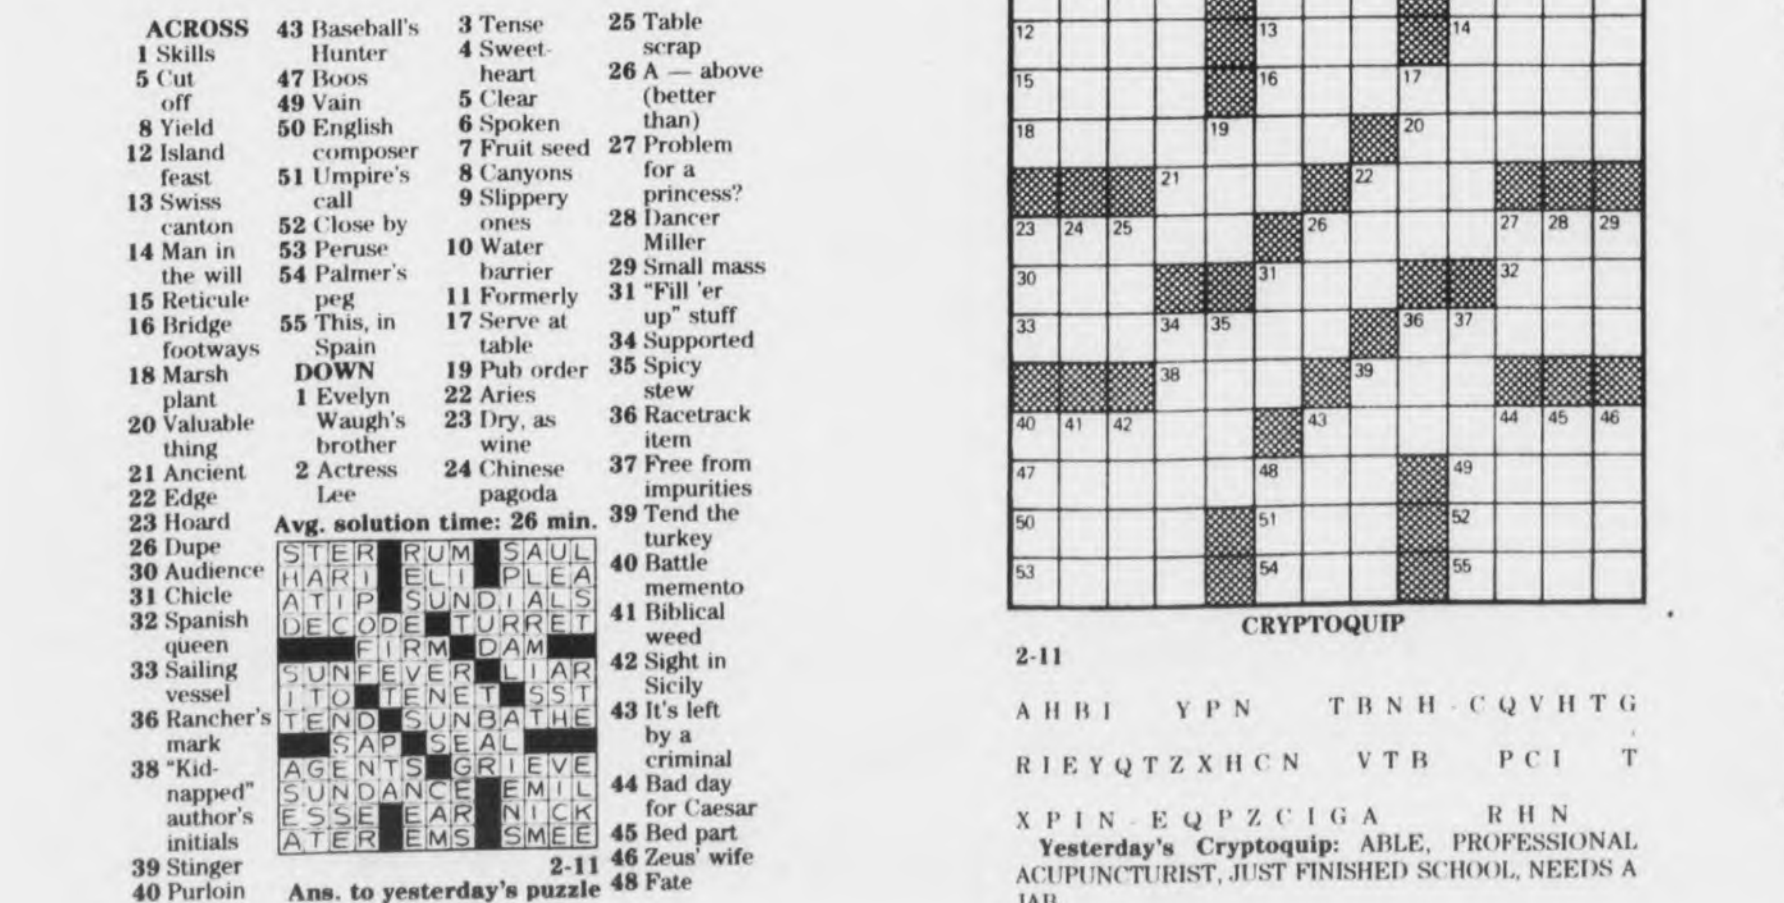

- 43 Baseball's Hunter
- Boos
 - English composer
 - Umpire's call
 - Close by
 - Peruse
 - Palmer's peg
 - This, in Spain
 - DOWN
 - Evenly
 - Waugh's brother
 - Actress Lee
 - Close by
 - Peruse
 - Palmer's peg
 - This, in Spain
 - DOWN
 - Evenly
 - Waugh's brother
 - Actress Lee

- 3 Tense
- Sweet heart
 - Clear
 - Spoken
 - Fruit seed
 - Canyons
 - Slippery ones
 - Water barrier
 - Formerly
 - Serve at table
 - Pub order
 - Aries
 - Dry, as wine
 - Chinese pagoda
 - Table scrap
 - A—above (better than)
 - Problem for a princess?
 - Dancer
 - Miller
 - Small mass
 - "Fill'er up" stuff
 - Supported
 - Spicy stew
 - Racetrack item
 - Free from impurities
 - Tend the turkey
 - Battle memento
 - Biblical weed
 - Sight in Sicily
 - It's left by a criminal
 - Bad day for Caesar
 - Bed part
 - Zeus' wife
 - Fate

- 25 Table scrap
- A—above (better than)
 - Problem for a princess?
 - Dancer
 - Miller
 - Small mass
 - "Fill'er up" stuff
 - Supported
 - Spicy stew
 - Racetrack item
 - Free from impurities
 - Tend the turkey
 - Battle memento
 - Biblical weed
 - Sight in Sicily
 - It's left by a criminal
 - Bad day for Caesar
 - Bed part
 - Zeus' wife
 - Fate

- 26 A—above (better than)
- Problem for a princess?
 - Dancer
 - Miller
 - Small mass
 - "Fill'er up" stuff
 - Supported
 - Spicy stew
 - Racetrack item
 - Free from impurities
 - Tend the turkey
 - Battle memento
 - Biblical weed
 - Sight in Sicily
 - It's left by a criminal
 - Bad day for Caesar
 - Bed part
 - Zeus' wife
 - Fate

- 27 Problem for a princess?
- Dancer
 - Miller
 - Small mass
 - "Fill'er up" stuff
 - Supported
 - Spicy stew
 - Racetrack item
 - Free from impurities
 - Tend the turkey
 - Battle memento
 - Biblical weed
 - Sight in Sicily
 - It's left by a criminal
 - Bad day for Caesar
 - Bed part
 - Zeus' wife
 - Fate

2-11

AHBI YPN TBNH CQVHTG

RIEYQTZXHCN VTB PCI T

XPIN EQPZCIGA RHN

Yesterday's Cryptquip: ABLE, PROFESSIONAL ACUPUNCTURIST, JUST FINISHED SCHOOL, NEEDS A JOB.

Today's Cryptquip clue: C equals S

NEXT to campus—Leasing for fall, across from Haymaker, overlooking campus. Two bedroom, fireplace, central air, carpeting, fully equipped kitchen, balcony, laundry facility, off street parking. 539-2702, evenings, weekends. (88-98)

BRAND NEW three bedroom. One and one-half baths, near campus. Available May, June or August. $480/month. Call 537-8800. (89f)

PLAN FOR the summer and the 1986-87 school year. McCullough Development Inc. is now accepting applications for summer and fall leases. Call us, we manage over 300 university area apartments. 776-3804. (89f)

APARTMENTS FOR next school year and June. Two bedroom, 1212 Thurston, $300. Call 539-5059 evenings. (91-95)

AVAILABLE IMMEDIATELY—Furnished one bedroom apartment, one block from Ahearn. Call 776-9124. (91-108)

NEAR KSU for August—Four to five bedroom house at 312 North 15th Street, $560 per month. Also two bedroom newly remodeled furnished basement apartment. Heat, water, trash paid, laundry facilities. $275 per month. 539-2482 after 4 p.m. (92-96)

BRAND NEW deluxe two, three and four bedroom apartment complexes for fall. All close to campus, reasonably priced. Call 537-2919. (93-115)

NICE ONE, two, three and four bedroom apartments and houses. Also an elegant five bedroom house with three baths. Most near campus, available now, summer and fall. Good prices. Call 537-2919. (93-115)

FOR RENT—HOUSES 05

THREE BEDROOM home, 1523 Fairchild, available now. Call Barbara, 537-1329. (83-98)

HOUSES FOR next school year, three, four, six and eight bedroom. Block west of campus. 539-5059 evenings. (91-95)

SEVERAL THREE, four, and five bedroom houses for June occupancy. Clean and good condition guaranteed. $395 and up. 537-1269. (93f)

FOR SALE—AUTO 06

FOR SALE—1971 Ford Galaxie 500. Good motor and transmission, $200 or best offer. Call Rina at 776-9055 after 5:00 p.m. (95-97)

FOR SALE—MISC 07

OFFICE SUPPLIES—Hull's Business Machines, 715 North 12th, Aggieville, 539-1413. (55f)

GOVERNMENT HOMES from $1 (U repair). Also de-liquent tax property. Call 805-687-6000, ext. GH-9701 for information. (76-97)

30% OFF

All Strings, and DOD Guitar Effects

Hayes House of Music
"We Will Not Be Undersold"

776-7893
223 Poyntz

MACINTOSH MEMORY upgrades $229. 800K external disk drive with exchange $250, without exchange $350. 532-4855. (92-96)

IBM PC Jr., color monitor, 126K parallel interface, includes writing asst. program. $750. 539-1781. (92-98)

GOVERNMENT SURPLUS! Raincoats, overcoats, field jackets, camouflage clothing, sleeping bags, camping gear, much more! St. Marys Surplus Sales, 1-437-2734. (92-101)

Clip and Save
1/4 Pound Hamburger
69¢
The Ritz
Not good with other specials
One burger per coupon
Expires 2-16-86

METAL DESK—39" x 29", stands 28 1/2" tall, with key lock, only $60. Call 539-6711. (94-95)

FOUR PIECE set of Slingerland drums with Zildjian hi-hat and crash. 539-5812. (94-98)

TYPEWRITER RIBBONS: Royal, Brother, Silver Reed, Smith Corona. Hull Business Machines, 715 North 12th in Aggieville. 539-7931. (95-108)

FOUND 10

CHAIN WITH coin attached found in Holton Hall, February 6th. Come to room 102 Holton to identify and claim, or call 532-6432. (94-96)

HELP WANTED 13

GOVERNMENT JOBS. $16,040-$59,230/year. Now hiring. Call 805-687-6000, ext. R-9701 for current federal list. (76-97)

COUPLE FOR Assistant Manager of large apartment complex. Live in, maintenance ability necessary. Send resume to Box 3, Collegian. (76f)

CRUISESHIPS HIRING! $16-30,000. Caribbean, Hawaii, World! Call for Guide, Cassette, Newsletter. (916) 944-4444. Ext. Kansasatecruise. (76-102)

AIRLINE HIRING boom! $14-$30,000! Stewardesses, Reservationists! Call for Guide, Cassette, Newsletter. (916) 944-4444 XUAWS5. (89-108)

SUMMER JOBS. National Park Co.'s. 21 parks, 5,000 openings. Complete information, $5. Park Report, Mission Mtn. Co., 651 2nd Ave. W.N., Kalispell, MT 59901. (89-110)

OVERSEAS JOBS—Summer, year round. Europe, South America, Australia, Asia. All fields. $900-2,000/month. Sightseeing, free information, write J.C. P.O. Box 52-KS-2, Corona Del Mar, Ca, 92625. (91-110)

ADVERTISING SALES: Energetic, intelligent, outgoing sales person needed for daily newspaper, advertising sales department. Neat appearance, good communicator, with an imagination and feel for advertising layout and copy. Good career opportunity for right person. Qualified applicants may send resume to: Michael Heltner, Montgomery Publications, P.O. Box 129, Junction City, Ka. 66441 or call 913-762-5000 for an appointment. (91-100)

STUDENT COMPUTER programming positions available. Should be familiar with at least one of the following languages: Pascal, C or PL/I and able to work 15 to 20 hours per week. We will supply the necessary training in microcomputers. Summer employment is a possibility. For more information contact: Mary Knapp at 532-7019. Applications forms available at Room 211, Umberger Hall. Applications will be accepted through February 14. (95-98)

BIKE MECHANIC—Part-time, experience required. Reply to Box 4, c/o Kansas State Collegian. (95-98)

THE CITY of Manhattan's Parks and Recreation Department is seeking to fill numerous part-time and summer positions. Positions include sports, arts and craft, special population, and swim instructors; scorekeepers, umpires, day camp counselors, lifeguards, pool and concession workers, and park/forestry laborers, qualified theatre director, piano accompanist, vocal coach, puppet, the art staff, set designer and stage, sound and lighting technicians. Applicants should be 16 years old or more. Applications will be taken until positions are filled. 1985 employees are encouraged to re-apply. For full listing of positions and application come to the Personnel Office, City Hall, 11th and Poyntz. EOE M/F/H. (95)

REWARD: WOMEN'S wedding band/engagement ring. Yellow gold with oval-cut diamond. Possibly in Cardwell or Dickens Hall or vicinity. Call Martha 532-6883, or 539-5705 after 5 p.m. (92-95)

LOST—SILVER bracelet, made up of four small serpents braided. Please return. Call 537-8959. (95-96)

HELP! HAVE you seen my HP 15C. If so, please call 539-2354. (95-96)

NOTICES 15

MADRIGRAS Festival! Party at the Union! Be adventurous and sample our Creole and Cajun fare and listen to Dixieland and Rag Time on our player piano! Come to our party February 4-11 in the K-State Union Stairroom. (90-95)

Create the perfect romantic setting.

A trip to Daytona Beach.
Come down to
Brother's
Thursday & Friday
5-7 p.m.
FREE BEER
for all sign-ups
or call Melissa 776-8925 between 6-9 p.m.

PERSONAL 16

BRIAN "SWAMMIE" Sherwood—I hope you have better luck than the Dolphins—Frankenberg and Reigel. (95)

G. PHIL Amy Carter—Congratulations huh, you finally made it! I'm proud of you! Love ya, Karen. (95)

BRUCE AND Pat—Check out the Announcements. Everyone else has been seeing them. Pq. (95)

BECKY T—Happy 21st Birthday. Try not to get too out of hand, but have a great day. Sally. (95)

DEAR TUNA—Happy two year anniversary. Love, Jed. (95)

ROOMMATE WANTED 17

FEMALE ROOMMATE for summer and next school year. Own room, spacious, pool, bike bath. 537-9008. (95-97)

SERVICES 18

MARY KAY Cosmetics—Skin care—glamour products. Free facial call Floris Taylor, 539-2070. Hand capped accessible. (76-95)

PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free pregnancy test. Confidential. Call 537-9180. 103 S. Fourth St., Suite 25. (11f)

MANHATTAN CAMERA repairs cameras and equipment. 228 Poyntz, 776-4240. (41f)

Lawmaker proposes state spending lid

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA — In recent years, the Kansas Legislature has shown it is too irresponsible to control its spending habits and should enact a spending lid on itself to keep from expanding state government, a lawmaker said Monday.

Rep. Dennis Spaniol, R-Wichita, told the House Ways and Means Committee it should endorse a resolution he sponsored which calls for amending the Kansas Constitution to mandate the cap on the spending of tax dollars. Spaniol said the Legislature needs to "get our house in order" and that won't happen without a constitutional gun at its head.

"I don't think the Legislature has done an effective job in recent years matching new spending with the revenue available," Spaniol said. "The Legislature just hasn't shown a lot of fiscal restraint."

"We need to get a handle on spending and restore our ending balances and that's why I introduced this resolution."

The cap in Spaniol's proposed constitutional amendment would tie the increase in state government spending to the annual increase in the federal consumer price index which reflects the rate of inflation nationally. Total spending by the state would be affected, rather than increases in specific areas.

The spending lid would be in effect for three fiscal years at which time the Legislature would study it and decide whether to extend it another four years.

Spaniol's proposed amendment needs two-thirds approval of the Legislature before it could be placed on the November general election ballot for consideration by the Kansas electorate. It needs 84 votes to clear the House and 27 votes in the Senate.

Spaniol acknowledged the constitution already prohibits deficit spending by the Legislature and local governments are regulated by a strict cash-basis law. However, he said a spending lid is still necessary.

"The primary thrust of the amendment is to redirect the budgetary process to force state government to better prioritize its limited resources," Spaniol said. "It is an attempt to limit the power of special interest groups who want to increase without end to the general detriment of all Kansas."

There are two exceptions to the ceiling written into the resolution. The state could exceed the cap only if a federal or court-ordered mandate is issued or on a two-thirds vote of the Legislature.

Rep. George Teagarden, D-LaCygne, said the resolution would allow a minority of lawmakers to impose its will by blocking spending above the cap. And Rep. John Solbach, D-Lawrence, said the resolution would force the state to rob existing appropriations if it wanted to expand in other areas, such as Gov. John Carlin's idea to inject $35 million into economic development this year.

Rep. David Heinemann, R-Garden City, said lawmakers could easily sidestep the spending lid by creating a fund independent of the general revenue fund to handle special appropriations — seriously diminishing the effectiveness of the amendment.

David Litwin, lobbyist for the Kansas Chamber of Commerce and Industry, caught heat from members of the committee for his support of the spending lid. Litwin said the state chamber supports the proposal.

"By allowing growth required by inflation it would not impose an unreasonable straightjacket on government," Litwin said. "Most people would probably agree that the present scale of state government is, on the whole, big enough and that we don't need further growth."

Litwin said the state should consider cutting other areas of the budget if increases and expansion, such as in economic development, are considered important. That comment drew fire from Rep. Bill Wisdom, D-Kansas City, who said he was "disappointed" by the chamber's position.

"I'm very disturbed by your statements," Wisdom said. "You would go and cut other areas and let (the state welfare agency) go down the drain just so KCCI can have its money," Wisdom said. "I'm very disappointed in the chamber. You don't give a damn about the rest of the budget as long as economic development gets money."

Litwin said Wisdom had unfairly characterized his statements.

No action was taken on the proposal.

U.S. air maneuvers increase over Libya

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The United States, stepping up its pressure on Libya once again, has ordered two aircraft carriers back toward the Libyan coastline for another series of air and sea maneuvers, the Pentagon said Monday.

The decision was disclosed through the release of a "Notice of Intent" to conduct flight operations within an area that is overseen by air-traffic controllers in the Libyan capital of Tripoli.

The notice specifies that operations will be conducted by the Coral Sea and Saratoga within the Tripoli flight information region from 7 p.m. EST Tuesday to 7 p.m. EST Friday.

The last such exercise was conducted from Jan. 24-31. Unlike that exercise, the new American maneuvers will occur at the same time that Libyan sea and air forces are conducting an exercise of their own in the area. The two countries also will be operating off Libya's coast at a time when Libyan leader Moammar Khadafy has ordered his air force to intercept civilian Israeli airliners flying over the Mediterranean.

Pentagon sources also disclosed Monday that two Libyan Mig-25's had flown northward from a land base on Sunday toward the approaching American fleet. The Soviet-made jets were spotted on radar and F-14 fighters were sent aloft from the Saratoga to meet them, the sources said.

Before the planes were close enough to establish visual contact, however, the Libyans turned around and headed back for shore, one source added. The Saratoga was more than 100 miles offshore at the time, the source added.

College receives 2,721 slides

By The Collegian Staff

Slides of architectural works from around the world taken by a Manhattan couple will aid educational and research efforts of the College of Architecture and Design.

The college recently received the donation of 2,721 slides from Professor Emeritus Alden Krider and Margaret Krider.

The slides include pre-Columbian architecture and artifacts, state capitols, the complete works of architects Wilem M. Dudok and Walter Burley Griffin, many of the works of Charles Rennie Mackintosh and Sir Christopher Wren, English Tudor architecture and other miscellaneous subjects.

Some of the slides show "excavations, ruins, pyramids and the like, from as far back as the sixth century B.C.," Alden Krider said. "The slides document buildings and other structures in Mexico, Central America and South America through the 1400s."

Mark Lapping, dean of the College of Architecture and Design, said, "Slides of this quality and attention to detail cannot be obtained from commercial sources, thus greatly enhancing the college's historical and theoretical resources."

Perhaps the most unusual aspect of the collection is every slide was taken personally by the Kriders on their travels around the United States and other countries, "even as far away as Australia," said Carolyn Pretzer, director of audio visual aids. "The college slide collection has been greatly enhanced by this generous donation."

Alden Krider joined the faculty in 1949 and retired in 1977 after 28 years of teaching. Margaret Krider is a graduate of the architecture college and was the first librarian of the Weigel Library on the third floor of Seaton Hall. Weigel is a branch of Farrell Library and contains all the books and other materials pertaining to architecture and design.

The slides are cataloged and arranged in such a way that inserting them into the audio-visual library in Seaton will be "relatively easy," Pretzer said. "All that must be done is to make duplicates and enter the (catalog) information on the computer disk."

Buy, Sell or Trade
in Collegian Classifieds

THE CLOCKS WED. $2.00 PITCHERS TUES.

Ash Wednesday Services
February 12
7:00 a.m.
St. Francis House
1402 LeGore Lane
12:10 p.m.
Danforth Chapel
5:15 p.m.
St. Francis House

St. Francis at KSU
The Episcopal
Campus Ministry
537-0593

You'll Pocket Big Savings With These Coupon Specials . . .

COUPON

All Varieties Our Label

Limit 2 Gallons

Gallon MILK

99¢

COUPON

5 LB. Chub Pack

Ground BEEF

79¢ LB.

Manhattan Store Only Coupon Effective Thru Feb. 17

Manhattan Store Only Coupon Effective Thru Feb. 17

401 East Poyntz
Manhattan, Kansas

No Dealers Please

Store Hours: Open Monday thru Saturday 8 AM — 9 PM Sunday 9 AM — 7 PM

We Reserve The Right To Limit Quantities

Weather

Mostly Sunny

Mostly sunny and not as cold today, high 20 to 25. Wind south to southwest 10 to 20 mph. Mostly clear and not as cold tonight, low near 10.

Vote Today

Remember to cast your Student Governing Association ballot from 7:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. today in the Stateroom Level of the Union.

Sport

Ice Time

Three years ago the Manhattan Hockey Club moved off the street and in to the rink. See Page 9.

Kansas
State

Collegian

Wednesday
February 12, 1986

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 92, Number 96

Reagan says U.S. takes neutral stand in Filipino election

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — President Reagan said Tuesday night the United States is neutral in the bitter Philippines presidential election, and announced plans to send veteran U.S. diplomat Philip Habib to Manila to "help nurture the hopes and possibilities of democracy."

"We're neutral, and we then hope to have the same relationship with the people of the Philippines that we've had all these years," the president said at a nationally televised news conference.

In a written statement distributed moments before he stepped before White House reporters, Reagan said he found it disturbing that the election had been "flawed by reports of fraud, which we take seriously, and by violence."

In his statement, Reagan said he was sending Habib to meet with leaders of both political parties as well as with church and government officials and representatives of private sector groups.

Reagan added that the administration is concerned "about the violence that was evident there and the possibility of fraud. It could have been all of that was occurring on both sides."

Reagan said he would have no other comment on the election until the ballot count was finished.

Reagan's session with reporters was his first in five weeks and the 34th of his presidency. It was a session dominated from the outset by foreign policy questions.

Asked about the release earlier in the day of Soviet dissident Anatoly Shcharansky, Reagan said he "talked at great length about human rights" with Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev at their summit last November. Reagan said he thought there had been an increase in such emigrations since then, and added, "I hope that this is a beginning sign of what's going to take place."

On another foreign policy issue, the president said the United States' only involvement in the downfall of Haitian President-for-Life Jean Claude Duvalier was in "providing an airplane" to fly him into exile in France. He said Duvalier did not seek advice about his departure, and the United States offered none.

Reagan sidestepped a question of whether the United States would resume aid to Haiti, suspended because of human rights abuses under the Duvalier regime. "We hope we can be of help" in restoration of democracy under the new ruling junta, he said.

The president opened his news conference with a pitch for his 1987 fiscal year budget, and took note of critics who say it is "DOA—dead on arrival." He said those critics only want a tax increase to reduce deficits — and said any such increase would be "VOA — vetoed on arrival."

Reagan's comments on the Philippines came with the outcome of the election between President Ferdinand Marcos and challenger Corazon Aquino still in doubt several days after the balloting closed. Each side has claimed victory, and the Marcos-controlled National Assembly is preparing a final, official canvass.

Professor says election in Philippines corrupt

By TOM SCHULTES
Business/Government Editor

The citizens of the Philippines may have seen their last election Friday, said an associate professor of political science.

Linda Richter, who has appeared before the House Foreign Affairs Committee on foreign aid to the Philippines in 1983 and last March, said while not all of the ballots are in from last Friday's presidential election, there is little doubt as to whom will be ratified as president.

Because the government is "a creature" of President Ferdinand Marcos, she said, he can change the rules to meet any situation.

Although the National Assembly was to officially begin counting votes Monday, the legislative body adjourned without formal action.

Corazon Aquino, in a strong challenge to Marcos, was shown with a slight lead as tabulated by the watchdog National Citizens Movement for Free Elections with 5,566,319 votes against 4,806,166 for Marcos.

"Their constitution was ratified by a show of hands," Richter said, noting the influence of Marcos over governmental policy. "It's an exercise of creative writing."

Although past elections in the Philippines have had their share of corruption, Richter said no president of the country had ever been re-elected until Marcos in 1969.

"That was the last (election) even remotely open," Richter said. "Whatever (election) procedures they go through are his."

"We may have seen the last election," she said.

Richter said the emphasis in recent years concerning foreign relations was with Central America, at the expense of seeing problems in the Philippines.

"(President) Reagan has never understood the situation in the Philippines very well," she said.

Richter said the president is "in a really difficult situation" because of his traditional support for the Marcos regime.

Reagan's relationship with the ruling family goes back to the early 1970s, when he was governor of California, Richter said. In 1970, she said, the Marcos family was under-

See RICHTER, Page 16

Staff/Jeff Taylor
Globetrotter Harold Hubbard catches a ball on the back of his neck during a juggling act.

ABOVE: The Harlem Globetrotters ham it up along the baseline of the basketball court during their performance Tuesday in Ahearn Field House. BELOW: Aaron Pursley, 8, of Manhattan, laughs as "Sweet Lou" Dunbar prays for him to make a free throw on his fifth attempt.

By JANEL BERROTH
Collegian Reporter

Although Harlem Globetrotter Lou Dunbar failed to convert on numerous half-court shots, Dunbar and the rest of the team succeeded in entertaining more than 7,200 cheering fans last night in Ahearn Field House.

Dunbar, better known as "Sweet Lou" — the court jester of basketball — and the rest of the Globetrotters invaded Ahearn to the delight of young and old.

To the tune of "Sweet Georgia Brown" the Globetrotters dazzled the spectators while performing their famous "weave," complete with elbow, knee and leg passing, climaxing their stunts with a slam dunk or a nice, easy lay-up.

Fans were thoroughly entertained with the exhibition except for a few unfortunate victims of Dunbar's pranks.

Shecky Stanley, senior in management, arrived after the game had begun against the Washington Generals, the team that travels with the Globetrotters. While fighting the crowd to reach her seat, Dunbar spotted her walking across the floor and accused her of leaving for the restroom. Stanley stood on the sidelines until halftime, too embarrassed to attempt the journey to her seat.

Then Dunbar captured attention at half-court with the purse of

See TROTTERS, Page 16

Staff/Jeff Taylor

Rocket booster safe, official says

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — A NASA official told a presidential commission Tuesday that the sealing design for the space shuttle's rocket boosters was deemed "safe and adequate," but that after recent ground testing and minor cases of past-flight erosion, "we felt like it could be improved."

"Was it safe to fly?" asked commissioner Neil Armstrong. "It was," testified NASA's David Winterhalter.

During the second day of public testimony on the Jan. 28 explosion that destroyed Challenger and killed its seven-member crew, the investigating panel focused on whether NASA had prior warning of a problem with the design and material that joined the four segments of its rocket boosters.

Photographs of the disaster showed a flame apparently emerging from the area around one of the seams on the right-rocket booster.

Despite the emphasis on whether the seals were properly assessed by NASA, commission and agency officials both said the probe into Challenger's explosion was not focused exclusively on the boosters.

The commissioners returned to concern that cold Florida weather might have been a factor in the explosion and one NASA official said that the agency still doesn't know if the flame was "a cause or an effect."

Winterhalter, acting director of NASA's shuttle propulsion group, told the panel that NASA engineers were not satisfied "with the safety margins" they found on testing of the seals, adding, "We're always striving to make things perfect."

He said tests were conducted during most of 1985 to determine what changes could be made to the seals and that the testing "intensified as the year went on."

Acker calls publicity unfortunate

By TIM CARPENTER
Editorial Page Editor

Publication of the names of the nine semifinal candidates for the University presidency is an unfortunate development, but should be viewed positively because the individuals identified have a strong commitment to academic excellence, President Duane Acker said Tuesday.

"It is unfortunate. All of the candidates are excellent people. I'm familiar with most of them and they are quality people. It should be reassuring to the University that there will be continued emphasis on quality faculty...and the academic freedom K-State is known for,"

Acker said during a news conference.

Donald Rathbone, dean of the College of Engineering, two university presidents and a chancellor of a state university system are reported to be among the semifinalists. The remainder of the candidates are either provosts, vice presidents or deans.

Acker announced two campus building projects — Weber Hall renovation and the proposed chemistry/biochemistry building — are proceeding as planned.

In March, some faculty occupying offices in Weber will be temporarily relocated to Call and Moore halls.

A portion of Weber will be unusable during the $6.5 million renovation, which is primarily an interior renovation, but includes construction of an addition for research laboratories.

Acker said final plans and specifications for the $10 million chemistry/biochemistry building, to be located south of King Hall, will be presented to the Board of Regents in March. The University will request the regents grant K-State authority to seek bids on the project.

Funding for the two-phase project will come from the state. The Legislature appropriated funds to be allocated during the next three years to cover the cost of the building. Two-thirds of the structure will belong to the Department of Chemistry and the remaining portion to the Department of Biochemistry.

Briefly

INTERNATIONAL

Fire delays British radio newscast

LONDON — A fire in the basement of the London headquarters of the British Broadcasting Corp.'s domestic radio service knocked the BBC's main late night radio newscast off the air for 11 minutes.

The BBC said the blaze at Broadcasting House broke out a few minutes before the Monday night news was due to go on the air. The main part of the building was evacuated, and listeners heard recorded music until the news staff moved to another studio and began broadcasting.

Firefighters swiftly brought the fire under control and said damage was slight. The BBC said the cause of the blaze was not yet known.

BBC World Service radio programs, which are broadcast from Bush House in another part of London, and BBC television programs were not affected.

Housewife wins race, receives kiss

OLNEY, England — A surefooted 29-year-old housewife came from behind to win the British leg of the International Pancake Race Tuesday in 65 seconds, edging out last year's winner, who slipped and fell on the snow-slickened street.

Elizabeth Bartlett's winning time, one second off last year's pace, was being challenged six hours later by competitors in Liberal, Kan. Bartlett, frying pan firmly in her grasp, outpaced 20 other women, all wearing the traditional garb of skirt, apron and head scarf, on the 415-yard run from Olney's market square to its 14th-century church.

Last year's trans-Atlantic winner, Sally Swale, 19, led until near the end of the race, when she lost her footing and fell on the S-shaped course, made icy by melting snow. She was unhurt.

Bartlett, a mother of two, received her prize of a kiss from town Verger Clive Coverley, a ceremonial official, while she was still breathless from the run.

REGIONAL

Firefighters discover body in shed

LAWRENCE — A body found after a fire in a shed northwest of Lawrence early Tuesday has been identified as that of Ron Dahl, 46, of rural Tecumseh, Douglas County Sheriff Rex Johnson said.

Lecompton firefighters found the body after putting out the blaze in the shed on Dahl's property, located about half a mile northeast of Big Springs.

The sheriff said Dahl used the metal shed in his tree service business and that there were a number of chemicals stored inside. He said investigators believe there was an explosion and fire, but that they do not know the cause or which came first.

Illegal aliens agree to deportation

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Fifty illegal aliens arrested in a raid on a tavern in Garden City, Kan., Sunday have agreed to voluntary deportation to Mexico, the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service said Monday.

Ron Sanders, district director, said 52 illegal aliens were arrested Sunday morning by officers from city, county and state agencies, as well as the immigration service. Two of the aliens were held on criminal charges.

Garden City, a southwest Kansas city of about 20,000, traditionally has attracted large numbers of illegal aliens because of available agriculture and meatpacking jobs, Sanders said.

"Once illegal aliens go to that area and get jobs, the feeling is basically that they're home free," he said.

NATIONAL

Taverns promote 'Unhappy Hour'

CONCORD, N.H. — "Happy Hour" became a time for imbibers to cry in their beer rather than unwind Tuesday when about 400 New Hampshire restaurant and bar owners staged an "Unhappy Hour," charging from $14 for a beer to $32 per martini.

Operators were trying to dramatize and gather support against skyrocketing increases in their premiums for liability insurance. Rates have soared nationally because of increased litigation and jury awards in liability cases, and one Keene bar owner said much of that was due to drunken drivers.

Bar owner Dewey Mark said the participating tavern operators would discount prices back to normal for patrons who joined the protest and signed postcards urging the insurance commissioner, governor and state lawmakers to back legislation limiting personal injury awards to $250,000 in an effort to hold down rates.

The establishments raised prices for drinks by the same percentage their liability insurance rates have risen — 2,000 percent in some cases.

At Mark's restaurants in the resort towns of Gilford and Glenn, a beer was $14 during "Unhappy Hour"; a martini, $32; a snifter of fine brandy, $40 plus. A shot and a beer could mean a bill of $45.

Mark, who runs B. Mae Denny's in Gilford and the Red Parka Pub in Glenn, said he expected to collect about 30,000 postcards statewide during the "Unhappy Hour" from patrons who would rather sign their name than pay the high prices.

Law allows drug, alcohol testing

WASHINGTON — A federal regulation allowing railroad supervisors to test employees for drugs or alcohol if impairment is suspected became official this week despite protests by unions representing railroad workers.

The regulation also for the first time prohibits railroad workers from reporting to work under the influence of alcohol or drugs or consume alcohol or drugs while on duty.

The National Transportation Safety Board recommended 12 years ago that such regulations be enacted because of the frequent link of alcohol or drug use to railroad accidents.

The Transportation Department announced the new regulations last year and had sought to impose them last November. But the rules were challenged in the courts by the rail unions. An appeals court set aside the regulations, but the Supreme Court sided with the government and let the rules stand.

PEOPLE

Teen heart recipient meets Reagan

WASHINGTON — Donna Ashlock, the 14-year-old California girl who received the heart of her friend and classmate, Felipe Garza, met President Reagan on Tuesday and said he was taller than she had expected.

"I thought he was shorter," Ashlock said, shivering in front of microphones outside the White House after her brief Oval Office visit.

She emerged from the meeting with two presents, one a jar of presidential jelly beans and the other a surprise from Nancy Reagan, which Ashlock had not opened yet.

Asked how she would describe the meeting to her friends at home, she said, "They missed out."

Ashlock, on her first trip away from home since her surgery in January, is in Washington to serve as the Belle of the Ball at a St. Valentine's Day gala on Friday for the benefit of the American Heart Association.

Campus Bulletin

ANNOUNCEMENTS

INDUSTRIAL ENGINEERS who have not voted in class for the Sts. Pat and Patricia nominees may do so in the industrial engineering office today.

STEEL RING: There will be an engineering freshmen and sophomore design contest April 2. More information is available in Durland 142.

CHIMES: Applications are available in the Union Activities Center and are due at 5 p.m. Feb. 21.

MEN who are struggling with issues of sexual preference: A confidential support group is forming. For more information, contact Dr. Martin or Dr. Angle at the Counseling Center, 532-6927.

CAREER PLANNING AND PLACEMENT is distributing second semester interview visit lists and has registration forms available for 1986 graduates permitting participation in on-campus interviews.

DELTA DELTA DELTA: Applications for women's undergraduate scholarships are available in the financial aid office or at the Delta Delta Delta house and are due March 1.

ALTERNATIVE MUSIC BRIGADE: All contributions to the next issue of the AMB-SIDE are due by 5 p.m. Feb. 20 in the mailbox in the Union Activities Office.

TODAY

CHRISTIAN EDUCATORS meet at noon at the International Campus Center.

THURSDAY

PRE-VET CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in Veterinary Medical Teaching 201.

OMICRON NU meets at 7 p.m. in Justin 115.

LAMBDA CHI ALPHA meets at 9 p.m. in the Lambda Chi Alpha living room.

AMERICAN INSTITUTE OF CHEMICAL ENGINEERS meets at 1:30 p.m. in Ackert 120.

PRE-PHYSICAL THERAPY CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in Union 204.

PARACHUTE CLUB will have an informational meeting at 7 p.m. in Union 206. A general meeting will follow at 8 p.m.

Looking Back

20 Years Ago — 1966

The Manhattan Planning Board will discuss the zoning of the Endowment Association Child Research Development School to be located on K-State property. Currently, the planned site for the facility is north of Claflin Road and west of McCain Lane.

15 Years Ago — 1971

The third annual Black Awareness Week, presented by the Black Student Union is scheduled to begin this weekend with a coffeehouse at the Douglass Center.

Two warrants were issued for the attempted murder of Riley County Sheriff Wayne Anderson. Anderson was on his way to investigate a burglary alarm when his car was passed at high speed. In the chase which followed, shots were fired at Anderson from the car.

10 Years Ago — 1976

About 20 Manhattan residents appeared at City Hall to help officials determine how the city should spend $992,000 in federal funds allocated for community development. The money, granted to the city through the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974, is funding for the second year of a five-year program.

5 Years Ago — 1981

The importance of polls in defining public opinion was the topic of George Gallup Jr.'s Landon Lecture. A crowd of about 1,000 attended the speech.

Candidates David Lehman, junior in agricultural economics, and Angela Scanlan, junior in agricultural journalism, will vie in next week's runoff election for student body president.

Compiled from the University Archives

ELECT

Leslye Schneider

Arts & Sciences Senator

—She'll work

for you—

Paid for by students for Schneider

DIET AND EXERCISE: The Winning Combination

THURSDAY

Feb. 13

7:00-8:00 p.m.

in

UMBERGER AUDITORIUM

A FREE program sponsored by Recreational Services

BALLARD'S + ARENA =
SPRING BREAK

Ballard's
In Aggieville

M-S 8:30-5:30
Thurs. 8:30-8:30

BE THE BEST!

ARTS AND SCIENCES COUNCIL
ELECTION APPLICATIONS
AVAILABLE IN THE
SGA OFFICE AND DEAN'S OFFICE

APPLICATIONS DUE
5 p.m. FEB 17th
JOIN THE COUNCIL!

INFORMED Re-elect
Brett
Bromich
Business
Senator
EXPERIENCED

Paid for by students to re-elect Brett Bromich

THE ECONOMICS CLUB
PROUDLY PRESENTS THE ARRIVAL OF...

OMICRON DELTA EPSILON
ECONOMICS HONORARY

Requirements: 3.0 G.P.A.

12 Hours of

Economics

Applications are available in Room 327 Waters Hall and are due Feb. 19 at 5 p.m.

South of the border party Tonight!

$1.25 favorite Mexican beer
$1.00 Tequila

All other well drinks
$1.50: wine $1.00: 80¢ draws

1315 Laramie

2nd Anniversary Celebration

Thursday, Feb. 13

$2.25 Pitchers (All Day)
OVER 200 PRIZES

for Table Drawing & Door Prizes
- Prizes Include -

34 Jointed Cues (24 of them jointed Budweiser Cues) Tombstone Pizzas, Signs, Glasses, Hostess
Fast Eddy's Cups and many more goodies.

Drawing starts at 7 p.m.
till close

Bill could save farm homes from foreclosure

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA — A bill introduced in the Kansas House Tuesday would enact State Treasurer Joan Finney's proposed program to help farmers save the quarter-section of land on which their homes are located from foreclosure proceedings.

The so-called "home quarter" plan would use about $500,000 in interest generated by the state unclaimed property fund to buy down mortgage interest rates on the farm home and the surrounding 160 acres.

In addition, the plan calls for formation of a five-member board, appointed by legislative leaders and the governor, that would negotiate between farmers who are in danger of foreclosure and lenders who hold mortgages on the home quarter.

The sponsor of the bill, Rep. Don Rezac, D-Onaga, said the board would negotiate the settlements before foreclosure proceedings begin, during the foreclosure process and even after the land has been sold at a sheriff's sale.

"This bill is something that has real possibilities because we have to keep these farm families out on their land," said Rezac, who added that he hopes the farmers would then be able to hold out for better times and support themselves through off-farm jobs.

Steve Hirsch, an administrative assistant for Finney, said a similar proposal is being considered in the Senate and Rezac's bill would provide a mechanism for the legislation in case the Senate measure is rejected.

Another bill introduced in the House Tuesday — the next to last day before the deadline for individual lawmakers to introduce bills — would add butyl nitrate to the list of controlled substances in Kansas.

Also introduced were a pair of bills that would require attorneys in the state to purchase liability insurance. Littlejohn said he introduced the proposals at the request of a group of physicians in his district.

One bill would require attorneys, as a condition of licensure, to purchase liability policies with a minimum coverage of $3 million per claim. The other would require attorneys to purchase policies with a minimum coverage of $200,000 per claim, as a condition for "rendering professional services."

Other bills introduced Tuesday would:

— Authorize cities and counties to pass ordinances prohibiting or regulating "any animal or any breed of animal of dangerous or vicious propensities."

— Extend the expiration date of all hunting and fishing licenses issued by the Kansas Fish and Game Commission from Dec. 31 to Feb. 1 of each year.

— Increase penalties merchants can assess to people who write worthless checks. The bill would make the maximum legal penalty three times the face value of the check up to a maximum of $500. However, the bill would require merchants to impose a $100 minimum penalty charge, plus mailing expenses.

Senate honors singer for farm relief efforts

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA — The Kansas Senate took a moment Tuesday to honor rock'n'roll star John Cougar Mellencamp for his efforts to aid financially strapped farmers and raise the awareness nationwide of the plight of rural Americans.

The upper chamber adopted by unanimous voice vote a resolution applauding Mellencamp, who was scheduled to perform Tuesday night at a concert in Kansas City, Mo.

"John Cougar Mellencamp has had a strong influence in informing Americans about life in rural America through his songs 'Rain on the Scarecrow,' 'Small Town,' 'Little Pink Houses,' and 'Lonely Ol' Nights,'" the resolution said.

The resolution, sponsored by Sen.

Richard Gannon, D-Goodland and four other Democrats, praised Mellencamp for using his position of influence of millions of younger Americans about farm troubles.

"Americans have become more knowledgeable about the plight of the farmer through the actions of John Cougar Mellencamp. (He) was a co-organizer of FarmAid, was involved in the planning and success of the concert as well as the subsequent fundraising."

Mellencamp, who was raised in rural Indiana and still makes his home there despite his huge commercial success, was a moving force behind the FarmAid concert last year which raised millions of dollars for economically depressed farmers and brought public attention to the growing farm crisis.

13 candidates drop from election

By The Collegian Staff

There are 13 candidates whose names do not appear on the ballot for Student Senate because they failed to meet Monday's 5 p.m. expenditure report deadline.

Candidates were required to turn in a campaign expenditure report detailing their campaign expenses to the Student Government Services office.

Students whose names will not appear on the ballot are:

The College of Agriculture — Bernard Boller, junior in animal sciences and industry.

The College of Arts and Sciences — Scott Carmichael, sophomore in psychology; Dave Wagner, sophomore in journalism and mass communications; Gretchen Hagen, senior in history; Gary Haulmark, freshman in political science; and Tom Lally, junior in political science.

The College of Business Administration — Michael Hadlock, sophomore in finance.

The College of Education — Angie Smith, sophomore in secondary education; Sherry D. Smith, junior in secondary education; and Lorie Phillips, junior in elementary education.

The College of Engineering — Jennifer Johnson, freshman in industrial engineering; Sammy Kayara and Hilary Walker, juniors in electrical engineering.

College of Veterinary Medicine — Duane A. Belote, junior in veterinary medicine, has withdrawn his name from the ballot.

More than 1,700 students voted Tuesday. Voting ends today. Polls are open 7:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. in the Stateroom level of the Union. Students may vote in the Veterinary Medicine Complex between 11 a.m. and 1 p.m.

Intern speaks on AIDS education

By The Collegian Staff

Education about Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome and confidentiality for victims were concerns expressed by Jeff Martin, intern psychologist at Lafene Mental Health Center, Tuesday evening in Putnam Hall during a session on "The Truth About AIDS."

Martin participated in the program as part of the Human Sexuality Awareness Week sponsored by KSU Association of Residence Halls.

AIDS is "characterized by a defect in one's natural immunity system or a malfunction in the body cells," he said.

The idea that once someone contracts the AIDS virus they have the disease is not true, Martin said. A person may be a carrier and not have the disease.

"Only a small percentage (of people) goes on to develop the disease," Martin said.

The AIDS hysteria caused by the media, rumors and misinformation concerns Martin, who said he wants to educate people about the possibility of contraction and transmission of AIDS.

Homosexual or bisexual men have comprised the largest percentage of carriers, while women have a very low percentage, he said.

MANHATTAN SHOE REPAIR

25% OFF
RUBBER OVERSHOES IN STOCK
DURING THE MONTH OF
FEBRUARY

Open daily 8-5:30, Saturday 8-4
Open Thursdays to 8
Drive-Up Convenience

Love is . . .
seeing eye to eye

See us for all your regular eye care and contact lens eye care.

Soft Contact Lenses Are Available...

- ♥ Tinted (To accent or change the color of your eyes)
- ♥ Extended Wear (To sleep with, even for astigmatism)
- ♥ Bifocal (for reading difficulties)
- ♥ Regular Type (For near and far sightedness)
- ♥ Toric (For astigmatism)
- ♥ Oxygen Permeable (Rigid)

Ask us about our cosmetics for contact lens wearers.

NEW

Tinted extended Wear Lenses Available
Payment Plans Available
Most types of contact lenses available same day.

Dr. Paul E. Bullock &
Dr. Brian J. Horsch
Practice of Optometry

Prof. Bldg.
776-9461 404 Humboldt
Toll Free 1-800-432-0036
Manhattan, KS

NEW AT HAIR DIMENSIONS

These experienced stylists, Kathy and Cheryl, will be glad to see you for those new Spring Styles. They join our staff to give the best in hair care.

Hair Dimensions

717 N. 11th-Nautilus Towers

539-8920

Enjoy Our Tanning Salon Also!

VOTE TODAY PATTY HIPSHER

for
Student Body President

- Responsible
- Responsive
- Working for
YOU

Students for Educational Awareness

DUERFELDT'S JEWELRY

Feb. 1 thru Feb. 14

VALENTINE SPECIALS

DIAMOND EARRINGS
	.04 tw.	$64 ⁰⁰	$38 ⁹⁹
	.07 tw.	$98 ⁰⁰	$54 ⁰⁰
.16 tw.	$199 ⁰⁰	$117 ⁰⁰	.19 tw. $248 ⁰⁰ $147 ⁶⁰
1/4 tw.	$273 ⁰⁰	$163 ⁰⁰	.31 tw. $269 ⁰⁰ $221 ⁴⁰
.42 tw.	$545 ⁰⁰	$387 ⁰⁰	.48 tw. $735 ⁰⁰ $441 ⁰⁰
PLUS MANY MORE

DIAMONDS
FOR YOUR Valentine

DIAMOND PENDANTS
	.04 ct.	$57 ⁰⁰	$34 ²⁰
	.10 ct.	$129 ⁰⁰	$81 ⁰⁰
	.15 ct.	$188 ⁰⁰	$118 ⁸⁰
.22 ct.	$275 ⁰⁰	$225 ⁰⁰	.33 ct. $271 ⁰⁰ $462 ⁰⁰
.42 ct.	$275 ⁰⁰	$765 ⁰⁰	.80 ct. $284 ⁰⁰ $1584 ⁰⁰
PLUS MANY MORE

Mounted & UnMounted Diamonds

.20 ct.	$360 ⁰⁰	$216 ⁰⁰	.20 ct.	$308 ⁰⁰	$180 ⁰⁰
.25 ct.	$600 ⁰⁰	$360 ⁰⁰	.27 ct.	$486 ⁰⁰	$291 ⁶⁰
.32 ct.	$672 ⁰⁰	$403 ²⁰	.33 ct.	$693 ⁰⁰	$415 ⁸⁰
.46 ct.	$1794 ⁰⁰	$1076 ⁴⁰	.43 ct.	$1032 ⁰⁰	$619 ²⁰
.61 ct.	$2183 ⁰⁰	$1261 ⁸⁰	.82 ct.	$3444 ⁰⁰	$2066 ⁴⁰
1.02 ct.	$4485 ⁰⁰	$2691 ⁰⁰	1.37 ct.	$6575 ⁰⁰	$3945 ⁶⁰
		1.01 ct. $2100 ⁰⁰			$1149 ⁸⁰
PLUS MANY MORE

14 Kt. Gold Add-A-Beads

3 mm	4 mm	5 mm	6 mm	7 mm	8 mm
78¢	39¢	11¢	67¢	120¢	113¢
120¢	141¢	140¢	104¢	170¢	134¢

Bulova Pulsar Caravelle
Watches

20% off
& More

LARGE SELECTION LADIES & MENS DIAMOND RINGS up to 40% off

14 K
Chain
&
Bracelets

50% off

50% off

Cash Charge
Lay-a-way
Visa MC
Am Express
All Merchandise
Subject to Prior Sale

315 POYNTZ AVE. MANHATTAN

Mon.-Sat.
9:30-5:30
Thurs.
9:30-8:30

PHONE Friendship Tutoring Big Lakes Development Center U-Learn

Volunteers Day

Feb. 13

Thurs.

1ST FLOOR OF UNION 10am-2pm

to recognize

volunteers of these agencies

UFM St. Mary's Crisis Center Manhattan Emergency Shelter

Student Government Red Cross
Big Brothers/Big Sisters

Volunteer Clearing House Women's Resource Center

Editor: David Svoboda
Associate Editor: Lillian Zier
News Editor: Patty Reinert
Managing Editor: Jeri Heidrick

Editorial Page Editor: Tim Carpenter
Photo/Graphics Editor: Chris Stewart
Advertising Manager: Lori Wong
Director/News Adviser: Dave Adams

Editorial Board: David Svoboda, Tim Carpenter, Melissa Brune, Rich Harris, Jeri Heidrick, Steve Milligan, Patty Reinert, Vicki Reynolds, Eric Rhodenbaugh, Tammy Rickerson, Catherine Saylor, Tom Schultes, Richard Thorp, Jonie Trued, Lillian Zier.

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 820) is published by Student Publications, Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods. OFFICES are in the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 532-6555. Newsroom phone number is 532-4556; display advertising, 532-4560; and classified advertising 532-6555. SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: $40, calendar year; $35, academic year; $20, semester; $10, summer term. Address changes should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

Reagan should clarify intent of budget cuts

Those who heard President Reagan's State of the Union address last Tuesday may have seen the president as pro-family, pro-education and pro-youth.

But the next day, when Reagan's proposed reductions in federal spending became known, it became clear that actions are much more powerful than words.

Reagan's 1987 budget calls for cuts in social services and welfare programs which are likely to have the hardest impact upon the people he claimed a willingness to support in his annual message to Congress.

Spending on child-nutrition programs would be cut by $704 million next year. Aid to Families with Dependent Children would decline from $9.7 billion this year to $8.9 billion next year. Food stamp subsidies would be reduced from $12.6 billion this year to $12.3 billion next year.

In keeping with the president's lack of commitment to education, student loans would drop from $3.2 billion to $2.5 billion this year and to $1.5 billion in 1991.

According to an analysis prepared by the Center on Budget and Policy Priorities, black families tend to be beneficiaries of many of the programs facing cuts. Twenty-four percent of those using legal services are black, and blacks make up 37 percent of those receiving food stamps.

Forty-five percent of those provided assistance through the Aid to Families with Dependent Children program are black, as well as 45 percent of youths involved in Job Corps — the inner-city job training program for unemployed youths.

The question is not whether, but where budget cuts should be made. It is a matter of priorities. The president should make certain his public statements coincide with his budget recommendations.

Patty Reinert,
for the editorial board

Stringent happy hour proposal unnecessary

Kansas lawmakers should give up legislating the drinking habits of state residents. The more rules that exist, the more rules there are to break.

A House committee is discussing revision of the law which bans happy hours. Under current legislation, no club or tavern can change its drink prices more than once a day, offer free drinks except with meals, serve more than two drinks to one person at one time, hold drinking contests or award drinks as prizes.

Obviously, more loopholes exist than on a millionaire's tax return.

However, rather than scrapping an archaic law reminiscent of the days of prohibition, the committee is considering tightening the happy hour ban.

The new legislation would allow price changes only once a week and prohibit sale of a drink below its acquisition price.

What difference will it really make? None, whatsoever. The price of a drink has never stopped an alcoholic yet. Nor will additional rules prevent clubs and taverns from simply encouraging business.

Legislators have already infringed on the rights of adults between the ages of 18 and 21. Further regulation will only hurt the business of clubs that comply with existing laws and make things more complicated for those that don't.

Lillian Zier
for the editorial board

Final day for voting

Today is the final day to vote in the Student Governing Association election. Forty-six senators, four student representatives for the Board of Student Publications and — most likely — the two finalists for the student body presidency will be chosen.

The importance of student elections has been underscored by many of the candidates. Words like "problem" and "change" are often mentioned in discussions of the proposed Fred Brame Coliseum, Farrell Library and retention and recruitment.

Students can make a difference. By voting, students can send a message to those who turn the wheels of power and influence the University's decision-making process.

Tim Carpenter,
editorial page editor

Editorial

Wednesday, February 12, 1986 — 4

Business interests darken holidays

The Valentine's Day season is in full swing.

Full-page advertisements plastered with red hearts offer bargains on passionate perfume, haughty hoisery and flaming-red lingerie. There are so-called discounts on balloons that have cutesy-poo sayings like "Come cuddle with me" or "Be mine, Valentine," while cards promise eternal love to family members and beaux.

If your sweetheart has a sweet tooth, the stores have boxes of chocolates, plastic hearts filled with chocolates, solid chocolate hearts, hollow chocolate hearts, creme-filled hearts and marshmallow hearts. Retailers sell everything from hard, itty-bitsy candy hearts that could crack a molar to gumdrop hearts that could pull out your teeth to cinnamon hearts for every red-hot lover.

For people who like scents and can afford them, florists grow red, white, red-and-white and pink carnations. Also available are long-stemmed roses, rosebuds, white roses, red roses and the ever popular selection of a dozen roses.

And don't forget the coupons for bargain meals at the local hamburger house. You and your valentine can share a romantic candlelight dinner of over-grilled cheeseburgers, greasy french fries and sodas.

Since consumers are so generous with their pocketbooks, retailers take advantage of the holiday atmosphere and make everything a "special." Beer, hair cuts,

SUSAN D. BAIRD
Collegian
Columnist

potted plants, eye glasses, tanning sessions — every item is a bargain when retailers want you to send the very best.

Take Christmas, for example. Christmas means "commercialization" in business lingo. The original message of "Peace on earth, good will toward men" got lost in all the wrapping paper.

This gift-giving time of good will and good cheer is the bonanza season for every tinsel maker and lightbulb manufacturer in the country. Plastic nativity scenes, stuffed Santa Clauses that laugh when you poke their stomach, rolls of wrapping paper and sacks of bows adorn the shelves.

Television screens are filled with advertisements for the perfect set of cookware for Mom, the newest Barbie doll for Sister Susy or the best set of fishing gear for Dad. Products you never knew existed have suddenly become necessities.

Another favorite target day of entrepreneurs is Easter. "Jesus Christ is risen today" doesn't have the same meaning when you think of the Easter Bunny bouncing over a flowerpot of Easter lilies.

Consumers can satisfy their sweet tooth with Marshmallow Peeps (sugar-coated marshmallow chicks), chocolate eggs with candy yolks and malted milk balls disguised as hens' eggs. And don't forget about the challenge of using the commercial dyes for Easter eggs.

Labor Day is a favorite day for the travel industry, while grocers are fond of Thanksgiving. Two days that are popular with florists are Mother's Day and Secretaries Day. In fact, my little Hallmark date book says there are eight declared holidays and 34 special days that profiteers hope consumers remember.

Each day marked on the calendar was put there for a reason. The problem is that many Americans have forgotten what that purpose was. Now every holiday has more material value than anything else.

The next time you stuff a stocking full of toys, color Easter eggs or buy a box of chocolates for your sweetheart, think about why you're giving, not what you're giving.

ANYONE MAY submit a guest column offering an opinion on a topic of public interest. Columns should be about two double-spaced pages.

Child care vital to student-parent

As a student-parent, child care has been a critical concern for me during my graduate studies. Two years ago, after the birth of my twins, I was forced to take a one-year leave of absence from my studies due to the non-availability of child care. This year, for the first time in eight years of parenting, I feel completely at peace with my children's care while I am at work and school. This is due to the opening of the KSU Child Care Cooperative. This facility is now in need of student support to achieve self-sufficiency and expand its care to meet the needs of the K-State parenting community.

The cooperative is requesting $86,000 of the $700,000 gained from the refinancing of student bonds. This money is a one-time request which will enable the cooperative to repay start-up loans and expand to a self-supporting size of 240 children.

Support for this facility offers many benefits to the K-State community. Approximately 22 percent of K-State students are over 25 years of age and at least 10 percent of all students have children ages zero to 13. A significant number of employees also need child care. The cooperative is designed to meet student-staff needs.

The cooperative's hours and days of operation are coordinated with the University's schedule. This means care is available when the K-State community needs it, and does not have to be purchased when unneeded. The fee schedule is based on family size and income which is also a critical factor for students. This is a great opportunity for student government to represent the total student body. Meeting staff needs is also critical in that it improves the quality of staff who are recruited to this campus. This enhances students' educational experience and quality of life at K-State.

GAIL SHROYER
Guest
Columnist

Support for the cooperative also demonstrates a commitment to the non-traditional student. This includes older, married, single-parent and female students. This is the fastest growing segment of the student population today. From 1970 to 1982, the number of women enrolled in college aged 25 to 34 increased by 280 percent. The non-traditional student represents a significant population at K-State is overlooked. It is under-represented because family commitments limit time for involvement in student government. Also, needs are so different they are often difficult for non-parent students to identify with.

The program has the capacity to be a model center. We have an extremely qualified staff, trained and experienced in early childhood education. We have a wide variety of parent and University expertise. We will be offering a uniquely diversified range of care in terms of hours and ages. And, we have an enriched and well-rounded curriculum. We have the kind of program you read about in the educational literature, but seldom find.

A quality program such as this is designed to meet the needs of the non-traditional population and is likely to enhance recruitment at K-State.

I am also interested in the addition and deletion of funds that accompany student increases and decreases. As most people know, K-State enrollment has been consistently dropping since 1981. Since the 1984-85 school year we have lost 655 students. This represents close to a $1.5 million dollar loss to K-State and that affects us all as students in money available for programs, faculty and services.

In terms of recruitment, the non-traditional population is the only growth area possible for higher education. To attract these students we must offer needed services. Studies have indicated that the non-availability of child care is a major obstacle for the student parent.

Addressing this need can enhance recruitment and have a direct economic impact upon the University and community. An investment by student government in the cooperative is an investment in the University and the quality of education and services it offers all students.

Editor's note: Gail Shroyer is a graduate student in education.

City to revise downtown street project

By SUE DAWSON
Collegian Reporter

In response to the Manhattan City Commission's concerns over increasing costs, the downtown Streetscape Project will be revised and presented at a later date by Brent Bowman and Associates, designers of the project.

The commission asked Bowman during its Tuesday afternoon Manhattan City Commission Work Session to present exact figures and cost breakdowns for the 1981 and 1986 proposals. Additional proposals not figured into the original 1981 cost estimate, such as the curbs and gutters and the renovation of the east side of Third Street, are to be listed as additional items to the proposal, commissioners said.

In 1981, the estimated cost of the project was $870,000. The 1986 estimate is $1.7 million, which includes a contingency of 10 percent for unforeseen problems, the rate of inflation for the 1981 figure and the addition of curb and gutter replacements.

Using the example of a one-block area along Poyntz Avenue, Bowman said the largest expenditures would include brick sidewalks at 56 percent of the total cost; lighting at 17 percent; and trees and tree grates, for 12.7 percent collectively.

Among other items listed were the removal and replacement of curbs and gutters, four benches, trash receptacles and two drinking fountains.

"It's imperative that this budget be a realistic effort," Bowman said.

"But I think the issue is we must maintain a high level of quality. It must be high quality, but affordable."

The purpose of the Streetscape Project is "to enhance the quality of the environment for shoppers and to encourage pedestrian movement in the downtown," he said.

The downtown area designated for renovation has been divided into three districts by the amount of pedestrian traffic on each: Type A runs from Third to Sixth Streets along Poyntz Avenue with high pedestrian usage; Type B encompasses the side street areas where there is not as much pedestrian traffic; and the least important pedestrian areas are referred to as Type C.

The majority of renovation is to be done along Poyntz Avenue with the Type A proposal, Bowman said.

Bowman said his main objectives included keeping the scale of the project to fit the human activities of the downtown and creating an inviting and refreshing area.

"One of the things we felt was in our charge was to encourage people to leave the mall and investigate our downtown area," he said.

Bowman expressed concern regarding empty business structures in the downtown area and said the remaining occupants should be considered in the proposal.

"We ought to facilitate the businesses and the merchants we already have," he said.

Hospital announces plans for new center

By The Collegian Staff

The St. Mary Hospital announced plans Monday for a new women's center which will include an alternative birthing center.

"We felt there was a need for an alternative for women of all life cycles," said Sister Francis Cabrini, assistant administrator of the hospital.

The center, to be completed in September, is to include a family centered maternity program, allowing the woman to stay in the setting through labor, actual childbirth and remain with the baby until being sent home, she said.

Obstetricians Anne Wigglesworth and Maura Welch, who formerly were employed at Wamego City Hospital, will serve as physician coordinators for the center.

"This will provide something in the middle (between conventional hospital care and midwifery)," Cabrini said. "We want it to be like a living room atmosphere."

Other services are to include in-house osteoporosis screening, education and diagnosis, breast-disease screening, education and examination center, rape examination and counseling, and pre- and post-operative surgical support services.

"Our maternity care won't be the same as at Memorial Hospital," Cabrini said. "We will also cover areas of fitness, family planning and education programs — an education in life."

Dan Broyles, chief executive officer at the hospital, noted a void in the marketing package of the hospital's services as the reason for the expansion to a women's center.

"Manhattan has been fortunate to have a strong, innovative medical staff who offer a wide range of excellent medical services. We have recognized a void in our marketing package. The women's center concept allows us to fill that void," he said.

Committee urges students to give blood, time

By NANCY CASE
Collegian Reporter

The K-State Bloodmobile is in full swing again.

Sign-up for the Bloodmobile will continue for the rest of this week and donations are to begin Tuesday continuing until Feb. 21, said Troy Millsap, junior in secondary education and Bloodmobile campus co-chairman.

Millsap said about 125 people have signed up to donate blood.

"Our goal for this semester is to receive 1,400 pints of blood," he said.

Millsap said he is confident the goal will be reached because "people tend to wait until the last day and we probably won't be able to tell until then."

Millsap said the goal for last semester's goal of 1,400 pints. Actual donations last semester totaled 1,509 pints.

Millsap said walk-ins are always welcome to donate blood, even if they haven't formally signed up.

"Walk-ins can come at anytime, but if it's a time when we are real busy we will have to turn them away," Millsap said.

For the students who don't want to give blood but would like to help with the Bloodmobile, there are jobs available for volunteers, he said.

All of the work for the Bloodmobile is by students who volunteer their time, although trained professionals extract the blood, Millsap said.

Students giving blood do not need to be concerned about contracting AIDS, said Dr. Robert Tout, director of Lafene Student Health Center.

"There is absolutely no risk. It is impossible (to contract the virus after giving blood)," Tout said.

Tout said there is more of a chance someone could get AIDS through a blood transfusion than by donating blood.

The blood is tested when it is received by the American Red Cross, but the test for AIDS is not 100 percent accurate, Tout said.

"Any time a blood transfusion is administered there is the possibility of contracting AIDS in spite of all our tests," he said.

Although the Red Cross does not, in general, have a large problem with the AIDS virus in the blood they receive, Tout said the Red Cross would prefer those people who might be candidates for AIDS not to donate blood. Those people with possible blood diseases or infections which could be transmitted are also asked not to donate.

K-State students have donated more blood than students at other schools across Kansas and parts of Oklahoma, Millsap said.

"For the past three years we have finished first out of our region," Millsap said.

The blood which is donated is then distributed throughout this region, which includes all of Kansas and parts of Oklahoma.

Roses are Red
Violets are Blue
Say I Love You
At
BOCKERS TWO
For Reservations Call
539-9431

WEDNESDAY & THURSDAY
We'll honor any
local pizza coupon!

Falsetto's
539-3830

MANNEQUINS
ALL DRINKS
$1.50

Next Thurs.
Male Dancers

20% OFF
BULK candy
♥ ♥ ♥ ♥ ♥
feb. 14th
additional 10% off with this coupon

k-state union
information desk

PILOT, NAVIGATOR AND TECHNICAL OFFICER OPENINGS NOW AVAILABLE

Your college degree is the first step in qualifying for these challenging positions in the U.S. Air Force.

Private Pilot's license preferred for pilot positions. Science or Mathematics background preferred for Technical positions.

Enjoy excellent benefits and starting pay plus 30 days of vacation with pay each year.

To find out more about a rewarding career as an Air Force Pilot, Navigator or Technical Officer contact:

SSgt Johnnie Hood, 913-537-8363 Call Collect

AIR FORCE
A great way of life

ENGINEERING
Freshman & Sophomore
Willie's Paper Airplane Contest
April 2, 1986

$150 Scholarships*
$100 Scholarships*

Pick up details in Durland 142

* Must be enrolled in Engineering

KSDB 88.1
The Music Alternative
Manhattan, Ks.

6 a.m.	MON.	TUE.	WED.	THU.	FRI.	SAT.	SUN.	8 a.m.
8 a.m.	NPR MORNING EDITION					Jazz in the Morning	Sunday Morning Classics
9 a.m.	AM MANHATTAN
12 Noon	JAZZ IN THE MORNING
	NEW ALBUM ROCK					New Album Rock	Hispanic Beat	12 Noon
5 p.m.	NPR ALL THINGS CONSIDERED						Bluegrass	1 p.m.
6:30 p.m.	[Bob & Ray Comedy]						Dr. Demento	3 p.m.
7 p.m.	NEW ALBUM ROCK					Jam the Box	Modern Requiem	5 p.m.
							Metal Head	6 p.m.
							Midnight Dread	8 p.m.
								11 p.m.

4¢
Copies

Reductions & Enlargements

Wall Street Journal
Rocky Mountain News
New York Times
Classical CD's

Claflin Books
Till 9:30 p.m.
Sun.-Fri.
Till 5 p.m.
Sat.

S.E.A.
Student Involvement
Quality Education
Awareness of Issues

An organization that wants you, the student, to become involved in the decisions and issues that affect you and your university. On Tuesday and Wednesday show you care!

Paid for by Students for Educational Awareness

STUDENT BODY PRESIDENT
PATTY HIPSHER

STUDENT SENATE

ARTS & SCIENCES SUSAN D. BAIRD RANDAL S. BEEMAN KIRK CARAWAY KEN PAULIE BRIAN SHERWOOD	BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION PETE NEWALLIS DAN COSTELLO REGINA OXFORD
GRADUATE STUDENT SENATORS JESS CUNNICK LAURA J. MCLELLAN CATHERINE SAYLER MANINDER SINGH (WRITE-IN)	EDUCATION SALLY HOWARD
	ENGINEERING EIRENE TATHAM DANIEL WEYERTS HOWARD S. WULF

College professor to speak about crisis of holocaust

By The Collegian Staff

"The Crisis in Knowing and Understanding the Holocaust" will be the topic of the fourth lecture in the University Lectures in the Humanities series at 3:30 p.m. today in Union 213.

Alan Rosenberg, professor in the Queens College philosophy department in New York, will deliver the lecture. Rosenberg has published materials and spoken widely about the holocaust and the challenge it presents to modern understanding and study in the social sciences. Rosenberg has been on the Queens College faculty since 1965.

The lecture series is sponsored by the departments of history, philosophy, modern languages and English; the Graduate School and the College of Arts and Sciences. The lecture is open to the public.

Court panel ends Walesa's slander case

By The Associated Press

GDANSK, Poland — The state dropped slander charges against Solidarity leader Lech Walesa on Tuesday, and Walesa hailed the decision as the first step toward compromise by Poland's Communist government since it crushed the independent trade union.

At the opening day of Walesa's trial, the prosecutor said the 12 election officials who filed the complaint were "satisfied" by Walesa's statement in court that he did not intentionally slander them when he gave voter turnout figures for national elections lower than the official count.

The three-judge panel in Gdansk provincial court suspended the case indefinitely, in effect ending the trial.

Walesa was in high spirits at a news conference after the trial and said he was happy the government recognized that "political trials are not in the interest of Poland."

He called it "the first step toward compromise since the 13th of December," 1981. That was when the government imposed martial law and crushed Solidarity, the first free trade union in the Soviet bloc.

Solidarity was outlawed the following year.

Walesa, who won the Nobel Peace Prize in 1983 for his leadership of Solidarity, had never before been brought to trial although he was interned for 11 months after imposition of martial law.

The case arose from an October parliamentary election boycotted by Solidarity supporters. Solidarity set up its own voter counting operation to counter the government's claim that the elections had wide popular support.

When the government said the turnout was nearly 79 percent,

Solidarity issued figures saying only 66 percent of voters went to the polls.

Twelve election officials from six provinces filed suit against Walesa charging him with slander and the government prosecutor took up the case "in the public interest."

Western diplomats, who spoke on condition they not be identified, said it appeared clear the authorities did not want to risk international displeasure by trying Walesa at a time when Poland is seeking new trade credits and is hoping to gain entry to the International Monetary Fund.

Enjoy smooth, creamy
Frozen Yogurt
that tastes like Ice Cream
but with 80% less fat!
--FREE SAMPLES--
I Can't Believe It's
YOGURT!
Frozen Yogurt Stores
OPEN: 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Daily
Noon-11 p.m. Sundays
Nautilus Towers-Aggieville

RON BAILEY
Vote for me...
PLEASE!
CANDIDATE
FOR ARKS & S
STUDENT SENATE
REALLY!!
Paid for by students for Ron Bailey.

McCain

The Mitchell-
Ruff
Duo

"Two jazz giants who will set your soul on fire"
—Dizzy Gillespie

McCain Auditorium
Friday, February 14, 1986
8:00 p.m.
Box Office:
(913) 532-6428

WEDNESDAY AT

The Station

BOYS MEET GIRLS!

BECAUSE:

$1.25 WELL &
TROPICAL
DRINKS
80c DRAWS, $1.00 WINE

2 FOR 1 ON BAR FOOD MUNCHIES

STATION GARB GIVEAWAYS

GREAT SOUNDS and HOT VIDEOS, too!

1115 MORO 776-0030

 HOT DEALS

35MM SLR CAMERAS $99 BODY ONLY
YOUR CHOICE — When Purchased with a Lens

This price is good only when the camera is purchased with a lens

RICOH KR-5 Super Body

Dependable mechanical shutter. Easy to use match-needle metering. Popular K-mount provides a large selection of lenses. Self timer.

KONICA TC-X Body

Shutter preference automatic. Select fast speed to stop action or for using long lenses, camera selects opening. Camera sets DX coded film speeds.

OLYMPUS OM-G Body

Aperture preference automatic with precise off-the-film metering at the moment you take the picture. Manual override to 1/1000, accepts (optional) winders, lenses, flashes.

PENTAX P-3 Body

Program exposure for focus and shoot simplicity. Manual override, timer, DX automatic film speed control. Dedicated flash (optional) sets both shutter and opening.

Cameras include USA limited warranty/registration card.

CANON T-50 Body

Program exposure camera with built-in motor-winder, auto-loading, self timer. Dedicated (optional) program flashes available for easy indoor photography.

SOME OF WOLFE'S HOT LENS VALUES

$7999

28mm f2.8 Pro

Popular scenic lens, almost twice the view of "normal" lenses

Sale $13999

35-70mm f2.8 Sigma

Compact zoom for family pictures, moderate wide and telephoto

Sale $15999

28-70mm f2.8 PRO

Compact vacation zoom, very wide to moderate telephoto, macro

Sale $19999

35-200mm f3.9 PRO

Wide to long telephoto, one lens for all of your shooting, Macro

$9999

80-200mm f4.5 Matrix

Popular telephoto range, compact one-touch zoom

COURTEOUS SERVICE

Trained sales people help you make your selection.

TRADE-IN

Wolfe's trades-in your old camera, enlarger, lenses on NEW.

SELECTION

Wolfe's carries all popular brand 35mm cameras, a large selection of lenses and other accessories. Wolfe's has the largest darkroom section in the midwest, many unusual items, big used department.

EASY TO LOCATE

Wolfe's is just 4 blocks off Interstate 70 in downtown Topeka at 7th and Kansas Avenues.

$5999

Polaroid 660 Autofocus

Autofocus gives you the sharpest Polaroid prints. Built-in flash for indoor pictures, comes on automatically when needed.

SAVE $15

$3499

Kodak Tele-Disc

Pocket size Disc camera, uses easy loading disc film. Normal and telephoto lenses, built-in flash.

SAVE $25

$2499

Anso 2020

Uses 110 cartridges, shirt pocket size camera with normal and telephoto, motor film advance, built-in sensor flash.

$5999

Vivitar 283

High power flash, bounce, thyristor, 43' automatic, 120 G N

Dedicated Flash

Save $20

$5999

Soligor 24D

Compact flash dedicates to most popular SLRs, thyristor, bounce, 40' automatic, covers up to 24mm, wide angle without accessories

Wolfe's CAMERA & VIDEO

635 Kansas Avenue • Phone 913-235-1386
Topeka, Kansas 66601-1437

STORE HOURS
Thursday 8:30 to 8:00
Other Weekdays 8:30 to 5:30
Closed Sunday

Center offers advice to troubled students

By The Collegian Staff

The Counseling Center in Holton Hall is offering several individual and group experiences for students this semester.

"Enhancing Relationships" will be the topic for an eight-part group series designed to help students develop better relationships with roommates or friends. Beginning today, the group will meet from 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. on Wednesdays in Holton 103.

Individuals having difficulty coping with personal losses, whether through separation, divorce or death, may attend the "Separation and Loss Group" program. The group meets from 2:30 to 4 p.m. Wednesdays in Holton 103.

A support group for men who are struggling with issues of sexual identity or are feeling isolated because of their choice of sexual orientation, begins from 6:30 to 8 p.m. today. Those interested in being part of this group are asked to contact Jeff Martin at Lafene Mental Health Center, 532-6550, for the location.

"Women in Transition," an ongoing group for women who are rethinking career and life directions, meets from 3:30 to 5 p.m. Mondays in Holton 10.

The Counseling Center also offers "Test Anxiety Management," an individually paced series of instructions and audio training tapes to teach students how to be mentally alert and able to concentrate without the anxiety which may lead to information blocking.

For additional information, students may call the Counseling Center at 532-6927.

Senate considers rural branch banking

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA — Proposals allowing limited branch banking in small Kansas towns which have lost their only bank and authorizing the state to take possession of homes used by convicted drug dealers in their trafficking won first-round approval Tuesday in the Kansas Senate.

Also tentatively passed was a bill which effectively guts the state lien laws to protect homeowners from money fights between builders and sub-contractors. As amended by Sen. Merrill Werts, R-Junction City, the bill would remove home owners from disputes over fees not paid to subcontractors.

The upper chamber also tentatively approved a House-passed bill which would remove a 15 percent ceiling on annual interest rates charged by finance companies for personal, family or household loans exceeding $25,000.

A maximum rate of 21 percent would be permitted on the loans, which Sen. Paul Feleciano, D-Wichita, said would put people such as farmers desperate for cash "at the mercy of finance companies" who would be free to gouge customers through high interest rates.

The banking bill, designed to help rural Kansans who experienced the closing of their banks in record numbers last year, drew flack from senators who objected to limitations imposed on who could establish branch banks.

As approved Tuesday, the bill would allow branch banking in towns with a population under 1,000 which lose their only bank to insolvency and there are no bidders to the federal government or the state banking commissioner.

Banks within the same county would get first shot at opening a branch in the town. If there are not at least 10 banks in the county, the bidding would be expanded to banks in contiguous counties or from the next tier of contiguous, surrounding counties.

Bank holding companies which own three or more banks would be prohibited from establishing a branch and banks would be limited to operating two branch banks.

"This has been called several things, including safety-net legislation," said Sen. Neil Arasmith, R-Phillipsburg, in explaining the bill. "But it's really just limited branch banking."

The Senate rejected attempts to expand the bill to allow holding companies which own two or more banks to establish branches.

"What's so sinister about bank holding companies?" asked Werts, a banker. "There are no limitations on the number of banks a holding company can own. Why should there be a limitation like this on branch facilities?"

Werts said the bill was "shortsighted" and he was joined in his objection by Sen. Ross Doyen, R-Concordia, who called it "asinine."

Arasmith led opposition to expanding the bill saying it would hurt a small towns' chances of ever getting a chartered bank to relocate there.

The bill also is retroactive to allow branch banking in Herndon, Bronson and Dexter, one-bank towns which lost their banks in 1985 to insolvency. Kansas, Nebraska and Oklahoma led the nation in bank failures last year with 13 closings and the Sunflower State continues to pace the nation in that category.

Sen. Dave Kerr, R-Hutchinson, tried to change the bill to allow banks within a 100-mile radius of a city to establish a branch, rather than the contiguous county language in the proposal.

His amendment failed by five votes after Sen. Frank Gaines, D-Augusta, pointed out that banks in Wichita could reach east to Chanute, north of Salina, west of Pratt, northeast of Emporia, and south to the Oklahoma border to establish branch facilities under the 100-mile provision.

The drug-dealer bill was carried by Sen. Wint Winter, R-Lawrence, who said it simply was aimed at those involved in the sale and trafficking of drugs and not innocent spouses, parents or landlords.

Due to inclement weather:

Gary Stark's campaign bulletins have not covered as many trees as originally planned. If you are a business major, please be certain to view those around Calvin Hall.

Stark for Business Senator
Paid for by students for Stark

ELECT

TAD CHRISTIAN

Paid for by Students for Christian. Todd Herrington, Treasurer.

Sponsored by Ebony Theatre Company and K-State Players

The American Dame

by Phillip C. Lewis

Feb. 13, 14, 15

Purple Masque Theatre

8:00 pm

$2.00 general $1.00 student
Ticket information 532-6398

Dairy Queen
Royal Treat Weekly Specials
Mon. through Fri.
THIS WEEK

Old-fashioned Cherry Sodas 99¢

12th and Moro
in Aggieville

Reg. $1.45

1015 N. 3rd
Manhattan

Bakery Science CLUB
BAKE SALE
TODAY

Shellenberger 105
3:30 p.m. until 5:30 p.m.

Donuts
French & Rye Bread
Cookies
Valentine Treats

GRAIN SCIENCE CLUB

flour sale

white/wheat
50 lb. bag $5.50
5 lb. bag $.90

Flavor Concentrate
4 oz. $1.50
Wheat Germ 1 lb. bag $.70
Bran 2 lb. bag $.50
Cornmeal 2 lb. bag $.75
Farina 1 lb. bag $.40

pancake mix
2 lb. bag $1.50

Every Wednesday 1 p.m.-4 p.m.
located at Shellenberger Hall, in back of the first floor by the loading dock.
"milled on campus"

VOTE BAYOUTH

FOR ENGINEERING SENATE

Paid for by students for Bayouth

VOTE TODAY!

State Room Level Union
7:30 a.m.-6:30 p.m.

Bring your KSU I.D.

No campaign materials allowed within 50 feet of voting area

THE EXCITEMENT IS BACK AT

THE COTTON CLUB

Featuring
$1.50 Highballs in HP's Bar—any brand, all day, all night—including Chevas Regal & Crown Royal
$1.50 Imports and 99¢ Beers
Monday through Thursday

HP's Bar

THE NEW PLACE TO GATHER FOR BUSINESS MEN
AND WOMEN
AFTER HOURS

TGIF CELEBRITY BARTENDER—Charlie Partlow of KSU "Mr. Restaurant"
PIANO BAR EVERY FRIDAY & SATURDAY

RECORD—TAPE SALE

Now In Progress!

CLASSICAL ROCK FOLK
JAZZ COUNTRY

Records start as low as $1.98!
Cassette tapes as low as $3.98!

Varney's
BOOK STORE
IN AGGIEVILLE

9-9
MON.-SAT.

12-5
SUN.

On the edge of campus, in the heart of Aggieville.

STUDENT SENATE
COLLEGE OF ARTS & SCIENCES

Paid for by Students for Queen

MRK'S

Coors Light NERD NITE
coming...

Thurs., Feb. 20!

Watch For Details!
Nerd Notice: High Water pants are super keen!

STUDENTS FOR PETRACEK

Michelle Buller
Mariann Baker
Lydee Hawkins
Becky Schock
Susan Larkin
Marcia Sutton
Jennifer Schaff
Anna Mueller
Lorraine Hummel
Samantha Rainman

Melinda Sterling
Heather Oneale
Melissa Johnson
Rob Darnell
Matt Wehrly
David Hundley
Vince Berry
Jim Irwin
Jeff Siliman
Brian Wheeler

Troy Millsap
Rick Darnell
Brent Hunsinger
Matt Jacobs
Gregg Holcomb
Patricia Holcomb
Linda Mooney
Amy Smith
Albert Tolman
Monte Hall

"A K-STATER FOR A BETTER UNIVERSITY"

PAID FOR BY K-STATERS FOR PETRACEK

4 students to attend Nebraska conference

By The Collegian Staff

Four K-State students will travel to the University of Nebraska, Lincoln, today to attend a four-day model United Nations conference, said Virgil Wiebe, senior in political science.

Wiebe said all regional universities and high schools will be eligible to attend the conference, which will include presenting resolutions and debating current events.

"Each student will represent a different country," Wiebe said, "and K-State will represent India."

Ann Traylor, senior in political science and history, said the model United Nations is actually a mock assembly and each student must act as an ambassador from the country he represents.

The schools send in resolutions to debate at the conference, she said.

"Each ambassador must give a one-minute speech stating his country's stand on certain issues (resolutions)," Traylor said.

"The ultimate goal of each country is to get their resolution passed to the General Assembly, who in turn debates the issue and either passes or vetoes it," Traylor said.

Traylor also said awards will be presented at the conclusion of the conference to the ambassadors who best represent their country.

"The model United Nations helps you look at the United States in a different perspective," she said. "It helps one see and understand the different views of various countries and it's an excellent way to meet interesting people."

Traylor, who attended the conference last year, will be accompanied this year by Rattan Nath, graduate student in engineering; Brian Sherwood, junior in political science; and Monica Daniels, junior in political science.

Wiebe, who has attended the conferences for the last few years, will be joining the model United Nations Friday.

Kansans positive about state education

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA — Two-thirds of all Kansans would grade the performance of their local school districts with an A or B, while an even greater number — 68 percent — would give teachers the same ratings, according to a statewide opinion poll released Tuesday for the State Board of Education.

The ratings were among the results of the annual Kansans' Attitudes Toward Education poll, which is administered by Emporia State University and patterned after the national Gallup Poll on Public Education.

Jack Skillett, dean of ESU's college of education and director of the poll, said the survey showed perceptions of the statewide school system were not good as for the local districts and teachers. Fifty-two percent of the 879 randomly chosen adult Kansas residents surveyed said they believe Kansas public schools in general deserve an A or B.

"Kansans feel good about the quality of education their children are receiving," Skillett said. "The public schools and teachers in Kansas received higher grades than did schools and teachers across the nation, as shown in the Gallup Poll."

Early results of the survey, which were released in December, showed 70 percent of those surveyed favored using a state lottery to raise money for public education, an increase of 13 percent from results of a similar poll last year.

In addition, the early results showed that 66 percent supported the idea of raising the statewide sales tax for teachers' salaries, up 6 percent from the 1984 results.

Skillett said the poll has been conducted for the last five years through the use of randomly chosen residential telephone listings and has a 4 percent margin for error.

Among the results Skillett presented to the board today were:

— Grading local school districts. Twenty percent would give their local district an A, 46 percent would give a B, 19 percent said they would award a C, 3 percent a D and 1 percent an F.

— Rating performances of local teachers. Twenty percent said they would award As, 48 percent would give Bs, 18 percent Cs, 2 percent Ds and 1 percent Fs.

— Grades for the statewide system of public schools. Only 8 percent said they would rate the system with an A, 44 percent would give it a B, 23 percent a C, 1 percent a D and 0 percent an F.

— Pay for public school teachers. Forty-six percent of those polled said they believe teacher salaries are too low, 40 percent said the pay is about right, while 4 percent said they think teachers are paid too much.

In addition, 85 percent of the people surveyed said they would recommend teaching as a career to their daughters and 79 percent said they would recommend teaching for their sons. Ninety-three percent said students should be required to pass a minimum competency test as a requirement for high school graduation.

Proposal calls for funding equalization

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA — State education officials and spokesmen for two community colleges urged a Senate panel Tuesday to endorse a bill that would provide extra funding for junior colleges with little financial resources, mainly in sparsely populated areas of Kansas.

James Ihrig, president of Cloud County Community College, told the Senate Education Committee he supports the bill, which would set up an "equalization plan" for community colleges similar to the state's finance plan for public school districts.

The state currently allocates funds to the community colleges on a per-credit hour basis. However, the proposal calls for extra financing for community colleges that receive less of the regular state funds than the other schools.

The plan also calls for community colleges which already receive enough money through local taxes to return a portion of their state aid. The committee took no action on the proposal.

"The bill is an attempt to provide equalization within community colleges in the state," said Ihrig, who told the panel that his school serves 11 counties, has a small tax base and receives one of the smallest amounts of local funding of the state's 19 community colleges.

Charles Carlsen, president of Johnson County Community College, also spoke in favor of the bill. He said his school receives the most in tax support from its district in comparison with the other community colleges in Kansas.

"People in the wealthier districts gain more by the enrollment," Carlsen said. "All 19 community colleges have strong programs. We need an equalization plan to help all community colleges — not just Johnson County."

Connie Hubbell, legislative chairman of the State Board of Education, told the committee the board also supports the bill.

"It is very difficult for community colleges with low valuations to compete with other institutions when the state is only providing approximately 25 percent of their funding," Hubbell said.

The committee on Tuesday also heard testimony about a bill that would reduce state funding for community colleges that operate an area vocational technical school. Two presidents from vocational colleges that also have vocational technical schools said they opposed the bill.

Gwen Nelson, president of Cowley County Community College, said if the bill were passed the vocational school in the county would lose money the college has been counting on in its future budget plans.

Nelson said in 1983, the vocational technical school was added to the community college but the partnership would not continue if the college loses the vocational funds.

KCC hears lawyers' debates about accounting changes

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA — The Kansas Corporation Commission heard attorneys' arguments Tuesday on a request by Kansas Gas and Electric Co. of Wichita to be allowed to make accounting changes it says could preserve its ability to pay dividends to its stockholders.

The commission took it under advisement, but was expected to act on it at an administrative meeting scheduled for Wednesday morning.

KG&E asked more than a month ago to be permitted to make two changes in how it keeps its books and records.

One change would allow the company to accelerate amortization of tax credits related to the Allowance for Funds Used During Construction in its income statement. The other would permit the firm to account for the debt component of AFUDC on a gross of tax basis along with flow-through treatment of the related income tax effect.

Both steps would improve the company's book earnings.

WUWAM Restaurant FREE DELIVERY HURRY EXPRESS
11 a.m.-1 a.m.
1304 Westloop 539-8888 1116 Moro
(10% Off w/KSU ID) 537-0886 (Egg Roll & Fried Rice 99¢)

Union Catskeller
Thursday, Feb. 13th 8:00-10:00 p.m.
FULL CIRCLE is a high-spirited, versatile band that treats audiences to a special blend of musical traditions. The women comprising Full Circle play an extensive variety of instruments, and their repertoire encompasses American folk, blues, swing, jazz and ragtime.
COME JOIN US FOR AN EVENING OF FUN AND ENTERTAINMENT!!!
Minimum donation: $3.00

MONT BLUE APARTMENTS
Leasing for fall
Studio, one, and two bedroom
apartments and town houses
Close to Campus
Phone 539-4447

BUY YOUR VALENTINE A BOUQUET
and
SUPPORT HUMAN RIGHTS
KSU Amnesty International will sell beautiful valentine bouquets at a Union table, main floor, Friday, Feb. 14.
—come early, while supply lasts!—

VOTE TAD Business Senate
SCHROEDER
Paid for by Tad Schroeder

Flowers for him and her
Valentine's Day
Flower Sale
K-State Union Main Floor
9-5 p.m.
or until sold out
$3-$10
Retail Floriculture Club

Brother's
KSU
IN AGGREGATE USA
THE CLOCKS
$200
PITCHERS
TONIGHT
WEDNESDAY NIGHT SPECIAL
For $1.75
CALL YOUR DRINK
ROCKIN' K BAR

Principal-Counselor-Student Conference

The Office of Admissions cordially invites former students of the high schools listed below to attend the 1986 Principal-Counselor-Student Conference. High school principals and counselors will be on campus to visit with their former students about the student's preparation for and experiences in KSU academic programs, the student's feelings as to how the high school curriculum could be improved, and the student's concerns about their adjustment from high school to university life.

Your participation will help the University build a stronger relationship with your former high school, while gaining valuable information about making your KSU experience a more meaningful one for you. It is also an excellent opportunity for you to renew old friendships with former classmates.

Students attending are welcome to drop by the location below anytime between 10:15 a.m. and 12:15 p.m. on Wednesday, Feb. 12. The Provost has asked that your instructors excuse you from these class periods.

SCHOOL LOCATION CODE

U—Union Rooms
FHT—Field House Tables are located on the track surrounding the basketball floor. Tables are numbered 1-150.

FHS—Field House Sections 1-16 are in the balcony.
Field House Sections A-N are on the main floor.

Abilene High School—FHT 17
Andale High School—FHT 81
Anderson High School—FHT 90
Arkansas City High School—FHT 33
Ashland High School—FHT 140
Atchison High School—FHT 73
Atchison Co. High School—FHT 100
Atwood High School—FHT 49
Augusta High School—U-Courtyard
Axtell High School—FHT 98
B&B High School—FHT 1
Baldwin High School—FHT 145
Belleville High School—FHT 36
Beloit High School—U-Courtyard
Bennington High School—FHT 118
Bern High School—FHT 99
Bishop Miege High School—FHT 58
Blue Valley High School (Randolph)—FHT 52
Blue Valley High School (Stanley)—U—U—Ballroom
Bluestem High School—FHT 138
Bonner Springs High School—FHT 82
Buhler High School—U-Courtyard
Caldwell High School—FHT 19
Central Hgts. High School—FHT 129
Centralia High School—FHT 16
Centre High School—FHT 149
Chanute High School—FHT 139
Chaparral High School—FHT 111
Chapman High School—FHT 25
Chase Co. High School—FHT 79
Chase Co. High School (Cottonwood Falls)—U-Courtyard
Cheney High School—FHT 8
Cherryvale High School—U-Courtyard
Cimarron High School—FHT 8
Circle High School—FHT 150
Clatlin High School—FHT 83
Clay Center Comm. High—U-Courtyard
Clearwater High School—FHT 65
Clifton-Clyde High School—FHT 34
Coldwater High School—FHT 48
Concordia High School—FHT 131
Conway Springs High School—U-Courtyard
Dighton High School—FHT 7

Dodge City High School—U-Big Eight
Douglass High School—FHT 86
Downs High School—FHT 141
El Dorado High School—U-Courtyard
Elkhart High School—FHT 93
Ellinwood High School—FHT 66
Ellis High School—FHT 110
Ell-Saline High School—FHT 35
Emporia High School—FHT 122
Emporia High School—FHT 59
Erie High School—FHT 109
Eudora High School—FHT 142
Eureka High School—FHT 57
Fairfield High School—FHT 47
Field Kindley Mem. High—FHT 148
Frankfort High School—FHT 15
Fredonia High School—U-Courtyard
Garden City High—FHT 91
Garden Plain High—FHT 127
Gardner-Egerton High—FHT 20
Garnett High School—FHT 85
Goddard High School—FHT 112
Goodland High School—FHT 45
Great Bend High School—U—U—Ballroom
Hanover High School—FHT 127
Hanson High School—FHT 135
Haven High School—FHT 2
Hays High School—FHT 143
Herington High School—FHT 96
Hessman High School—FHT 82
Hawalla High School—FHT 62
Highland High School—FHT 30
Highland Park High—U-Big Eight
Hill City High School—FHT 72
Hillsboro High School—FHT 89
Hosington High School—FHT 53
Horton High School—U-Courtyard
Hope High School—FHT 120
Hoxie High School—FHT 130
Hugoton High School—FHT 101
Hutchinson High School—FHT 5
Immaculate High School—FHT 125

Independence High—FHT 60
Inman High School—FHT 3
Iola High School—FHT 24
Jackson Heights High—FHT 37
Jefferson Co. North—FHT 56
Jefferson West High—FHT 9
Jelmore High School—U-Courtyard
Junction City High—Forum Balcony
Kapaun-Mt. Carmel High—FHT 70
Kingman High School—FHT 144
Labette Co. High School—FHT 4
Lacrosse High School—FHT 108
Lansing High School—U-212a
Larned High School—FHT 87
Lawrence High School—U-207b
Leavenworth High School—U-212d
Lincoln High School—FHT 39
Lindsborg High School—FHT 80
Lin High School—FHT 92
Little River-Windom-Geneseo—FHT 77
Louisburg—FHT 126
Lucas-Luxey High School—FHT 128
Luckey High School—FHT 94
Lyndon High School—FHT 107
Madison High School—FHT 26
Maize High School—FHT 10
Manhattan High School—U-213
Mankato High School—FHT 116
Marion High School—U-Courtyard
Marmaton Valley High—FHT 11
Marysville High School—FHT 74
McPherson High School—U-202
Mission Valley High—FHT 61
Moundridge High School—U-Courtyard
Mulvane High School—FHT 75
Munvane High School—FHT 137
Natoma High School—FHT 40
Nemaha Valley High School—U-Courtyard
Neodesha High School—FHT 14
Ness City High School—FHT 23
Nickerson High School—FHT 83
Northern Hgts. High School—FHT 115
Northern Valley High—FHT 132

Norton Comm. High School—FHT 106
Oakley High School—FHT 51
Olathe North High School—U-212b
Olathe South High School—FHS B
Onaga High School—FHT 114
Osage City High School—FHT 87
Osawatomie High School—U-Courtyard
Ottawa High School—FHT 134
Ottawa High School—FHT 105
Pawnee High School—FHT 12
Peabody High School—FHT 88
Peabody High School—FHT 27
Phillipsburg High School—FHT 69
Pike Valley High School—FHT 64
Piper High School—FHT 95
Plainville High School—FHT 21
Pleasant Ridge High School—FHT 38
Prairie View High School—FHT 28
Pretty Prairie High School—FHT 50
Protection High School—FHT 48
Duvira Hgts. High School—FHT 5
Riley Co. High School—U-Courtyard
Rose Hill High School—FHT 121
Rossville High School—FHT 78
Royal Valley High School—FHT 104
Russell High School—FHT 133
Sabett High School—FHT 136
Sacred Heart High School—FHT 55
St. George High School—FHT 117
St. Mary's High School—FHT 41
St. Paul High School—FHT 109
St. Xavier High School—FHT 46
Salina Central High School—U—S—Ballroom
Salina High School South—Forum Main
Salanta High School—FHT 103
Scott Comm. High School—U-Courtyard
Seaman High School—U—K—Ballroom
Shawnee Hgts. High School—Forum Balcony
Shawnee Mission East High—U-204
Shawnee Mission North—U—S—Ballroom
Shawnee Mission Northwest—U-208
Shawnee Mission South—U-203

Shawnee Mission West High—U-209
Silver Lake High School—FHT 68
Smith Center High School—FHT 42
Solomon High School—FHT 113
South Haven High School—FHT 19
Southeast of Saline High—U-Courtyard
Spearville High School—FHT 118
Stafford High School—FHT 54
Sublette High School—FHT 13
Sumner Academy of A&S—U-Council Chambers
Sylvan Grove High School—FHT 29
Tescott High School—FHT 18
Thayer High School—FHT 109
Tonganoxie High School—FHT 32
Topeka West High School—U-Big Eight
Topeka West High School—FHS D
Trago Comm. High School—FHT 102
Troy High School—FHT 76
Turner High School—U—K—Ballroom
Valley Falls High School—FHT 43
Valley Hgts. High School—FHT 71
Wabunsee High School—FHT 86
Wacanda East High School—FHT 124
Wakefield High School—U-Courtyard
Wamego High School—FHT 147
Washington Rural High—U-212c
Washington High School (Kansas City)—Forum Main
Washington High School—FHT 123
Wellington High School—FHT 22
West Smith Co. High School—FHT 31
Westmoreland High School—FHT 97
Wetmore High School—FHT 119
White City High School—FHT 120
Wichita Co. High School—FHT 44
Wichita East High School—U-206
Wichita Hgts. High School—U-Little Theatre
Wichita North High School—U-207a
Wichita Northwest High—FHS J
Wichita Southeast High—U-206b
Wichita Southeast High—U-Little Theatre
Wichita West High School—U-206a
Wilson High School—FHT 6
Winfield High School—FHT 146
Wyandotte High School—FHS C

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 12, 1986 10:15 A.M.-12:15 P.M.
IN THE K-STATE UNION AND AHEARN FIELD HOUSE

'Cats' rally falls short

By TIM FITZGERALD
Assistant Sports Editor

Oklahoma's poor second half free throw shooting allowed Norris Coleman and K-State to "rebound" back into the game Tuesday night in Norman, Okla., but there wasn't enough time to complete the rally as the Wildcats lost the game 85-77.

Coming back from a deficit of 24 points at 12:08 in the second half, K-State closed the gap to five with 1:07 remaining in the game. In the process of the rally, Coleman poured in 18 of his 31 points and set another new K-State record for a freshman by yanking down 16 rebounds.

For a while it looked pretty gloomy for Jack Hartman's squad. Oklahoma used a combination of full and half-court pressure to stretch their 42-27 halftime margin even further in the last half.

"We didn't open the ball game playing very confidently. Consequently, we let them dominate things," Hartman said. "We tried to get our players to try hard and play more aggressively with more confidence."

But Hartman's team didn't roll over and die. With an all-freshman line-up consisting of Coleman, Benny Green, Ty Walker, Lance Simmons and Mark Dobbins, K-State began a run at the ninth-ranked Sooners.

"It was a good comeback. OU is a great team with great athletes. In order for us to compete against them we must have a high level of intensity and play smart with few mistakes," Hartman said.

Unlike the game between the two teams in Manhattan, it was free-throw shooting which let the Wildcats back into the game. The Sooners shot only 9 of 19 from the free-throw line in the second half and at one point, missed six consecutive one and one opportunities.

Tubbs wasn't too pleased with his team's performance following the Sooners loss Saturday to Iowa State.

"I'm glad that game is over. I wouldn't want that kind of game coming off anything (following a loss)," Tubbs said. "It never did seem to be exciting. There was no electricity."

"We let the game get away from us in the last eight minutes. We did not shoot well and our free throwing really hurt us in the second half, but I'm not going to worry about that," Tubbs said.

Tubbs seemed to enjoy the fact that Oklahoma was playing its third game in a week. The Sooners defeated cross-state rival Oklahoma State last Wednesday in Norman and lost to the Cyclones in Ames, Iowa Saturday.

"If we're tired of anything, it's practice. I wish we were playing tomorrow," Tubbs said.

K-State started the night by trading punches with the mighty Sooners as the game opened with five ties at two, four, six, eight and 10 points.

The Sooner express began to roll when the teams were tied at 10 apiece with 14:05 left in the first half. The Sooners moved out to a 23-13 lead with 8:31 remaining and eventually increased their lead to a 15-point cushion at half.

After the Wildcats closed the gap to seven with 4:20 left in the second half the Sooners pushed the lead back up to 12 with 2:22 left. However, K-State was able to make another comeback, cutting the lead late in the game to five on a 20-foot jumper by Ty Walker.

Oklahoma was led by Darryl "Choo" Kennedy with a game-high 32 points and 15 rebounds.

The game dropped the Wildcats' season record to 15-9 and 3-6 in Big Eight play. The win was Oklahoma's 47th consecutive at Lloyd Noble Arena and pushed their record to 22-2 and 7-2 in conference play.

The 'Cats will next see action Saturday against Iowa State. The game probably won't be much easier for the Wildcats than Tuesday's game — the Cyclones have defeated both Oklahoma and Kansas on their home court this season.

Earlier in the evening the struggling Lady Cats team lost to the Sooners 94-77. K-State guard Carlissa Thomas led the team with a career high 26 points. Thomas also had seven rebounds and five steals.

Amanda Holley scored 16 and Sue Leiding 11 points for K-State. The next game for the Lady Cats will be Saturday at Iowa State.

K-STATE	MIN	FG	FT	R	F	TP
Mitchell	14	1-2	0-0	1	4	2
Coleman	36	14-22	3-4	16	3	31
Meyer	16	1-2	0-0	3	0	2
Green	28	3-11	0-0	2	2	7
Wright	30	8-12	3-3	1	3	19
Muff	13	0-2	2-2	2	1	2
Walker	20	2-4	0-0	3	4	4
Simmons	11	1-3	1-3	2	2	3
Dobbins	20	3-5	0-0	3	5	6
Smith	3	0-0	0-0	1	0	0
Eddie	9	1-3	0-0	1	0	2
Totals	34-66	9-12	3-4	25	77
OKLAHOMA	MIN	FG	FT	R	F	TP
Bowie	35	6-10	2-3	6	1	14
Kennedy	40	13-22	6-9	15	3	32
Watson	12	0-2	0-0	1	0	0
Davis	20	0-5	1-4	2	0	1
McCalister	36	9-18	7-9	8	2	25
Sieger	31	2-4	0-1	4	2	4
Roberts	6	0-0	1-2	0	1	1
Johnson	20	4-13	0-0	7	5	8
Totals	34-74	17-28	4-5	14	85

Halftime score: Oklahoma 42, K-State 27
Turnovers: Oklahoma 12, K-State 19
Field goal percentage: Oklahoma 46, K-State 51
Attendance: 10,344

'Woody' learning new act

By DARAN NEUSCHAFER
Sports Writer

The Harlem Globetrotters have been taking their razzle and dazzle basketball show all over the world for 59 years.

And for all 59 years, America's "Ambassadors of Goodwill" have mystified crowds of young and old with unmatched skills and comedy antics. Until now, those skills and antics have all been performed by men.

Enter one Miss Lynette Woodard.

Woodard, a 26-year-old native of Wichita, is the newest and probably one of the most talked about members of the Globetrotters. But most important, she is a woman. And how does this attractive, young athlete feel about playing for the world's most famous athletic team?

"This is the fulfillment of a lifelong dream for me," Woodard said. "The Globetrotters have always been special, but they were even more special to me. I used to practice all their moves and try to do all their tricks when I was growing up. This is the opportunity of the century."

One would never have known Woodard was still in the learning process last night when she and her multi-talented basketball teammates visited Ahearn Field House.

"Woody," as she is called by her new teammates, has fit into the scheme of the Globetrotters well, and has not allowed them to miss a beat since her first appearance in the Trotter lineup when they opened their 60th season Oct. 17 in Brisbane, Australia.

No one could tell this University of Kansas graduate was not Curly Neal or any of the other famous Globetrotters running the world-renowned "weave" offense.

But who would doubt that Woodard, one of the best women ever to play basketball, would not have any problems fitting into her new role?

She is the most prolific scorer in Division I women's basketball history with an amazing 3,649 career points. That, sports trivia buffs, is more than the legendary

See WOODARD, Page 10

Staff/Andy Nelson

Harlem Globetrotter Lynette Woodard, the first female Globetrotter, acknowledges the applause of the audience after being introduced prior to their performance Tuesday in Ahearn Field House.

Manning leads KU to 100-66 win

By The Associated Press

LAWRENCE — Danny Manning popped in 27 points Tuesday night and third-ranked Kansas stomped past Missouri 100-66 in Big Eight basketball.

The Jayhawks, 23-3 overall and leading the Big Eight with an 8-1 mark, scored the first nine points of the game and Missouri never got closer than seven. The Tigers' fourth straight loss dropped them to 17-11 and 4-5.

Manning, a 6-foot-11 sophomore, was dominant on both sides of the floor. Twice he stole Missouri passes and drove in for layups. He hit three buckets from outside the free throw line and four times the willowy forward scored on short jumpers after rebounding a miss.

A pair of free throws by Ron Kellogg, two baskets by Greg Dreiling and Manning's three-point play gave Kansas a 9-0 lead at the outset. Manning swiped the ball from the visitors and darted in for a slam-dunk and followed that a moment later with a 15-footer for a 17-4 lead for the Jayhawks, who have won 11 of their last 10 games.

Kansas mounted a 49-32 halftime lead, then outscored Missouri 10-2 to begin the second half and went on to pad its lead with an insurmountable 25 points, 59-34.

Guard Cedric Hunter, who last week shattered Kansas' single-season assist record, had 16 points. Archie Marshall added 13 points and Dreiling had 12.

Local hockey team takes its shots

Staff/John Thelander

Craig Goodman, Manhattan, blocks a shot made by Steve Beitz, Manhattan, during a Manhattan Hockey Club scrimmage Monday at the City Park ice rink. The team, which was formed three years ago, won their first game of the season in St. Louis.

By ERIN EICHER
Staff Writer

Three years ago, a group of Burger King employees began playing street hockey after work. Since then, the group has grown to form what may be Kansas' only ice hockey team outside of Kansas City.

Maj. Ted Conn, mobilization planner from Fort Riley, joined the group after watching them play in the street behind his house.

In October of 1985, they officially formed an ice hockey team with Conn as the coach, coordinator, treasurer and also a team player.

The 25-member team meets three times weekly for two-hour practices at the ice rink in City Park. The rink is half the size of a 200-foot-by-85-foot regulation rink, but the limited space does allow for goal shooting, passing and five-man scrimmaging, Conn said.

Because the mixture of players is based on ability, not age, the ages of players range from 12 to the mid-30s, Conn said.

"We figured out the average age on the team is 20.4," Conn said.

Manhattan won its season opener Jan. 3 at St. Louis, 7-5. The next game will be March 29 at the King Louie Ice Chateau in Kansas City.

Conn said the team is trying to schedule more games in the Kansas City area for February and would like to join one of the seven or eight leagues there.

"We try to organize games with similar teams. We are matched against guys that have to get up and go to work in the morning," Conn said.

Conn said the team's No. 1 goal for the year is to not have anybody get hurt. The players are required to wear body pads during practice.

The uniform of a hockey player includes 10 to 15 pounds of padding covered by a light-weight plastic shell to protect the entire body from the frozen, one-inch-thick, vulcanized rubber puck.

The head is protected by a helmet with a face cage, and the hands are enclosed by oversized padded gloves. Hockey skates weigh about eight pounds and have stiff arches and hard toes, Conn said.

"The blades are designed differently from blades on figure skates," Conn said. "The object is to be able to stop and turn quickly, not move precisely."

The cost of outfitting one player from head to toe is about $250. The high costs have scared away prospective financial backers for the team, Conn said, and the players have all had to purchase their own uniforms.

The team recently invested $1,900 in new goalie equipment, jerseys and socks.

Craig Goodman, a high school sophomore, first put on the 40 pounds of new goalie equipment when it arrived over a month ago. In four weeks, he had a 73 percent save rate, allowing 308 goals out of 1,124 shots during practice scrimmages.

"I think what really sunk the hook in everybody was the 1980 Olympics. That team (the U.S. hockey team) had no business winning, and they beat everybody, even the Russians," Conn said.

Other K-State students on the team are Jim Dick, junior in construction science, and Chuck Kipp, freshman in electrical engineering.

Travis on cutting out golf, winning without cheating

A talk Monday with Athletic Director Larry Travis answered quite a few questions I had about the current state of athletics here at K-State. Here's what I learned:

WOMEN'S GOLF — It had been rumored Monday the women's golf program had been chosen for elimination by the athletic department in an effort to save money. Travis denied the rumor.

At a recent National Collegiate Athletic Association convention in New Orleans, a proposition was passed which would allow schools in Division I-A (the NCAA division for its largest member institutions) to cut back their programs to include only 14 teams. In the past, schools had been required to have 16 teams to retain Division I-A status.

Although this is the case, Travis said K-State is not currently proceeding with plans to eliminate any sport, let alone golf.

"We may not be able to fund 16 sports, but we're not really sure where we're at right now," Travis said. "Right now we're looking to put together all of the information in an effort to make the right decision."

"I'd like to be in a situation where we wouldn't have to cut any sports, and if it's feasible to keep all 16, we will. We're looking to have our information compiled by March 15, and until then I'm not about to speculate on whether or not we'll have to eliminate any programs."

Travis did say, however, he would cut programs if he felt it was in the best interests of the two major revenue producing programs — football and basketball.

"You've got to have the dollars to work with to make your major sports strong. You've got to give the coaches of your two money-makers what they need to make the best recruiting effort possible," Travis said.

"If that means we have to eliminate one or two non-revenue sports to strengthen our total program, our priority will be that way."

SEARCH FOR A TRACK COACH — Travis said the search for a replacement for Steve Miller, who resigned last month (effective at the end of the current season) to devote full energies to his job as assistant athletic director, is progressing well.

"Applications for the job closed last week, and we've been pretty happy with those we received. I've been reviewing resumes, and I'm fairly impressed with those I've read," Travis said.

"We received about 40 applications, and they were from a pretty good cross section of the country. There is a good mixture of head coaches and assistants in the group, and I think that's because the K-State track program has always been so strong and so well respected."

Travis said it would be one month before the search committee — consisting of Travis,

DAVID SVOBODA
Editor

Miller, athletic counselor Jim Epps and Lady Cat Head Coach Matilda Mossman — would make a decision.

"As we did in the football coaching search, we're going to try to find the best people we can and try to bring them in and talk to them," Travis said.

COLISEUM — Travis was very candid in expressing his views on the coliseum issue.

"We need to look not so much at quantity but quality," he said. "I'll be the first to admit that I'm not knowledgeable enough to know what makes quality and what doesn't — someone else is going to have to lend me their expertise when it comes to determining whether or not the facility, as proposed, is of the quality we want."

Travis also said it was his contention K-State could have a strong basketball program even without the coliseum.

"I've always felt that people are what make programs, not buildings. If you have the people and a nice building it's a plus, but it's not the most important thing," he said. "There is no question that some athletes look at bigness and brightness, but the total program is the key."

"It's all relative. Look at what they've done at Duke and KU (the University of Kansas). Both of those teams are currently in the top 10 in the country and both play in old arenas. Allen Field House (at Kansas) isn't much different than Ahearn, except in seating capacity, and KU still has a fine program."

CHEATING IN ATHLETICS — College football's signing day is today, and with each signing day comes speculation a school, or schools, is not playing fair when it comes to recruiting of athletes. Travis said K-State will only play the game one way — above board.

"The money in recruiting has got to go toward searching for the best athletes available. You can go to the top running back in the country and say 'here's your car,' but I think, as TCU (Texas Christian University) found out, that isn't the way to get things done," he said.

"You can do it within the rules. There is no rule saying we can't outwork the other schools. You have to have a plan and be able to execute it."

Search begins for Hartman's successor

By DAVID SVOBODA
Editor

The search to find a replacement for K-State basketball coach Jack Hartman, who resigned Jan. 30 effective the end of the season, is projected to gain momentum around March 1, Athletic Director Larry Travis told the Collegian.

Travis said the actual search process began the day after Hartman resigned, but the March 1 date would be the earliest he and an as of yet unnamed search committee would conduct interviews with the top candidates in Manhattan.

"We have opened the job up for applications, and the response has been fairly good so far," Travis said. "I've talked to several people who I think would be good candidates, but it will take a while to get all of the applications we hope to receive."

Travis said he was still in the process of determining the criteria he will use in looking for a head coach.

"I'm still working on developing the criteria we'll use to look for a coach. I'm trying to get all of my thoughts together and get something more definite down on paper," he said. "I do know, however, that we'll be looking for a person involved with a good program."

Travis said in the case of the basketball coaching job, unlike the football coaching job he filled with the hiring of Stan Parrish, head coaching experience would not be one of the criteria for consideration for the position.

"In the case of football, we had never been able to attract a head coach, and we were looking for someone who would want to come in here and help us turn our program around," Travis said. "Our basketball program is different."

"In the case of basketball, there are several Division I (the National Collegiate Athletic Association's division for its largest member institutions) assistants that have the kind of recruiting contacts we're looking for on a nationwide level."

Although Travis said he has not been off campus to review candidates since Hartman's announcement, he said he expects to be on the road for the next two weeks watching prospective candidates coach.

"We've made quite a few telephone contacts, but there is nothing better than getting a chance to watch an individual coach," he said. "We're going to try to slip into a town, watch an individual coach and get out without it becoming too big a deal."

"I'm going to try to get the feel for the type of game a coach likes to have his team play, how well drilled his team is, what kind of bench demeanor he has. We'll go from there and try to put it together."

After reviewing the candidates by watching them and reading their applications, Travis said he would make more phone calls to "cross check" references. He also said he plans on soliciting the advice of five people in coming to a decision as to the top five or so candidates to bring before the committee for review.

"I'm going to talk to five people who know 'new' basketball and get their feedback," he said. "I want to get an idea from my contacts as to how a prospective candidate will fit into our program. I'm quite sure that the five people I'll be asking for advice are the top men in the field and will provide me with invaluable information."

Travis declined comment on who his five advisers would be, saying only, "the names would be very easy to recognize."

Travis said the current K-State assistants would be considered for the job if they were to apply.

"If they apply, and I suspect one or two of them might, they will be considered like anyone else. The hardest thing to do here is to find someone who is the best person for a job while keeping prior ties a person might have to the University in proper perspective," he said.

"That's not to say, however, that if the top candidate in my eyes is one with K-State ties that he won't be chosen."

Nets player's career relies on results of drug-use test

By The Associated Press

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. — The New Jersey Nets disciplined Micheal Ray Richardson on Tuesday for missing Monday's practice and sent him for a drug test on which the fate of his often brilliant but cocaine-plagued career will ride.

Lewis Schaffel, the Nets' executive vice president, said that Richardson, who claimed to have the flu Monday, was to undergo the drug screening at University Hospital in Newark. The results were expected to be known late Tuesday.

If the test turns up positive for the presence of drugs, it would be a third offense for the 30-year-old Richardson, meaning he would be banned from the National Basketball Association for life.

Woodard

Continued from Page 9

Jo Jo White and Wilt Chamberlain scored during their college careers.

Woodard led the nation in rebounds, averaging nearly 15 per game her freshman year at KU. Her sophomore year, she led the nation in scoring with a 31.9 points per game average.

A triple-crown winner her senior year, Woodard was the first woman selected for the 1982 NCAA Top Five Award, and won the coveted Wade Award, honoring the finest female basketball player in the country in 1981. She made the Kodak All-American Team four times, and was named to the elite Academic All-American Team in 1980 and 1981.

Most recently, Woodard captained the 1984 Women's Olympic Basketball Team which captured the gold medal at the Los Angeles Summer Olympic games.

Woodard is also dedicated to community work. She was named

Woman of the Year by the Wichita Branch of the NAACP after she helped start a Big Brother-Big Sister program in her hometown.

And Monday night in Wichita, when she was introduced at the start of the Globetrotter game in the Kansas Coliseum, the capacity crowd gave her a well-deserved standing ovation which lasted several minutes.

There was nearly as much enthusiasm in Ahearn last night when she was introduced, although there were a couple of good-humored boos when it was mentioned she was from KU.

But Woodard took it like she takes about everything — with a cheerful smile — because she knows she is an intricate part of the world's most famous basketball team.

NICKEL
for
Bus. Senate
"It makes sense."
Paid for by students for Nickel

N.C. State enters AP poll; KU moves to third

By The Associated Press

RALEIGH, N.C. — North Carolina State has finally joined three other Atlantic Coast Conference teams in the Top 20 but it's not the ranking that gratifies Coach Jim Valvano, it's the way his team has been playing.

The Wolfpack, now 17-6, is ranked 17th in the latest poll after a shaky start. They made it back after nationally televised non-conference wins against Kentucky and Louisville, the latter a 76-64 decision Saturday.

N.C. State, which must still face the top ACC teams and eighth-ranked Oklahoma, didn't expect as much after a loss to Florida State that left the team at 3-3.

"The kids have rallied from a low point in the season at Tallahassee to get where we are," Valvano said. "That means we have gone 14-3 since being 3-3 and to beat the teams we have along the way, I couldn't be happier."

"I told the kids at the beginning of the season that being in the Top 20 doesn't mean anything then," Valvano said of the preseason poll, which placed N.C. State 17th. "But at the end of the season to be playing Top 20 basketball has got to make you feel good."

"I think we have an outstanding basketball team at this point. But it is the quality of the opposition that we face that most concerns me."

All 63 sports writers and broadcasters voting in this week's poll tabbed 24-1 North Carolina as the top team. The Tar Heels have been first in every poll since the season began. The Duke Blue Devils, 22-2, are second for the second time this season, moving up two spots this week.

There was considerable movement throughout the Top Twenty, thanks to a slew of upsets last weekend.

Kansas, 22-3, moved from sixth to third, while 22-3 Memphis State dropped one spot to fourth and Georgia Tech, the fourth ACC entry, fell from second to fifth. Memphis St. lost to Nevada-Las Vegas on Saturday, while Tech was beaten by Duke.

UNLV, 23-2, used its one-point win over Memphis State to surge from ninth to sixth. St. John's is seventh, up three spots, followed by Oklahoma, which dropped three places, No. 9 Georgetown and 10th-ranked Michigan.

Georgetown, which lost 60-58 to St. John's Monday night, improved two spots in the poll, while Michigan went from seventh to 10th.

The Second Ten also has Kentucky, Syracuse, Bradley, Notre Dame, Texas-El Paso, Indiana, Alabama, Louisville and Virginia Tech.

Western Kentucky was the only team to fall out of the rankings.

Buy, Sell or Trade
in Collegian Classifieds

comprehensive health associates

- *free pregnancy tests
- *outpatient abortion services
- *alternatives counseling
- *gynecology
- *contraception

Overland Park, KS 913-345-1400

You can gobble a muy grande platos full of them for just 50¢/plate. All you want TONIGHT

Bockers two

4-7 p.m.
Best Happy Hours in Town
RAMADA

SAFeway

222 N. 6th
3011 Anderson
539-3226
776-5202

New Store Hours
7 a.m. to 10 p.m.
7 days a week

Prices effective 2-12 through 2-19

Fox deluxe pizza
9.5 oz.	69¢
Coors light beer
12 pack-12 oz. cans	$4.69
Lay's potato chips
6.5 oz. bag	99¢
Bar S Tasty Dogs
1 lb. pkg.	69¢
Coke
2 liter bottle	$1.09

TWO YEARS LEFT TO GRADUATION?

If you think that there is even a remote chance that you might want to start your career as an Air Force officer, and/or if you have two years left to graduation, then take the Air Force Officer Qualifying Test this coming Saturday. Taking this test opens the door for you and it is free. Stop by the Air Force ROTC office on the first floor of the Military Science Building to sign up for the test. Or, call 532-6600 and ask to speak to Captain Davies.

UPC Wednesday, February 12, 1986

UPC

THE HILLS HAVE EYES

A nice American family.
They didn't want to kill. But they didn't want to die.

GRADUATE

Dustin Hoffman in a movie that all graduating students must see as a last hoorah. This 1967 Academy Award winner has never been equaled in its comic/tragic approach to a young man's search for identity.

Saturday, February 15
at 2 p.m. in the Little Theatre
Sunday, February 16
at 2 & 7 p.m.
in the Little Theatre
Rated PG,
KSU ID Required, $1.50

Monday, February 17, at 7 p.m.
in Forum Hall, Tuesday, February 18 at 7 p.m. in Little Theatre. Unrated.
KSU ID Required, $1.75

GRAND ILLUSION

French aviators held in a German prison camp in WW1, plan a daring escape in this masterpiece from Jean Renoir. It is considered by many to be one of the best films ever made. The First Film in the Kaleidoscope "War Film Series"

A happy, all-American family named the Carters gets trapped in the middle of a desert where they are attacked by a family of homicidal cretins.

February 14 & 15,
midnight in Forum Hall
Rated R
KSU ID Required
$1.75

k-state union
upc kaleidoscope

Jo Beth Williams and Tom Conti star in this fun-filled comedy of confused identities, adventure, and love. A great movie for all.

Friday, February 14, and Saturday, February 15 at 7 & 9:30 p.m. in Forum Hall. Rated PG, KSU ID Required, $1.75.

AMERICAN DREAMER

k-state union
upc feature films

CAL

a passionate whisper from a darkling plain, takes a firm grasp on one's attention. It is a very fine thing."

— RICHARD SCHICKEL, TIME

Tonight at 7:30 p.m.
in the Little Theatre
Tomorrow at 3:30 and 7:30 p.m.
in the Little Theatre

k-state union
upc kaleidoscope

Court dismisses 2 lawsuits against Washburn

By The Associated Press

WICHITA — A federal judge has dismissed two of the four lawsuits filed against Washburn University in connection with the college's refusal to admit to its law school three children of attorney Fred Phelps Sr. of Topeka.

U.S. District Judge Frank G. Theis of Wichita ruled Monday the Topeka school used the same admission standards applied to other applicants when it rejected Katherine, Rebekah and Timothy Phelps.

Timothy Phelps was admitted to Washburn's law school in 1984, a family spokeswoman said. The fall 1984 class was the third freshman class at Washburn he had attempted to enter. Katherine and Rebekah were unable to gain admission at Washburn. They were admitted to Oklahoma City University Law School.

The Phelps family filed four lawsuits charging Washburn with discrimination in not admitting the three Phelps children and not allowing the denial of admission to be appealed to a grievance panel. The suits allege the admissions and appeals were denied because the family is associated with black causes and anti-discrimination lawsuits. The lawsuits claim violations of the Phelps' constitutional rights.

The first case that was dismissed made the discrimination allegations. The second case involved only Timothy Phelps and claimed he had been denied consideration for admission in 1983 in retaliation for the filing of the first lawsuit.

Two other cases that make different allegations and arguments pertaining to the same situations are pending.

One, before U.S. District Judge Wesley Brown of Wichita, claims Katherine and Rebekah Phelps

were victims of reverse discrimination when they were denied admission to Washburn in 1984. It alleges the school at the last minute admitted two or three times the number of blacks it normally admits. The suit also claims they were denied admission a second time partially because of the lawsuit over the school's initial refusal to admit them.

The fourth case is pending before U.S. District Judge Dale Saffels of Kansas City. It alleges that after Katherine and Rebekah Phelps were denied admission to Washburn a second time, the school refused to allow them to use an established appeal procedure to seek reconsideration of the decision.

Theis ruled the Phelps' test scores and grades placed them in the middle or lower categories of applicants. He said the admissions panel properly used its own rating scale to draw applicants from the lower groups to round out its freshman classes.

Margie Phelps, family spokeswoman, said the university picked other students with comparable qualifications. She said the cases were improperly dismissed before the Phelps firm and Washburn could resolve disputes over admission statistics. She said the family will appeal the dismissal of the cases.

Washburn officials declined comment citing the pending cases.

Theis and the eight other federal judges in the Kansas district filed a complaint Dec. 16 seeking the disbarment of Fred Phelps Sr. and all six members of Phelps Chartered, the family law firm Phelps founded but later withdrew from because of his state court disbarment and his two-year suspension in federal court. The Phelps have filed a motion seeking the dismissal of the complaint. That motion is pending.

Chairman offers 'pinhole' compromise

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA — The chairman of the House Judiciary Committee Tuesday offered a compromise to break an impasse between the medical and legal professions over having the state set a $1 million limit on the amount of damages medical malpractice victims could collect in Kansas courts.

Rep. Joe Knopp, R-Manhattan, told the two sides as hearings on a bill revising the state medical malpractice tort system neared a conclusion that his proposal is to provide a way for victims with extreme injuries and in need of longterm future care to appeal and receive judgments in excess of the ceiling provided in the measure.

"My recommendation is to put a 'pinhole' in the cap," Knopp told the Judiciary Committee after two hours of testimony by spokesmen for the Kansas Bar Association and the Kansas Trial Lawyers Association, who strongly oppose placing any limits on medical malpractice judgments.

"My proposal is to allow victims who win their cases to appeal to the board of governors of the (state) Health Care Stabilization Fund to seek additional funds when they can show their future care is going to cost more than they got (from a jury)," Knopp said.

The Health Care Stabilization Fund was created a decade ago to pay large damage awards in catastrophic medical malpractice cases. Physicians pay into it to create the pool of money from which big awards are paid.

Knopp said his idea is to have the HCSF board sit as a "court of equity" to consider special needs of malpractice victims who might not be adequately compensated by a $1 million award. The $1 million limit would include a maximum of $250,000 for pain and suffering.

He said the board also could review the quality of care malpractice victims were receiving after several years, to insure the award was adequately providing for them.

$39.95 ONE-PRICE SALE

Choose any frame in stock, including plastic or metal frames and pay ONLY $39.95. The price includes your reading or distance prescription in glass, plastic or oversized lenses and prescriptions up to (+) or (-) 6.00 diopters sphere, on (-) 2.00 diopters cylinder. You can choose the pair of eyeglasses you've always wanted and not worry about the cost! We can fill your doctor's prescription. Photochromatics — add $18 for single vision and $25 for bifocals. Your selection is unlimited. ALL frames come under this sale except facet cuts. This ad cannot be used in conjunction with any other optical promotion.

SALE ENDS: February 15

OPTICAL STUDIO

1210 MORO • 537-1574

Mon.-Fri. 9:30 a.m.-5:30 p.m.; Sat. 9:00 a.m.-1:00 p.m.

MasterCard

VISA

Don't forget
Valentine's Day
but remember...

Candy makes you fat
Roses wilt and die
come to Undercover to keep your love alive

UNDERCOVER

Open 10-5:30 Mon.-Fri.
10-8 Thurs., 10-5 Sat.

1224 Moro

Aggieville

Manhattan

ALL GALS' FASHION JEANS

$24.88

Exposed
Button-Fly
Pleated Yoke
Pant
Low Rise
Tapered Rider
Yoked Rider Gathered Rider

$16.88

Lee Straight Legs

Lee

The JEAN STATION

Aggieville

Manhattan

VALENTINE BALLOON • A • GRAMS

Fill a Balloon • A • Gram to your heart's content with:

Candy and Chocolates
Valentine Cards

Sweetheart Teddy Bears

Soaps and Scents

"Love You" Mugs

"Dear Johns"—Cotton Briefs

Valentine Tins and Heart Boxes

WE DELIVER!

The Palace

CARDS • GIFTS

Mon.-Sat. 8:30-8:30

Thurs. 8:30-8:30

705 N. Manhattan
In Aggieville

*the casual
encounter*
—fashion clothing for guys & gals—

for your Valentine...

LEVIS
BECAUSE NOBODY DOES IT BETTER Prewashed jeans in button fly
or zipper style
from

the casual encounter

1208 Moro in Aggieville

1208 Moro
in Aggieville

Give Her A Teddy....

Our teddys are soft & feminine and are available in various colors ... and they are quite affordable.

Hurry down and see our selection of
Valentine's Day
Lingerie.

CHRISTINE'S
THE WEDDING COMPANY

1100 Moro Mon.-Sat.
776-7387 10-5:30
Thurs. till 8:00

Mention this ad and receive a FREE silk rose with every purchase.

MR. K'S

VALENTINES LADIES NITE!

Ladies Get...

- 25¢ Red Draws
- $1 Coolers
- Free Adm.

And 2 Mr. K's Ladies Men!

PLUS $1.75 PITCHERS OF RED BEER FOR ALL!

PIZZA OPERA • A Romantic Triangle

1121 Moro
3rd & Moro
Westloop Shopping Center

Pizza Hut

© 1985 Pizza Hut, Inc.

Cars targets for vandalism; parking lot scene for thefts

By DAN SMITH
Collegian Reporter

Although vandalism at the University is not, in general, on the rise, there have been a few cases of vandalism in lot B-3 north of Haymaker Hall since the start of the semester, said Richard Herrman, University detective with the KSU Police Department.

"The parking lot is dusty. It's way too far to walk and our cars are easily vandalized," said Cecily Edwards, freshman in journalism and mass communications.

A recent vandalism and theft in the B-3 parking area was not reported to the owner of the car until several days later. The campus police reportedly notified the receptionist at the Haymaker front desk, but the owner did not find out until later.

"The front desk at Haymaker said the police did not tell them anything, so now I don't know who to believe until I look into it further," said Doug Robben, freshman in agricultural economics and owner of the car.

University Police Captain Charles Beckom said he does not know why Robben was not told about his car.

"We will be having an investigation to find out exactly why he was not contacted," Beckom said.

Robben had a side window broken, a stereo removed and a few other items taken. His parking permit, which costs $5 to replace, was also stolen.

Beckom said patrolling the lot varies from day to day.

"We can have 12 police an hour out there, or maybe just one an hour. It just depends on the number of resources we have available," Beckom said.

Herrman said the vandalism occurs mostly on certain nights.

"Wednesday, Friday and Saturday are when most of the cases occur," he said. "People are out drinking and they get rambunctious."

The parking permits are numbered according to the hall in which a person lives. The police also have room and telephone numbers of car owners.

Bob Felde, assistant director of the Department of Housing, said the vandalism and thefts which occur in B-3 are also common in other parking areas on campus. He said he also believes there is a pattern to the vandalism in the lots.

Felde said the residence hall parking problems are a matter of perspective. Residence hall parking at K-State is no worse, and may be better than, other Big Eight schools, he said.

Herrman said vandalism in other lots is about the same as in lot B-3.

Get Personal
in Collegian Classifieds

VALENTINE'S DAY

Order your Valentine's
flowers today!
AGGIEVILLE
FLOWERS
12th & Laramie
537-9549

THE JEAN STATION
fritz!

EMANUELLE
ESPRIT
YOU
St. Michel
ZENAI

UNION BAY
Byer
Eber
Lee
Ganarra.
SantaCruz

Aggieville, Manhattan

SHEAR DYNAMICS
776-9100
Second floor Laramie Plaza—1125 Laramie St.

Specialize in:
• Matrix Products
• Custom Hair design
• Personalized service

walk in
OR
Call for appointment

CALLING ALL
VALENTINES!

•$2 Pitchers of Red Beer

See You Tonite!
MEET YOUR FRIENDS AT...

KITE'S
BAR AND GRILLE

New Shuffleboard Table

Happy
Valentines
Day!

Bring your Sweetheart
and buy any numbered dinner at full price and receive a second numbered dinner at
1/2 price
4p.m.-10p.m.

Raoul's
MEXICAN RESTAURANT
In Aggieville
1108 Laramie, on the Handl-Corner

Hull Business Machines
715 N. 12th
538-7931

Hull Business Machines Has A Special Offer For You!
—right now when you buy
Silver Reeds EX-30 Electric Typewriter
you get

★ Automatic Correction—★ 3 Typing Pitches
★ Automatic Relocation & ★ Much more!

And $50.00 worth of Supplies Absolutely Free!

Selling Price $299.95 / Free Supplies $50.00 / Actual Price $249.95

ON VALENTINE'S DAY
Why fool around with chocolates,
hearts and flowers...
Carry your Sweetie
Across the Threshold
at

Elgee's
Restaurant & Ice Creamery

SAVE 50% on your sweetie's meal
Register for the Sweetheart Sundae
to be given away every hour
on Valentine's Day.

12th & Laramie, Aggieville, 537-3999
Open daily to midnight

Open 8:30 a.m.
Saturday and Sunday for breakfast

Piñata
Restaurante

Serving You Two Ways

From 11 to 5 we offer our MINI SERVICE for a quick meal
over a short lunch hour and after 5:00
we offer
FULL WAITRESS SERVICE for a more relaxed dining experience.

Either Way—TRY US SOON!

1219 Bluemont in AGGIEVILLE 539-3166

COUPON

Treat Your Valentine
To A
Free Parfait Delight
ON VALENTINE'S DAY

With the purchase of one parfait delight at regular price.

Enjoy Three Delicious Flavors of ICBY
Softie Frozen Yogurt Swirled with Two Toppings of Your Choice.

Our Refreshing Frozen Yogurt Tastes Like Ice Cream But Has One-Fifth The Fat And One-Half The Calories!

Our Gift Certificates
Are The Perfect Gift
For That Special Person On That Special Day!

Offer good
Friday, February 14
only!

I Can't Believe It's
YOGURT!
Frozen Yogurt Stores

705 North 11th
Nautilus Towers
Aggieville
Open:
11 a.m.-11 p.m. Daily &
Noon-11 p.m. Sundays

CRABTREE & EVELYN
LONDON

The perfect gift for your special Valentine. Custom made gift baskets of soaps, foods, and toiletries only available from

Highfield Cottage
accessories for the home

1205 Moro St.
In Aggieville
Member National Bridal Service

Mon.-Sat. 9:30-5:30
Thursday 9:30-8:30

OUR HOT NEW PHILLY
IS STACKED WITH STEAK,

COMES WITH A FREE PEPSI,

AND TASTES BETTER
WITH THIS COUPON.

A Philly is sizzling Choice steak grilled in onions, mushrooms, green peppers and melted cheese all lovingly piled onto six inches of our famous Sub & Stuff bun. It's certain to cause cravings for a medium ice-cold Pepsi. So bring in this coupon before Feb. 28, 1986. When this offer stops sizzling.

Sub & Stuff
Sandwich Shop
One coupon per visit, please.

12th & Moro
Aggieville

Lobbyists promote 'super highway' bill

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA — Political leaders and spokesmen for a host of communities in southeast Kansas went before a Senate committee Tuesday urging approval of a bill appropriating $250,000 for a new study to determine feasibility of building a four-lane highway east-west across the region.

Headed by U.S. Rep. Bob Whittaker, who represents the area in Congress, supporters of a proposed new super highway from Wichita to Joplin, Mo., argued such a roadway is essential to bringing southeast Kansas back from economic stagnation, and is long overdue.

Jim Dahmen of Columbus called it the "solidarity issue of the Balkans," which the region has been called because of its chronically poor economy.

"On this issue, solidarity is strong," said Dahmen. "Our Lech Walesa, if you will, is Rep. Bob Whittaker."

The proponents, who also included Senate President Robert V. Talkington, R-Iola, and Senate Minority Leader Michael Johnston, D-Parsons, said it is time the state gave southeastern Kansas the opportunity to rebuild its economy, and nothing is more critical to accomplishing that task than a new highway.

Past efforts, speaker after speaker before the Senate Transportation and Utilities Committee noted, have failed because of dissension among southeast Kansas advocates who couldn't agree on a proposed route and feasibility studies which showed it was marginal at best.

Those speakers included other legislators and representatives of Pittsburg, Columbus, Parsons, Independence, Coffeyville, Neodesha, Fredonia, Iola, Chanute, Winfield and Arkansas City.

Only one opponent appeared. He was Gene Garman of Independence, president of the Montgomery County Taxpayers Association, who said his small group supports a new freeway through southeastern Kansas but is unalterably opposed to a toll road.

The bill before the committee, which is sponsored by Talkington and Johnston and strongly endorsed by Whittaker, calls for appropriating the quarter of a million dollars for a study to determine feasibility of a four-lane highway from the Wichita area to the southeast corner of Kansas, linking up with Interstate 144 in the vicinity of Joplin.

It does not specify whether the highway should be a toll road, a freeway or funded by some combination of governmental funding and bond money. It specifies that existing highway right-of-way should be utilized to the maximum.

Whittaker, who last summer revitalized the effort which has gone back nearly two decades to get a super highway for southeast Kansas, told the Senate committee there is unprecedented unity among governmental and civic leaders and groups in the region now to get a major east-west highway there — minus the provincial rivalries over a proposed route which caused disunity in years past.

"We need this road, there isn't any question about it," Whittaker said. "And we need it in a four-lane concept."

He said the proposal intentionally did not include a specific route, because the feasibility study will determine that. He also said it will take a bipartisan political effort to get it done, and that promoters of southeast Kansas know they very likely "will have to carry a heavy (financial) burden for this highway."

Talkington said, "I know highways are important to every area of our state, but in southeast Kansas, we feel our need is greater than in any area of Kansas."

Johnston said, "Unless we find some new and different way to fund such a project, then I think it's not realistic. We are firmly committed to doing what is necessary. This is the one missing link we need for economic development in southeast

Kansas."

Emerson Lynn, editor and publisher of the Iola Register and a past president of Mid-America Inc., said, "Kansas can't afford to let southeast Kansas continue to stagnate." He said the region pays a "stagnation tax" every time it loses its young people to outside employment and every time it loses business because it can't offer adequate transportation.

Former state Sen. Ed Roitz, representing Pittsburg, said the proposed Wichita-to-Joplin highway "would do more for job creation, economic development and opportunities for our young people than any other thing we can do."

LADIES NIGHT
$1.75 Pitchers
$1.00 Coolers
25¢ Draws

Thursday

♥ —WANTED— ♥
Aggie's Queen & King
of Hearts
 Details in tomorrow's Collegian

Valentine's Day

How to tell her you love her?
 With the gift that says it all — down payment to suit your budget the balance in weekly or monthly payments.

REED & ELLIOTT
Jewelers

CERTIFIED GEMOLOGIST
 AMERICAN GEM SOCIETY

Daily: 9:30-5:30
 Thurs. 10:30-8:00
 402 Poyntz

Diamond Specialists
 776-4000

TERESA

VOTE

ANNE

LEIGHTY
 BUSINESS

and

WILEY
 HUMAN ECOLOGY

Write her
 in!

STUDENT SENATE

PAID FOR BY OUR CAMPAIGN MANAGERS

THE PIZZERIA
 776-0004

PIZZA

"Family Owned and Operated"
FAST AND FREE DELIVERY
OPENING SOON:

Full Dining Room with Full Salad Bar and Buffet
 Lunch at the FirstBank Center at Denison and Claflin.

DRAWING MARCH 1, 1986

for

1. A complete bookcase-type Waterbed with mattress pad valued at $500.
 (Bed can be seen at Waterbed Junction, 4th Street)
2. A one-year supply of pizza
 24 pizzas — 2 each month

Register to win at:

The Pizzeria's New Location
 1800 Claflin at FirstBank Center

The Ritz
Waterbed Junction

Anytime you buy a Pizzeria pizza or something from The Ritz, you will automatically be registered.

WILDCATS —The Movie—

Join Willie and the KSU Cheerleaders at the special sneak preview of Wildcats, Warner Bros. new movie starring Goldie Hawn. The feature shows on Thursday, Feb. 13, at 7 pm located at the beautiful Seth Childs Cinemas.

Tickets are just $2
 and can only be purchased at the Ahearn Field House
 ticket office

Official urges exotic pet licensing

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA — Kansas has little control over exotic animals which can be dangerous to people, livestock and wildlife, the House Agriculture and Small Business Committee was told today.

Rep. Ginger Barr, R-Auburn, said the Kansas Legislature should approve a bill that would require licenses for all animal species designated to be exotic by the livestock commissioner of the state Animal Health Department. The bill also provides that the commissioner also would set minimum standards for care and housing of the animals.

Barr said she has discovered several situations during the last year in which exotic animals were being sold without regulation in the state. She said the matter first came to her attention last spring, when a declawed bear cub was being offered for sale at a Topeka pet store.

"I investigated the statutes and called the Kansas Fish and Game Commission to find out that really our statutes are very weak in this particular area," Barr said.

Last summer, Barr said she stopped at Oakley to see a giant prairie dog exhibit and found that coyote pups were being offered for sale there. She said the sellers told her the demand was high for the young coyotes.

In addition, she said a stockman in the district she represents is worried that bears and large cats confined for use in the movie industry nearby will escape and attack his cattle. Barr said the proposal would help ensure that such animals are properly caged.

"It is not to restrict Kansas citizens from having exotic animals," Barr said. "The bill is to make sure that Kansas citizens are being protected from animals or exotic animals that have a potential of being dangerous. It is to make sure (they) are properly maintained."

The proposal would require a fee of not more than $50 for each license to import, sell, transfer or lift tickets. For information, call 537-2995. (83-96)

Squad asks FBI to probe tampering

By The Associated Press

YONKERS, N.Y. — Homicide investigators asked the FBI on Tuesday to determine when someone tampered with a package of Extra-Strength Tylenol capsules used by a woman whose death from cyanide poisoning prompted stores nationwide to remove the pain-killer from shelves.

"We have to find out if the tampering occurred pre-sealing or post-sealing before we decide our next step," said Bruce Bendish, chief of the Westchester County district attorney's homicide squad. He said the packaging of the Extra-Strength Tylenol capsules was sent to the FBI crime laboratory in Washington.

Johnson & Johnson, maker of Tylenol, has been sealing the necks and caps of Tylenol bottles and packing each bottle in sealed boxes since the unsolved case in which seven Tylenol users were killed by cyanide in the Chicago area in 1982.

Authorities announced Monday that Diane Elstroth, 23, of Peekskill had been fatally poisoned by cyanide after taking Tylenol on Saturday. Three other capsules in the bottle Elstroth used contained the poison, officials said.

Yonkers Deputy Police Chief Owen McClain said there were no suspects in Elstroth's killing and added: "There is no reason to believe the victim was the target, but we have not ruled out the possibility."

No poison or tampering had been found in other bottles of Tylenol and "there is no evidence of any bottles being involved beyond the particular one," said Michael Young, commissioner of the federal Food and Drug Administration.

FDA spokesman William Grigg said the Extra-Strength Tylenol packaging makes the capsules among the most protected in the industry. John T. Walden, senior vice president of the Proprietary Association, the trade group for non-prescription drug manufacturers, said that unlike the 1982 Chicago poisonings, this incident appeared to be "a single, isolated case of poisoning."

Tylenol capsules were removed voluntarily from 1,000 A&P stores in 25 states and the District of Columbia, and other stores in Michigan and Illinois did the same. Two California chains, Vons and Ralphs, removed Tylenol from their more than 300 stores.

Classifieds

CLASSIFIED RATES

One day: 15 words or fewer, $2.25, 15 cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.25, 20 cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.00, 25 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.50, 30 cents per word over 15; Five consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.75, 35 cents per word over 15.

Classifieds are payable in advance unless client has an established account with Student Publications. Deadline is noon the day before publication; noon FRIDAY FOR Monday's paper.

Student Publications will not be responsible for more than one wrong classified insertion. It is the advertiser's responsibility to contact the paper if an error exists. No adjustment will be made if the error does not alter the value of the ad.

Items found ON CAMPUS can be advertised FREE for a period not exceeding three days. They can be placed at Kiddle 103 or by calling 532-8555.

Display Classified Rates

One day: $4.65 per inch; Three consecutive days: $4.25 per inch; Five consecutive days: $3.95 per inch; Ten consecutive days: $3.75 per inch. (Deadline is 4:30 p.m. two days before publication.)

Classified advertising is available only to those who do not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, sex or ancestry.

ANNOUNCEMENTS 01

MARY KAY Cosmetics—Color awareness, products, and free facial. Anna Prockish, 1001 Bluemont, 537-4246. (891f)

VOTE TODAY in Student Government Elections, State Room level, Union 7:30 a.m.-6:30 p.m.; Vet Med Center 11 a.m.-1 p.m. Bring your KSU I.D. (95-96)

FRED NEUMAN—Hope the votes are flowing in for you as Business Senator. The Charmin man is pulling for you. (95-96)

KEITH PETRACEK—Good luck today. We are all cheering for you. (96)

CARRIE HELMKE—Good luck! We know you will make a great Engineering Senator. You've got our vote. Love, your Theta Sisters. (96)

ATTENTION 02

FLYING INTEREST you? Check into K-State Flying Club. Call Steve Dyer at 532-9600 or 537-0456. (81f)

SPRING BREAK on the beach at South Padre Island, Daytona Beach, Fort Lauderdale, Fort Walton Beach or Mustang Island/Port Aransas from only $69, and skiing at Steamboat or Vail from only $80! Deluxe lodging, parties, goodie bags, more... Hurry, call Sunchase Tours for more information and reservations toll free 1-800-321-5911 or contact a local Sunchase Representative today! When your Spring Break counts... count on Sunchase. (80-109)

FOR RENT—APTS 04

FOR AUGUST—Deluxe two bedroom furnished apartment, across the street from Ford Hall, 539-2482 after 4:00 p.m. (92-102)

THREE BEDROOM available now. Utilities paid. Call Barbara, 537-1329. (83-98)

ONE OR TWO bedroom—Reasonable, one block to campus, available now. Call Barbara, 537-1329. (83-98)

NEXT TO CAMPUS—Leasing for fall, across from Marriott and Goodnow. Furnished two or one bedroom, central air, carpeting, fully equipped kitchen, balcony, off street parking. 539-2702, evenings, weekends. (88-98)

NEXT TO CAMPUS—Leasing for fall, across from Haymaker, overlooking campus. Two bedroom, fireplace, central air, carpeting, fully equipped kitchen, balcony, laundry facility, off street parking. 539-2702, evenings, weekends. (88-98)

BRAND NEW three bedroom. One and one-half baths, near campus. Available May, June or August, $480/month. Call 537-8800. (891f)

PLAN FOR the summer and the 1986-87 school year. McCullough Development Inc. is now accepting applications for summer and fall leases. Call us, we manage over 300 university area apartments. 776-3804. (891f)

AVAILABLE IMMEDIATELY—Furnished one bedroom apartment, one block from Ahearn. Call 776-9124. (91-108)

NEAR KSU for August—Four to five bedroom house at 312 North 15th Street, $560 per month. Also two bedroom newly remodeled furnished basement apartment. Heat, water, trash paid, laundry facilities, $275 per month. 539-2482 after 4 p.m. (92-96)

BRAND NEW deluxe two, three and four bedroom apartment complexes for fall. All close to campus, reasonably priced. Call 537-2919. (93-115)

NICE ONE, two, three and four bedroom apartments and houses. Also an elegant five bedroom house with three baths. Most near campus, available now, summer and fall. Good prices. Call 537-2919. (93-115)

FURNISHED ONE bedroom duplex. Move in immediately! No pets or smokers. Call 537-2811. (93-97)

AVAILABLE NOW! One bedroom duplex four blocks from campus. 537-2575 or 539-1894. (94-98)

PRAIRIE GLEN—A really nice place to live. Two bedroom unit available. 776-4786. (94-108)

FOR NEXT school year—One bedroom furnished, block west of campus. Call 539-5051 or see Dave # 4, 1024 Sunset. (94-98)

FOR NEXT school year, August—Two bedroom condo, one-half block west of campus, up to four people, $520. Call 776-4528 or see Dean #5, 1829 College Hts. (94-98)

IMMEDIATELY—NEED female non-smoking roommate. $125 plus utilities and own room. Call 537-4858. (95-97)

EFFICIENCY APARTMENT, $185/month. Heat, gas, water included. Call 537-7794 evenings and weekends. (95-104)

CLOSE TO CAMPUS—Two bedroom furnished apartment complex, laundry facilities, leasing for fall for two to four students. 537-0152. (95-107)

THREE BEDROOM in a near new nine-plex—One and a half baths, living room, dining room and fully equipped kitchen. Roomy and large closets. Limit four persons, $125 each or $450. Call 537-7087. (95-99)

VERY NICE one bedroom apartment. Utilities paid, seven minute walk to campus, unfurnished. 539-5015 after 3 p.m. (96-100)

913 BLUEMONT—Brand new three bedroom building available May 15. Call 537-7980 or 537-7810. (961f)

1207 KEARNEY or 1214 Vattier—Almost new three bedroom, laundry facilities. Available August 1. Call 537-2255 or 537-7810. (961f)

1530 MCCAIN Lane, overlook to campus—Luxury two bedroom, fireplace, modern appliances, laundry facilities. Available August 1. Call 537-7980 or 537-7810. (961f)

NEAR KSU for summer and fall. Four-plex, one bedroom, furnished, laundry, air conditioning, reasonable. 776-7814, 539-3803. (96-105)

FOR RENT—HOUSES 05

THREE BEDROOM home, 1523 Fairchild, available now. Call Barbara, 537-1329. (83-98)

SEVERAL THREE, four, and five bedroom houses for June occupancy. Clean and good condition guaranteed. $395 and up. 537-1269. (931f)

FOUR BEDROOM house for rent. Available in June, one year lease. Call 539-7569 after 5 p.m. (96-100)

FOR SALE—AUTO 06

FOR SALE—1971 Ford Galaxie 500. Good motor and transmission, $200 or best offer. Call Rina at 776-9055 after 5:00 p.m. (95-97)

1969 VW Bug—Runs good, 25-30 mpg, only $700. Call 1-268-7792. (96-101)

NEW EXHAUST system—$995! Free with it: New battery, radial snow tires, and 1976 Dodge Royal Monaco! Call Andrew (532-3678). (96-100)

FOR SALE—MISC 07

OFFICE SUPPLIES—Hull's Business Machines, 715 North 12th, Aggieville, 539-1413. (551f)

GOVERNMENT HOMES from $1 (U repair). Also delinquent tax property. Call 805-687-6000, ext. GH-9701 for information. (76-97)

STUDENT COMPUTER programming positions available. Should be familiar with at least one of the following languages: Pascal, C or PL/I and able to work 15 to 20 hours per week. We will supply the necessary training in microcomputers. Summer employment is a possibility. For more information contact Mary Knapp at 532-7019. Application forms available at Room 211, Umberger Hall. Applications will be accepted through February 14. (95-98)

COULD YOU BE A BOSTON NANNY?

Are you a loving, nurturing person who enjoys spending time with children? Join the network of over 300 people who have come to Boston to care for children through our agency. Live in lovely, suburban neighborhoods, enjoy excellent salaries, benefits, your own living quarters and limited working hours. Your round-trip transportation is provided. One year commitment necessary. Call or write: Mrs. Fisch, Childcare Placement Service, Inc. (CCPS), 149 Buckminster Rd., Brookline, Ma. 02146 (617) 566-6294.

BIKE MECHANIC—Part-time, experience required. Reply to Box 4, c/o Kansas State Collegian. (95-98)

CHAMBER MANAGER, Pratt, Kansas. Degree and prefer experience. For information contact Box 469, Pratt, KS or call 315-672-5501. (96-100)

MANNQUIN'S NOW accepting applications for all positions. Apply in person between 2 and 5 p.m. daily. (96-98)

LOST 14

LOST—SILVER bracelet, made up of four small serpentine braided. Please return. Call 537-8959. (95-96)

HELP! HAVE you seen my HP 15C. If so, please call 539-2354. (95-96)

NOTICES 15

PARTY, PARTY, party with Melissa Snider Thursday, and Friday (5-7 p.m.) at Brother's and sign up for the best time of your life in Daytona. (96-98)

PERSONAL 16

HENRIETTA—I dumped S.P. for you. How 'bout it? It could be power great! George. (96)

SCOOTER NO bribes with taxi-rides, "purple rain" or even hot tubs. How about a simple invite this time... Will you? (96)

J.C.?—MY Bugatti is all fueled up with nowhere to go. I hope you don't think "road rally" is just a game. I would climb the highest mountains, and brave the deepest, darkest jungle for you—Jesus. (96)

DAVID SELL—Thanks again for your super, automotive help. What a "tire some" and "pitiful" afternoon! Don't forget the spring car wash! Missy the Curb Rider (that's just between you, Rex, and me). (96)

AKL TED: How's the chicken? M. and J. (96)

WOMEN OF KSU—Despite recent attempts by certain people of Ford 4 to prove otherwise, my nickname doesn't mean what it implies. Love, Matress. (96)

ROOMMATE WANTED 17

FEMALE ROOMMATE for summer and next school year. Own room, spacious, pool, bike bath. 537-9008. (95-97)

ROOMMATE WANTED to share house—Own room, close to campus, negotiable rent, half utilities. 539-4697. (96-100)

SERVICES 18

PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free pregnancy test. Confidential. Call 537-9180. 103 S. Fourth St., Suite 25. (111f)

MANHATTAN CAMERA repairs cameras and equipment. 228 Poyntz, 776-4240. (41f)

WORD PROCESSING by computer, professional quality, letter-quality printer (not dot-matrix), disk storage. 776-6166. (131f)

TYPING/EDITING, letter quality word processor, professional resumes, cover letters, personalized form letters, disk storage. 539-5007. (76-113)

PROFESSIONALLY WRITTEN resumes, word processed cover letters, and typing. Resume Service, 1221 More Place, 537-7294. (721f)

MRS. KIM—Professional dressmaker and tailor. Alterations, 27 years experience. No pattern necessary. 537-2393. (82-111)

STOP PAYING $28 hour for VW repairs. Let the Bug Doctor at J & L Auto Service repair yours and save $8 per hour. Only seven minutes east. Highway 24. Bugs, Rabbits, Ghia's, type 3's included. 1-494-2388. St. George. (85-105)

DATA SHEETS to dissertations and everything in between. Letter quality Word Processing. Mrs. Burden, 539-1204. (91-97)

STUDENT SPECIALS—Perms $15, Cuts $5. Artistic Hair, 415 North 3rd St., 537-8169. (91-98)

PROFESSIONAL TYPING—Dissertations, reports, papers, resumes, cover letters. Call 539-2411. (93-97)

GRAPHS and scientific drawings, suitable for publication and slides. Call Janet, 776-9389. (94-103)

SINGING VALENTINES: Friends and lovers—Talk is cheap, songs are fun, send a Singing Valentine to someone special. My words $7, your words $10. Call 539-6849. (95-97)

EXPERIENCED TYPIST—Word-quality printer, computer, disc storage, $1/page. 532-5961/537-9205. Dorinda. (95-103)

SITUATIONS WANTED 19

$10-$360 weekly/mailing circulars. No quotas. Sincerely interested rush self-addressed envelope. Success, P.O. Box 470CEG, Woodstock, IL 60098. (76-105)

WANTED 21

BASS GUITARIST and/or lead singer for local band. Call Robert Brooks at 539-4885. (95-97)

MEN AT K.S.U.—You're invited to the party of a life time at Daytona Beach. For only $119 (you drive), $209 (you ride) with Melissa Snider. Call her at 776-8925 or come on down to Brother's to sign up and party with free beer at Brother's. (96)

WOMEN AT K.S.U.—The party is in Daytona with Melissa Snider (776-8925). Sign up Thursday and Friday at Brother's. (96)

Bloom County

Garfield

Peanuts

Crossword

ACROSS

1 Half a ballroom dance?

4 TV's "— 54—"

7 Arum plant

8 Burnett or Lawrence

10 Stage whisper

11 Dumas character

13 "All in the Family" spinoff

16 Actor Knight

17 Satisfies

18 Forty winks

19 Soaks flax

20 Anti-toxins

21 Cool spot in summer

23 Freshet

25 Bachelor party reveler

26 Baker's need

27 Hockey star

28 Fierce look

30 Macaw

33 TV crime drama

36 Spanish game

37 Roman official

38 Thin coins

39 Hawaiian goose

40 At an end; poetic

41 Head of the fairway

DOWN

1 Wept

2 Pilgrimage to Mecca

3 Revoked a legacy

4 Proof-reader's mark

5 Sandarac trees

6 Gypsy husbands

7 Tennis star

8 Coffee-houses

9 Young jungle cat

10 Lawyer; abbr.

12 Trap

14 Festival

15 Watering place

19 Tatter

20 The — Sack

21 Divest

22 Injured

23 "halced-ony"

24 Here!

25 Distress call

26 Actress, Turner, et al.

28 Dwarf

29 Not now

30 Ammonia compound

31 Part

32 Donkey, in Dijon

34 Medley

35 — fix

Avg. solution time: 24 min.

ARTS: LOP CEDE LUUA URT HEIR ETUICAT WALKS CATTAIL ASSET OLD RIM STORE CATSPAW EARGUMENA CATBOAT BRAND RLS BEE STEAL CATFISH CATTALLS IDE ARNE OUT NEAR READ TEE ESTA

2-12

Ans. to yesterday's puzzle

CRYPTOKUIP

2-12

OWFUZY WFNWEJEWRF ER

EZY GJCJUZEWOE: ICRG

WF JFI NWOWE LO!

Yesterday's Cryptokuip: FINE BUT ANTI-SOCIAL KEYBOARDIST CAN USE A DUET-YOURSELF KIT.

Today's Cryptokuip clue: E equals T

Trotters

Continued from Page 1

Washington, Kan., resident June Brabec. He went through the purse pulling out her glasses, wallet and tissues. After an unsuccessful attempt to hide the wallet, everything was returned to her, and she joined him on the court to dance, much to "Sweet Lou's" delight.

During the second half, Globetrotters Osborne Lockhart and Jimmy Blacklock sprayed each other, a few members of the crowd and one of the officials with water before pulling the old confetti in the water bucket trick on surprised spectators.

Dunbar chose eight-year-old Aaron Pursley, Manhattan, out of the crowd and coaxed him through five basket attempts until he finally scored the sixth shot. Young Pursley survived having his pants adjusted and a quick prayer session from Dunbar before being rewarded with a Harlem Globetrotters' T-shirt.

Israelis welcome dissident from Soviet imprisonment

By The Associated Press

TEL AVIV, Israel — Anatoly Shcharansky, the Soviet human rights activist imprisoned for nine years as a spy, was freed on a snowy Berlin bridge Tuesday and flown to a tumultuous, emotional welcome in Israel.

The 38-year-old Jewish dissident had become known as the "prisoner of Zion," a focus for international Jewry and symbol of Jews who are not allowed to leave the Soviet Union.

Also included in the East-West prisoner exchange on Berlin's Glienicke Bridge were five people held in the West on spy charges and three held in the East.

Shcharansky was freed first, apart from the others, to emphasize the U.S. insistence that he was not a spy. He was arrested in 1977 and a Soviet court convicted him of spying for the CIA, sentencing him in 1978 to 13 years imprisonment.

Prime Minister Shimon Peres and Foreign Minister Yitzhak Shamir embraced Shcharansky as he and his wife Avital, who met him in Frankfurt, stepped from the Israeli executive jet at Ben-Gurion Airport. The ceremony was broadcast live on radio and television.

"How are you?" Peres asked. "Everything is okay," Shcharan-sky said. They spoke in Hebrew.

Shcharansky clasped his hands above his head in victory, then held hands with Avital as she introduced him to Cabinet members, helping him with his Hebrew. For more than a decade she has lived in Israel.

About 3,000 people gathered outside the terminal building cheered and waved as the Shcharanskys and Peres went inside to telephone President Reagan.

"We thanked him for his tireless efforts out of a deep feeling for the Jewish people and an inner conviction that the Jewish people deserve to leave the Soviet Union," the prime minister said.

Richter

Continued from Page 1

taking massive building programs, and attempted to get support from governmental leaders through formal gatherings.

"But Reagan was the only one of stature to attend," she said, because of his desire to be seen with foreign leaders in preparation for a presidential bid.

Richter said Reagan's early announcements concerning the election, even before the ballots had been counted, were to position himself to continue support for Marcos.

The only surprise she saw from the election was the overt cheating on election day.

"(Marcos) didn't need to cheat," Richter said. "He could control voting lists...I just assumed there would be massive cheating in the preliminary stages."

She said previous intimidation would have been enough for Marcos to win, without the public scrutiny of overt action.

The final outcome, Richter said, is that "probably the vote count will be made to show he won," and will be ratified by the assembly.

Following this, she predicts, will be Reagan's "unenthusiastic stamp of acceptance" for the closely contested election.

Concerns with an Aquino victory have included the loss of the Philippines for military base sites, but Richter said the move was not necessarily an automatic one.

Richter said there is a concern, but Aquino, if elected, would institute a policy of "pragmatic review."

"She would have no standing in the community without making a nationalistic statement," she said.

She said perhaps the United States should initiate a phasing-out of military bases in the islands, such as was done in Thailand.

Although the "communists are a very tiny element" in the nation, she said Marcos "is the best recruiter the communists have."

'Cal' offers reality of blue-collar world

By GARY JOHNSON
Collegian Reviewer

The movie "Cal" is about guilt — the guilt that a young man feels after participating in an IRA-backed murder in Northern Ireland. He sees the widow working at the local library and becomes obsessed with befriending her.

Film Review

This is established early in the film. From then Cal tries to find out more about her. He follows her after she gets off work and later he shows up at her front door with a load of firewood to sell. Before long he has a job at her parents' farm, digging potatoes, cutting weeds, and slinging hay bales into the barn.

That much of the movie's plot is simple — the story of a young man searching for redemption — but the story is complicated once the IRA insists Cal continue participating in their activities.

These two stories run parallel for awhile and then converge, and along the way director Pat O'Connor does a masterful job of keeping everything going. In addition to the two plot lines, "Cal" is also a movie about life in Belfast and this is where the movie is most successful.

O'Connor shows an eye for detail, particularly with respect to the sites chosen. He takes us into the world of blue collar workers, whether it's at a slaughter house or in a potato field and makes that world authentic.

Belfast comes off a grim city, filled with fences, stone walls, all hard surfaces. The interiors of houses have that lived-in look, with few ornaments and mostly hard surfaces again.

Helen Mirren is particularly impressive as the widow Cal befriends. She subtly underplays the role instead of going for the grieving widow role. Two years ago at the Cannes Film Festival she won the Best Actress award for her work in "Cal."

John Lynch as Cal is just a bit too pathetic looking for his own good at times. At his best the turmoil inside him shows through without turning into self-pity.

Complementing the developments is the music of Mark Knopfler. There's no rock 'n' roll here, just gentle music that underscores the emotions of the movie. As the movie nears its climax the music increases in intensity, but it is always influenced by the same sense of compassion that motivates Cal.

STEP OUT
IN STYLE

THE COTTON CLUB

FRIDAY
VALENTINE'S DAY
Featuring

- ★Live Music by Al Thompson (Mr. Sax)
 - ★Special Dinners for Two
 - ★Romantic Atmosphere of the '20s
- Call for Reservations
539-6656

ASH
WEDNESDAY WORSHIP

COMMUNION
9 P.M.

Danforth Chapel

A time for reflection and peace
A time for commitment and justice

Sponsored by: Lutheran Campus Ministry
1021 Denison 539-4451

PRESENT
THE
SUN OF A
BEACH PARTY
Feb. 26

In conjunction with
DERBY DAYS
KICK-OFF PARTY

DOOR PRIZES:

GRAND PRIZE: TRIP FOR 2 TO ANY OF 3 HOT SPOTS TO FLORIDA.

1st PRIZE: FREE HOT TUB PARTY
CASH PRIZES FOR: BEST TANS, BEST BEACH BUM & TOP LIMBO SPECIALIST
BEST PALEFACE RECEIVES FREE TANNING SESSIONS!

PLUS MANY OTHER FREE PRIZES SUPPLIED BY:

So come and support Derby Days and remember: This is the party often chased but never caught!!

Auntie
Mae's Parlor
WEDNESDAY SPECIALS

$1.25 House Drinks
$1.75 Blended Drinks
$1.25 Wines

See Thursday's Collegian for details on Mae's
Valentine Party

539-9967

616 N. 12th

Aggieville

$86

Round trip. Anywhere we go.

This Spring Break, if you and your friends are thinking about heading to the slopes, the beach or just home for a visit, Greyhound can take you there. For only $86 or less, round trip.

From February 1 through April 30, all you do is show us your college student I.D. card when you purchase your ticket. Your ticket will then be good for travel throughout your Spring Break.

So this Spring Break, get a real break. Go anywhere Greyhound goes for $86 or less. For more information, call Greyhound.

Must present a valid college student I.D. card upon purchase. No other discounts apply. Tickets are nontransferable and good for travel on Greyhound Lines, Inc., and other participating carriers. Certain restrictions apply. Offer effective 2/1/86 through 4/30/86. Offer limited. Not valid in Canada.

GO GREYHOUND
And leave the driving to us.

700 Rosencutter, 776-9211

Dating Game
The Association of Residents Halls sponsored "The Dating Game," Wednesday in the Union Catskeller. See Page 12.

Weather

Mostly Cloudy
Becoming mostly cloudy by afternoon today, high in upper 20s to low 30s. Wind south 15 to 25 mph.

Sports

B-Ball Battle
Intramural basketball action continued Wednesday night at the Chester E. Peters Recreation Complex. More sports Page 7.

Kansas State

Collegian

Thursday
February 13, 1986

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 92, Number 97

Cashman, Johnson claim victories

Staff/Jeff Tuttle

Steve Johnson, sophomore in agriculture economics, is congratulated by his Farmhouse fraternity brothers as he reads Wednesday night's presidential election returns in which he received 704 votes.

Staff/Andy Nelson

Steve Cashman receives a congratulatory hug from Allison Southwell, junior in elementary education, after announcing he was in next week's runoff election. Cashman received the most votes, 852, in the two-day balloting.

Johnson rallies to decrease margin

By NANCY CASE
Collegian Reporter

After anxiously awaiting, the phone call finally came.

The preliminary results for student body president were in with Steven Johnson, sophomore in agriculture economics, listening intently on the phone with the election results.

Steve Cashman, junior in marketing, received 852 votes while Johnson received 704 votes. Patty Hipsher, junior in political science received 633 votes, Kelli Carr, senior in journalism and mass communications received 363 votes and Keith Petracek, junior in electrical engineering received 144 votes.

Johnson and Cashman will participate in a runoff election Feb. 19 to determine the next student body president.

"It will be hard to make up the 148 votes," Johnson said.

"I just look at what I have to do in the next week and it's going to be a real horse race," he said.

"You just never know who will come out ahead in these things," he said.

Johnson said there is always some luck involved in these things, but "I still think we have a good chance. "I think that if I can get out and speak with the groups and let them get to know me I can get the job done," Johnson said.

Johnson said he feels his biggest asset is the ability he has gained through three national youth organizations as their elected leader and his traveling across the United States speaking to many groups as a representative of the organizations.

"They have given me tremendous experience getting out and working with and representing various people," Johnson said.

Senate results, Page 6

"I think the organizations that I have participated in are similar to those of the student body president and can give me an edge," he said.

Johnson has been a member of student senate and a Judicial Council member at K-State and said "I think that has given me a pretty good understanding of K-State's system."

"As far as the election goes I'm not saying that I have a lot of miracle cures with things such as recruitment and retention and some other things," Johnson said.

"I don't see them as a liability in getting the job. I think I can handle it just as well. It might be a good selling point but I think it's one of my strong points."

"I try to be realistic about what I can do," Johnson said.

The campaign "takes a lot of time and it's draining" but Johnson said that he will "keep plugging away."

"I don't plan to change my strategy," for the runoff campaign, he said.

He will keep the same structure and "just hope to spread it a little further," Johnson said.

Johnson said he wants to be realistic about what the student body president can do and try to be straightforward with his ideas.

Johnson said he feels the main role of student body president is one of representation to the Board of Regents, the Legislature, prospective students, their parents, the faculty and administration and to the alumni.

"I'd like to say thanks to everyone that helped me out this far," Johnson said.

"It's for sure that nobody can do it by themselves."

Cashman optimistic about results

By LEANNE STOWE
Campus Editor

Just before the call telling him he was the forerunner in the election for Student Body President with 852 of the 2,778 votes cast, Steve Cashman said he was calm.

Calm before the storm it seemed as Cashman, junior in marketing, anxiously watched the man assigned to take phone calls come in and out of the room and announce names. He stood against the pop machine in the basement of the Sigma Nu house, 513 Sunset Ave., with a drink in one hand — the other stuffed into his jeans pocket.

Cashman was only 148 votes out in front of Steven Johnson, sophomore in agriculture economics, who received 704 votes. A runoff election between the two is scheduled for Feb. 19 in the Union.

Patty Hipsher, junior in political science, got 633 votes; Kelli Carr, senior in journalism and mass communications, garnered 363 votes and Keith Petracek, junior in electrical engineering, received 144 votes.

As Cashman stood in the house phone booth receiving the much-awaited call, more than 20 people gathered around him with more people coming in the door asking impatiently what he was being told.

"We're on top," Cashman exclaimed, with his hands raised above his head after hanging up the phone.

After congratulatory hugs and handshakes, Cashman said he was excited about the results.

"I feel fantastic," he said. "I feel very optimistic. I'm glad to hear that I'm on top after the general election I plan to keep up the campaign pace and we'll hope for the best next week."

Cashman said he planned to keep up the campaign pace for the election runoff.

"I plan to hit every place just as hard and in the same proportions," he said. "I want to get back to the residence halls. I want to get back to the living groups that I got some strong rapport from and the residence halls I got some strong support from."

He said the goal now is to get the people back out to the polls for a second vote.

"I want to make sure to get back out and get the people back out to the voting gate," he said. "I feel I've got some strong support. I feel we just need to get it back again."

In his race against Johnson,

Cashman said he thought his age and experience would be an asset.

"I have to say my biggest asset over him would have to be my experience," he said. "I've been involved for two and a half years, not just in student government."

"Steve is a sophomore and I feel like I've been around a year more than he has. I've learned how the students feel, and I feel I'm accountable to students," Cashman said.

Cashman said in his campaign now he is going to counterattack some allegations he feels are not true.

"I'm just going to bring out the fact that some people think that some of the things about recruitment and retention were unrealistic," he said. "I don't agree. You know all it takes is somebody who has got the willingness to work in the capacity of student body president."

"I've got the willingness and I want the job," he said. "I've been involved for two and a half years and I'm not going to campaign on something I don't think I can follow through with."

Cashman based his campaign on recruitment and retention. His proposals included coordination of the ambassador programs and creation of a freshman orientation class.

Acker sets deadline for coliseum figure

By TIM CARPENTER
Editorial Page Editor

President Duane Acker has set a deadline of noon Monday for architects working on the proposed Fred Bramlage Coliseum to arrive at a firm construction cost estimate so planning may continue and a decision can be made about the viability of the project.

"The president wants a definite indication as to the cost of the facility. There has been sufficient time to do the various studies...and to come up with an indication of what the budget will be," said George Miller, vice president for administration and finance and chairman of the Coliseum Planning Committee, a campus group monitoring the project.

In a letter sent to State Architect John Hipp, coliseum architect Bill Livingston and others, Acker said the deadline "is essential in order to expedite the decision-making process."

A group of architects and consultants working on the project met in Topeka on Monday to review plans and formulate a construction cost estimate but walked away empty-handed.

Architects representing Gossen Livingston Associates of Wichita, the University, the Kansas Board of Regents and the state architect's office decided at the meeting to delay a decision on the budget until a geologist could conduct a more complete study of the proposed site south of the KSU Stadium.

Geologists were to determine the necessity of placing $300,000 to $800,000 concrete piles under the building to prevent the foundation from cracking when the soil shifts and resettles over the years. The review was to have delayed a decision on the budget about three weeks, according to University Planner Larry Garvin.

Acker made the request because he was disappointed the architects couldn't resolve the budget question at the Monday meeting, said Vince Cool, a member of the coliseum committee and University architect in charge of the project.

"I was a bit disappointed myself," Miller said, "because I assumed that the architectural staff in the meeting on Monday would arrive at some sort of clear indication of what the costs are going to be, but we didn't get any."

The coliseum committee has been meeting regularly since August 1985, when all bids on the then planned 16,000-seat coliseum were at least several million dollars above the legislated maximum budget of $14.5 million.

Livingston agreed in September to abide by his contract and redesign the facility at no cost.

Since that time 2,500 seats, administrative and coaches offices, and the concession/restroom facility at the north end of the coliseum have been eliminated from the plans in an attempt to bring the project within budget.

Livingston told the committee in late January the project would cost $500,000 to $1.1 million more than budgeted. However, regent architect Warren Corman told the committee Feb. 3 the cost of the 13,500-seat coliseum could be $2 million more than estimated.

Corman also suggested that the coliseum committee should "get the architect to stand still and find out if he can build the project within your budget."

Miller said it would not be difficult to arrive at a budget estimate by noon Monday. Livingston and Hipp have agreed to the necessity for moving rapidly with project planning, he said.

The coliseum committee is attempting to get a firm handle on costs because approval to remove the budget lid to accommodate any cost overrun must be granted by

Acker, the regents and the Kansas Legislature.

Acker said early this month that a decision about the coliseum should be made in the context of four criteria. The coliseum drawings must indicate the building would accommodate its planned multi-purpose functions and be built with quality materials. Sources of funding for a budget increase must also be identified and those monitoring the project must have confidence the coliseum would be bid within within budget, he said.

Acker has stated he will not seek an increase in the coliseum budget authority unless "I am perfectly satisfied the plan meets the four criteria."

The coliseum is to be funded with $7 million in student fees, $2 million from the Department of Intercollegiate Athletics and the remainder from the KSU Foundation. Arthur Loub, executive director of the Foundation, has indicated the Foundation has contributions to cover the $500,000 budget increase, but not a $1 million deficit.

The budget estimate deadline established by Acker falls one day before the next scheduled meeting of the coliseum committee. The meeting is set for Tuesday.

Reagan's budget plan to affect student aid

By JERI HEIDRICK
Managing Editor

President Reagan's proposed 1987 spending blueprint touches the University directly in at least two ways — a decrease in federal funding of student loans and extension services.

Included in Reagan's proposed budget are cuts to one million college students in financial aid across the nation. The president wants to reduce the number of students on Pell Grants by 800,000, said Robert Evans, director of student financial assistance.

The budget proposal suggests reducing funding for agricultural research in Kansas more than $700,000 and for Cooperative Extension Service programs by more than $3 million in Kansas. If passed by Congress, the budget cuts would go into effect Oct. 1, when the federal fiscal year begins.

"The administration also wants to lower the maximum Pell Grant (to between) $1,600 to $1,800 for students," Evans said. "Currently, the maximum Pell Grant is $2,100. The administration can save money, but they will be cutting students."

Under the National Direct Student Loan program, total borrowing limits would be increased to a total of $40,000 for graduate students after an income-contingent repayment option is incorporated into the program. Annual limits for undergraduates would be increased from $2,500 to $4,500 per year and $10,000 for graduate students.

The U.S. Department of Education has requested $15.2 billion for 1987, a decrease from the $18.4 billion fiscal year 1986 level. Evans said $2 billion of the $3 billion dollars that could be cut from education would come from student-aid programs.

The budget proposes to restructure the College Work Study program with the Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant program. The Supplemental Grant program is for students with a great need for financial

See CUTS, Page 6

Briefly

INTERNATIONAL

Japan to maintain auto exports

TOKYO — Japan will announce today that it will extend into a sixth year its voluntary restraints of auto exports to the United States, maintaining current levels, Japanese news reports said.

The reports said International Trade and Industry Minister Michio Watanabe will announce that Japan will hold auto shipments to the United States to 2.3 million vehicles in fiscal year 1986 starting April 1, the same as in fiscal 1985.

An official in the trade ministry's automobile division declined to confirm the reports, saying consultations on the issue were continuing.

In Indianapolis, Ind., U.S. Senator Dan Quayle also said he had been told by an official of the Japanese Embassy in Washington that the announcement on maintaining current export levels would come in Tokyo today.

The reported decision to continue the voluntary restraint program, which was started in 1981, came shortly after the United States announced a record trade deficit of $49.7 billion with Japan last year. There is also strong pressure in the U.S. Congress to enact protectionist legislation against Japan.

Britain, France sign tunnel treaty

CANTERBURY, England — Against the backdrop of medieval Canterbury Cathedral, Britain and France signed a treaty Wednesday promising to build a tunnel under the English Channel before the end of the century.

Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher of Britain and French President Francois Mitterrand had announced last month their choice of a 31-mile twin rail tunnel to link their countries.

A crowd of 3,000 lined the streets in near-freezing weather to welcome the two leaders.

After the expected ratification of the treaty and passage of necessary enabling laws by the parliaments of both countries, work on the Channel Tunnel is scheduled to start by mid-1987, with the opening hoped for in 1993.

REGIONAL

Garden City man freezes to death

GOVE — A Garden City man apparently froze to death during the weekend after his car became stuck in an isolated area of southern Gove County, the sheriff's office said.

The body of Frank Bribiesca, 78, was found Monday by a 20-member search team, a few miles from his car, Undersheriff Ron Achilles said.

Achilles said the search began early Monday morning when Bribiesca's relatives contacted the department. He said coyote hunters had found his car, out of gas and unoccupied, stuck in a rut in a pasture Sunday afternoon.

Officials said Bribiesca apparently stayed with the car Friday and left to search for help when it ran out of gas. He apparently died late Friday or early Saturday.

"We don't know if he fell down or passed out," Achilles said. "But the coroner ruled he'd frozen to death."

Growers try to save beet business

GOODLAND — The Great Western Sugar Co. beet processing plant near Goodland sits idle — part of a bankruptcy proceeding that threatens to destroy an industry that has been a part of northwest Kansas agriculture since the 1950s.

John Golden of Goodland and other sugar beet growers in Kansas and Colorado hope to save the Goodland plant and five others, but their schedule is tight.

"Growers will plant their sugar beet seeds this April or May, but in order to plant we must have a growers' contract before anyone will move," said Golden, chairman of a committee negotiating with Great Western to buy plants near Goodland and the Colorado towns of Loveland, Greeley, Fort Morgan, Sterling and Ovid.

Golden said the growers have offered Great Western "less than $13 million," the amount discussed during talks several months ago with another growers' group, Mountain States Beet Growers Cooperative. He said meetings between Mountain States and Great Western stopped because the cooperative could not find the money to purchase the plants.

He said growers and Great Western are a "ways off" on a purchase price, but Colorado's secretary of agriculture has agreed to act as a go-between for the two groups.

By The Associated Press

NATIONAL

Department to indict 50 employees

WASHINGTON — The Department of Justice is preparing indictments against about 50 employees of Eastern Airlines believed to be smuggling cocaine from South America, federal law enforcement sources said Wednesday.

The sources, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said the 50 employees are "almost exclusively baggage handlers" in Miami. The handlers are said to be the key to a narcotics pipeline bringing cocaine into the United States from Bogota, Colombia, by way of Miami, where the carrier is based.

The probe has been going on at least two months, the sources said, and it may continue for another two months.

"We think there is a small cadre of handlers who are holding out baggage" to circumvent a narcotics net set up by U.S. Customs officials, one of the law enforcement sources said.

The sources said that Customs officials employed sniffer dogs to detect drugs. The baggage handlers involved in the drug shipments have, for example, kept baggage containing cocaine away from the conveyor belts at the Miami airport until after sniffer dogs are taken away, the sources said.

One source said that in some cases, the handlers simply keep the bags loaded with narcotics on the planes until Customs checks are completed.

Tuesday, the head of the Drug Enforcement Administration, John Lawn, said in California that the indictments were being prepared, but did not name the airline.

Navy keeping letter, lawyer says

NEWPORT, R.I. — The lawyer for a sailor who could face execution for murdering an officer at sea accused the Navy on Wednesday of suppressing a letter in which the victim's family allegedly opposes the death penalty.

But the Navy prosecutor in the court-martial of Petty Officer 3rd Class Mitchell T. Garraway Jr., without the military jury present, refused to say whether such a letter exists, and if it does, what it says.

The Navy judge hearing the case at the Newport Naval Base deferred ruling on the motion by civilian defense lawyer Trevor L. Brooks to force disclosure of any such letter.

But the judge chastised Brooks several times for referring to it in front of the eight-member military panel now deciding whether Garraway, 21, of Suitland, Md., should be sentenced to life imprisonment or capital punishment.

Garraway was convicted Jan. 30 of premeditated murder for slaying Lt. James K. Sterner, 35, aboard the frigate USS Miller off the Bermuda coast last June.

Both sides agree the motive in the slaying was Garraway's belief that Sterner had unfairly blocked a promotion. The defense also has said that Garraway, who is black, believed that Sterner, who was white, was a racist with a grudge against him.

"Sterner's family sent letters to government counsel stating their opposition to this case being referred to as a capital case...They were opposed to the death penalty," said Brooks. He argued that the panel should have the benefit of such information when weighing his client's fate.

But the Navy prosecutor, Lt. Daniel E. O'Toole, told Judge John A. Studer said any such letter, if it existed, would be irrelevant.

PEOPLE

Von Bulow drops name from race

WASHINGTON — Claus von Bulow says he's not running for the U.S. Senate from New York, or anywhere else, even though someone filed "Draft von Bulow for Senator" papers with federal campaign officials.

"I am a Danish citizen and always have been," von Bulow said in a telephone interview from New York City Tuesday.

A document filed with the Federal Election Commission and made available this week stated there was a "Draft von Bulow for Senator" organization in New York which listed its chairman as R. Grayson and treasurer as Nina Mule.

The document was filed on June 17, 1985, seven days after a jury in Providence, R.I., found von Bulow innocent of two counts of attempting to murder his heiress wife by injecting her with insulin. The verdict came in a retrial after the Rhode Island Supreme Court reversed his 1982 convictions.

Von Bulow laughed at the apparent prank and said he had no idea who was responsible.

Repeated calls to an answering machine at the New York City address listed on the document were not returned.

Campus Bulletin

- ANNOUNCEMENTS
- STEEL RING: There will be an engineering freshman and sophomore design contest April 2. More information is available in Durland 142.
- CAREER PLANNING AND PLACEMENT is distributing second semester interview visit lists and has registration forms available for 1986 graduates permitting participation in on-campus interviews.
- ALTERNATIVE MUSIC BRIGADE: All contributions to the next issue of the AMB-SIDE are due by 5 p.m. Feb. 20 in the mailbox in the Union Activities Office.
- CHIMES: Applications are available in the Union Activities Center and are due at 5 p.m. Feb. 21.
- DELTA DELTA DELTA: Applications for women's undergraduate scholarships are available in the financial aid office or at the Delta Delta Delta house and are due March 1.
- INCOME TAX ASSISTANCE is available from 2 to 4 p.m. in the SGS Office.
- TODAY
- PRE-VET CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in Veterinary Medical Teaching 201.
- FREE HEARING TESTS for students are available from 12:30 to 2 p.m. in Leisure 107.
- OMICRON NU meets at 7 p.m. in Justin 115.
- LAMBDA CHI ALPHA meets at 9 p.m. in the Lambda Chi Alpha living room.
- AMERICAN INSTITUTE OF CHEMICAL ENGINEERS meets at 1:30 p.m. in Ackert 120.
- PRE-PHYSICAL THERAPY CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in Union 204.
- PARACHUTE CLUB will have an informational meeting at 7 p.m. in Union 206. A general meeting will follow at 8 p.m.
- AG AMBASSADORS meet at 6 p.m. in Waters Reading Room.
- CAMPUS CRUSADE FOR CHRIST meets at 7 p.m. in Throckmorton 131.
- BAPTIST STUDENT UNION meets at 7 p.m. at the Baptist Campus Center, 1801 Anderson Ave.
- ALPHA CHI SIGMA meets at 8 p.m. in Willard 218.
- PRE-PHYSICAL THERAPY CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in Union 204.
- ANOREXIA NERVOSA AND ASSOCIATED DISORDERS meets at 7:30 p.m. at Lafene Student Health Center.
- MICROBIOLOGY CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in Ackert 234.
- NEWMAN meets at 8:30 p.m. at St. Isidore's, 711 Denison Ave.

Looking Back

- 20 Years Ago — 1966
- The names of 25 coeds are listed as contestants in the Best Dressed Girl Contest to be held Feb. 17 in Williams Auditorium. The contenders for the title represent members of both sororities and residence halls at K-State.
- 15 Years Ago — 1971
- Three K-State students were found guilty yesterday in Riley County District Court of disorderly conduct in connection with an altercation in the Union last October. Two of the three defendants were acquitted of attempted aggravated assault with which they were also charged.
- 10 Years Ago — 1976
- F.D. "Dave" Farrell, known on the K-State campus for 35 years — 18 spent as the University's president — died this morning at the age of 92 at his residence in Topeka. Farrell, whose presidency ran from 1925 to 1943, was the eighth chief administrator for the University.
- 5 Years Ago — 1981
- An amendment to postpone Student Senate's vote on the coliseum referendum was sponsored by Randy Tosh, student body president in last night's assembly. If the amendment passes in the next meeting of senate, the referendum will not receive a vote until April 30, the last business session of senate.
- A new system for the sale of basketball tickets was introduced at a joint meeting of the old and new student senates. The recommended proposal would schedule ticket sales for the weekend before Nov. 1 each year. The step is designed to eliminate discrimination against students unable to skip class to wait in line.
- Compiled from the University Archives

BEER & BURGERS TONITE!

•25¢ Draws
•$1.75 Pitchers
•99¢ Burgers & Homemade
Kurly Q's 6-9 p.m.

MEET YOUR FRIENDS AT...

KITE'S
BAR AND GRILLE

SWEETHEARTS: TGIF RED BEER!

KMAN 1350

RADIO AUCTION

YOU'LL HAVE FUN AND SAVE MONEY! IT'S EASY... JUST LISTEN AND CALL IN YOUR BIDS!

The items listed below will be auctioned to the highest bidder this Saturday from 8:05 a.m. to noon. Visit the sponsors... inspect the merchandise...determine your bid. Keep your radio on KMAN 1350 and your hand near the phone. Just call in and bid on the KMAN auction line: 776-1333.

AUCTION DATE: FEBRUARY 15, 1986	RETAIL VALUES
Balloon Bouquet for Valentine's: THE PALACE	$ 25.00
2-House Special Pizza: FALSETTO'S	$ 24.00
$30 Merchandise Certificate: HIGHFIELD COTTAGE	$ 30.00
Kimberly Roller Skating Doll: MANHATTAN HOBBIES & TOYS	$ 25.50
Barbequed Dinner For Two: LAST CHANCE RESTAURANT	$ 15.00
$50 Certificate on a Phone: THE PHONE CONNECTION	$ 50.00
$100 Cert For Insulation Job: WILDCAT EXTERIORS	$100.00
$25 Cert For Food and Beverages: AGGIE STATION RESTAURANTS	$ 25.00
Sealy King Size Mattress Set: FAITH FURNITURE	$499.00
2-$10 Merchandise Certificates: THE PIZZERIA	$ 20.00
Package of 5 Passes for 2: SETH CHILDS CINEMA	$ 30.00
$25 Food Cert for Dinner: RAOUL'S	$ 25.00
2-Balloon Bouquets: BALLOON BOUTIQUE	$ 25.00
1 Year Individual Membership: NAUTILUS	$270.00
Transformer Jet Fire: MANHATTAN HOBBIES & TOYS	$ 39.00
Complete Car Wash: BUDGET CAR CARE	$ 25.00
Nylit Tractor Trailer: MANHATTAN HOBBIES & TOYS	$ 24.99
Wooden Swan Table Centerpiece: THE CONTAINERY	$ 20.00
Single Family Roach Treatment: AMERICAN PEST MANAGMENT	$ 65.00
Case of Pepsi: PEPSI BOTTLING	$ 8.55
Case of Diet Pepsi: PEPSI BOTTLING	$ 8.55
Case of Mountain Dew: PEPSI BOTTLING	$ 8.55
Package of 5 Passes for 2: COMMONWEALTH THEATERS	$ 40.00
$25 Cert for Cleaning: SERVICE MASTER	$ 25.00
Full Service Oil & Lube: WAYNE'S QUICK LUBE	$ 19.95
$100 Merchandise Certificate: DUERFELDT'S JEWELERS	$100.00
2086 Eureka Upright Sweeper: B & L VACUUM	$229.95
Complete Clean and Lubrication: B & L VACUUM	$ 15.00
Litton Microwave Oven: MIDWEST APPLIANCE	$299.95
$15 Car Wash Cert Book: VILLAGE PLAZA AUTO	$ 15.00
14K Gold and Diamond Earrings: THE DIAMOND CONNECTION	$ 70.00
$25 Cert. For Drop Off Service: FREMONT LAUNDRY	$ 25.00
Magnavox Portable Stereo: GHERE'S	$169.95
Weston WX-7, 35 MM Camera: ADY'S APPLIANCE	$ 50.00
$50 Merchandise Certificate: DRAPERY WORLD	$ 50.00
$30 Merchandise Certificate: TAYLOR'S SHOES	$ 30.00
8x11 Braided Oval Rug: MANHATTAN HOBBIES & TOYS	$115.00
$50 Merchandise Certificate: DANENBERGS HOLIDAY JEWELERS	$ 50.00
$50 Merchandise Certificate: CAMPBELL'S	$ 50.00
2-$10 Food Certificates: HUNAM'S RESTAURANT	$ 20.00
$25 Merchandise Certificate: FUNCTIONS	$ 25.00
6-Piece Skin Care Package & Color Analysis: LADY FINELLE	$ 60.45
Sumi Toma Tires Certificate: REX'S TIRE CO.	$300.00
$25 Merchandise Certificate: PENNY'S	$ 25.00
$150 Merchandise Certificate: FURNITURE CENTER	$150.00
$25 Food Certificate from Croissant Cafe: KITCHENS PLUS	$ 25.00
$25 Merchandise Certificate: WEISNERS SEW UNIQUE	$ 25.00
Reconditioned Singer Sewing Machine: BERNINA SEWING CTR.	$249.00

OUR HOT NEW PHILLY IS STACKED WITH STEAK,

COMES WITH A FREE PEPSI!

AND TASTES BETTER WITH THIS COUPON.

A Philly is sizzling choice steak grilled in onions, mushrooms, green peppers and melted cheese all lovingly piled onto six inches of our famous Sub & Stuff bun. It's certain to cause cravings for a medium ice-cold Pepsi®. So bring in this coupon before January 31, 1986. When this offer stops sizzling.

Sub & Stuff
Sandwich Shop

12th & More
Aggville

One coupon per visit, please.

IT'S BACK!

Again, on Sundays we're accepting all valid coupons for free drinks!

Godfather's Pizza.

Dine in—carryout only
1118 Laramie 539-5303

Get a large (1 topping) Thin Crust Pizza for $5.99 OR a large (1 topping) Original Crust Pizza for $6.99

(You can always order extra toppings for a small additional charge)
Dine-in, Carryout or Delivery—(Add $1 For Delivery)
Limit one pizza per coupon. Please present coupon before ordering or upon delivery. Not valid with any other offer. Good only at participating Godfather's Pizza restaurants. Price does not include tax. Expires 2-28-86. No cash value. Limited delivery area.

Godfather's Pizza.

NASA examines evidence; films reveal flames on rings

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — NASA insisted Wednesday it is not yet convinced a booster rocket caused the explosion of space shuttle Challenger and said both the rocket's manufacturer and space agency experts agreed to the launch in unusual sub-freezing weather.

At the same time, the space agency released internal documents that showed a history of concern with the "O ring" seals where the four segments of the solid rocket booster are joined. In report after report, the huge rubber-like rings' elasticity and ability to contain gases were mentioned as critical items to be looked at.

Attention has been focused on the seals because films of Challenger's Jan. 28 liftoff show a plume of flame appearing to spurt from the right rocket booster toward the shuttle's main tank loaded with volatile fuel. The ability of the seals to contain gas and flame is under close scrutiny.

"The cause is still an open issue," William R. Lucas, director of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Marshall Space Flight Center told a news briefing. "We are investigating every part of the shuttle and not attempting to focus in too early."

After scrubbing a launch on Jan.

27 for other causes, NASA engineers discussed the weather by telephone with space shuttle contractors, including some at Morton Thiokol Inc., which manufactures the booster rockets in Utah. The overnight low temperature was expected to be 24 degrees, said Lawrence B. Mulloy, director of the booster rocket program at Marshall, in Huntsville, Ala.

"At that time no concern was expressed by the solid rocket motor manufacturer or my people on the solid rocket motor relative to the predicted temperatures," he said.

Rather, he said, the discussion turned on whether the shuttle was ready for launch again in a short 24-hour "turnaround" period.

Later that evening there was another telephone conference, Mulloy said. Thiokol engineers had looked at NASA data on the possible effect low temperatures might have on O ring performance.

"The initial recommendation of the Thiokol engineers was that we should launch within our experience base — which was that the O ring temperatures should be 53 degrees."

Witnesses testifying Tuesday to the presidential commission investigating the accident said that despite the bitter freezing weather on the launch pad, they believed the internal temperature of the boosters' fuel to be in the 50s.

Mulloy said NASA decided that if the gases made it past the primary seal, a secondary O ring would contain them "as it has done in the past, even under those temperature conditions."

Then, he said, the Thiokol program manager "recommended proceeding with the launch under those temperature conditions based on the engineering analysis that had been done."

The temperature at the 11:38 a.m. launch time was 38 degrees. The lowest temperature in all other 24 shuttle launches, 51 degrees, was on the previous launch on Jan. 28.

The shuttle rocket boosters, each 149 feet tall, are jettisoned from the shuttle after they exhaust their fuel after two minutes of flight.

The documents, which were given to the presidential commission during a private session Monday, indicated that NASA was worried about post-flight examinations that showed pitting of some primary O rings. This indicated that gases had escaped past them.

"Morton Thiokol feels that the case field joint poses the greatest potential risk in that its secondary seal may not maintain metal contact throughout motor operation," said a study by that firm last August.

Philippine vote count to begin

Aquino shuns U.S. support

By The Associated Press

MANILA, Philippines — Corazon Aquino warned President Reagan on Wednesday against supporting the National Assembly's expected proclamation of President Ferdinand E. Marcos as winner of last Friday's presidential election.

The assembly, dominated by Marcos' New Society Movement party, is to begin official tabulation of votes this Friday, using what the opposition has said are fraudulent local vote tallies.

"I would wonder at the motives of a friend of democracy who chose to conspire with Marcos to cheat the Filipino people of their liberation," said Aquino, who claimed anew that she has already won the presidency.

Marcos has declared himself the "probable winner."

Reagan asserted at a news conference Tuesday night that the elections were marred by fraud on both sides, but his remark was disputed by several U.S. election observers who said they had seen no evidence of fraud by Aquino's supporters.

No immediate reaction came from the presidential palace to Reagan's statements or to his decision to send diplomatic trouble-shooter Philip Habib to Manila as his personal emissary.

Aquino said only that Habib would likely get a courteous welcome.

As to suggestions that she reconcile with Marcos, she replied: "It would be a delusion of policy that an opposition whose leaders and followers have been and are being killed can suddenly settle down to a Western-style opposition role in a healthy two-party system. Too many will be dead the moment the world's head is turned."

The nation's Roman Catholic bishops arranged to meet Thursday to review the election.

The military says 86 people were killed during the two-month campaign, the latest being Aquino campaign official Evelio Javier, a former governor shot dead by hooded men in Antique province. The Philippine News Agency placed the total at 107.

Results of two separate counts kept showing opposite results five days after the election.

Aquino had gained in the government election commission returns but Marcos led with 7,032,695 votes, or 50.6 percent, to 6,859,234, or 49.4 percent, with two-thirds of the precincts reporting.

The independent ballot-monitoring group National Movement for Free Elections, or Namfrel, had Aquino ahead, 7,158,679, or 52.3 percent, to 6,532,362, or 47.3 percent for Marcos, based on 64 percent of the precincts.

Both counts were continuing although they are not legally binding. Only the National Assembly count, to be posted on chalk boards as tally sheets are read, is official.

Marcos, 68, president for 20 years, has not faced real opposition since 1969. He ruled under martial law from 1972 to 1981. His six-year term runs until 1987, but he called a special election trying to prove he still had overwhelming support.

Most of the districts not yet reported were in areas Marcos was expected to carry.

Aquino spokesman Rene Saguisag was asked if he expects Marcos to win in the National Assembly count.

"By the tyranny of numbers, yes, because they have the votes," he replied.

Marcos' New Society Movement has a two-thirds majority in the assembly.

Government television has reported purported election violations by the opposition party and by some of Namfrel's 500,000 volunteers who were trying to guard the polls.

Collegian Classifieds
Where K-State Shops

comprehensive health associates
*free pregnancy tests
*outpatient abortion services
*alternatives counseling
*gynecology
*contraception
Overland Park, KS 913-345-1400

The Station
GIVES YOU
THE BREAKS
EVERY THURSDAY

$1.50 BUYS YOU
ANY and ALL MIXED DRINKS
(all brands, all drinks)
80¢ Draws ■ $1.00 Wine
ALL DAY & ALL NIGHT!

Aggie
STATION Aggieville, USA
RESTAURANT & BAR
1115 MORO • 776-0030

Attention 1986-87 Juniors
Applications for
Chimes Junior Honorary

Applications are available for any 86-87 Junior with a GPA of 3.0 or above in the Union Activities Center, 3rd floor.

Due Friday, Feb. 21 at 5 p.m.
in the Union Activities Center

"NO THANKS, I'VE HAD ENOUGH"

ALCOHOL
& OTHER DRUG EDUCATION
SERVICE

funded by SRS Alcohol and Drug Abuse Services

$3.00 Off
Gift Certificates

(10 or more sessions)
"They look great inside
Valentine Cards..."

*Offer good today - Sunday
*Good only with coupon

Tropical Tan

FirstBank Center/Second level
Denison and Claflin

537-0744

McCain

The Mitchell-
Ruff
Duo

"Two jazz giants who will set your soul on fire"
—Dizzy Gillespie

McCain Auditorium
Friday, February 14, 1986
8:00 p.m.
Box Office:
(913) 532-6428

Auntie
Mae's Parlor

THURSDAY

$1 Drinks

50¢ Draws

$2 Pitchers

FRIDAY

$1.25 House Drinks

75¢ Draws

See Friday's
Collegian for Champagne and Wine Specials

616 N. 12th

Aggieville

539-9967

Graduated Savings.

COLLEGE
$15 OFF ALL 10K GOLD	$30 OFF ALL 14K GOLD	$40 OFF ALL 18K GOLD

One week only, save on the gold ring of your choice. For complete details, see your Jostens representative at:

Feb. 11-14 10am-4pm

Deposit Req: $20.70 non-refundable

Supply floor k-state union
bookstore 0302

Payment plans available. ©1985 Jostens, Inc.

JOSTENS
AMERICA'S COLLEGE RING™

Editor: David Svoboda
Associate Editor: Lillian Zier
News Editor: Patty Reinert
Managing Editor: Jeri Heidrick

Editorial Page Editor: Tim Carpenter
Photo/Graphics Editor: Chris Stewart
Advertising Manager: Lori Wong
Director/News Adviser: Dave Adams

Editorial Board: David Svoboda, Tim Carpenter, Melissa Brune, Rich Harris, Jeri Heidrick, Steve Milligan, Patty Reinert, Vicki Reynolds, Eric Rhodenbaugh, Tammy Rickerson, Catherine Saylor, Tom Schultes, Richard Thorp, Jonie Trued, Lillian Zier.

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 020) is published by Student Publications, Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods. OFFICES are in the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 532-6555. Newsroom phone number is 532-6556; display advertising, 532-6560; and classified advertising 532-6555. SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: $40, calendar year; $35, academic year; $20, semester; $10, summer term. Address changes should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 100, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

Editorial

Thursday, February 13, 1986 — 4

Assembly a chance to alter policy

CATHERINE
SAYLER
Collegian
Columnist

Sibling rivalry is never easy to handle. Kevin Elmore should know. He's trying to get a group of K-State students together to resolve just such a conflict.

Elmore, senior in computer science and campus director of the Associated Students of Kansas, described the proposed action in the Legislative Assembly this Sunday as "meddling in the affairs of a sister school."

At issue is whether Washburn University should be accepted into the Kansas Board of Regents system. The University of Kansas has introduced a resolution that ASK, a lobbying group comprising the seven regents schools and Washburn, oppose the inclusion of Washburn in the system. ASK delegates from Washburn oppose KU's resolution leaving the decision, for the most part, up to the delegates from the six remaining schools.

Through student fees, K-State's monetary contribution to ASK amounts to roughly $16,700 — a bargain, Elmore claims, for the more than $1.3 million increase in student aid brought about in part by ASK's lobbying efforts. Where K-State is failing to cash in, according to Elmore, is in student participation.

Despite Elmore's promotional efforts, several of K-State's 17 delegate seats remain unfilled at every Legislative Assembly. Assemblies are held twice a semester to inform delegates of the status of statewide educational issues and to take a formal vote on which issues the groups will lobby for in the months ahead.

Because each delegate can hold one proxy, K-State has always applied its full voting power to proposed issues. Elmore, however, has been striving to get 17 students, each with one vote, to attend the assemblies. A greater number of students guarantees a more representative vote.

On the Washburn issue, Elmore said, "My position is 'No,' we don't want them in unless we can find an alternative source of revenue, but that's only my position. That's why I need 17 people there — to determine where K-State stands."

Another issue, which will be addressed at the Sunday meeting in Lawrence, is whether ASK should support revenue-generating legislation — most likely a sales tax increase.

Several years ago, when ASK supported the state severance tax on oil production as a means of generating revenue for education, K-State delegates and student leaders got so angry they almost withdrew from ASK. Oil production was the only moneymaker for some farmers so a tax on this income source hit the hearts of students.

After the severance tax controversy, ASK pledged to stick strictly to educational issues, but as Elmore puts it, "the problem is that when you're lobbying and you say, 'We want some more money (for education),' the first thing a legislator says is 'OK, now where are you going to get it from?'"

Other issues that will be discussed at the assembly include the state work-study program, state scholarships, teacher scholarships, merit-based aid and student salaries.

The assembly was purposely planned to coincide with Higher Education Week, which begins Monday. Several delegates from other universities plan to spend the night in Lawrence and attend the 10 a.m. press conference Monday in the Statehouse in Topeka.

The timing is not too bad for K-State. Not only does Elmore want to see 17 students at the legislative assembly Sunday, he wants to take carloads of students to Topeka throughout the week so K-State can make its concerns known to Kansas legislators.

"The Legislative Assembly will make students more conversant on the issues," Elmore commented, "but they can pick up (the issues) on the way to Topeka."

All the defeated Student Senate candidates should be clamoring to the Student Governing Association on the ground floor of the K-State Union in search of Elmore's office. In addition, students who don't have the time for weekly senate meetings should consider ASK.

The issues are important and the process is real. A show of strength Sunday and next week may indeed be critically important to the future of K-State.

Government elections place issues in focus

Congratulations to the winners in this year's Student Governing Association elections. The University community should hope the new representatives perform in a more praiseworthy manner than their predecessors.

The new Student Senate will be judged not only by its ability to fulfill its general duties but also by how it addresses the agenda, which includes athletic fees, Lafene Health Center, the Fred Bramlage Coliseum, Farrell Library and recruitment and retention, that they set.

Of these issues, none has an easy solution. Or a solution that will please everyone. Perhaps most frustrating is that the senate is not in a position to solve any of these problems on its own. To get at least a hazy picture of what the new senates' priorities might be, we should review what the successful candidates said in the Collegian soapbox.

— The battle lines are yet to be drawn on the athletic fee. Sixteen of 16 winners oppose the measure and 14 have yet to decide.

— The coliseum is on shaky ground with 26 opposed to constructing the building, 12 are in favor and eight undecided.

— Backers of a Lafene fee increase have an uphill battle because 32 senators oppose a fee, only 4 favor it and 10 remain undecided.

— Brice Hobrock, dean of libraries, should not make any plans, but a library fee has 29 supporters among the new senate and only 10 opponents. Seven senators are undecided.

— Rather conclusively, the new senate believes the outgoing senate missed the mark on the allocation of the $700,000 set aside from the refinancing of student debt. Twenty-nine oppose the action taken by senate, nine are opposed and eight are undecided.

So much for those who say, "My vote doesn't matter." There were five candidates for whom one vote decided their fate.

Richard Thorp,
for the editorial board

Defining hazing to be tough job for Senate

Greek houses may find their activities under increasing scrutiny if a bill introduced in the Kansas Legislature making hazing a crime becomes law.

Hazing has become a buzzword, especially on college campuses, and the furor shows no sign of dying down. While the bill, which makes hazing a misdemeanor, is an excellent measure, it may be lacking because arriving at a definition of "hazing" is difficult.

An exact definition of hazing has eluded the National Interfraternity Conference, the national offices of fraternities and sororities and K-State's Office of Greek Affairs. The best definitions all have a "hazing is...but is not limited to..." clause.

The bill before the Senate makes hazing a misdemeanor if it "creates a substantial risk of causing mental or physical harm" and makes participants in a hazing incident liable to civil action.

There are two problems with the bill in its present form. One is its attempt to escape the pitfalls of definition by ignoring them. The bill states that hazing which creates a substantial risk is criminal, but it does not define hazing. This may be nitpicking, but the distinction will become crucial if the law is challenged in court.

The second problem is that the bill is geared to "student organizations" — specifically fraternities and sororities. Research has shown that a great deal of hazing goes on outside greek housing. Some of the worst examples of hazing come from high school athletic, music and drama clubs, or non-specific "societies" in all walks of life. While greek hazing has received the lion's share of attention — perhaps deservedly — hazing is clearly not limited to greek organizations.

K-State greek houses are required to read, sign and abide by an anti-hazing policy developed by Greek Affairs. This policy has become a model for similar policies on other campuses. Following the hazing incident involving Alpha Tau Omega last fall, the policy was scrutinized and revised.

K-State has an excellent greek system. Unfortunately, some universities are not so lucky, and this bill is a natural outgrowth of that problem. However, for a bill of this kind to be effective, it must include a workable definition of hazing.

Rich Harris,
for the editorial board

U.S. needs to learn fiscal restraint

WASHINGTON — The political reality behind the budget debate that fills the air is not pretty to contemplate. But it is important to understand.

For the last five years, the American people have not come within a mile of paying for the amount of government we receive — and seem to want. We have been living in a dream world.

We enjoy the benefits of government services, from subsidized transportation to cost-free medical care to spy-satellite protection against Soviet sneak attacks, while the bills pile up unpaid.

Deficits are not new. But deficits of this scale have never before been seen in times of peace with a healthy overall economic performance and low inflation. They cannot continue because we are approaching the point at which interest on the accumulated debt will absorb so much of the annual tax collections that no money will be left to pay for government services — no matter how vital.

Why do we have such deficits? The blame is widespread. When President Reagan proposed deep tax cuts in 1981, House Democrats and Senate Republicans both decided to expand his over-generous initiative, permanently weakening the revenue base.

On the spending side, as he insisted on billions more for defense, members of Congress dug in to defend politically popular forms of domestic spending. There was no outlay discipline to match the shrinkage of the tax base.

The Senate Republicans were the first to sober up from this fiscal binge and each year, starting in 1982, they have been battling to close the gap between spending and revenues. Last year, some of them hit on a new device — the Gramm-Rudman "automatic" deficit reduction plan — in hopes it would force Reagan and the House Democrats to help fill in the cavernous gap between the government's income and its outlays.

But because both House Democrats and

DAVID BRODER
Syndicated
Columnist

Reagan had the power to block or veto Gramm-Rudman, Senate Republicans had to tailor the "cure" to meet the same demands that had caused the disease. What they hoped to do was to "put everything on the table," and forge a balanced solution to the deficit problem.

But by the time they were finished negotiating with Reagan and the House Democrats, half the budget was exempt from automatic cuts and another quarter was substantially protected. The remaining quarter faces severe slashes — so long as Reagan holds to his position that there can be no tax increase.

That is one reason why Sen. Warren B. Rudman, R-N.H., the co-sponsor of Gramm-Rudman, is so eager to avoid resort to his plan's distinctive feature — the September "trigger" for automatic "sequestration" of big chunks of unprotected programs, both defense and domestic.

As one of the Senate's more sensible men (and as a politician facing re-election in November), Rudman realizes there will be nothing reasonable and much that is damaging if "the trigger" must be pulled. He argues that Congress has both a duty and the ability to reach the $144 billion deficit-target for fiscal 1987 which Gramm-Rudman sets without resort to the trigger.

He points to the new and strengthened tools Gramm-Rudman gives the House and Senate budget committees to help them enforce fiscal discipline and reach the specified target this summer, and in a fashion that weighs the relative worth of various programs.

Those tools are there, but it remains to be seen if they will be used. So long as Reagan adheres to his stated position that there be no significant cuts in his defense buildup and no tax increases, the temptation will be strong for Congress to hand equally tough in protecting domestic spending. In this game of budgetary "chicken," the national interest is the likely loser.

In recent days, a flurry of optimistic deficit estimates have convinced some members of Congress that the fiscal 1987 target can be reached without a great deal of strain or pain.

Low inflation, declining oil prices and a healthy economy have reduced the projected 1987 deficit from over $200 billion to just over $180 billion. But the main reason for the apparent improvement, Congressional Budget Office Director Rudolph G. Penner explains, is that his office and its executive branch counterpart, the Office of Management and Budget, are building the assumptions of Gramm-Rudman into their new "bare-bones" budget projections.

"The situation is not as good as it looks," Penner says, noting for example that where defense spending was previously projected to grow 3 percent to 5 percent above inflation, the new budget projections assume zero real growth. Similarly stark assumptions are made on domestic spending.

"There will be no easy cuts" from this reduced base, Penner said. On the contrary, using this base "it will be much tougher" to find the $38 billion to $40 billion in additional reductions to reach the Gramm-Rudman target. Penner makes the key point when he says, "We're obviously not fighting about deficits these days; we're fighting about the role of government."

And we are still searching for politicians at either end of Pennsylvania Avenue who will say that we have to pay for the government we get.

U-Learn staff to thank volunteers

By JUDY GOLDBERG
Collegian Reporter

Without volunteers, many agencies would not be in existence, which is why U-Learn is sponsoring Volunteer Appreciation Day today, said Tracey Fraser, graduate in family life education and assistant director of U-Learn.

The theme of the day will be "Volunteers lend a little bit of their hearts," Fraser said.

"So many times people volunteer an hour or two to help others. Our purpose is to be able to appreciate them," said Laurie McCauley, graduate in guidance education and director of U-Learn.

"They're a unique group of people, and we just wanted to say thank you," said Fraser.

Volunteer Appreciation Day will be from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. on the first floor of the Union.

The idea of Volunteer Appreciation Day was presented at a U-Learn Staff brainstorming session, McCauley said.

"We wanted to come up with a way to say thanks and without funding it's hard, so we decided to have Volunteer Appreciation Day. We wanted other agencies to join in so they could show their appreciation, too," McCauley said.

There are 30 to 50 volunteers in U-Learn, McCauley said.

"Volunteers at U-Learn answer phones and direct students or faculty to the numerous services on campus," she said.

Becky Ives, freshman in social work and U-Learn volunteer, said she volunteered at U-Learn last semester for a class assignment. She said she enjoyed her work so she volunteered for this semester as well.

"I learn a lot about the campus, and I like the people here. We offer a lot for the students," she said.

There are 14 agencies participating in the event. Agencies that use a lot of K-State students were asked to participate, Fraser said. However, those agencies also use a lot of members from the community, she said.

Other agencies participating in Volunteer Appreciation Day are Big Brothers/Big Sisters, Student Governing Association, Crisis Center, The St. Mary Hospital, Friendship Tutoring, Volunteer Clearing House, Women's Resource Center, Big Lakes Development Center, Manhattan Emergency Shelter, FONE, Red Cross and University for Man.

Mark Jones, senior in management and Student Senate chairman, said SGA would not be in existence without volunteers.

"The University is here for the students, so the students should have a voice in what goes on at the University. Without the great volunteerism that we always experience in student government, we would not be able to do it. It just would not happen," he said.

Participants will have displays, pamphlets and picture boards set up. There will also be a slide show presented by U-Learn.

Students are welcome to join one of the volunteer organizations, but that is certainly not the purpose of Volunteer Appreciation Day, McCauley said.

"People who work on a volunteer basis and don't get economic or material rewards should be recognized for what they are doing," McCauley said.

Professors examine benefits of farmers' crop insurance

By SAM HOSTETTLER
Collegian Reporter

Today's farmers are attempting to avert risk by insuring their crops against hail, fire, pest and wind damage. Two associate professors are currently doing studies to determine the advantages, if any, of insuring crops.

Bryan Schurle and Art Barnaby, associate professors of agricultural economics, have been working on studies sponsored by the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation through K-State's extension service for more than a year.

Conclusions from the studies have not been made, however, Barnaby indicated one type of farmer who would find insurance advantageous.

"If a farmer consistently has an above-average yield, he most likely will not want to buy the insurance," Barnaby said. "On the other hand, if a farmer consistently has a crop yield below the average, he has an incentive to buy the insurance."

Schurle said the first study used farm data to estimate premiums which a farmer should pay.

The data Schurle used was each farmer's acreage, crop yield and debt.

"We researched roughly 2,000 to 3,000 farms in the Farm Management Association, which is a state organization that helps farmers keep their financial records," Schurle said. "Their fieldmen worked with farmers and kept records for them. All of the data on these records was available to study.

"Of these records we sorted out farms that had 10 consecutive years of data in the association," Schurle said. "We ended up with 903 farmers with this data. We then looked at the data to see which farmers planted 10 consecutive years of wheat. Over 600 farmers did."

"Then we used the information from these 10 years of yields to estimate what farmers should pay for crop insurance," he said.

Schurle said K-State is involved in this study for two reasons.

"We have more data around here than anywhere in the nation," Schurle said. "I also did some work similar to this in 1980 or 1981."

The second study involved taking individual yields of randomly sampled farms and using statistical methods to determine if it is to a farmer's advantage to buy crop insurance.

"We surveyed farmers to see who bought crop insurance and compared insurance-yield offers vs. their average yield and how variable their yield is," Schurle said. "The more variable and lower their average yield, the more likely farmers are to buy the insurance."

There are two basic forms of crop insurance available to the farmer, Barnaby said. Private hail and fire, and multi-peril.

"Private hail and fire insurance is sold through private insurance companies. These insurance companies are responsible for all of the funding," Barnaby said.

"You can purchase the insurance anytime before the damage has occurred," Barnaby said.

If a farmer incurs a loss and is covered by hail and fire insurance, the loss is based on actual damage and is refunded as a "spot loss," Barnaby said.

"This means if 10 acres were damaged in an 80-acre field, then the loss repayment will be only on the 10 acres," he said.

Multi-peril insurance covers such losses caused by plant disease, floods and drought. There are two methods in which a farmer can purchase multi-peril insurance, Barnaby said.

"One way is to purchase the insurance through a private insurance agent, who in turn reinsures the policy with the FCIC," Barnaby said. "The second method is to obtain a policy directly with the FCIC through an independent insurance agent."

In multi-peril insurance agreements, the farmer has only the premium to pay. The federal government pays the administrative costs for private companies and their own policies. By doing this, the government is saving the farmer money while setting aside money to pay the insured in case they incur a loss, Barnaby said.

Under multi-peril insurance agreements, the insured farmer has the option of insuring a crop at one of three levels: 50 percent of the insurable yield; 65 percent of the insurable yield; or 75 percent of the crop's yield.

Forum to feature mayor's politics

By The Collegian Staff

The politics and work of Mayor Henry Cisneros of San Antonio, Texas, will be discussed tonight in a pre-convocation forum led by four University professors at 7:30 p.m. in the Union Sunflower room.

Cisneros, a leading Hispanic politician, will present "The Survival of America's Cities" as an All-University Convocation 10:30 a.m. Tuesday in McCain Auditorium.

The economic development and growth of San Antonio and the progress with the Mexican-American population of the city during Cisneros' term have brought him national acclaim. Forum speakers will cover four main areas of the mayor's work.

Among the panelists, Clyde Brown, visiting assistant professor of political science, will discuss the urban politics of Cisneros including a recent history of the politics in San Antonio, the change in terms of the city charter on election of officials in San Antonio and the style of Cisneros and his politics.

Jan Flora, associate professor of sociology, will talk about the role of Cisneros in the National Bipartisan Commission on Central America.

David La France, visiting assistant professor of history, will look at Mexican-American relations in San Antonio and Cisneros' relation to this as a Hispanic leader.

Nels Leutwiler, visiting professor of regional and community planning, will discuss Cisneros' urban development strategies in San Antonio, America's 10th largest city.

Flowers for him and her

Valentine's Day Flower Sale

K-State Union Main Floor
9-5 p.m.
or until sold out
$3-$10
Retail Floriculture Club

Make your feelings crystal clear.

With the FTD™ Crystal Hearts™ Bouquet. $30
Valentine's Week starts February 9, so send early. Call or visit us today

MANHATTAN FLORAL CO.
630 Poyntz Ave. Manhattan, Kansas 66502
Phone 913-776-8803

CHARLIE'S
NEIGHBORHOOD BAR
Established 1923

Thursday
$Dollar Daze$
Friday
TGIVD

Charlie's and the men of ΣΑΕ ΔΤΑ ΣΦΕ would like to wish the women of ΔΔΔ ΠΒΦ ΓΦΒ
HAPPY VALENTINE'S DAY
See you Friday afternoon
25¢ gourmet ham sandwiches 3:30-5 p.m.

Saturday
Welcome KSU Sailing Club
1800 Claflin 539-9619

The Roaring Twenties are back

The COTTON CLUB

Tonight! Tonight! Tonight!

FEATURING

- 1920s Prices on drinks • Ragtime Music • Bathtub Gin
- Hotsy Totsy Girls • Flappers • Gangsters • No drink more than $1.50

Come dressed up and receive a bottle of champagne with your dinner.
22-Skidoo this Thursday, 5:30 at

The COTTON CLUB
downtown 418 Poyntz

Live Entertainment by Al Thompson and Let's Talk Sax

Bring Your Sweetheart to
The Station
and Celebrate
Valentine's Day!

- ♥ STEAK and CRAB SPECIAL $8.95 includes salad bar and potato
- ♥ SWEETHEART CHERRY CREAM PIE
- ♥ COMPLIMENTARY WINE WITH EVERY DINNER
- ♥ PLUS—ALL YOU CAN EAT SPICED SHRIMP and CRAB LEGS $10.95

Aggie's
STATION
RESTAURANT & BAR

RESERVATIONS ACCEPTED 776-0030
1115 MORO • AGGIEVILLE

AUTHORIZED FACTORY BOOT OUTLET STORE

VANDERBILT'S GREEN TAG SALE

acme

AN EXTRA $10.00 OFF OUR EVERYDAY DISCOUNT PRICE

extra cash savings on acme boots

Example: compare to $79.95 OUR DISCOUNT PRICE $49.99

Green Tag Price $39.99

• DOWNTOWN WAMEGO OPEN DAILY 9-8 P.M. • SUN. 12-5 P.M.

LEVI — LEE — WRANGLER — ACME — CAROLINA — TONY LAMA — JUSTIN — NOCONA — DAN POST — H & H — CANHANTT — LEVI — LEE

SGA announces student election tallies

By The Collegian Staff

Along with determining the two candidates for the student body president runoff election, students who cast 2,778 votes during the Tuesday and Wednesday Student Governing Association elections also picked representatives for the four Board of Student Publications positions and for student senate seats.

Results of these elections are listed below. Winners are indicated by an asterisk.

The results for the four Board of Student Publications positions are:

Ronda Corle, junior in journalism and mass communications, 830 votes; Vicki Fernkopf, sophomore in food science and industry, 917; Patti Hannan, junior in journalism and mass communications, 1,122; Dan Hoss, freshman in secondary education, 699; Dwayne Smith, junior in journalism and mass communications, 968; James A. Seymour, junior in construction science, 863; and Tim R. Staley, sophomore in journalism and mass communications, 781.

Results for the College of Agriculture are:

Michelle Benoit, sophomore in agricultural economics, 225; Wally Brockhoff, junior in agricultural economics, 188; Christopher Gooding, sophomore in bakery science and management, 128; Steve Ligon, junior in animal sciences and industry, 157; Pat Muir, junior in agricultural economics, 87; Phil Nordhus, freshman in agricultural economics, 88; Kevin Religa, junior in agronomy, 97; Tom Ridder, sophomore in pre-veterinary medicine, 133; Marty Ropp, junior in animal sciences and industry, 123; Cheryl Tillberg, freshman in agricultural economics, 72; Tim Ulrich, sophomore in pre-veterinary medicine, 103; and Howard H. Woodbury, sophomore in animal sciences and industry, 135.

Results for the College of Architecture and Design are:

David Kaster, sophomore in pre-design professions, 71; and Dave Tritesch, sophomore in architecture and design, 56.

Results in the College of Arts and Sciences are:

Wes Alexander, sophomore in journalism and mass communications, 151; Ron Bailey, junior in political science, 126; Susan D. Baird, junior in journalism and mass communications, 327; Randall S. Bowman, junior in history, 162; Ron Bethel, sophomore in pre-law, 134; John Bullock, sophomore in political science, 185; Kirk Caraway, senior in political science, 188; Steve Cole, sophomore in pre-physical therapy, 175; Kevin Eickmann, junior in information systems, 221.

Scott D. Fischer, sophomore in psychology, 166; Colin Hickey, sophomore in political science, 122; Jennifer Leeds, freshman in political science, 227; Martin Monto, junior in biology, 254; Jay Oljen, sophomore in pre-dentistry, 143; Ken Paulie, junior in political science, 264; Matt Queen, junior in pre-medicine, 192; Leslye Schneider, sophomore in pre-medicine, 242; Brian Sherwood, junior in pre-law, 198; Matt Sise, freshman in geography, 103; Gretchen Wagner, junior in journalism and mass communications, 265; Pat Woolley, freshman in pre-medicine, 118; and Gary Yager, sophomore in art, 162.

Results for the College of Business Administration are:

Richard Blevins, junior in marketing, 50; Brett

Bromich, junior in marketing, 159; Tad Christian, senior in marketing, 92; Bruce Cook, junior in accounting, 141; Dan Costello, junior in accounting, 86; Jeff Cox, junior in marketing, 109; Greg Gately, senior in marketing, 75; Doug Gaumer, sophomore in finance, 136; Bill Hope, junior in marketing, 55; Eric Ireland, sophomore in business administration, 52.

Michelle Johnson, sophomore in marketing, 179; Mike Lassman, sophomore in marketing, 147; Greg Long, sophomore in business finance, 64; John R. Low, sophomore in marketing, 89; Troy Lubbers, freshman in business administration, 34; John R. Morris, junior in accounting, 37; Mark Morrison, junior in finance, 57; Fred Neuman, junior in finance, 128; Pete Newallis, sophomore in finance, 18; Ed Nickel, sophomore in marketing, 169; Regina Oxford, senior in finance, 59; Brooks Rarden, junior in finance, 89.

Clark Renfro, senior in marketing, 108; Brian Fred Schierling, senior in marketing, 75; Tad Schroeder, junior in marketing, 82; David Sell, sophomore in marketing, 106; Stacy Smith, sophomore in accounting, 152; Gary Stark, junior in accounting, 112; Chris Vering, sophomore in accounting, 85; and Judy Wolf, sophomore in marketing, 153.

The results for the College of Education are:

Sally A. Howard, junior in English education, 87; Dale Strickler, junior in secondary education, 83; Becky Svaly, freshman in secondary education, 111; and Robert Whearty, junior in agriculture education, 81.

For the College of Engineering the results are:

John Bayouth, sophomore in nuclear engineering, 138; Daron Brown, sophomore in industrial engineering, 118; Emad Chaudhri, senior in industrial engineering, 137; Doug Folk, sophomore in electrical engineering, 119; Ed

Frankenberg, freshman in electrical engineering, 93; Carrie Helmeke, junior in electrical engineering, 203.

Marshall Honeyman, junior in mechanical engineering, 86; Mark Hooper, freshman in civil engineering, 78; Chris Jackson, junior in electrical engineering, 90; Scot Keimig, freshman in mechanical engineering, 47; Craig J. Kettler, senior in mechanical engineering, 127; Paul Kolbeck, sophomore in electrical engineering, 101; Tim Kuckelman, sophomore in industrial engineering, 94; Joel Marquardt, sophomore in architectural engineering, 107.

Troy Miller, sophomore in industrial engineering, 118; Chris Parks, junior in electrical engineering, 98; Susan Russell, freshman in industrial engineering, 168; Elrene Tatham, junior in construction science, 128; Kim Warner, freshman in industrial engineering, 216; Daniel Weyerts, junior in engineering technology, 90; Scott Wiles, sophomore in electrical engineering, 99; and Howard S. Wolf, senior in electrical engineering, 83.

Results for office in the Graduate School are:

Jess Cunick, graduate in biochemistry, 93; Laura J. McLellan, graduate in biology, 99; Miranda Y. Mortlock, graduate in agronomy, 79; Catherine Saylor, non-degree graduate, 114; and Tammy Tracy, graduate in regional and community planning, 69.

Results from the College of Human Ecology are:

Candy Leonard, sophomore in home economics and mass communications, 88; Angie Rowland, junior in apparel and textile marketing, 100; Anne Wiley, sophomore in home economics education, write-in candidate with 32.

Duane A. Belote, junior in veterinary medicine, for the College of Veterinary Medicine withdrew from the election.

resources including travel money, publication money and part-time labor assistance if Congress passes the 1987 budget plan, said Marc Johnson, head of the Department of Agricultural Economics and the agricultural economics extension program.

"If (the administration) goes the route of the percentage cuts proposed in extension programs, we will possibly have to cut positions that are now vacant," Johnson said.

"If we want to keep the extension programs, the state and county will have to make up the loss. If the feds want to be less of a partner than the others, the others will have to make up the loss," Johnson said.

Cuts in extension services will "essentially change the system drastically," said Ronald Jones, assistant director of the Division of Cooperative Extension in home economics.

Students get chance to relay experiences

By LORI LUGINBILL
Collegian Reporter

Students were able to reminisce about their high-school days during Principal-Counselor-Student Day Wednesday in the K-State Union and Ahearn Field House.

Counselors and principals represented high schools around the state and a few in Missouri and Nebraska. Steve Henning, counselor at Herington High School, said the student turnout varies from year to year, but his visit here usually draws a good response.

"It tends to be the good student who shows up and those who are doing poorly in college don't come because they don't want the home folks to know it," Henning said.

Bud Tanking, counselor at Southeast Saline High School, agreed.

"The students doing poorly in college are the ones we need to converse with," Tanking said.

Many of the students who talked to their former counselors said they did it just to say "hi." However, if the counselors asked for suggestions, most said they were able to give a few.

Ellie Fisher, sophomore in elementary education, said she visited with her counselor to give specific recommendations.

"I told him to stress the importance of math and foreign language in high school. Also, writing skills should be emphasized just as much as reading skills are. In senior English we should read less Shakespeare and work on writing skills a little more," Fisher said.

Fisher said she felt confident her former counselors were using student suggestions to better prepare high-school students for college.

Henning said many of the students' responses are the same. "Students will say, 'I wish I would have taken,' subjects usually in the area of math and science and some English. The ones who tended to be good students in high school don't really have any complaints," Henning said.

Tanking said the event was beneficial to everyone involved. Student panels provide an opportunity to obtain valuable information, he said.

"It can be a real benefit to us and to them, because I'm one-on-one with my kids being from a small school," he said.

"If they come to talk, it's a benefit. We, as counselors, have been to college and can relate experiences, but as things change, we gain more insight with each passing year," Henning said.

A major change Henning said he sees in students is more marginal students attending college today than were 10 years ago. He said colleges were responding to that by offering more outreach programs to students in response to their needs.

Tanking also said he felt high schools are stiffening requirements and therefore preparing students for college a little better.

From a student's point of view, Janna Adkinson, senior in exercise science, thought an event like this could benefit student recruitment.

"We thought high schools should have college students, for example, engineering majors, come and speak to students in a chemistry class about engineering and what is offered at K-State in that major," Adkinson said. "High-school students look up to college students and this could help with recruitment."

Cuts

Continued from Page 1

assistance, Evans said.

Institutions will still be allowed to decide on who is awarded to receive aid from the work-grant program, Evans said.

An increase on the interest on loans has been proposed in Reagan's deficit-reduction plan, he said. Interest is now 8 percent on national loans, but the proposed interest rate would be raised to 10 percent to 12 percent, Evans said.

Reagan's theory for cutting student loans is to make parents and students responsible for education, Evans said.

"The president believes more responsibility should be given to the states, parents and students to pay for education," he said. "The federal role for financial aid has been increased over the years so the president has proposed the education cuts."

The urban as well as the rural populace is served through K-State Cooperative Extension programs. The program provides nutritional education for low-income families and educational programs for more than 90,000 urban and rural youth enrolled in 4-H programs, according to an extension report.

Until the impact of the Gramm-Rudman-Hollings deficit reduction legislation is known, Walter Woods, dean of agriculture, said the specific cuts to extension and research programs can not be determined.

Reagan's proposal for reducing federal support for agricultural programs could affect the University as Kansas' land-grant institution, Woods said.

"If enacted, it would result in a major reduction in funds for agricultural experiment station research and delivery of educational programs to the people of Kansas through the Cooperative Extension Service," Woods said.

Woods said the success and balance of extension and research programs are at stake.

"KSU agricultural programs are an investment and have a long and successful history of benefiting the state far more than the money spent on the system," Woods said.

Woods expects modifications in the budget to be made by Congress. He said the four programs of extension in Kansas' 105 counties — agriculture, home economics, 4-H and community development — could be affected by the cuts.

Reductions in extension services will mainly be felt in operating

Speedy FREE Delivery

$1.00 OFF ANY SIZE PIZZA

Mark Fouad Mbeze
President, Pyramid Pizza
Expires 2-19-86

539-4888

"We Pile It On!"

PYRAMID PIZZA

With this coupon, receive a duplicate set of prints free when presenting one roll of color print film (C-41 process) for developing and printing at One Hour Moto-Photo. Offer limited to one roll per coupon. Not valid with any other promotion.

Free Extra Set of Prints!

one hour moto-photo

Under the big yellow sign

South of Westloop 776-9030

Speedy FREE Delivery

Special $6.66 Coupon Offer

Buy a medium single topping pizza & get second topping all for only $6.66

539-4888

"We Pile It On!"

PYRAMID PIZZA

Mark Fouad Mbeze
President, Pyramid Pizza
Expires 2-19-86

This Weekend at

Elgee's

Restaurant & Ice Creamery

White Mountain Coolers

99¢ reg. $1.49

No coupon needed — just walk in!

12th & Laramie Open daily til midnight Open Sat. & Sun. 8:30 a.m. for breakfast

kink's copies

COUPON

10 FREE COPIES

8 1/2" x 11"

20 lb. bond

Good with this coupon / offer expires 2-20-86

valentines day

Sweetheart Hair Cuts

2 for $12

(Boy & Girlfriend, Husband & Wife)

404 HUMBOLDT 539 (TAME) 8263

317 HOUSTON 539-8601

Happy Valentine's Day

20% Off all Regular Priced Items

Fountain of Youth

1814 Claflin
2nd Level
1st Bank Center
539-9100

FOUNTAIN OF YOUTH

GIFTS UNIQUE

VALUABLE COUPON

- 3 1/2¢ Self service copies
- 3 1/2¢ Self service reductions and enlargements
- 10% Off compact discs
- 20% Off "Lake Wobegon Days"

Claflin Books

M-F 8-8 Sat. 9-8, Sun. 11-8
(With Coupon) Now thru Sunday
Expires Feb. 16, 1986

BIG SAVINGS

All Relaxers 1/2 off

Perm Waves 1/4 off

—WITH THIS COUPON—

Appointments accepted

Monday thru Friday 8 A.M. to 7 P.M.

All services performed by students are closely supervised by instructors

Herb!

BURGER KING

Get a FREE Cheeseburger when you buy a Double Cheeseburger (75¢ value)

Please present this coupon before ordering. Limit one coupon per customer. This offer expires Feb. 19, 1986

Good only at Manhattan Junction, City, Salina, Hutchinson, Great Bend

With This Coupon

Duran's

2 tacos, rice & beans — $3.25

Offer good until Feb. 18, 1986

THE VERY BEST AUTHENTIC MEXICAN CUISINE

Upstairs
1st Bank Center Claflin & Denison 539-9666

Haircuts 50% off

FOR 8:00 A.M. to 8:30 P.M. APPOINTMENTS ONLY

—WITH THIS COUPON—

MONDAY thru FRIDAY

All services performed by students are closely supervised by instructors

Must present coupon

Crum's Beauty College

512 Poyntz (Expires March 3, 1986) 776-4794

Parrish signs 18 to national football letters

By TOM PERRIN
Sports Editor

Going into the football recruiting season, new K-State Coach Stan Parrish said he was looking for players that would improve the Wildcats' team speed.

With Wednesday's signing to national letters-of-intent of 18 new Wildcat players — 16 high school players and two from junior college — it appears Parrish may have gotten what he was looking for.

"No question about it, we've upgraded our team speed and that was our primary goal," Parrish said.

The signings, in addition to four earlier junior college signings, brings K-State's total to 22.

Parrish has promised to establish a passing-oriented offense next season and seems to have recruited the type of position players — quarterbacks, offensive linemen, wide receivers and running backs — that are key to such an attack.

The quarterbacks include Eric Harper (6-foot-2, 195 pounds) from Denison (Tex.) High School and Carl Straw (6-1, 200) from Fair Lawn (N.J.) High School. Tim Hanson, a 6-1, 190 transfer from Golden West Junior College of Westminster, Calif., signed earlier this year to play quarterback for the Wildcats.

"We feel we have a competitive situation at quarterback with our new signees," Parrish said.

Parrish signed plenty of big offensive linemen to block for the quarterbacks as well.

Included in the group are Herman Proctor (6-5, 295) from Somerville (N.J.) High School, Tom Seitzinger (6-3, 265) from Schuylkill Haven (Pa.) High School, Shawn Fleming (6-4, 255) from Oceanview High School of Huntington Beach, Calif., Rick Mears (6-5, 265) from Auburndale (Fla.) High School and Bob Pacchioli (6-4, 260) from Easton (Pa.) Area High School.

"We have some very big kids that in a year or two will be even bigger," Parrish said. "If you're going to throw the ball like we plan to do, you need the big guys."

The wide receivers include Eric Blades (6-0, 180) of Lowdens County High School in Valdosta, Ga., Mark Ally (6-1, 190) of San Geronio High School in San Bernadino, Calif., Marcus Miller (6-0, 170) of Hialeah High School in Miami, Fla. and Todd Cowlings (6-0, 180) of Fresno (Calif.) City Community College. Vic Walters (6-2, 175) of Merritt Community College in Oakland, Calif. signed with the Wildcats earlier.

Running backs include Clark Brown (5-10, 180) of Riverside (Calif.) City Junior College and Troy Giles (6-0, 170) of Passaic (N.J.) High School.

Taking into account four earlier junior college signees, 16 of Parrish's 22 recruits are "skill players," meaning running backs, wide receivers, defensive backs or linebackers.

"Obviously, by our numbers, we have recruited a lot of skilled players. We are very, very pleased with this group," Parrish said. "We have a lot of players who have the flexibility to play either offense or defense, which lends itself to our style of play."

Parrish said he signed all 18 of the players Wednesday that he expected he would after making contact with them Tuesday night.

"We didn't get any surprises. Everybody that committed to us last night signed today," Parrish said.

Parrish still has scholarships left to give out and said he hasn't yet finished recruiting for the '86 season. He said he hopes to attract some walk-on players and may use the scholarships for players currently on the team.

Parrish wanted to recruit players to K-State from around the nation and did just that — luring players from seven states.

Only two of the players Parrish signed, however, are from Kansas. Both those players — defensive backs Willie Halliburton and David Poague — are junior college players that Parrish signed earlier.

"We invited seven (Kansas high school players) to campus and one visited. Unfortunately, we didn't get him. I think a lot of that has to do with us getting a late start. Also, the player pool was down."

Other recruits are defensive backs Tyrese Herds (6-0, 185) from Plant High School in Tampa, Fla. and Brian Covington (5-9, 170) of Winter Haven (Fla.) High School, linebacker Loren Whittle of Rubidoux High School in Riverside, Calif. and defensive lineman Arthur Taylor (6-4, 240) of Denison (Tex.) High School.

Where the new Wildcats are from State nails Kapaun for rules violations

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA — Wichita's Kapaun-Mt. Carmel High School on Wednesday was barred from participating in any post-season academic activities or athletic competition for the next year after it was determined that three non-Catholic students received improper tuition payments.

Nelson Hartman, executive secretary of the Kansas State High School Activities Association, announced the penalties following a six-hour hearing between school officials and the association's nine-member executive board.

Hartman said the penalties, which include a two-year probation for the school and the forfeiture of all games in which three students played the past three years, are the most severe ever administered to a Kansas high school.

"It's the first time we've had sanctions of this enormity because we've never had such blatant violations of rules and regulations regarding payment of tuition for non-Catholic students before."

The decision means Kapaun-Mt. Carmel will relinquish trophies for its second-place finishes the state football competition the past two seasons in Class 5A and sub-state honors in basketball last season.

It also will affect track and field awards, music honors and awards earned in any other activity in which Rod Redo, Chris Fox or Drew Bessey participated.

The three boys, all seniors at the school, were declared ineligible by the executive board after it was discovered they had received tuition assistance from one or more outside sources including a school-operated trust fund.

Hartman said the penalties were so severe because the school's former principal, Sister Kathleen Gilbert, said in a letter she unwittingly signed checks last summer which were tuition payments for the three boys.

In her report, Sister Gilbert said she did not knowingly violate state rules on tuition payments and said that if it had been deliberate "I would have done it differently."

Hartman said the problems at Kapaun center on a trust fund which the school used to make the tuition payments.

"The trust fund was established according to federal regulations and is used for legitimate purposes," he said. "It was also used, however, to make tuition payments."

The sanctions against the school include:

—Divestiture of outside money unless it is channeled directly through the school bank account.

—Suspension of Steve Buek, the head basketball coach, for the remainder of the 1985-86 season. Buek can return to coaching next school year but will be on probation for the year.

—Forfeiture of all games in which the three participated the past three years, when the tuition payments began. Hartman said they have "never been bona-fide students in good standing" under the state rules dealing with "undo influences" on students.

—Returning all school trophies, plaques and hardware from trophy cases earned by teams of which the boys were members.

—Removal of all coaches aides, non-faculty assistants, from the athletic programs. Hartman said that was designed to "eliminate all outside influences from the program."

—Requiring the school to file a comprehensive plan with the KSHSAA for preventing any future infractions.

Because of the penalties, Kapaun will not be allowed to participate in the state wrestling tournament, which begins next week, post-season basketball competition or next

See KAPAUN, Page 8

Staff/Brad Fanshier

Under pressure

"B-Game" team member Scott Donalson looks for an opening in the defense of Darin Hayka and Ken Neely, 81, of the "Blue Devils" during intramural basketball action Wednesday night at the Chester E. Peters Recreation Complex. The "Blue Devils" defeated "B-Game," 43-42.

tramural basketball action Wednesday night at the Chester E. Peters Recreation Complex. The "Blue Devils" defeated "B-Game," 43-42.

'Cats lose star back; Moore picks Huskies

By The Collegian Staff

While K-State Coach Stan Parrish was pleased with the recruits he was able to sign Wednesday, if running back Trevin Moore ever becomes a standout at Washington, the new Wildcat coach may be wishing he had been able to land a player that got away.

Moore, who had been rated among the top 10 high school running backs in the United States by some recruiting lists, made a non-binding verbal commitment to attend K-State in January.

As recently as this weekend however, Moore was reported to be reconsidering his commitment to the Wildcats.

As things turned out, the reports were true. Moore signed a national letter-of-intent with Washington

Wednesday and K-State was without the services for next year of a player Parrish thought might become a starter in his freshman season.

"He simply changed his mind," Parrish said. "He committed (to K-State) very early. You never heard me say we had him for sure. He picked Washington and they have a very fine program."

Moore, who attended Rubidoux High School in Riverside, Calif. and was coached in high school by K-State recruiting coordinator Leo Brouhard, originally said he chose K-State because he thought he might have the opportunity to contribute immediately to the Wildcat program.

Moore had planned to begin school at K-State after his early graduation from high school on Jan. 31.

Briefly in Sports

By The Associated Press

Tar Heels roll over Clemson

CLEMSON, S.C. — Center Brad Daugherty scored 13 points in the first 10 minutes of the second half as top-ranked North Carolina defeated Clemson 79-64 Wednesday night in an Atlantic Coast Conference basketball game.

North Carolina is now 25-1 overall and 9-1 in the ACC, while Clemson is 14-10 and 2-8.

Huskers stop Oklahoma State

LINCOLN, Neb. — Brian Carr and Harvey Marshall each scored 16 points to lead Nebraska to a 68-52 victory over Oklahoma State in Big Eight Conference basketball Wednesday night.

The game was tied at halftime, but Nebraska outscored Oklahoma State 13-4 in the first six minutes of the second half to take a 43-34 lead. The Cowboys cut the lead to three, but Nebraska then moved out to a 60-45 lead.

Bernard Day and Chris Logan each added 10 points for the Cornhuskers, who raised their record to 15-7 overall and 5-4 in the conference.

Olympics may welcome pros

LAUSANNE, Switzerland — The Olympics could welcome participation by professional hockey, soccer and tennis players and other pros under a prospective rule change, International Olympic Committee President Juan Antonio Samaranch said Wednesday.

At the end of a three-day meeting of the IOC's executive board, Samaranch told reporters the potential change in the Olympic Charter would encourage participation of "high-level athletes" and "give all athletes equal opportunity" to compete by eliminating the current distinction between amateur and pro athletes.

The charter change will be submitted for approval to the 91-nation IOC General Assembly's next meeting in October. If approved then, it would be in force for the 1988 Winter Olympic Games in Calgary, Alberta.

"For us, a professional is the same as a state athlete," Samaranch said, a reference to a designation usually applied to Soviet bloc athletes.

The rule change could pressure hockey leagues in the United States to release their best players, with the United States Olympic Committee paying them, IOC spokeswoman Michele Verdier said.

KU signs quarterback; WSU recruits 22 Kapaun

By The Associated Press

LAWRENCE — A 1,000-yard running back and a sticky-fingered defensive back were among the prospects signed by Kansas Coach Bob Valesente Wednesday on the first day of the year for signing binding letters-of-intent with college football programs.

"I feel very good about our recruiting," Valesente said, who replaced Mike Gottfried after the 1985 season when Gottfried became head coach at Pittsburgh. "We were able to reload in all positions, particularly in the skill positions and on the line. This class has a good combination of speed, quickness and size. I think we're continuing to surround ourselves with good people who will make an outstanding contribution to our program."

Scott Schirmer, a 5-foot-10, 195-pound running back from Lenexa, was the back of the year in the Jayhawk Conference, rushing for 1,040 yards and scoring 19 touchdowns.

From Olathe, the Jayhawks picked up a promising defensive back in Brad Hinkle, who had 21 interceptions in three seasons and was named to several high school all-America teams.

Valesente also came away with a player many considered the No. 1 prospect in Denver, an all-state tight end named Tracy Jordan.

Defensively, the Jayhawks may have improved themselves by getting Teddy Newman, a defensive end from Las Vegas who was a junior college all-American and had 28 quarterback sacks.

Another high school all-American who signed with the Jayhawks was quarterback Kelly Donohoe. The 6-1, 180-pound native of Harrisonville, Mo., passed for 4,524 yards and 35 touchdowns in three years.

WICHITA — Junior college standouts Jim Brady, Roger Foltz and David Panter were among the 16 juko players signed Wednesday to letters of intent to play at Wichita State as the Shockers went looking for experience.

In addition to the junior college players it signed, WSU got letters of intent Wednesday from six prep players.

"What we set out to do was balance our program talent-wise as well as maturity-wise," said head coach Ron Chismar.

Brady, a 5-foot-11, 195-pound defensive back, already is enrolled this semester at WSU as a transfer student from Phoenix College, a junior college in Phoenix, Ariz. Foltz, 6-5, 242, is an offensive lineman from Coffeyville Community College. Panter, 6-3, 247, is an offensive lineman from Northeastern Oklahoma A&M.

Other juko transfer players signed by WSU Wednesday include: Sam Boxley, 6-0, 261, defensive lineman, Memphis, Tenn.; Terry Franklin, 5-11, 175, wide receiver, Indianapolis, Ind.; Ron Gould, 5-9, 181, defensive back, Tucson, Ariz. Anthony Hardy, 5-10, 170, wide receiver, Laurel, Miss. Chris Holt, 5-11, 197, linebacker, Riverside Calif.; Scott Hughes, 6-2, 232, off line, Camarillo, Calif.; John Jackson, 6-1, 180, defensive back, San Diego, Calif.; Jeff Keller, 6-0, 205, linebacker, Dodge City; Tony Manning, 6-1, 252, defensive lineman, Richardson, Texas; John Norling, 6-3, 253, offensive line, Phoenix, Ariz.; Dan Russell, 6-1, 181, wide receiver, Simi, Ca.; Jim Storm, 5-11, 224, linebacker, Glendale, Ariz.; and Stan Wahlmeier, 6-2, 194, fullback, Norton.

Continued from Page 7

season's football playoffs, among other activities.

"The activities association recognizes this action affects many innocent students at Kapaun-Mt. Carmel," Hartman said, reading a statement drafted by the board.

"However, many innocent students attending other member schools also have been affected — students and their schools who have followed the rules of the association.

"In addition, the attendance and participation of ineligible students at Kapaun-Mt. Carmel to date has also had a negative effect upon its own eligible students who have not been allowed to participate in the place of the ineligible students."

HUNAM
 Restaurant

FREE DELIVERY
 11 a.m.-1 a.m.
 1304 Westloop 539-8888
 (10% Off w/KSU ID) 537-0886 (Egg Roll & Fried Rice 99¢)

HUNAM
 EXPRESS

1116 Moro

JOIN THE CLUB

BOOKERS' TWO
 OVER 250 RECIPROCAL CLUBS
 MORE THAN SHOWCASE
 THE ONLY CARD YOU'LL NEED

Join Today
 Fill Out and Mail
 or Drop By with Standard Fee of $15.68

NAME _____

ADDRESS _____ PHONE _____

HOME ADDRESS IF STUDENT _____

CITY _____ STATE _____

DATE OF BIRTH _____

Enclose check for $15.68 and mail to Bookers Two, Box 578, Manhattan, Kansas 66502. '6502.

HAPPY DAYS

THURS. NITES

$1.25 House Drinks

50¢ Steins

$1.75 Pitchers

ROCKIN' K BAR

No cover charge for members and guest

Roses are Red
Violets are Blue
Say I Love You
At BOOKERS TWO
For Reservations Call
539-9431

THE ICECREAM SOCIAL

Makes old-fashioned ice cream treats — still America's #1 dairy treat. You'll love our atmosphere

537-7079 1314 Westloop

BUSHWACKERS

• THE • FUNDRIKERY

Valentine Special
 $1.25 Drinks
 80¢ red beer

$2 Daiquiri
 Valenwine 2 for 1
 Cupid coolers 2 for 1

T.V. Night 7-10 p.m.
 with
 Knot's Landing

One of the finest comedians in the country will be at Bushwacker's Monday night so stay tuned.

Fast Eddys

1315 Laramie
2nd Anniversary Celebration
 Thursday, Feb. 13
$2.25 Pitchers (All Day)
 OVER 200 PRIZES
 for Table Drawing & Door Prizes
 - Prizes Include -
 34 Jointed Cues (24 of them jointed Budweiser Cues) Tombstone Pizzas, Signs, Glasses, Hostess Fast Eddy's Cups and many more goodies.
 Drawing starts at 7 p.m.
 till close

ComputerLand

ANNOUNCEMENT

$1495

We are now an authorized dealer of the Leading Edge Model "D"™ Computer

The system for your home that's more than a home system

The Leading Edge Model "D" is an affordable and powerful personal computer with complete IBM compatibility. It's new at ComputerLand. Come see how a computer can make your life easier.

Green Screen Model
$1495
Includes 2 Drives, 256K Mono. Color, Parallel & Serial Ports, Monitor, Enhanced Keyboard, DOS 2.1, Hercules Emulation

Color Monitor
$1895
1306 Westloop • Manhattan • 776-0086

ComputerLand

The one thing to know about computers.

Attention Ladies
 Every Thursday is Ladies' day at
Wayne's Quik Lube
$3 OFF
 regular price for Full Service
 No Appointment Necessary
Wayne's Quik Lube
 2304 Sky-Vue Lane
 539-5431
 Mon., Wed., Fri., Sat.
 8 a.m.-5:30 p.m.
 Tues., Thurs. 8 a.m.-8 p.m.

MRK'S

Coors Light NERD NITE coming...

Thurs., Feb. 20!
 Watch For Details!
 • Grand Prize to Nerdier Outfit
 • Free Nerd T-Shirts

Daytona PARTY

at

Brother's

AGGIEVILLE

Thursday & Friday 5-7 p.m.

Let Melissa sign you up for the time of your life. A fun-filled week at Daytona Beach at the Voyager Hotel.

Let Pamela fill your glass full of spirits to start the escape to Daytona off right.

Last chance to sign up—so don't miss out!

The Party in Daytona includes:

- Round trip motor coach transportation to beautiful Daytona Beach (WE DRIVE Packages Only). We use nothing but modern highway coaches.
- FREE refreshments available on the motor coach on the way down (to begin the party).
- Eight Florida days/seven endless nights at one of our exciting oceanfront hotels, located right on the Daytona Beach strip. Your hotel has a beautiful pool, sun deck, air conditioned rooms, color TV, and a nice long stretch of beach.
- A full schedule of FREE pool deck parties every day.
- A full list of pre-arranged discounts to save you money in Daytona Beach.
- Travel representatives to insure a smooth trip and a good time.
- Optional side excursions to Disney World, Epcot, deep sea fishing, party cruises, etc.
- All taxes and tips.

You Drive $119

We Drive $209

FREE BEER
 for all sign ups

FREE BEER
 for all sign ups

or Call Melissa 776-8925
 between 6-9 p.m.

Death squad leader seeks asylum

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — A former Salvadoran army officer, planning to seek political asylum in the United States, says he participated in death squad killings in the early 1980s and witnessed the slaughter of civilians by El Salvador's U.S.-backed military.

Ex-Lt. Ricardo Ernesto Castro, 35, a 1973 West Point graduate, described death squad killing of suspected "subversives" as a routine activity of the Salvadoran army in early 1981. He said he personally commanded four assassination missions, claiming about a dozen lives.

Castro said he also saw the army execute unarmed women and children during a counter-insurgency sweep near the Rio

Lempa in the fall of 1981 and leave the bodies in shallow streams as a warning to leftist guerrillas.

Castro, who left El Salvador in mid-1982, is the first Salvadoran army officer to publicly state that he participated in death squad killings. He initially told his story to free-lance reporter Allan Nairn for an article in the current issue of Progressive magazine.

Castro, however, said in the interview he was recruited to work with the CIA and served as a translator for an American who trained the Salvadoran military on interrogation techniques. He said the American trainer did not advocate torture, but suggested that suspects be kept "completely disoriented" by keeping them isolated and employing psychological tactics.

Castro's statements support allegations made by private human rights groups that the Salvadoran military committed massive abuses in the early 1980s, killing tens of thousands of civilians. During those years, the Reagan administration disputed many of the charges but acknowledged that some abuses occurred.

In a July 1982 report certifying human rights progress in El Salvador, the State Department said "there has been no evidence to support periodic guerrilla allegations of large-scale massacres allegedly committed by government forces."

The administration now contends abuses have largely been brought under control.

Poisons vary in Tylenol cases

By The Associated Press

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. — The type of cyanide that killed a woman who took Extra-Strength Tylenol capsules last weekend differed from the poison that killed seven people in Chicago in 1982, the Food and Drug Administration said Wednesday.

Diane Elstroth, 23, of Peekskill died Saturday after taking two capsules of Extra-Strength Tylenol, at least one of which contained potassium cyanide, Dr. Millard Hyland, county medical examiner, said.

Tests conducted on two of three poisoned capsules found in the bottle used by Elstroth showed that the cyanide had a different chemical profile from the chemical used in Chicago in 1982, FDA spokesman William Grigg said Wednesday in a call from his Washington-area office.

The Chicago case remains unsolved.

The poisons used in both killings also differed from the cyanide used for testing and quality control in the Johnson & Johnson plant that produces the painkiller, Grigg said.

The FDA inspected the factory where the pills were made and determined that "there were no indications that it (the contamination) could be the result of the manufacturing," he said.

Grigg said the determination that the type of cyanide in the latest death differed from that found in Chicago or at the manufacturing plant constituted "two more pieces of information that continue to point away from a widespread problem."

Westchester County District Attorney Carl Vergari said earlier Wednesday that the contamination of the capsules "could have happened anywhere" and several theories were being investigated.

He said tampering at the factory had not been ruled out, despite Hyland's contention that the cyanide found in the Tylenol would have eaten through the capsules in eight to 10 days.

"It might have happened at the factory, it might have happened during shipping, it might have happened at the store," Vergari said.

Elstroth, daughter of a state police investigator, took the pills while staying at her boyfriend's home in Yonkers.

The boyfriend, Michael Notarnicola, 23, told authorities he opened a new bottle of the painkiller about 1 a.m. Saturday, when Elstroth complained of a headache.

Her body was discovered at the home 12 hours later. Notarnicola's mother, whose name has not been released, then took a single Tylenol but was unaffected.

Investigators found three of the remaining 21 capsules also had been contaminated with cyanide.

Notarnicola told police the bottle had been bought at an A&P in nearby Bronxville, but authorities would not say who bought the bottle or when.

New Brunswick, N.J.-based Johnson & Johnson said the lot number involved, ADF916, was manufactured in Fort Washington, Pa., in May and shipped to stores in August, arriving on shelves in September and October.

Officials said the bottle may have been bought elsewhere at that time, tampered with and put on the shelf in Bronxville.

"That's one theory," Vergari conceded.

Soviet Jew to resume plight

By The Associated Press

JERUSALEM — Anatoly Shcharansky said Wednesday he will resume the campaign for free emigration of Soviet Jews that led the Kremlin to put him in prison and labor camps for more than eight years.

Israel radio also said he sent forms to Moscow formally inviting his 77-year-old mother, Ida Milgrom, and his brother Leonid to Israel on the basis of family reunification. That is the first step in getting exit visas from the Soviet government.

The State Department said Wednesday the Soviet Union has "indicated" Milgrom and other relatives of Shcharansky would be allowed to emigrate to Israel. The brief announcement did not elaborate.

The Jewish human rights activist, who was imprisoned as a spy, told Israel radio in his first interview since being released to the West: "It is my task to use my experience to help those people who stayed behind in the Soviet Union."

On Tuesday, Shcharansky walked across the Glienicke Bridge to West Berlin from Communist East Germany. Three other people held in the East and five imprisoned in the West, all on espionage charges, were exchanged on the "bridge of spies" half an hour later.

In East Berlin, he said, he was told to walk a straight line to a car and deliberately took a zig-zag route. "Of course, that's funny, but it was a matter of principle never to agree to anything for the KGB (secret police)," he said.

"Either I didn't listen to what they told me to do, or I did exactly the opposite."

His brother Leonid, 39, told Western reporters in Moscow that Shcharansky lay down in the snow, demanding the return of his belongings before boarding the special plane taking him to Berlin, but finally left with only a prayer book.

The radio said the 38-year-old mathematician and computer analyst, who was reported to have health problems during his confinement, had undergone a medical examination.

He appears pale and thin but told a government spokesman he gained more than 20 pounds because of better treatment during the last weeks before his release.

Enjoy smooth, creamy
Frozen Yogurt
that tastes like Ice Cream
but with 80% less fat!
--FREE SAMPLES--

I Can't Believe It's
YOGURT!
Frozen Yogurt Stores

OPEN: 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Daily
Noon-11 p.m. Sundays
Nautilus Towers-Aggieville

TEACHER CERTIFICATION

candidates

If you need to take the PPST or the National Teacher's Exam
YOU MUST MAIL IN YOUR OWN REGISTRATION

Registration deadline for April 5 test is March 3

Registration materials available in 013 Bluemont Hall and 103 Holton Hall

BE THE BEST!

ARTS AND SCIENCES COUNCIL
ELECTION APPLICATIONS
AVAILABLE IN THE
SGA OFFICE AND DEAN'S OFFICE

APPLICATIONS DUE
NOON FEB. 17th

JOIN THE COUNCIL!

MR.K'S

Today Is

1950's NITE
just Like The Good Ol' Days!

•$1 Pitchers
•$1 Admission with KSU ID
•50s Music

TGIF NEWS: Tri Delts, Lori Clark and Heidi Ehly guest
DJs plus free 24' sub and red beer!

2305
Stagg Hill Rd.

M-F 9-5:30
Sat. 9-5:00

$2.50 off
any $5.00 or more purchase with this
coupon.

One Coupon per customer.

Not valid with any other offer.

Exp. Feb. 22, 1986

REAL FLOWERS WILT...

Give a Silk
Floral Arrangement
from BEN FRANKLIN.
Like Your Love
They Last FOREVER!

Ben Franklin Crafts

Westloop Shopping Center
Manhattan

THE ECONOMICS CLUB
PROUDLY PRESENTS THE
ARRIVAL OF...
OMICRON DELTA EPSILON
ECONOMICS HONORARY

Requirements: 3.0 G.P.A.
12 Hours of Economics

Information meeting
Union 207, 7 p.m.
Tuesday, Feb. 18

Applications are available in room 327 Waters
Hall and are due Feb. 19 at 5 p.m.

WANTED
TONIGHT

King and Queen of Hearts
To be announced tonight
Coors prizes and giveaways all night

$1 PITCHERS
$1 COVER

Come with your heart on!!

"How about being the Engineer that you have studied to be?"
Engineering Managers Wanted"
Engineering Instructors Wanted"
"Research & Development Opportunities"

Lt. Sam Fishel of Navy Engineering Kansas
City will hold interviews on campus...

At: Holtz Hall

Time: 10:00 a.m.

Date: Feb. 13 & 14, 1986.

For more information on Navy Engineering call:

1-800-892-5992 In Missouri

1-800-821-5110 in Kansas

Special
Value
All of February

Warm up with a bowl of hot, savory
soup, our popular
Vistaburger and a 75c savings.
Because you enjoyed this special so much in January, we've brought it back!
Vistaburger and
Soup of the Day
Special...at Vista!

Vistaburger & Soup
of the Day $1.79

Save 75c on a 12 oz. bowl
A different soup featured
each day

Vegetable Beef
Chicken Noodle
English Clam Chowder
French Onion
Cauliflower Cheese
Cream of Broccoli
Cream of Potato

Wisconsin Cheddar
Cheese
Tomato

Vista
RESTAURANTS

1911 Tuttle Creek Blvd./Manhattan

20% OFF

All Stuffed Animals including Avanti

40% OFF

Selected Stuffed Animals

Sale ends Saturday

Mon.-Sat. 9:30-5:30
Thurs. 9:30-8

Manhattan Hobbies & Toys

108 S. 4th 537-2051

Make your feelings crystal clear.

With the FTD® Crystal Hearts Bouquet. $30

Valentine's Week starts February 9, so send early. Call or visit us today.

MANHATTAN FLORAL CO.
630 Poyntz Ave. Manhattan, Kansas 66502
Phone 913-776-8803

® Registered trademark of FTDA

BLESS YOUR HEART

EXERCISE REGULARLY

Sponsored by Rec Services

BE OUR VALENTINE THIS WEEKEND!!

clean, comfortable rooms at an economy price.

$25 single $28 double

1501 Tuttle Creek Blvd.
539-5391

AMP SALE

Get Your Mate a CRATE Send'er a FENDER

Hayes House of Music
"We Will Not Be Undersold"
776-7983 223 Poyntz, Manhattan

IMPRESSIONS

Hair care center
Valentine's Day Special

$10 OFF
perm
Reg. $40

$5 OFF
cut & style
Reg. $15

$3 OFF
haircut
Reg. $10

Bring student ID
Expires Feb. 28
Georgia, Shea, Deanne

537-1332 411 Poyntz Lower Level Mall

Firestone

STEEL BELTED RADIALS, WHITEWALLS

$27.95 P155/80R13

P165/80R13 $34.95

P185/80R13 $36.95

P195/75R14 $41.95

P205/75R14 $44.95

P215/75R15 $47.95

P225/75R15 $49.95

P235/75R15 $53.95

CAR CARE COUPON

Lube Oil & Oil Filter

We will lubricate the car's chassis, then drain the oil and install up to 5 quarts of quality oil and a new filter. American cars plus Toyota, Datsun, VW, Honda and light trucks are welcome. (Most Cars)

$12.67

Offer Expires: Feb. 14, 1986

CAR CARE COUPON

Automatic Transmission Service

Includes: most rear-wheel drive American cars plus Toyota, VW and Datsun. Excludes: Toronado $45. We'll install a new transmission filter, replace the pan gasket, clean and inspect the oil reservoir, add transmission fluid and road test your car. Automatic transmission only.

$25.67

Offer Expires: Feb. 14, 1986

CAR CARE COUPON

Front Disc Brake Job

• Install new front disc pads • Resurface rotors • Repack front wheel bearings • Install new front grease seals • Check master cylinder • Inspect brake hoses • Add fluid as needed • Road test the car • Single piston systems. Add $15 where semi-metallic disc pads are required.

$49.67

Reg. $89.95 (Most Cars)
Offer Expires: Feb. 14, 1986

CAR CARE COUPON

Electronic Ignition Tune-Up

U.S. Cars Only

Master Care will install new resistor spark plugs, adjust valve speed, set timing, test battery and electrical system and inspect rotor distributor cap, PCV valve, ignition cables and air filter. (Most cars in 4 cyl. 6 cyl. 8 cyl.)

$24.67 $32.67 $38.67

Offer Expires: Feb. 14, 1986

Larry Jackson, Manager
Mon.-Fri. 7:30 a.m.-6 p.m.
Sat. 8 a.m.-5 p.m.

307 N. 3RD Ph. 776-4849

PIZZERIA

776-0004

PIZZA

716 N. 3rd, Manhattan, Ks.
Free Delivery

OPENING SOON

1800 Claflin at FirstBank Center

Use this coupon and save 20% the 1st week of our GRAND OPENING

(Watch the Collegian for details)

UPC

Thursday, February 13, 1986

UPC

Today

CAL

"Cal," a passionate whisper from a darkling plain, takes a firm grasp on one's attention. It is a very fine thing."

Out of Northern Ireland's conflict between religions, a passionate affair grows, when the accused Catholic murderer of a Protestant policeman falls in love with the policeman's widow.

In The Little Theatre at 3:30 & 7:30 p.m.
Rated R; KSU ID required; $1.75

k-state union upc kaleidoscope

Tomorrow and Saturday

AMERICAN DREAMER

"It's SOOO FUNNY!"

The most fun-filled lark since "Romancing the Stone." Non-stop pacing. The most physically adept slapstick since "Indiana Jones." Adventurous enough for any Bond fan, bustling with enough costumes to pack a dozen Dynasty episodes and bursting with enough heart for romantics everywhere. JoBeth Williams is adorably daffy and sexy.

"A convulsively endearing comedy! A delightful, nothing-but-fun flick. If Oscars were parceled out for loony but superbly controlled performances, JoBeth Williams might well find herself clutching that slippery statuette next March."

In Forum Hall at 7 & 9:30
Rated PG;
$1.75
KSU ID required

k-state union upc feature time

Today

THE HILLS HAVE EYES

A nice American family. They didn't want to kill. But they didn't want to die.

MIDNIGHT in Forum Hall
Rated R;
$1.75
KSU ID required

k-state union upc kaleidoscope

Today

Calligraphy

midday arts PRESENTS:

Demonstration by Nina Miley in the Union Art Gallery Noon to 1

k-state union upc arts

War Films Series

JEAN RENOIR'S MASTERPIECE

GRAND ILLUSION

"Masterpiece" FILM QUARTERLY "Masterpiece" THE FILM TIL NOW "Masterpiece" THE 50 GREAT FILMS

French aviators held in a German prison camp during World War I plan a daring escape in this masterpiece from Jean Renoir, considered by many to be one of the best films ever made.

MONDAY IN FORUM HALL AT 7 p.m.
TUESDAY IN LITTLE THEATRE AT 7 p.m.
KSU ID required; $1.75; unrated

k-state union upc kaleidoscope

THE LONGEST DAY

Saturday and Sunday Matinee
February 22nd & 23rd

From a place you never heard of... a story you'll never forget.

Monday & Tuesday Evening
February 24th & 25th

GALLIPOLI

A Peter Weir Film

STUDENT HEALTH CARE SERVICES

Clinic Hours 8:00-11:30 a.m.
1:00-4:30 p.m.

24 hours, 7 days a week health care services
Birth control availability for student spouses
Prescriptions from any physician filled at our pharmacy

Time-saving appointment system
Call 532-6544 for an appointment

LAFENE STUDENT HEALTH CENTER

Your Medical Facility

TAKE YOUR VALENTINE
FOR A DAIRY QUEEN
TREAT!

"LET'S ALL GO TO DAIRY QUEEN"

1015 N. 3rd
Manhattan
12th and Moro
in Aggieville

Dairy
Queen
brazier.

* Reg. U.S. Pat. Off. Am. D. Q. Corp.
© Copyright 1974, Am. D. Q. Corp.

Valentine's Day-Feb. 14thBlue River Pub

BRING YOUR V-DAY
CRUSH TO THE ONLY
BAR IN TOWN THAT OFFERS THE BEST IN...

- Private Party Accommodations (150-120 min.)
- Exciting Bands
- Food Service
- Upcoming Special Events

537-9877

Next to Tuttle
Creek Dam

BEST WESTERN CONTINENTAL INN

When Cupid strikes on the 14th and the Cats strike on the 19th, we'll be ready to accommodate you!

- Adjoining Shopping Center
 - 92 Units
 - Meeting Rooms
 - HBO Movies
 - Direct Dial Phones
 - King and Queen Beds
 - Suites
 - In Room Coffee
- Call 776-4771 Toll-Free Number (Call Direct in Kansas)
1-800-432-2701
100 Bluemont at Hwy. 177 By-pass and U.S. 24

Valentine's Day
Special

.04 ct. total weight—14k
Diamond Earrings

Only

$13.95

Diamond Connection

408 Poyntz Avenue

539-3225

PHONE Friendship Tutoring Big Lakes Development Center

Volunteers Day

Feb. 13

Thurs.

1ST FLOOR OF UNION 10am-2pm
to recognize

volunteers of these agencies

Student Government Red Cross Big Brothers/Big Sisters U-Learn Women's Resource Center Volunteer Clearing House UFM St. Mary's Crisis Center Manhattan Emergency Shelter

Kennedy's Claim

"Steak for Two"

1/2 Carafe of Wine
Cheesecake

$16.95

Dinner includes: Salad bar, choice of potato, rolls & butter

Across from Holidome

J.D.'s Steakhouse

Valentine's Day Special

"Steak for Two"

Cheesecake

$14.95

Dinner includes: Salad bar, choice of potato,
rolls & butter

2304 Stagg Hill Road
537-8440

Across from Holidome

Sweets
for your Sweetie

BARRY'S DRUG CENTER

Whitman's
Russell Stover
CANDIES

ALSO—

- ♥ HUCKLEBERRY MOUNTAIN
- ♥ ALMOND ROCCA
- ♥ ASTOR
- ♥ BRACH'S

Barry's
Drug Center

409 POYNTZ

GORHAM

Full Lead
Crystal
Gifts

Enjoy Gorham quality and craftsmanship in full lead crystal. Its exceptional brilliance and clarity are carefully created to exacting standards. Now on sale at 20% OFF for your Valentine.

Campbell's
Use Our Bridal Registry

Poyntz & 5th 1227 Moro
776-9667 539-1891

LOVE YER VALENTINE
WITH A
FREE
HAIRCUT

The executive stylists
Julie-Barb-Kathy-J.D.

Hair Design Studio
210 Humboldt

Celebrate Yer
Valentine's Day
with a

TWO-FER-ONENESS
GIVEAWAY

Get one haircut at regular price and the 2nd one

FER FREE

776-5651

LORDS 'N LADIES

Offer expires 2/21/86

LOVE IS IN THE AIR

TAKE YOUR APPEARANCE TO HEART AND MAKE AN APPOINTMENT NOW!!

we offer...

20% OFF all types of manicures, sculptured nails, nail
tips and pedicures.

Special good through
Feb. 21

Valentine's Day is the best excuse this semester to pamper
and primp.

Lamaur, Nexxus & Redken hair products and Lamaur cosmetics available. We also offer ear piercing. Stylists: Kitty, Kathy, Paula, Namina, Verna, Eileen, Darlene.

Beauty Mart

YOUR FULL FASHION STORE

Mon.-Fri. 8 a.m.-8:30 p.m. 126 Sarber Lane
Sat. 8 a.m.-4 p.m. (Street between K-Mart Sun. 12 p.m.-6 p.m. and Wal-Mart) 537-7118

SWEETHEART SPECIAL!

Bring in your sweetheart
for Valentine's savings!
The first cut is $8,
the second cut is only $4.
This week only!

"no double discounts"

MasterCuts
family haircutters

Little Apple Square

539-2535

By The Associated Press

The bill would require that the driver and front seat passengers in any vehicle on Kansas streets and highways have their seat belts fastened while the car is in operation and provides a $25 fine for violators.

Staff/John Thelande

Steve Naughton, freshman in mechanical engineering, wait their turn during the "Dating Game" Wednesday in the Union Catskeller.

By The Collegian Staff

The game was played by students from the residence halls in conjunction with Human Sexuality

"I felt like tonight went super," Proite said. "I think the students had an evening of fun and compa-

Hefner's questions ranged from "What's your favorite fairy tale and why?" to "What's the first thing you do in the shower?"

Round three seemed to receive the most response from the crowd. Bachelor No. 2, Dean Darst, freshman in business administration, had a humorous answer for

The crowd really enjoyed this answer and so did McMinimy. She chose him as her date.

By The Associated Press

In each case, as American F-14's and F-A-18's were directed towards the Libyan jets, the Libyans turned for home before they were confronted, the official said. He added

The Libyan flights "are giving us excellent training," the official concluded.

Other Pentagon sources, meantime, said the Navy had detected no evidence of a large-scale Libyan ex-

That followed Khadafy's decision to order his own forces on military alert after President Reagan accused Libya of supporting the Palestinian terrorist faction believed responsible for the Dec. 27 attacks on

The Pentagon sources said Wednesday the U.S. carriers and their jets were still operating to the north of the gulf.

SOUTHERN
SUN
Tanning Center

Purchase 5 or more sessions & register to win an all expense paid Chauffeured Limousine Ride
and 776-8060

Dinner at the Plaza March 2
Limousine offers: moon roof, TV, wet bar, privacy glass, seating for 6

519 N. 12th
Aggleville

FREDERICK DOUGLASS COMMEMORATION BANQUET

Keynote address:
Mrs. Rosa Parks

Friday, Feb. 14, 1986 6 p.m.
donation $15 (tax deductible)
Proceeds to fund youth trip scholarship for program activities.
Douglass Center 901 Yuma Street

A black and white portrait of Mrs. Rosa Parks. She is an older woman with short, dark hair, wearing large, dark-rimmed glasses and a light-colored, possibly white, collared shirt. She is smiling slightly and looking towards the camera. The background is dark and out of focus. The portrait is positioned on the right side of the page, partially overlapping the text area.

Brother's
KSU
IN AGGIEVILLE USA

$1.75
PITCHERS
45¢
STEINS

 SEE:
BLIND DATE
Fri. & Sat.

A free room for 2 at
All Seasons given away
Fri. and Sat.!

Send Sweet
Nothings to your Sweetheart
With a Collegian Personal

[Dashed box containing horizontal lines for writing a message]

(Name) _____ (Phone) _____

Ads will run Feb. 14.
Write your message in the space above,
CLIP THE COUPON ABOVE and bring it
with your pre-payment to Kedzie 103
anytime before 10 a.m. Feb. 13.
$2.50 for 20 words
15¢ each
extra word.

Professor reviews holocaust uniqueness

By The Collegian Staff

The question of the holocaust's uniqueness was explored Wednesday by Alan Rosenberg, professor of philosophy from Queens College in New York, during the fourth lecture of the University Lectures in the Humanities series in the Union.

"Was the holocaust unique?" asked Rosenberg, who has written and spoken extensively about the subject.

Rosenberg said there are three options when dealing with the issue. The first is dismissal. The second is looking at the history of the question. The third is to concentrate on the way the uniqueness issue adds to discussion of the event.

Rosenberg said the central issue to the question of the holocaust's uniqueness is what makes it unique. He outlined three groups and their responses to the question.

The first are the trivialists, who claim all historical events are unique and "the holocaust is just one more incident, although a flagrant one, of man's inhumanity to man," he said.

The second group consists of absolutists, who claim the holocaust was an unprecedented event in history.

"This group says it was singular, incomprehensible and beyond all historical explanation and appraisal," Rosenberg said.

The third group is the relativists, who "believe the holocaust was neither extrahistorical nor just another atrocity," he said.

Within this group there are two subgroups, Rosenberg said. They are the intentionalists, who see the holocaust as unique because of the Nazis' intention to destroy all Jews, and the methodologists, who believe the way in which people were destroyed is what makes the holocaust unique.

Rosenberg said methodologists believe the German emphasis on science and technology during World War II allowed them to find unique solutions to the "Jewish problem," and in this kind of atmosphere a new type of killer emerged, known as the "desk killer."

"These are people who do not deal directly with the people being killed," he said. "With the desk killer we need to radically rework our whole notion of evil."

Burglar steals telephone from Nichols Hall office

On Jan. 17 between 4 and 8:30 p.m., a suspect stole a Merlin brand desk telephone from a graduate student's office in Nichols Hall.

The phone, valued at $175, has a capability for five lines and is black with silver trim. The telephone will operate only on the Merlin system.

Persons having information on this or any crime are asked to call Crime Stoppers at 539-7777.

Classifieds

ANNOUNCEMENTS 01

MARY KAY Cosmetics—Color awareness, products, and free facial. Anna Prockish, 1001 Blumont, 537-4246. (89t)

CHARLIE PARTLOW (also known as Charlie P. Mr. Restaurant and Fast Charlie) will be displaying his libidinous talents in the art of mixology at the Cotton Club this Friday from 5 to 7 p.m. for TGIF. Come watch Charlie blend, shake and fizz. (97-98)

DINNER THEATRE this weekend at Gregory's! The Music of Broadway—scenes and music from My Fair Lady, Camelot, Brigadoon, Gigi, etc. Call 776-1234. (97-98)

ATTENTION 02

HEE'S ALTERATIONS—Suits, coats, jeans, zippers and all types of alterations. 1125 Laramie Plaza, Aggieville. Monday thru Friday, 10 a.m.-5:30 p.m.; Saturdays, 10 a.m.-4 p.m. 776-7959. (87t)

FLYING INTEREST you? Check into K-State Flying Club. Call Steve Dyer at 532-5600 or 537-0458. (8t)

SPRING BREAK on the beach at South Padre Island, Daytona Beach, Fort Lauderdale, Fort Walton Beach or Mustang Island/Port Aransas from only $89, and skiing at Steamboat or Vail from only $89! Deluxe lodging, parties, goodie bags, more... Hurry, call Sunchase Tours for more information and reservations toll free 1-800-321-5911 or contact a local Sunchase Representative today! When your Spring Break counts... count on Sunchase.

BEACH PARTY at Brother's Thursday and Friday (5-7 p.m.). Come down and party and sign up for the party of your life, or call Melissa Snider (776-8925).

IMPRESS YOUR Valentine with a gift from Horticultural Services. Two miles east of Manhattan on U.S. 24. Call 776-5764. Store hours Monday thru Saturday 8 a.m.-6 p.m.; Sunday 10 a.m.-4 p.m. (97)

SKI SPRING Break—Breckenridge, Keystone, and Copper Mountain. March 9, 10 and 11 only $220. Price includes transportation, lodging, ski rental and lift tickets. For information, call 537-2995. (83-)

STUDENT NEEDS ride to campus from Tuttle Creek Blvd. area. Will pay gas. Please call 539-1936.

FOR RENT—MISC 03

COSTUMES—FROM gorilla suits to Hawaiian leis. Makeup, wigs, periodical clothing, masks, grass skirts, all occasions available. Treasure Chest, Aggieville. (28t)

SEE MARIE for all your costume needs. If I don't have it, I'll make it for you. Marie's Costumes, 19th and Humboldt, 539-5200. Parking in the rear. (90t)

SPRING BREAK—Deluxe two-bedroom condo: pool, hot tub, sauna, close to Breckenridge, Copper, Keystone, $100/night. Call (303) 420-1713. (96-105)

FOR RENT—APTS 04

FOR AUGUST—Deluxe two bedroom furnished apartment, across the street from Ford Hall. 539-2482 after 4:00 p.m. (92-102)

THREE BEDROOM available now. Utilities paid. Call Barbara, 537-1329. (83-98)

ONE OR two bedroom—Reasonable, one block to campus, available now. Call Barbara, 537-1329. (83-98)

NEXT TO campus—Leasing for fall, across from Mariatt and Goodnow: Furnished two or one bedroom, central air, carpeting, fully equipped kitchen, balcony, off street parking. 539-2702, evenings, weekends. (88-98)

NEXT TO campus—Leasing for fall, across from Haymaker, overlooking campus: Two bedroom, fireplace, central air, carpeting, fully equipped kitchen, balcony, laundry facility, off street parking. 539-2702, evenings, weekends. (88-98)

BRAND NEW three bedroom. One and one-half baths, near campus. Available May, June or August, $480/month. Call 537-8800. (89t)

PLAN FOR the summer and the 1986-87 school year. McCullough Development Inc. is now accepting applications for summer and fall leases. Call us, we manage over 300 university area apartments. 776-3804. (89t)

AVAILABLE IMMEDIATELY—Furnished one bedroom apartment, one block from Ahearn. Call 776-9124. (91-108)

BRAND NEW deluxe two, three and four bedroom apartment complexes for fall. All close to campus, reasonably priced. Call 537-2919. (93-115)

NICE ONE, two, three and four bedroom apartments and houses. Also an elegant five bedroom house with three baths. Most near campus, available now, summer and fall. Good prices. Call 537-2919. (93-115)

FURNISHED ONE bedroom duplex. Move in immediately! No pets or smokers. Call 537-2811. (93-97)

AVAILABLE NOW! One bedroom duplex four blocks from campus. 537-2575 or 539-1894. (94-98)

PRAIRIE GLEN—A really nice place to live. Two bedroom unit available. 776-4786. (94-108)

FOR NEXT school year—One bedroom furnished, block west of campus. Call 539-5051 or see Dean # 4, 1024 Sunset. (94-98)

FOR NEXT school year, August—Two bedroom condo, one-half block west of campus, up to four people, $520. Call 776-4528 or see Dean #5, 1829 College Hts. (94-98)

IMMEDIATELY—NEED female non-smoking roommate. $125 plus utilities and own room. Call 537-4858. (95-97)

EFFICIENCY APARTMENT, $185/month. Heat, gas, water included. Call 537-7794 evenings and weekends. (95-104)

CLOSE TO campus—Two bedroom furnished apartment complex, laundry facilities, leasing for fall for two to four students. 537-0152. (95-107)

THREE BEDROOM in a near new nine-plex—One and a half baths, living room, dining room and fully equipped kitchen. Roomy and large closets. Limit four persons, $125 each or $450. Call 537-7087. (95-99)

VERY NICE one bedroom apartment. Utilities paid, seven minute walk to campus, unfurnished. 539-5015 after 3 p.m. (96-100)

913 BLUEMONT—Brand new three bedroom building available May 15. Call 537-7880 or 537-7810. (96t)

1207 KEARNEY or 1214 Vattier—Almost new three bedroom, laundry facilities. Available August 1. Call 537-2255 or 537-7810. (96t)

1530 MCCAIN Lane, overlook to campus—Luxury two bedroom, fireplace, modern appliances, laundry facilities. Available August 1. Call 537-7880 or 537-7810. (96t)

NEAR KSU for summer and fall: Four-plex, one bedroom, furnished, laundry, air conditioning, reasonable. 776-7814, 539-3803. (96-105)

CLOSE TO campus—Excellent furnished three bedroom apartment available for rent. Also two bedroom apartment for summer and fall. 537-0152. (97-107)

SPACIOUS FURNISHED two bedroom in a six-plex one block east of campus, 1115 North 12th. Living room, dining room, patio deck, fully equipped kitchen with dishwasher. $150 each three persons. $125 each four persons. Phone 537-7087. (97-101)

FOR RENT—HOUSES 05

THREE BEDROOM home, 1523 Fairchild, available now. Call Barbara, 537-1329. (83-98)

SEVERAL THREE, four, and five bedroom houses for June occupancy. Clean and good condition guaranteed, $395 and up. 537-1269. (93t)

FOUR BEDROOM house for rent. Available in June, one year lease. Call 539-7569 after 5 p.m. (96-100)

FOR SALE—AUTO 06

FOR SALE—1971 Ford Galaxie 500. Good motor and transmission, $200 or best offer. Call Rina at 776-9055 after 5:00 p.m. (95-97)

1969 VW Bug—Runs good, 25-30 mpg, only $700. Call 532-3443. (96-101)

NEW EXHAUST system—$995! Free with it. New battery, radial snow tires, and 1976 Dodge Royal Monaco! Call Andrew (532-3678). (96-100)

FOR SALE—MISC 07

OFFICE SUPPLIES—Hull's Business Machines, 715 North 12th, Aggieville, 539-1413. (55t)

GOVERNMENT HOMES from $1 (J repair). Also delinquent tax property. Call 805-687-6000, ext. GH-9701 for information. (76-97)

IBM PC Jr., color monitor, 126K parallel interface, includes writing asst. program. $750. 539-1781. (92-98)

Everyday is Ring Day at BALFOUR HOUSE

716 N. Manhattan 776-5465

GOVERNMENT SURPLUS! Raincoats, overcoats, field jackets, camouflage clothing, sleeping bags, camping gear, much more! St. Marys Surplus Sales, 1-437-2734. (92-101)

FOUR PIECE set of Slingerland drums with Zildjian hi-hat and crash. 539-5812. (94-98)

TYPEWRITER RIBBONS: Royal, Brother, Silver Reed, Smith Corona. Hull Business Machines, 715 North 12th in Aggieville. 539-7931. (95-108)

Clip and Save

1/4 Pound Hamburger

69¢

The Ritz

Not good with other specials

One burger per coupon

Expires 2-16-86

ELECTRONIC VIDEO games—Scrambler and Astro, and also one electronic pinball machine. Flah. Price negotiable. Call Shay, 539-7606. (96-101)

1962 COLLECTORS item—Gibson electric bass guitar, $350. Call 1-784-2143. (96-98)

FOR SALE: Crib waterbed. Call 776-9881 after 5 p.m. (96-97)

30% OFF

All Strings, and DOD

Guitar Effects

Hayes House of Music

"We Will Not Be Undersold"

776-7893

223 Poyntz

TAPCO—500 watt power amp, 6 channel mix, 10 band 2 channel equalizer. Best offer, 537-9023. (97-98)

FOR SALE: Queen size hide-a-bed. Gold floral print, good condition. Call 1-765-3580 after 6 p.m. (97-98)

HELP WANTED 13

GOVERNMENT JOBS: $16,040-$59,230/year. Now hiring. Call 805-687-6000, ext. R-9701 for current federal list. (76-97)

COUPLE for Assistant Manager of large apartment complex. Live in, maintenance ability necessary. Send resume to Box 3, Collegian. (76t)

CRUISESHIPS HIRING! $16-30,000! Caribbean, Hawaii, World! Call for Guide, Cassette, Newswave! (916) 944-4444, Ext. Kansasstatecruise. (76-102)

AIRLINE HIRING boom! $14-$39,000! Stewardesses, Reservations! Call for Guide, Cassette, Newswave! (916) 944-4444 XUAW58. (89-108)

SUMMER JOBS, National Park Co.'s. 21 parks, 5,000 openings. Complete information, $5. Park Report, Mission Mtn. Co., 651 2nd Ave. W.N., Kaisapell, MT 59901. (89-110)

OVERSEAS JOBS—Summer, year round. Europe, South America, Australia, Asia. All fields. $900-2,000 month. Sightseeing, free information, write JJC, P.O. Box 52-KS-2, Corona Del Mar, Ca., 92625. (91-110)

ADVERTISING SALES: Energetic, intelligent, outgoing sales person needed for daily newspaper, advertising sales department. Neat appearance, good communicator, with an imagination and feel for advertising layout and copy. Good career opportunity for right person. Qualified applicants may send resume to: Micael Hallinger, Montgomery Publications, P.O. Box 129, Junction City, KS 66441 or call 913-762-5000 for an appointment. (91-100)

STUDENT COMPUTER programming positions available. Should be familiar with at least one of the following languages: Pascal, C or PL/I and able to work 15 to 20 hours per week. We will supply the necessary training in microcomputers. Summer employment is a possibility. For more information contact Mary Knapp at 532-7019. Application forms available at Room 211, Umlberger Hall. Applications will be accepted through February 14. (95-98)

BIKE MECHANIC—Part-time, experience required. Reply to Box 4, c/o Kansas State Collegian. (95-98)

CHAMBER MANAGER, Pratt, Kansas. Degree and prefer experience. For information contact Box 469, Pratt, KS or call 315-672-5501. (96-100)

MANNEQUIN'S NOW accepting applications for all positions. Apply in person between 2 and 5 p.m. daily. (96-98)

SEEKING APPLICANTS for part-time employment. Must be able to work half days and weekends. Sales experience, horticultural knowledge and ability to perform physical labor is a plus. Apply in person to Horticultural Service's Garden Center, East Hwy 24, Manhattan, from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m., Friday and Saturday, February 14th and 15th. (97-98)

LOCAL ORIGINATION TV station seeks ambitious individual for part-time production work. Great opportunity for hands-on experience in TV broadcasting. Available immediately. Send resume to: Cable Channel 6, 610 Humboldt, Manhattan, KS 66502 or call 776-9239. Application deadline February 20th. (97-100)

NOTICES 15

PARTY, PARTY, party with Melissa Snider Thursday and Friday (5-7 p.m.) at Brother's and sign up for the best time of your life in Daytona. (96-98)

PLAN your escape to Daytona Beach at Brother's Thursday & Friday 5-7 p.m. FREE BEER for all sign-ups. Friday is the last day to sign-up or call Melissa 776-8925 between 6-9 p.m.

KQLA—The switch is coming Friday at 6 p.m. to the new Q104. (97)

YOU CAN LEARN TO SKYDIVE

First jump information meeting tonight, February 13, at 7:00 p.m. in Union 206. Let us share our club and activities with you.

If you are one of the 60 students who trained with us last semester, attend the regular meeting at 8 p.m. to stay current.

FLAPJACK FEED! All you can eat! Thursday, February 13 in the K-State Union Stairroom. 4:30-6:30 p.m. (97)

SPECIAL THANKS to the many friends, colleagues, and students who gave their loving support during the illness and after the death of my husband, Jerome Johanning. Your kindness is appreciated. Gloria Freeland. (97-98)

ATTENTION SHUCK, Pout, Sohs, Charles, and Shed! AD PI picture of the week is—Can Betas really party? Signed Light, Stook, Orneaga, Juju, and Banna. (97)

CHAM—YOU fox, we miss you! Hope the Theta's are taking good care of you. L & L, Dana and A.J. (97)

KKG ROOMIE Susan—Roses are red, violets are blue; we're having fun getting to know you. Dana and A.J. (97)

HOLLY "JYD"—If you're the JY Dog, who in the world is your owner? See you Friday night. S. (97)

SIGMA NU Popeye—Better eat your spinach. You'll need all your strength for this weekend. Yours, Sweetpea. (97)

KAPPA SIGMA Steve—Don't be such a stranger. J and M. (97-98)

MEN OF Sigma Chi—We've located our teddies and warm blankets, so get ready to crawl under and experience an afternoon you'll never forget. Love, The Kappa's. (97-98)

KRIS EMME, Alias Odie: Thought I would wish you a Happy Valentine's Day one day early since you never get a Collegian on Fridays! Love you, Tom. (97)

GARY SEPULVEDA: Thanks for believing in me and helping me through the past week. You are very special. Patty. (97)

CREZEN—YOUR Alpha Angel loves you! Can't wait 'til Saturday night! H and K. (97-98)

513 SUNSET—Bucket, get out of studio! Squirrel, get out of bed! Sorry about our invitation, but we'll have a big weekend instead! Get psyched. Love, "Tan-Woman" and "J-Woman." (97)

LISTEN MONO—It's time to celebrate! Everything's legal and anything goes! Happy 21st to the best roommate ever! Love ya, Lisa, your 3rd roomie and the long lost one. (97)

ROOMMATE WANTED 17

FEMALE ROOMMATE for summer and next school year. Own room, spacious, pool, bike bath. 537-9008. (95-97)

ROOMMATE WANTED to share house—Own room, close to campus, negotiable rent, half utilities. 539-4697. (96-100)

TWO ROOMMATES looking for third (female, non-smoking) to share very nice three bedroom apartment one and one-half blocks from campus. June 1 lease. $155 plus utilities. 537-9357. (97-98)

SERVICES 18

PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free pregnancy test. Confidential. Call 537-9180. 103 S. Fourth St., Suite 25. (11t)

MANHATTAN CAMERA repairs cameras and equipment. 228 Poyntz, 776-4240. (41t)

WORD PROCESSING by computer, professional quality, letter-quality printer (not dot-matrix), disk storage. 776-6166. (13t)

TYPING/EDITING, letter quality word processor, professional resumes, cover letters, personalized form letters; disk storage. 539-5007. (76-113)

PROFESSIONALLY WRITTEN resumes, word processed cover letters, and typing. Resume Service, 1221 Moro Place, 537-7294. (72t)

MRS. KIM—Professional dressmaker and tailor. Alterations. 27 years experience. No pattern necessary. 537-2393. (82-111)

STOP PAYING $28 hour for VW repairs. Let the Bug Doctor at J & L Auto Service repair yours and save $8 per hour. Only seven minutes east, Hwy 24. Bugs, Rabbits, Ghia's, type 3's included. 1-494-2388, St. George. (85-105)

DATA SHEETS to dissertations and everything in between. Letter quality Word Processing. Mrs. Burden, 415 North 3rd St. 537-8189. (91-98)

STUDENT SPECIALS—Perms $15, Cuts $5. Artistic Hair, 415 North 3rd St. 537-8189. (91-98)

PROFESSIONAL TYPING—Dissertations, reports, papers, resumes, cover letters. Call 539-2411. (93-97)

GRAPHS AND scientific drawings, suitable for publication and slides. Call Janet, 776-9389. (94-103)

EXPERIENCED TYPIST—Word-quality printer, computer, disc storage, $1/page. 532-5961/537-9205. Dorinda. (95-103)

SITUATIONS WANTED 19

$10-$300 weekly/yr mailing circulars. No quotas. Sincerely interested rush self-addressed envelope. Success, P.O. Box 470CEG, Woodstock, IL 60086. (76-105)

WANTED 21

BASS GUITARIST and/or lead singer for local band. Call Robert Brooks at 539-4685. (95-97)

Chasing Reality

By David Krug and Steve Cooper

Bloom County

By Berke Breathed

Garfield

By Jim Davis

Board to enforce party rules

By COLLEEN WILSON
Staff Writer

In an attempt to deal with noise violations caused by greek house parties, a board of students will be formed to discuss possible solutions.

During a Wednesday meeting of the Student Relations Board, Capt. Nick Edvy of the Riley County Police Department said "fraternities are a constant form of noise ad complaints (from residents)."

"We have taken action," Edvy said. "But we have to single out individuals."

Most parties are from 50 to 500 people, Edvy said, and it's hard to single out the source of the noise.

Edvy said the RCPD has tried to control the noise by telling presidents of each fraternity house to keep the noise down "but it hasn't worked...and occasionally we've issued citations to (house presidents), but it's not his fault."

"We (RCPD) are pleading with them to put a law into effect for fraternities (to harshen penalties for troublemakers)," he said.

Edvy said the majority of the complaints continue to be in regard to two fraternities, Beta Theta Pi and Phi Delta Theta, located at 500 and 508 Sunset Ave. He said city ordinances can close the houses if they are "a nuisance," which can be declared after "several complaint calls."

Edvy said he would rather see problems handled in another manner.

"Thank God we have students to party at K-State," said Manhattan City Commissioner Rick Mann. "I know of no ordinance to close down student organizations (and) I would definitely oppose it."

Edvy cited examples of students shooting bottle rockets at passing cars, blocking traffic in the streets during parties, and two rifle shots coming from a second-story window of the fraternity house at 500 Sunset Ave.

Maribeth Gottschalk, new appointee to the board to represent Greek Affairs, said party guidelines, including alcoholic beverages policies for living groups, are posted by the organization each semester and the students "do follow them."

Gary Edwards, vice president for development at Manhattan Christian College, asked what could be done to compel students to follow the guidelines.

"We can deal with these problems if you will inform us of them," Barb Robel, Greek Affairs adviser, said.

Edvy said when a report is filed with the RCPD it is then forwarded to K-State Police, which then contacts Greek Affairs and Student Affairs.

Robel said of the "tens of complaints" filed with the campus police, Greek Affairs has only received "eight to 10."

Edvy said he didn't want to stress only bad aspects of students.

"I disagree with giving tickets to presidents," Edvy said. "We are often unsure whether there is actually a party planned or whether things just got out of hand."

"Who is in charge then?" asked Pat Bosco, assistant vice president for educational and student services.

"At 10 o'clock at night we are relying on (the house president) to help out," he said. "I don't know what the problem is with the two houses, but we need to keep on top of things or the system won't work."

Bosco said he was interested in seeing "where the problem lies," so the University administration can be "pro-active (and) not reactive."

Mann suggested a group be formed to review the various problems and present possible solutions at their scheduled meeting March 12.

Navy doctor begins court-martial

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Dr. Donal M. Billig, defending himself against manslaughter charges in the deaths of five heart patients, said Wednesday that none of his fellow doctors had told him he was incompetent to conduct surgery at Bethesda Naval Hospital.

In his first testimony at his military court-martial, the former head of heart surgery at Bethesda also said that a 1978 eye injury had not impaired his ability to conduct surgery before joining the Navy. He and said he had told his Navy recruiter that his privileges had been terminated at a New Jersey civilian hospital in 1981.

Billig, a Navy commander, is charged with involuntary manslaughter involving five patients who died during or after heart surgery. He is also charged with 24 counts of dereliction of duty in connection with other operations.

As he took the stand, Billig, 55, said he was "a little nervous." However, he appeared to grow more confident as he proceeded, answering questions from his lawyers in considerable detail and volunteering answers to counter prosecution testimony that was beyond the scope of the questions.

Billig said that in a 1983 meeting, the head of heart surgery at nearby Walter Reed Army Medical Center, Col. Russ Zajtechuk "was not complimentary to me." Zajtechuk testified that he told Billig his surgery was at the level of a first-year resident and that he should not continue performing operations.

Asked by defense attorney Stephen Baker if Zajtechuk had said he was at the level of a first-year resident, Billig responded, "I don't specifically remember that."

Billig said he had not encountered any difficulty in doing surgery between the time he was struck in the eye by a tennis ball in 1978 and joined the Navy in late 1982.

1,000 frames to choose from

Optometrists

general practice
dedicated to Optometry in a friendly manner

We'd like to be your Optometric office

TO SLEEP WITH

- Extended wear, Gas permeable, Tinted extended wear, Tinted soft contact lenses.
- All types of F.D.A. approved contacts.
- Approx. 5,000 contact lenses in stock.
- Free consultation and trial contact lens fitting.

 Drs Price, Young and Odle
1119 Westloop Place, Manhattan
537-1118

free door side parking

Senate to vote on fund allocations

By RENEE BEAUDOIN
Collegian Reporter

Student Senate will vote on allocation of the $700,000 gained from the refinancing of existing student bonds in its meeting at 7 tonight in the Union Big Eight room.

Senate will vote on a committee recommendation that Holton Hall receive $346,158 so the building can be renovated in one phase instead of the original estimate of three phases. The committee also recommended the KSU Police Department receive $18,000 to convert the existing emergency phones to a radio call box system.

The appeals to the committee's recommendations will also be voted on.

Agriculture judging teams are requesting $70,000 to be placed in an account so they can use the interest for travel and practice expenses.

The KSU Childcare Cooperative is requesting $86,182 for further renovation and expansion to create a facility capable of caring for 240 children of University families.

Senate will also vote on $150,000 requested to construct an elevator in Anderson Hall to make it accessible to handicapped individuals.

The debate team is appealing to senate for a one-time endowment of $100,000 for travel expenses.

KSDB-FM is requesting $23,600 to allow them to put up their antenna and be able to serve a larger area.

Senate will also vote on the bill sponsored by David Dakin, fifth-year senior in architecture, revising the SGA Constitution requiring that any new student fees for purposes other than education be voted on by the student body instead of senate.

"This way the administration would be clear about what the students really want," Dakin said.

The Men's Glee Club is requesting $2,400 from the Reserves for Contingencies Account to pay for food for 48 people for 10 days during their trip to the International Musical Council Bi-Annual Seminar hosted by Harvard University.

The Association of Collegiate Entrepreneurs is requesting $194 from the Reserves for Contingencies Account to attend the National Conference of Collegiate Entrepreneurs.

MONT BLUE APARTMENTS

Leasing for fall
Studio, one, and two bedroom
apartments and town houses
Close to Campus
Phone 539-4447

LIVING ETHICAL WILLS Union State Room # 3 12:00 Noon TODAY

This series gives an excellent opportunity to receive the "bequest" of a campus leader, in terms of what she/he hopes to leave humanity as guiding principles for life.

Nancy Smith
• Associate Professor,
Curriculum and Instruction

INTERNSHIPS

The Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City is seeking qualified candidates for Management Development Internship positions. Interns demonstrating strong management potential will be considered for full time Analyst positions upon graduation.

We will be available for on campus interviews:
Wednesday, February 26, 1986
For more information please contact your placement center or:

Karen Winter
Federal Reserve Bank
of Kansas City
925 Grand Ave.
Kansas City, Mo 64198

T.N.T.

★ Thursdays ★

Tacos "N"
TEQUILA
50¢ TACOS
with drinks
$1.00 Margaritas
4-6 p.m.

—No Cover Charge—
Members and Guests only
At the RAMADA Inn
776-5780

Bookers
Two
At the RAMADA INN

In the Name of God REVIVAL OF ISLAM

Lecture by:

MR. ZAFAR BANGHASH

Mr. Banghash is the editor of "Cerescent International," a widely distributed magazine on Islamic issues.

SOME OF THE TOPICS ARE:

"THE CONCEPT OF JIHAD OR 'HOLY WAR' IN ISLAM.

HOLY WAR IN AFGHANISTAN,

the struggle of the MUSLIM in

LEBANON, EGYPT, MALAYSIA,

IRAQ, AFRICA,.....

THE ISSUE OF TERRORISM,
ISLAMIC VIEW CONCERNING THE FUTURE OF PALESTINE, ETC....."

FRIDAY, FEB. 14, 4 p.m.
BIG 8, UNION K.S.U.
THE PUBLIC IS WELCOME

SPONSORED BY:
COMMITTEE ON LECTURES
RELIGIOUS STUDIES I.M.O.

Cut Loose!

MAKE THE GRADE IN SPRING FASHION

Woven Shirts $18 and up..... $5 OFF

Camp Shirts..... 9.99

Camp Shorts..... 12.99

Swimwear..... 20% OFF

Denim Jeans..... 20% OFF

MAURICES

Where Fashion Doesn't Cost A Fortune For Men & Women!

116 South Fourth Street • Downtown Manhattan

Inside

Classy Cruising

Two area limousine services offer an alternative way to spend the evening. See Page 10.

Weather

Partly Cloudy

Partly cloudy today, high 25 to 30. Mostly clear tonight, low 15 to 20.

Sports

Trainers' Training

K-State has 24 student trainers who help with the care of athletes. See Page 8.

Kansas State

Collegian

Friday

February 14, 1986

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 92, Number 98

Marcos out front in battle

By The Associated Press

MANILA, Philippines — President Ferdinand E. Marcos was well ahead Thursday in the official vote count by the National Assembly, which his party controls. Corason Aquino, who claims she won the election, said he must resign to prevent violence.

Aquino's aides reported that another of her campaign workers was killed Thursday, bringing the total since the Feb. 7 presidential election to more than 20.

After seven hours of tabulating tally sheets from the archipelago's 74 provinces and more than 60 cities, the assembly had Marcos ahead with 6,403,785 votes to 5,584,581 for Aquino. That gave Marcos an edge of about 53 percent to Aquino's 46 percent with about 46 percent of the votes tallied.

The assembly's count determines the outcome under Philippine law.

The National Movement for Free Elections, an independent poll-watchers' group called Namfrel, had Aquino ahead in its unofficial count. It gave her 7,158,679 votes to 6,532,362 for Marcos, based on 64 percent of more than 86,000 precincts reporting.

Aquino claims the elections were fraudulent and the National Assembly's canvass is rigged.

The tally sheet delivered to the National Assembly from the president's home province of Ilocos Norte said the votes came from 761 precincts. The province has 624 registered precincts.

"Where they got the other precincts, God knows," opposition assemblyman Marcelo Fernan said, bringing laughter from both the floor and the galleries.

According to the tally sheet, the vote in Ilocos Norte was 189,897 for Marcos and 718 for Aquino.

Marcos, who has governed the Philippines for 20 years, appeared on government television and pledged to "honor, without reservations, the people's verdict at the polls."

The president deplored the violence

See MARCOS, Page 3

Student Senate allocates $700,000

By RENEE BEAUDOIN
Collegian Reporter

In the final decision about the allocation of the $700,000 freed by the refinancing of student bonds, Student Senate Thursday funded Holton Hall renovation and denied monies for the replacement of the campus emergency phone system.

Senate also passed, almost as proposed, the appeals made for remaining funds.

Holton Hall will receive $183,663 to begin renovation as soon as possible. The renovation will take place in two phases, instead of the original estimate of three phases with first and second floors being renovated now and the basement in 1989. This allocation almost cuts in half the funding to Holton Hall asked for in the allocation process.

"The main advantage of not doing the project in three phases is what is saved in student monies through inflation," said Earl Nolting, director of the center for student development.

By renovating Holton Hall in two phases about $160,000 will be saved instead of going with the three-phase plan. This savings is due to inflation, cleanup and setup expenses and matching the building fixtures.

The K-State Police's request for $18,000 to replace the emergency phone system with a radio call box system was denied by senate due to the high amount of student concern about the issue.

"We have no control over the money the police department would be saving so really, we would just be giving them a budget increase," said Virgil Wiebe, senior in political science. "The things we're spending money on now are an investment in the future. They're an investment in children and they're an investment in recruitment. They're an investment in this university."

The KSU Childcare Cooperative received its full request for $86,182 for expansion of their facility and capabilities. They can now expand from a capacity of 90 children to 240 children. The cooperative will also be able to provide care for infants and children up to age 13.

The cooperative is located in a building at the Jardine Terrace Apartments and is for the use of University families who are members of the cooperative.

"Our need for such a facility is great," said Errol Williams, member of the cooperative's board of directors. "There are now six spots for infants in Manhattan in commercial facilities, these six spots have a waiting list of 244 children."

The Anderson Hall accessibility project will receive the full $150,000 it requested to build an elevator at the back of the building to make it accessible for all floors.

The debate team will receive an $80,000 endowment to be placed in an interest-bearing account. The team will use the interest for travel expenses.

The debate team had originally requested a $100,000 endowment fund.

The agriculture judging teams will receive a $60,000 endowment which will be placed in an interest-bearing account so the team can use the interest to begin defraying its travel and practice expenses.

Staff/Jeff Tuttle

New home on the range

Wild elk are released Thursday from a horse trailer at the Fort Riley impact area. Seven cows and five bulls were transported to the area from the Maxwell Game Preserve in McPherson County by Kansas Fish and Game Commission personnel to increase the elk population in the northern part of the state.

Charity to accept 'Fite Nite' donations

By TERESA TEMME
Collegian Reporter

Contrary to the recommendation by the Riley County Medical Society, donations from Sigma Phi Epsilon's "Fite Nite" Boxing Tournament will be accepted by the American Heart Association, said Mary Lindquist, president of the Manhattan Heart Association chapter.

"We will not advertise with them (the fraternity), and we are not a co-sponsor. We are only a recipient of the funds," Lindquist said, referring to the Sig Ep "Fite Nite."

Lindquist said this is the same format followed in the past, but a previous connotation was that the heart association was more involved with the event. Lindquist clarified that Sig Ep "Fite Nite" is not a special event for the heart association.

The heart association clarified its position concerning "Fite Nite" because of the strong opposition by the medical society.

The "Fite Nite" tournament will be April 6, 7 and 8. In the past the fights took place at the Elk's Lodge, 423 Houston St., but this year, because the building is being sold, the fraternity is still working on finding a location for the fights.

Dr. J.T. Philipp, vice president of the Riley County Medical Society, said the society maintains its position concerning "Fite Nite," which it made public after last year's event.

The medical society decided to publicly oppose the event because several members of the society treated "Fite Nite" participants for what they thought were potentially serious injuries.

In a letter to the Manhattan Heart Association, the medical society publicly stated that "this activity is unsafe and inappropriate in its present form. The Society also believes it is totally inappropriate for any medical group or medical related organization to support, be associated with, or accept funds from this supposedly 'charitable activity.'

"The society hopes that this event will be eliminated or greatly modified in the future. We also suggest that the heart association not be associated with this event in the future."

Philipp said the medical society made this public statement so there was no question about its position, especially if anything happened in the future and the society was questioned about "Fite Nite."

Lindquist said both the Sig Eps and the medical society have good points. She said the medical society was worried about the safety of the activity, and the Sig Eps were only wanting to do something so that they can contribute to the heart association.

The medical society presented its position last year to Dr. Robert Tout, director of Lafene Student Health Center. Tout, Chester Peters, former vice president for student affairs, and Barbara Robel, Greek Affairs adviser, consulted with the Sig Eps last year and requested guidelines outlining the safety precautions taken during the fights.

Tout, Robel and personnel in the Office of Educational and Student Services, indicated they have not received the guidelines yet.

This is the fraternity's seventh annual "Fite Nite."

Whit Welch, junior in social work and director of "Fite Nite," said the medical society has pressured the fraternity to make certain a physician is present each night to monitor the fights.

Lindquist said the heart association is trying to contract with a service group called Spectrum to help provide physicians to monitor the fights.

Welch said the amount of money raised in the past totals $11,500, and last year the fraternity raised $2,700. "Fite Nite" is the largest fundraiser in the state for the heart Fund, and the largest fundraiser on campus, Welch said.

said. "What we want to do is create some stability out there."

Polson estimated some 400,000 acres of land would be affected by the bill, costing the state about $1.2 million in the program's first year.

Bill Fuller, lobbyist for the Kansas Farm Bureau, told the committee declining land values in Kansas are at the heart of farmers' credit problems.

"The continued erosion of land values is devastating to all farmers," Fuller said.

Polson, who is committee chairman, said the bill would increase the value of land and create more of a market for those who want to sell and buy land.

In addition, Polson said he would like to see the bill amended so only owners of 640 or fewer acres would be eligible for rebates. That would ensure the relief would go to family farmers. The bill is called the family farm preservation act.

"The point of the bill is to sustain people on the land," Polson

Photographs reveal smoke near fuel tank as shuttle left pad

By The Associated Press

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. —

The presidential commission investigating the Challenger explosion reviewed videotape and still pictures Thursday of a black puff of smoke between the right rocket booster and fuel tank as the space shuttle left the pad, officials said.

The smoke indicates the shuttle might have been in trouble from the moment of launch, officials said.

The NASA task force working with the investigating commission is trying "to determine the exact time, origin, dimensions and other characteristics of the smoke," said a statement from Chuck Hollinshead, a NASA spokesman at Kennedy Space Center.

The study is placing special emphasis on the operation of the shuttle's solid-fuel rocket boosters, its external tank and facilities at launch pad 39B, the renovated pad used for the first time in the shuttle program for the Challenger launch on Jan. 28, Hollinshead said.

The investigative panel, which flew to the scene of the shuttle disaster for two days of closed-door sessions, was shown the videotape and photos for the first time Thursday, said NASA spokesman Hugh Harris.

Jim Mizell, another NASA spokesman, said the smoke was first visible 1.4 seconds after the boosters were ignited at 11:38 a.m. EST. The liftoff appeared normal until 73 seconds into the flight when Challenger exploded into an orange-and-white fireball, killing its seven-member crew.

"All I can say is that it's (the smoke) there, and it's unusual," said Mizell, a former NASA engineer. "It appears to be on the back side of the SRB (booster). It's very difficult to tell exactly where. I don't think it came from the main engines," which ignite 6.6 seconds before the boosters power the shuttle off the pad.

Hollinshead said the film shows the black smoke appearing in an area between the right booster and the external tank when it left the pad. It was about one-quarter of the way up the booster, he said.

Ten of the 12 members of the investigative panel flew to the Kennedy Space Center and went into session immediately with launch processing officials in what commission Chairman William P. Rogers said earlier would be a discussion of "the temperature effects, all the weather and environmental effects" on the Jan. 28 launch.

Farm land rebate bill may increase land values

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA — All Kansas farmers would benefit if the state helps stabilize land values by giving property tax rebates to people who want to buy land, witnesses told a House committee Thursday.

But opponents told the House Small Agriculture and Small Business Committee such property tax relief might not be enough help or might not go to those who need help the most.

The committee was considering a bill that would give property tax rebates of up to $3 an acre for three years for people who buy between 80 and 320 acres of land. The panel is not expected to act on the bill for two weeks.

Under the bill, sponsored by Rep. Lloyd Polson, R-Vermillion, and House Speaker Mike Hayden, R-Atwood, farmers could apply for the relief through 1988 and would be granted the rebates until the end of 1991.

Briefly

INTERNATIONAL

Cubans support religious practices

HAVANA — In a fresh signal of Cuba's newly conciliatory attitude toward the Roman Catholic Church, a draft of the Communist Party program for the next five years encourages Cubans to respect the beliefs of churchgoers.

The draft calls on Cubans to honor "the moral integrity of believers" and to avoid any practice that could "wound religious sentiments."

The 187-page document, which has not been made public, will receive final approval at a special party Congress in December after debate at the grassroots level. However, no significant changes are expected from the debate.

The draft was prepared by the party hierarchy for a Communist conclave last week, and copies have been made available to some diplomatic missions here.

"Within the party's policy of encouraging national unity, there is no room for discrimination against believers. Instead, they should be encouraged to participate voluntarily and consciously as citizens and patriots in the construction of socialism," the draft says.

The proposed policy is consistent with what appears to be a studied effort by the government to improve relations with the long-suffering Catholic community, whose members until recently have considered themselves to be outside the Cuban mainstream.

REGIONAL

Retired grocer wins lottery jackpot

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — A retired Kansas City grocer won the first jackpot in the Missouri Lottery today, a prize of $2,116,504.

Johnnie J. Magerl, 79, won the big prize in the second week of the Jackpot 86 game. Magerl, who will be 80 on April 14, was the 26th of this week's 30 finalists to spin the jackpot wheel.

"My first gift will be to my church," he said. "Lord help us, I had no idea. They say they will pay it out in 20 years. God help me, I won't make it."

Winners of big lottery prizes get their money in 20 annual installments.

Magerl said he had visited his wife's grave Sunday and sensed that he might win.

"I was out at the cemetery Sunday, and I said 'Mom, we never won anything,'" he said. "And I said I have a lottery ticket. And you know what she said? She said, 'Maybe this is your chance.'"

Magerl, who had been married 59 years, said he had spent $60 on lottery tickets, which cost $1 each. But the entry ticket which got him to today's spin was his only winner.

"A rich man at my age is not too much to my way of thinking," he said. "I'm up in years and I've been living pretty nice. It will be spent in good places, I guarantee you that. Not for myself, but for others."

There were three $25,000 winners and five $10,000 winners today as the lottery distributed $155,500 in addition to Magerl's grand prize.

Committee passes annexation bill

TOPEKA — The Senate Local Government Committee on Thursday endorsed and sent to the full Senate a bill designed to curb cities' power to annex land without review by another governmental body and provide more protection to owners of land targeted for annexation.

The bill restricts the amount of land a city could annex unilaterally, allows landowners to sue in court before and after an annexation, and makes the provisions of the proposed law retroactive to Sept. 1, 1985.

Sen. Don Montgomery, the committee chairman, said the full Senate probably would take up the bill next week. Montgomery, R-Sabetha, said he thought the bill would have "considerable support" in the chamber, although he would not predict whether it would pass.

By The Associated Press

NATIONAL

Advisory board dismisses Iacocca

HIGHLAND PARK, Mich. — Lee Iacocca said Thursday his ouster as head of the government advisory commission on the Statue of Liberty "borders on being un-American," and said he was fired because he fought commercialization of the project.

"In the end, a beautiful project gets hurt; I don't get hurt," Iacocca, chairman of Chrysler Corp., said at a news conference at company headquarters.

Iacocca said he was not certain why Interior Secretary Donald Hodel fired him Wednesday night from the job he has held for four years. But he said he believed it was related to a National Park Service endorsement of a luxury hotel and conference center for Ellis Island, which also is being restored.

He said the plan by the park service, a unit of the Interior Department, would denigrate the historic nature of the island, where immigrants were processed after they arrived in the United States.

The hotel project would be "financed by tax shelters for the rich," Iacocca said. "That's not part of the deal we made with the American people."

AIDS victim can return to school

KOKOMO, Ind. — A county medical officer ruled today that 14-year-old AIDS victim Ryan White poses no health threat to his fellow classmates and teachers and should be allowed to return to school.

Dr. Alan J. Alder, chief medical officer for Howard County, made the ruling after examining the boy this morning.

At an appeals hearing last week, school officials were ordered to admit Ryan pending approval from Adler. Officials of Western Middle School have fought for more than a year to keep him out.

Ryan's mother, Jeanne, said Adler gave her son a regular exam, but "looked more into how Ryan was emotionally and how it would be for him to go back to school."

PEOPLE

Officials issue warrant for singer

JONESBORO, Ga. — A warrant has been issued for the arrest of singer Connie Francis after she failed to show up for an arraignment on charges stemming from a December incident on a plane in Atlanta.

Clayton County State Court Judge Harold Benefield also revoked Francis' $1,100 bond Wednesday.

But no deputies will be sent to Francis' California home, said Clayton County Solicitor John Carbo III.

Delta Air Lines officials said Francis was asked to leave the plane Dec. 3 after she refused to put out a cigarette during refueling at Hartsfield Atlanta International Airport on a flight from the Bahamas to Los Angeles.

Authorities said Francis, 48, kicked a police officer who tried to remove her from the plane.

Former politician enjoys teaching

NEW YORK — Former Rep. Barbara Jordan stepped out of the political arena eight years ago to teach, and she says she's happy educating young people who will move into positions of power.

"It's a remarkable opportunity to have such an impact on the generation that will succeed me," said Jordan, a professor at the University of Texas, in an interview in the upcoming issue of Parade magazine.

The 50-year-old former Texas congresswoman, who was a member of the House Judiciary Committee during its impeachment hearings for President Nixon in 1974, has used a wheelchair and walker to get around for some time. She did not want to spend much time discussing her disability.

Campus Bulletin

ANNOUNCEMENTS

INDUSTRIAL ENGINEERS should nominate a faculty advisor of the year in the Industrial Engineering office today.

POLL WORKERS are needed for the student body president run-off election from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Wednesday. Sign up in the SGS Office.

ALTERNATIVE MUSIC BRIGADE: All contributions to the next issue of the AMB-SIDE are due by 5 p.m. Thursday in the mailbox in the Student Activities Office.

CHIMES: Applications for the junior honorary are available in the Union Activities Center and are due by 5 p.m. Feb. 21.

STEEL RING: There will be a freshman and sophomore engineering design contest on April 2. Details are available in Durland 142.

UNDERGRADUATE WOMEN'S SCHOLARSHIPS are available in the financial aid office and at the Delta Delta Delta house and are due March 1.

TODAY

THE GRADUATE SCHOOL has scheduled the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Tag Eldin M. Shehab Eldin at 8:30 a.m. in Throckmorton 131. The dissertation topic will be "Parasite: Host: Environment Specificity."

AFRICAN STUDENT UNION meets at 6:30 p.m. at the International Student Center.

K-LAIRES meet at 7:30 p.m. at the Union for rides to a pick dance with the Cloverleaf Swingers at the American Legion from 8 to 11 p.m.

SATURDAY

MANHATTAN WOMEN'S COFFEEHOUSE meets at 8 p.m. in the Fireplace Room of the University for Man, 1221 Thurston St.

SPORTS CLUB COUNCIL meets at 1 p.m. in the SGS Office.

SOCIETY OF MANUFACTURING ENGINEERS meets for an all-day plant trip at 8 a.m. in the north Durland parking lot.

SUNDAY

STUDENT FOUNDATION meets at 8 p.m. in Union 213.

K-LAIRES meet from 7 to 10 p.m. in the Union K, S and U Rooms.

ALPHA TAU OMEGA LITTLE SISTERS meet at 9 p.m. at the ATO house.

THIETA XI LITTLE SISTERS meet at 6 p.m. at the Theta Xi house.

Looking Back

20 Years Ago — 1966

President James A. McCain and the Long Range Campus Planning Committee have approved a location for a proposed new swimming pool. The possible site is between Ahearn Field House and the Physical Education building, said Ed Fedosky, chairman of the swimming pool planning committee.

An additional 12 students qualified as candidates for the Student Governing Association primary election after passing the make-up qualifying exam. Fifty of the original 55 students who filed candidacy petitions now have their names on the ballot, said Mona Mitchell, chairman of the SGA election committee.

15 Years Ago — 1971

Nearly 100 people answered an appeal for blood donations for two young men — one a Manhattan businessman the other a senior at K-State. Both patients are being treated for hemophilia at Memorial Hospital.

10 Years Ago — 1976

K-Mart Discount Store was evacuated and closed temporarily as the result of an anonymous bomb threat telephoned to the store located east of Manhattan on U.S. Highway 24. A police official indicated no explosives were discovered in a search of the building by the Riley County Police Department.

5 Years Ago — 1981

Department of the Army officials are reviewing a proposal which would call for an addition of approximately 30,000 acres to the Fort Riley military reservation over a several-year span during the next decade. The land acquisition will be necessary to provide adequate training space for the First Infantry Division, post officials said.

Energy costs in Manhattan are relatively cheap according to a national surveying and research association.

Compiled from the University Archives

CLIP THIS FOR YOUR
FREE ADMISSION PASS!

MR. K'S
FREE ADMISSION!

Good with KSU Student ID Only
Fri., Feb. 14 or Sat., Feb. 15, 1986

...Our Way Of Saying "Happy Valentine's Day!"

TONITE, TAKE IN OUR DOUBLE FEATURE.

Just give us a call. In 30 minutes or less, we'll deliver two, delicious 12" or 16" pizzas for one special price. We call them Domino's Pizza® Doubles. And they're custom-made with the toppings of your choice. Come on, take in Domino's Pizza® Doubles Tonight. You'll have twice the enjoyment.

Manhattan
539-0561
517 North 12th
OPEN FOR LUNCH!
Hours:
11 am - 1 am
Sun.-Thurs.
11 am - 2 am Fri. & Sat.

Free
Extra
Cheese!

Get FREE extra cheese on any large pizza!

Limited delivery area. One offer per order. Good only at listed locations. Expires May 15, 1986.

Name _____
Address 16006 DPF-012

One call
does it all!

DOMINO'S
PIZZA
DELIVERS®
FREE.

Limited delivery area. Good at listed locations. Our drivers carry less than $10.00. © 1986 Domino's Pizza, Inc.

The men
of

KAPPA SIGMA UPSILON
invite

All K-State Students
to a

Private Function
Today 3-6 at Dark Horse

Free Pizza Hut Pizza
$2.50 PITCHERS

(Must Have Student ID)

Open 10:30 a.m. Sat. for pre- and post-game slams.

SUNDAY SUPPER
5:30

(50¢ donation or free if needed)
1021 Denison Ave.

(Look for the two red front doors)
presenting

Feminist Reconstruction of Christian Origins
with Speaker
Rod Saunders

Parakeets 99¢
Gray Cockatiels 40¢
Blue Crown Conure 49¢

Fish 2 for $1.00
Blue Moon Platy
Scissor Tail Tetra
Salt & Pepper Molly
Black Tetra

Black or White Gerbils
Reg 4.98

Sale 2.98

PRICES GOOD THRU 2-16-86

Let Us Help

"Come See Our New Bike Shop"

GREEN

1105 Waters
539-4751

THUMB

"Across from ALCO"

Happy
Valentines
Day!

Bring your Sweetheart

and buy any numbered dinner
at full price and receive a second numbered dinner at

1/2 price

4p.m.-10p.m.

In Aggieville
1108 Laramie, on the Handi-Corner

Marcos

Continued from Page 1

and said he also had lost supporters, including a town mayor he said was killed by communist rebels "encouraged by the opposition."

An official report by the military police said 35 Marcos supporters and 20 people who supported Aquino had been killed since the election.

Aquino said the president should resign because "the failure of the electoral process to move swiftly to a fair conclusion has dangerously heightened tensions." An aide read her statement soon after the Marcos broadcast.

She said the resignation would "defuse some of the swelling political anger" of Filipinos who feel they have been cheated, and allow the question of who won the election to be settled in a manner acceptable to all. She did not say how that could be done.

Her opponent is "perceived at home and abroad as having deployed the full resources of the state to snatch victory at any cost," she said in the statement.

Aquino claims the assembly, in which the president's New Society Movement holds two-thirds of the seats, and the government elections commission are trying to steal the election.

Celebration to include presentation by activist

By The Collegian Staff

In honor of Frederick Douglass Day, Rosa Parks will speak at a banquet at 6 tonight at the Douglass Community Center, 900 Yuma St.

Parks, 73, is known for her role in the 1955 civil rights movement in Montgomery, Ala., where she refused to give up her seat on a city bus to a white person. Parks was arrested for the incident, which sparked protests and led to a boycott of Montgomery buses by the black community.

Born Feb. 4, 1913, on a farm near Tuskegee, Ala., Parks grew up in a segregated environment. It was common at the time for black children to attend separate schools than whites, use different restrooms and step off the sidewalk to let whites pass.

Parks, who was employed as a tailor's helper in Montgomery, married Raymond Parks, and became a member of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People in 1943. As an NAACP member, Parks became involved in voting rights for blacks.

The Montgomery bus boycott, headed by Parks' minister, the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., resulted in the loss of Parks' job. But the 391-day boycott led to the U.S. Supreme Court making it legal for black people to ride without restriction on buses.

There is a cost of $15 for the banquet and speech. Reservations may be made by calling 537-0056, extension 273. Payment may be made at the door.

Professors speak on mayor's ideology

By SARAH KESSINGER
Staff Writer

The politics and ideas of Henry Cisneros, mayor of San Antonio, Texas, were discussed by four professors at a pre-convocation forum Thursday in the Union.

Cisneros, also president of the National League of Cities, will give an All-University Convocation on "The Survival of American Cities" at 10:30 a.m. Tuesday in McCain Auditorium.

Clyde Brown, visiting assistant professor of political science, noted the "political machines" that have been in power in San Antonio and how Cisneros' administration compares to them.

San Antonio has historically had "machine politics" with dominant figures or groups. With Cisneros the city "now approaches true coalition politics," Brown said.

A change in voting procedures in 1977 from city-wide to district elections brought more minorities to office and divided city hall, Brown said. When Cisneros was first elected mayor he became a coalition leader, he said.

"His politics are politics of distribution," Brown said.

The change in the political environment made Cisneros an arbitrator and mediator in San Antonio politics, Brown said.

David La France, visiting assistant professor in history, said although Cisneros was elected mayor in 1983 by a large margin, not all of his views are popular.

La France said Cisneros' youth — he is 37 — alienates him from some older Mexican-Americans, and his push for high-tech industry in San Antonio is unacceptable to others.

"High tech gives a little bit to everyone and tends to please everyone," La France said. "When it comes down to other issues, he is criticized for not taking a hard stand..."

Other Mexican-Americans are afraid of losing him as he gains a stronger position, La France said. Also, Cisneros tends to criticize Hispanics in San Antonio as being too tradition-bound, while he tries to boost the community with new industry, he said.

Nels Leutwiler, visiting professor of regional and community planning, spoke about Cisneros' study of economic development in areas of the United States.

City officials must first determine the city's role in all levels of the economy, Leutwiler said. They must identify the "ultimate civic goal, which in San Antonio is a bridge between the poor and the affluent." Economic growth and outside investments must then be encouraged, he said.

Jan Flora, associate professor of sociology, spoke about Cisneros' role in the National Bipartisan Commission on Central America.

Cisneros was one of two members who wrote "notes from individuals" criticizing some U.S. Central American policies supported in the commission report.

MANNEQUINS

...For Play!!!

Back Again To Make Your Valentine's Weekend The Best Ever!

"Forget labels; this is just a classy, straight ahead rock band."

—College Music Journal

V.D. Specials
$1.75 Mind Erasers
$1.75 Watermelons
$1.75 Kamikazer

BOYS
WITH TOYS

What More Could You Ask For!

WEEKENDS AT THE CHEF

FRIDAY

Fried Chicken; Spaghetti & Meat Sauce & Salad Bar

ALL YOU CAN EAT - $3.95

SATURDAY

Gourmet Night. No Music, no alcohol, but gourmet dinners at low prices. Prime Rib -

$5.95

OR

Steak and Shrimp. Also other selections

SUNDAY

Open 8 a.m.-3 p.m. Featuring Daily Dinners at $3.60 and lower. Breakfast Served till 1:00 p.m.

The CHEF Cafe
111 S. 4th

CRY FROM THE MOUNTAIN
From the Producers of The Hidden Place, Joni, and The Prodigal.
PG
In a split second, their lives will change forever.
A World Wide Pictures release in color
Featuring BILLY GRAHAM with a message of hope.

Coming Feb. 28 thru March 6, advance discount tickets and information - 537-2664 and 537-0256 and at Cross Reference and Wells save $1.00 off boxoffice.

Wareham
410 PONTIAC

Looking for a Challenge?

Then consider a career in radiation oncology. We are looking for quality individuals with a strong background in science oriented subjects to enter our two year program in Radiation Therapy Technology.

Excellent career opportunities and salaries available on completion of the program. No tuition!!!

Interested? Contact:
Debbie Price R.T.T., Radiation Oncology
Dept., K.U. Medical Center,
39th & Rainbow, KC, KS 66103.
Tel. No. 913-588-3600.

MR.K'S

TGIF

Tri Delts
Heidi Ehly &
Lori Clark
Guest DJ's!

PLUS...FREE 24' SUBMARINE AND RED BEER!

Valentine's Day SUPER BOWL

VALENTINE'S DAY
SPECIAL

Friday, February 14
8:15 a.m. - 1:00 a.m.

Buy any size Pepsi and receive 3 games of bowling for $2.50 (tax included)
(45¢ off the regular price of 3 games of bowling)

K-state union
0102

HUMAN EXPRESS
537-0886

2 FREE Spicy Chicken Wings with every meal with this coupon
Good 2-14-86 Only

HAPPY 20th
to
Our Special Valentine
Jonathan H. Fately
Wanlee and the Gang of 5

KSU Sailing Club Invites You
to
BEACH PARTY '86
Saturday at 7 P.M.
at
Schedul events and door prizes all night long.

FREDERICK DOUGLASS COMMEMORATION BANQUET

Keynote address:
Mrs. Rosa Parks

Friday, Feb. 14, 1986 6 p.m.
donation $15 (tax deductible)
Proceeds to fund youth trip scholarship for program activities.
Douglass Center 901 Yuma Street

Mrs. Parks is known as the mother of the Civil Rights Movement that started in 1955 with her refusal to surrender her front row seat. Her subsequent arrest and jailing led to the Montgomery, Alabama Bus Boycott and thus thrust Martin L. King Jr. into the national spotlight.

Tickets available at the Douglass Center
901 Yuma Street - (913) 537-0056 ext. 274

AAPI SENIOR PARTY-BLAST FROM THE PAST

PI'S-BEFORE WE LAUNCH OUR CAREERS LET'S BLAST TO THE PAST!!
THANKS FOR ALL THE MEMORIES... GET PSYCHED FOR SATURDAY!!

WE LOVE YOU, THE SENIORS

♥ 3RD ANNUAL ♥
V 50% OFF V
A ♥ Ski Jackets ♥ Ski Suits ♥
L ♥ Long Underwear ♥
E ♥ Sweaters ♥ Knit Wear ♥
N 30% OFF N
T ♥ Bibs ♥ Stretch Pants ♥
I ♥ Powder Jackets ♥
N ♥ Goggles ♥ Gloves ♥ Gaiters ♥
S Clearance Rack - 75% off! S
Moon Boots Regular $37.50 NOW $15 ♥

ONE DAY ONLY
FRIDAY FEB. 14th
9 a.m.-7 p.m.

All Sales Final • No layaway
Cash or Check only!

Happy Valentines Day

AGGIE SKI and SPORT
1212 Moro
Aggieville
Manhattan

SALE

Editor: David Svoboda
Associate Editor: Lillian Zier
News Editor: Patty Reinert
Managing Editor: Jeri Heidrick

Editorial Page Editor: Tim Carpenter
Photo/Graphics Editor: Chris Stewart
Advertising Manager: Lori Wong
Director/News Adviser: Dave Adams

Editorial Board: David Svoboda, Tim Carpenter, Melissa Brune, Rich Harris, Jeri Heidrick, Steve Milligan, Patty Reinert, Vicki Reynolds, Eric Rhodenbaugh, Tammy Rickerson, Catherine Saylor, Tom Schultes, Richard Thorp, Jonie Trued, Lillian Zier.

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 020) is published by Student Publications, Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods. OFFICES are in the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 532-6555. Newsroom phone number is 532-6556; display advertising, 532-6560; and classified advertising 532-6555. SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: $40, calendar year; $35, academic year; $20, semester; $10, summer term. Address changes should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 105, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

Editorial

Friday, February 14, 1986 — 4

TV distorts public view of history

As usual a series of television mini-series have been sweeping across our screens during this February ratings game. One of those series was produced by NBC and was based on 17th- and 18th-century history in Russia. "Peter the Great" was an exceptional mini-series, but history is the subject on which I want to focus.

History seems to be the subject with the worst reputation. I remember in high school that most gripping about a class was never far removed from government, social studies and general history. It's really too bad creative teaching methods have not been integrated into the subject because by gaining an early impression of dull, dry, and required-to-be-suffered-through, Americans miss out on the most fascinating subject of all.

History touches every event in our lives. Every person, place and object has a unique history. If history was really such a dull subject, filmmakers wouldn't touch it. Unequaled is the number of movies devoted to some historical event or period. Even the first movie filmed to be shown to an audience dealt with history — "Birth of a Nation."

But when some of the more recent sweeping sagas or mini-series are reviewed, critics find any historical significance is often lost in the music and sex, rendering the movie less than educational.

The reason a sense of history has been lost by many of Americans, except those in hot pursuit of mastering the subject either for fame or fortune, is twofold.

First, it is simply not fashionable in high school to be interested in any subject and least of all history. History, the way high school instructors teach it, is nothing easy to become interested in anyway. And schools, bowing under parental pressure, are currently abandoning history and turning to computer science courses to justify students

JONIE TRUED
Collegian
Columnist

inadequate knowledge of their heritage.

High school is where it starts, but the second factor, television, is where history is currently being rewritten and, more often than not, misrepresented.

The greatest tragedy with televised history is that most Americans are not educated enough to criticize it, so they willingly accept whatever version the producers throw them. Because we don't study bygone eras we have no concept of historical events and how we are still affected by them.

We live in such a fast-moving society our parents' history seems light years away. The truth is, America is a young nation and to mature we still need to listen to opinions from 200 years ago — most would still have application today.

One of the values we hold is mobility. The way we move from state to state, going from job to job is unprecedented by any other nation. As a result it becomes too much trouble to educate ourselves about the area we live in, its history, and its politicians.

We are transients with few cares except immediate creature comforts and a means of supporting our habits. When our parents start reciting events of their youth and how they were affected by the Great Depression, we groan and reach for the TV remote control. What we have no concept of is that most of the great and traumatic events in history resulted in today's policies and laws.

For example, several economic policies followed by federal regulatory agencies were adopted to keep an event like the great stock market crash from recurring. Farming practices are directly tied to memories of the 1930s drought and depression. Upton Sinclair's novel "The Jungle" greatly contributed to meat inspection regulations around the turn of the century. Closer to home, some Kansas water regulatory agencies and laws resulted from the droughts and floods of the 1950s.

By not being aware of the newness of these laws, we have started to believe they always existed. "We've come a long way, baby," is an understatement. We still have a long way to go.

To find the answers to the whys about our current lifestyle we have only to look as far as a few good books on history. It's not a good idea to just start reading general history, however. That's how high school social studies instructors teach it and it seems hopeless. It is best to start with a subject you are fascinated with; be it banking, politics, television, radio, farming, literature, fashion, or cooking.

Neither is it a good idea to begin learning history from the beginning of time to the present. That's backwards. It's much easier and a lot more fun to learn history starting with how it is today and then how it was yesterday and the day before. Then it's not a game of memorization but an understanding of how today evolved from last year and eventually 100 years ago.

It is imperative for Americans to start relearning and re-evaluating their history. With each passing day we know and care less about our heritage. A people without a heritage soon loses sight of their goals and aspirations, and even sooner loses their self-respect. We are a primitive people in a sophisticated society.

WSU anthropologist to lecture on Samoa

A "King of Fierce Cannibals" is on campus today, and he's mad.

He's here to defend the early work of the famous anthropologist Margaret Mead from what he considers a groundless, malicious attack. Lowell Holmes, professor of anthropology at Wichita State University and honorary Samoan chief, will speak at 3:30 p.m. in Waters Hall 201-A on "Quest for the Real Samoa" — assessing Mead and Freeman.

The dispute began three years ago when the Harvard University Press published Australian anthropologist Derek Freeman's assertions that the conclusions of Mead's 1928 doctoral dissertation were, in short, wrong. The debate over Freeman's publicity tactics as well as scientific methods still rages in anthropological circles.

Mead's 1928 book, based on her dissertation, "The Coming of Age in Samoa" gained national recognition by its attempt to reverse Sigmund Freud's theory that the sexual frustration and anxieties of adolescence are of a biological nature.

When Mead studied the Samoan culture, located on an island in the South Pacific near the equator, she found complete sexual freedom for both adults and adolescents and love for one another that transcends the petty hostilities that we all too often find in Western culture. The Samoans, she concluded, are a negative example and prove that cultural, not biological stresses are the root of adolescent unrest.

Freeman, who studied the tribe 14 years after Mead, claims that the 23-year-old Mead had been duped by a group of boastful, mischievous teenagers and by her misunderstandings of the language.

Holmes, who also studied the Samoan culture a few years after Mead, calls Freeman's writing "the most blatant misuse of the anthropological literature I have seen in recent years."

Holmes' arguments are compelling and his talk today will no doubt be a lively critical analysis of the Samoan question. K-State is fortunate to host such a well-versed speaker.

In a 1983 issue of the "American Anthropologist" Ivan Brady best stated the value of Freeman's work as a revitalization of "thought about thought" and the "prospect that critical self-reflection offers for intellectual growth in the discipline as a whole."

Catherine Saylor,
for the editorial board

Proposed budget cuts could hurt extension

President Reagan's budget proposal for 1987 calls for reduction in agricultural research funding by more than $700,000 and would cut Cooperative Extension Service programs by more than $3 million in Kansas.

The proposed budget cuts would first devastate the University where extension is based and in turn would further harm the fragile state farm economy. The extension service helps farmers in the state implement the results of research at the University and at agricultural experiment stations. In addition, the service provides information in agriculture, home economics, 4-H and community development.

The community development program, known as PRIDE, has saved several small Kansas communities by encouraging local businesses and providing counsel for city improvements.

More than the agricultural economy is at stake; small towns will suffer as well.

The home economics program provides nutritional information for low-income families. Without help from extension, many families will be facing additional hardship on top of possible cuts in welfare programs.

Walter Woods, dean of the College of Agriculture, was correct when he said, "KSU agricultural programs are an investment and have a long and successful history of benefiting the state far more than the money spent on the system." Clearly, Reagan's proposal must meet serious opposition from state representatives and senators.

The future of a vital program is in danger, and it is the responsibility of voters and legislators to voice objections.

Lillian Zier
for the editorial board

Letters

Asbestos removal

Editor,
This is a plea for the application of some common sense regarding the asbestos ceilings on our campus. From Dec. 16 to Feb. 3, 15 faculty and staff had their offices closed and 11 research projects were halted in order to remove an asbestos-plaster covering from the ceiling of the third floor of King Hall.

It cost the University between $45,000 to $50,000 to do this. This action was probably precipitated by the "expose" of the University's handling of an asbestos problem this fall and the administration felt they had to do something in this case regardless of the cost.

The problem in King was that for the past three years the roof has been leaking and small areas of the ceiling covering were coming loose. Rather than repair those small areas and seal the rest, it was decided to remove it all at a cost of $35,000. It then required $12,000 to $15,000 to replace it with an approved substitute as well as replace other water-damaged items.

What is the real risk with asbestos? If a person spent six hours per day, five days per week, 36 weeks per year in a room with an asbestos ceiling that produced .001 fibers per cubic centimeter for 10 years, they would have the same risk of cancer as if they had smoked a total of five cigarettes or lived in a brick building for seven months.

When put in proper perspective, asbestos is not a problem. The Environmental Protection Agency is trying to ban all uses of asbestos and will probably succeed. They estimate it will cost $2 billion, not counting the lost time due to shutdowns. The University is essentially being forced to spend hundreds of thousands of dollars to remove all asbestos ceilings from this campus. If we must spend $2 billion nationwide, let us at least spend it on something worthwhile.

Cliff Meloon
professor of analytical chemistry

Film preview error

Editor,
I would like to apologize on behalf of the Union Program Council to Franja Bryant, senior in elementary education, and the other parents who complained about the preview trailers that were shown at "The Wizard of Oz" last weekend. The preview for "The Hills Have Eyes" was not supposed to be shown at the matinee and by mistake it was.

We regret this error and will make sure it does not happen again. As Bryant states, we have selected primarily family entertainment for our matinees this semester and do not want to discourage people from bringing their children. We are sorry for any problems this created.

Marilyn Woodward
adviser, UPC Films Committee

Kansas backward

Editor,
This is in reply to Wednesday's editorial,

"Stringent happy hour proposal unnecessary," by editorial board member Lillian Zier. Maybe what we really need is further regulation of Kansas liquor laws. Maybe we need to screw them up so bad that it becomes impossible to buy alcohol in Kansas at all.

Maybe, just maybe, Kansans will then see just what a backward state they live in. Let's face it, if the Kansas Legislature had its way we'd probably be living in prohibition, and the surrounding states would be happily accepting our money for alcohol.

This year we have seen such legislation overlooked as pari-mutuel betting (money lost to Nebraska) and a state lottery (money lost to Missouri). Now they want to make buying a drink such a hassle that a lot of tavern owners, not to mention their patrons, will suffer. Well, if they can do it, more power to them! You elected them, now you live with them.

Please don't get me wrong, I wish no suffering on the tavern owners or operators. I would hope that they wouldn't take this sitting down. It's the people who sit back and gripe that I wish the drought on!

As for me, I'm from the Kansas City area, so if I want to go to happy hour, play the lottery, or bet on the horses, it's no big deal to me. I'd just rather see the money going back into Kansas.

Richard L. Bishop
sophomore in physical education

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR pertaining to matters of public interest are encouraged. All letters must be typewritten or neatly printed.

"BUT IF I DON'T GET A STUDENT LOAN I WON'T BE ABLE TO GO TO COLLEGE AND I'LL NEVER EARN A DEGREE SO I CAN MAKE ENOUGH MONEY TO PAY OFF YOUR $600K DEFICIT!"

Midwestern dairy students to attend regional meeting

By The Collegian Staff

Students and advisers representing schools from the Midwest will be meeting at K-State for the American Dairy Science Association-Student Affiliate Division Midwest Region dairy conference this weekend.

The conference starts today with registration from 3 to 9 p.m. at the University Ramada Inn. A dance, sponsored by K-State's Dairy Science Club, will take place at the Blue River Pub, said Evon Lynch, senior in animal sciences and industry and regional president.

Saturday morning's session will begin with a welcome from Dave Mugler, associate dean of the College of Agriculture, a business meeting and officer nominations will follow.

The rest of the day's activities are a speech from Steve Miller, K-State's assistant athletic director and track coach; paper and group presentations; and a panel discussion in the afternoon.

Another business meeting and officer elections will be at 2:30 p.m.

Tours of the Kansas Artificial Breeding Service Unit, K-State's Dairy Processing Unit and the K-State Dairy Unit will begin at 3:15 p.m.

A social hour for the new and old officers will begin at 5:30 p.m. in the Crystal Room at the University Ramada Inn and the banquet will begin at 6:30 p.m.

Senate moves to close loophole in law

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA — The Kansas Senate on Thursday passed, 38-0, and forwarded to the House a bill designed to close a loophole in the state law which bans corporate ownership of agricultural land.

Also passing the Senate and advancing to the House were proposals to: —Expand the powers of the Capitol Area Security Patrol officers who guard the Statehouse and other state offices in Shawnee County. The bill, which passed 39-0, would give the officers full police powers anywhere in the county when they are wearing their badges.

—Allow manufacturer rebates and discounts to be taken into account by appraisers when establishing the fair market value of certain merchants' inventory for property tax purposes. The items would be valued at the reduced price, rather than normal retail price, in establishing inventory

Corporate land ownership in question tax liability of a merchant. The bill passed 38-1.

—Require cities and counties to adopt water supply and sewage management plans by July 1, 1989, or sanitary codes. There are two bills and they are part of the state water plan. One passed 24-15 and the other cleared the upper chamber on a 25-14 count.

—Force county commissions to initiate foreclosure procedures against delinquent taxpayers when the real estate involved has an aggregate assessed value of $300,000 or more.

Currently, the threshold is $10,000 of assessed valuation and Sen. Robert Frey, R-Liberal, said that is unrealistic considering modern land values. He said the law is not being adhered to and should be changed to conform with actual practice. It passed 39-0.

—Authorize the state health agency to establish standards for surface water quality.

The farm bill was proposed last year by Attorney General Robert Stephan. It would scrap the current limited corporate partnership provision of the state's corporate farming law, replacing it with a limited agricultural partnership provision which would allow farmers to enter a partnership agreement with a maximum 10 partners.

One of the partners must be a person residing on the farm or actively managing the farm operation and none of the partners could be corporations, according to the bill.

Jeff Southard, deputy attorney general, said Wednesday that Stephan wanted to "plug a loophole" in the five-year-old corporate farming law.

Southard said the bill developed after Consolidated Family Farms of Chicago tried in 1984 to enter into partnerships with farmers in financial trouble. He said the company developed an elaborate scheme to bypass the state's prohibition of corporate ownership of farmland using limited partnerships.

The farmers were to be limited partners, contributing their capital and land while Consolidated Family Farms acted as general partner, controlling all finances and decisions and giving the farmers no guarantees they'd be able to repurchase their land.

Have story or photo ideas?
CALL 532-6556

Abuse result of war against guerrillas

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The State Department said in its annual human rights report Thursday that Philippine government forces tortured, murdered and arrested innocent civilians, but that many abuses were the result of a war against communist guerrillas.

The report also suggested there have been some "positive developments" in the Philippine human rights performance, even though five years after the end of martial law, President Ferdinand E. Marcos continues to wield power to limit his opponents.

"Philippine newspapers now freely print even very harsh criticism of the government. However, there were frequent reports, many of them well-founded, of human rights abuses, especially in the countryside, by government security forces," the report said. "These included summary executions of civilians, instances of torture; arbitrary arrests, detentions, unlawful searches and seizures; and disappearances."

The Philippines was among 164 countries or regions described in the 1,440-page report, which is required under a law designed to help Congress make decisions about aid and other U.S. foreign policies.

Unlike those of previous years, the report did not make broad generalizations about the global trend in human rights performance, although it did spotlight the Reagan administration view that scrutiny of terrorist and guerrilla groups was as important as looking at government performance.

"Violations are no less reprehensible if committed by violent opponents of the government than if committed by the government itself," the report said.

Among the conclusions were:

—The Soviet Union has shown no evidence of changing what the department called a longstanding pattern of repression by a communist elite backed by secret police.

—South Africa continued an "incremental reform process," but the black majority continues to suffer pervasive, legally sanctioned discrimination.

—The armed forces of El Salvador, fighting against leftist guerrillas, have "endeavored to conduct their operations in a more humane manner. However, loss of civilian life as a result of military action by government forces continues and there are still credible reports of prisoners being subjected to abuse by government officials."

—The Iranian government's hold on power is "reinforced through arrests, executions, and other forms of intimidation."

LUTHERAN STUDENT MOVEMENT

5:00 p.m., Sunday, Feb. 16
Campus Center
1021 Denison

"Central America: Overview & Update"

Dr. Jan Flora, Sociology
EVERYONE WELCOME!

Supper & Fellowship - 5:00 p.m.
Program & Discussion - 6:00 p.m.

Lutheran Campus Ministry 1021 Denison 539-4451

comprehensive health associates
•free pregnancy tests
•outpatient abortion services
•alternatives counseling
•gynecology
•contraception
Overland Park, KS 913-345-1400

Enjoy smooth, creamy
Frozen Yogurt
that tastes like Ice Cream
but with 80% less fat!
--FREE SAMPLES--

I Can't Believe It's
YOGURT!
Frozen Yogurt Stores
OPEN: 11 a.m. - 11 p.m. Daily
Noon - 11 p.m. Sundays
Nautilus Towers - Aggieville

Blue River Pub

BRING YOUR V-DAY
CRUSH TO THE ONLY
BAR IN TOWN THAT OFFERS THE BEST IN...

- Private Party Accommodations (150-120 min.)
- Exciting Bands
- Food Service
- Upcoming Special Events

537-9877

Next to Tuttle Creek Dam

BE THE BEST!

LOOK! ARTS AND SCIENCES COUNCIL
ELECTION APPLICATIONS
AVAILABLE IN THE
SGA OFFICE AND DEAN'S OFFICE

APPLICATIONS DUE
NOON FEB. 17th

JOIN THE COUNCIL!

Brother's
AGGIEVILLE

TGIF

FREE SANDWICH BAR

BLIND DATE
Fri. & Sat.
Drawings for a room at All Seasons for you and your sweetheart on Fri. & Sat.

Dracula

Directed by Pat Foltz
February 7, 8, 14, 15, 21, 22
8:00 p.m.
Manhattan Civic Theatre
11th and Poyntz

Tickets on Sale at 7 p.m. each performance night

Adults $4
Students $3
12 & under $2

THE SUMMER JOB OF YOUR LIFE!

CAMP OZARK

A Christian Sports and Adventure Camp
Ouchita Lake and Mountain Region
Mt. Ida, Arkansas

Slide Presentation and interview scheduling for all positions Monday, Feb. 17, 8:30 p.m.
Union Room 207

Take it to the limit.

Start with a job as big as your ambitions. Lead the Adventure as a Navy Officer. The Navy adventure reaches into space, dives beneath the sea and stretches from Hong Kong to Italy and back again. It's a high tech, highly skilled and challenging world. A world where your leadership as a Navy Officer can be pivotal. There is no boot camp. College graduates get leadership and management training at Officer Candidate School. Plus further educational opportunities, once you're commissioned. You'll work with the best and brightest in your field. And you'll get the responsibility and decision-making authority you need to succeed. The challenge, satisfaction and rewards add up to personal and professional growth no other job can match. When you Lead the Adventure, you're steering a course destined for success. Contact your Navy Officer Recruiter or call 1-800-327-Navy.

NAVY OFFICER.

LEAD THE ADVENTURE.

State supreme court extends use of cameras in courtrooms

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA — The Kansas Supreme Court announced today it is extending its experiment allowing television and still cameras in state courtrooms for two years, and expanding it to include all 31 judicial districts of the state effective March 1.

The announcement by Chief Justice Alfred G. Schroeder at a news conference was a step forward for news media efforts to win pictorial access to Kansas courts. It also was a setback for the state's legal profession.

The Kansas Bar Association had urged the court to make the experiment more restrictive, particularly asking that any party to a court proceeding be given veto power over whether cameras would be allowed.

Gerald Goodell, a Topeka attorney and president of the KBA, attended the news conference and expressed disappointment afterward over the court's decision to expand the coverage under basically the same rules that have been in effect in the 13 judicial districts for the past year.

Schroeder said the court wants to study the expansion of cameras into all the trial courts of Kansas for two more years, to see if any problems arise before making it permanent. Up to now, the experiment has been in effect only in the more populated counties.

"From what we have learned," Schroeder told the news conference, "the members of news media have carefully followed our rules allowing the coverage and only minor problems have been encountered. We trust this pattern will continue as we try it statewide during the next two years."

The court made only two changes in its rules. Those changes forbid tape recording the private conversations of attorneys and their clients in the courtroom, and prohibit focusing television cameras or photographing anything laying on attorneys' tables.

Schroeder said the major complaint from attorneys during the past year's experiment concerned incidents of TV cameras focusing on counsel tables. The prohibition, the court said, "is designed to safeguard the attorney's confidential work product that may be laying on the table."

"The experiment to date has been quite successful," Schroeder said. "We're quite satisfied with the progress and the lack of difficulties in the process. But we want to keep it as an experiment to see whether any problems develop in the smaller districts."

Asked why the court had not heeded the concerns of the bar association and restricted the experiment, Schroeder replied, "Our investigation indicates that those who oppose it are in a considerable minority. It's not going to be unanimous among all judges and trial attorneys in the state."

"Our prime concern was whether the cameras were a disruptive influence. We think that has been answered. The existing concern has almost dissipated."

The order taking effect the first of next month means cameras will be admitted to all courtrooms in Kansas, unless the trial judge has good reason to ban them. He retains discretion over when the presence of cameras might be disruptive, but the media could complain to the Supreme Court if it felt a judge had abused that discretion.

Goodell confirmed he was disappointed the court had rejected the bar's call for allowing any party to a lawsuit to ban cameras without giving a reason.

In deciding against allowing one party absolute right to prohibit cameras, Goodell said, the court had "apparently failed to look at the statistics from its own survey." That survey, the Topeka lawyer said, showed "a significant number of judges, attorneys and jurors thought it was disruptive" to have cameras present.

Otherwise, Goodell said, the bar association was pleased the experiment has been expanded statewide, and also pleased that it still is an experiment and lawyers will get another chance to get the rules changed two years from now.

He said the bar also was pleased the court had prohibited focusing cameras on attorneys' tables in courtrooms. "That was the most serious objection I've heard," he said.

Addressing the disruption argument, Justice Harold Herd said the court's survey of the administrative judges in the 13 judicial districts "found it hasn't been disruptive at all."

And, Justice David Prager reminded that the Supreme Court's rules "emphasize that the trial judge, in every case, has full authority to control the atmosphere in the courtroom, and the judge has the right to limit or forbid the media in the courtroom" if there are disruptions.

Schroeder said the court had extensive discussion about allowing cameras in pretrial proceedings in criminal cases, and decided to leave the rule as it is — which means trial judges decide whether cameras are allowed in on a case-by-case basis.

The basic rules under which the cameras are allowed in the courtrooms of Kansas are these:

— Application must be made to the media coordinator in each judicial district before the trial, and approved by the judge. If more than one TV or still photographer wants in, then the media coordinator approves admission of one of each on a pool basis. Only one of each is approved for each trial.

— The television camera must remain in a fixed position throughout the trial, and the still photographer must remain in an assigned position in the spectator area.

— Photographing individual jurors is prohibited, and photographing witnesses and victims who request that their pictures not be taken also is prohibited.

Fraternity, Red Cross to sponsor CPR course

By The Collegian Staff

The Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity decided to put to use the old adage, "if you want to get something done right, you have to do it yourself."

The fraternity, in conjunction with the American Red Cross, is sponsoring CPR Saturday this Saturday at the new fire station located at the intersection of Denison and Kimball avenues.

The course is offered as a community service to Manhattan residents and K-State students at a cost of $3.

Included in the course will be a short film followed by small groups with the CPR instructors. All participants will watch and practice proper CPR procedure.

In addition to the Race for Life course, emergency procedures for choking victims will be taught.

Seventeen members of the SAE house will be instructing the courses, which will begin at 8 a.m., 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. American Red Cross instructors will also be present to assist.

Scott Dalgleish, senior in electrical engineering, is the chairman of the project for the SAE house.

The SAEs started by having some of the members of the fraternity take the modular or longer CPR course. Then 17 of those went on through the instructors course.

After this CPR Saturday, the SAEs intend to offer classes on campus to anyone interested.

The SAEs are hoping for a good turnout, Dalgleish said.

"We just hope that people will help us make it a successful project by registering for it," he said.

Anyone interested in taking the course should register in advance from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Red Cross office at 411 N. Third St.

If someone cannot get to the Red Cross office during the day they can reserve a place by calling 537-2180. Sign-up for the event will continue through today.

FDA finds 2nd bottle of poisoned Tylenol

By The Associated Press

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. — A second bottle of cyanide-laced Tylenol was found on a store shelf Thursday, prompting its manufacturer to issue a nationwide warning not to use the painkiller in capsule form.

Federal officials said the second contaminated bottle was not from the same batch that figured in the death of a woman last weekend.

"We found cyanide in it," said Food and Drug Administration Director George Gerstenberg of the second bottle. "It was taken off the shelf, it had not been sold."

Westchester County officials said it was taken from a Woolworth's store a few blocks from the A&P where the first bottle had been purchased. Gerstenberg would not confirm where the second bottle was found.

Johnson & Johnson, the maker of Tylenol, said in a statement, "while the area of immediate concern is New York, we are issuing a nationwide warning in the interest of giving the public the widest possible protection."

Diane Elstroth, 23, of Peekskill, died Saturday at the Yonkers home where her boyfriend, Michael Notarnicola, lived with his parents and brother.

Stephen Lewis, a lawyer for the Notarnicola family, said Thursday he had been assured by the FBI and Yonkers police "that no one in the family is a suspect."

Miss Elstroth's death prompted thousands of stores nationwide to pull the painkiller off the shelves and recalled the 1982 death of seven Chicago-area residents who died after taking cyanide-tainted Tylenol.

Collegian Classifieds
Where K-State Shops

Jazz performers to present concert

By TRINA KLOTZBACH
Collegian Reporter

One of the world's most acclaimed jazz groups, the Mitchell-Ruff Duo, will present a concert at 8 p.m. tonight in McCain Auditorium.

Pianist Dwiki Mitchell and bassist and French-horn player Willie Ruff have been working together for over 30 years. They are the oldest continuous jazz group in history. It was this duo who introduced American jazz to the Soviet Union in 1959 and to China in 1981.

Mitchell and Ruff started performing together when they were both stationed at Lockbourne Air Force Base, Columbus, Ohio, in 1947. After completion of their military service they lost touch with each other. Mitchell studied at a conservatory in Philadelphia for two years and then joined Lionel Hampton's band. It was at this time that he won the respect and admiration of such legends as Dizzy Gillespie, Louis Armstrong and Duke Ellington.

Ruff went to the Yale School of Music to study with composer Paul Hindemith. He earned his master's degree in 1954. While watching the "Ed Sullivan Show" on TV he spotted Mitchell playing with Hampton's band. Ruff got in touch with his former partner and was asked to join Hampton's band too.

Ruff and Mitchell have performed together ever since. Their main performance format is the college concert. They give 60 to 70 concerts a year on college campuses.

Tickets for The Mitchell-Ruff Duo may be obtained by calling the McCain Box Office at 532-6428. Ticket prices are $10 and $11 for the general public, and $6 and $7 for K-State students and senior citizens.

Kennedy's Claim

Valentine's Special

"Steak For Two"

1/2 Carafe of Wine

$16⁹⁵

Choice of cheesecakes

Dinner includes: salad, choice of potato, rolls and butter

Across from the Holidome

Friday Special
at

Elgee's
Restaurant & Ice Creamery

Taco Salad A delicious Mexican Fiesta Treat $2.99

This weekend White Mountain Coolers 99¢ reg. $1.49

12th & Laramie

Open Daily To Midnight

Open Sat. & Sun. 8:30 a.m. for breakfast

MANHATTAN SHOE REPAIR

25% OFF
RUBBER OVERSHOES IN STOCK
DURING THE MONTH OF
FEBRUARY

Open daily 8-5:30, Saturday 8-4
Open Thursdays to 8
Drive-Up Convenience

COME IN AND TRY PIÑATA RESTAURANTE!

Piñata
Restaurante

COUPON

FREE WHEN YOU PURCHASE A PITCHER OF NACHOS SOFT DRINK
OR BEER

Offer good through 2-23-86 only at
Piñata Restaurante, 1219 Bluemont, in Aggieville 539-3166

One coupon per visit

★ TONIGHT ★

Bockers Duo

"The Spread"
7 kinds of Hors d'oeuvres
BEER-99¢
Ramada Inn
4-7 p.m.

McCain

The Mitchell-Ruff Duo

"Two jazz giants who will set your soul on fire"
—Dizzy Gillespie

McCain Auditorium
Friday, February 14, 1986
8:00 p.m.
Box Office:
(913) 532-6428

Flowers for him and her

Valentine's Day Flower Sale

K-State Union Main Floor
9-5 p.m.
or until sold out
$3-$10

Retail Floriculture Club

Happy Valentine's Day
February 14th

from
Auntie Mae's Parlor

Valentine's Day Specials

$1.25 House Drinks
75¢ Draws
$1.00 Glasses of wine
$5 Bottles of Champagne

Come in and Check Out Other Specials
616 N. 12th Aggieville 539-9967

Students to compete in journalism contest

By The Collegian Staff

The University will host more than 500 area high school journalism students today at a regional journalism contest, said Dave Adams, regional contest director and director of Student Publications, Inc.

The contest is being sponsored by the Kansas Scholastic Press Association and the Department of Journalism and Mass Communications.

K-State will be one of five regional contest sites. Other contests will take place in Lawrence, Hays, Pittsburg and Wichita.

Contestants will compete in 13 categories including news, feature, sports and editorial writing; photography; layout and design; advertising and editing. The top three regional winners in each category will be awarded certificates and will be eligible to compete in the state competition March 22 in Lawrence.

High-school students will gain the experience of writing an "on the spot" assignment and having their work critiqued and judged by professionals, Adams said. The head-to-head competition will be a valuable experience, he said.

"We do this as a way to be of service to area schools," he said. "It may even be more valuable for those who don't win."

Area journalism professionals and K-State journalism faculty will be judging the contests. Adams said some K-State journalism students and members of the Society for Collegiate Journalists will be contest proctors and judges' assistants.

The events will take place throughout the day in the Union and Kedzie Hall. The awards ceremony will be at 3:45 p.m. in the Union Forum Hall.

Lawsuit loss to cost workers $300,000

By The Associated Press

NITRO, W.Va. — Six retired workers who lost a chemical poisoning suit against Monsanto Corp. are finding out just how high the stakes can be when you sue a corporate giant and lose.

"They've taken my health; they might as well take my house and my money too," said plaintiff Gene Thomas. In his eyes, that is exactly what Monsanto is doing.

A judge approved Monsanto's liens against the six men's homes last month. Monsanto said that while it won't try to take possession of the homes until the case is settled, it has an obligation to recover some of the money it spent defending itself against claims that workers were poisoned on the job.

While one plaintiff won a partial claim, the six who blamed highly toxic dioxin for their health problems lost. The chemical was produced for years as a byproduct of the production of herbicides at the company's Nitro plant.

U.S. District Judge John Copenhaver ruled in December, after the jury's decision, that the company was entitled to $300,000 as partial reimbursement for its legal fees.

Monsanto spokesman Larry O'Neill said the liens are "to ensure payment of a small portion of our legal costs."

The workers' lawyer, Stewart Calwell, sees another motive. With suits by more than 100 other workers pending, the liens send a message that "if you sue Monsanto, it'll be the ruin of you," he said.

Admittedly, O'Neill said, taking a man's home is "an emotional issue." However, he said, "we are responsible to recover what we can for our stockholders."

O'Neill will not say how much Monsanto spent in the 16-month trial. Calwell said that he spent $3 million and that Monsanto, which brought in a host of lawyers, public relations men, stenographers and expert witnesses, easily topped that.

The six plaintiffs and more than 100 other workers broke out in mysterious rashes after a cauldron containing dioxin exploded in 1949.

"I was really concerned, but they kept bringing in company doctors to assure us there was nothing to worry about," said Thomas, 57.

He says his health problems include nervousness, headaches and swollen joints. Monsanto contends that the symptoms are simply signs of age.

Another plaintiff, Lonnie Hurley, 64, still suffers from chloracne, a rash that plaintiffs' witnesses said is a sign of chemical poisoning. He says the rashes were followed by skin abscesses, blood poisoning and damaged lungs. Monsanto says Hurley suffers only from old age and the effects of cigarette smoking.

In its December ruling, the Charleston jury agreed with the plaintiffs that dioxin had caused their health problems and that Monsanto was negligent in its handling of the chemical. And it said that evidence showed dioxin causes permanent health problems, not temporary ones as Monsanto contended.

But the jury said it could not rule in favor of Thomas, Hurley and the other four workers because they failed to show that the company "willfully" and "recklessly" exposed them to dioxin hazards.

McCain to host jazz competition

By MARIBETH GOTTSCHALK
Staff Writer

It's time to strike up the bands for the 17th annual Central States Jazz Festival put on by the wind and percussion division of the Department of Music.

The festival, which is free and open to the public, will begin at 9 a.m. today in McCain Auditorium, said Al Cochran, chairman of the wind and percussion division and instructor of music.

The bands, representing high schools and junior colleges throughout the state, will each play for about 30 minutes. At 4:15 p.m. a clinic will be offered, featuring "the oldest continuous group in jazz without personnel changes," the Mitchell-Ruff Duo. The piano and string bass duo, which caught the attention of jazz enthusiasts in the 1950s as they were the opening act for legends such as Dizzy Gillespie, Louis Armstrong, Duke Ellington and Count Basie. They will perform at 8 tonight in McCain.

Each band will be evaluated by a panel of four judges. Festival judges are Jim Cochran, an instructor from Shawnee Mission South High School, Shawnee Mission; Russ Kellogg, instructor from Indian Creek Junior High School, Overland Park; Stephan Hall, assistant director in the Office of the Registrar, and Charlie Molina, Ottawa, a regional representative from a major music company.

The groups, which have been preparing for at least two months, will compete against the standard of excellence in their individual performances. Groups will receive a numerical rating of 1, 2, 3, or 4 and a division rating according to their performances.

Cochran encouraged students and the community to take advantage of the festival.

"If students or faculty have one hour, we invite them to come and take advantage (of the festival) and listen to good music. All too few students do not take advantage of this," Cochran said.

The festival will be broadcast live from KSDB-FM.

Present
The 3rd ANNUAL
BEACH PARTY
Aggie's Funniest And Original
Register Now For
A TRIP FOR 2 TO STEAMBOAT
Contests: Mango Roll, Best Blown Beach Boot
Limbo Rock And More (Details At Dark Horse)
Also, We'll Introduce KSU Sorority's
MISS TANTASTIC
And Fraternity's
BEST SANDWELLER
Prizes: VCR Supplied By Conde's Hot Tub Party, Beach
Towels, $ Money $, Frisbee, Sunglasses, Cups, Tanning Sessions, Shirts And More.
Over $1280 In Cash And Prizes
Often Copied But Never Matched

When You're Pregnant, Don't Smoke!
Support the
March of Dimes
Birth Defects Foundation

STEPPIN' OUT WEEKENDS

THE COTTON CLUB

FRIDAYS

- TGIF
- Celebrity Bartender
- Reservations Accepted
- Live Piano Bar

SATURDAY

- Open for Lunch in HP's
- Prime Rib Special

SUNDAY

- Sunday Buffet Only $5.25
- 11-1:30

In the Name of God REVIVAL OF ISLAM

Lecture by:

MR. ZAFAR BANGHASH

Mr. Banghash is the editor of "Cerescent International," a widely distributed magazine on Islamic issues.

SOME OF THE TOPICS ARE:

"THE CONCEPT OF JIHAD OR 'HOLY WAR' IN ISLAM.

HOLY WAR IN AFGHANISTAN,

the struggle of the MUSLIM in

LEBANON, EGYPT, MALAYSIA,

IRAQ, AFRICA,.....

THE ISSUE OF TERRORISM,
ISLAMIC VIEW CONCERNING THE FUTURE OF
PALESTINE, ETC.....

FRIDAY, FEB. 14, 4 p.m.

BIG 8, UNION K.S.U.

THE PUBLIC IS WELCOME

SPONSORED BY:
COMMITTEE ON LECTURES
RELIGIOUS STUDIES I.M.O.

We still have space available... SOUTH PADRE ISLAND SPRING BREAK '86

FIESTA ISLES
5701 PADRE BLVD. P.O. BOX 3079
CALL DIRECT FOR INFORMATION
(512) 761-4913

OLEANDER HOTEL
3913 PADRE BLVD.
CALL DIRECT FOR INFORMATION
(512) 761-7831

Radio Shack
ASSOCIATE STORE

PLUS COMPUTER DEPARTMENT

THE TANDY 1000—MORE FEATURES THAN IBM'S PC FOR A LOT LESS!

Our Six-in-One DeskMate® Software Comes with Every Tandy 1000—A $199⁹⁵ Value!

Monitor not included 999⁰⁰ AS LOW AS $46 PER MONTH

Was $1199.00 in 1985 Cat. RCS-14

Many Programs Available Including the Popular pfs:® Productivity Series

The Tandy 1000 gives you more features than an IBM PC for less money! Plus, unlike the PC, every Tandy 1000 comes with Deskmate software, so you can get down to business right from day one. Or use our easy-to-learn pfs:write (25-1142, $140) word processing program with pfs:file (25-1140, $140) personal filing system to easily prepare form letters and more.

*CitiLine revolving credit from Citibank. Payment may vary depending upon balance. CitiLine is a service mark of Citicorp. IBM/TM International Business Machines Corp. pfs:/TM Software Publishing.

IBM/Registered TM International Business Machines Corp

Radio Shack
Associate Store

2609 Anderson
In Anderson Square
Phone 539 6151

Mon. Fri. 9:00-6:00 p.m.
Sat. 9:00-5:00 p.m.
Closed Sundays

"A RADIO SHACK DEALER"

Q KQLA 104
ALL NEW
The Switch Is On!
THE VERY FIRST TIME
Friday, February 14 at 6:00 p.m.
tune to 104 FM for Manhattan's
NEW Q-104, KQLA

'Cats need victory; Iowa State on roll

By TONY CARBAJO
Sports Writer

The K-State men's basketball team travels to Ames, Iowa, Saturday to try to erase an earlier home court loss to the Iowa State Cyclones.

The young Wildcats have enjoyed success this season on the road, as they have knocked off Colorado and Nebraska in conference play.

In the game against the Cyclones, K-State will be facing two potent offensive weapons in guard Jeff Hornacek and forward Jeff Grayer. In the first contest at Ahearn Field House, Grayer knocked in 20 points, while Hornacek poured in 21, mostly from long range.

The Wildcats fell behind by 15 at halftime and had to play catch up in the second half. Head Coach Jack Hartman has a simple game plan entering the second contest.

"We want to get ahead and stay ahead," quipped Hartman. "Iowa State has a fine team. They have some outstanding individual players."

Hartman said the team was not going to concentrate specifically on stopping Iowa State's one-two punch, but work on their total defensive game, which lagged at times in game one of the series.

"We need to stop them as a team and we will be all right," Hartman said. "You have to recognize where certain individuals are on the floor so they won't be as much of a threat."

Hartman has not been shy about going to his bench in recent games, especially to his young freshmen. Ty Walker, Mark Dobbins and Lance Simmons have seen extensive reserve time in the last three games.

"They have matured, learned and developed," Hartman said of his freshmen. "They will get to see more playing time."

Hilton Coliseum, the home of the Cyclones, has been ever so tough a place to play this season. Iowa State has knocked off No. 3 Kansas and No. 10 Oklahoma on their home floor already this season. Their only Big Eight road win was at the expense of K-State.

The Wildcats enter the game on the heels of an 85-77 loss to Oklahoma in Norman, Okla. After falling behind by more than 20 points, K-State's young reserves sparked the team back to within seven points on two occasions, but could get the 'Cats no closer.

Norris Coleman continues to lead the 'Cats at a 21.3 scoring clip, while Grayer heads Iowa State's list at 20.5.

GAME NOTES: Norris Coleman continues to lead the conference in scoring with a 23.9 average for Big Eight games...Iowa State's Grayer is third at 21.1...Coleman is also only 31 points shy of Curtis Redding's freshman season scoring mark record...the game will be televised as the second of Raycom's two-game Big Eight package on Saturday...tipoff is scheduled for 3:10 p.m. on KSN stations.

PROBABLE STARTERS

K-STATE

F Ben Mitchell, 6-9 (7.3 ppg)
F Norris Coleman, 6-8 (21.3 ppg)
C Ron Meyer, 6-9 (3.8 ppg)
G Benny Green, 6-3 (8.8 ppg)
G Joe Wright, 6-9 (18.0 ppg)

IOWA STATE

F Ron Virgil, 6-4 (7.4 ppg)
F Jeff Grayer, 6-5 (20.5 ppg)
C Sam Hill, 6-9 (9.1 ppg)
G Gary Thompson, 6-3 (9.8 ppg)
G Jeff Hornacek, 6-3 (14.9 ppg)

Kenton Thompson, senior in exercise science, tapes the ankle of Valerie Kastens, freshman in pre-veterinary medicine, before volleyball practice

Thursday afternoon. Thompson is one of 24 K-State student trainers who work with the prevention and rehabilitation of injuries to athletes.

Trainers put 'Cats in wraps

By KIM KIDD
Collegian Reporter

At K-State basketball games, fans see student athletic trainers for athletic teams carrying water bottles and towels from player to player.

Behind the scenes though, these trainers do much more — taping ankles, treating injuries, giving treatments and even acting as a buffer between coach and athlete.

"People see us carrying water bottles around or see us carrying towels and think that's all we do," said Kenton Thompson, senior in exercise science and student athletic trainer.

But these student trainers have an important job in the care, prevention and rehabilitation of injuries to K-State athletes.

Under the guidance of Carl Cramer, director of sports medicine, and two other certified trainers, 24 student trainers work sometimes long and frustrating hours.

Junior and senior trainers are assigned to work directly with a team during practices, games or meets and many extra hours for the entire year.

"What is important is that we don't just stand around and go to games and go to practice," said Robin Danks, senior in physical education and English.

During some weeks, such as during football three-day practices, trainers spend up to 100 hours helping a team.

Thompson said very few weeks demand as much time as three-day's do, but serving as a trainer for any varsity team still takes a great deal of time all year, sometimes even interfering with classwork.

"It's almost like classes get in the way of the sport," he said. "We spend a lot of time on the road so we're always borrowing notes and catching up. Somehow the sport takes priority over class, even though it shouldn't."

In a typical day, the trainer will arrive at a practice session one to two hours before the players. Some players receive rehabilitation treatments before practice and most come in early for ankle-taping and other preventive measures.

Because most of the care is preventive, trainers say a main concern is to help athletes realize the importance of prevention.

"We have to educate the athlete about prevention," Danks said. "It is up to the trainers to tell them why they have to get an ankle taped or why we tape their thumbs or why we do the other things."

Besides educating athletes, the trainers say acting as a buffer between the coach and athlete becomes part of their jobs as well.

"The trainer's loyalty is for the coach," said Tom Bair, senior in secondary physical education and sports medicine. "Theoretically athletics is for the participant, but most of the time it doesn't end up that way."

"Put it this way, if an athlete's ankle is the size of a watermelon, he can't play. It is the trainer's job to see he gets rehabilitation so he will be able to play so the coach will be happy."

Trainers have to take a middleman role in many situations because they have to deal more with a coach's opinions than the athlete's injury.

"If it comes down to it, the athlete is our main concern, but we (the trainers) are really there to help the coach," Thompson said.

Bair agreed with Thompson's assessment.

"A lot has to do with how much the coach supports you," Bair said. "Most coaches support the decisions we (trainers) make whether or not to play an athlete and don't question it at all. But sometimes they don't want to take our recommendations and that makes it hard on the athlete."

The athletes go through these rehabilitation and strengthening programs after practices, so much of a trainer's work does not begin until most people leave.

Bair said most people perceive athletic trainers as someone out of the movie "North Dallas Forty."

"They see us as walking amphetamine cabinets who have a whirlpool ready for after games," he said. "There is so much more to training than that — especially all the paperwork involved."

Trainers are not permitted to administer medication, but can administer a total rehabilitation, strengthening, or flexibility program for an athlete, Bair said. These programs are carried out through modern equipment such as electrical stimulus machines, isokinetic weight machines, ice baths and whirlpools.

The student trainer program is designed for students interested in certification for athletic training. Those who hold the positions for an extended period of time say it is worth the work.

"We get a lot more hands-on training than in any other medical profession and that is an advantage because of the practical experience involved," Bair said.

Bair also said the benefits of education in training go beyond the experience gained.

"It is almost like we're getting paid for the experience — we're getting paid to be educated."

Foul-stricken Missouri stuns ranked Sooners

By The Associated Press

COLUMBIA, Mo. — Jeff Strong helped stake Missouri to an early lead and the Tigers held on for a 101-88 victory over eighth-ranked Oklahoma Thursday night in a game that included 62 personal fouls.

Seven players fouled out of the sloppy Big Eight game. The three officials called 23 personal fouls in the first half and technical fouls on both head coaches.

Missouri, snapping a four-game losing streak, bolted to an 18-1 lead as the ragged Sooners went the first 5:10 without a field goal. The loss dropped Oklahoma to 7-3 in the Big Eight.

Oklahoma, 22-3 overall, closed to within nine points at halftime, 50-41, behind the shooting of Darryl Kennedy and Anthony Bowie. Missouri, despite having three starters in foul trouble, never let the visitors closer than eight points after intermission.

Gary Leonard, Missouri's starting center, fouled out less than two minutes into the second half and Dan Bingenheimer, a starting forward who had 10 points in the first half, collected his fourth foul and went to the bench a few seconds later.

Derrick Chievous scored seven straight points for the Tigers almost personally thwarting Oklahoma's comeback bid.

Strong and Chievous both finished with 29 points for Missouri, 18-11 overall and 5-5 in the conference.

Bowie had 31 points and Kennedy and David Johnson collected 20 points each for the Sooners.

Correction

The name of K-State football recruit Chris Cobb, a 6-foot-3, 190-pound quarterback from Lake Highlands High School in Dallas, was left off the list of Wildcat football signees published in Thursday's Collegian.

Parrish talent shops out-of-state

New K-State football coach Stan Parrish has been trying to make it clear that he and his coaching staff did not abandon the state of Kansas with this recruiting class.

On Thursday, Parrish was quoted in Tom Perrin's story on K-State's new signees as saying, "We invited seven (Kansas high school) players to campus and one visited. Unfortunately, we didn't get him. I think a lot of that has to do with us getting a late start. Also, the player pool was down."

K-State ended up signing only two Kansas ball players. Both were from junior colleges.

It will be left to be seen if Parrish holds up to his statement next year when his coaching staff isn't short on recruiting time. If he ignores Kansas high school "talent" next spring, there are going to be some very upset high school coaches throughout the state.

Let 'em throw a tantrum if they like. K-State has never won by being loyal to its state, so let Parrish do his own thing. Kansas is not known as a football mecca and although the state has some talent, that talent is limited.

In the state of Kansas, a major college coach usually can only recruit on athletic ability and then concern himself with teaching the young man the sport when he is on scholarship.

Rarely is there a football talent in the state of Kansas so developed that he may immediately enter a program and have an impact.

Examples of this needed development for in-state recruits are Barton Hundley, who came to K-State as a walk-on and became an All-Big Eight defensive back, and a running back named Maurice Henry, who last year as a freshman tested out to be the best conditioned athlete on the entire team.

TIM FITZGERALD
Assistant Sports Editor

Henry lacked the proper teaching at his position and never took a hand-off last season, but with bull-like strength and blazing speed, Henry should grow into one heck of a running back under Parrish.

Under this concept of Kansas talent, it is difficult to blame Parrish for looking elsewhere for his recruits this season. He has little time to develop talent. He is looking for impact players — players whom will step in next season and play major college football.

Parrish and his staff have their recruiting ties far away from Kansas. A bulk of the Wildcats' new players come to Manhattan from California, Texas, Florida and New Jersey. (This stands as statement on Parrish's recruiting abilities alone. If you were from one of those states would you be overly excited about coming to the middle of Kansas?)

Parrish set out to improve his team speed and he claims that he has done so. The new Wildcats include five wide receivers and two running backs. Naturally the loss of super-back Trevin Moore to the University of Washington hurts, but let's not spend time thinking of what would have been.

He also signed some big horses for his lines. Out of the five offensive linemen he signed, the average size is 6-4, 270.

On the defensive side of the line, Parrish may have landed a prize plum. Lineman Arthur Taylor (6-4, 240) comes to K-State from Denison, Texas, where he was a first team all-state defensive tackle. That is all-state in Texas — Texas, where high school football is God.

Parrish also landed four quarterbacks. One junior college transfer, Tim Hanson, comes to K-State from Golden West Junior College where he was selected to his conference's first team all-star team. Also coming to K-State are three high school stars — Chris Cobb from Dallas, Eric Harper from Denison, Texas and Carl Straw from Fair Lawn, N.J.

Hopefully one of the three will pan out for next season as an aerial bomber who can lead the 'Cats offensive attack.

The thing is K-State was not totally lacking talent last season. Parrish does have a nucleus of talent with which to work. What K-State lacked last season was leadership, pride and the belief that they could win.

Those things will all change next season under Athletic Director Larry Travis, Stan Parrish and Parrish's coaching staff.

Parrish has promised a winner next season — it will be seen in the fall whether or not his new recruits will add enough talent to the team to help him keep his word.

Struggling Lady Cats to meet hot Cyclones

By DARAN NEUSCHAFER
Sports Writer

K-State's women's basketball team might be getting into something a little over their heads this weekend when they travel to Ames, Iowa, to take on the Iowa State Cyclones Saturday night.

Iowa State may just be the hottest team in the Big Eight Conference right now, coming off a victory over Colorado in Boulder, Colo., Wednesday. They also defeated nationally ranked Oklahoma last Saturday at home, and are currently in a tie for the conference lead with the Sooners with a 6-3 league record.

K-State will attempt to break their current two game losing skid against the Cyclones. The Lady Cats, who have lost five of their last six games, did defeat Iowa State 78-76 earlier in the year, when K-State's Amanda Holley sank a 35-footer at the buzzer in overtime.

Iowa State is led in scoring and rebounding by 6-1 center Stephanie Smith, but Lady Cat coach Matilda Mossman believes that the Cyclones strength lies in their backcourt.

"I think that Jane Lobenstein is the key to their team," Mossman said. "She is one of, if not the best point guard in the Big Eight."

"Even though she is not their top scorer, she controls what their team does and is an overall good floor leader."

While Smith is averaging 17.7 points and 11.3 rebounds per game, the Cyclones' guard tandem is averaging nearly 24 points per outing. Lobenstein is scoring 12.1 points per contest and sophomore Etta Burns is chipping in 11.1 points a game.

"Iowa State scores as well from the outside as they do from the inside, so they can really make things tough on you defensively," Mossman said.

Another obstacle for the Lady Cats could be trying to play without forward Carlisa Thomas. There is a possibility that the 5-9 forward might not be available on Saturday, due to the fact that she had her wisdom teeth pulled Thursday.

Thomas is coming off her best game as a Lady Cat on Tuesday night, when she scored a career high 26 points against Oklahoma. She also had seven rebounds and five steals in that game, her best all-around game of the year according to Mossman.

"Carlisa probably played the best I think I have seen her ever play," Mossman said. "She really played within herself. She always seemed to be under control."

GAME NOTES: Tomorrow night's contest will be broadcast live beginning at 7 p.m. by WIBW (580 AM)...Iowa State, with their 17-5 overall record, received 16 votes in the latest Associated Press Top 20 poll.

PROBABLE STARTERS

K-STATE

F Carlisa Thomas, 5-9 (11.3 ppg)
F Amanda Holley, 6-1 (12.3 ppg)
C Sue Leiding, 6-2 (8.3 ppg)
G Susan Green, 5-8 (9.7 ppg)
G Cindy Durham, 6-0 (4.1 ppg)

IOWA STATE

F Sandy Hafner, 5-9 (5.7 ppg)
F Monica Misset, 5-11 (7.8 ppg)
C Stephanie Smith, 6-1 (17.7 ppg)
G Jane Lobenstein, 5-7 (12.1 ppg)
G Etta Burns, 5-7 (11.1 ppg)

Airport's repairs lead to more services

By JEFF STARK
Collegian Reporter

For air travelers in the Manhattan area, the Manhattan Municipal Airport offers two airlines for commercial and charter travel, plus another company offering airplane rentals and coordinating flight lessons.

In the past 10 years the airport has put $6 to $7 million dollars into lengthening and resurfacing runways, said Manhattan City Manager Don Harmon.

He said major improvements include lengthening of the main runway from 5,800 to 7,200 feet in 1979 and resurfacing of the crosswind runway last summer.

Harmon said it takes about $200,000 annually to operate the airport, with the city paying approximately $50,000 to $60,000 of the total amount. The remainder comes from user fees.

Harmon said before Frontier Airlines discontinued service in Manhattan in 1983, the airport was self-sufficient, but has been subsidized by the city's general fund since that time.

The airport, located west of Manhattan on Kansas Highway 18, is managed for the city by Jim Thomas.

One of the tenants, Capitol Air Lines, has begun a new flight to increase boardings in an attempt to recoup revenue losses incurred in 1985, said Bill Fogerson, general manager and director of operations.

"We are offering a 15 percent discount to students traveling over spring break, discounts on advanced fare purchases and will have some promotions on military travel," Fogerson said.

Fogerson said the new flight, 8 a.m. to Kansas City, was initiated to fill an increasing demand for flights from Manhattan between 8 and 10 a.m.

Air Midwest, the only other airline currently operating out of Manhattan, is now selling boarding passes for Eastern Airlines flights out of Kansas City, said Ray Freeby, local station manager for Air Midwest.

"This was done out of a matter of convenience because Eastern Airlines occupies the 12 gates next to ours at (Kansas City International).

You can buy one ticket in Manhattan to go anywhere Eastern does and that includes 21 foreign countries," Freeby said.

Air Midwest presently offers nine flights to Kansas City and 11 from Kansas City to Manhattan, Freeby added.

Of the 54 cities Air Midwest serves, Manhattan ranks fifth in number of boardings, he said.

The losses Fogerson cited as an initiative for the added flight offered by Capitol stemmed from increased insurance costs and low boarding figures, which followed a Federal Aviation Administration suspension of services order in March, 1985.

"Instead of pursuing the lengthy process of attempting to exonerate the airline from what were largely charges of faulty record keeping, (the airline) elected to be (recertified) as a new airline, and as a result met with overwhelming increased insurance costs," Fogerson said.

The Manhattan City Commission recently approved a rent-deferral proposition, which allows Capitol to not pay approximately $27,000 in rent for the next six months. The airline will have to pay an interest fee on deferred rents.

Currently, Capitol Air Lines has eight daily flights from Manhattan to KCI and 10 flights daily arriving from Kansas City.

Spicer Aircraft, also located at the airport, offers private aircraft rentals and can make arrangements for flight lessons.

Laura Manges, office manager for Spicer, said if someone wants to take lessons, Spicer puts them in contact with an instructor.

"The person taking the lessons pays the instructor a fee plus the airplane rental cost. The instructor in turn pays us for the rental of the airplane," Manges said.

Spicer also performs maintenance work on airplanes as well as selling aviation fuel, with Air Midwest as one of their customers, Manges said.

Manges added that Spicer does all the charters for K-State, with the exception of the athletic teams.

"We fly athletic recruits back and forth to Kansas City and also fly faculty members to meetings around the state," Manges said.

Director to train Special Olympics volunteers

By PAT HUND
Collegian Reporter

The opportunity to coach mentally retarded individuals for Special Olympics competition has created widespread interest among college students, said Robert Johnson, associate professor of physical education, dance and leisure studies.

Johnson, area director of Special Olympics, is coordinating an athletic training school for Special Olympics coaches from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Saturday at Brandeberry Indoor Complex.

"It says a lot for the student body at K-State to want to be involved in the Special Olympics," Johnson said. "I would guess about 75 percent of the people who have signed up are college students."

More than 130 people have signed up to participate in the training school for coaches, he said.

"As far as I know this is one of the largest clinics in the nation," Johnson said.

The morning session of the clinic will inform people about the role and coaching techniques of a Special Olympics coach, the prevention of injuries and how to work and relate with mentally retarded individuals.

The afternoon session will feature Steve Miller, assistant director of the Department of Intercollegiate Athletics and track coach, who will instruct participants about the track and field events of Special Olympics competition.

Miller, who has been involved in Special Olympics for three years, said Special Olympics athletes are easier to motivate than college athletes because "they are stimulated by outside help and they get excited when people pay attention to them."

Miller said people who get involved with Special Olympics are making a "statement of sensitivity and concern."

Later in the afternoon, participants will have the chance to coach mentally retarded athletes, Miller said.

Johnson said coaches can gain one to three hours of college credit by coaching in the Special Olympics.

The National Special Olympics organization has developed this course in conjunction with the Division of Continuing Education "to determine if the mentally retarded athletes do improve their physical ability with coaching," Johnson said.

"This is the only University in the nation that offers this program," he said.

A person can be a certified Special Olympics coach with at least 10 hours of coaching but will not be eligible to receive college credit until he has reached 15 hours of active coaching, Johnson said.

The Area 3 Special Olympic Games will be April 19 in Manhattan. Besides track and field competition, swimming and a developmental program for low-functioning mentally retarded individuals will be featured, he said.

Collegian Classifieds
Where K-State Shops

Try Our New Chicken Sandwich?

TGIF WITH US!

• Free Popcorn or Homemade Onion Rings with Pitcher! 2-6:00

• $2.75 Pitchers Red Beer!

KITE'S
BAR AND GRILL

J.D.'s Steakhouse Valentine's Special
"Steak For Two"
$14⁹⁵

Choice of cheesecakes
Dinner includes: salad, choice of potato, rolls and butter
Across from the Holidome

ALL YOU CAN EAT

Sunday Night

Pan Fried Chicken and Spaghetti

with mashed potatoes, salad bar and veg.

just $3.95

Colonation
RESTAURANT

17th Anderson

RAMADA INN

BUSHWACKERS
THE HUSBANDRY

Bring your sweetheart to Bushwackers

for free

hors d'oeuvres and old time Rock n' Roll.

HAPPY VALENTINE'S DAY!

Graduated Savings.

$15 OFF
ALL 10K GOLD

$30 OFF
ALL 14K GOLD

$40 OFF
ALL 18K GOLD

One week only, save on the gold ring of your choice. For complete details, see your Jostens representative at:

Feb. 11-14 10am-4pm

Deposit Req: $20.70 non-refundable

Supply floor k-state union
bookstore 0302

Payment plans available. ©1985 Jostens, Inc.

JOSTENS
AMERICA'S COLLEGE RING™

"How about being the Engineer that you have studied to be?"

Engineering Managers Wanted"
Engineering Instructors Wanted"

"Research & Development Opportunities"

Lt. Sam Fishel of Navy Engineering Kansas City will hold interviews on campus...

At: Holtz Hall

Time: 10:00 a.m.

Date: Feb. 13 & 14, 1986.

For more information on Navy Engineering call:

1-800-892-5992 In Missouri

1-800-821-5110 in Kansas

Greg Harris, senior in architectural engineering, has the job of being a chauffeur for a local limousine service. The service, being offered by two area firms, is becoming increasingly popular among students as an alternative way to spend an evening.

Staff/Steve Rasmussen

Limousine passengers enjoy royal treatment, enlighten drivers' lives

By LESLIE ALLEN
Collegian Reporter

Being in a chauffeur-driven limousine can make someone feel like royalty for an evening.

"I will do anything to make them (the clients) feel good," said Greg Harris, senior in architectural engineering and a chauffeur for the La Ride Limousine Service, 1834 Cedar Crest Drive. "They want to feel like a million when they get in this car, and it's my job to make sure that they do."

There is an image that must be maintained with a limousine, said Rod Campbell, owner of La Ride. "It must always be clean, and the driver should always look good."

"In the limousine business, it's 60 percent the car itself and 40 percent the chauffeur," Campbell said.

Harris said the dress code for chauffeurs, which depends on where the clients are going and the chauffeur's personal style, is "common courtesy to the people who are renting the limousine."

"People change when they get in here and they lose track of time. It's like a fantasy land," Harris said. "All of a sudden they don't have any homework, appointments or boyfriends or girlfriends."

"When (the clients) are riding around, they're a centerpiece," said Tom Edwards, chauffeur and owner of the Limousine Service, 508 Blue-mont Ave. "Most customers want people to see them when they're in a limousine," he said.

Edwards said this is the reason he decided not to tint the windows.

A variety of people rent limousines for different reasons so boredom is rare, Edwards said.

"It doesn't get boring because the people keep me amused," Edwards said. "I don't get tired because I get out and open the doors, and escort the ladies to the door, so I get enough exercise."

Campbell said fraternity members are using the limousine for formal parties.

The services are used for funerals, weddings, anniversaries and parties.

"One time it started out with a funeral, but it ended up with the people partying," Harris said. "It was go, go, go. We ended up going all over Kansas. I couldn't even keep track of all the towns we were in. We were in here from 10 (a.m.) until 2 (a.m.)."

Both owners said before they rent their limousines they need an agenda for the evening.

"That helps me to be able to schedule more than one customer in an evening," Edwards said.

"Sometimes I study while I am waiting, but mostly I need to be ready and waiting (for the customers to return)," Harris said. "It's a good part-time job, and a good way to meet interesting people."

Board may censor musical's profanity

By JEFF STARK
Collegian Reporter

"The Buck Stops Here," a musical written by Norman Fedder, professor of speech, may be censored if it is to be shown in Independence, Mo.

The musical is about Harry S. Truman and his struggle to prove himself.

The Independence Tourism Advisory Board decided the musical would be more suitable for audiences in Independence if some of the off-color language was removed from the script, Fedder said.

Dave May, a member of the tourism board and president of the Independence Chamber of Commerce, said profanity is being focused on as the issue regarding whether to bring the musical to Independence.

"The real issue is the quality of the musical. It is a romanticized look at a common, yet complicated character, and still may be adaptable for use in Independence depending on the playwright's willingness to discuss historical accuracy," May said.

May said officials with the Reorganized Church of Christ of Latter Day Saints withdrew an offer to make the church's outdoor amphitheater available for the musical after seeing a copy of the script.

The musical, which was finished in 1982 and opened in New York in 1983, contains "colorful language."

"I don't know if the musical can be preserved if it is censored. It would be a real challenge to my values, (to edit the script), especially considering my respect for Harry S. Truman," Fedder said.

In an article in the Kansas City Star, Woody Howell, a member of the Independence City Council and chairman of the Tourism Advisory Board, said he doubted Truman would have used stong language in front of women and children.

"I am not trying to say this is vulgar in any way. We're just taking a word here and a word there,"

Howell said.

Fedder said Truman was not talking to women and children in the context of the musical.

May said mild profanity is not a problem if parents of young theatergoers make a conscious decision to expose them to it.

Sarah Hancock, tourism coordinator, said, "The performance, as it stands, is not acceptable with public funds involved."

Fedder said "The Buck Stops Here" has been performed many times without being censored.

"I didn't write this to offend anybody and would not be pleased to put on a play that would offend a lot of people," Fedder said.

ASK representatives to plan lobbying strategy

By BECKY MARTIN
Collegian Reporter

Seventeen students have the opportunity to lobby in the Kansas Legislature and vote on the stand the Associated Students of Kansas takes on student concerns, said Kevin Elmore, senior in computer science and campus director of ASK.

The ASK Legislative Assembly will meet in Lawrence Sunday to discuss legislative activity on priority issues and plan lobbying strategies, Elmore said.

He said any student who is interested may accompany him to the Legislative Assembly and Lobby Day. The first 17 students to sign up will be able to vote on issues.

Elmore said each of the association's seven members — K-State, University of Kansas, Fort Hays State University, Pittsburg State University, Washburn University, Emporia State University and The Wichita State University — will send delegates.

The assembly will convene at 1 p.m. Sunday in the Kansas Union at KU for committee meetings, followed by a symposium and banquet.

Meetings will resume in the evening, Elmore said.

The assembly makes policies for ASK and decides what stands it will take on issues in front of the Legislature, he said.

After the Legislative Assembly, most of the delegates will move on to Topeka for Lobby Day on Monday, Elmore said.

"The reason the Legislative Assembly and Lobby Day are so close together is to encourage people to go to both so they can become better informed on student issues," he said.

Lobby Day will be the first event of ASK's Higher Education Week program at the Capitol, he said. It will be an effort to bring attention to the need for higher education.

"This will be a great opportunity for students who ordinarily would not be involved in the governmental process to actually make a difference in the passage of legislation favoring students."

Any student interested in attending either the Legislative Assembly or Lobby Day may contact Elmore in the Student Government Services office in the Union.

Kansas FFA officers to visit high schools

By The Collegian Staff

National Future Farmers of America Week begins Feb. 15 and continues through Feb. 22 with the theme "FFA...Leaders for the New Field of Agriculture (It's More Than You'd Ever Imagine)."

"Five of the six state FFA officers attend K-State," said Earl Wineinger, executive secretary of the Kansas FFA Association.

They are Tom Hemmer, freshman in agricultural economics, president; Melanie Mainquist, freshman in animal sciences and industry, vice president; Elise Williams, freshman in general agriculture, secretary; Kim Fouts, sophomore in agricultural journalism, treasurer; and Lareina Waldorf, freshman in agricultural journalism, reporter. The sixth state officer is Tom Wareham, a freshman in agriculture at Highland Community College.

The activities the state officers will be involved with include appearing on a TV program, competing in a donkey basketball game in St. George, a farmers appreciation night in Yates Center and various visits to high school FFA chapters.

Wineinger said the purpose of National FFA Week is to emphasize the organization and its involvement in agriculture.

"The purpose is to make people aware of FFA and agriculture and the connection between the three resources, agriculture, education and youth," Wineinger said.

"We're trying to emphasize that the vo-ag (vocational-agriculture) being taught in the high schools is a strong force in Kansas agriculture," he said.

"FFA is playing a role to assure the future progress and prosperity in Kansas," Wineinger said.

Classifieds

for Your Valentine

KENT HAPPY Valentine's Day! I love you, C. (98)

COLLEEN—THANKS for a year of love and happiness. Here's to many more! Love, Jeff. (98)

S.J.K.—EVERYDAY is Valentine's Day with you. Thank you for all of the nice things that you do for me. (98)

LISA, LOVER of Plants, Ax, "Gremilins," Texas, family reunions, puzzles, the "Porsch," enchiladas and wine, jogging, long talks, studies until 2 a.m. Is the record 6:00 or 9:00? New York tonight? Be my Valentine! Lot of love, your favorite "Study-Head!" (98)

PAUL FIBELKORN—It's been really great getting to know you even better. Happy Valentine's Day! I love you! WTLB Kim. (98)

PETE ABELL—I've enjoyed getting to know you and look forward to knowing you better. Happy Valentine's Day. Manan. (98)

CINDY KEEN—I believe in "friends are forever." Have a great day, and a great tomorrow. Love always, Joseph Stuart. (98)

TERRY DALE I love you! —Becky. (98)

THANKS SANDI, Joy, Mindy, Teri, Tracie, Laura, Connie, Mary, Kent, Bryan, Brenda, Tami, Mom and Doug for everything. Love, Kayla. (98)

BEPHY I'D buy the big box, but when I was little my dog choked on a piece of chocolate. Hope you understand. I love you. JMH. (98)

BOBBY G.—You're the only one for me. Maynard and Mandy send their love, too. Happy Valentine's Day to you! (98)

BEING YOUR partner was the best thing that ever happened to me and dating you made it number two, but now we're engaged and I can truly see, the best will be marrying you! I'm ready to party with you at your formal, so get ready for a great time! Happy V-Day, Sandi! I love you! Love, Raegan. (98)

LYLE, YOU'RE the greatest! I love you. Happy Valentine's Day! Rachelle. (98)

KD ALICE: What seems like years has now passed, and still our love is growing fast, although the future is not told, we'll have each other to always hold. Denny. (98)

LINDA, YOU'RE the best Valentine ever! Have a great day! Love, Bob. (98)

DREW-PUP—You sure raked in the brownie points last weekend with my dad, Kathy, and Joel! Sure footed them! Thanks and Happy Valentine's Day. Lease. (98)

SAE BRIAN Desch: Happy Valentine's Day to the best daddy in the whole world! Love, your daughter. (98)

LORI W—How about you treating me to dinner and a movie tonight? You can buy (again)! You are very special to me as you will always be. Happy Valentine's Day! I love you. Monte. (98)

JIMBO HENSON—It's me, eyebrow woman! I want you to know you're the best Valentine I've ever had. It's the absolute truth! Happy Valentine's Day! And just so everyone knows I Love You! XXXO Carrie. (98)

CRISTI AND Cherie—Happy Valentine's Day. I love you, Chris. Lance. (98)

LLM—YOU mean so much to me, without you I don't know what I'd do. You're my inspiration, so I give this message to you—I love you, have a great Valentine's Day. MJG. (98)

TAD, THIS past year has been really special! Wanna shoot for two? Happy Anniversary! Love you always—Lisa. (98)

B AND B Pres.—You could have a date everyday and right on time. You could be a Valentine why not mine? (98)

PAT DESCH, Jeff Stokes—Have a Happy Valentine's Day. Thanks for being such a terrific family. Love ya, Tracy. (98)

GLEN—WE'VE shared so much and I just wanted to say thanks for everything! Happy Valentine's Day! Love always, Jayne. (98)

KYLE 6th Floor Hay—I've watched and waited to meet you—It's true, and I just wanted to say, Happy Valentine's Day to you! CK 3119. (98)

CHRIS, The last year and ten months has been great. I'd love to hang around you for a hundred years or so. Love ya, Steph. (98)

SIG EP Brian—Roses are red, and so is your hair. Happy 21st Birthday! (Aggieville beware!) —Much love from your sis. (98)

JEFF, YOU are the best Valentine anybody could have! I hope you enjoyed your surprise. I love you. M.B. (98)

GRACE ANN—Roses are red, violets are blue, for this Valentine's Day, I give myself to you. Love always, Scott. (98)

TRI SIG Michelle: You're special to me, I'll always be thankful—but this one's for you, because I love you, too! Patty. (98)

LAMBDA CHI's Hawkeye and Ket. Roses are red, don't make a fuss, you sure are lucky, cause you have us. Mikey and Muffinette. (98)

PIKE'S MR Wonderful—Check your mail and then you'll see, just how crazy Valentines can be. Lots of love, D. (98)

TEDDYBEAR—ROSES are red, violets are blue, A Valentine romance, tonight I'll share with you. Love, Miss L. (98)

MISS THE Dish—I love you bunches and gobs, Dan the Man. (98)

FA ABE—Hope your Valentine's Day is as special to you as you are to me. I Love You, "Yo' Sis", Lisa. (98)

Q—I Love You bigger than the Redwood Forest! Have a happy Valentine's Day. Love, B. (98)

STEPHANIE ANN—Roses are red, violets are blue. Even God couldn't have created a love more true. I Love You—Cliff. (98)

MOUSSE—THANK you for sharing your love with me. You touch my soul with happiness and warmth. I love you very much. Happy Valentine's Day! Mmmmmwha! Three-Fourths. (98)

PHYL—YOU have made me one happy tater. Keep cookin' with butter. Benj. (98)

DADDY SHROPSHIRE: Happy Valentine's Day Mommy said your PS. is great! Can't wait to meet you in August! Love, Me and Mommy. (98)

DELBERT—I never knew bowling and Christmas shows on the VCR could be so fun. Thanks. Love, One-Half Ripe Cherry Berry. (98)

RUSS, RICH, Robbie, and Joe. Good friends and fun times, want to be on Valentines? We heard you did. Love Katie and Becky. (98)

SPIKE, I couldn't ask for anybody better. You're the best! I love you bunches. Forever yours, Happy Valentine's Day. Love, Pumpkin. (98)

JAMES—PSALMS 24:3,5 Job 17:9 and Philippians 1:9-11. Love, Sally. (98)

D.W.—Happy Valentine's Day Tonight I'm yours! Love, C.B. (98)

"SPONGE"—"BIFF," and "Hands"—Congratulations and good luck. We'll pick you up Sunday night and help you celebrate. Happy Valentine's Day. Love, Your Moms. (98)

SKINNY ROSES are red. Violets are blue. Since we've been hangin', My life's been a zoo! Love You, Madrine. (98)

SNU U. Just wanted you to know that you're being thought of—Happy Valentine's Day. Love. Cash. (98)

FUJI BJ—Happy Valentine's Day! I promise you my love for today and tomorrow knowing that tomorrow I'll love you even more than I do today. Love Always, Teddy. (98)

BILL—HAPPY Birthday! We've made it a year. I Love You. PS. Happy Valentine's Day! Eirene. (98)

MATTHEW BARNES, Roses are red. Violets are blue. "I go crazy", just thinkin' of you! I Love You—Rhonda. (98)

KAREN EYER—Remember the Holidome, Bwyar, Founder's Day, the Goonies, birthdays, la la la, there will be much more yet to come. Jeff. (98)

KMAN/KMKF Dave: Welcome back to Manhattan—it's great to have a brother here again. Good luck on the new job—you're doing awesome! Love, Cath. (98)

D.F.—HAPPY Valentine's Day! You're the best Valentine ever. Time spent with you is wonderful. Glad it's forever. Love, D.A. (98)

CAM HONEY—Being with you makes the good times great! I love you. You're the best! —Love, Wendy. (98)

PAT M.—Happy 3rd Valentine's Day, it can't get better than this! (But I'm sure it will!) Love always, Brad. (98)

DALE—YOGURT breaks and frisbee play, balloons and a pink teddybear; 1:30 sure does make my day, thanks for all we share! —Candy. (98)

KAPPA SIG Rob Russell—Roses are red, violets are blue; I'm in K.C. waiting for you! Happy Valentine's Day! I love you! Kristi. (98)

BRAG, THE wine was divine. Church?! You say? Maybe next time we'll do it your way. Hugs and kisses. VLSJ. (98)

FAT LITTLE Michael—As the saying goes, "It's better in the Bahamas!" Happy Valentine's Day. Jeg elsker deg! —Angie Baby. (98)

BUDDY HOT Dog—Let's have the happiest Valentine's Day ever! Remember I love you always! —Your not so secret admirer. (98)

KIRK—YOU are the one I'll love more and more, day after day, the one I'll love forever. Pati. (98)

AZD LISA—Gumby says "Have a happy birthday damn it!" But watch out for black pepper in between your teeth while wearing florat pants at Brother's! You can do it if you try. BFF—Stacey. (98)

MK—YOU'RE the only one I'd want to spend this day with. Have a terrific Valentine's Day. Forever yours, Dave. (98)

HOLLY "JYD": To a sweet little blonde. Happy Valentine's Day. Blaster. (98)

TAG, YOU are so special to me. It's that simple. Happy Valentine's Day. Babe! We're on our way! Get a date? —Bob. (98)

RON—HAPPY Valentine's Day! Get ready to have a blast tomorrow night! —Margaret. (98)

ELISE, I can't thank you enough for helping my Senate Campaign. I love you babe. Here's to us. Houie. (98)

MR. W. Happy Valentine's Day EW! We love you lots! Love, The S.O.'s. (98)

MICKEY AND Mr. Griswald: M-I-C: See you real soon! K-E-Y: Why? Because we need a vacation! —Minnie and The Mrs. (98)

TO MY children Sara and Eric—Enjoy your Valentine's Day, mommy loves you! (98)

GUMBY AND KUKU: Roses are red, violets are blue; Valentine's Day stinks, let's go for a brew! From your little Valentines—Love, Morris and Guppy. (98)

HEY DOUG—Are you really wearing a fitted sheet to the AZD-Chi Omega toga? By the way, how do you get a date? —Bob. (98)

AZD/CHI Omega: It was the night before the party and all thru their dwellings, they ironed their togas, excitement was swelling! Everyone knows this party's a must. Valley of the Gods—do it or bust! (98)

D.O.D.—Happy Valentine's Day. It's been an interesting two years. I love you. C.A.H. (98)

FUDGE AKA Mike Reno—Happy Valentine's Day! Thanks for being there and being a great friend. Your favorite fan, Queen of the Broken Hearts. (98)

JIM CRUTCHFIELD: I love you big, I love you small; Hon—I love you best of all! Spuds. (98)

ROB ROB—I love you a lot and you know it's not fake, because in 10 months I'll be Mrs. Drake. Happy Valentine's Day. PS. (98)

ONE YEAR down, three to go, 'til the day I get my MFA. All my love and thanks for helping me make it to 1989. Peck. (98)

BRAG, THE wine was divine. Church?! You say? Maybe next time we'll do it your way. Hugs and kisses. VLSJ. (98)

LAMBDA CHI Joe B.—You're getting to be the best brother a sister could have. Happy V-Day. Love, Jackie. (98)

BRUISER—THANKS for being my friend whenever I needed one. It's been a good 14 months. Happy Valentine's Day—Love, JB. (98)

M. LYNNETTE: Hey "Red"! Has it been a whole month already? All night movie marathons have taken their toll. Tonight we Conga till the natives come home. Love—Your "Sporty" Valentine. (98)

ME TARZAN, you Jane?! Happy Valentine's Day! Marti, even if you did better than me on that test. I love you more than you think. (98)

AXIL—THANK for making the last two years the best ever. May the next 50 bring us many more happy Valentines. Love, Cakes. (98)

BILL SCHMITZ—You're the smile that's on my face. Happy Valentine's Day—a "TDH" admirer. (98)

KARL—THE seconds seem like minutes, the minutes like hours, the hours like days and the days seem like weeks. The weeks are like months and the months seem a year, but on this Valentine's Day, I'm just glad that you're here! ILY! Jill. (98)

ANET, JEN and URS—#16 Happy Valentine's Day! This sucker definitely goes on the refrigerator. Love "Sexy". (98)

DEB—"MISS America" Benoit—Roses are green, violets are blue; sorry I'm so mean, I still love you! Love, your adorable sister. (98)

HUPI A.C. Jr.—You are the light of my life. We've had three weeks of great times, but tonight will out shadow them all. ILY, Dina Marie. (98)

EZ DUCK—Happy Valentine's Day to someone who is very special to me. It's going to be a great week-end because it'll be spent with you. Little Fry. (98)

SCHMEGALWANTSTIT—HOW's this for being weird: Red as a rose, yellow as a bulldozer, you're more snuggly than furry, blue Grover. I love ya, Grover. (98)

TO MY sweet lil' sheepherder Tom: There's more surprises coming your way! This one wishes you Happy Valentine's Day! Lux, Nanc. (98)

SERI STALEY—I love you. Happy Valentine's Day. Love always, Kenny. (98)

RAEGAN—VALENTINES and formal are here, let's have a blast! But I can't wait till you're my husband at last! I love you! Sandi. (98)

JILL, WE'VE been through alot, but still we came out on top. You're the most special person in my life. Happy Valentine's Day! I love you, Dave. (98)

RODNEY—THANKS for four super years. They've been great! I'm looking forward to Florida in March! I love you, Sidekick. (98)

FARMHOUSE—RON, Scott, Harold: Little brothers—who needs 'em? I do! Happy Valentine's Day! Someone who appreciates you. Love, Okay. (98)

SHERI LYNN—Thanks for the greatest year in my life. I love you and will always need you. Love, Bradley. (98)

RUTH, YOU have filled a void in my life, please fill it over, be my best friend, too. Love, Fred. (98)

TO THE crazed tickler at Edwards. You are my precious friend and I'm glad you're my Valentine. Love, I'm Exhausted. (98)

CHERI WILL—Words can only say so much, it's hard to express. The things you do to me, oh you're everything I could ever dream you would be. This must be love I'm feelin, this must be love. (98)

HAPPY VALENTINE'S Day, Pooper, when I see you it will be super. Love, Me. (98)

MONSIE—ALMOST three years this coming May, I love you. Happy Valentine's Day! 501. (98)

BOO BOO—These last three years were great! I look forward to our future together! Happy Valentine's Day! Love, Glenn. (98)

KP—THINGS are always so confused with us, but one thing is for sure you are very special to me. Happy Valentine's Day! KN. (98)

SIGMA NU Woody—Happy Valentine's Day! Don't break too many hearts. Love ya, Edwina. (98)

SIGMA NU—Jr. Thank you for the flower, you're a sweetie. Happy Valentine's Day! XO Lisa. (98)

</

(Continued from page 10)

KRIS EMME—Happy Valentine's Day in case you got today's paper! Love you, Tom. (98)

TO THE Person Who Doesn't Want Her Name in the Paper and Gets Upset Because I Love Her: Happy Valentine's Day! Love always. You Know Who. (98)

WANOBA—Happy Valentine's Day from your wonder twin. I miss you, sweetie! Love ya, L.S. (18)

YO JEFF—Roses are red, violets are blue, Happy Valentine's Day you gonnad—I think you're the greatest also! Love, you muchto, Mi. (98)

AD Pi Ambassador: Thanks for all of your support. You're the greatest. This weekend will be fun. Happy Valentine's Day. Steve. (98)

GROUCH: CONGRATULATIONS! I'm so proud of you. You'll have a great time. Happy Valentine's Day. Mean and Evil. (98)

LORI F—Hope this brings a smile to your face. Happy Valentine's Day. Love. (98)

AZD JILAN—Thanks for being the best mom a dot could have! Have a Happy Valentine's Day. Much love. AZD Jan. (98)

TOBIN—If you love something, then set it free. If it comes back to you, it was meant to be. If it doesn't, it never was. I'm thinking of you! Happy Valentine's Day. Love always. Jenni. (98)

LYNETTE—THANKS for being such a special friend. Hope your Valentine's Day is a very special one! Love, Kon. (98)

PHI TAU Michael, You're everything nice that a boy-friend could be, and you're loved a lot, too—especially by me! Happy Valentine's Day! Love always. Heather. (98)

JERRY—JUST 38 more days—I am glad that you are my Valentine. Love you, Cindy. (98)

TO JCF: Let's pop a couple 'C' beers and cruise at 39. You and that fuzzy navel are just too fine! Don't you quit! I'll Big hug! Your 1st Redhead. (98)

SPECIAL K: Frozen locks, holes in socks, knighted plants galore! Thanks for the time together, I hope for many more! (98)

CLT WITH over a year of dating, remember I still love you very much, and Happy Valentine's Day. Love, Scott. (98)

ANNE, YOU'RE the best thing that's happened to me for a long time. Stay the way you are. Love, JR. (98)

DEAR ORCHID: You are the sweetest loveliest and the most adorable girl I've ever known. I am looking forward to a romantic summer in the city of gardens. Love ya, Moonface. (98)

ALPHA CHI Omega Becky Y—To a small town girl from a large city guy, we'll always be together and our love will never die. P.S. Looking forward to this weekend. (98)

THETAS—PLEASE bear with us just one time, as we send this goofy rhyme but will you make our Friday night, by being Phi Tau Valentines? (98)

TAMI B—Last week it was your earnings in the waterbed. Now your underwear in the hot tub? —The Big M. (98)

DAVO—THANKS for the last few months. They've made me very happy. I'll always remember the Dogs?, the Casbah, and the woodchips. I love you! Leah. (98)

KRIS, RUMOR has it that the Q-roo is sweet on you. He wants to see you 15 weeks from tomorrow in K.C. Hope you can make it. Happy Valentine's Day. Love, Craig. (98)

GARY, HAPPY Valentine's Day to the one I love. This may be our first, but it's not the last. Love, Deb. (98)

'NEEN—HAPPY Valentine's Day. Thanks for being a special friend. Looking forward to a relaxing evening tonight. Love ya, Robert. (98)

DANA—YOU are that special someone. I just want to remind you that I love you and was wondering if you would be my Valentine? All my love, Julie. (98)

SHAWN—THANKS for so many years of patience, understanding, friendship and love. It wouldn't have been as nice without you! ILY, Kris. (98)

BEAN—SURPRISE! Hope you have a great Valentine's Day. Don't forget, I love you more than ever. Only yours, William. (98)

AD Pi Kim T—To my super dot! I hope next week will be special. Happy Valentine's Day! Love, Lynette. (98)

DENNY JE T'Aime! J'ai besoin de vous! J'aurais toujours l'air de toi! Embrasse-moi maintenant! Avec mon amour, Alice. (98)

JACKIE B—No sloppy sentiments, inside jokes or 'heres to... just Happy Valentine's Day. Love, S— —head (well, maybe one inside joke). (98)

To our Pi Phi
Sweathearts: Allison,
Natalie and Amy. We miss you Lots! Have a Happy Valentine's Day.
Love,
Your "Angel" Sisters!

TO MY Honey—Time together: 5 minutes. Consider: Quality over quantity. Let's make every "minute" count! Happy Valentine's Day! SNM. (98)

SWEET 309 Mariatt Roommate: Eres mi galletita de chocolate, Eres mi galletita de Cheeze Whiz, Manana, Tarde, y noche solo, solo pienso en ti. Te amo yte adoro. Your Roomie. (98)

DV DATES Aimee, Libby and Missy: The week is over, our tests are through, we're ready to party our "hearts" out with you. Love, Ron, Eric, Jeff. (98)

JEFF OAKLIEF—Les Legumes de l'espace mutant sans cles—je t'aime toujours. The Shrub. (98)

PENELOPE—I hope your heart will be vibrating in harmonious splendor with ours here in Salzgitter Lebenstadt on Valentine's Day. —Myna and Knecht. (98)

CLASSIFIED RATES
One day: 15 words or fewer, $2.25, 15 cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.25, 20 cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.00, 25 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.50, 30 cents per word over 15; Five consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.75, 35 cents per word over 15.

Classifieds are payable in advance unless client has an established account with Student Publications.

Deadline is noon the day before publication; noon FRIDAY FOR Monday's paper.

Student Publications will not be responsible for more than one wrong classified advertisement. It is the advertiser's responsibility to contact the paper if an error exists. No adjustment will be made if the error does not alter the value of the ad.

Items found ON CAMPUS can be advertised FREE for a period not exceeding three days. They can be placed at Kadzie 103 or by calling 532-6555.

Display Classified Rates
One day: $4.65 per inch; Three consecutive days: $4.25 per inch; Five consecutive days: $3.35 per inch; Ten consecutive days: $3.75 per inch. (Deadline is 4:30 p.m. two days before publication.)

Classified advertising is available only to those who do not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, sex or ancestry.

ANNOUNCEMENTS 01
MARY KAY Cosmetics—Color awareness, products, and free facial. Anna Prockish, 1001 Bluemont, 537-4246. (89tf)

CHARLIE PARTLOW (also known as Charlie P, Mr. Restaurant and Fast Charlie) will be displaying his libidinous talents in the art of mixology at the Cotton Club this Friday from 5 to 7 p.m. for TGIF Come watch Charlie blend, shake and fizz. (97-98)

DINNER THEATRE this weekend at Gregov's! The Music of Broadway—scenes and music from My Fair Lady, Camelot, Brigadoon, Gigi, etc. Call 776-197. (98)

ATTENTION 02
FLYING INTEREST you? Check into K-State Flying Club. Call Steve Dyer at 532-5600 or 537-0458. (8tf)

SPRING BREAK on the beach at South Padre Island, Daytona Beach, Fort Lauderdale, Fort Walton Beach or Mustang Island/Port Aransas from only $89; and Staying at Steamboat or Vail from only $86! Deluxe lodging, parties, goodie bags, more... Hurry, call Sunchase Tours for more information and reservations toll free 1-800-321-5911 or contact a local Sunchase Representative today! When your Spring Break counts... count on Sunchase. (80-109)

Final Reservational meeting for Daytona Tonight at Brother's 5-7 p.m. or call Melissa 776-8925

HEE'S ALTERATIONS—Suits, coats, jeans, zippers and all types of alterations. 1125 Laramie Plaza, Aggieville. Monday thru Friday, 10 a.m.-5:30 p.m.; Saturdays, 10 a.m.-4 p.m. 776-7959. (87tf)

SKI SPRING BREAK—Breckenridge, Keystone, and Copper Mountain. March 9, 10 and 11 only $220. Price includes transportation, lodging, ski rental and lift tickets. For information, call 537-2995. (83-108)

VERY NICE one bedroom apartment. Utilities paid, seven minute walk to campus, unfurnished. 539-5015 after 3 p.m. (96-100)

913 BLUEMONT—Brand new three bedroom building available May 15. Call 537-7980 or 537-7810. (96tf)

1207 KEARNEY or 1214 Vatter—Almost new three bedroom, laundry facilities. Available August 1. Call 537-2255 or 537-7810. (96tf)

1530 MCCAIN Lane, overlook to campus—Luxury two bedroom, fireplace, modern appliances, laundry facilities. Available August 1. Call 537-7980 or 537-7810. (96tf)

NEAR KSU for summer and fall. Four-plex, one bedroom, furnished, laundry, air conditioning, reasonable. 776-7814, 539-3803. (96-105)

CLOSE TO campus—Excellent furnished three bedroom apartment available for fall. Also two bedroom apartment for summer and fall. 537-0152. (97-107)

SPACIOUS FURNISHED two bedroom in a six-plex one block east of campus, 1115 North 12th. Living room, dining room, patio deck, fully equipped kitchen with dishwasher. $150 each three persons, $125 each four persons. Phone 537-7087. (97-101)

AVAILABLE NOW—One, two, three bedroom apartments. Kids, pets, waterbeds negotiable. $200-$350. Joel 539-0909, or Dick 537-1109. (98-100)

TWO and one-bedroom apartments across campus and Aggieville. Available June 1st. Respectively $265-$285 and $190 monthly. 539-4318. (96-103)

FOR RENT—HOUSES 05
THREE BEDROOM home, 1523 Fairchild, available now. Call Barbara. 537-1329. (83-98)

SEVERAL THREE, four, and five bedroom houses for June occupancy. Clean and good condition guaranteed. $395 and up. 537-1269. (93tf)

FOUR BEDROOM house for rent. Available in June, one year lease. Call 539-7569 after 5 p.m. (96-100)

FOR SALE—AUTO 06
1969 VW Bug—Runs good, 25-30 mpg, only $700. Call 532-3443. (96-101)

NEW EXHAUST system—$995! Free with it. New battery, radial snow tires, and 1976 Dodge Royal Monaco! Call Andrew 532-3678. (96-100)

FOR SALE—MISC 07
OFFICE SUPPLIES—Hull's Business Machines, 715 North 12th, Aggieville, 539-1413. (55tf)

STUDENT NEEDS ride to campus from Tuttle Creek Blvd. area. Will pay gas. Please call 539-1936. (94-98)

BEACH PARTY at Brother's Thursday and Friday (5-7 p.m.). Come down and party and sign up for the party of your life, or call Melissa Snider (776-8925). (96-98)

TRIATHLON SEMINAR—Marilyn Avery will discuss training and competing Tuesday, February 18, 7 p.m. at the Pathfinder. No charge. (98-100)

FOR RENT—MISC 03
COSTUMES—FROM gorilla suits to Hawaiian leis. Makeup, wigs, periodical clothing, masks, grass skirts, all occasions available. Treasure Chest, Aggieville. (28tf)

SEE MARIE for all your costume needs. If I don't have it, I'll make it for you. Marie's Costumes, 17th and Humboldt. 539-5200. Parking in the rear. (90tf)

SPRING BREAK—Deluxe two-bedroom condo: pool, hot tub, sauna, close to Breckenridge, Copper, Keystone. $100/night. Call (303) 420-1713. (96-105)

FOR RENT—APTS 04
FOR AUGUST—Deluxe two bedroom furnished apartment, across the street from Ford Hall. 539-2482 after 4:00 p.m. (92-102)

THREE BEDROOM available now. Utilities paid. Call Barbara. 537-1329. (83-98)

ONE OR two bedroom—Reasonable, one block to campus, available now. Call Barbara. 537-1329. (83-98)

NEXT TO campus—Leasing for fall, across from Mariatt and Goodnow. Furnished two or one bedroom, central air, carpeting, fully equipped kitchen, balcony, laundry facility, off street parking. 539-2702, evenings. (88-98)

NEXT TO campus—Leasing for fall, across from Haymaker, overlooking campus. Two bedroom, fireplace, central air, carpeting, fully equipped kitchen, balcony, laundry facility, off street parking. 539-2702, evenings. (88-98)

BRAND NEW three bedroom. One and one-half baths, near campus. Available May, June or August. $450/month. Call 537-8800. (89tf)

PLAN FOR the summer and the 1986-87 school year. McCullough Development Inc. is now accepting applications for summer and fall leases. Call us, we manage over 300 university area apartments. 776-3804. (89tf)

AVAILABLE IMMEDIATELY—Furnished one bedroom apartment, one block from Ahearn. Call 776-9124. (91-108)

BRAND NEW deluxe two, three and four bedroom apartment complexes for fall. All close to campus, reasonably priced. Call 537-2919. (93-115)

NICE ONE, two, three and four bedroom apartments and houses. Also an elegant five bedroom house with three baths. Most near campus, available now, summer and fall. Good prices. Call 537-2919. (93-115)

AVAILABLE NOW! One bedroom duplex four blocks from campus. 537-2575 or 539-1894. (94-98)

PRAIRIE GLEN—A really nice place to live. Two bedroom unit available. 776-4786. (94-108)

FOR NEXT school year—One bedroom furnished, block west of campus. Call 539-5051 or see Dave # 4, 1024 Sunset. (94-98)

FOR NEXT school year, August—Two bedroom condo, one-half block west of campus, up to four people, $520. Call 776-4528 or see Dean #5, 1829 College His. (94-98)

EFFICIENCY APARTMENT, $185/month. Heat, gas, water included. Call 537-7794 evenings and weekends. (95-104)

CLOSE TO campus—Two bedroom furnished apartment, complex, laundry facilities, leasing for fall for two to four students. 537-0152. (95-107)

THREE BEDROOM in a near new nine-plex—One and a half baths, living room, dining room and fully equipped kitchen. Roomy and large closets. Limit four persons, $125 each or $450. Call 537-7087. (95-99)

VERY NICE one bedroom apartment. Utilities paid, seven minute walk to campus, unfurnished. 539-5015 after 3 p.m. (96-100)

913 BLUEMONT—Brand new three bedroom building available May 15. Call 537-7980 or 537-7810. (96tf)

1207 KEARNEY or 1214 Vatter—Almost new three bedroom, laundry facilities. Available August 1. Call 537-2255 or 537-7810. (96tf)

1530 MCCAIN Lane, overlook to campus—Luxury two bedroom, fireplace, modern appliances, laundry facilities. Available August 1. Call 537-7980 or 537-7810. (96tf)

NEAR KSU for summer and fall. Four-plex, one bedroom, furnished, laundry, air conditioning, reasonable. 776-7814, 539-3803. (96-105)

CLOSE TO campus—Excellent furnished three bedroom apartment available for fall. Also two bedroom apartment for summer and fall. 537-0152. (97-107)

SPACIOUS FURNISHED two bedroom in a six-plex one block east of campus, 1115 North 12th. Living room, dining room, patio deck, fully equipped kitchen with dishwasher. $150 each three persons, $125 each four persons. Phone 537-7087. (97-101)

AVAILABLE NOW—One, two, three bedroom apartments. Kids, pets, waterbeds negotiable. $200-$350. Joel 539-0909, or Dick 537-1109. (98-100)

TWO and one-bedroom apartments across campus and Aggieville. Available June 1st. Respectively $265-$285 and $190 monthly. 539-4318. (96-103)

FOR RENT—HOUSES 05
THREE BEDROOM home, 1523 Fairchild, available now. Call Barbara. 537-1329. (83-98)

SEVERAL THREE, four, and five bedroom houses for June occupancy. Clean and good condition guaranteed. $395 and up. 537-1269. (93tf)

FOUR BEDROOM house for rent. Available in June, one year lease. Call 539-7569 after 5 p.m. (96-100)

FOR SALE—AUTO 06
1969 VW Bug—Runs good, 25-30 mpg, only $700. Call 532-3443. (96-101)

NEW EXHAUST system—$995! Free with it. New battery, radial snow tires, and 1976 Dodge Royal Monaco! Call Andrew 532-3678. (96-100)

FOR SALE—MISC 07
OFFICE SUPPLIES—Hull's Business Machines, 715 North 12th, Aggieville, 539-1413. (55tf)

IBM PC Jr., color monitor, 126K parallel interface, includes writing assist program. $750. 539-1781. (92-98)

GOVERNMENT SURPLUS! Raincoats, overcoats, field jackets, camouflage clothing, sleeping bags, camping gear, much more! St. Marys Surplus Sales, 1-437-2734. (92-101)

Buy Designer Fragrances at fabulous savings, easily and conveniently! For free sample and prices write: House of Sharrone Box 329 Livingston, New Jersey 07039

FOUR PIECE set of Slingerland drums with Zildjian hi-hat and crash. 539-5812. (94-98)

TYPEWRITER RIBBONS: Royal, Brother, Silver Reed, Smith Corona. Hull Business Machines, 715 North 12th in Aggieville. 539-7931. (95-108)

CHOOK—I'm glad we're together for V-Day. I sure would have been lonely without you. I hope you're alive and much I love you and always will. Your little girl, KML. (98)

JEFF DOGMAN, Paul and Traps: You're all sweethearts. You're Little Sisters, Sneel, Jamie and Michelle. (98)

AD Pi Senior Dates—The senior party is here at last. Get ready for the "Blat From the Past." But before you find your love-finding dates, a series of clues before you awaits. Were full of surprises and even some tricks. The hunt begins at our house at six! (98)

POOPER CONGRATS! You've almost made it. Hang in there and be a happy camper. I hope you know by now, you'll always be my Valentine! See ya soon. Happy Valentine's Day! Love, Pooper. (98)

CAROLYN AND Cam Bear—Have a sweet day—from your old 6th floor bud—M.K. (98)

CONSERVATIVE ATHEIST boy would like to meet nice conservative girl. Call 539-5633 for details. (96-99)

SAE KENT Have you found a date yet? I ask her for you. Ph Aweesome. (98)

DAVEY—YOU'RE my forever Sweetheart! All my love—M.K. (98)

BAIJCH BROTHERS—You're all three terrific people—and everyone should know that. From someone who already knows—M.K. (98)

AD Pi Shannon—Wishing a real sweetheart daughter a wonderful Valentine's Day! Love, Polly. (98)

PRETTY LADY—Would like a bit of your heart more than a bite of your neck. (98)

CHI O's: Toga party '86 has arrived! Get excited! —Love, the Alpha Xi's. (98)

BUD HOUSE—You guys are the greatest. Have a Happy and fun Valentine's Day. Love, Jen. (98)

ALUMNI KEVIN—As a famous couple we'll go to parties two nights in a row, but something, your kind is lacking. 'Cause there'll be no rock in your boot when we're dancing! Happy Valentine's Day! Love, Polly. (98)

ROOMMATE WANTED 17
ROOMMATE WANTED to share house—Own room, close to campus, negotiable rent, full utilities. 539-4697. (96-100)

TWO ROOMMATES looking for third (female, non-smoking) to share very nice three bedroom apartment one and one-half blocks from campus. June 1 lease. $155 plus utilities. 537-957. (97-98)

SERVICES 18
PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free pregnancy test. Confidential. Call 537-9180. 103 S. Fourth St. Suite 25. (11f)

MANHATTAN CAMERA repairs cameras and equipment. 228 Poyntz. 776-4242. (4tf)

WORD PROCESSING by computer, professional quality, letter-quality printer (not dot-matrix), disk storage. 776-6166. (13tf)

TYPING/EDITING, letter-quality word processor, professional resumes, cover letters, personalized form letters, disk storage. 539-5007. (76-113)

PROFESSIONALLY WRITTEN resumes, word processed cover letters, and typing. Resume Service, 1221 More Place. 537-7294. (72tf)

MRS. KIM—Professional dressmaker and tailor. Alterations. 27 years experience. No pattern necessary. 537-2393. (82-111)

STOP PAYING $28 hour for VW repairs! Let the Bug Doctor at J & L Auto Service repair yours and save $8 per hour. Only seven minutes each. Highway 24. Bugs, Rabbits, Ghias, type 3's included. 1494 2386 St. George. (85-106)

STUDENT SPECIALS—Perms $15. Cuts $5. Artistic Hair. 415 North 3rd St. 537-8169. (91-98)

GRAPHS and scientific drawings, suitable for publication and slides. Call Janet. 776-9383. (94-103)

EXPERIENCED TYPIST—Word-quality printer, computer, disc storage. $1/page. 532-5961/537-9205. Dornida. (95-103)

SITUATIONS WANTED 19
$10-$360 weekly/weekly mailings, no quotes. Sincerely interested, well self-addressed, envelope. Success, P.O. Box 4700, Woodstock, IL. 60096. (76-105)

WELCOMES 23
WELCOME STUDENTS! First Christian Church, 115 Courthouse Plaza, Church School 9:45 a.m. Worship 8:30 and 11:00 a.m. Ministers: Ben Duerfett, 539-8885. Sue Amyx. 776-0025. Transportation to church—776-8790 after 6:00 a.m. (98)

CHURCH OF THE Nazarene, 1000 Fremont. Sunday School, 9:45 a.m. Morning Worship, 10:50 a.m. Evening Service, 8:00 p.m. Prayer Service, Wednesday, 7:00 p.m. (98)

ST. LUKE'S Lutheran Church (Missouri Synod), Sunset and North Delaware welcomes students to services, 8:00 and 10:45 a.m. and Bible classes, 9:30 a.m. Fellowship, Sunday 5:00 p.m. (98)

TRINITY PRESBYTERIAN—Worship Service 10:45 a.m. Sunday School 9:30 a.m. For rides to church call Howard Phillips 537-4478 or the church office, 539-3921. (98)

WESTVIEW COMMUNITY Church, 3001 Fort Riley Blvd. invites you to worship with them Sunday at 10:30 a.m. for Morning Worship, and at 9:00 a.m. for the College Sunday School Class at the Ramada Inn-lower level. (98)

WELCOME STUDENTS to the Manhattan Menomate Fellowship. We meet at 9:30 a.m. for Sunday School and 10:45 a.m. for worship at the Evangelical Christian Ministries Building at 1021 Denison (the white building with the two red doors). (98)

WELCOME STUDENT—First Presbyterian Church, 801 Leavenworth offers you Worship Services 8:30 and 11:00 a.m. each Sunday, 9:30 a.m. Sunday School offers college class 5:30 p.m. each Tuesday. College Outreach Bible Study in the Union Rev. Dr. Philip S. Gittings, III. Senior Minister. (98)

WELCOME STUDENTS—Grace Baptist Church, 2901 Dickens, welcomes you to Sunday School 9:45 a.m. and Worship at 8:30 and 11:00 a.m. University Class meets at 9:45 a.m. Dr. Herb Moser and Dr. John Schupp, teachers. Evening Service, 6:00 p.m. Horace Breisford, Pastor. Ken Edger, Asst. Pastor. 537-8555. For transportation daytime call 776-0424. (98)

MASSAS at Catholic Student Center, 711 Denison. Sunday 9:30 and 11:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m. Denison evening at 5:00 p.m. Daily Mass at 4:30 p.m. Confessions daily before Mass and Saturday at 3:

Spotlight

FILMS (Friday through Sunday)

"American Dreamer" — Union Forum Hall; 7 and 9:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday
"The Hills Have Eyes" — Union Forum Hall; mid-night Friday and Saturday
"The Graduate" — Union Little Theatre; 2 p.m. Saturday; 2 and 7 p.m. Sunday

ART EXHIBITS

Painting and Prints by Eric Budd — K-State Union Art Gallery; 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily through Feb. 21
Victorian Valentines by Rosemary Postia — K-State Union Second Floor Showcase; during building hours through Feb. 21
"Sports and Divertissements" by Erik Satie with drawings by Charles Martin — Farrell Library Special Collections Department; 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily, 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. Tuesdays through March
"Centuries of Architecture in Spain" — McCain Auditorium Gallery; 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily through Feb. 28

PLAYS

"Dracula" — Manhattan Civic Theatre; 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday
"The American Dame" — Purple Masque Theatre, 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday

MUSIC

Boys with Toys — Mannequins; Friday and Saturday
Opening Night — "The Music of Broadway — An Evening With Lerner and Loewe;" Gregov's Dinner Theatre; 8 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays through March 15. Special performance at 6 p.m. Sunday in Gregov's Front Room.

Spotlight is a semiweekly list of arts and entertainment events in the Manhattan area. Entries for Spotlight may be sent to the Collegian arts and entertainment editor, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

Mystery surrounds holiday's origin

By SHELLY CHENOWETH
Staff Writer

While St. Valentine's Day means chocolate hearts, flowers and cards with sentimental verses for many people, most do not know how or why the celebration of love originated.

The origins of this day for lovers is clouded in mystery, and several events are said to have sparked the observance of the holiday.

The name St. Valentine's Day is said to have come from a Roman bishop who remained committed to the Christian faith during religious persecution by the Emperor Claudius. He was beheaded, and supposedly dubbed a saint on Feb. 14.

Another theory relates the day to the Roman festival Lupercalia, when the people honored Pan, the god of the shepherds, and Juno, the goddess of marriage.

In this celebration, young men drew the names of young women, and became a woman's protector for the next year. When Christianity came to Rome, the clergy objected to the drawing of women's names, so the men drew saints' names. They would then try to pattern their lives after saints' lives.

In Europe during the Middle Ages, it was believed birds began to mate on Feb. 14. Many works in English literature associate this day with lovers.

An explanation for the word valentine comes from the Norman word "galatin." The word means "lover of women," and was often spelled and pronounced as valentin.

The only valentine custom that remains today is sending greeting cards. Charles, Duke of Orleans, is thought to be the first author of a valentine card. He wrote his thoughts while imprisoned in The Tower of London in 1415.

Valentine cards were first manufactured in 1800. Since that time they have served people everywhere as tokens of affection.

Whatever the reasons for or origins of the day, St. Valentine's Day continues to be a time when sweethearts exchange their affection for each other.

Wheat board sanctions grain standards

By DARIN RUSSELL
Collegian Reporter

The U.S. Wheat Associates board of directors adopted goals for revision of the U.S. grain standards for wheat at its recent winter meeting in Reno, Nev.

"Complaints from importing countries about the cleanliness and uniformity of wheat they receive from the United States and increased competition from other wheat-exporting countries have prompted this action," said Adrian Polansky, U.S. Wheat Associates chairman from Belleville. "USWA plans a forceful effort in the coming months to get the Federal Grain Inspection Service to adopt changes that will encourage exports which more closely meet buyers' desires and expectations."

USWA is working with representatives of the grain industry, producers, government officials and others to determine what, if any, changes should be made in the U.S.

Charges of poor quality spur action standards. One major change proposed by the USWA board is the use of the term "dockage" to be discontinued and all material considered to be dockage in a sample be included in the determination of foreign material.

"The main problem in dealing with the term 'dockage' can be seen at the international trade level," said Harvey Kiser, associate professor of agricultural economics. "Foreign buyers may say that the term doesn't translate into their language, meaning that they don't understand the difference between dockage and foreign material."

"The difference between dockage and foreign material is the means by which it is determined," Kiser said. "Anything that the Carter dockage machine removes is considered dockage. Anything that is non-wheat material that remains in the wheat sample is considered foreign material.

"You'll tend to find that when you have other grains involved with wheat, such as a few kernels of corn or soybeans in the wheat, the Carter dockage machine will take out the corn," he said. "This would be considered dockage. It may not take out the soybean kernels, in which case the soybean kernels would then be identified as foreign material."

Dockage does not affect the grade of the wheat; foreign material does.

"Measuring dockage and foreign material together should improve the accuracy of reporting all non-wheat material and make it simpler for buyers to understand," Polansky said. "This would also give incentive for producers and handlers to remove dockage and this would encourage the shipment of cleaner grain."

The second proposal is the discontinuation of the use of statistical averaging to determine whether a cargo meets contract specifications. Instead, a subplot making up a cargo would have to meet the contract requirement for grade factors and for any additional factors as might be specified.

The last proposal dealt with the Federal Grain Inspection Service in reporting protein on a standard moisture basis.

Protein is now measured on an "as is" moisture basis which means no correction is made in the protein measurement based on the amount of moisture in the sample. USWA's proposal to report on a fixed moisture basis would reduce confusion based on the variabilities in moisture of different wheats, Polansky said.

Kiser said the FGIS would collect informal data from farmers, grain traders and importers and decide what formal proposals should be made.

HUNAM
Restaurant
1304 Westloop
(10% Off w/KSU ID) 537-0886 (Egg Roll & Fried Rice 99¢)

FREE DELIVERY
11 a.m.-1 a.m.
539-8888

HUNAM EXPRESS
1116 Moro
537-0886

BUY YOUR VALENTINE A BOUQUET
and
SUPPORT HUMAN RIGHTS

KSU Amnesty International will sell beautiful valentine bouquets at a Union table, main floor, TODAY 9:00 a.m. 5:00 p.m.
—come early, while supply lasts!—

Dairy Queen
Royal Treat Weekly Specials
Mon. through Fri.
THIS WEEK
Old-fashioned Cherry Sodas 99¢
12th and Moro in Aggieville Reg. $1.45 1015 N. 3rd Manhattan

TREAT YOUR SWEETHEART GOOD
Get a FREE appetizer-combo with each meal.
Includes: 1 Wonton, 1 Crab Ragoon, 1 chicken wing.
Good February 14th only with this coupon
HUNAM
Restaurant
FREE DELIVERY 11 a.m.-1 a.m. 539-8888 537-0886 1304 Westloop

IMPRESSIONS
Hair care center
Valentine's Day Special

$10 OFF perm Reg. $40

$5 OFF cut & style Reg. $15

$3 OFF haircut Reg. $10

Bring student ID
Expires Feb. 28
Georgia, Shea, Deanne.

OUR HOT NEW PHILLY IS STACKED WITH STEAK,

COMES WITH A FREE PEPSI,

AND TASTES BETTER WITH THIS COUPON.
A Philly is sizzling choice steak grilled in onions, mushrooms, green peppers and melted cheese all lovingly piled onto six inches of our famous Sub & Stuff bun. It's certain to cause cravings for a medium ice-cold Pepsi®. So bring in this coupon before February 14, 1986. When this offer stops sizzling.

Sub & Stuff
Sandwich Shop
One coupon per visit, please. 12th & Moro Aggieville

Don't Miss the PARTY
of
A Lifetime
Tonight is your Last Chance to sign-up to spend a week of Fun-in-the-Sun!
The party includes:
• Round trip motor coach transportation to beautiful Daytona Beach (WE DRIVE Packages Only). We use nothing but modern highway coaches.
• FREE refreshments available on the motor coach on the way down (to begin the party).
• Eight Florida days/seven endless nights at one of our exciting oceanfront hotels, located right on the Daytona Beach strip. Your hotel has a beautiful pool, sun deck, air conditioned rooms, color TV, and a nice long stretch of beach.
• A full schedule of FREE pool deck parties every day.
• A full list of pre-arranged discounts to save you money in Daytona Beach.
• Travel representatives to insure a smooth trip and a good time.
• Optional side excursions to Disney World, Epcot, deep sea fishing, party cruises, etc.
• All taxes and tips.

The party starts tonight (5 to 7 p.m.) at
Brother's
Don't Miss Out On All The Fun
These People Know How To Party

Curtis Baetz
Melissa Barbe
Krista Becker
Cindy Bergman
Lori Bergman
Renee Birnbaum
Richard Bishop
Ronald Bishop
Mike Blake
Katrina Blood
Sheri Braden
Chris Briggs
Cathie Carlson
Leslie Coleman
Jennifer Cooper
Rob Drake
Paula Doyle
Steve Doyle
Lance Engelsen
Johnny Escalera
Sara Farris
Chris Wright

Steve Fleming
Jay Flinn
Eric Ford
Brad Fulmer
Robyn Ford
Galen Gebler
Rob Goode
William Grimm
Andrea Hartline
John Hartliff
Joan Harbo
Joan Heffley
Mindy Hessman
Bill Jeorling
Mary Johnson
Mike Kaeth
Julie Keessling
Karen Kempton
Mary Kern
RonDee Klatske
Sandy Kremer
Mary Wright

James D. Larson
Pamela L. Larson
Mark A. Larson
Gregory Laudick
Thomas Lawrence
Ange Magers
Jimmy McDermid
Tim McDonald
Megan McKenzie
Marcelyn McNeil
Peggy McNett
Juan Moya
Kathy Mrvaunac
Mike Mrvaunac
Arlene Myhre
Amy Parcelow
Sheri Perich
Anette Reich
Ron Rogers
Kathy Ronnebaum
Patty Ronnebaum
Jeff Wynn

Kinra Rutter
Patrick Sanchez
Susan Sauer
Michelle Sene
Melissa Snider
Pattie Shopp
Julie Sinclair
Toni Turner
Curtis Tyler
Trent Vorse
David Wallace
Matt Wallerstedt
David White
Scott White
Randy Walther
JoAnn Whitehair
Suzy Whitehair
Tim Wilson
Michael Witt

Melissa knows how to party. Just give her a call about Daytona 776-8925 between 6 and 9 p.m.
LAST DAY TO SIGN UP LAST DAY TO CANCEL

Inside

Hopes of Equality

Rosa Parks spoke of her hopes for human equality at a banquet honoring Frederick Douglass Day Friday. See Page 3.

Weather

Mostly Cloudy

Mostly cloudy early today becoming mostly sunny by late afternoon, high around 50.

Sports

Record Defeat

Iowa State players Jeff Hornacek and Jeff Grayer set records in K-State's 84-64 loss Saturday. See Page 8.

Kansas State

Collegian

Monday
February 17, 1986

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 92, Number 99

Declining oil prices increase optimism for rising economy

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The U.S. economy, bolstered by falling oil prices, should enjoy significantly better growth this year than in 1985, many economists now believe.

The new optimism represents a sharp turn around from expectations little more than a month ago. At that time, many analysts felt the economy would muddle through the new year much as it did last year, with sluggish growth and a stagnant unemployment level.

However, plunging have altered that v month, oil prices on have fallen by one from $25 per barrel barrel.

Such a precipitous spell trouble for Mexico, which revenues to finance but it is likely to be most Americans.

The beneficial im prices will be felt economists believe.

U.S. output will sumers and busin more to spend on o their oil bills will t tion in this country

Wharton Econo forecasting firm w was forecasting t would grow 3 per now predicting gro when measured quarter of 1985 to t of 1986.

Surviv subject

By The Col

Henry Cisneros, tonio, Texas, and tional League of C "The Survival of as an All-Unive 10:30 a.m. Tue Auditorium.

Cisneros gained as the first M elected as mayor ty. His work incl development of S forts to bring tog and Anglo comm

Elected as may 1985, Cisneros w with over 93 per Antonio, America has a populatio than half Mexica

Pushing a high way to upgrade t tions of San Anto jor goal of Cisner

Sovi 34 p

By Th

WELLINGT Soviet cruis passengers an and sank in s and rescue of missing more

The cruise) approximately Australians at elderly.

Officials sa who fled the : on lifeboats ' vessels and b Cook Strait fr Port Gore.

Six people v a broken leg, "We have i lives being lo

Nelson
new

Entertainment Plus

A Viewer's Guide to Leisure Arts — A Weekly Feature of the Collegian

Friday, Feb. 14, 1986

"The American Dame"

A look at the saga of American womanhood

See Page 4

trical
of the ere is would tional hat is

p.m.
Along
music
tional itional

show
' and h and er.
ferent
i and aid.
amese
nfetti,
night.
at the s," he
s nice,

had a on, he nat of a

amese how to ut they

Page 10

ts

school shut-
Feb. 26 ina, and urg-wers owned lead daily

ted at the id police to
N. Page 10

et

should be bling to get
d the state
g revenues
no opinion.
e state has get for the Carlin and agreement
needed to

L. Page 10

Inside

Hopes of Equality

Rosa Parks spoke of her hopes for human equality at a banquet honoring Frederick Douglass Day Friday. See Page 3.

Weather

Mostly Cloudy

Mostly cloudy early today becoming mostly sunny by late afternoon, high around 50.

Sports

Record Defeat

Iowa State players Jeff Hornacek and Jeff Grayer set records in K-State's 84-64 loss Saturday. See Page 8.

Kansas State

Collegian

Monday
February 17, 1986

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 92, Number 99

Declining oil prices increase optimism for rising economy

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The U.S. economy, bolstered by falling oil prices, should enjoy significantly better growth this year than in 1985, many economists now believe.

The new optimism represents a sharp turn around from expectations little more than a month ago. At that time, many analysts felt the economy would muddle through the new year much as it did last year, with sluggish growth and unemployment level.

However, plunging have altered that v month, oil prices on have fallen by one from $25 per barrel t barrel.

Such a precipitous spell trouble for co Mexico, which d revenues to finance t but it is likely to be most Americans.

The beneficial imp prices will be felt economists believe.

U.S. output will r sumers and busine more to spend on of their oil bills will be tion in this country.

Wharton Econom forecasting firm wh would grow 3 perc now predicting grow when measured fi quarter of 1985 to th of 1986.

Surviv subjec

By The Coll

Henry Cisneros, tonio, Texas, and p tional League of C "The Survival of / as an All-Univer 10:30 a.m. Tues Auditorium.

Cisneros gained as the first M elected as mayor c ty. His work inclu development of Sa forts to bring toge and Anglo commu

Elected as maye 1985, Cisneros wor with over 93 perce Antonio, America' has a population than half Mexican Pushing a high- way to upgrade th tions of San Antoj for goal of Cisnero

Soviet 34 pa

By The

WELLINGTON Soviet cruise passengers and and sank in st and rescue off missing more t The cruise n approximately. Australians an elderly.

Officials said who fled the s on lifeboats w vessels and bry Cook Strait fro Port Gore.

Six people w a broken leg, c "We have a lives being los

2 Friday, February 14, 1986

Television Index

	Manhattan Cable
KSNT (NBC)	7
WIBW (CBS)	3
KLDH (ABC)	2
KSHB (IND)	8
KTWU (PBS)	11
WGN (IND)	10
WTBS (IND)	12

Premium cable:
HBO, Showtime, CINEMAX, ESPN
Additional cable channels not listed in guide: Manhattan cable channels 4 (NBC), 5 (CBS) and 9 (ABC) correspond to channels 7, 3 and 2, respectively.

Entertainment Plus

EDITOR

David Svoboda

ENTERTAINMENT EDITOR

Laurie Fairburn

PHOTO/GRAPHICS EDITOR

Chris Stewart

REVIEWERS

Barbara Baker

Gary Johnson

Randy Withrow

ADVERTISING MANAGER

Lori Wong

On Our Cover

Warnetta Jackson, freshman in theater, portrays one of the many characters in "The American Dame," a joint production of Ebony Theatre and the K-State Players. The play, which traces the attitudes of and toward women, will run tonight and Saturday night.

Cover photo by Andy Nelson

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 15, 1986

KSNT 7	WIBW 13	KLDH 49	KSHB 41	KTWU 11	WGN	WTBS	HBO	SHOW	MAX	ESPN
7:00 Snorks 8:00 Smurfs 9:00 Punky 10:00 Chipmunks 11:00 Kidsworld 12:00 J. Houston 1:00 College Basketball 2:00 Nebraska at Kansas 3:00 College Basketball 4:00 Kansas St. at Iowa St. 5:00 PGA Golf 6:00 Hee Haw 7:00 Gimme Break 8:00 Golden Girls 9:00 Hunter 10:00 News 11:00 Night Live 12:00 Puttin' On	8:00 Muppets 9:00 Hulk Hogan 10:00 Richie Rich 11:00 Pole Position 12:00 News 1:00 College Basketball 2:00 Basketball 3:00 DePaul 4:00 "Umbrellas Of 5:00 At The Movies 6:00 Country Music 7:00 Movie 8:00 Of Oz 9:00 Airwolf 10:00 News 11:00 Night Live 12:00 Puttin' On	8:00 Scooby's 9:00 Ewoks & 10:00 Scooby-Doo 11:00 Scooby-Doo 12:00 Scooby-Doo 1:00 PBA Bowling 2:00 PBA Bowling 3:00 Open 4:00 Sports 5:00 Washburn 6:00 Star Games 7:00 Redd Foxx 8:00 Fortune Dane 9:00 Love Boat 10:00 Movie 11:00 "The Towering 12:00 Millionaire	8:00 Popeye 9:00 Tom And Jerry 10:00 Start Of 11:00 Lifestyles 12:00 Lost In Space 1:00 Greatest 2:00 Incredible 3:00 Battlestar 4:00 Buck Rogers 5:00 Black Sheep 6:00 Solid Gold 7:00 Centennial 8:00 Movie 9:00 Local 10:00 News 11:00 "The Towering 12:00 Puttin' On	8:00 To Computers 9:00 Photo Vision 10:00 S. Previews 11:00 Woodwright 12:00 World Tom 1:00 Write Course 2:00 Finance 3:00 Mech. Univ. 4:00 Culture 5:00 Mech. Univ. 6:00 It's A Living 7:00 College 8:00 Austin City 9:00 Movie 10:00 Twilight Zone 11:00 Night Tracks 12:00 In Search Of...	8:00 Farm Report 9:00 Armstrong 10:00 Charlando 11:00 Movie 12:00 Movie 1:00 Movie 2:00 "It Ain't Hay" 3:00 Soul Train 4:00 Your Heritage 5:00 Fame 6:00 It's A Living 7:00 College 8:00 Illinois at 9:00 News 10:00 Night Tracks 11:00 Night Tracks 12:00 In Search Of...	8:00 Wrestling 9:00 Explorer 10:00 Movie 11:00 Movie 12:00 Movie 1:00 Movie 2:00 "Cheyenne" 3:00 "Autumn" 4:00 "The Goodbye" 5:00 "Girl" 6:00 "Son" 7:00 Centennial 8:00 "Season" 9:00 Guns 10:00 Night Tracks 11:00 Night Tracks 12:00 Night Tracks	8:00 "The Adventures Of 9:00 "Roseanna 10:00 "The 11:00 "Safe-cracker" 12:00 "Madwoman Of 1:00 "Red Dawn" 2:00 "The Empire" 3:00 "Strikes Back" 4:00 "Rocky" 5:00 "A Rare" 6:00 "Breakin' 7:00 "The Women" 8:00 "Heaven Help" 9:00 "Us" 10:00 "The French" 11:00 "The Terminator" 12:00 "Midnight Express"	8:00 Robin Hood 9:00 "The 10:00 "The 11:00 "The 12:00 "The 1:00 "The 2:00 "The 3:00 "The 4:00 "The 5:00 "The 6:00 "The 7:00 "The 8:00 "The 9:00 "The 10:00 "The 11:00 "The 12:00 "The	8:00 Movie 9:00 Movie 10:00 Movie 11:00 Movie 12:00 Movie 1:00 Movie 2:00 Movie 3:00 Movie 4:00 Movie 5:00 Movie 6:00 Movie 7:00 Movie 8:00 Movie 9:00 Movie 10:00 Movie 11:00 Movie 12:00 Movie	8:00 Skate 9:00 Women 10:00 Roller Derby 11:00 Wrestling 12:00 Tennis 1:00 Movies 2:00 Movies 3:00 Movies 4:00 Movies 5:00 Movies 6:00 Movies 7:00 Movies 8:00 Movies 9:00 Movies 10:00 Movies 11:00 Movies 12:00 Movies

SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 16, 1986

	KSNT 27	WIBW 13	KLDH 49	KSHB 41	KTWU 11	WGN	WTBS	HBO	SHOW	MAX	ESPN
7:00	J. Kennedy	Jerry Falwell	Jimmy Swaggart	Sunday Mass World Tom.		J. Kennedy R. Schuller	Bugs Bunny And Friends	Fraggle Rock Movie:	Movie: "Fatty Finn"	Movie: "Camelot"	SportsCenter Colleege
8:00	L. Lundstrom Robert	Discovery Truth	Kenneth Copeland	Wrestling	Sesame Street	Sunday Mass Church	Cont'd Andy Griffith	"Sahara"	Faerie Tale	"	Basketball Virginia at
9:00	Schuller Jimmy	Oral Roberts Sunday	It Is Written David Brinkley	Wild, Wild West	Mister Rogers Special	Cisco Kid Lone Ranger	Good News Movie:	Movie:	Theatre Movie:	"	Georgia Tech Fishin' Hole
10:00	Swaggart World Tom.	Morning	Transformers	Maverick	Sesame Street	Rawhide	"The Guns Of Navarone"	"O'Hara's Wife"	"Turk 182"	Movie: "The Karate Kid"	SportsCenter
11:00	Jack Hartman Larry Brown	Daytona 500 Live from	Wrestling	Star Trek	OWL / TV Secret City	Wild, Wild West	"	Not News Movie:	Honeymooners	"	Tennis
12:00	College Basketball	Daytona International	Movie: "The Towering Inferno"	Movie: "Tarzan's Secret Treasure"	Wash. Week Wall St. Wk.	Incredible Hulk	"	"Dreamscape"	Movie: "Never So Few"	Movie:	"
1:00	Notre Dame at Duke	Speedway	"	"	A. Smith Tony Brown	Vs. '69 Mets Pregame	Movie: "PT 109"	Movie:	"	"Rocky"	"
2:00	SportsWorld Bramble vs.	Daytona 500 Continues	"	Movie: "Ma And Pa Kettle At Walikiki"	Market Statehouse '86	Baseball '69 Cubs Vs.	"	"Heidi"	Movie: "Midnight Madness"	Movie:	Top Rank Boxing
3:00	Crawley PGA Golf	NBA Basketball	"	"	Firing Line	'69 Mets Movie:	"	Fraggle Rock	"	"Father Of The Bride"	Sammy Fuentes vs.
4:00	Hawaiian Open Final	Celtics at Lakers	Sports	Movie: "The Winning"	Val De La O Issues	"The Adventures Of Robin Hood" Fantasy Island	Movie: "A Touch Of Class"	Movie: "Turk 182"	Faerie Tale Theatre	Rod Stewart In Concert	Marvin Garriis Fly Fishing
5:00	round NBC News	CBS News News	Fame	Team	Kansas Ecology	"	"	"	Movie: "The Flamingo"	Movie: "Man In The Wilderness"	Salt Water SportsCenter
6:00	P. Brewster Silver Spoons	60 Minutes	Disney Sunday Movie	In Search Of... Tales	Wild America Of Nature	Movie:	Wrestling	Movie: "That's Dancing!"	Kid	"	Fishin' Hole
7:00	Amaz. Stories A Hitchcock	Murder, She Wrote	"	Bogart	Nature	"A Gunlight"	National Geographic	"	Movie: "Turk 182"	Movie: "Rocky"	Outdoor Life NHL Hockey
8:00	Movie: "Last Days Of	Movie: "Thompson's	Movie: "Mr. Mom"	Movie: "Key Largo"	Masterpiece Theatre	Odd Couple	Explorer	Movie: "The Evil That Lives"	Lifestyles	"	Boston Bruins at
9:00	Frank And Jesse James"	Last Run"	"	"	Great Performances	News	Sports Page Jerry Falwell	Men Do" Not News	Brothers Bizarre	Movie: "Swann In Love"	Minnesota North Stars
10:00	News Tales	News High Q	It's A Living Taxi	News Movie:	"Best Of Broadway"	Tales Lou Grant	J. Ankerberg	Movie: "The Fury"	Honeymooners Movie:	"	SportsCenter
11:00	Sports Community	Lifestyles	Photography Fame	"His Girl Friday"	Perspective On Greatness	Fame	Jimmy Swaggart	"Midnight Madness"	Movie: "Neighbors"	Movie:	Tennis
12:00	Gene Scott	"	Ind. News	It's A Living	"	Star Games	World Tom. Larry Jones	"Into the Night"	Movie	Movie	"

Featuring the finest comedians from across the country

$2.00
tickets

BILLY JAYE from San Francisco and BRIAN BURGESS

Show starts
at 9 p.m.

Check out the Home Cinema Video Advantage

• Sunday
3 movies for $5

- Monday—Wednesday
99c Videos
- Thursday-Saturday
$2 for first movie
$1.45 for second movie
- No limit on movies
- No membership fees

Located behind Alco in the Village Plaza Shopping Center

trical
of the ere is would tional hat is

p.m.
Along
music
tional

itional
show
, and
h and ier.
ferent
i and aid.

amese infetti,
night,
at the s," he nice,

had a on, he at of a

amese low to at they age 10

ool shut-
eb. 26 in-
, and urgers owned ead daily

ed at the d police to i, Page 10

et

should be ling to get
l the state revenues to opinion.
state has et for the arlin and greement
needed to

Page 10

Inside

Hopes of Equality

Rosa Parks spoke of her hopes for human equality at a banquet honoring Frederick Douglass Day Friday. See Page 3.

Weather

Mostly Cloudy

Mostly cloudy early today becoming mostly sunny by late afternoon, high around 50.

Sports

Record Defeat

Iowa State players Jeff Hornacek and Jeff Grayer set records in K-State's 84-64 loss Saturday. See Page 8.

Kansas State

Collegian

Monday
February 17, 1986

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 92, Number 99

Declining oil prices increase optimism for rising economy

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The U.S. economy, bolstered by falling oil prices, should enjoy significantly better growth this year than in 1985, many economists now believe.

The new optimism represents a sharp turn around from expectations little more than a month ago. At that time, many analysts felt the economy would muddle through the new year much as it did last year, with sluggish growth and a stagnant unemployment level.

However, plunging have altered that v month, oil prices on have fallen by one from $25 per barrel t barrel.

Such a precipitous spell trouble for co Mexico, which d revenues to finance t but it is likely to be most Americans.

The beneficial imp prices will be felt economists believe.

U.S. output will r sumers and busin more to spend on of their oil bills will be tion in this country.

Wharton Econom forecasting firm wh was forecasting th would grow 3 perc now predicting grow when measured f quarter of 1985 to th of 1986.

Surviv
subjec

By The Coll

Henry Cisneros, tonio, Texas, and p tional League of C "The Survival of as an All-Univer 10:30 a.m. Tues Auditorium.

Cisneros gained as the first M elected as mayor ty. His work inclu development of Sa forts to bring toge and Anglo commu

Elected as maye 1985, Cisneros wot with over 93 perce Antonio, America's has a population than half Mexican Pushing a high-way to upgrade th tions of San Antor jor goal of Cisneros

Sovic
34 pa

By The

WELLINGTON Soviet cruise passengers and sank in st and rescue offi missing more t The cruise n approximately Australians an elderly.

Officials said who fled the s on lifeboats w vessels and br Cook Strait fro Port Gore.

Six people w a broken leg, c "We have a lives being los

That is sharply higher than the weak 2.5 percent growth turned in during 1985 and is not far from the Reagan administration's optimistic prediction that the economy will grow at a robust 4 percent rate this year.

Economists at the brokerage firm of Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith are forecasting the economy will expand at a 3.5 percent rate this year, up from a prediction of 3.1 percent growth made just a month ago.

And the latest monthly survey of

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 17, 1986

KSNT 27	WIBW 13	KLDH 19	KSHB 41	KTWU 11	WGN	WTBS	HBO	SHOW	MAX	ESPN
7:00 Today	CBS Morning News	Good Morning America	Flintstones Joyce	Special Mister Rogers	Bozo	Jeannie Bewitched	Movie: "The Rocky Horror Picture Show"	Movie: "Rocky"	Movie: "Country"	Nation's Business
8:00 " "	" "	" "	Bugs Bunny Beaver	Sesame Street	Hillbillies	Hazel I Love Lucy	From Another Planet	Cont'd It's Showtime	" "	SportsCenter
9:00 Hour Magazine	Pyramid Card Sharks	700 Club	Family Ties Day At A Time	Sesame Street	Waltons	Movie: "King Of The Hill"	Movie: "The Search For Spock"	Movie: "Neptune's Daughter"	Movie: "Muppets Take Manhattan"	World Cup Skiing
10:00 Family Ties	Price Is Right	Bruce Forsyth New Love	Laverne & Shirley	Body Electric	Big Valley	Invisible Bikini	Comedy	Daughter	Manhattan	Ski Jumping SportsLook
11:00 Password Wheel Fortune	Young And The Restless	Ryan's Hope Loving	M.T. Moore Bewitched	Write Course To Computers	Little House On The Prairie	Perry Mason: America's	Movie: "The Main Event"	Movie: "Star Trek III: The Search For Spock"	Movie: "Rhinestone"	Aerobics Squash
12:00 News Days Of Our	Midday As The World	All My Children	Dick Van Dyke My 3 Sons	Sesame Street	Midday	Lawyer	"Event"	"The Search For Spock"	" "	NHL Hockey Boston
1:00 Lives Another World	Turns Capitol	One Life To Live	I Love Lucy Andy Griffith	Nature	What's Hot Carol Burnett	" "	Movie: "Mrs. Soffel"	Movie: "Nate And Hayes"	Movie: "Bringing Up Baby"	Bruins at Minnesota
2:00 Santa Barbara	Guiding Light	General Hospital	Gomer Pyle McLaughlin	Wildlife	Andy Griffith Scooby Doo	Bugs Bunny	" "	" "	" "	North Stars
3:00 Gilligan	Dallas	Of Power Scooby Doo	Scooby Doo GoBots	Cooking Aerobics	Heathcliff M.A.S.K.	Flintstones Brady Bunch	Best Of Farm Aid	Diamond Caper	"Start The Revolution"	World Of Sports
4:00 Happy Days Diff. Strokes	Donahue	He-Man G.I. Joe	Superfriends Jetsons	Mister Rogers 3-2-1 Contact	Transformers G.I. Joe	Beaver Rocky Road	Movie: "The Empire Strikes Back"	Tall Tales & Legends	Without Me" Man. Transfer	Horse Racing
5:00 3's Company NBC News	News CBS News	Benson ABC News	Diff. Strokes Good Times	Sesame Street	Good Times Jeffersons	Down To Earth Safe At Home	Strikes Back	Movie: "The Empire Strikes Back"	Movie: "Summer- time"	SportsLook Women
6:00 News Wheel Fortune	News Ent. Tonight	Buddies Newlows	Mork & Mindy Gimme Break	MacNeil / Lehrer	Barney Miller Bob Newhart	M.T. Moore Sanford	Fraggle Rock	"Strikes Back"	" "	SportsCenter Basketball
7:00 TV Bloopers And Mrs. King	Scarecrow And Mrs. King	Hardcastle	It's A Living Buddies	WdrWks.	Odd Couple College	NBA Basketball	Moments In Sports	Robin Hood	Movie: "The Muppets"	College Basketball
8:00 Movie: "Flashdance"	Kate & Allie Newhart	Movie: "Choices"	Movie: "Dead End"	American Playhouse	Basketball DePaul at	Bucks at 76ers	"Richard Pryor Live On The Sunset Strip"	Movie: "The Search For Spock"	Movie: "The Rocky Horror Picture Show"	Syracuse at Pittsburgh
9:00 " "	Cagney & Lacey	" "	" "	A Theatre Indian Artists	Creighton News	Animals	Sunset Strip" Buddy Hackett	The Search For Spock"	Movie: "The Rocky Horror Picture Show"	College Basketball
10:00 News Best Of	News Barney Miller	Benson Taxi	News Matt Houston	TV Classics Business Rpt.	Trapper John, M.D.	National Geographic	Movie: "The Empire Strikes Back"	Movie: "Rocky"	Executioner's Song"	Tulsa at Wichita State
11:00 Carson David	Night Heat	Nightline Kung Fu	Get Smart	Lone Star	M.D. Movie	Explorer	"The Empire Strikes Back"	" "	" "	SportsCenter Fishing
12:00 Letterman Gene Scott	"Attack On Fear"	Ind. News	Andy Griffith Three Stooges	"Scavenger Hunt"	"Covenant With Death"	" "	Movie: "Mischief"	"Tightrope"	" "	Salt Water Outdoor Life

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 18, 1986

KSNT 27	WIBW 13	KLDH 19	KSHB 41	KTWU 11	WGN	WTBS	HBO	SHOW	MAX	ESPN
7:00 Today	CBS Morning News	Good Morning America	Flintstones Joyce	Special Mister Rogers	Bozo	Jeannie Bewitched	Movie: "Ice Man"	Suzi's War	Movie Cont'd	Nation's Business
8:00 " "	" "	" "	Bugs Bunny Beaver	Sesame Street	Hillbillies	Hazel I Love Lucy	"The Brass Ring"	"Breakin'"	" "	Basketball College
9:00 Hour Magazine	Pyramid Card Sharks	700 Club	Family Ties Day At A Time	Sesame Street	Waltons	Movie: "The Moon Is Blue"	Movie: "Splash"	Movie: "Until They Sail"	Movie: "Wonder Man"	Basketball Syracuse at Pittsburgh
10:00 Family Ties	Price Is Right	Bruce Forsyth New Love	Laverne & Shirley	Body Electric	Big Valley	Blue	" "	" "	" "	Pittsburgh SportsLook
11:00 Password Wheel Fortune	Young And The Restless	Ryan's Hope Loving	M.T. Moore Bewitched	Mod. Maturity Of Culture	Little House On The Prairie	Perry Mason	Movie: "The Terry Fox Story"	Movie: "The Main Event"	Movies Movie: "Hambone And Hillie"	Aerobics Basketball
12:00 News Days Of Our	Midday As The World	All My Children	Dick Van Dyke My 3 Sons	Sesame Street	Midday	Movie: "The People Against O'Hara"	"The Adventures Of Buckaroo Banzai"	Movie: "Running Brave"	" "	College Basketball
1:00 Lives Another World	Turns Capitol	One Life To Live	I Love Lucy Andy Griffith	Masterpiece Theatre	What's Hot Carol Burnett	Against O'Hara"	"The Adventures Of Buckaroo Banzai"	Movie: "How Sweet It Is!"	" "	Syracuse at Pittsburgh
2:00 Santa Barbara	Guiding Light	General Hospital	Gomer Pyle McLaughlin	Mod. Maturity Living	Andy Griffith Scooby Doo	Bugs Bunny And Friends	Buckaroo Banzai	Movie: "The Brass Ring"	Movie: "How Sweet It Is!"	Fishin' Hole
3:00 Gilligan	Dallas	Of Power Scooby Doo	Scooby Doo GoBots	Cooking Aerobics	Heathcliff M.A.S.K.	Flintstones Brady Bunch	Movie: "Mysterious Stranger"	Movie: "The Brass Ring"	Movie: "Alice Adams"	SportsLook In The PGA
4:00 Happy Days Diff. Strokes	Donahue	He-Man G.I. Joe	Superfriends Jetsons	Mister Rogers 3-2-1 Contact	Transformers G.I. Joe	Beaver Hillbillies	Movie: "Warlords Of Atlantis"	Event	" "	SportsCenter NBA Today
5:00 3's Company NBC News	News CBS News	Benson ABC News	Diff. Strokes Good Times	Sesame Street	Good Times Jeffersons	Andy Griffith Carol Burnett	Movie: "The Mean Movie"	Movie: "The Mean Movie"	Movie: "Heaven Help Us"	SportsCenter In The PGA
6:00 News Wheel Fortune	News Ent. Tonight	Buddies Newlows	Mork & Mindy Gimme Break	MacNeil / Lehrer	Barney Miller Bob Newhart	M.T. Moore Sanford	Atlantis"	" "	" "	College Basketball
7:00 A-Team	Trapper John, M.D.	Who's Boss? Growing Pains	Return To Eden	Nova	Movie: "The Towering Inferno"	Movie: "Green Fire"	Movie: "The Aviator"	Sunday In The Park With George	Movie: "Terminator"	St. John's at Villanova
8:00 Acad. Of Country Music	College Basketball	Moonlighting	Movie: "To Have And Have Not"	Frontline	Inferno"	" "	" "	" "	" "	St. John's at Villanova
9:00 Remington Steele	Washburn at Emporia	Spenser: For Hire	Have Not"	Stalin: The Red Tzar	" "	Movie: "Period Of Adjustment"	Movie: "Splash"	Movie: " "	Movies "Lightning"	MISL Soccer All-Star
10:00 News Tonight	News Barney Miller	Benson Taxi	News Matt Houston	TV Classics Business Rpt.	News	Adjustment"	" "	"The Breakfast Swords Of Death"	" "	Game From Chicago
11:00 David	Remington Steele	Nightline Kung Fu	Get Smart	At The Edge Of The Union	WKRP Movie	Movie: "The Mean Movie"	Movie: "The Mean Movie"	Club Movie	Movie: "Heaven Help Us"	SportsCenter In The PGA
12:00 Letterman Gene Scott	"Chanel Solitaire"	Ind. News	Andy Griffith Three Stooges	"FM"	" "	"McConnell Story"	Season"	"Purple Hearts"	"Us"	Skiing

Friday, February 14, 1986

3

Music Review

The Bangles' latest release lacks energy

By GARY BORN
Collegian Reporter

For fans who enjoyed the Bangles' first album, "All Over the Place," their latest release may be hard to swallow.

"Different Light," lacks much of the energy and harmonization present on their debut album, but it does have some redeeming qualities which make it enjoyable.

Their first single and video, "Manic Monday," is fun and upbeat but much of the credit should go to the writer and composer, Prince, who is billed under his real name (Christopher) on the album. This song may do well for the Bangles but unfortunately there isn't an equivalent follow-up song on the album.

The Bangles use more original material on "Different Light." Considering the band was composed in 1981, it is hard to figure out why such a young band would try to rely on their own work. This all-female band should have stuck with the smooth harmonization, interesting lyrics and arrangements of their first album.

The fault does not lie in the voice of the lead singer, Susanna Hoffs, but more in the fact that the instrumental arrangements are elementary, predictable and become boring. Hoffs does a good job with the vocals, changing her style to depict the mood of the song.

A plus for the Bangles is that they have not been stereotyped to strictly perform one type of music. The songs on the album range from a slow-paced "September Gurls," to faster paced pieces such as "Manic Monday" and "In A Different Light." Some songs rely heavily on jazzy arrangements while others rely on the style of the singer.

The band shows promise and any true Bangles fan should find the album enjoyable. For those who wish to buy an album which has fair lyrics and an overall good sound, you may consider "Different Light" to be a good investment.

Nelson
new tical

of the ere is would tional hat is

p.m.
Along
music
tional

itional
show
, and
h and er.
ferent
1 and aid.
amese
mffet,
night.
at the s," he
s nice,

had a on, he nat of a

amese how to ut they

Page 10

ts

chool shut-
Feb. 26 ina, and urgers owned lead daily

ted at the id police to
N. Page 10

et

should be bling to get
d the state
g revenues
no opinion
e state has get for the Carlin and agreement
needed to

L. Page 10

HAPPY VALENTINE'S DAY
AGGIEVILLE
FLOWERS

12th & Laramie

537-9549

Entertaining Specials
from 702 N. 12th
Aggieville
Whirla Whip
and
By-the-Slice

539-4888

TANNING CENTER

$2.50 Sessions
after midnight

776-8060

519 N. 12th Aggieville

Inside

Hopes of Equality

Rosa Parks spoke of her hopes for human equality at a banquet honoring Frederick Douglass Day Friday. See Page 3.

Weather

Mostly Cloudy

Mostly cloudy early today becoming mostly sunny by late afternoon, high around 50.

Sports

Record Defeat

Iowa State players Jeff Hornacek and Jeff Grayer set records in K-State's 84-64 loss Saturday. See Page 8.

Kansas
State

Collegian

Monday
February 17, 1986

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 92, Number 99

Declining oil prices increase optimism for rising economy

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The U.S. economy, bolstered by falling oil prices, should enjoy significantly better growth this year than in 1985, many economists now believe.

The new optimism represents a sharp turn around from expectations little more than a month ago. At that time, many analysts felt the economy would muddle through the new year much as it did last year, with sluggish growth and a high unemployment level.

However, plunging oil prices have altered that view. In the month, oil prices on the New York market have fallen by one dollar from $25 per barrel to $24.

Such a precipitous drop in oil prices has spelled trouble for Mexico, which depends on oil revenues to finance its government, but it is likely to be a boon for most Americans.

The beneficial impact of falling oil prices will be felt by most Americans, economists believe.

U.S. output will rise, and consumers will have more money to spend on other goods. Their oil bills will be lower, too.

Wharton Economic Advisory Associates, a forecasting firm, was forecasting that the economy would grow 3 percent this year, now predicting growth of 3.5 percent when measured in the fourth quarter of 1985 to the third quarter of 1986.

Survival subject

By The Collegian

Henry Cisneros, 1985 mayor of San Antonio, Texas, and president of the National League of Cities, will speak at 10:30 a.m. Tuesday at the Auditorium.

Cisneros gained national fame as the first Mexican-American elected mayor of a major city. His work includes development of San Antonio and Anglo communities.

Elected as mayor in 1985, Cisneros won with over 93 percent of the vote. San Antonio has a population of over 1 million, more than half Mexican-American.

Pushing a high-tech way to upgrade the city, Cisneros has set a goal of making San Antonio a major goal of Cisneros.

Soviet 34 passengers

By The Collegian

WELLINGTON — A Soviet cruise ship carrying 34 passengers and crew sank in the South China Sea and rescue efforts are under way.

The cruise ship, the Novik, was carrying approximately 34 passengers and crew, mostly elderly.

Officials said the ship was on its way to Port Gore, New Zealand, when it ran aground on a reef.

Six people were injured, including a broken leg, and one person was killed. "We have at least 34 lives being lost," officials said.

That is sharply higher than the weak 2.5 percent growth turned in during 1985 and is not far from the Reagan administration's optimistic prediction that the economy will grow at a robust 4 percent rate this year.

Economists at the brokerage firm of Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith are forecasting the economy will expand at a 3.5 percent rate this year, up from a prediction of 3.1 percent growth made just a month ago.

4 Friday, February 14, 1986

★ The ★ American Dame

By LAURIE FAIRBURN
Entertainment Editor

The history of the American woman, how her role has changed over the years and what events contributed to those changes is the subject of "The American Dame," which opened Thursday night in the Purple Masque Theatre.

The Philip Lewis play, a joint production of Ebony Theatre and the K-State Players, will be performed at 8 tonight and Saturday.

"The American Dame" was written in 1963, during a time when there was a lot of experimentation in theater, said Barry Pearson, director of the play and graduate in theater.

This experimentation is reflected in the treatment of the subject in "The American Dame." Called a "play/out," the cast first introduces the subject of women, then acts out a collection of scenes.

The props, costumes and scenery are simple as the cast portrays characters who tell the story of how the status of women has changed.

"The play uses a series of short scenes all tied together with narration," Pearson said. "A lot of the scenes are made up from original quotes, letters, sermons and court records."

Lewis opens with Adam and Eve and the apple, and progresses through history with Beth DeGeer, acting as a shop supervisor, assures her fellow women workers that factory life is not without privacy.

characterizations of the Puritan lady, the Indian squaw, the educated woman, the frontier wife, the suffragette and the bloomer girl.

Examinations of these characters are sometimes wry and witty, sometimes serious, intended to make the audience think about the impact of history on how women have perceived themselves, and have been perceived by others.

"We've never thought about what actually happened to change the role of women," Pearson said.

The many characters in "The American Dame" are portrayed by a four-member cast: Charlie Fossell, freshman in journalism and mass communications; Beth DeGeer, sophomore in theater; Troy Huggins, freshman in general; and Warnetta Jackson, freshman in theater.

Tickets for "The American Dame" are $2 for the general public and $1 for senior citizens and students with an ID. Tickets may be purchased between noon and 5 p.m. today at the Nichols Hall Box Office, or at The Purple Masque Theatre Box Office starting at 6:30 p.m.

Narrator Charlie Fossell explains the historic

ABOVE: Warnetta Jackson reads a book to DeGeer as they explore the private, yet intriguing subject of chastity. "You can't be chaste if you are chased," she says. RIGHT: Jackson, portraying a granddaughter, listens as DeGeer, portraying her grandmother, talks about her life as a pioneer settling the new frontier.

new

ical
of the re is ould ional
at is

p.m.
Along
music
ional

ional
show
' and n and er.
erent
and ed.

these ffetti,
night.
at the
' he nice.

ad a n, he at of a

amese ow to they age 10

TS

pool shut-
eb. 26 in-
, and urgers owned

ad daily
ed at the 1 police to

, Page 10

et

should be ling to get the state revenues
o opinion.
state has et for the arlin and greement
needed to

, Page 10

Inside

Hopes of Equality

Rosa Parks spoke of her hopes for human equality at a banquet honoring Frederick Douglass Day Friday. See Page 3.

Weather

Mostly Cloudy

Mostly cloudy early today becoming mostly sunny by late afternoon, high around 50.

Sports

Record Defeat

Iowa State players Jeff Hornacek and Jeff Grayer set records in K-State's 84-64 loss Saturday. See Page 8.

Kansas State

Collegian

Monday
February 17, 1986

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 92, Number 99

Declining oil prices increase optimism for rising economy

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The U.S. economy, bolstered by falling oil prices, should enjoy significantly better growth this year than in 1985, many economists now believe.

The new optimism represents a sharp turn around from expectations little more than a month ago. At that time, many analysts felt the economy would muddle through the new year much as it did last year, with sluggish growth and a stagnant unemployment level.

However, plunging oil prices have altered that view. In the month, oil prices on the New York market have fallen by one dollar from $25 per barrel to $24.

Such a precipitous drop has spelled trouble for companies in Mexico, which depend on oil revenues to finance their operations, but it is likely to be a boon for most Americans.

The beneficial impact of falling oil prices will be felt by many economists believe.

U.S. output will rise more than last year, and more to spend on oil bills will be a boon for this country.

Wharton Economic Research Associates, a forecasting firm which was forecasting the economy would grow 3 percent this year, now predicting growth of 4 percent when measured for the quarter of 1985 to the same quarter of 1986.

That is sharply higher than the weak 2.5 percent growth turned in during 1985 and is not far from the Reagan administration's optimistic prediction that the economy will grow at a robust 4 percent rate this year.

Economists at the brokerage firm of Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith are forecasting the economy will expand at a 3.5 percent rate this year, up from a prediction of 3.1 percent growth made just a month ago.

And the latest monthly survey of leading economists made

Friday, February 14, 1986 5

Survival subject

By The Collegian

Henry Cisneros, mayor of San Antonio, Texas, and president of the National League of Cities, will speak at "The Survival of America as an All-University" at 10:30 a.m. Tuesday in the Auditorium.

Cisneros gained national fame as the first Mexican-American elected as mayor of a major city. His work includes the development of San Antonio and Anglo communities.

Elected as mayor in 1985, Cisneros won with over 93 percent of the vote. San Antonio, America's eighth largest city, has a population of 1.1 million, more than half Mexican-American. Pushing a high-tech way to upgrade the economy, Cisneros has set a major goal of Cisneros.

Dialogue between John Adams and Abigail Adams, played by Troy Huggins and Beth DeGeer, during a scene giving a perspective of Colonial women in "The American Dame."

Soviet 34 passengers

By The

WELLINGTON — A Soviet cruise ship carrying 34 passengers and crew sank in the South China Sea and rescue officials are missing more than 100 people.

The cruise ship, carrying approximately 100 passengers, including Australians and elderly people, was sighted on lifeboats when the ship sank in the South China Sea.

Six people were rescued, including a broken leg, and the ship was carrying lives being lost.

Jackson gives a monologue from the Shakespeare play "The Taming of the Shrew" in describing the manner in which women should act.

Fossell, preaching a historic Puritan sermon, emphasizes his message while describing what makes a woman virtuous.

Photos by Andy Nelson

Nelson
new

trical
of the ere is would tional nat is

p.m.
Along
music
tional ditional show

' and
h and
ier.
ferent
i and aid.
amese
nfetti,
night.
at the s," he nice,

had a on, he nat of a

amese how to ut they
Page 10

ts

chool shut-
Feb. 26 ina, and urgers owned lead daily

ted at the id police to
N. Page 10

et

should be bling to get
d the state
g revenues
no opinion.
e state has get for the Carlin and agreement
needed to

L. Page 10

Inside

Hopes of Equality

Rosa Parks spoke of her hopes for human equality at a banquet honoring Frederick Douglass Day Friday. See Page 3.

Weather

Mostly Cloudy

Mostly cloudy early today becoming mostly sunny by late afternoon, high around 50.

Sports

Record Defeat

Iowa State players Jeff Hornacek and Jeff Grayer set records in K-State's 84-64 loss Saturday. See Page 8.

Kansas State

Collegian

Monday
February 17, 1986

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 92, Number 99

Declining oil prices increase optimism for rising economy

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The U.S. economy, bolstered by falling oil prices, should enjoy significantly better growth this year than in 1985, many economists now believe.

The new optimism represents a sharp turn around from expectations little more than a month ago. At that time, many analysts felt the economy would muddle through the new year much as it did last year.

with sluggish growth and unemployment. However, plus have altered the month, oil price have fallen by from $25 per barrel.

Such a price spell trouble to Mexico, while revenues to find but it is likely most Americans.

The beneficial prices will be economists believe U.S. output will sumers and more to spend their oil bills with in this country. Wharton Econ forecasting firm was forecasting would grow 3.1 now predicting when measure quarter of 1985 of 1986.

Survival subject

By The C

Henry Cisneros, Texas, an tional League c "The Survival as an All-Uni 10:30 a.m. T Auditorium.

Cisneros gain as the first elected as may ty. His work in development of forts to bring t and Anglo com

Elected as m 1985, Cisneros with over 93 pei Antonio, Ameri has a populati than half Mexic

Pushing a hi way to upgrade tions of San An for goal of Cisn

Soviet 34 p

By T

WELLING Soviet crui passengers a and sank in and rescue c missing mor

The cruise approximate Australians e elderly. Officials s who fled the on lifeboats vessels and b Cook Strait f Port Gore.

Six people a broken leg. "We have lives being b

That is sharply higher than the weak 2.5 percent growth turned in during 1985 and is not far from the Reagan administration's optimistic prediction that the economy will grow at a robust 4 percent rate this year.

Economists at the brokerage firm of Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith are forecasting the economy will expand at a 3.5 percent rate this year, up from a prediction of 3.1 percent growth made just a month ago.

6 Friday, February 14, 1986

Film Review

'Brazil' truly bizarre; but needs focus

By GARY JOHNSON
Collegian Reviewer

Terry Gilliam's "Brazil" has the kind of history that gives filmmakers prematurely grey hair. After seeing the finished product, the studio execs thought the movie was too long and the ending too morose. They were set on taking the movie away from Gilliam and editing it themselves.

Then Gilliam (an ex-member of Monty Python) screened his movie before the Los Angeles film critics. Soon afterward the Los Angeles Film Critics Association awarded him with a Best Director award and the movie with a Best Picture award. So now the movie will finally be reaching the public — in Terry Gilliam's version.

The sets in "Brazil" are simply some of the most striking and original sets ever created. Production designer Norman Garwood and special effects supervisor George Gibbs have come up with a highly-technical world, not necessarily an advanced or better world, but a highly technical one (reminiscent of "1984"). It looks like '50s technology grafted onto space-age technology.

The movie is set "somewhere in the 20th century" — in a place where all buildings are skyscrapers. Ceilings and walls are full of wires and cables that spill out like intestines. And running across every room, even in the most posh restaurants, are ducts — ugly foot-wide, round ducts. They snake across living rooms, through kitchens, and over bathtubs.

To escape from this oppressive world, a computer operator, Sam Lowry (Jonathan Pryce) has bizarre sexual fantasies where he comes to the aid of a beautiful young nymph. After Sam briefly glimpses this same young woman in the flesh, he struggles to find her.

The best scenes in the film are provided by the supporting actors. Robert DeNiro steals every scene he's in. He plays Harry Tuttle, a heating engineer who illegally

See BRAZIL, Page 7

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 19, 1986

KSNT	WIBW	KLDH	KSHB	KTWU	WGN	WTBS	HBO	SHOW	MAX	ESPN
7:00 Today	CBS Morning News	Good Morning America	Flintstones Jayce	Special Mister Rogers	Bozo	Jeannie Bewitched	Movie: "The Goodbye Girl"	Movie: "Kiddo"	Movie: "Ada"	Nation's Business
8:00 " "	" "	" "	Bugs Bunny Beaver	Sesame Street	Hillbillies	Hazel I Love Lucy	" "	" "	" "	Auto Racing MISL Soccer
9:00 Hour Magazine	Pyramid Card Sharks	700 Club	Family Ties Day At A Time	Sesame Street	Waltons	East Of Eden	Movie: "Harry And Son"	Movie: "Gaslight"	Movie: "The Karate Kid"	All-Star Game from
10:00 Family Ties Scramble	Price Is Right	Bruce Forsyth New Love	Laverne & Shirley	Body Electric Algebra	Big Valley	" "	" "	Tears For Fears	" "	Chicago SportsLook
11:00 Password Wheel Fortune	Young And The Restless	Ryan's Hope Loving	M.T. Moore Bewitched	Write Course To Computers	Little House On The Prairie	Perry Mason	Movie: "That's"	Movie: "A Man's Castle"	Movie: " "	Aerobics Outdoor Life
12:00 News Days Of Our	Midday As The World	All My Children	Dick Van Dyke My 3 Sons	Sesame Street	Midday	Movie: "Whiffs"	" "	"Two Of A Kind"	" "	College Basketball
1:00 Lives Another World	Turns Capitol	One Life To Live	I Love Lucy Andy Griffith	Nova	What's Hot Carol Burnett	" "	Not News Movie: "The Flamingo"	Movie: "Father Of The	Movie: " "	St. John's at Villanova
2:00 Santa Barbara	Guiding Light	General Hospital	Gomer Pyle Beaver	Am. Interests Bridge Basics	Andy Griffith Scooby Doo	Bugs Bunny And Friends	"Skokie"	Kid	Bride Movie: "Rocky"	Top Rank Boxing
3:00 Gilligan	Dallas	Of Power Scooby Doo	Scooby Doo GoBots	Cooking Aerobics	Heathcliff M.A.S.K.	Flintstones Brady Bunch	Emma	Movie: "Kiddo"	" "	Sammy Fuentes vs.
4:00 Happy Days Diff. Strokes	Donahue	He-Man G.I. Joe	Superfriends Jetsons	Mister Rogers 3-2-1 Contact	Transformers G.I. Joe	Beaver Hillbillies	A.G. Graebner High School	" "	Movie: " "	Marvin Harris Horse Wk.
5:00 3's Company NBC News	News CBS News	Benson ABC News	Diff. Strokes Good Times	Sesame Street	Good Times Jeffersons	Andy Griffith Carol Burnett	Movie: "On The	Of Granny Weatherall	"The Karate Kid"	SportsLook SportsCenter
6:00 News Wheel Fortune	News Ent. Tonight	Buddies Newlyweds	Mork & Mindy Gimme Break	MacNeil / Lehrer	Barney Miller College	M.T. Moore Sanford	Waterfront	Honeymooners	" "	College Basketball
7:00 Highway To Heaven	Mary Foley Square	MacGyver	Lifestyles	Mark Russell DePaul at	Basketball DePaul at	Movie: "The Stunt Man"	Movie: "The New Kids"	Brothers Bizarre	Movie: "Rio Bravo"	Auburn at Georgia
8:00 Blackie's Magic	Crazy Like A Fox	Dynasty	Movie: "Casablanca"	Planet Earth	Indiana State Old Couple	" "	Kids' Not News	Movie: "The Flamingo"	" "	College Basketball
9:00 St. Elsewhere	Equalizer	Hotel	" "	Glacier Express	News	" "	Movie: "Flashpoint"	Kid	Movie: " "	Florida State at Louisville
10:00 News Tonight	News Barney Miller	Benson Taxi	News Matt Houston	TV Classics Business Rpt.	WKRP Trapper John	Movie: "Death Wish"	Movie: "The Gift"	Movie: "The Gift"	Movie: "Police Academy"	Roller Derby
11:00 David	Simon & Simon	Nightline Kung Fu	Get Smart	Old House Motorweek	M.D. Movie: " "	" "	"Songwriter"	" "	Movie: "Rocky"	SportsCenter Ski TV
12:00 Letterman Gene Scott	Movie: "Mrs. R"	Ind. News	Andy Griffith Three Stooges	"Nickelodeon"	"Calamity Jane"	"Evil That Men Do"	Movie: "Hopscotch"	" "	" "	Tennis Mag. NBA Today

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 20, 1986

KSNT	WIBW	KLDH	KSHB	KTWU	WGN	WTBS	HBO	SHOW	MAX	ESPN
7:00 Today	CBS Morning News	Good Morning America	Flintstones Jayce	Special Mister Rogers	Bozo	Jeannie Bewitched	Movie: "Sahara"	Movie: "Ups & Downs"	Movie: "The Westerner"	Nation's Business
8:00 " "	" "	" "	Bugs Bunny Beaver	Sesame Street	Hillbillies	Hazel I Love Lucy	" "	" "	" "	Horse Wk. NBA Today
9:00 Hour Magazine	Pyramid Card Sharks	700 Club	Family Ties Day At A Time	Sesame Street	Waltons	East Of Eden	Movie: "St. Helens"	Movie: "The Devil"	Movie: "A Rare"	Ski TV World Cup
10:00 Family Ties Scramble	Price Is Right	Bruce Forsyth New Love	Laverne & Shirley	Body Electric Ecology	Big Valley	" "	" "	Makes Three	Breed Movie: " "	Skiing SportsLook
11:00 Password Wheel Fortune	Young And The Restless	Ryan's Hope Loving	M.T. Moore Bewitched	Of The Dragon Of Culture	Little House On The Prairie	Perry Mason	Movie: "King Of Comedy"	Movie: "Rocky"	Movie: "Stage Door"	Aerobics College
12:00 News Days Of Our	Midday As The World	All My Children	Dick Van Dyke My 3 Sons	Sesame Street	Midday	Movie: "Rogue Cop"	" "	" "	Movie: "Tex"	Basketball Auburn at
1:00 Lives Another World	Turns Capitol	One Life To Live	I Love Lucy Andy Griffith	American Playhouse	What's Hot Carol Burnett	" "	Movie: "The Brother"	Movie: "Turk 182"	" "	Georgia Roller Derby
2:00 Santa Barbara	Guiding Light	General Hospital	Gomer Pyle Beaver	Decisions Oil Painting	Andy Griffith Scooby Doo	Bugs Bunny And Friends	From Another Planet	" "	Movie: "Love Me Or Leave Me"	Skiing Mag.
3:00 Gilligan	Dallas	Of Power Scooby Doo	Scooby Doo GoBots	Cooking Aerobics	Heathcliff M.A.S.K.	Flintstones Brady Bunch	Movie: "Heidi"	Misunderstood Monsters	Movie: "Westward"	SportsLook PGA Golf
4:00 Happy Days Diff. Strokes	Donahue	He-Man G.I. Joe	Superfriends Jetsons	Mister Rogers 3-2-1 Contact	Transformers G.I. Joe	Beaver Hillbillies	" "	Movie: "Ups & Downs"	Movie: "The Women"	round Tennis Mag.
5:00 3's Company NBC News	News CBS News	Benson ABC News	Diff. Strokes Good Times	Sesame Street	Good Times Jeffersons	Andy Griffith Carol Burnett	Movie: "Arabian Adventure"	Faerie Tale Theatre	Rod Stewart in Concert	SportsCenter SpeedWeek
6:00 News Wheel Fortune	News Ent. Tonight	Buddies Newlyweds	Mork & Mindy Gimme Break	MacNeil / Lehrer	Barney Miller Bob Newhart	M.T. Moore Sanford	Movie: "The Horse Soldiers"	Best Of Farm Aid	Movie: "Stage Door"	Fishin' Hole
7:00 Cosby Show Family Ties	Magnum, P.I.	Ripley's	Fantasy Island	Civilization And The Jews	College Basketball	Movie: "The Horse Soldiers"	Movie: "The Mean Season"	Movie: "Honeydew"	" "	College Basketball
8:00 Cheers Night Court	Simon & Simon	The Colbys	Movie: "The Big Sleep"	Mystery!	Indiana at Illinois	" "	" "	" "	" "	College Basketball
9:00 St. Elsewhere	Knots Landing	20 / 20	" "	A House S. Previews	News	Movie: " "	" "	Honeymooners	"Hardbodies"	Md. at UNC
10:00 News Tonight	News Barney Miller	Benson Taxi	Matt Houston	TV Classics Business Rpt.	WKRP Trapper John	"The Sugarland Express"	Buddy Hackett	Movie: "Turk 182"	Movie: "Breakfast Club"	D. Vitale SportsCenter
11:00 David	T.J. Hooker	Nightline Kung Fu	Get Smart	Mystery!	M.D. "Pat Garrett"	" "	Movie: "The Brother"	" "	Club Movie: " "	Skiing Mag. Cup Skiing
12:00 Letterman Gene Scott	Movie: "Night Moves"	Ind. News	Andy Griffith Three Stooges	" "	And Billy The Kid	Movie: "Banyon"	From Another Planet	Movie: "Easy Rider"	"Vanessa"	Fishin' Hole

Dark Horse Tavern
Tuesday
Classic Rock Night
February 26
AGGIES CLASSIC BEACH PARTY
"Reach the Beach with Us!"

DOWN IN FRONT!
VIDEO RENTALS - SALES
HOURS
10:00 - 9:00 MONDAY - SATURDAY
CLOSED SUNDAYS
2030 TUTTLECREEK BLVD 539-1533

33 1/3% OFF
Process & Print
with this coupon.
From 110, 126, 35mm or disc color print film.
Example: 24 exp. film reg. $9.94...
NOW $6.62!
Limit 1 roll per coupon.
Expires 2/27/86. Not valid with other offers.
2700 Anderson Ave.
(Near Westloop)
Open Mon. Sat. 8 a.m. to 9 p.m.
Sundays 12 p.m. to 6 p.m.
839-8619

Inside

Hopes of Equality

Rosa Parks spoke of her hopes for human equality at a banquet honoring Frederick Douglass Day Friday. See Page 3.

Weather

Mostly Cloudy

Mostly cloudy early today becoming mostly sunny by late afternoon, high around 50.

Sports

Record Defeat

Iowa State players Jeff Hornacek and Jeff Grayer set records in K-State's 84-64 loss Saturday. See Page 8.

Kansas State

Collegian

Monday
February 17, 1986

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 92, Number 99

Declining oil prices increase optimism for rising economy

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The U.S. economy, bolstered by falling oil prices, should enjoy significantly better growth this year than in 1985, many economists now believe.

The new optimism represents a sharp turn around from expectations little more than a month ago. At that time, many analysts felt the economy would muddle through the new year much as it did last year, with sluggish growth and a stagnant unemployment level.

However, plunging have altered that view. In the month, oil prices on have fallen by one from $25 per barrel to $20.

Such a precipitous spell trouble for Mexico, which d revenues to finance but it is likely to be most Americans.

The beneficial impact prices will be felt economists believe.

U.S. output will rise more to spend on their oil bills will be in this country.

Wharton Economic forecasting firm which was forecasting the would grow 3 percent now predicting growth when measured for quarter of 1985 to the of 1986.

Survivor subject

By The Collegian

Henry Cisneros, a native of San Antonio, Texas, and a member of the National League of Cities, was elected as the first Mexican American mayor of San Antonio on Tuesday.

Cisneros gained notoriety as the first Mexican American elected as mayor of San Antonio. His work included development of San Antonio to bring together Anglo and Mexican communities. Elected as mayor in 1985, Cisneros won with over 93 percent of the vote. San Antonio, America's fourth largest city, has a population of 1.1 million, more than half Mexican American. Pushing a high-tech way to upgrade the city, Cisneros has set the goal of making San Antonio a world-class city.

Sovie 34 pa

By The Associated Press

WELLINGTON, N.Z. — A Soviet cruise ship carrying 1,000 passengers and crew sank in stormy seas Saturday, with rescue officials missing more than 100 people. The cruise ship, the Novorossiysk, was carrying 40 Australians and 100 New Zealanders.

Officials said the ship was hit by a wave and sank in Cook Strait from Port Gore. Six people were a broken leg, officials said. "We have also lives being lost a

That is sharply higher than the weak 2.5 percent growth turned in during 1985 and is not far from the Reagan administration's optimistic prediction that the economy will grow at a robust 4 percent rate this year.

Economists at the brokerage firm of Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith are forecasting the economy will expand at a 3.5 percent rate this year, up from a prediction of 3.1 percent growth made just a month ago.

And the latest monthly survey of four dozen leading economists made

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 21, 1986

KSNT	WIBW	KLDH	KSHB	KTWU	WGN	WTBS	HBO	SHOW	MAX	ESPN
7:00 Today	CBS Morning News	Good Morning America	Flintstones Jayce	Special Mister Rogers	Bozo	Jeannie Bewitched	Movie: "Warlords Of Atlantis"	Movie: "To Be Or Not To Be"	Movie: "Start The Revolution Without Me"	Nation's Business
8:00 " "	" "	" "	Bugs Bunny Beaver	Sesame Street	Hillbillies	Hazel I Love Lucy	" "	" "	SpeedWeek Women	" "
9:00 Hour Magazine	Pyramid Card Sharks	700 Club	Family Ties Day At A Time	Sesame Street	Waltons	Movie: "The Last Days of Pompeii"	Movie: "Dreamscape"	Movie: "The Tartars"	Movie: "How Sweet It Is"	D Vitale Cup Skiing
10:00 Family Ties Scramble	Price Is Right	Bruce Forsyth New Love	Laverne & Shirley	Body Electric Photo Vision	Big Valley	Song	" "	Movie: "The Untouchables"	" "	In The PGA SportsLook
11:00 Password Wheel Fortune	Young And The Restless	Ryan's Hope Loving	M.T. Moore Bewitched	Mech. Univ.	Little House On The Prairie	Perry Mason	Movie: "Mrs. Soffel"	"Running Brave"	Movies: "Wonder Man"	Aerobics Ski TV
12:00 News Days Of Our Lives	Midday As The World Turns	All My Children	Dick Van Dyke My 3 Sons	Sesame Street	Midday	Movie: "Manhunter"	" "	Movie: "The Empire Strikes Back"	" "	Tennis
1:00 Santa Barbara	Guiding Light	General Hospital	Gomer Pyle Beaver	Aloha China Here's Health	Andy Griffith Scooby Doo	Bugs Bunny And Friends	Fox Story	" "	"The Madwoman Of Blackford"	" "
2:00 Gilligan	Dallas	Of Power Scooby Doo	Scooby Doo GoBots	Cooking Aerobics	Heathcliff M.A.S.K.	Flintstones Brady Bunch	Adventures Of Robin Hood	Movie: "Fatty Finn"	Challot	SportsLook PGA Golf
3:00 Happy Days Diff. Strokes	Donahue	He-Man G.I. Joe	Superfriends Jetsons	Mister Rogers 3-2-1 Contact	Transformers G.I. Joe	Beaver Hillbillies	Life On Earth	R.W.	Movie: "Camelot"	Los Angeles Open second
4:00 3's Company NBC News	News CBS News	Benson ABC News	Green Acres Good Times	Sesame Street	Good Times Jeffersons	Andy Griffith Carol Burnett	"The Adventures Of Buckaroo Banzai"	Joshua Movie: "The Brass Ring"	" "	round SportsCenter
5:00 News Wheel Fortune	News Ent. Tonight	Buddies Newlyweds	Mork & Mindy Gimme Break	MacNeil / Lehrer	Barney Miller Bob Newhart	M.T. Moore Sanford	" "	"The Empire Strikes Back"	Movie: "Blood Simple"	" "
6:00 Misfits Of Science	Twilight Zone	Webster Mr. Belvedere	Star Games	Wash. Week College	Movie: "Hercules"	NBA Basketball	Movie: "Choose Me"	Movie: "The Keep"	" "	" "
7:00 Knight Rider	Dallas	Diff. Strokes Mayor	Dempsey & Makepeace	Basketball Mo. West vs.	" "	Rockets at Mavericks	" "	It's Showtime	" "	" "
8:00 Miami Vice	Falcon Crest	Fall Guy	Lou Grant	Washburn Statehouse '86	News	Road	"Richard Pryor Live On The Sunset Strip"	Movie: "Rope"	Movie: "Tomboy"	Top Rank Boxing
9:00 News Tonight	News Barney Miller	Benson Movie: "Scanners"	News Movie: "Laserblast"	TV Classics Business Rpt.	WKRP Trapper John	Night Tracks: Power Play	Joe Piscopo Special	"The Empire Strikes Back"	Movie: "Melody In Love"	Jimmy McGirt vs. Joey Ferrell Track And Field
10:00 Wrestling	Star Search	" "	" "	Brown Sugar	M.D. Movie: "Paradise Alley"	Night Tracks	Movie: "Bells"	Movie	Movie	" "
11:00 Gene Scott	Credit Card Millionaire	" "	Three Stooges	" "	" "	" "	" "	" "	" "	" "
12:00	" "	" "	" "	" "	" "	" "	" "	" "	" "	" "

Friday, February 14, 1986 7

Brazil

Continued from Page 6

repairs electrical problems in homes.

Bob Hoskins plays the leader of a repair crew that takes exception to Tuttle's handiwork. Michael Palin has a bizarre role as a government-appointed torturer. Meanwhile Katherine Helmond plays Sam's mother, Ida Lowry. Ida is so in love with cosmetic surgery that her surgeon is her constant companion. He twists and pulls her wrinkled face as if it were Silly Putty.

Where "Brazil" comes up short is in providing a story line to compete with the visuals. The sets and special effects end up dwarfing all but DeNiro and Hoskins. Sam is supposed to be sort of bland, a common man, but he is so bland that he attracts little attention. His situation is interesting but rarely does it evoke any emotions except for horror and anxiety.

If "Brazil" had more than the one point to make — that society is being overwhelmed by technology — it would be quite a film, but it's still worth seeing for the sets and special effects alone.

COMMONWEALTH THEATERS

Wareham 410 POVITZ

Sally Field
James Garner
MURPHY'S ROMANCE R
DAILY 5-7:10-9:20
MAT. SAT. & SUN. 3

Campus HEART OF ASHVILLE

The Color Purple PG-13
DAILY 5 & 8
MAT. SAT. & SUN. 2

Varsity 1128 MONROE

A state of mind...
Brazil R
DAILY 5-7:15-9:30

WESTLOOP CINEMA 6 WEST LOOP SHOPPING CENTER

DOWN AND OUT IN BEVERLY HILLS R
2:30-4:45-7-9:15
A Comedy about life, hope, and getting even. PG-13
The BEST TIMES
1:45-3:45-5:45-7:45-9:45

My CHAUFFEUR R
1:45-3:45-5:45-7:45-9:45
LOUIS GOSSETT, JR.
IRON EAGLE PG-13
2:30-4:45-7-9:15

TWICE IN A LIFETIME
Gene Hackman
Ann-Margret R
2:45-5:7:15-9:30

THE GODS MUST BE CRAZY
2:45-5:7:15-9:30

DON'T GET LEFT OUT IN THE COLD THIS WINTER.

There's a great source of heat for your home this winter. It's cable TV and HBO. Cable TV will warm you up with 24-hour news, sports and music. And HBO's Red Hot Winter will keep you warm with blockbuster movies, world championship boxing and exclusive concerts. Of course, HBO shows it all non-stop, uncensored and with no commercial interruptions.

So call your cable operator and order cable TV and HBO today. Don't let your TV leave you cold.

Manhattan Cable TV Services, Inc.
610 Humboldt 776-9239

MANNEQUINS

Mon. $1.50 Wells 75¢ Draws	Tues. Free Movies $1.00 Drinks	Wed. $1.50 All Drinks
Thurs. Lonesome Houndogs $1.00 Drinks		Fri. & Sat. The Nelsons

Nelson

new

r trical

of the ere is would tional nat is

p.m.
Along
music
tional

tional show
and n and ferent
and id.
mese nffetti,
night.
at the he nice.

had a n, he at of a imese ow to they age 10

S

ool shut-
eb. 26 in-
and urgrs owned

ad daily sd at the l police to Page 10

et

should be ing to get the state revenues
o opinion.
state has t for the arlin and greement
needed to

Page 10

Inside

Hopes of Equality

Rosa Parks spoke of her hopes for human equality at a banquet honoring Frederick Douglass Day Friday. See Page 3.

Weather

Mostly Cloudy

Mostly cloudy early today becoming mostly sunny by late afternoon, high around 50.

Sports

Record Defeat

Iowa State players Jeff Hornacek and Jeff Grayer set records in K-State's 84-64 loss Saturday. See Page 8.

Kansas State

Collegian

Monday
February 17, 1986

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 92, Number 99

Declining oil prices increase optimism for rising economy

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The U.S. economy, bolstered by falling oil prices, should enjoy significantly better growth this year than in 1985, many economists now believe.

The new optimism represents a sharp turn around from a little more than a month ago, when many analysts predicted a sluggish growth and unemployment level.

However, plunging oil prices over the last month, oil prices on the New York market have fallen by one dollar and 25 cents per barrel.

Such a precipitous fall in oil prices, which would increase revenues to finance the federal budget, but it is likely to be a boon for most Americans.

The beneficial impact of the price drop will be felt by consumers and businesses more than by the government, which will benefit from the increase in oil bills.

Wharton Economic Consulting, a forecasting firm, was forecasting that the economy would grow 3 percent this year, but now predicts growth of 4 percent.

Wharton Economic Consulting, a forecasting firm, was forecasting that the economy would grow 3 percent this year, but now predicts growth of 4 percent.

Survival subject

By The Call

Henry Cisneros, 47, of San Antonio, Texas, and political League of Cities' "The Survival of the Fittest" as an All-Union 10:30 a.m. Tuesday Auditorium.

Cisneros gained as the first Mexican elected as mayor of a city. His work includes development of San Antonio to bring together Anglo and Mexican communities.

Elected as mayor in 1985, Cisneros won with over 93 percent of the vote. San Antonio, America's largest Hispanic population, has a population of 1.2 million.

Pushing a highway to upgrade the city's infrastructure, Cisneros has set a goal of making San Antonio a major goal of Cisneros.

Soviet cruise ship

By The

WELLINGTON — Soviet cruise ship passengers and crew were rescued after the ship sank in the Cook Strait near Port Gore.

The cruise ship, carrying approximately 100 passengers and crew, was rescued after it sank in the Cook Strait near Port Gore.

Officials said the ship was on its way to New Zealand when it sank. The ship was carrying approximately 100 passengers and crew.

Six people were injured, including a broken leg. "We have a lot of lives being lost," officials said.

That is sharply higher than the weak 2.5 percent growth turned in during 1985 and is not far from the Reagan administration's optimistic prediction that the economy will grow at a robust 4 percent rate this year.

Economists at the brokerage firm

Friday, February 14, 1986

ON VALENTINE'S DAY
Why fool around with chocolates,
hearts and flowers...

Carry your Sweetie
Across the Threshold
at

EdGee's

Restaurant & Ice Creamery

SAVE 50% on your sweetie's meal
Register for the Sweetheart Sundae
to be given away every hour
on Valentine's Day.

12th & Laramie, Aggieville, 537-3999
Open daily to midnight

Open 8:30 a.m.
Saturday and Sunday for breakfast

U.S. TECH

STEREO • VIDEO • COMPUTER

U.S. TECH is your one stop home electronics super store! With volume buying power and local ownership you get the prices and personal attention you deserve!

KNOWLEDGEABLE SALESPeople
COMPLETE SERVICE

GUARANTEED CAR INSTALLATION PROVEN PRODUCT LINES FEATURING

HOME AUDIO...
ACOUSTIC RESEARCH
AWA
FISHER
HARMAN KARDON
INFINITY
KENWOOD
TECHNICS
WHARFEDALE

CAR STEREO...
ALPHASONIC
AUDIOVOX
CLARION
CONCORD
HARMAN KARDON
INFINITY
PIONEER
SANYO

VIDEO/TELEVISION...
FISHER
HARMAN KARDON
JVC
KENWOOD
RCA

COMPUTER...
EPSON
FUJII
HAYES
JUKI
OSBORNE
ZENITH AND MANY OTHERS!

We plug you in!

537-3992

CANDLEWOOD SHOPPING CENTER
3244 KIMBALL AVENUE
MANHATTAN

WEST OF KSU FOOTBALL STADIUM ACROSS FROM CIOO PARK

Hours: 10-9 Mon-Fri
10-6 Sat
12-5 Sun

Litchfield Theatres

SETH CHILDS
CINEMAS

Nominated for 11
Academy Awards
OUT OF AFRICA
Sat/Sun Mat. 2:10
Daily 5:30, 8:45

Chuck Norris • Lee Marvin

THE DELTA FORCE
Daily 4:30, 7:00, 9:30
Sat./Sun. Mat. 2:00

Is He Involved in murder or is it...
F/X (Special Effects)
Daily 5:00, 7:20, 9:35
Sat./Sun. Mat. 2:45 (R)

Her dream was to coach high school football.

GOLDIE HAWN
WILDCATS

DAILY 4:45, 7:15, 9:40 • Sat./Sun. Mat. 2:30

YOUNG-BLOOD
Shows Daily
at 5:15, 7:30, 9:45

QUICKSILVER
WINNING IS A FEELING
YOU NEVER LOSE.

Daily
4:40,
7:10,
9:15
Sat./Sun.
Matinee
2:20
(PG)

HEATHCLIFF
The Movie
Shows Daily
at 5:15, 7:30, 9:45

Great Family Fun!
HEATHCLIFF
The Movie
Heathcliff's funniest and most exciting adventure.

Congratulations
on your engagement

Your wedding preparations are made easy at Highfield Cottage with the use of our Bridal Registry. We also have a fine selection of albums for your complete paper trousseau.

Highfield Cottage
accessories for the home

1205 Moro St.
In Aggieville

Mon.-Sat. 9:30-5:30
Thursday 9:30-8:30

Member National Bridal Service

Inside

Hopes of Equality

Rosa Parks spoke of her hopes for human equality at a banquet honoring Frederick Douglass Day Friday. See Page 3.

Weather

Mostly Cloudy

Mostly cloudy early today becoming mostly sunny by late afternoon, high around 50.

Sports

Record Defeat

Iowa State players Jeff Hornacek and Jeff Grayer set records in K-State's 84-64 loss Saturday. See Page 8.

Kansas
State

Collegian

Monday
February 17, 1986

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 92, Number 99

Declining oil prices increase optimism for rising economy

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The U.S. economy, bolstered by falling oil prices, should enjoy significantly better growth this year than in 1985, many economists now believe.

The new optimism represents a sharp turn around from expectations little more than a month ago. At that time, many analysts felt the economy would muddle through the new year much as it did last year, with sluggish growth and a stagnant unemployment level.

However, plunging world oil prices have altered that view. In the last month, oil prices on the spot market have fallen by one-third, dropping from $25 per barrel to around $17 per barrel.

Such a precipitous decline could spell trouble for countries such as Mexico, which depend on oil revenues to finance their heavy debt, but it is likely to be good news for most Americans.

The beneficial impact of falling oil prices will be felt in two ways, economists believe.

U.S. output will rise because consumers and businesses will have more to spend on other items, since their oil bills will be less, and inflation in this country will be lower.

Wharton Econometrics, a private forecasting firm which in December was forecasting that the economy would grow 3 percent this year, is now predicting growth of 3.7 percent, when measured from the fourth quarter of 1985 to the fourth quarter of 1986.

That is sharply higher than the weak 2.5 percent growth turned in during 1985 and is not far from the Reagan administration's optimistic prediction that the economy will grow at a robust 4 percent rate this year.

Economists at the brokerage firm of Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith are forecasting the economy will expand at a 3.5 percent rate this year, up from a prediction of 3.1 percent growth made just a month ago.

And the latest monthly survey of four dozen leading economists made by Blue Chip Economic Indicators, a Sedona, Ariz., newsletter, found that two-thirds of them were revising their forecasts upward.

These changes are not going unnoticed by the administration, which caught a lot of criticism last year for projecting 4 percent growth in 1986 when many private analysts were calling for growth below 3 percent.

Robert Ortner, chief forecaster at the Commerce Department, said the drop in oil prices was just one of a number of factors bolstering the outlook for growth.

"Inflation has come down, the dollar has come down and interest rates are down," he said. "These taken with the sharp drop in oil prices has almost insured that we will make 4 percent growth this year."

But not all analysts are that positive.

They see the trade deficit, which reached a record $149 billion last year, remaining at a high level through most of 1986.

Survival of U.S. cities subject of convocation

By The Collegian Staff

Henry Cisneros, mayor of San Antonio, Texas, and president of the National League of Cities, will present "The Survival of America's Cities" as an All-University Convocation 10:30 a.m. Tuesday in McCain Auditorium.

Cisneros gained national attention as the first Mexican-American elected as mayor of a major U.S. city. His work includes the economic development of San Antonio and efforts to bring together the Hispanic and Anglo communities of the city.

Elected as mayor in 1981, 1983 and 1985, Cisneros won the last election with over 93 percent of the vote. San Antonio, America's 10th largest city, has a population of 843,000, more than half Mexican-American.

Pushing a high-tech industry as a way to upgrade the economic conditions of San Antonio has been a major goal of Cisneros. He has delivered speeches nationwide on the survival strategies for the future of America's cities.

Walter Mondale interviewed Cisneros in 1984 as a potential running mate for the vice presidency.

Cisneros served as a White House Fellow assisting Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Elliot Richardson during Richard Nixon's presidency.

He was a member of the National Bipartisan Commission on Central America and wrote a dissenting note to the final report asking the United States to stop military aid to Nicaragua.

Cisneros teaches public administration at the University of Texas, San Antonio. He received a doctorate from George Washington University, Washington, a masters from Harvard University, Cambridge, Mass., and another from Texas A&M University, College Station.

Staff/Andy Nelson

Thanh Phi, right, freshman in electrical engineering, holds a hat to her side as she dances a traditional dance with Thanh Dao, freshman in chemical engineering, during the Vietnamese celebration of the Tet new year Saturday at the International Student Center.

Staff/Andy Nelson

Vu Nguyen looks up to his mother, Hoa Truong, Manhattan, with a smile as she holds up his brother, Charles Nguyen, 11 months, under a sign wishing a happy new year. Nearly 200 people attended the celebration.

'Tet' celebrations usher in new year

By The Collegian Staff

Traditional Vietnamese costumes as well as traditional food, music and a talent show brought nearly 200 people to the International Student Center Saturday evening to join in the Vietnamese celebration of the Tet new year.

Yugi Yamamoto, an American Field Service student from Yokohama, Japan, who is staying with an American family in Topeka, said he thought the celebration was fun and interesting.

"It was very fun. I had never seen a show like this before," said Yamamoto, a senior at Topeka High School. "The talent show was colorful and after that there was a band."

Although the actual start of the Tet new year was Feb. 9, the event was held on the first available weekend. Yamamoto said he had attended the University of Kansas celebration on Feb. 1 but had not gone to the celebration at Wichita State University.

The Tet new year is the Vietnamese celebration of the lunar calendar making a complete cycle and beginning again. It is held in conjunction with the Tibetan and Chinese new year celebrations of the Year of the Tiger.

Anh Luong, junior in electrical engineering and co-organizer of the event, said the celebration here is mostly for the children who would otherwise not see the traditional dances or hear the music that is part of their culture.

The party started at 6:30 p.m. and lasted until midnight. Along with traditional Vietnamese music and dancing, there were traditional costumes as well.

Yamamoto said the traditional costumes worn for the talent show were "beautiful and colorful," and a traditional Vietnamese fish and rice dish was served for dinner.

The celebration was different from that of the Japan and American celebrations, he said.

He said at the Vietnamese celebration there was no confetti, traditional song or kiss at midnight.

"In Japan we celebrate at the same time as in the States," he said. "The celebration was nice, very beautiful."

While Yamamoto said he had a good time at the celebration, he said the dancing was somewhat of a problem.

"The band played Vietnamese songs so I did not know how to dance to them," he said. "But they

See NEW YEAR, Page 10

Soviet cruise ship sinks; 34 passengers still missing

By The Associated Press

WELLINGTON, New Zealand — A Soviet cruise ship with about 700 passengers and crew aboard struck rocks and sank in stormy seas Sunday night, and rescue officials said 34 people were missing more than nine hours later.

The cruise manager said many of the approximately 400 passengers — mostly Australians and New Zealanders — were elderly.

Officials said Monday that 666 people who fled the sinking Mikhail Lermontov on lifeboats were taken aboard rescue vessels and brought to Wellington, across Cook Strait from where the liner sank off Port Gore.

Six people were hurt, including one with a broken leg, officials said.

"We have absolutely no record of any lives being lost and we have no concern about fatalities," Barry James, head of the Wellington Rescue Coordination Center, was quoted as saying in Monday's Dominion newspaper.

"We are having problems with the head count, and there are people who could have left the scene in lifeboats," he was quoted as saying.

A police spokesman said, "There's still a bit of confusion."

Survivors said in Wellington that passengers and crew began fleeing the 20,000-ton liner for lifeboats about 1½ hours after it began taking on water and hours before it sank just before 11 p.m. Sunday.

Efforts to rescue people in lifeboats were hampered by darkness, driving rain and 15 mph winds. A New Zealand air force reconnaissance plane, helicopter, police and navy patrol boats resumed the search for survivors Sunday.

Aquino calls for protests, boycotts

By The Associated Press

MANILA, Philippines — Corazon Aquino called Sunday for non-violent protests against newly re-elected President Ferdinand E. Marcos, who declared, "I am the president. They are not going to drive me out."

Marcos, president for 20 years, also announced Sunday the resignation of his most powerful military commander, Gen. Fabian C. Ver.

A day after the National Assembly declared Marcos winner of an election marked by charges of fraud and terrorism, more than half a million Filipinos joined his opponent in a downtown park rally — a much bigger rally than any that had gathered in the campaign leading to the Feb. 7 presidential election.

Aquino called for strikes and school shut-downs on the day after Marcos' Feb. 26 inauguration for a new six-year term, and urged a boycott of banks and newspapers owned by Marcos' "cronies."

Aquino, who had vowed to lead daily demonstrations if she was cheated at the polls, also called on the military and police to

See ELECTION, Page 10

Kansans oppose tax hike to cover budget

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA — A majority of Kansans responding to a poll conducted for the Topeka Capital-Journal say Gov. John Carlin and lawmakers should fund the state budget out of existing revenues, but if they must raise taxes then increasing the 3 percent sales tax ought to come first.

Sixty-two percent of 500 people surveyed in telephone interviews done the week of Feb. 3-10 said state government ought to get by on the money available. Another 32 percent said taxes should be raised to generate additional revenue, while 6 percent had no opinion.

Asked which taxes ought to be raised if a tax increase is unavoidable, 68 percent cited the sales tax, while 17 percent named the motor fuel tax, 10 percent said the income tax and 5 percent said the property tax.

However, 78 percent of those polled said the state should tap non-revenue sources, such as creating a state lottery and taxing legalized pari-mutuel wagering on horse and dog racing, before raising other taxes to get more money.

Another 15 percent said taxes should be raised rather than endorsing gambling to get more funding, while 3 percent said the state should do both — turn to gambling revenues and raise taxes. Four percent had no opinion.

Without additional revenue, the state has $55 million less to fund the budget for the fiscal year which begins July 1. Carlin and legislative leaders are nearly in agreement that about $110 million more is needed to fund an adequate budget.

See POLL, Page 10

Briefly

INTERNATIONAL

South African riots leave 10 dead

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — Rioting in South Africa during the weekend left at least 10 people dead, including four killed in fierce street battles in Johannesburg's Alexandra township, police and witnesses said.

Violence erupted in Alexandra late Sunday after a brief calm following Saturday's daylong fighting, a resident said. Youths set fire to one woman, suspected of having bewitched a relative, badly burning her, and firebombed a gasoline station and a restaurant, he said.

"Police in three 'hippos' (armored personnel carriers) are firing tear gas. Youths are running around with petrol bombs and stoning them, they are stopping cars and asking drivers for petrol to make bombs. They stopped us twice before we could go into the township," said the witness, who asked not to be identified. Reporters were barred from the area.

Earlier, police headquarters in Pretoria confirmed three blacks were shot dead by riot squads in Saturday's rioting, and Hillbrow Hospital said a fourth died Sunday from wounds in the fighting.

Kenyan custom creates problems

NAIROBI, Kenya — Mob justice, often lethal and frequently misdirected, is a Kenyan custom of which no one is proud.

A shout of "mwizi" — Swahili for thief — can transform passers-by on a city street into a hysterical mob that will punch, kick, bludgeon and stone a suspect to death without pausing to determine the facts of a case.

Since Jan. 1, two suspected robbers have been stoned to death after a chase through a Nairobi shantytown, a burglar who stole a tool box was set ablaze by another Nairobi mob, and a woman in a village southeast of the capital was beaten to death after being accused of using witchcraft to poison fruit she gave to three children who became ill.

Kenyan police keep no statistics on mob killings, but the average annual toll in recent years, as gauged by newspaper reports, appears to be perhaps two dozen.

There are conflicting theories why mob justice is more common in Kenya, East Africa's most prosperous country, than elsewhere in the region.

One factor may be a public perception that thieves are unlikely to be caught by police, whose mobility is limited by a shortage of motorcycles and patrol cars.

"If there were policemen everywhere, where they could arrest these people, there would be no need for mob justice," said Harrison Musau, a deputy commissioner of the national police.

PEOPLE

First lady receives service medal

INDIANAPOLIS — First lady Nancy Reagan has been awarded the 1986 Kiwanis World Service Medal in recognition of her efforts to prevent school-age drug and alcohol abuse, the service organization announced Sunday.

"School-age drug abuse is an ugly subject, one that many 'nice people' don't want to be associated with," said Donald E. Williams of Berea, Ohio, president of Kiwanis International.

"Mrs. Reagan's willingness to deal frankly and publicly with the realities of drug abuse among children has given countless others the courage to confront this issue in their own families, neighborhoods and communities," he said.

Reagan was nominated by the Kiwanis Club of Pittsburgh and by public television station WQED of Pittsburgh. Kiwanis clubs have been sponsoring drug-abuse education and prevention projects since 1969.

WQED produced "The Chemical People," a two-part PBS special on school-age drug abuse hosted by Reagan in 1983.

Kiwanis International, based in Indianapolis, is a men's service organization that claims 315,000 members in 76 countries.

Air Supply star marries stewardess

LOS ANGELES — Russell Hitchcock, lead singer of the Australian rock group Air Supply, has married flight attendant Paula Fulmer, his publicist says.

Priscilla Presley, who stars on the CBS-TV series "Dallas," and Arista records president Clive Davis were among the 150 people who attended Saturday's wedding at the Bel Air Hotel, said publicist Mitchell Schneider.

Graham Russell, singer, songwriter and guitarist for Air Supply, was the best man.

By The Associated Press

NATIONAL

Flood waters recede in California

Flooded rivers receded slowly Sunday in saturated Northern California as crews worked to restore electricity and clear away mudslides, but more rain was on the way on the heels of the worst weather in three years.

More heavy snow fell over the mountains of the West, where avalanche danger was high, and freezing rain and sleet iced highways from Nebraska into Ohio.

The National Weather Service issued a winter storm warning for more snow and high wind for the northern Sierra Nevada and the Lake Tahoe area along the Nevada-California border and for Colorado's mountains and Gunnison Valley. Travelers' advisories were posted from Washington state down to northern Arizona, where 13 inches of snow fell overnight south of Flagstaff.

Most Northern California rivers had started to recede after being forced out of their banks by Friday's heavy rain, but nearly 100 people were still waiting to return home to flood-hit Petaluma and the Guerneville resort area, the state Office of Emergency Services said.

Sonoma County, northwest of San Francisco, was the hardest hit. Small boats and city buses were used to evacuate residents of some 400 homes when the Petaluma River overflowed Friday.

One woman was missing after her home at Boulder Creek, north of Santa Cruz, slid 150 feet down a hillside into a creek and was engulfed by mud. A 17-year-old St. Helena boy drowned when he and a friend took a rubber raft into swollen Sulphur Creek, said Napa County Sheriff's Sgt. Richard Anderson.

Proxmire names award recipient

WASHINGTON — Sen. William Proxmire awarded his "golden fleece" to the Air Force on Sunday for what he calls a waste of taxpayers' money to equip a Strategic Air Command plane so "some of its generals can fly in high style in their own posh airliner."

The Wisconsin Democrat makes his choice each month of what he contends is a misuse of federal money.

According to Proxmire, the SAC fleet includes a converted KC-135 tanker "whose primary mission is to make sure Air Force brass get a pampered, better-than-first-class ride when they fly around the country and overseas."

He said the plane last year cost $600,536 to operate and two-thirds of that time was spent ferrying top Air Force officers. The rest of the time the plane was used by its crew for flight training.

He said $20,000 was spent to put new, plush furnishings on the plane.

Air Force spokesman Maj. Jim McGuire said that the plane in question was used as both a trainer and a transport, and that many of the furnishings for the latest renovation were salvaged from commercial aircraft.

REGIONAL

Brothers die in highway accident

Three people were killed in traffic accidents on Kansas highways this weekend, including two brothers who died when their tractor-trailer overturned in southeast Kansas.

The Kansas Highway Patrol identified the victims as David Nelson, 29, of Manhattan, and his brother, Rodney Nelson, 22, of Leonardville.

The patrol said David Nelson was driving the truck when it struck a guardrail on U.S. 75, ran off the road and came to rest on its side.

A Kansas City, Kan. man was killed when the sports car he was riding in overturned just after midnight Sunday in his hometown. Police identified the victim as Jack Embrey, 34.

Police said the driver of the car was in custody and his case was expected to be reviewed by the Wyandotte County attorney's office by mid-week, said Police Lt. Ron Miller.

Fort Riley soldier commits suicide

JUNCTION CITY — A 20-year-old Fort Riley soldier from Arkansas who was arrested for drunken driving committed suicide in the Geary County Jail by hanging himself, authorities said.

Ben Richard Schneider of Hardy, Ark. was found dead in his cell on Saturday, Sheriff Bill Deppish said Sunday.

The soldier was discovered dead at 12:55 p.m., according to a statement issued by Sheriff Bill Deppish. He was pronounced dead on arrival at Geary Community Hospital.

An autopsy was performed on the body Sunday.

The soldier had been arrested at 4:10 a.m. Friday for driving under the influence of alcohol and driving with a suspended license.

Campus Bulletin

ANNOUNCEMENTS

POLL WORKERS are needed for the student body president runoff election from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Wednesday. Sign up in the SGS Office.

ALTERNATIVE MUSIC BRIGADE: All contributions to the next issue of the AMB-SIDE are due by 5 p.m. Thursday in the mailbox in the Student Activities Office.

CHIMES: Applications for the junior honorary are available in the Union Activities Center and are due by 5 p.m. Feb. 21.

BUSINESS COUNCIL ELECTION applications are available in the SGS Office and are due by 5 p.m. Feb. 21.

STEEL RING: There will be a freshmen and sophomore engineering design contest on April 2. Details are available in Durland 142.

UNDERGRADUATE WOMEN'S SCHOLARSHIPS are available in the financial aid office and at the Delta Delta Delta house and are due March 1.

CAREER PLANNING AND PLACEMENT has many services available to students: career counseling; letter, data sheet and resume preparation guidance; career library; job opportunities bulletins; credential services; summer employment assistance; and others.

TODAY

FRENCH TABLE meets at 12:30 p.m. in Union Stateroom 1.

HUMAN ECOLOGY COUNCIL meets at 5 p.m. in Justin 254.

AMERICAN SOCIETY OF MECHANICAL ENGINEERS meets at 8 p.m. in Durland 152.

AMERICAN SOCIETY OF INTERIOR DESIGNERS meets at 6:30 p.m. in Justin 349.

CLOTHING RETAIL INTEREST GROUP meets to see spring fashion slides at 6:30 p.m. in Justin 326.

YOUNG DEMOCRATS meets at 7 p.m. in Union 206.

BUSINESS COUNCIL meets at 4 p.m. in Union 209.

ALPHA PHI OMEGA meets at 7 p.m. in Union 207.

FREE INCOME TAX ASSISTANCE, sponsored by Beta Alpha Psi, is available from 4 to 6:45 p.m. at the Manhattan Public Library.

INCOME TAX ASSISTANCE is available from 2 to 4 p.m. in the SGS Office.

ALPHA KAPPA PSI meets at 8 p.m. in the Union Big Eight Room.

CHIMES meets at 9 p.m. in Union 208.

ENGINEERING STUDENT COUNCIL meets at 6:30 p.m. in Union 213.

HORTICULTURAL THERAPY CLUB meets at 6 p.m. at the Pizza Hut in Aggieville.

BETA ALPHA PSI meets at 7 p.m. in the Union Little Theatre.

CBA OPEN HOUSE COMMITTEE meets at 5:30 p.m. in Union 209.

Looking Back

20 Years Ago — 1966

Beginning next fall, students will be computer enrolled within two hours, replacing a procedure which now takes three days. Machine enrollment by an IBM 1410 computer will narrow students' choices to classes only. Any choice of class schedule or professor will be impossible, said E.M. Gerritz, dean of admissions and records.

A recent comparison of 1965-66 appropriations shows K-State's Farrell Library ranks lowest of the 10 universities in the Mid-America State University Association. Farrell received $639,945. The highest appropriation of library funds — more than $1.6 million — was given to the University of Colorado.

15 Years Ago — 1971

Total enrollment for the spring semester is 13,055. This is an all time high from previous spring semesters at K-State.

10 Years Ago — 1976

Seniors planning to leave K-State this spring will have to make formal application for graduation before March 1, said Marjorie Adams, assistant dean of the College of Arts and Sciences. The new policy was devised by the assistant deans of all of the colleges to avoid errors and misunderstandings about each student's graduation plan.

5 Years Ago — 1981

The Kansas House Judiciary Committee voted to introduce a bill which would require approval by the Board of Regents prior to the awarding of tenure to faculty members at state institutions of higher learning.

Compiled from the University Archives

HUNAM Restaurant	FREE DELIVERY 11 a.m.-1 a.m.	HUNAM EXPRESS
1304 Westloop	539-8888	1116 Moro
(10% Off w/KSU ID) 537-0886 (Egg Roll & Fried Rice 99¢)

MRK'S

This Thurs.
NERD NITE!

- Free Nerd T-Shirts to first 20 people
- Grand Prize for Nerdiest Outfit
- Free Coors Items
- Free Nerd Kits with pitcher (includes slide rule, glasses)
- Free Adm. with Nerd Outfit

Rock around the Clock at Coors Light Nerd Night!

Dairy Queen

Royal Treat Weekly Specials
Wednesday through Friday
THIS WEEK
Peanut Buster Parfait 99¢

12th and Moro in Aggieville 1015 N. 3rd Manhattan

Presidents' Sale

$2.50 off
any $5.00 or more purchase with this coupon.

2305 Stagg Hill Rd.
M-F 9-5:30
Sat. 9-5:00

One Coupon per customer.
Not valid with any other offer.
Exp. Feb. 22, 1986

$25 COUPON

With this coupon, purchase a pair of prescription eyeglasses (frame and lenses) and receive $25 OFF our regular price!

- Invisible Bifocals
- Ultra-Thin Cataract Lenses
- Designer Frames
- Plastic Lightweight Lenses

We can fill your doctor's prescription.
*Minimum cost after discount - $24.95

This ad cannot be used in conjunction with any other optical promotion.
SALE ENDS: 3-1-86

OPTICAL STUDIO
1210 MORO • 537-1574
Mon.-Fri. 9:30 a.m.-5:30 p.m.; Sat. 9:00 a.m.-1:00 p.m.

Record SALE

k-state union bookstore
february 17 — march 1

k-state union bookstore 0302

PHOTO Special

FREE FILM DEVELOPING

*You pay only a dime per picture for printing and no charge at all for film developing. No Limit

You Pay Only 10¢ Per Print

(DISC, 110, 126, 135, C-41 process film only) Expires February 22, 1986

The Palace

CARDS ♦ GIFTS

704 N. Manhattan In Aggieville Mon.-Sat. 8:30-8:30
Thurs. 8:30-8:30

Activist seeking justice, equal rights, education, tells story of triumphs

By SARAH KESSINGER
Staff Writer

With a soft voice, gentle smile and tired eyes which have seen much change in her race, Rosa Parks spoke of her hopes for a future of equality and education as Frederick Douglass, a crusader for racial justice, had hoped.

Parks, 73, gained notoriety after being arrested for refusing to give up a bus seat to a white male on a city bus in Montgomery, Ala., on Dec. 1, 1955.

Parks was in Manhattan to serve as keynote speaker at a banquet honoring Frederick Douglass Day Friday evening at the Douglass Community Center, 900 Yuma St. More than 200 people attended the banquet.

Frederick Douglass was brought up as a slave with little chance for an education, but he fought hard to learn, Parks said.

"Douglass makes us realize how lucky some are when many are dropping out of school and not taking advantage of education while he had to struggle so hard to gain knowledge," she said.

"I often, as a youngster, read about Frederick Douglass and how he was mistreated as a slave," she said. "He craved freedom, and when he saw that freedom wasn't coming, he looked up and saw the north star and followed it."

Parks said as she looks back on her own life, she feels she could have accomplished more if she had had the opportunity for a good education.

Her grandparents, she said, were among those whose "minds were captured and held in slavery, and only by sheer willpower, dedication, bravery and nerve" were they able to survive.

Parks refused to give up her bus seat that day in Montgomery because she felt as a passenger her rights were being deprived. She and three other black persons were asked to yield a row of seats for one white man.

She said she had little idea it would lead to her arrest and cause the new minister at her church, the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., to organize a boycott of the city's bus services. This was the beginning of King's "non-violent" campaign against racial segregation in the United States which eventually changed the status of blacks.

Similar incidents to Parks' had occurred in Montgomery prior to her arrest. But, Parks said, the black community was not ready to protest.

"I don't think they had made up their minds yet that they wanted to take action," she said.

"Love, peace, goodwill and dedication to making the world a better place" are the messages she brings to groups.

She said her interests are in working with young people to give them direction, to help them to be motivated to become good citizens and to promote justice.

"Those who believe in equality and justice should continue to work together to drive away the evil of prejudice," Parks said.

The price is still being paid for that day on the bus, she said, adding she will continue her efforts to gather people for a cause.

"I found that as an individual, I could not accomplish anything (in the fight for equality), but if I could just get others to join in unity..."

Rosa Parks answers questions during a press conference Friday evening at the Douglass Community Center. Parks was the keynote speaker at a banquet honoring human equality crusader Frederick Douglass. More than 200 people attended the banquet in his honor.

Registrar's office releases 20th-day enrollment figures

By The Collegian Staff

Final 20th day enrollment figures are in for the spring semester with total enrollment at the University increasing 37 students over last spring's figure of 18,148 students, said Don Foster, University registrar.

Meanwhile, officials at the University of Kansas released total enrollment figures with an increase of 495 over last year for a total of 25,932 students, said Maria Gleason, KU relations assistant. The total enrollment figure includes the medical centers at Wichita and Kansas City.

The Full Time Equivalent figures for K-State are down 531 from 15,982 a year ago, while at KU, the FTE, not including the KU medical centers, increased 385 over last year's figure of 20,953.

The FTE enrollment figures are calculated by dividing total undergraduate hours by 15, veterinary medicine (pre-professional) credit by 12 and graduate credit by 9.

The spring on- and off-campus FTEs for the University are 14,813 and 638 respectively. The on-campus figure includes numbers for veterinary medicine. This compares to 15,416 and 566 a year ago, Foster said.

K-State on-campus enrollment is 14,970. Off-campus is 2,809 and 406 students are enrolled at the Veterinary Medicine Center.

Official fall total enrollment was 17,570.

Enrollment at KU for Lawrence and off-campus only is up 386 over last year from 23,563.

The K-State campus head count is down 510 from a year ago, but the off-campus count is up 558 students. The veterinary center enrollment declined 11 students from a year ago.

MANHATTAN SHOE REPAIR
25% OFF RUBBER OVERSHOES IN STOCK DURING THE MONTH OF FEBRUARY
Open daily 8-5:30, Saturday 8-4
Open Thursdays to 8
Drive-Up Convenience

CHARLIE'S
NEIGHBORHOOD BAR
Established 1962
$1.95 Pitchers
Tonight
Open Pool Tournament at 9 P.M.
with CASH prizes
Daytona Beach Plaza Hotel Trip
Organizational Meeting
Wednesday 8-10 p.m.
Watch Collegian for Details

COUPON SPECIAL

Two delicious Sunrise Sandwiches.....only $1.99 Save $1.11
Choice of ham, sausage or bacon Sunrise, served with egg and cheese on grilled Roman Meal bread Limit 1 order per coupon, one coupon per customer. Not valid in combination with any other offer.
Breakfast Hours:
6-10:30 Mon - Sat
7-10:30 Sunday
Coupon expires 3/2/86
Manhattan—1911 Tuttle Creek Blvd.
Manhattan • Emporia • Lawrence • Great Bend
Vista SM
RESTAURANTS

NEW COURSE
GENBA 115 KEYBOARDING FUNDAMENTALS: A seven week course structured to give students the keyboarding skills necessary to input information into computer terminals and/or typewriters efficiently and effectively.

Cr. Hr.	Sect.	Ref. No.	Days	Time	Room	Dates
1	B	25840	MWF	8:30	F212	2/24-4/7

Pick up permission to add in Calvin 114 or Calvin 214

UPC
PUMPING IRON II THE WOMEN

"One of the year's FUNNIEST, engaging and thought-provoking real-life dramas."
—Stephen Schaefer, US Magazine
"★★★★☆. SURPRISING...One awfully good piece of entertainment."
—Gene Siskel, Chicago Tribune
"★★★★☆. FASCINATING."
—Roger Ebert, Chicago Sun-Times
Wednesday at 7:30 and Thursday at 3:30 & 7:30
All shows in Little Theatre
KSU ID required; $1.75; Unrated
THE SURPRISE HIT OF THE SEASON!

GUERRILLA TACTICS

THE IN JOB MARKET
How to get the job you want
With Tom Jackson, national authority on jobs & job finding
k-state union
upc issues & ideas

JEAN RENOIR'S MASTERPIECE
GRAND ILLUSION

"Masterpiece" FILM QUARTERLY
"Masterpiece" THE FILM TIL NOW
"Masterpiece" THE 50 GREAT FILMS
"MASTERPIECE" k-state union upc kaleidoscope
French aviators plan a daring escape from a German prison camp, during World War I.
Tonight in Forum Hall & Tomorrow in Little Theatre. Both shows begin at 7 p.m. KSU ID required; $1.75; Unrated
Don't Forget!! The Kaleidoscope Film Pass, 6 films for $6 Available in the activities Center or at any Kaleidoscope Film

GRAND CANYON BACKPACKING

Only 2 spaces left!
Check it out in the Union Activities Center or call 532-6571
GET INVOLVED ON CAMPUS WITH THE UNION PROGRAM COUNCIL
Volunteers Wanted: Individuals interested in serving for the '86-'87 year to coordinate social, recreational, educational and cultural programs for the benefit of the KSU community.
UPC ECLECTIC ENTERTAINMENT
Responsibilities:
• select, organize, produce "up and coming" artists for performances in the K-State Union
• organize the annual Rayette Year Recital Sale
UPC SPECIAL EVENTS
Responsibilities:
• book, promote, execute of concerts and performing arts
• organize the Activities Carnival and Welcome Back Concert
• coordinate Late Night At The K-State Union
UPC ARTS
Responsibilities:
• select, organize, produce events in the K-State Union Gallery and Showcases
• coordinate Art Raffle
• select and coordinate guest artists
• organize the Arts & Crafts Sale
UPC PROMOTIONS
Responsibilities:
• organize, plan, promote upc events
• develop special promotions for upc activities
• organize the Program year planning calendar
• take pictures/sides of upc events
UPC OUTDOOR RECREATION
Responsibilities:
• select, organize, produce cooperative wilderness adventures such as the Grand Canyon Backpacking Trip, Rappelling, Canyoning
• coordinate Outdoor Awareness Day
UPC FEATURE FILMS
Responsibilities:
• select, organize, produce popular film series in the K-State Union Forum Hall
• coordinate special film series
• organize film related events
UPC KALEIDOSCOPE FILMS
Responsibilities:
• select, organize, produce, artistic films in the K-State Union Forum Hall and Little Theatre
• coordinate the selection of the International Series
• select and coordinate special film series
UPC TRAVEL
Responsibilities:
• select, organize, produce winter and spring break trips
• coordinate the Travel Fair
• organize smaller trips to special events in the surrounding area
UPC ISSUES AND IDEAS
Responsibilities:
• select, organize, produce events highlighting current events
• coordinate the "Let's Talk About..." series
Applications for membership of all committees are available now. Come up and ask questions, we like to talk.
All applications may be picked up and submitted in the Activities Center, 3rd floor of the K-State Union. For more information, call 532-6571.
k-state union
upc outdoor rec.
k-state union
program council

Senate's distribution of $700,000 on target

Following months of debate, Student Senate has passed judgment on the $700,000 made available by the advance refunding, or refinancing, of existing student debt.

While it can be said that Senate has not gracefully handled controversial issues in the past, it can be said that in this instance Senate was able to dispose of the funds in grand fashion.

Most important among the allocations voted on last Thursday was the $86,182 given to the KSU Child Care Cooperative. The Jardine Terrace alternative to expensive off-campus child care will soon be able to expand its facilities to care for 150 more children — for a total of 240.

More than $330,000 was allocated for two building projects. The Holton Hall renovation project was given a boost with a grant of $183,633. The additional funding will permit Holton to be renovated in two phases instead of three for a substantial savings of $160,000.

Anderson Hall, the central administrative building, will become accessible to all students, after a $150,000 elevator is installed. Although funding handicapped accessibility has traditionally been the responsibility of the state, funding for the Anderson project would not have been forthcoming soon.

The Debate Squad and Agriculture Judging Teams will cherish the $80,000 and $60,000 placed in interest-bearing endowment funds for use by the respective groups. The money will be used to subsidize travel expenses. Likewise, KSDB-FM will use its $23,600 allocation to improve service to its listening audience. The remainder — $116,555 — will be placed in a reserve account.

The Senate justly denied the K-State Police Department's request for $18,000 to alter the emergency phone system. Its absurd to believe that a radio call box could provide more security than the existing telephone system.

Representation is a process whereby the interests of the governed are "represented" to those who govern them. Despite a committee recommendation to put the money elsewhere, the Senate was able to wade through the rhetoric and allocate funds to groups that will spend the proceeds responsibly. In this instance, Senate has represented students well.

Tim Carpenter, editorial page editor

Travis joins national education celebration

As K-State celebrates Higher Education Week, which begins today, the words of Harvard University Professor Charles V. Willie come to light.

Teachers must "encourage, praise, trust and inspire students" to risk and involve themselves in new experiences, Willie said during a speech on campus last October.

Practically every student at K-State can pinpoint those educators who have given them the encouragement to risk being wrong; to withstand embarrassing mistakes that are bound to occur when one engages in an unfamiliar activity or field of thought.

The most recent K-State example of Willie's challenge to the educator comes from an unusual source — the Department of Intercollegiate Athletics. Athletic Director Larry Travis' "Total Person Program" gained national media attention last fall as one of the most innovative and comprehensive programs in the nation.

Travis is striving to help the college athlete at K-State cope with life after athletics by providing seminars on alcohol and drug abuse, self-image, life goals and motivation, etiquette, dress, resume writing and job interviewing.

Travis, like Willie, has demonstrated a responsible, humanistic approach toward those students whose lives he has the chance to influence.

This year, in addition to honoring K-State's traditional educators during the national recognition of Higher Education Week, we can take a new pride in honoring our athletic director.

Catherine Sayler, for the editorial board

LOOK AT HIS HAIR...HIS CLOTHES...I TOLD YOU THIS WOULD HAPPEN IF WE LET HIM LISTEN TO EIGHT SOLID HOURS OF DONNY AND MARIE TAPES.

Optimism of no help to Filipinos

Americans are an inherently optimistic people. This optimism was evident in the initial reaction to the space shuttle tragedy. More than 30 minutes after the explosion newscasters and government officials refused to acknowledge there were no survivors.

This same — almost unrealistic — optimism clouds our judgment and expectations following the Philippine presidential election. Some people believed that the elections would take place and all would be well. However, this was not, and in fact could not, be the case.

President Ferdinand E. Marcos and his challenger Corason Aquino joined together to doom the election before it began by declaring that the only true test of fairness would be their respective victories.

Of the two, Marcos is the most guilty of fraud. Even if he did not order his supporters to taint the election, he at least permitted them to do so. By permitting fraud, Marcos has shown us what democracy means to him.

He would like to surround himself with the legitimacy of being a democratic leader but he is unwilling to pay the price of democracy, which requires fair elections. His ego and lack of appreciation for democratic institutions makes being a member of the minority party in the Philippine government unpalatable to him. His attitude disqualifies him for any role in a truly democratic system.

It would be much preferred if he would just be honest and declare himself the dictator that he is. It is somehow more frustrating to see a nation so close, yet so far away from democracy. At least when the Soviets hold their "elections" we understand the scam.

RICHARD THORP
Collegian Columnist

But the Philippine elections, differing from elections in Nicaragua only in the manner of cheating, are offensive.

The United States is left once again facing the dilemma of how to react to a government that doesn't meet our standard of fair play, but is an ally and strategically important. The situation is further complicated by the fact that any action the United States takes would likely have a negative impact on the Filipinos.

Sen. Salvador Laurel, Aquino's vice presidential running mate, pointed out on "Face the Nation" recently that he would not support cutting off aid to the Philippines because it would hurt the nation economically. Yet, the continuance of aid supports the Marcos government, which Laurel does not believe is desirable. The situation reminds one of the old saying, "Damned if you do, damned if you don't."

If the United States were to cut off military support to the Marcos regime it would seriously hamper their ability to combat a communist insurgency. This would not only be contrary to U.S. interests but would poise a serious threat to the freedom of the Filipinos. Yes, in spite of Marcos, the Filipinos are free, at least relative to most of the world.

So we must choose the least pernicious policy, walking the fence between not devastating the Philippine economy and military, and at the same time avoiding being perceived as big supporters of Marcos.

The Marcos government will fall. Though he is not a man without support (after all he did honestly win a large percentage of the vote) he will not likely be able to withstand a growing opposition.

Those who oppose Marcos, following the "flawed" elections, will be forced to find a solution outside the democratic process. The solution that holds the best hope for democracy and the avoidance of violence is a military coup.

The replacement of Gen. Fabian Ver as head of the military by a widely trusted and respected man has set the stage for such an action, which ultimately could return the government to democratic civilian hands as has happened in Brazil and Argentina.

The motivation for a military takeover hinges on Aquino's and Laurel's ability to mobilize the nation in protest against Marcos. If they are successful in shaking the foundations of their society the military will have to choose between supporting an authoritarian rule and democracy.

It is at this point that the United States must make it clear to everyone involved that aid will stop if the government takes the path of repression. Thus Marcos will become more of a liability than an asset to the military. Meanwhile we wait and hope.

Letters

Citing sources

Editor,
Re: Rich Harris' editorial, "Defining hazing to be tough job for Senate," in the Feb. 13 Collegian:

I would request that the author note his source for the statement, "Research has shown that a great deal of hazing goes on outside greek housing. Some of the worst examples of hazing come from high school athletic, music and drama clubs, or non-specific 'societies' in all walks of life."

As an educator, I am always troubled by a failure to cite sources, even more so if the research referred to is discrediting in nature. I find it a particularly upsetting practice when the unattributable research includes a list that implies behavior characteristics within or among groups.

Responsible greek organizations may have this same type of complaint. I am sympathetic, but the problem is not solved by flawed editorials and finger pointing.

Kate Anderson
assistant professor of speech

DUI aftermath

Editor,

When I was employed by the Riley County Police Department, I arrested numerous people for driving under the influence of alcohol. One question that the suspects inevitably ask is, "Why don't you stop someone who is really breaking the law?" I'm sure every police officer has been asked this question several times by DUI suspects. The following is an example of why officers may not really be "picking on" the drunken driver.

I was dispatched to an injury accident Nov. 17, 1985, in which the operator of a vehicle had been drinking. The driver had lost control of his vehicle while fleeing the scene of a hit-and-run accident in which one person received minor injuries. During the second accident, the driver lost control of the vehicle and it struck several trees. As usual, the operator of the vehicle received superficial injuries while the passenger was not so fortunate.

As the first officer on the scene, I approached the vehicle to render aid to the injured. I then recognized the passenger as a long-time friend. I have never felt so useless or angry at the same time. There was nothing I could do but hold her and wait for the paramedics to arrive.

I looked into her eyes and realized that she didn't recognize me or that she was even aware of what had happened to her. The feelings I encountered at that time are impossible to describe unless you have been in a similar situation.

My friend is still unconscious and in critical condition suffering severe head injuries. The possibility of permanent brain damage exists. It is possible that she will never again be the same beautiful, intelligent person she was before this tragic accident. While she may never be able to think for herself again, the operator of the vehicle is still walking around with only a couple of traffic citations.

I hope and pray those who drink too much will remember my friend and call a cab or get someone else to drive them home. Drinkers have plenty of alternatives, unlike my friend now, so they should use them.

When people get stopped for weaving down the road, driving too fast, or any other violation, they should not ask, "Why are you picking on me?" Remember, the police are well aware of civil rights and will respect them. All drunken drivers need to remember is that officers work to save lives — including those of drunken drivers.

William Johnson
senior in social science

Engineer abuse

Editor,

Do you want to become an engineer? Are you willing to become a living machine? With the advent of the computer age, educated people have come to think the mind is more and more like a computer.

There are many similarities including logic operations and memory capabilities. So what is the big deal? As students are treated more like computers, we will see the effects of dehumanization, impersonalization, and finally, detachment from the college.

I believe many members of the College of Engineering, especially the administration, have come to think of the students as little computers. It has written a program, the curriculum, and we, the microcomputers, must follow the program word for word and bit by bit.

The problem of forced structural technology is not always obvious but it has become more apparent; it has led to a dehumanization of the engineering students. This dehumanizing attitude portrayed by the engineering administration leads to such problems as poor advising, forced top-down policies with little faculty/student input, drop-add complications and a general lack of communication. The author of "Megatrends," John Naisbitt, would conclude that there is too much high-tech and not enough high-touch.

Since the engineering college treats its students as computers, there is a lack of personal attention. This adds to the total impersonalization of the college. But what has led me to this conclusion? Maybe it is the fact that I was dropped from a class after two weeks into the semester without prior notice. Maybe it was the way my department handled the situation. In effect, if you make a mistake, it is just too bad. Thus, many instances of impersonalization have led me to this conclusion.

So what is the point of all of this hardship? Is it to provide the "survival of the fittest" atmosphere? If the administration is trying to limit the number of students graduating from the college, or if it is trying to increase the "quality" or status of the college by treating its students in a non-human fashion, then I think its methods are unethical. We cannot afford to have the "if you don't like it, leave it" attitude. This will not enhance the quality of our education, and it will not allow new ideas to flow. Hence, students not willing to be treated as such will leave the college. The students that leave are people who do not agree with the dehumanizing attitude.

Furthermore, if the college wants to limit the number of graduates, it should take a close look at the College of Veterinary Medicine and the University of Kansas Medical Center to establish better programs. Once you're in the vet school it supports you all the way.

It is detrimental to have the feeling you are all alone and no one is backing you up because you are just another number. It is time for the administration to encourage, not discourage, its students and faculty. It is time for a positive change.

Jerry W. Strunk
junior in electrical and computer engineering

Kansas State Collegian

EDITOR
David Svoboda
ASSOCIATE EDITOR
Lillian Zier
NEWS EDITOR
Patty Reinert
MANAGING EDITOR
Jeri Heidrick
PHOTO/GRAPHICS EDITOR
Chris Stewart
COPY EDITORS
Jim Schmidt
Jean Teller
EDITORIAL PAGE EDITOR
Tom Carpenter
CAMPUS EDITORS
Vicki Reynolds
LeAnne Stowe
SPORTS EDITOR
Tom Perrin
ASSISTANT SPORTS EDITOR
Tim Fitzgerald
FEATURES EDITOR
Margaret May
BUSINESS/GOVERNMENT EDITOR
Tom Schultes
AGRICULTURE EDITOR
Becky Ohlde
ENTERTAINMENT EDITOR
Laurie Fairburn
REVIEWERS
Barbara Baker
Gary Johnson
Randy Withrow
COLUMNISTS
Susan Baird
Rich Harris
Steve Milligan
Tammy Rickerson
STAFF WRITERS
Shelly Chenoweth
Erin Eicher
Jessica Gard
Maribeth Gottschalk
Sherri Hager
Jill Hummels

Mike Riley,
Catherine Sayler,
Richard Thorp,
Jonie Trued

Sarah Kessinger,
Karen Meis,
Eric Rhodenbaugh,
Linda Schmidt,
Colleen Wilson

BUSINESS/GOVERNMENT WRITER
Melissa Brune
SPORTS WRITERS
Tony Carbajo
Daran Neuschaefer
Doug Scheibe
EDITORIAL BOARD
David Svoboda
Tim Carpenter
Melissa Brune
Rich Harris
Steve Milligan
Patty Reinert
Vicki Reynolds
GRAPHIC ARTISTS
Carlos Corredor
Greg Crawford
Kenyon Madden
STAFF PHOTOGRAPHERS
Jim Dietz
Brad Fanshier
Andy Nelson
Jeff A. Taylor
Jeff Tuttle
ADVERTISING MANAGER
Lori Wong
ASSISTANT ADVERTISING MANAGER
Mark McDermet
SPECIAL PROMOTIONS REPRESENTATIVE
Amy Wright
ASSISTANT SPECIAL PROMOTIONS REP.
Chris Stevenson
ADVERTISING REPRESENTATIVES
Rob Drake
Patti Hannan
Jim Lundstrom
Darren McChesney
Joan Seitzer
Shelly Shaffer
Patlie Shippen
DIRECTOR/NEWS ADVISER
Dave Adams
ADVERTISING DIRECTOR
Gloria Freeland
NEWS PRODUCTION COORDINATOR
Connie Nelson
ADV. PRODUCTION COORDINATOR
Wanda Haynie

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 828) is published by Student Publications Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods. OFFICES are in the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 532-6555. Newsroom phone number is 532-6556; display advertising, 532-6560; and classified advertising 532-6555. SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: $40, calendar year; $35, academic year; $20, semester; $10, summer term. Address changes should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

Staff/Andy Nelson

Willie Ruff concentrates as he performs a jazz tune with his partner Dwiki Mitchell during a workshop for participants in the Central States Jazz Festival Friday in McCain Auditorium before an evening performance.

Workshop follows jazz show

By TRINA KLOTZBACH
Collegian Reporter

Jazz came to McCain Auditorium Friday afternoon when bassist and French horn player Willie Ruff and his partner, pianist Dwiki Mitchell, conducted an informal jazz workshop following the Central States Jazz Festival.

The Mitchell-Ruff Duo was formed in 1955, when the two men left Lionel Hampton's band. They were booked regularly by major nightclubs as the second act with the great bands of the day: those of Louis Armstrong, Duke Ellington, Dizzy Gillespie and Miles Davis.

"They were our mentors," Ruff said. "They'd play a set and then we'd play a set and they'd tell us what we could do better. We learned everything from those men."

This experience nourished a teaching bent in Mitchell and Ruff which continues today as they perform on college campuses.

"We like playing the college concerts over nightclubs and jazz festivals because of the sense of satisfaction we get in helping others learn," Ruff said.

Both men feel the best way for young musicians to improve is to listen to the jazz greats. Mitchell, while growing up in Florida, learned from the radio.

"Duke Ellington had a show on every Saturday. I would listen to it closely and imitate his sound," Mitchell said.

Ruff believes imitating is a great tool of learning and should be used more often by students.

"Artists do it all the time. I think jazz students could get a lot out of this form of learning. Listening, imitating and then taking it one step further and improvising," he said.

Ruff said he believes, however, that the laid-back style distinctive of their jazz sound can't be taught. Ruff said it is more of an attitude than anything else.

"Mr. Mitchell is an expert on laying back. So when I'm in his presence I get laid back as well," he said.

Though the duo performs about 50 to 60 concerts a year, Mitchell said they never tire of traveling. Their desire to share their love of music has taken them across the world. The duo introduced jazz to the Soviet Union in 1959, playing and teaching at conservatories in Leningrad, Moscow, Kiev, Yalta and Riga. In 1981 they traveled to China, playing and teaching at schools in Shanghai and Peking. Before the trip, Ruff learned Chinese — his eighth language — enabling him to explain to his students, in their own language, the roots of American jazz.

When not performing, Ruff is a professor of music and Afro-American studies at Yale University, New Haven, Conn. But his real love is being with young students, helping them out and answering their questions by performing.

"Jazz really isn't learned in universities or conservatories," he said. "It's music that is passed on by older musicians to those who are younger. And that's Dwiki's and my job."

Show honors 'forgotten' women

By TERESA TEMME
Collegian Reporter

Kansas women have made great contributions to the state, but many of these women are forgotten because their deeds are not recorded, said Kelli Wondra, senior in theater.

Wondra narrated the slide presentation, "Women You'll Wish You Had Known," Friday during a luncheon which was part of the activities for Susan B. Anthony Week.

Wondra said Kansas can't afford to lose any more women in history because their activities are not recorded. However, she also said women who have been ignored in history can be uncovered.

"Women, find your foremothers," Wondra said.

During the slide show Wondra presented both well-known and virtually unknown women who have contributed to Kansas history.

Amelia Earhart, one of the best-known Kansas women, was known as the "First Lady of the Air" and set flying records for the sheer fun of it, Wondra said in her narration.

Kathryn O'Laughlin McCarthy practiced law in a time when few women were represented in this field and eventually was the first woman elected to the U.S. House of Representatives from Kansas.

Susan Salter was the first elected woman mayor in the nation and she was paid $1 for her term in office.

Catharine McCarty, mother of Billy the Kid, was the only woman to sign the Wichita Articles of Incorporation.

Wondra also listed in her narration women who helped break the barriers keeping them from seeking traditionally male-oriented careers.

Wondra said the first women in Kansas were not only nameless, but faceless too. Sometimes these women were photographed and can be remembered from these pictures, but most of these women still remain nameless.

The slide show was a special edition of Friday Focus on Women designed to correspond with Susan B. Anthony Week.

CASHMAN for k-state

Experience, Familiarity, Concern

Paid for by K-Staters for Cashman

IT'S ALWAYS A GOOD DAY AT The Station

MONDAY	TUESDAY	WEDNESDAY	THURSDAY
★75¢ DRAWS ALL DAY ★10 oz. KC $5.95 ★16 oz. KC $8.95 —with fries, baker, or veggie •Available after 5:30 in dining room and bar	★99¢ MARGARITAS STRAWBERRY or LIME ★TACOS—99¢ each 3 for $2.50 •In dining room during lunch and dinner •In bar 11:30 a.m. – 10:30 p.m.	★$1.25 TROPICAL & WELL DRINKS 80¢ DRAWS & $1.00 WINE ★2 for 1 on all Bar Food Munchies ★Lasagna $4.95 —with salad bar, garlic bread and wine •After 5:30	★$1.50 DRINKS All Brands, All Kinds 80¢ DRAWS & $1.00 WINE IN DINING ROOM and BAR: ★ALL BURGERS $2.95 ALL DAY! Plus, after 5:30: ★10 oz. KC STRIP or RIBEYE $6.25
FRIDAY	SATURDAY	SUNDAY	EVERY DAY!
★TGIF Goodies 5:30-7:30 ★SPICED SHRIMP & CRAB LEGS ALL YOU CAN EAT! $10.95 •After 5:30	★Lunch Special $3.95—with salad bar ★PRIME RIB $9.50 —freshly roasted —includes salad bar and fries, baker, or veggie	★BBQ RIBS & CHICKEN ALL YOU CAN EAT! $6.50 —with salad bar and fries	★BAR MENU! 11 appetizers 10 hamburgers 7 sandwiches ★Lunch Special $3.95—with salad bar ★Happy Hour 4-7 Free Bar Munchies Monday thru Friday ★Current & Classic Hit Music & Videos
 THE STATION RESTAURANT & BAR 1115 MORO • 776-0030   LUNCH 11:30 a.m. – 2:00 p.m. DINNER 5:30 – 9:00 p.m. 10:00 p.m. Friday & Saturday 11:30 a.m. – 10:30 p.m. BAR MENU 11:30 a.m. – 3:00 a.m. 4:30 p.m. – Midnight Sunday

comprehensive health associates
•free pregnancy tests
•outpatient abortion services
•alternatives counseling
•gynecology
•contraception
Overland Park, KS 913-345-1400

BUSHWACKERS
THE HUSBANDRY
along with BUD LIGHT
presents
COMEDY INVASION
with Billy Jaye
from San Francisco and
Brian Burges
$2.00 tickets Show starts at 9:00

HOW DO THEY DO IT?

PYRAMID PIZZA introduces its
MONDAY GLADNESS
Why be mad, when you can be GLAD?

BUY 1, GET 1 FREE
Any Size Pizza!
We deliver... FAST and Friendly-like.

539-4888
Open weekends until 2 a.m.

BUY 1 SMALL 1 TOPPING PIZZA $4.75 (plus tax, GOOD MONDAYS ONLY Expires 2-17-86)
2 Small
Pepsi's "We Pile It On!"

539-4888
707 N. 12th
In Aggieville

BUY 1 GET 1 FREE Any Size Pizza
539-4888
GOOD MONDAYS ONLY Expires 2-17-86
Pepsi's "We Pile It On!"

Centers to teach about health

By PAM VOTH
Collegian Reporter

Knowing how to maintain good health is no laughing matter, and a few area health centers are attempting to educate people about the role they can take to achieve good health during National Health Education Week, Feb. 16-22.

Memorial Hospital, 1105 Sunset, will be sponsoring free health screenings on Feb. 19 as part of National Health Education Week. The screenings will be from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the lobby.

There will be diabetes, breast cancer and pulmonary screenings and personal fitness and nutrition analyses available, said Thomas Palma, public relations and marketing director for Memorial Hospital. Nutritional information will focus on how diet can affect one's risk of cancer, he said.

The activities will be staffed by nurses, lab technicians and a registered dietitian, Palma said.

He said Memorial Hospital always does a project during National Health Week, but this is the first year for using this type of format.

"We've always been ones to promote that good health isn't something that's given, it's something you learn," he said.

Lafene Student Health Center, the Riley County Health Department and The St. Mary Hospital don't have any special activities planned for this week but do have ongoing health education programs.

Cindy Burke, health educator at Lafene, said health education programs at Lafene aren't focused all in one week but are ongoing to keep faculty, staff and students up to date on health and wellness issues year-round.

Burke said it is the responsibility of the health education department to offer free information resources on medical and health-related topics. When a new topic comes into public light, like herpes for example, Burke said, the department prepares and sends informational pamphlets to residence halls and greek houses.

Burke's department also has people available to speak to student groups about health-related topics including eating disorders, stress management, suicide prevention and depression, she said.

Mary Jones, health educator at the Riley County Health Department, said she works on programs all year long. Her work is mostly with people who are over 50 years old, she said.

In March, the health department will sponsor a class called "It's Up To Me." It will deal with hypertension, depression and stress management for the elderly, Jones said. Participants will learn how to make the lifestyle changes necessary to prevent or control high blood pressure, she said.

Jones said the general idea behind the class is that older people can learn to feel good about being responsible for themselves.

Susan Bair, community relations director at The St. Mary Hospital, said there is nothing special planned for this week, but there is a health education project in the works.

The community relations department at St. Mary's is developing a speakers bureau, Bair said. This will be a group of qualified people who will be available to speak to community groups on topics such as allergies, breast cancer, diabetes, AIDS and sexual assault. The program isn't completed yet, she said, but should be ready soon.

The department currently organizes monthly "fun runs" on the Ray Piquette Memorial Fitness Trail at the hospital for employees and their families.

Student assumes role of nanny, mother for 2 New York children

By JILL LANG
Collegian Reporter

In story books, Mary Poppins arrived at No. 17 Cherry Tree Lane by umbrella and a strong gust of wind. Today a mother's helper arrives at her prospective household by a more updated form of air transportation.

On May 22, Cathy Donaldson, junior in public relations, left for New York City to spend 92 days assuming full charge of two young children.

Donaldson first considered being a mother's helper in February 1985. With the help of her aunt, Donaldson came in contact with the Overseas Custom Maid Service in Stamford, Conn.

Donaldson was notified of her position one day before she was to leave for New York.

"I was a nervous wreck," Donaldson said. "I found out at 2 p.m. that I was to leave at noon the next day. I packed for the entire summer in three hours and in less than 24 hours I was on my way to New York."

Her plane fare to New York was paid, but she was required to fund her return trip. She also had to sign an agreement certifying a set wage and number of days she was expected to work.

Under contract, Donaldson was required to work five days a week from 8:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m., but due to the family's need of her services, she worked an extra day. She received no bonus for working the extra day, but was given other benefits, for example, theater tickets.

Donaldson received $125 a week in wages. All of her expenses were paid, and she accompanied the family on mini-vacations to Washington, Connecticut, upstate New York and Florida.

"I didn't feel the wage was unfair and I got paid more than most mother's helpers, but sometimes I felt frustrated. You can't put a price on caring for someone's children."

The family Donaldson worked for was a typical upper-middle class family. The family itself consisted of Warren Wankoff, vice president in charge of persons at Equitable Life Insurance, his wife

Lorain, a speech pathologist, two daughters, Renee, 6, and Margot, 1, and Lorain's parents.

A typical day for Donaldson began at 8:30 a.m. when she awoke Renee and Margot, dressed and fed them breakfast, then got ready to spend the day at the beach. By 9:30 a.m., they were on their way to the beach. At 11 a.m. Renee would go to day camp until 4 p.m., while Donaldson entertained the baby.

At 5:30 p.m. the group would leave the beach and arrive home at about 6:30 p.m. After Donaldson put the baby to bed, her work day was done, but she usually helped Lorain fix a light dinner, then the rest of her evening was free.

"I consider myself very lucky," Donaldson said.

When it came time for Donaldson to return to Kansas she found it hard to leave.

"It was very hard to leave the kids," Donaldson said. "By the time I left, I felt like Margot was my own child. It was exceptionally hard to leave because I didn't know if I'd ever have the chance to see them again."

Career program offers insight for students

By DAN ALLEN
Collegian Reporter

The Alumni Learning Exchange was established to give students a firsthand look at the day-to-day work experiences they may face in the future.

Susan Angle, assistant professor in the Center for Student Development and adviser to ALE, is working closely with U-Learn and the Alumni Association to put together a more comprehensive program to benefit students.

Angle said the program began three years ago because there was a crucial need. She said the main reason students leave the University is because they don't know why they are here. She also said helpful alumni are the best resource for providing career information to interested students.

Maggie Davie, director of U-Learn, said all a student needs to do to join the program is visit U-Learn, located in the basement of Holton Hall, and ask about a career. She said if U-Learn has an alumnus on file who has offered to provide help in that particular career, the student and the alumnus will be matched.

Davie said the student can read the job profile the participating alumnus provides. She said the profile tells about the everyday activities of that job. Most alumni will also accept phone calls from students who want to learn more about that particular career, she said.

The final step, Davie said, is for the student to go into the actual office environment with the alumnus. She said currently the student usually only goes in for a day, but coordinators of the program hope to expand it to a week or longer.

"Most students will find out that the working world is not as glamorous as they thought," Davie said.

Angle said about 100 alumni, mostly from the Kansas City and Wichita areas, have offered to get involved with the ALE program.

"Right now, the 100 alumni represent businesses that will take care of 80 percent of the students on campus," Angle said.

Davie and Angle said they are currently in the process of making the variety of career areas more complete. Davie said she wants to double the number of files by the end of the semester and make more students and alumni aware of ALE.

Part of the responsibility for making students and alumni more aware of the program will belong to the two K-State ambassadors. These ambassadors are Lori Shellenberger, sophomore in pre-law, and Terry Hallauer, junior in marketing.

Shellenberger said the ambassadors go to various student/alumni functions in the state and represent students.

"We realize that this is a valuable program and we want to get more alumni involved, especially in Kansas City and Topeka, because they are within a day's drive," Shellenberger said.

Davie said both the student and the alumnus benefit from the program.

"Many alumni want to give something back to the University but don't have money to give. Students can make valuable contacts that will make the difference when they are seeking their first job," Davie said.

Film Special

$1.99 FEB 17-22

developing & printing
12, 15, 20, 24, or 36 exposure color film

k-state union
information desk 500

Enjoy smooth, creamy
Frozen Yogurt
that tastes like Ice Cream
but with 80% less fat!
--FREE SAMPLES--

I Can't Believe It's YOGURT!
Frozen Yogurt Stores

OPEN: 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Daily
Noon-11 p.m. Sundays
Nautilus Towers-Aggieville

$2.25
Pitchers

Tuesday
Coors Classic
Rock Night
details tomorrow

Paid for by K-Staters for Cashman

CASHMAN
for k-state

Thanks to all of you who showed your support for me in the general election. It is now time to pull together for a victory on Wednesday. This is a campaign for all of those students "for K-State" and who would like to see a student body once again full of pride. Without your support, the vision we share may never come to pass.

Manhattan Civic Theatre
Auditions
for Beth Henley's
"The Miss Firecracker Contest"
Tues. & Wed. Feb. 18 & 19
7-10 p.m.
Manhattan Civic Theatre
11th & Poyntz
Cast of 6, 4 women, 2 men ages 18-60
Directed by Stephen Riggs
For more info call Stephen
at 537-1019
Show Dates
April 11, 12, 18, 19, 25, 26

Every Monday

2-FERS
ON ANY PIZZA

Falsetto's
539-3830

FINAL WEEK OF OUR MOVING SALE
"Borck Brothers is Moving to Westloop"

2 For 1 Sale
Fall Sweaters
Fall Sport Shirts
Fall Slacks
Fall Sport Coats
Selected Neckwear

Selected fall suits

REG.	WERE	SALE
*165-215	*129	*109⁰⁰
*225-265	*189	*169⁰⁰
*275-295	*219	*199⁰⁰
*315-325	*249	*229⁰⁰

50% Off
All Ladies fall clothing and accessories
Heavy Outerwear
Hats, Robes, P.J's and Gift Bar items

Sale Now Thru Feb. 22nd

We will be closed Feb. 24th through Feb. 28th. We will reopen March 1 at Westloop Shopping Center

BORCK Brothers

HUMBOLDT AT THIRD
913 537-8636 9:30-5:30 M SAT TILL 8:30 THURS

Courtyard Sale
On Sale: Unclaimed items for the Lost & Found

Umbrellas	Sweatshirts
Notebooks	Gloves
Jackets	Hats
Books	Wallets-Purses
Calculators	Watches
Art Supplies	Miscellaneous Items

WHEN: Thurs., Feb. 18,
TIME: 9:30-3:30
PLACE: Union Courtyard
Sponsored By: Alpha Phi Omega

All items on sale have not been claimed in the Lost & Found within the past year.*

USD 383 develops new program to teach English as 2nd language

By BECKY LUCAS
Collegian Reporter

In order to accommodate international students in local public schools, Unified School District 383 has a program established to acclimatize the students to the English language.

According to Nancy Thompson, district director of elementary and special education, between 50 and 60 students in the district are currently involved in the English as a Second Language Program.

Thompson said this is a larger amount of students in an ESL program than cities of comparable size.

"We're (Manhattan) much more like Lawrence than Salina, because we (the cities) both attract a foreign population," Thompson said.

She attributed this fact to the location of universities in Manhattan and Lawrence, and their attraction of international students.

The primary focus of the program, Thompson said, is to help the children learn English while at the same time assisting teachers in better understanding the student's culture.

In order for the program to meet the primary focus, the district has two teachers, one for each of the secondary and elementary levels, who work with students outside of their regular classrooms.

The program is designed so that after a student takes English proficiency tests but scores below the minimum level, they will receive help from one of the ESL teachers.

Thompson explained the lower levels of proficiency scores indicate the student would be unable to recognize words in most any context.

The tutor-teacher works with the students two to three times a week in a group setting in order to help facilitate social interactions between the students.

Ray Woods, principal of Marlatt Elementary School, said he has been very pleased with the effectiveness of the program in Marlatt.

He said the ESL program is used for students in grades one through six. He explained it is not used for students in kindergarten because, at that age, the students are not expected to be able to read or write.

Woods described the program as a "pull-out program," with the students remaining in their regular classroom until the ESL teacher arrives.

Thompson said the program is aided financially by the Legislature, with the district receiving $150 for each student in the program.

Fenix programs aid students

By DAN ALLEN
Collegian Reporter

Most new students at the University encounter some adjustment problems, but for the more than 1,500 undergraduates who are age 25 or older, these problems can be especially unique.

Fenix is a seven-year-old program designed to help older students make a successful adjustment to college life. The Fenix staff in Holton Hall teaches older students everything from enrollment procedures to time management.

As stated in the Fenix handbook, the phoenix was a beautiful bird of ancient Egyptian myth which had the power to renew its own life. Since then, the phoenix has become the inspiration for those who have the courage and the vision to see the possibilities in life rather than the limitations.

Beverly Laskey, assistant director of the Fenix program and graduate student in education, said individual goals of Fenix students differ.

"Some adults return to college for personal growth and to explore different areas of interest. Others wish to complete a specific degree," she said.

Laskey said most Fenix students walking into a new world are scared, but they also face other problems.

Laskey said although Fenix students never use it as an excuse, they are at a disadvantage after being out of the school routine for some time.

"For some of these older students, algebra is 15 years stale. They are just not as comfortable as the freshman who has only been out of it a year," she said.

One of the most important things Fenix provides to its students is counseling, Laskey said.

"Most students are happy knowing that there is a place to air their concerns, whether it be a personal problem or the bureaucracy encountered on campus," she said.

Ruth Hoeflin, director of the Fenix program and professor of human development and family studies, said although many Fenix students are apprehensive, there is one thing which sets them apart from other students on campus.

"These students are extremely motivated and conscientious. They are willing to work and work," she said.

Hoeflin said most Fenix students are pleasantly surprised when they first step on campus because they feel no rejection from younger students.

Laskey said she feels obligated to make the Fenix student aware of what the world will look like in the future.

Group forms to fight effects of pornography

By MICHAEL D. BROWN
Collegian Reporter

An organization titled "Committee Opposed to Violence Against Women" is currently in the process of formation at K-State.

The committee, consisting of approximately 20 concerned women and men, was established this semester in an attempt to educate the campus on the effects of pornography on people's attitudes and behavior toward women, said committee founder Eunice Dorst.

In a statement of purpose, group members said they will actively oppose organizations and individuals who support pornography and other forms of degradation of women through the use of petitions, boycotts and pickets when necessary.

The group's concern is that pornography is a form of violence against women, and the organization will work toward making members of the University and the Manhattan community aware of this fact through films, speakers and other media.

An initial step the committee plans to make will be in the form of "concerned letters" to the corporate headquarters of certain Manhattan businesses which display and sell pornographic material such as magazines and videos. The letters will contain the organization's views and opinions, while suggesting possible avenues for display of the material, Dorst said.

"Currently we are greatly concerned with the exposure of pornography to children," said Laura Milner, faculty adviser and assistant director of New Student Programs. "Often materials are right next to the gum and candy."

Another project the group may undertake is the picketing of movie theaters which show films the committee believes to be degrading toward women and which portray violent sex as a positive aspect of a woman's sexuality.

"We're not opposed to material which depicts mature sexual scenes," said Tina Casteris, graduate in psychology and committee information specialist. "It's only when sexual violence and violence in general is introduced that we become upset."

Other future activities are also currently in the planning stage because of the still early developmental stages of the committee. The group plans to receive its actual "organization" status from the Union Activities Board on Feb. 19, and then real planning can get under way, said Elizabeth Day, senior in political science and committee member.

"Presently the organization meets on Thursday evenings at various locations and is open to everyone," Dorst said. "We certainly welcome those who wish to come and find out what we're about."

MONT BLUE APARTMENTS

Leasing for fall

Studio, one, and two bedroom apartments and town houses

Close to Campus

Phone 539-4447

A Get the ACE advantage
Launching a megatrend!

ASSOCIATION OF COLLEGIATE ENTREPRENEURS

Tonight
6-7 p.m.
Calvin 102
or contact:

Bob Brockhaus, Sponsor
Greg Smith, President
Room 19, Calvin Hall
532-6296

Presidents Day Sale

50-70% OFF
Winter Merchandise

1215 Moro
M-Sat 10-6
Thurs. till 8:30
Sun 1-5

carousel

THE ECONOMICS CLUB PROUDLY PRESENTS THE ARRIVAL OF... OMICRON DELTA EPSILON ECONOMICS HONORARY

Requirements: 3.0 G.P.A.
12 Hours of Economics

Information Meeting
Union 207, 7 p.m.
Tuesday, Feb. 18

Applications are available in Room 327 Waters Hall and are due Feb. 19 at 5 p.m.

MR. K'S

25¢ MONDAYS

•25¢ Draws •$2 Pitchers
•Free Cover w/Student ID

New NAB Drinks... Try Pina Coladas!

Godfather's PIZZA PURSUIT

Ridiculous facts concerning pizza and its origins...

Very few pizza eaters partake of the delicacy while wearing a bag over their heads...except, however, for one area of rural Toledo where all girls are urged to wear brown sacks until the age of 18...and one small town in the wine growing region of Italy where everyone is "in the bag."

ABSOLUTELY THE BEST PIZZA & POP VALUE IN MANHATTAN.
USE THESE COUPONS MONDAY-WEDNESDAY. FOR DELIVERY ONLY;
1118 Laramie AVAILABLE 5 TILL 11 P.M. 539-5303

Godfather's Pizza
1118 Laramie
539-5303

(You can always order extra toppings for a small additional charge)

USE THESE COUPONS MON.-WED. FOR DELIVERY ONLY; AVAILABLE 5 TILL 11 P.M.

Limit one pizza per coupon. Please present coupon before ordering or upon delivery. Not valid with any other offer. Good only at participating Godfather's Pizza restaurants. Offer expires 3-16-86. No cash value. Limited delivery area.

LARGE THIN CRUST PIZZA WITH 1 TOPPING AND 4 FREE 16 oz. BOTTLES OF DELIVERED FOR

$8.99

PLUS TAX

Godfather's Pizza
1118 Laramie
539-5303

(You can always order extra toppings for a small additional charge)

USE THESE COUPONS MON.-WED. FOR DELIVERY ONLY; AVAILABLE 5 TILL 11 P.M.

Limit one pizza per coupon. Please present coupon before ordering or upon delivery. Not valid with any other offer. Good only at participating Godfather's Pizza restaurants. Offer expires 3-16-86. No cash value. Limited delivery area.

MEDIUM THIN CRUST PIZZA WITH 1 TOPPING AND 3 FREE 16 oz. BOTTLES OF DELIVERED FOR

$6.99

PLUS TAX

Godfather's Pizza
1118 Laramie
539-5303

(You can always order extra toppings for a small additional charge)

USE THESE COUPONS MON.-WED. FOR DELIVERY ONLY; AVAILABLE 5 TILL 11 P.M.

Limit one pizza per coupon. Please present coupon before ordering or upon delivery. Not valid with any other offer. Good only at participating Godfather's Pizza restaurants. Offer expires 3-16-86. No cash value. Limited delivery area.

SMALL THIN CRUST PIZZA WITH 1 TOPPING AND 2 FREE 16 oz. BOTTLES OF DELIVERED FOR $4.99

PLUS TAX

One test where only you know the score.

(Check One)
Yes No

☐ ☐

Do you want to be the only one who knows when you use an early pregnancy test?

☐ ☐

Would you prefer a test that's totally private to perform and totally private to read?

☐ ☐

Would you like a test that's portable, so you can carry it with you and read it in private?

☐ ☐

And how about a simple, one-step test with a dramatic color change that's easy to read and is 98% accurate?

e.p.t. plus
Early Pregnancy Test

If you checked "Yes" to the above, EPT PLUS is for you. Use it, and only you will know your test score.

'Cats' rally falls short; Cyclones top K-State

By TONY CARBAJO
Sports Writer

AMES, Iowa — K-State fell victim to a pair of record-setting Jeffs Saturday afternoon and dropped two games in one season to Iowa State for the first time since 1945.

The Cyclones withstood a second half Wildcat comeback to win, 84-74. Iowa State guard Jeff Hornacek dished out 12 assists to race past former Kansas star Darnell Valentine's career mark of 609 on the all-time Big Eight Conference chart.

Cyclone forward Jeff Grayer scored 29 points on the way to breaking the Iowa State single-season sophomore scoring record, previously held by Barry Stevens.

K-State Coach Jack Hartman, trying to assert a little more offense into the lineup, started freshmen Ty Walker and Mark Dobbins.

The lineup change didn't seem to help the struggling Wildcats though, as Iowa State raced to a 42-28 halftime lead, due in part to 12 K-State turnovers.

"They (freshmen) have been coming on," Hartman explained about the lineup switch. "We tried to get some more offense into the lineup."

Every time the Wildcats attempted to make a run at Iowa State in the first half, they were foiled by a costly turnover or a hot shooting Cyclone team. Iowa State shot a sizzling 66 percent in the first half of play.

"I didn't think we fought very hard in the first half," Hartman said. "I think they are trying too hard, I really do. We need to get them relaxed."

"We had a couple of young guys who were nervous out there, I could see it in their eyes, but we played better in the second half," forward Norris Coleman said. "It is immaturity I would say."

Hartman had high praise for Hornacek, who continually baffled the Wildcats defense with sharp passing and long range jumpers. Hornacek finished the game with a 9-of-12 shooting performance for 23 points.

"I can't believe he always shoots better against us (than his average)," Hartman said. "Those were Larry Bird-type shots. But they (Iowa State) play especially well here."

"Assists are exciting plays," Hornacek said. "I really like to make them on fast breaks, it's almost too easy to feed them for jumpers. This is a great accomplishment for me."

"He (Hornacek) and Jeff (Grayer) had a great game and have had great years," said Iowa State Coach Johnny Orr. "I think Hornacek is a player who is going to get a chance in the NBA."

The Wildcats made a run at the Cyclones in the second half, closing to within nine points at the eight minute mark. K-State was aided in that stretch drive by Coleman, who scored 20 points in the second half to push his game-leading total to 30.

"It has been like that all year," Coleman said. "We get behind by 20 — make a surge — and then let up again. We have a young team. We will overcome that."

Percy Eddie and Lynn Smith both saw extensive playing time in the second half as Hartman credited them with the team's resurgence late in the game.

"Lynn and Percy inspired the rest of them," Hartman said. "The enthusiasm caught on. He (Smith) is a young, enthusiastic kid who plays hard everytime out. Percy played well too. He did some good things out there."

The Wildcats fell to 3-7 in the league and 15-10 overall. They meet Oklahoma State on Wednesday in Ahearn Field House. It will be Cowboys' Coach Paul Hansen's last game in Ahearn, as he was not offered a contract renewal last week.

K-STATE	MIN	FG	FT	R	F	TP
Mitchell	28	2-3	5-7	10	4	9
Coleman	40	13-21	4-5	13	3	30
Meyer	15	1-1	2-2	3	2	4
Green	2	0-1	0-0	0	1	0
Wright	31	6-13	1-1	2	4	13
Smith	20	0-1	0-1	1	2	0
Walker	24	2-4	0-0	0	1	4
Dobbins	27	4-10	0-0	2	2	8
Eddie	13	2-5	2-2	3	2	6
Totals	36-59	14-18	35	21	74

IOWA STATE	MIN	FG	FT	R	F	TP
Grayer	36	12-18	5-10	4	3	29
Hill	32	4-8	1-2	8	4	9
Virgil	35	6-7	0-0	2	0	12
Hornacek	39	9-12	5-6	4	2	23
Thompson	30	2-4	1-4	3	5	5
Rhodes	1	0-2	0-0	0	1	0
Parker	1	0-1	0-0	0	0	0
Poole	1	0-0	0-0	0	1	0
Robinson	7	0-2	0-0	2	3	0
Urquhart	1	0-1	0-0	0	0	0
Spinks	1	1-1	0-0	0	0	2
Moss	4	0-0	0-0	0	1	0
Schafer	12	2-3	0-0	0	0	4
Totals		36-59	12-22	26	20	84

Halftime score: Iowa State 42, K-State, 28
Turnovers: Iowa State 6, K-State 15
Field goal percentage: Iowa State 51, K-State 51
Attendance: 14,457

Despite report, K-State star claims he is eligible to play

By TONY CARBAJO
Sports Writer

Norris Coleman snapped back at his critics Saturday afternoon — not for what they have said about his court play — but to those who have questioned his high school transcript.

Coleman, K-State's 24-year old freshman, has been the center of much ado recently concerning his high school grade point average.

Television station KOMU (an NBC student-run affiliate) in Columbia, Mo., last week aired a segment stating Coleman did not have the appropriate grade point average in high school to compete at the National Collegiate Athletics Association Division I level.

The station even went as far as to display Coleman's transcript on the screen, which has some officials at K-State seething.

The controversy evolves around

Coleman's high school, Paxon High, in Jacksonville, Fla. Coleman attended junior high at a school across the street from Paxon, but the high school is considered a four-year school, according to statements made by Paxon's principal last week.

K-State athletic officials say they have a four-year transcript that is certified by Coleman's high school with the appropriate GPA requirements.

Some Ohio Valley Conference coaches, however, have said they backed off recruiting Coleman when he was stationed at Fort Campbell in Clarksville, Tenn., because he did not have the necessary GPA to enter school.

They claim if Paxon is a four-year school, then there are a lot of other prospective athletes who have not been admitted to Division I schools because their GPA was figured on a three-year basis.

This is where the controversy begins. Is Coleman's high school a three- or four-year program?

It has been questioned how KOMU received Coleman's transcript and if it was legal to air it. Ken Dubinsky, the Missouri student who reported the segment, said he received the transcript and information from Paxon High School, although officials have said the only time they talked to him, he only asked about Coleman's character and what kind of a student he was.

"It sort of discriminates against me showing my transcript on TV," Coleman said. "In my book and in the Big Eight officials book, I am eligible."

"That was a six-semester transcript they showed — my school is a four-year school," Coleman explained. "Most schools that recruited me didn't know that. I don't have to explain to the Big Eight or anyone else about it. I know (I am eligible)."

Staff/Jeff A. Taylor

Iowa State University forward Ron Virgil dives for a loose ball as K-State guard Joe Wright chases him down Saturday in the conference game at the Hilton Coliseum in Ames, Iowa. The Cyclones defeated the 'Cats, 84-64.

Doubles team earns tennis crown

By The Collegian Staff

K-State's Deon Botha and Shawn Walburn defeated the top-seeded Southwest Baptist doubles team of Yarbrough-Merino in the finals of the KSU Pepsi Open Sunday at the Cottonwood Racquet Club.

K-State Coach Steve Bietau said Botha and Walburn played well throughout the tournament and finished strong, defeating Yarbrough-Merino in straight sets, 6-4, 6-3, in the finals.

"I was pleased with everyone's effort," Bietau said. "But Shawn (Walburn) had a great tournament."

"I knew they (Botha and Walburn) could play well, but having them play this well this early is great."

Botha and Walburn made it to the semifinals Sunday by defeating the team of Rapp-Mack of Southwestern, 6-2, 6-0 in the opening round and the team of Johnson-Chung of Southwest Baptist, 6-4, 6-3 in the quarterfinals on Saturday. In the semifinals, Botha and Walburn defeated Westfall and Sanders (unattached) 6-2, 6-3.

Bietau said the main goal of the KSU Pepsi Open was for team members to get in as much playing time as possible.

"I was hoping we could get as many matches in as possible," Bietau said. "We had two teams play at least two matches, although two individuals didn't get to play."

The players who did not participate were Scott Chandler and Kris James. Chandler did not play because of the flu and James did not play for "personal reasons," Chandler and James.

K-State's team of Scott Sandlin and Darren Polite were defeated in the opening round by Hoover-Seaton (unattached), 6-4, 2-6, 7-6. Hoover and Seaton made it to the semifinals, but were eliminated by Yarbrough and Merino 6-1, 7-5.

Lady Cats' second-half comeback too much for Cyclones to handle

By TONY CARBAJO
Sports Writer

AMES, Iowa — Just when things seemed to have fallen in on the Lady Cats' season, K-State pulled an upset on league-leading Iowa State, 84-73, to move back into the thick of the Big Eight Conference race Saturday evening.

Coach Matilda Mossman witnessed one of her team's best efforts of the year, as all five starters reached the double-figure mark. The Lady Cats also were able to avoid the foul trouble that has plagued them in recent games.

K-State seemed poised to fall into its usual mid-game slump as it saw a five-point lead at the six-minute mark of the first half fall to a four-point halftime deficit. Iowa State increased that lead to eight early in the second half before the Lady Cats went on an 11-2 spurt to take their first lead of the half with 13 minutes remaining.

K-State caused several Cyclone turnovers and was able to cash those into fast-break layups while building up the lead to 18 points late in the second half of play.

"It is good for our kids to get this kind of victory," a relieved Coach Mossman said.

"The five or six we have lost we have been close and then fell off. The things we did tonight we did right."

"We got a few fast-break opportunities and we capitalized at the other end."

Mossman continued to shuffle players in and out of the lineup during the contest like cards in a poker game. The strategy worked to perfection, as K-State was able to avoid foul trouble and keep Iowa State's high scorers — Stephanie Smith and Jane Lobenstein — from dominating the game.

"(Cindy) Durham and (Carlisa) Thomas can be credited with holding Lobenstein and Smith," Mossman said. "We told the kids if our defense was good we could win the game."

Iowa State Coach Pam Wettig, who labeled the game everything from "horrible" to "a big disappointment" said her team was "trying not to lose instead of trying to win."

Thea Fitzpatrick had one of her better games of the year, as the junior college transfer scored 14 points and grabbed two rebounds from her guard position. Thomas paced the squad with 18 points.

Mossman was pleased with the team's victory, and as usual, she praised the defensive play of her team rather than single out individual performances.

"We will put in whoever matches up defensively," Mossman said of her starting lineup which continues to change frequently. "We don't have a top five."

The win moves the Lady Cats to 13-9 overall, 4-4 in the Big Eight.

K-STATE	MIN	FG	FT	R	F	TP
Thomas	31	8-18	2-2	7	0	18
Holley	29	5-13	1-1	9	3	11
Leiding	22	4-12	6-7	6	4	14
Green	37	7-11	0-0	3	2	14
Durham	22	4-10	4-5	3	1	12
Blecinski	8	0-0	1-2	2	1	1
Fitzpatrick	35	7-14	0-0	2	2	14
Kuebelbeck	9	0-0	0-0	0	1	0
Totals	35-78	11-18	38	13	81

IOWA STATE	MIN	FG	FT	R	F	TP
Hafner	37	12-22	0-0	4	2	14
Missel	26	4-12	0-0	4	2	14
Smith	36	6-20	2-2	5	4	14
Loebenstein	33	4-12	0-0	4	2	12
Burns	30	6-11	0-0	4	2	8
Wyatt	2	0-0	0-0	0	0	0
Horvath	5	0-2	0-0	1	0	0
Greiner	2	0-1	0-0	0	0	0
Bush	20	2-5	1-2	5	2	10
Thacker	13	5-11	0-0	1	1	00
O'Neill	6	0-0	0-0	2	1	00
Jaspers	3	0-0	0-0	0	0	0
Totals	31-83	5-8	30	16	73

Halftime score:	K-State 36, Iowa State 40
Turnovers:	K-State 13, Iowa State 15
Field goal percentage:	K-State 45, Iowa State 40
Attendance:	4,036

Halftime score: K-State 36, Iowa State 40
Turnovers: K-State 13, Iowa State 15
Field goal percentage: K-State 45, Iowa State 40
Attendance: 4,036

Cowboys give ousted coach lopsided win

By The Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Forty-eight hours after Oklahoma State Coach Paul Hansen found out his contract would not be renewed for next season, his players presented him with a rousing 86-65 victory Saturday over a Missouri team that had just walloped eighth-ranked Oklahoma.

"What happened today is what keeps coaches in the game," Hansen said. "This is the great thing about the game..."

The victory gives the Cowboys a 13-10 record and a Big Eight mark of 4-6.

Other winners in Big Eight games Saturday played at home. Oklahoma vented its frustration on hapless Colorado, 117-73; and No. 3 Kansas subdued a plucky Nebraska 79-61.

KU, whose four remaining league games include one at Oklahoma, seems to be headed for Coach Larry Brown's first Big Eight title. At 9-1, the Jayhawks hold a two-game lead over Oklahoma, 8-3. The Jayhawks, 24-3 overall, got 17 points from guard Cedric Hunter.

Oklahoma, 23-3 overall and perhaps in danger of dropping out of the Top Twenty, came within two points of a record. The point total was the all-time high for Oklahoma in a Big Eight game and only two points shy of the record 119 scored by Iowa State 11 years ago against... Colorado.

The Buffs seem to be getting irritable as they slide closer and closer to an embarrassing distinction. No Big Eight team ever went 0-14 in the regular conference season, but Coach Tom Apke's 1985-86 Buffs are 8-15 overall and 0-10 in the league.

In the final minutes, Colorado's Scott Wilke was ejected for a flagrant foul on Oklahoma reserve Conley Phipps.

Staff/Jeff A. Taylor

K-State guard Susan Green aggressively defends against Iowa State University guard Jane Lobenstein during Saturday's contest. Green finished the game with 14 points as the Lady Cats downed the Cyclones 84-73 at the Hilton Coliseum in Ames, Iowa.

Professor tries to sell wheat

By SHELLY CHENOWETH
Staff Writer

In an attempt to sell more U.S. wheat and update the Chinese baking industry, Don Dubois, adjunct professor in grain science and industry, will spend two months traveling and lecturing in China.

Dubois will leave Feb. 26 and return April 20.

"The purpose of these seminars I'm doing is to try to bring the Chinese baking industry into the 20th century. From 1949 to 1979 they were shut out from the rest of the world. When I first went to China in 1980, they were using equipment built before 1949," Dubois said.

"The bottom line to these seminars is to sell more U.S. wheat to China," he said.

In 1979, the U.S. Wheat Associates offered a completely automated bread bakery to China. The associates supplied the equipment and helped with the construction of the bakery, and the Chinese government supplied the building.

Dubois went to China in 1981 to "show the people at the bakery how to make white bread," he said.

Since 1981, Dubois has traveled to China nine times. One phase of each of these trips has been to check on the bakery.

The U.S. Wheat Associates also helped build a baking school in Beijing, China. Dubois has been helping develop the curriculum for the school since 1983. People have come from China to the American Institute of Baking in Manhattan to learn techniques they will need to know to teach at the school in China.

On this trip to China, Dubois will assist in opening the first class to be taught at the school. He will also present the opening lecture.

Another of his assignments will be to present seminars at various cities throughout China.

"I go into the city, find out what they want me to talk about and prepare the talk the night before. I have found out it doesn't work any other way. If I go in with a prepared lecture, they always want me to talk about something else," Dubois said.

Dubois has 700 slides he takes on his travels. When he finds out the topic his sponsors would like him to address, he compiles his talk from the slides and his experience and knowledge of the baking industry.

All of Dubois' slides are in the language of the country in which he is speaking.

"An off-the-cuff seminar like that really isn't too bad because if I speak for three hours it is really a six-hour lecture because of the time it takes to interpret my words into Chinese," Dubois said.

Besides China, Dubois has traveled to the Soviet Union, South America, Europe and several Southeast Asian countries promoting grain and wheat products.

Dubois graduated from K-State in 1942 with a bachelor's degree in milling science. Since then he has been associated with the baking industry. He joined the American Institute of Baking when it moved to Manhattan in 1978.

He retired as AIB's director of technical service in January 1986.

The Chinese government encourages these seminars and exchanges of information, Dubois said.

The Chinese believe wheat foods are more nutritious than rice. They also want to make bakery foods which can be used as convenience foods.

"Most of the Chinese women work eight hours a day, ride a bicycle home for an hour and then spend one or two hours cooking. They hope to create convenience products to cut down on the women's work load," Dubois said.

Economics is a third reason the government encourages the seminars, Dubois said. The Chinese can import wheat to use as food, then sell their rice. By exporting their rice and eating wheat products, they can save money.

Last fall Dubois traveled to the Soviet Union. Presenting his seminar in the Soviet Union was not as easy as it was in China, he said.

"For the past 10 years, the U.S. Wheat Associates have been trying to get permission to get people into the Soviet Union to tell them about milling and baking practices," Dubois said. "But we finally got permission to go in and give a two-day seminar. This was the first time a representative from the AIB had been permitted to go to the Soviet Union."

Dubois said at first the Soviets were "cool" towards him. But in the end Dubois said this seminar turned out to be his most successful seminar ever.

The purpose of the Soviet seminar was "to sell wheat, and to open up doors," Dubois said.

"They told us this would be a trial. If this seminar worked out, maybe there would be more. After our seminar, they asked our sponsors for four more seminars, so I felt we really opened the door," Dubois said.

Sunset Zoo's St. Valentine bash better than a barrel of monkeys

By The Collegian Staff

Most parents there were thankful their own children were not acting as Don Wixom's were — pounding on doors, jumping up and down, squalling at the tops of their lungs.

"Aren't you glad your kids don't act like that?" Wixom, director of the Sunset Zoo, said to parents gathered for the zoo's St. Valentine's Day party Friday afternoon.

But Mac, Susie and Rachel, chimpanzees at the zoo, were just showing their appreciation to the crowd of 50 who came to the E.J. Frick Primate House to celebrate the occasion. And, like children, all the chimps wanted was to eat cake — carrot cake with cream cheese frosting covered with fresh fruit.

The party began at 3:30 p.m., and the primate house was decorated for the occasion, with red and white paper hearts on the windows of the cages.

Children from the surrounding communities brought valentines to the zoo animals and put them on a paper tree in the building. There were valentines for the monkeys, lions, peacocks, emu chicks and prairie dogs, as well as some for Wixom.

While they were waiting for the chimps to make their appearance, several of the children speculated on how the chimps would get from their barred cages into the neighboring exhibit, separated by two sliding metal doors.

"They're going to get two people in there (the glass cage) and open it up, and then they are going to get the heck out of there," said Sam

Knighten of Ogden.

"They (the chimps) just love to show off," said Caroline Meek, head zookeeper. "Mac just loves to see people jump back (in surprise)."

The crowd did just that when Big Mac was let out of his cage. The chimp took a flying leap from the top cage, covering half the distance of the cage, and slammed into the glass at the opposite end of the cage, face to face with the front row of surprised onlookers.

"It was funny when Big Mac came out of his cage," said Alisa Jud of Manhattan.

Wixom said at last year's party, the chimps were let out of their cages simultaneously and Big Mac ate all three of the cakes. This year, Susie and Rachel were let out first, then Big Mac.

Haitian leader receives no asylum

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Ousted Haitian leader Jean-Claude Duvalier will not be allowed into the United States because U.S. officials cannot guarantee his safety from angry Haitians or from extradition to his homeland, a State Department spokeswoman said Sunday.

The statement, read by department spokeswoman Anita Stockman, followed reports from France that Duvalier and his family had been booked to fly from Paris to New York, but canceled the reservations after U.S. officials declined to accept him.

Duvalier's attorney in France, Sauveur Vaisse, said it appeared that French authorities were seeking to ship the former president-for-life to the United States, but that talks had reached a "dead end."

Classifieds

CLASSIFIED RATES

One day: 15 words or fewer, $2.25, 15 cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.25, 20 cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.00, 25 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.50, 30 cents per word over 15; Five consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.75, 35 cents per word over 15.

Classifieds are payable in advance unless client has an established account with Student Publications. Deadline is noon the day before publication; noon FRIDAY for Monday's paper.

Student Publications will not be responsible for more than one wrong classified insertion. It is the advertiser's responsibility to contact the paper if an error exists. No adjustment will be made if the error does not alter the value of the ad.

Items found ON CAMPUS can be advertised FREE for a period not exceeding three days. They can be placed at Kedzie 103 or by calling 532-6555.

Display Classified Rates

One day: $4.65 per inch; Three consecutive days: $4.25 per inch; Five consecutive days: $3.95 per inch; Ten consecutive days: $3.75 per inch. (Deadline is 4:30 p.m. two days before publication.)

Classified advertising is available only to those who do not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, sex or ancestry.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

01

MARY KAY Cosmetics—Color awareness, products, and free facial. Anna Prockish, 1001 Bluemont, 537-4246. (891)

OPEN AUDITIONS for "California Suite" and other upcoming productions at Gregov's Sunday, February 23rd, 2:30-5 p.m.; Monday, February 24th, 6:30-9 p.m. Gregov's 2605 Stagg Hill Road. (99-100)

ATTENTION

02

FLYING INTEREST you? Check into K-State Flying Club. Call Steve Dyer at 532-5600 or 537-0458. (61)

SPRING BREAK on the beach at South Padre Island, Daytona Beach, Fort Lauderdale, Fort Walton Beach or Mustang Island/Port Aransas from only $89 and skiing at Steamboat or Vail from only $85! Deluxe lodging, parties, goodie bags, more... Hurry, call Sunchase Tours for more information and reservations toll free 1-800-321-5911 or contact a local Sunchase Representative today! When your Spring Break counts... count on Sunchase. (80-109)

HEE'S ALTERATIONS—Suits, coats, jeans, zippers and all types of alterations. 1125 Laramie Plaza, Aggieville. Monday thru Friday, 10 a.m.-5:30 p.m.; Saturdays, 10 a.m.-4 p.m. 776-7959. (871)

SKI SPRING Break—Breckenridge, Keystone, and Copper Mountain. March 9, 10 and 11 only $220. Price includes transportation, lodging, ski rental and lift tickets. For information, call 537-2995. (81-108)

TRIATHLON SEMINAR—Marilyn Avery will discuss training and competing Tuesday, February 18, 7 p.m. at the Pathfinder. No charge. (98-100)

CREATIVE THINKING singles, find kindred spirits through the directory for educated singles. Loveline, P.O. Box 3602 KSC, Lawrence, KS, 66048. One-issue-membership $4. (99-104)

APO MEETING 7 p.m., Union, Rm. 207. (99)

DISTINGUISH YOURSELF—From the 960,000 grads hitting the job market this year. Advanced Class Rings—K-State Union Bookstore, March 3-7. (99)

FOR RENT—MISC

03

COSTUMES—FROM gorilla suits to Hawaiian leis. Makeup, wigs, periodical clothing, masks, grass skirts, all occasions available. Treasure Chest, Aggieville. (281)

SEE MARIE for all your costume needs. If I don't have it, I'll make it for you. Marie's Costumes, 17th and Humboldt, 539-5200. Parking in the rear. (901)

SPRING BREAK—Deluxe two-bedroom condo: pool, hot tub, sauna, close to Breckenridge, Copper, Keystone, $100/night. Call (303) 420-1713. (96-105)

FOR RENT—APTS

04

FOR AUGUST—Deluxe two bedroom furnished apartment, across the street from Ford Hall. 539-2482 after 4:00 p.m. (92-102)

BRAND NEW three bedroom. One and one-half baths, near campus. Available May, June or August, $480/month. Call 537-8800. (891)

PLAN FOR the summer and the 1986-87 school year. McCullough Development Inc. is now accepting applications for summer and fall leases. Call us, we manage over 300 university area apartments. 776-3804. (891)

AVAILABLE IMMEDIATELY—Furnished one bedroom apartment, one block from Ahearn. Call 776-9124. (91-108)

BRAND NEW deluxe two, three and four bedroom apartment complexes for fall. All close to campus, reasonably priced. Call 537-2919. (93-115)

NICE ONE, two, three and four bedroom apartments and houses. Also an elegant five bedroom house with three baths. Most near campus, available now, summer and fall. Good prices. Call 537-2919. (93-115)

PRAIRIE GLEN—A really nice place to live. Two bedroom unit available. 776-4786. (94-108)

EFFICIENCY APARTMENT, $185/month. Heat, gas, water included. Call 537-7794 evenings and weekends. (95-104)

CLOSE TO campus—Two bedroom furnished apartment complex, laundry facilities, leasing for fall for two to four students. 537-0152. (95-107)

THREE BEDROOM in a near new nine plex—One and a half baths, living room, dining room and fully equipped kitchen. Roomy and large closets. Limit four persons, $125 each or $450. Call 537-7087. (95-99)

VERY NICE one bedroom apartment. Utilities paid, seven minute walk to campus, unfurnished. 539-5015 after 3 p.m. (96-100)

913 BLUEMONT—Brand new three bedroom building available May 15. Call 537-7980 or 537-7810. (961)

1207 KEARNEY or 1214 Vattier—Almost new three bedroom, laundry facilities. Available August 1. Call 537-2255 or 537-7810. (961)

1530 MCCAIN Lane, overlook campus—Luxury two bedroom, fireplace, modern appliances, laundry facilities. Available August 1. Call 537-7980 or 537-7810. (961)

NEAR KSU for summer and fall. Four plex, one bedroom, furnished, laundry, air conditioning, reasonable. 776-7814, 539-3803. (96-105)

CLOSE TO campus—Excellent furnished three bedroom apartment available for fall. Also two bedroom apartment for summer and fall. 537-0152. (97-107)

SPACIOUS FURNISHED two bedroom in a six-plex one block east of campus, 1115 North 12th. Living room, dining room, patio deck, fully equipped kitchen with dishwasher. $150 each three persons; $112.50 each four persons. Phone 537-7087. (99-101)

AVAILABLE NOW—One, two, three bedroom apartments. Kids, pets, waterbeds negotiable. $200-350. Joel 539-0909, or Dick 537-1109. (98-100)

TWO AND one-bedroom apartments across campus and Aggieville. Available June 1st. Respectively $265-$285 and $190 monthly. 539-4318. (98-103)

NEXT TO campus—Centennial Apartments (two-building west of 1st Bank Plaza on Claffin). Luxury one/two bedroom, central air, carpeting, balcony, offstreet parking. 539-2702, evenings. (99-108)

NEXT TO campus—1524 McCain Lane (across Highway), luxury two bedroom apartments, fireplace, balcony, offstreet parking, laundry facility. 539-2702, evenings. (99-108)

FOR RENT—HOUSES

05

SEVERAL THREE, four, and five bedroom houses for June occupancy. Clean and good condition guaranteed. $395 and up. 537-1269. (931)

FOUR BEDROOM house for rent. Available in June, one year lease. Call 539-7569 after 5 p.m. (96-100)

FOR SALE—AUTO

06

1969 VW Bug—Runs good, 25-30 mpg, only $700. Call 532-3443. (96-101)

NEW EXHAUST system—$995! Free with it. New battery, radial snow tires, and 1976 Dodge Royal Monaco! Call Andrew (532-3678). (96-100)

IS IT true you can buy Jeeps for $44 through the U.S. government? Get the facts today! Call 1-312-742-1142, ext. 3286-A. (99)

FOR SALE—MISC

07

OFFICE SUPPLIES—Hull's Business Machines, 715 North 12th, Aggieville. 539-1413. (551)

GOVERNMENT SURPLUS! Raincoats, overcoats, field jackets, camouflage clothing, sleeping bags, camping gear, much more! St. Mary's Surplus Sales, 1-437-2734. (92-101)

TYPEWRITER RIBBONS. Royal, Brother, Silver Reed, Smith Corona. Hull Business Machines, 715 North 12th in Aggieville. 539-7931. (96-108)

Sub of the Week

WESTERN
The best submarine joint in Aggieville
AL'S DELI
718 N. Manhattan

Bloom County

By Berke Breathed

Garfield

By Jim Davis

Peanuts

By Charles Schulz

Crossword

ACROSS

- 1 Architect
- 5 Shake a
- 8 Harrow's rival
- 12 More impudent
- 14 Son of Loki
- 15 New York City's nickname
- 16 Part
- 17 Word with mask or station
- 18 Expunged
- 20 Dutch painter
- 23 Obstacle
- 24 Roach and Holbrook
- 25 Most obese
- 28 Sky god
- 29 Rakes
- 30 Broadway success
- 32 City in Pennsylvania
- 34 Roman statesman
- 35 Nick and Nora's dog
- 36 Disease of rye

DOWN

- 1 Recede
- 2 Son of Gad
- 3 Joplin opus
- 4 Oranges and Indians
- 5 Smack one's
- 6 Deep sea shocker
- 7 Beverage
- 8 Make angry
- 9 Resort in New Mexico
- 10 Heraldic bearing
- 11 Require
- 13 Cross over
- 19 Sneaky ones
- 20 Na Na of TV
- 21 African lake
- 22 Hebrew month
- 23 Finnish bath
- 25 Woodland lane
- 26 Kind of rug
- 27 Josip Broz
- 29 Ponselle or Bonheur
- 31 Small child
- 33 Scotch plaid
- 34 Eerie House
- 37 Impromptu attempt
- 38 River in Italy
- 39 Dorothy's dog
- 40 Church part
- 43 Luau dish
- 44 "The Gold Bug" author
- 45 "Ain't — Shame?"
- 46 Ending for heir or lion

Ans. to yesterday's puzzle

CRYPTOQUIP

2-17
DK LKQETQALQKRQP HDAP
QKQA PVH VT QERVFF
Yesterday's Cryptoquip: IDLE BATTER'S LABOR SHOULD BE TO HIT AND RUN.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: T equals P

Clip and Save
1/4 Pound Hamburger
69¢
The Ritz
Not good with other specials
One burger per coupon
Expires 2-23-86

HELP WANTED

13

COUPLE For Assistant Manager of large apartment complex. Live-in maintenance ability necessary. Send resume to Box 3, Collegian. (761)

CRUISESHIPS HIRING! $16,300.00. Caribbean, Hawaii, World! Call for Guide, Cassette, Newsletter. (916) 944-4444, Ext. KansasCruise. (76-102)

AIRLINE HIRING boom! $14,839.000! Stewardesses (Reservationsists) Call for Guide, Cassette, Newsletter. (916) 944-4444 XUAWS8. (89-108)

SUMMER JOBS. National Park Co's 21 parks, 5,000 openings. Complete information, $5. Park Report. Mission Mtn. Co., 651 2nd Ave. W.N., Kalispell, MT 59901. (89-110)

OVERSEAS JOBS—Summer, year round. Europe, South America, Australia, Asia. All fields. $900. 2,000 month. Sightseeing, free information. write IJC, P.O. Box 52-KS-2, Corona Del Mar, Ca. 92625. (91-110)

ADVERTISING SALES: Energetic, intelligent, outgoing sales person needed for daily newspaper, ad. advertising sales department. Need appearance, good communication, with an imagination and feel for advertising layout and copy. Good career opportunity for right person. Qualified applicants may send resume to: Michael Heilinger, Montgomery Publications, P.O. Box 129, Junction City, KS 66441 or call 913-762-5000 for an appointment. (91-100)

CHAMBER MANAGER, Pratt, Kansas Degree and prefer experience. For information contact Box 469, Pratt, KS or call 315-672-5501. (96-100)

NOTICES

15

SPAGHETTI? SPAGHETTI! All you can eat! with garlic toast! 4:30-6:30 p.m. Tuesday, February 18, in the K-State Union Stateroom. (99-100)

PERSONAL

16

KRISTAL BRADSHAW—A gem like you should have a Happy Birthday, so have a good day! The other person in A-11. (99)

ROOMMATE WANTED

17

ROOMMATE WANTED to share house—Own room, close to campus, negotiable rent, half utilities. 539-4697. (96-100)

SERVICES

18

PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free pregnancy test. Confidential. Call 537-9180. 103 S. Fourth St., Suite 25. (111)

MANHATTAN CAMERA repairs cameras and equipment. 228 Poyntz, 776-4240. (411)

WORD PROCESSING by computer, professional quality, letter-quality printer (not dot-matrix), disk storage. 776-6166. (131)

TYPING/EDITING, letter quality word processor, professional resumes, cover letters, personalized form letters, disk storage. 539-5007. (76-113)

PROFESSIONALLY WRITTEN resumes, word processed cover letters, and typing. Resume Service, 1221 Moro Place, 537-7294. (721)

MRS. KIM—Professional dressmaker and tailor. Alterations. 27 years experience. No pattern necessary. 537-2393. (82-111)

STOP PAYING $28 hour for VW repairs. Let the Bug Doctor at J & L Auto Service repair yours and save $8 per hour. Only seven minutes east. Highway 24. Bugs, Rabbits, Ghia's, Type 3's included. 1-494-2388, St. George. (85-105)

GRAPHS and scientific drawings, suitable for publication and slides. Call Janet, 776-9389. (94-103)

EXPERIENCED TYPIST—Word-quality printer, computer, disk storage. $1/page. 532-5961/537-9205. Dorinda. (95-10

NASA says escape impossible for crew Election

By The Associated Press

SPACE CENTER, Houston — No matter how else NASA improves the shuttle's safety, "all the money in the world" will not provide a way for the crew to escape during the first two minutes while the solid rocket boosters are firing, an expert says.

The survival of the astronauts during launch depends absolutely on those boosters working properly, Tommy Holloway, chief of the flight director's office at the Johnson Space Center, said in an interview.

If those rockets fail, he said, "you don't have a snowball's chance in hell."

Failure of the right solid rocket booster, or SRB, is the prime suspect in the Jan. 28 explosion that destroyed Challenger and killed its crew of seven 73 seconds after liftoff.

"There really wasn't anything that the ground or the crew could have done about this problem," Holloway said.

Once the boosters' solid propellant is ignited, they cannot be stopped or slowed and will burn until the propellant is depleted, slightly more than two minutes after blast-off.

After they burn out, at about 10 miles altitude, the SRBs are separated and parachuted to the ocean.

The boosters, teamed with the shuttle's main engines fueled by liquid hydrogen and oxygen from the external tank, push the whole "stack" — weighing 4.5 million pounds when Challenger took off — to more than twice the speed of sound within seconds after liftoff.

Holloway said that even if some escape system was designed, such as ejecting the whole crew compartment while the SRBs are burning, the crew would still be killed because of the high speeds reached while the SRBs are firing.

The engineer said Challenger might have been torn apart just by the force of the air smashing into it at such high speeds, instead of by the fireball that enveloped it.

Continued from Page 1

disobey orders that were "unjust."

"Although unarmed, I feel like the young boy David prepared to face the giant Goliath," she said. "If Goliath refuses to yield, we shall escalate our non-violent struggle."

In a news conference at the presidential palace, Marcos again rejected charges he won through fraud and said he would not step down.

"I am the president. They are not going to drive me out. The people are behind me," he said.

Marcos also announced that Ver, the armed forces chief, had resigned, and he had accepted the resignation.

But he said Ver would remain available as a consultant.

Constabulary Chief Lt. Gen. Fidel V. Ramos was appointed interim chief of staff, Marcos said.

Ver, 66, was charged in the August 1983 assassination of Aquino's husband, opposition leader Benigno Aquino. But a court later acquitted him, 24 other military men and one civilian also accused in the murder.

U.S. officials, concerned about a growing communist insurgency in the Philippines, saw Ver as a hindrance to military reforms.

Ver's resignation was announced a day before Marcos, Aquino, and other Filipino leaders were to meet with Philip Habib, a special envoy sent by President Reagan to observe the aftermath of the divisive election.

Tylenol maker says poisonings occur in stores

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK — The chairman of Johnson & Johnson on Sunday disputed suggestions that cyanide was put in Tylenol capsules at the plant or distribution center, saying it seemed too great a coincidence that two bottles would "end up at two stores a block and a half apart."

At least 14 states and the District of Columbia, along with Italy, have banned sales of Tylenol capsules or ordered them off store shelves, and one official called on the federal government to control production and sale of all drugs in capsules.

A young woman died in suburban Westchester County after taking two capsules that contained potassium cyanide. A second poisoned bottle of capsules was found later in a store less than two blocks from the market where the woman's pills were bought.

Investigators reported no new leads in the case, according to the chairman of the company that manufactures the popular painkiller.

Interviewed on the ABC News program "This Week with David Brinkley," Johnson & Johnson's James Burke said FBI Director William Webster told him Sunday morning that, "Unfortunately, there's nothing new at this time."

Burke disagreed with Westchester District Attorney Carl Vergari, who said FBI test results led him to believe the capsules were poisoned "at the plant."

Vergari said FBI officials told him that tests indicated the seals on both tainted bottles had not been broken after they left the factory.

But Burke said the bottles came from two plants, one in Pennsylvania, the other in Puerto Rico.

Poll

Continued from Page 1

Creating a state lottery and legalizing pari-mutuel wagering are not viable options to provide funding for the coming fiscal year, state leaders have said, because they would bring in only about $50 million a year by most estimates, and the revenue from them would not start flowing in time to help finance the next budget.

The survey, reported by the Capital-Journal in a copyright story in its Sunday edition, was conducted for the newspaper by Central Research Corp. of Topeka.

New Year

Continued from Page 1

did play some American songs that I knew."

The Lunar New Year heralds the approach of spring and traditionally represents the "season of renewal."

Traditional Chinese celebrations include a spring house cleaning and the hanging of messages of good will and good luck over the doors of each neighbor's home.

Several countries celebrated the Year of the Tiger on the Asian continent last week, as Vietnam, China, Tibet, Taiwan, Thailand and both North and South Korea welcomed in the new year.

New year celebrations from other countries which will be held in the coming months.

JOHNSON

Leadership tailored to K-State

JOHNSON IS:

- positive representation
- effective communication
- a proven leader

JOHNSON IS: SERIOUS ABOUT K-STATE & YOU

Paid for by students for Johnson.

UPC ARTS COMMITTEE PRESENTS

An Exhibition and Sale of Fine Art Reproductions And Laser Photography

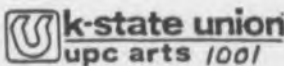

February 17 - 21
9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

1st Floor Concourse
K-State Union

$4.50 EACH
3 for $12

M. C. ESCHER, RENOIR, VAN GOGH, PICASSO, SEURAT, DALI, AND MANY MORE AVAILABLE

Exclusive Art Prints, Inc. /

CHEAP MONDAYS & TUESDAYS!

70¢ DRAFT BEERS

★ $2.25 PITCHERS

85¢ BOTTLED DOMESTIC BEER

★★ HAVE YOU JOINED OUR AROUND THE WORLD BEER CLUB?

PRESENT THE SUN OF A BEACH PARTY

Feb. 26

In conjunction with DERBY DAYS KICK-OFF PARTY

DOOR PRIZES:

GRAND PRIZE: TRIP FOR 2 TO ANY OF 3 HOT SPOTS TO FLORIDA.

1st PRIZE: FREE HOT TUB PARTY

CASH PRIZES FOR: BEST TANS, BEST BEACH BUM & TOP LIMBO SPECIALIST

BEST PALEFACE RECEIVES FREE TANNING SESSIONS!

PLUS MANY OTHER FREE PRIZES SUPPLIED BY:

So come and support Derby Days and remember: This is the party often chased but never caught!!

Coors

Presents Painters Cap Night

On Tuesday, Feb. 18,
KSU'S Lady Cats battle Oklahoma State. 700 painters caps will be distributed free of charge courtesy of Junction City Distributing.

Be There!

Inside

Water Hockey

Members of the Konza Sea Divers gather for an underwater hockey game. See Page 6.

Weather

Partly Sunny

Partly sunny today, high in mid- to upper 60s. Fair tonight, low in mid-30s.

Sports

High Hopes

After an 18-point performance against Iowa State, Carlisa Thomas hopes to help the Lady Cats beat Oklahoma State tonight. See Page 8.

Kansas State

Collegian

Tuesday
February 18, 1986

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 92, Number 100

NASA inspects shuttle debris for clues

By The Associated Press

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — Engineers examined photos and debris retrieved from the ocean floor Monday to determine if a submarine has located parts of the right-hand booster rocket implicated in the explosion of space shuttle Challenger.

But NASA spokesman Hugh Harris said it probably would be at least Wednesday before a determination is made on whether components of the booster have been spotted.

Recovery of rocket sections could provide a vital clue to what caused the tragedy because NASA launch photographs show a puff of black smoke bursting from the booster near a seal on liftoff and a tongue of flame spewing from the same area 59 seconds into the flight.

Challenger's fuel tank, holding nearly 500,000 gallons of liquid hydrogen and liquid oxygen, exploded at 73 seconds, eight miles high. All seven crew members were killed.

A presidential commission investigating the accident has focused on the right-hand booster as one of the leading theories for the explosion.

The crew of the four-man research submarine Johnson Sea-Link 2 reported Sunday it had photographed objects believed to be sections of the 149-foot rocket 1,200 feet down in the Atlantic about 45 miles northeast of Cape Canaveral.

NASA said the submarine's mechanical arm also recovered a few small components which were being studied on the sub's mother ship, the Seaward Johnson.

Officials said the photographs and videotapes were brought back to the Kennedy Space Center for initial study and then were flown to the Marshall Space Flight Center in Huntsville, Ala., which oversees NASA's shuttle engine work. The photos are being compared with pictures of the rocket taken before the Jan. 28 launching. The Sea-Link 2 crew was taking additional photos Monday.

Salvaging remains of the rocket, if indeed they have been found, could take several days because of murky waters and swift currents.

Investigators particularly want to look at an area near a seal between the lower two of the rocket's four segments. It is in this area that the smoke and flame were seen.

The joints between segments are sealed by a set of synthetic rubber D-rings intended to keep hot gases

See SHUTTLE, Page 10

Coliseum committee reviews cost estimate

By TIM CARPENTER
Editorial Page Editor

Architect Bill Livingston met President Duane Acker's Monday deadline for submitting a construction cost estimate on the proposed Fred Bramlage Coliseum, but the chairman of the Coliseum Program Committee declined to release the estimate.

However, a coliseum committee member, who refused to be identified, said Monday afternoon the construction cost will be approximately $850,000 more than the $14.5 million budgeted.

Acker instructed Livingston Wednesday by letter to calculate a construction cost estimate so the coliseum planning process could proceed and a decision be made about the viability of the

See COLISEUM, Page 9

Hall resident suffers injury from smoke

Fire ignites in laundry room of Moore Hall

By The Collegian Staff

A minor fire in a laundry-room dryer caused the evacuation of Moore Hall residents about 7 last night. Lieutenant David Sharp of the Manhattan Fire Department said the fire was contained in the dryer.

One student was hospitalized for smoke inhalation. Brecky Jones, freshman in business administration, was passing by the laundry on her way back from dinner when the laundry door was opened. She was overcome by smoke. Beverly Marshall, freshman in business administration, was watching television in the basement at the time. She saw Jones collapse from the smoke and was able to pull Jones to safety.

Jones was taken by Riley County Ambulance personnel to Lafene Student Health Center where she was treated and released.

Residents were allowed to return to their rooms 15 minutes after the incident. No damage estimate was available.

Residents said there had been at least one other incident of a dryer malfunction, which was taken care of by a custodian. However, Moore staff members would not confirm or deny this, or comment on Monday's fire.

Although he was not sure, Sharp said the fire may have been caused by a malfunctioning gas valve.

"These laundry facilities are pretty old," one staff member said.

Moore Hall was built in 1965.

Brecky Jones, freshman in business administration, is removed from Moore Hall on a stretcher Monday night by Riley County Ambulance personnel after she suffered smoke inhalation resulting from a dryer fire in a laundry room. Jones was transported to Lafene Student Health Center where she was treated and released.

Presidential candidate withdraws from search

By The Collegian Staff

John Slaughter, the chancellor of the University of Maryland at College Park and reportedly among the group of nine semifinalists for the University presidency, has withdrawn his name from consideration.

Jerome Frieman, associate professor of psychology and chairman of the Presidential Search Committee, said he would not "say he is or isn't" still a candidate.

However, The Associated Press,

quoting a source close to the search committee, reported Slaughter had withdrawn.

Slaughter, a 1956 graduate of K-State with a bachelor's degree in electrical engineering, was included on a list of nine semifinalists published by the Wichita Eagle-Beacon 10 days ago.

The Associated Press reported Monday that it was not clear why Slaughter removed his name, but some sources indicated that it may have been because his candidacy was made public and the risk of not getting the presidency was too great.

"None of the candidates have a real indication what names we are going to send to the Board (of Regents). Anyone staying in (the race) is really gambling. With so many candidates the odds aren't good, but with three the odds are really good," Frieman said.

The search committee, organized in September 1985, is charged with the task of forwarding to the regents a minimum of three and a maximum of five candidates for the position. President Duane Acker will vacate the $92,000-a-year job in June.

Slaughter, who is black, received his master's in engineering from UCLA and a doctorate in engineering from the University of California at San Diego. He has served as director of the National Science Foundation in Washington, D.C., and has been chancellor at Maryland for three years.

U.S. official meets with Philippine candidates

By The Associated Press

MANILA, Philippines — President Reagan's special envoy, Philip Habib, met separately Monday with President Ferdinand E. Marcos and with Corazon Aquino, both unyielding in their claims to the Philippine presidency.

When Reagan sent Habib here, he said the veteran troubleshooter was on a fact-finding mission and would report back to him on the aftermath of the Feb. 7 presidential election.

Aquino was still ahead in an independent vote count although the National Assembly officially proclaimed Marcos the victor Saturday.

Aquino's spokesman, Rene Saguisag, said the opposition candidate gave Habib "an earful" about perceived U.S. support for Marcos.

In a printed statement Monday, Aquino said, "What is at stake here is more than the removal of an impostor president. It is the future of democracy itself."

Some U.S. officials hinted Habib might try to act as a negotiator, but neither Habib nor the people he met gave any sign that was so.

Despite world criticism of Marcos' victory claim, growing economic pressures and a unified and emboldened opposition, the president seemed confident he can rule for another six years.

His only public comment after meeting two hours with Habib was that Habib guaranteed he was "not interested in any way in telling us how to run our affairs."

Marcos, who has been running the Philippines for 20 years with a mixture of authoritarian rule and democracy, said he gave Habib documents proving his opponents cheated and used violence in the election.

Roman Catholic bishops, independent pollwatchers, international observers, and Reagan himself have cited fraud and terrorism by the government side.

See MARCOS, Page 10

Notices

Henry Cisneros, mayor of San Antonio, Texas, and president of the National League of Cities, will present an All-University Convocation at 10:30 a.m. today in McCain Auditorium. Cisneros will be speaking about "The Survival of America's Cities."

Today is the last day to drop a class without a "W" being recorded. The drop/add center is open from 8:15 a.m. to 4:45 p.m. in the basement of Farrell Library. Students must present a validated ID when dropping or adding a class.

Legislators hear issue on handicapped

By SARAH KESSINGER
Staff Writer

Associated Students of Kansas kicked off Higher Education Week at the state capitol Monday by talking with legislators to bring to their attention the platforms of the University and state ASK offices.

Kevin Elmore, K-State ASK director and senior in computer science, said he would be going between Manhattan and Topeka this week while trying to get students to Topeka to talk to their hometown legislators.

Five K-State ASK representatives visited with 10 to 15 senators and representatives Monday about university issues and resolutions passed Sunday at an ASK legislative assembly at the University of Kansas.

The main issue concerning University ASK representatives was the $150,000 of the $700,000 of student funds allocated by the Student Senate last Thursday for handicap accessibility of Anderson Hall.

Elmore said right now K-State is in violation of the law because it has created a separate but equal facility by giving money to Anderson Hall while other buildings on campus remain inaccessible.

"This is essentially depriving some students," Elmore said. "If I'm a handicapped student in business and my teacher has to come to Blumont Hall to teach me, (because the class is held in an inaccessible building), I'm missing out on the classroom atmosphere."

As far as accessibility, ASK is not requesting extra money, Elmore said. But it is asking for a legislative mandate that the University use a certain amount of the capital investment funds provided by the legislature to create accessibility at K-State.

During the ASK assembly Sunday, Chris Powers, Fort Hays State University, was elected as legislative chairman. He will replace Brett Lambert, junior in political science.

Elmore was accompanied by 11 other students to the assembly, where resolutions were set up.

Included in the resolutions was a request for all ASK offices to send letters to legislators asking them to denounce apartheid in South Africa and to recommend divestiture.

ASK also took a position against hazing at university fraternities in a resolution which is now part of a bill proposal in the Senate which would make it a Class A misdemeanor.

Washburn University was voted down on a proposal for ASK to support its entry into the state system, Elmore said.

"Their argument was that if we do it now while they are still solvent, it would be better than, for example, Wichita State," who was admitted

See ASK, Page 10

Briefly

By The Associated Press

INTERNATIONAL

Spain faces riots against NATO

MADRID, Spain — At least 65,000 people in Barcelona and thousands more in other cities conducted simultaneous demonstrations to demand Spain leave the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. Demonstrators throwing stones and eggs smashed windows Sunday at the U.S. Consulate in Barcelona. Six police officers were struck and injured by stones and eight protesters were arrested, police said. The national Pro-Peace Committee, which organized the nationwide protests, said 200,000 people took part in Barcelona, joining hands in a 12-mile human chain through the main streets. But police estimated the number of protesters at 65,000. Demonstrations drew about 6,000 people in Murcia, 3,000 in Alicante, 4,500 in Valladolid and 300 in Madrid. A referendum on the issue is scheduled for March 12.

Riots in South Africa leave 5 dead

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — Day-long riots raged Monday in a black township that forms a pocket of squalor amidst comfortable white suburbs north of Johannesburg. Residents said five people were killed, including a black policeman. Witnesses said the rioting was the worst in the three days of bloodshed in Alexandra township that started Saturday after funerals for two anti-apartheid activists. Some whites watched it from their green lawns on surrounding hills. Confirmation of the deaths Monday would bring the death toll for the three days to eight. Police said three people were killed in Alexandra over the weekend, but did not have complete casualty figures for Monday. They confirmed that a mob burned the black policeman's home, shot him dead and set his body ablaze. Policemen and town councilors who were seen as collaborators with the white government often have been killed by other blacks and their bodies burned during 17 months of riots against apartheid, the race policy that preserves privilege for South Africa's 5 million whites and denies rights to the 24 million blacks.

PEOPLE

Disabled woman wins scholarship

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. — When Bonnie Saint John set out to win an Olympic medal four years ago, she was an awkward black teen-ager with a few weekends on the slopes and a wooden leg she never took off in public. Today she is the world's second-fastest woman handicapped skier and the recipient of another honor that seemed just as unreachable: two years of free study in Europe on a Rhodes scholarship. "No more part-time jobs, no more weight training," Saint John, 21, said with a sigh in an interview last week at her Harvard University dormitory. Saint John's right leg, damaged by a birth defect, was amputated when she was 5. Her mother refused to put her in schools for the handicapped or give her any other special treatment. She won the bronze medals in slalom and giant slalom at the 1984 Handicapped Olympics in Innsbruck, Austria, finishing overall with the silver medal and with it the title of second-fastest handicapped woman skier in the world.

Funeral held for hostage's father

BATAVIA, N.Y. — A funeral service was held Monday for Glenn R. Anderson, father of an American journalist held hostage in Lebanon for 11 months. Anderson, 69, had been ill with cancer and died Saturday at St. Jerome's Hospital. His son, Terry Anderson, 38, chief Middle East correspondent for The Associated Press, was kidnapped in Beirut on March 16, 1985. He remains one of at least six Americans who are missing in Lebanon after being kidnapped. The Rev. Thomas Vickers, pastor of Bethany Center Baptist Church and a family friend, gave the eulogy. "My main objective was to communicate to the family that they understand Glenn went on ahead to the Lord, for he is the one who will free Terry, to ask him to hear our petitions that Terry be freed. And we believe he will be freed real soon," Vickers said. Born in Lorain, Ohio, Glenn Anderson moved to the Batavia area in the 1950s. He retired after 28 years working as a truck driver for a construction company. In addition to Terry, Anderson is survived by a brother, a sister, three other sons, two daughters, 18 grandchildren, and five great-grandchildren. A spokesman for the H.E. Turner & Co. Inc. funeral home, who asked not to be identified, said Anderson's body would be held there as long as possible in the hope that Terry Anderson will be freed in time to attend his father's burial.

NATIONAL

Storms cause havoc in California

Waves of storms rolling in off the Pacific continued drenching California on Monday, with at least two people dead and three missing in floods, mudslides and battering surf. Heavy snow and wind across the mountains of the West created avalanches that closed some highways. More than a foot of rain had fallen at some points since the Pacific storms began last week, up to 8 feet of snow had fallen on some mountains, and wind exceeded hurricane force, with gusts to 100 mph in the Sierra Nevada and stronger in Colorado. Temperatures in Montana plummeted 50 degrees from Sunday into Monday. In Marin County north of San Francisco, about 80 people along Corte Madera Creek in Ross were warned to consider evacuating. Mudslides and flooding forced officials to close several roads, including southbound U.S. 101, a major route. Breakers averaging 5 to 8 feet high smashed the California coast, and at least nine people had to be rescued from sinking boats off Los Angeles over the weekend, authorities said.

Postal Service delays new stamps

WASHINGTON — It will be another year before you can say "Happy Birthday" with a postage stamp. For that matter, you'll have to wait until 1987 to say with a stamp: "Get Well," "Congratulations," "Best Wishes," "Thank You," "Love You, Mom," and "Love You, Dad." The U.S. Postal Service decided to delay issuing the greeting stamps, meaning that the post office will be able to put off until next year several hundred-thousand dollars in printing expenses. Designs of message stamps will be announced at this year's greeting card trade association show, and the stamps will be issued in May 1987 at the stationery store trade show. Postal Service officials say they hope gift shops will stock the booklet of seven different stamps and sell them at face value as a service to their customers. Anytime someone other than a postal clerk sells stamps, the Postal Service saves money and potentially reduces lines in post office lobbies. The Postal Service had a loss of $251 million last year after three successive profitable years. The delay in the production schedule for the greeting stamp was designed to give the Postal Service time to find out how many booklets of stamps the card stores might want to order.

REGIONAL

Robbery suspect commits suicide

PAOLA — A 19-year-old Paola man charged in an attempted armored car robbery shot and killed himself Monday, apparently because he was distraught over the possibility of going to prison, authorities said. Kurtis Shane Hannah, who left a note saying he "could not be caged," was found dead by his father in their home about 5:45 a.m., said Miami County Deputy Sheriff Dennis Van Winkle. The deputy said the note instructed Hannah's parents to listen to a tape in a stereo near where his body was found. The tape was of Elton John's song, "Don't Let the Sun Go Down on Me," Van Winkle said. Hannah and several acquaintances also charged in the robbery case appeared in Johnson County District Court last week, and Hannah waived his right to a preliminary hearing. Hannah was to have been arraigned Feb. 26 on a charge of attempted aggravated robbery in the attempted holdup of a Wells Fargo armored car last June. Hannah also was charged with the theft of a car used in the robbery attempt. He was free on a $5,000 bond.

Officials close bridge near Seneca

TOPEKA — A bridge on a state highway about 60 miles northwest of Topeka will be closed permanently on Wednesday because officials can no longer guarantee the span is safe, the Kansas Department of Transportation announced Monday. However, according to a statement by the transportation department, a replacement for the Nemaha Lake spillway bridge on Kansas 63 should be opened by the end of the year. The bridge is about five miles south of the junction of U.S. 36 and Kansas 63, a primary route leading south out of Seneca. A detour, using Kansas 9 and Kansas 187, would be established on Wednesday. In the meantime, transportation personnel will maintain a 24-hour surveillance of the bridge, which began on Friday, the statement said. "The bridge is very old and was damaged by a flood in the spring of 1984," said Jim Jones, a district engineer for K-DOT, who said the span was no longer safe.

Campus Bulletin

TODAY	SOCIETY FOR THE ADVANCEMENT OF MANAGEMENT meets at 7 p.m. in Union 206.
BUSINESS COUNCIL meets at 4 p.m. in Union 205.	PI SIGMA EPSILON meets at 7 p.m. in Union 213.
STUDENT GERONTOLOGY CLUB meets at 7 p.m. at the International Student Center.	SPURS meets at 9 p.m. in Union 209.
ASSOCIATION OF ADULTS RETURNING TO SCHOOL meets from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. in Union Stateroom 3.	ENGINEERING AMBASSADORS EXECUTIVES meet at 6:15 p.m. in Durland 164.
LITTLE SISTERS OF THE STAR AND LAMP meet at 9:30 p.m. at the Pi Kappa Phi house.	AMATEUR RADIO CLUB meets at 7:30 p.m. in Union 204.
BLOCK AND BRIDLE: Officers meet at 7 p.m. in Weber 107. A general meeting follows at 7:30 p.m.	GOLDEN KEY meets at 7 p.m. in Union 212.
PHI UPSILON OMICRON meets at 7:30 p.m. in the Union Big Eight Room.	WEDNESDAY
POULTRY SCIENCE CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in Calvin 206.	ASSOCIATION OF ADULTS RETURNING TO SCHOOL meets from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. in Union Stateroom 3.

Looking Back

20 Years Ago — 1966

About 770 students have received aid in the form of scholarships and grants for the 1965-66 school term. A total of $195,287, not including scholarship house appointments and athletic grants, was awarded, said Director of Aids and Awards Harold Kennedy.

Five prints by famous artists, including etchings by Pablo Picasso and Salvador Dali, have been given to K-State Friends of Art for permanent K-State collection.

10 Years Ago — 1976

International student representatives and their advisers will examine plans for the proposed K-State International Student Center this afternoon. Plans for the center, which will be located on the northeast corner of campus at Claflin Road and Mid-Campus Drive, include a large multi-purpose room, a lounge, a kitchen, offices and dining areas. Wendell Lady, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, predicted the committee will approve something less than a 10 percent salary increase for state university and college faculty members despite a strong plea from the Board of Regents.

5 Years Ago — 1981

President Duane Acker has named William Richter, associate professor of political science and director of the South Asia Center, as the new chairman of the Landon Lecture series. Richter replaces Barry Flinchbaugh, former assistant to the president, who recently returned to faculty duties in the Department of Economics.

Compiled from the University Archives

Lean look for '86

Studio 32 isn't just for ladies and your hair deserves more than just a perfunctory "cut". The newest look for men is lean, clean and tousled at

TINA'S
Studio 32
FOR HAIR
776-8830
Candlewood Shopping Center

Final Winter Clearance

50%-70% OFF

M-S 9:30-5:30 Thurs. til 8:30 1225 Moro

Pre-Law Club

is sponsoring a trip to K.U. Fri., Feb. 21. Car pool leaves about 8:00 a.m. We will have a tour of the law school and attend classes at 10:30 and 11:30. A sign-up sheet is on the bulletin board in the Arts & Science offices. Information meeting about the trip on Thursday, Feb. 20, 7 p.m., Union 208. All Pre-Law Majors Welcome. Next meeting—March 3—Election Night 7:30 p.m., Union 207

VOTE!

Arts and Sciences Council Elections to be held From 9-5 Feb. 19th

VOTE!

Tired of the Same Old Crowd? Try . . .

$1.50 well $1.00 wine 80¢ draws

Tonight!

A reciprocating club

AGGIE'S CLASSIC ROCK BAR

Let The Good Times Roll Classic Rock Night

Listen to the music you grew up with

$2 Pitchers $2 15 oz. DHT Glasses

Keep The Cup and Get 75¢ Refills

Campus

Math department seeks new head

During February and March, a Department of Mathematics screening committee will be gathering information about candidates for the department headship.

The department head will come from among the present tenured associate professors and tenured full professors of the department. The committee solicits nominations from anyone in the University community. Nominations must be written and submitted to William Stamey, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, or to the screening committee by Feb. 28. Interested groups and individuals will have an opportunity to meet with each candidate.

Donor establishes vet-med award

The R.H. Spencer Memorial Scholarship has been established at the University. The fund will benefit students in the College of Veterinary Medicine and will be administered through the KSU Foundation.

The recipient of the scholarship will be a junior in the upper one-half of the class or an outstanding sophomore majoring in food animal practice. Preference will be given to a western Kansas native who has exhibited a financial need to continue studies.

Journal honors engineering teacher

George Eggeman, assistant professor of mechanical engineering, has won the 1985 Best Paper Award from "Experimental Techniques," a monthly journal published by the Society for Experimental Mechanics.

The paper, "Uniaxial Tensile Test for a Brittle Material," describes Eggeman's test using adhesives to bond grips on graphite materials. His simplified method of centering the material for an even distribution of the adhesive assures proper test conditions. Graphite is used under high-temperature conditions in components such as those in nuclear reactors, furnaces or rocket nozzles.

College to sponsor European tours

The College of Architecture and Design is offering tours to Greece and England this year to study European architecture and its history. The tour of Greece, which will begin June 20 and continue through July 6, will emphasize study of ancient ruins incorporating lectures, discussions and projects. It is offered specifically for graduating high school seniors, high school teachers and college students.

A tour of England and Scotland for practicing architects and college students is scheduled for August 30 to Sept. 14. Ancient and contemporary forms will be examined in London, Bath, Oxford, York, Edinburgh and Durham.

There is a limit of 20 participants on the tour to Greece and 30 to England. For more information contact the College of Architecture and Design.

Professors to share $15,000 grant

Three faculty members in the College of Engineering have been named Halliburton Professors and are sharing a $15,000 award as a result of a grant from the Halliburton Foundation Inc.

Professors Charles Burton, architectural engineering and construction science; Larry Erickson, chemical engineering; and Gary Johnson, electrical and computer engineering, are the three who will each receive a $3,000 stipend plus $2,000 to be used for research equipment and travel to professional meetings.

The Halliburton Foundation is a division of Halliburton Co., a Dallas-based international oil field service and construction engineering organization which employs a substantial number of engineering graduates.

Committee backs 'happy hour' change

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA — A bill aimed at tightening loopholes in a 1985 law banning happy hours in Kansas clubs and taverns won endorsement Monday from the House Federal and State Affairs Committee.

The measure, which now goes to the House floor for debate, would restrict price changes for drinks at clubs and taverns to once a week — instead of the current once-a-day restriction.

The effect of the change would mean alcohol serving establishments could hold "happy weeks" but not "happy days" as alternatives to happy hour specials. In addition, the bill would prohibit the sale of drinks below their acquisition costs and would ban free drinks with meal purchases.

However, before approving the bill on an unrecorded voice vote, the committee removed a section of the current law that restricts the number of drinks which can legally be served to one person.

The chairman of the committee, Rep. Robert H. Miller, R-Wellington, Price restriction would be lengthened said he thinks committee members believe the multiple drink provision in the current law is unnecessary. The language imposes a limit of two drinks that can legally be served to one person at any one time.

Miller said drink specials such as two-for-ones were prohibited in the law the Kansas Legislature passed last year.

"If you don't have two-fors and three-fors and that sort of thing, then you wouldn't have all those drinks stacked up in front of you anyway," Miller said.

Other bills the committee approved for passage would:

— Reduce by half the minimum size of liquor bottles that can be legally sold in the state. The measure would reduce the minimum liquor bottle size from the current 6.8 fluid ounces to 3.4 fluid ounces. However, so-called "miniature" bottles of liquor, similar to those sold on air lines, would continue to be prohibited.

— Overturn a portion of the 1985 Transient Merchants Licensing Act to exempt "sales or displays" at all trade shows, expositions or conventions from licensing requirements. The bill already has been passed by the Senate and Miller has said it is on "a fast track" through the House.

— Exempt all personal property which is sold or displayed in Kansas for not more than 30 days each year from property taxation. In addition, the Senate-passed measure would allow a complete property tax exemption for property held solely for sale or display at fairs and shows sponsored by government entities or non-profit organizations.

The happy hour bill received the bulk of the committee discussion as the panel rejected attempts to water down the provisions.

Rep. Robert Vancrum, R-Overland Park, said he believes the requirement that clubs and taverns maintain the same prices throughout an entire week would eliminate the any need to prohibit the sale of drinks below their acquisition costs. Vancrum led an unsuccessful attempt to remove the acquisition cost language from the proposal.

John Lamb, director of the state Division of Alcoholic Beverage Control, said the provision might be difficult to enforce, but he knows drinks being sold for a penny, nickel or dime are below the acquisition cost.

"I just don't want the ABC to get into the business of determining the acquisition costs," Vancrum said.

Miller said if the acquisition cost section were eliminated, then clubs and taverns near colleges, for example, could offer 1-cent drinks throughout the first week of the semester. Another of the bill's provisions would require clubs and taverns to list the prices of all drinks they serve on a large sign somewhere in their establishments.

The committee voted to table a bill that would require warning labels for packages of chewing tobacco and snuff sold in the state.

Gramm-Rudman cuts severe, study reveals

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The nation's budget-balancing law will require cuts of 25 percent to 50 percent in most domestic federal programs, with even larger cuts possible in certain law enforcement areas, according to a private analysis released Monday.

The study by Management Services Inc. and the Center for Defense Information said the impact of the Gramm-Rudman Act would be far more severe than previously believed.

The report, billed as the first full-scale study of the long-range impacts of the law, said deep cuts will occur even if Congress raises taxes and slashes defense spending. "There is little to avoid this if the act remains unchanged," it said.

Management Services Inc. is a consulting firm that makes private economic analyses for a wide range of private and governmental clients. The Center for Defense Information is a private, non-profit organization that studies a variety of military issues. Both are based in Washington, D.C.

If the law's constitutionality is upheld by the Supreme Court, and Congress doesn't subsequently modify it, some law enforcement areas — including the FBI — could suffer cuts ranging to 63 percent by 1990, the study said.

The reason for this, it said, is that Congress, while shielding some sensitive programs like Social Security from the Gramm-Rudman cuts, neglected to make provisions under the law for fully funding some critical law enforcement programs. These include the U.S. prison system, protecting the president and patrolling U.S. borders.

The Gramm-Rudman Act, which requires a balanced federal budget by 1991, is named for its principal sponsors, Sens. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, and Warren Rudman, R-N.H.

Automatic cuts triggered under Gramm-Rudman would chop away at law enforcement programs as much as they would other programs. But the study assumed that Congress would not permit a reduction in prison guards, border agents, or in the Secret Service force protecting the president and other high administration officials.

"To the extent that officials in Congress and the administration find that some areas of spending meet critical national needs, cuts in other programs will have to be even deeper," the study said.

Since Elsroth's death, at least 14 states, the District of Columbia and Italy have banned sales of Tylenol capsules.

William Grigg, spokesman for the U.S. Food and Drug Administration, said the government was considered the tampering a "local incident."

Grigg said the potassium cyanide that killed Elsroth and that found in the second bottle was not the same kind responsible for the seven deaths in Illinois.

No arrests in those deaths were made. Johnson & Johnson has offered a $100,000 reward for information leading to arrest and conviction in connection with the more recent incidents.

In still another report of tampering in Westchester County, police said a woman on Saturday bought a 50-tablet vial of Anacin-3 from a pharmacy in Ardsley.

Police Chief Stephen Blaha said the woman found the bottle cap loose and broken and a puncture in the safety seal with a brown stain near it. Blaha said the store agreed to pull Anacin-3 tablets from its shelves until further testing was done Tuesday.

Jack Wood, a spokesman for American Home Products, the makers of Anacin, said the broken cap and punctured seal could have occurred by accident during manufacture, but said he needed to learn more before commenting further.

Consumers were urged to return unused portions of their Tylenol capsule products to Tylenol Capsule Exchange, P.O. Box 2000, Maple Plain, Minn., 55348. In exchange, consumers will receive a coupon good for the purchase of the same size bottle.

Tylenol maker ceases use of capsules

By The Associated Press

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. — The maker of Tylenol announced Monday it will no longer produce over-the-counter medication in capsules, nine days after cyanide-contaminated capsules killed a woman and more than three years after they killed seven people in Illinois.

"We feel the company can no longer guarantee the safety of these capsules," said James E. Burke, chairman of Johnson & Johnson.

The announcement came as a team of investigators went to Pennsylvania to trace the path of the Tylenol capsules taken by a woman who died in suburban New York City on Feb. 8.

The 1982 cyanide-poisoning deaths of seven people in Illinois also were blamed on tainted Tylenol capsules.

Burke urged people to switch to coated oval-shaped tablets known as caplets, and said Johnson & Johnson would replace free any capsules consumers or stores now have. The decision was made to "protect the public," he said. The replacement program will cost the company an estimated $150 million, he said, adding that does not compare with the suffering of the family of 23-year-old Diane Elsroth, who had taken cyanide-laced Extra-Strength Tylenol capsules.

The future of capsule medications was called into question after Elsroth died and a second bottle containing tainted Tylenol capsules was found in a store less than two blocks from the store in which the fatal dose was purchased in Bronxville, just north of New York City.

About 30 percent of the Tylenol sold is in capsules.

Caplets, introduced after the 1982 poisonings, were designed as a capsule substitute, Burke said. They are solid, and company officials say they cannot be tampered with because cyanide would break down the medicine.

Officials investigating Elsroth's death were spending Monday inspecting a plant in Port Washington, Pa., where the contaminated capsules were made last May, and a distribution center in Montgomeryville, Pa.

BUNAM Restaurant
 1304 Westloop
 (10% Off w/KSU ID) 537-0886

FREE DELIVERY
 11 a.m.-1 a.m.
 539-8888

HUNAM EXPRESS
 1116 Moro
 (Egg Roll & Fried Rice 99¢)

TUESDAY NIGHT SPECIAL
BBQ Ribs, Baked Beans & Salad

ALL YOU CAN EAT

$3.95

CHEF
 111 S. 4th

SEMESTER IN SPAIN

Not just for Spanish majors only, but for everyone: beginners, "in between" students, and advanced. Put some excitement into your college career!!

BEGINNER OR ADVANCED. Cost is about the same as a semester in a U.S. college $3,670. Price includes jet round trip to Seville from New York, room, board, and tuition complete. Government grants and loans may be applied towards our programs.

Live with a Spanish family, attend classes four hours a day, four days a week, four months. Earn 16 hrs. of credit (equivalent to 4 semesters taught in U.S. colleges over a two year time span). Your Spanish studies will be enhanced by opportunities not available in a U.S. classroom. Standardized tests show our students' language skills superior to students completing two year programs in U.S. Advanced courses also.

Hurry, it takes a lot of time to make all arrangements.

SPRING SEMESTER — Jan. 30 - May 29
 FALL SEMESTER — Aug. 29 - Dec. 19
 each year

FULLY ACCREDITED — A Program of Trinity Christian College

For full information — send coupon to:

SEMESTER IN SPAIN
 2065 Laraway Lake Drive S.E. F-9
 Grand Rapids, Michigan 49506
 (A Program of Trinity Christian College)

When You're Pregnant, Don't Smoke!

Support the March of Dimes

LAFENE STUDENT HEALTH CENTER

532-6544

"Your Medical Facility"

THE ICECREAM SOCIAL

Makes old-fashioned ice cream treats — still America's #1 dairy treat. You'll love our atmosphere

537-7079 1314 Westloop

Enjoy smooth, creamy Frozen Yogurt that tastes like Ice Cream but with 80% less fat!

--FREE SAMPLES--

I Can't Believe It's YOGURT!

Frozen Yogurt Stores

OPEN: 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Daily
 Noon-11 p.m. Sundays
 Nautilus Towers-Aggieville

CHARLIE'S NEIGHBORHOOD BAR

Established 1982

Daytona Beach Plaza Hotel Trip Organizational Meeting

Wednesday 8-10 p.m.

Watch Collegian for Details

How can a Credit Union help you?

9.5% apr
 New car loan
 10.8% apr share loan
 Used car loan
 Mobile home loan
 Furniture loan
 Life insurance
 Appliance loan
 Loans up to $15,000
 Home improvements
 Home computer loans
 Loan insurance
 Vacation loan
 12% apr regular loan
 Medical loan
 No-wait share loan
 Tax loan
 Three-month CD
 KSU travel loan
 On-campus convenience
 Investment loan
 Hi-yield passbook saving
 RV camper loan
 Financial advising
 $100,000 NCUA insured

KSU Federal Credit Union

A service for faculty, staff, and qualified graduate assistants
 Anderson Hall, Room 24A
 Open 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.
 Monday through Friday
 532-6274

KSU KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY

CASHMAN

for k-state

Some have said that with the office of student body president comes little power. What does come with the office is a position of tremendous influence for student concerns. It is time this unused influence be capitalized upon. Next year, with the appearance of a new University president on the K-State campus, the student body president will be charged with the formation of this person's view of student issues. It is easy to see why it is vital that the student body elect a person with leadership experience, here at K-State, and experience dealing with student issues.

Innovative

Paid for by K-Staters for Cashman

Editor: David Svoboda
Associate Editor: Lillian Zier
News Editor: Patty Reinert
Managing Editor: Jeri Heidrick

Editorial Page Editor: Tim Carpenter
Photo/Graphics Editor: Chris Stewart
Advertising Manager: Lori Wong
Director/News Adviser: Dave Adams

Editorial Board: David Svoboda, Tim Carpenter, Melissa Brune, Rich Harris, Jeri Heidrick, Steve Milligan, Patty Reinert, Vicki Reynolds, Eric Rhodenbaugh, Tammy Rickerson, Catherine Saylor, Tom Schultes, Richard Thorp, Jonie Trued, Lillian Zier

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 929) is published by Student Publications, Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods. OFFICES are in the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 532-6555. Newsroom phone number is 532-6556; display advertising, 532-6560; and classified advertising 532-6555. SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: $40, calendar year; $35, academic year; $20, semester; $10, summer term. Address changes should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

Dissent of few allows democracies to grow

"We felt the everyday articles in the Collegian were onesided," complained a disgruntled student.

That familiar line, which echoed across our campus a month ago, has also been heard on the campus of the University of Massachusetts in Amherst. But somewhere along the way the intent behind the sentiment was flip flopped.

Like K-State's independent Crossfire publication, Massachusetts' alternative newspaper, The Minuteman, is designed to challenge the popular press and provide greater scrutiny of student government. However, that is the extent of the similarity between the two newspapers.

The Minuteman staff believes the university's student newspaper, The Daily Collegian, is far too liberal. The fledgling publication intends to provide a forum for "moderate and conservative" writers, which the Daily Collegian apparently does not. The newspaper also plans to examine "radical" elements at the university, such as the Radical Student Union and the Third World Caucus.

K-State's Crossfire has indicated that the Collegian is far too conservative and plans to scrutinize the activities and mind set of campus groups such as the Young Republicans and ROTC.

Crossfire works on a shoe-string budget and scrapes up funds for each issue through advertising and donations. The Minuteman had a start-up fund of $4,000. Three-fourths of that sum came from the Institute for Educational Affairs in New York and the remainder from the U.S. Industrial Council's Educational Foundation in Tennessee.

For Crossfire, the anti-establishment route of an "underground" newspaper is traditional. For the Minuteman, the approach smacks of an irony reminiscent of cartoons where young conservatives actively protest and sabotage "the system."

Most likely, the Collegian and the Daily Collegian share roughly the same political bias. The mirror groups on the two campuses represent democracy in action. No matter what the popular view, dissent at either extreme should make itself heard.

Catherine Saylor,
for the editorial board

Salvadoran brutality not hard to believe

A former army officer from El Salvador has publicly stated that he participated in murders of civilians while commanding a "death squad" in that war-torn nation. The officer, Ricardo Ernesto Castro, is seeking asylum in the United States. The officer's assertion of death squad activity, however, should be approached with some skepticism.

His claims support allegations made by Amnesty International and various other human rights groups of "the continued involvement of all branches of the security and military forces in a systematic and widespread program of torture, mutilation and 'disappearance'" of men, women and children from all sectors of Salvadoran society.

The situation in El Salvador is confusing at best. Members of the Reagan administration have been unable to clarify for the American public questions about human rights abuses by rebel forces and the Salvadoran government.

The U.S. Department of State, which collects and analyzes information from abroad and advises President Reagan on foreign policy issues, claimed in 1982 that there was no evidence supporting allegations of large-scale massacres committed by members of the Salvadoran military. Most human rights abuses reported by independent groups were disputed by the administration; however, the administration conceded that some abuse occurred.

The administration claims that the incidence of human rights abuse has been decreased. By stating that abuse is currently under control, they are admitting that widespread abuses have occurred — a fact that was denied four years ago. The issue in El Salvador is complicated when elected officials contradict themselves. Who is the public to believe? The administration or former Salvadoran soldiers?

American citizens need to become more educated about Central America. If familiar with the economic and political problems of the region, a more qualified judgement about the validity of reports coming from El Salvador and other nations can be made.

Eric Rhodenbaugh,
for the editorial board

Editorial

Tuesday, February 18, 1986 — 4

Cisneros' rise to top has obstacles

SAN ANTONIO — For five years, ever since he became the first Mexican-American mayor of this city, 38-year-old Henry Cisneros has been the shining star of Hispanic politics in America.

The handsome, Harvard-trained executive of the nation's 10th-largest city was the youngest person interviewed as a potential 1984 running mate by Democratic presidential candidate Walter F. Mondale. Today he has a national forum as the president of the League of Cities and the spokesman for urban America on the influence of the Gramm-Rudman budget-cutting measure.

But now, for the first time, Cisneros faces the possibility of an emerging rival on his home territory: Judge Roy Barrera, a 33-year-old lawyer, who announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for attorney general in early January. Their conflicting ambitions and strategies tell a great deal about the competition between the parties for the increasingly important Hispanic vote.

The Census Bureau estimates that Hispanic voter registration across the country increased 47 percent between 1976 and 1984, from 2.49 million to 3.79 million of the estimated 9 million-plus voting-age Latinos. By comparison, voter registration among blacks increased 37 percent and among whites, 16 percent.

Detailed studies by the Southwest Voter Registration Education Project, headquartered here, indicate that in Texas those registration gains were partially offset by a four-point decline in Latino turnout. But William C. Velasquez, the organization's executive director, argued in an interview that 1984's dropoff "was a blip," caused by the lack of enthusiasm across Texas for the Mondale-Ferraro ticket.

"The long-term demographic factors are all on our side," he said, pointing particularly to the fact that the relatively low median age of Hispanics means that Latinos in large numbers will be reaching voting age

DAVID
BRODER
Syndicated
Columnist

in the next decade.

Both parties are well aware of these numbers and Republicans at the national level have given high priority to dislodging the Democrats' stranglehold on the Hispanic vote. Candidates like Barrera are an important part of that strategy.

Latino voters are by no means monolithic. Cuban-Americans, concentrated in Florida, are predominantly Republican, reflecting both their relatively high economic status and their intense anti-communism. While Mexican-Americans, Puerto Ricans and others with Central and South American roots are traditionally Democratic, exit polls analyzed by Robert R. Brishchotto of the voter education project indicate Latino support for President Reagan nationwide, "may have been between one-third and slightly less than one-half."

But Democrats have enjoyed a great advantage in the competition by their near-monopoly of Hispanic officeholders. Velasquez said that of 2,161 Spanish-surname officials at all levels his group has been able to identify, "it appears that only about 20 are Republicans."

From Republican National Chairman Frank J. Fahrenkopf Jr., on down, the party leadership is eager to change that ratio, particularly in highly visible statewide offices. In Florida, Tampa Mayor Bob Martinez was persuaded to switch from the Democratic Party and to seek the GOP nomination for governor this year.

Similar encouragement has been lavished on Barrera. The son of a prominent conservative Democrat who was John B. Connally's man in the west-side barrio a generation ago, Barrera was named to the San Antonio district judgeship by William C. Clements when Clements was Texas' first Republican governor.

Establishment support for his candidacy for attorney general is indicated by the fact that his fund-raising effort is being headed by multi-millionaire developer Trammell Crow. But his path to the nomination is by no means clear.

Just as Martinez in Florida has run into an ABM (Anybody But Martinez) movement from old-guard Republicans, so Barrera faces primary opposition from a veteran GOP state senator and others.

Few Mexican-Americans vote in the Republican primary in Texas. The willingness of Anglo conservatives to support a Latino for major state office remains to be tested.

Ironically, Cisneros has shown that it can happen at the municipal level. Since his first mayoral campaign (where ethnic polarization was evident), he has won re-election twice by overwhelming majorities, including the heavily Republican, conservative north side of the city. Developers, Chamber of Commerce leaders and other GOP stalwarts sing the praises of his economic-development efforts.

For five years, the assumption here has been that when Texas elected its first top Mexican-American official, his name would be Cisneros. But with Democrats running the re-election in all the major state offices on the ballot this year (including the first Hispanic appointee to the state Supreme Court), Cisneros' national renown does not translate to immediate political opportunity at home.

He has an active statewide speaking schedule and is keeping his options open. But for now, Cisneros is something of a spectator at Barrera's show, and that is a break for the GOP.

The Abortion
Question:
A Father's Story

SHE WANTED TO HAVE
SEX WITH ME. WELL,
SHE SAID SHE DIDN'T,
BUT SHE DID.

SHE ARGUED AND FOUGHT IT
BUT DEEP DOWN SHE REALLY
WANTED IT. I THINK RAPE IS CERTAINLY TOO STRONG
A WORD. I WASN'T ACTUALLY GOING TO BREAK HER ARM.

NO, I DIDN'T USE
ANY PRECAUTIONS.
THAT'S A WOMAN'S RESPONSIBILITY.

WHAT DO I THINK ABOUT HER GETTING AN ABORTION?
I DIDN'T EVEN KNOW SHE WAS PREGNANT. HOW AM
I SUPPOSED TO KNOW THAT?

... SHE NEVER VISITS ME...

Politics, religion remain indivisible

Religion and politics are not among the most desirable of dinner party topics. Usually religion and politics have been discussed as separate topics, but in today's world there appears to be quite a bit of overlapping, the two nearly go hand in hand.

Many of the world's political problems stem from religious interactions of some sort. A quick glance at the Middle East conflicts as well as the conflict involving England and the Irish Republican Army, to name just a couple, are examples of the interaction of religion and politics.

India is a perfect example of how religion can play a role in politics. Since its independence in 1947, religion has been the root of nearly every conflict the country has experienced in its short history. Although India declares itself to be a secular state, the nation is burdened with tense Moslem-Hindu relations. It is because of this Moslem-Hindu conflict that Pakistan was formed through a partition of India at its time of independence.

Although the partition took place nearly 40 years ago, the tension between the two religious cultures is still quite strained (India and Pakistan are enemies). Many refugee problems and border conflicts have arisen from this conflict. India's religious problems don't stop there. As a result of religious factionalism concerning Sikhs, Prime Minister Indira Gandhi was assassinated by Sikh militants.

I continue to use India as an example of religious and political interactions because India was recently visited by Pope John Paul II in his efforts to bring Catholicism to the Third World. The pope had a mixed

MIKE RILEY
Collegian
Columnist

reception, much like his travels to other nations.

U.S. News and World Report recently reported on the growth of Catholicism in the Third World. Although America's Catholic population has only increased by 7 percent in the last 10 years, Third World Catholicism gains have ranged from 38 percent in Guatemala to 87 percent in Kenya. The Vatican's indoctrination programs are working well.

Religion and politics in America are not mixing with the turmoil that we see in the rest of the world, but a definite clash of ideologies stemming from personal religious beliefs can be seen in relation to many issues. Abortion is a prime example, as is prayer in school.

America takes a hypocritical attitude toward the political/religious mix. The Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. and South African Bishop Desmond Tutu are respected political leaders and the American people and liberal press have thought little of the fact that these are men of religion leading political causes. However, one possible Republican candidate for president in 1988 is unabashedly a man of religion and the general attitude of the average citizen and the press has been one of immediate suspicion. The individual I speak of is Pat Robertson. He has the ability to bring to American government many of the qualities that have been missing for so long.

There are many fears associated with religious beliefs in politics, especially in the White House. It took President John F. Kennedy to destroy the notion that if a Catholic was elected the country would secretly be run by the pope. Thankfully this myth has been destroyed and Americans are slowly overcoming their fears of candidates from other denominations.

The fickle American electorate nearly demands a church-going person of conservative religious practice. The voters want neither an extremist nor an atheist, just a simple Christian who attends church on Sunday.

There are many fears associated with religious beliefs in politics, especially in the White House. It took President John F. Kennedy to destroy the notion that if a Catholic was elected the country would secretly be run by the Pope. Thankfully this myth has been destroyed and Americans are slowly overcoming their fears of candidates from other denominations.

The purpose of this column is not to persuade anyone to become a "zealot" advocating the separation of church and state, but to point out that religion and politics have, and always will, mix — sometimes with the explosiveness of gasoline and a blowtorch.

Beckom continues to seek phone funds

By DAN ALLEN
Collegian Reporter

Despite being denied part of the $700,000 allocated by Student Senate Feb. 13, University Police Captain Charles Beckom said he will continue to work on ways to replace the campus emergency phone system with a radio call box system.

The KSU Police Department had originally requested $18,000 to replace the current emergency phone system with a new system.

The department was trying to get some of the $700,000 freed by the refinancing of student bonds, which Senate was in charge of allocating. Beckom said he was disappointed with Senate's decision, but understood the decision.

"I can't name a department or school on campus that can't justify needing more money," he said.

Beckom said he's not going to give up looking for ways to purchase and implement the new system, although he is not currently sure what those avenues will be.

"I will go through any means available to improve the system," he said.

Beckom said he requested the money to upgrade the current telephone communication system to radio and to alleviate the cost of communication fees in the future.

Currently, Beckom said, AT&T and Southwestern Bell require an annual service charge of $3,500 for the 14 emergency phones on campus. A self-contained radio system would require no annual fee, he said.

"The phones serve as a deterrent to would-be attackers and they provide a psychological security release to individuals that are in areas where phones are located," he said.

Beckom said a radio system would be more versatile and just as efficient as the current system, which is 90 percent to 95 percent efficient in workability.

Beckom said one advantage of the radio system is in the call box itself. If the current phones are picked up, the police department is able to identify the area in which the disturbance occurred. In a radio system, if the call box is even jarred or moved, they can make an exact identification of the area, he said.

Beckom said he believes Senate had a misconception about where the police department's control lies. For example, the department has no control over campus lighting.

Local gas stations report lower prices

By STEPHANIE HAUGHTON
Collegian Reporter

Oil prices and gasoline prices in Manhattan continue to drop. In Manhattan, gasoline prices have dropped an average of 12 cents per gallon in the last month, compared to a decrease of 13 cents for the past year.

Jerry's 66 Service, 2000 Tuttle Creek Blvd., and Manhattan Derby Convenience Store, 728 N. Third St., both reported gas prices were reduced by 10 cents from one month ago. Midway 66 Service, Rural Route 2, and Oppy's Standard Service, 301 Houston St., both reported a 16-cent drop for the same time period.

According to a recent Associated Press story, crude oil prices are down due to a surplus of natural gas in the world market. Contract prices for March delivery of West Texas

National oil costs affect economy

Intermediate, the best-known U.S. grade, fell 82 cents a barrel, to $15.73, on the New York Mercantile Exchange. The current price of most U.S. gas is $19 to $23 a barrel.

These savings are passed from the refineries to the stations and on to the consumers, said Vic Jury, manager of the Derby facility.

Dwayne Belongia, attendant at Jerry's 66 Service, said "(Phillips) 66 got back into the gas market and made its prices more competitive," in explaining the reasons for their price reductions.

"Prices change like seasons; prices usually go up in the summer and fall and down in the spring and winter," said Wilbur Hunter, owner and manager of Parkside Conoco, 1026 Poyntz Ave.

Local dealers report prices as low as 94.9 cents for self-serve regular and 99.9 cents for self-serve unleaded, with prices for full service starting at $1.03 for regular and $1.08 for unleaded.

"We are competitive with Mini-Marts and below other full service gas stations," Belongia said.

Hunter said the gas price competition in Manhattan is tight, but there is no price war.

In Kansas City and Wichita the prices for gas are lower because there is more competition, Jury said, adding he believed price wars are occurring in those communities.

French forces aid African country to oppose rebels

By The Associated Press

PARIS — France sent troops and planes to Chad on Monday to support President Hissene Habre's government against Libyan-backed rebels after an air strike on the airport at N'Djamena, capital of the African country.

Defense Minister Paul Quilès announced the deployment soon after he reported that one Soviet-built Libyan Tupolev-22 jet bombed the N'Djamena airport runway about 7 a.m. Monday. On Sunday, French planes bombed an airfield at a Libyan-built rebel base in the north of the former French colony.

The Libyan news agency JANA said in Tripoli that the N'Djamena raid was carried out by the "air force" of rebel forces in Chad trying to overthrow Habre and was in response to the French raid.

The rebels are not known to have their own air force, but the Libyans have Tupolev jets in their arsenal of 535 warplanes.

Quilès said damage at N'Djamena airport was "minimal" and no one was hurt. JANA claimed the strike "rendered it unusable."

A dispatch from Paris by the Soviet news agency Tass said Monday that "an explosive situation has developed in the center of Africa as a result of France's growing armed intervention in Chad."

Libya accused the United States Monday of being behind French President Francois Mitterrand's decision to intervene in Chad.

A high-ranking Libyan official, who insisted on anonymity, told reporters in Tripoli that "Mitterrand is a pawn in the hands of (President) Reagan."

U.S.-Libyan relations plunged after Washington accused Libya of backing terrorists who raided airports in Rome and Vienna Dec. 27. Five Americans were among 20 people killed. Libya denied involvement.

Quilès said three French warplanes, two Mirage F-1s and a Jaguar, landed at N'Djamena Monday.

France has kept 1,500 troops in the Central African Republic, poised to return to Chad, since signing a mutual withdrawal agreement with Libyan leader Moammar Khadafy in the fall of 1984. France says Libya never honored the pact.

In August 1983, the French intervened with a 3,000-man force codenamed Manta to halt an advance from the north by a combined force of rebel and Libyan troops.

About 200 French troops were sent to Chad over the weekend, according to the Defense Ministry. They included air force commandos to protect French transports flying supplies and equipment to the Habre government.

City rezoning proposal limits size of buildings

By The Collegian Staff

The culmination of a year's worth of work by the Manhattan Urban Area Planning Board will get its first reading during tonight's Manhattan City Commission meeting.

The commission will hear an ordinance which would re-zone a large portion of the neighborhood east of K-State and north of Poyntz Avenue from R-3, multiple-family residential, to R-M, four-family residential.

The purpose of the plan is to hold the number and size of residences in the area at current levels, said Eric Cattell, city planner.

The ordinance would allow a single family residence or duplex on a 50-foot-wide lot. The maximum the new ordinance would allow would be three- or four-plex units on lots at least 60-feet wide.

Cattell said the 12- or 15-plex units built under current zoning were causing problems, such as increased traffic flow and parking congestion.

Two neighborhood organizations, Concerned East Side Neighborhood Association and Older Manhattan Neighborhood Association, were very active in the planning of the new ordinance, he said.

In other business, the commission will vote on a resolution which will allow the city to enter into an agreement with the Kansas Department of Transportation. The agreement will outline the terms and conditions necessary to proceed with the bid letting for the Southern Arterial Project.

Commissioners will also consider amending a section in the current zoning ordinance concerning nonconforming structures. The amendment would allow nonconforming residential structures to be rebuilt legally, if they have been damaged more than 50 percent.

Commission meetings begin at 7 p.m. in the City Commission Meeting Room of the city administrative building.

Students gain chance for study in Mexico

By The Collegian Staff

K-State Spanish-speaking students have an opportunity to expand their education and cultural awareness by attending summer school in Mexico.

Summer school will be at the University of Veracruz in Xalapa, Mexico, June 25 through Aug. 6.

Margaret Beeson, associate professor of modern languages, said Xalapa is about the size of Wichita, with about 200,000 people. It's located near the sea with a tropical climate.

Beeson said this is the first year the Department of Modern Languages has sponsored a summer school in Xalapa. It is usually in Mexico City.

She said usually students who go have completed Spanish IV, but beginning to advanced courses can be taken in Xalapa.

Students will have the opportunity to take two courses for six credit hours, which will transfer to K-State. The courses offered are Mexican literature, Mexican history, Mayan archeology, Spanish conversation, Spanish composition and Spanish phonetics. All courses are taught in Spanish by faculty members of the University of Veracruz.

The trip also includes a three-day weekend excursion to Mayan ruins and possible side trips to Mexico City and Veracruz.

Beeson said students will pay K-State summer school tuition plus $950 which includes University of Veracruz tuition and room and board in Mexican homes. It does not include transportation expenses.

Students will fly to Mexico City, then travel to Xalapa by bus.

Piñata

Restaurante

Want a Choice?

At Pinata we have tacos, burritos, enchiladas, salads, and more... a full line of a la carte items for those who like to choose their own meal.

Or, we have plenty of full-size dinners with tasty combinations of our Mexican food already arranged for you!

So Choose your own way — but Choose at Pinata!

1219 Bluemont in AGGIEVILLE 539-3166

Have story
or photo ideas?
CALL 532-6556

Only a Chiropractor
can tell you if chiropractic will help.

Dr. Mark Hatesohl
Chiropractor
537-8305
1500 Poyntz Avenue

JOHNSON

PRESIDENT '86

Leadership tailored to K-State

JOHNSON IS:
EFFECTIVE COMMUNICATION

— where it is needed
— when it is needed

JOHNSON IS:
SERIOUS ABOUT
K-STATE & YOU

Paid for by students for Johnson

Courtyard Sale Today

On Sale: Unclaimed items for the Lost & Found

Umbrellas	Sweatshirts
Notebooks	Gloves
Jackets	Hats
Books	Wallets-Purses
Calculators	Watches
Art Supplies	Miscellaneous Items

WHEN: TODAY
TIME: 9:30-3:30

PLACE: Union Courtyard

Sponsored By: Alpha Phi Omega

*All items on sale have not been claimed in the Lost & Found within the past year.

MRKS

Coors Light
NERD NITE

Thurs., Feb. 20!

- $25 CASH to winner of Nerdier outfit
- FREE NERD KITS with pitcher

Buy a 16" pizza
Get a 10" pizza

FREE

Falsetto's
539-3830

RUN OFF '86

Polls open from 7:30 a.m.-6 p.m.

Wednesday, February 19
in Union courtyard

KSU I.D. required

Underwater Warfare

LEFT: The teams huddle to discuss strategy before the underwater hockey game begins. BELOW: Elizabeth Berg, junior in apparel design, and Tim Argo, junior in microbiology fight for the puck.

Hockey players Berg, Sid Geil, sophomore in biology, and Argo slide the puck down the length of the Junction City YMCA pool toward the goal. Ten players from the Konza Sea Divers played in the game.

The game resembles a frenzied piranha feed for those watching from the water's edge. Bodies equipped with snorkles, masks and fins hover over a small round object at the bottom of a swimming pool — all trying to accomplish one thing — scoring a goal for their team.

Hockey is a game traditionally played on a field or on ice, but the Konza Sea Divers have moved the game underwater to practice their diving techniques.

The air around the water is cold as the scuba club prepares to play underwater hockey for the first time. As the players clear their masks and adjust their fins, the rules are reviewed and the boundaries decided upon.

The game, played in the shallow end of the pool, is started with a faceoff.

"We put the puck in the middle and then each team has to get behind their goal line," said Tim Argo, vice president of the club and junior in microbiology. The teams rush to gain control of the puck and push it down the pool toward the goal.

The fight for the puck gets rough at times according to several of the players. As the game continues, organization transforms the frenzy into a formation of one goalie, one halfback and three forwards, said Randy Russell, president of the club and fifth-year senior in architectural engineering.

Two words to describe the game are "frantic concentration," said Jeff Weatherly, senior in geology. "It is a mass of sticks and hands; you just look for your color of stick and push in the same direction."

Argo said he uses the stick color to tell if a teammate has control of the puck so he can stay on the surface and breathe through his snorkle. If his teammate has been down for a long time or needs help, Argo can go down and help him.

"It is not a matter of holding your breath," Weatherly said. "You don't think about it (breathing), you are going after the puck and all of a sudden you remember — 'Hey, I haven't gone up for air in a long time.' You go up for air and go down and forget it again."

Underwater hockey is played with the same rules as ice hockey, said Jennifer Hardy, secretary/treasurer of the club.

The difference in the rules is that there is an out-of-bounds on the ends, Argo said. There are five lanes on the bottom of the pool, and the puck has to go through the middle lane to count for points.

"Our biggest problem was we got confused on which lines were the goal lines," Weatherly said. "That was 80 percent of our confusion."

The Konza Sea Divers made up a few of their own "rules" as they went along, such as taking a stick the color of the opposing team's sticks and using it so they think an opponent is really a teammate.

The club is playing "on the honor system" as far as refereeing goes, Argo said.

Although the fans were few, the excitement is catching as the players give each other the "high-five" by slapping sticks after a goal is scored.

The game is not easy to watch from the sidelines through the splashing water, but locating the puck isn't hard, just look for the pack.

The puck is 4 pounds of solid brass wrapped with duct tape. The weight keeps it on the bottom while the tape protects the pool surface. It is hit with wooden sticks painted different colors for each team so the players can identify members of the opposing team.

The divers play the game using masks and snorkles which help them practice the techniques of clearing their masks and snorkles on a real dive, Hardy said. They also wear gloves to protect their hands.

The players hold the stick close to the cement to get the maximum speed and control of the puck so when an opponent tries to steal, their knuckles get hit, Weatherly said.

"I am never going to forget my gloves again," Weatherly said, who didn't wear any the first night.

The Konza Sea Divers are using the game to help keep members interested during the colder months, Hardy said.

"The main purpose of underwater hockey is not only to have fun," Weatherly said. "The game helps keep you in shape and it builds your breath-holding capabilities too."

ABOVE: Jennifer Hardy, Manhattan, watches the action from above as Debbie Nanninga, Manhattan, takes a rest from the game. LEFT: Randy Russell, senior in architectural engineering, reacts after sliding the brass puck through the goal for a score.

Story by Margaret May
Photos by Chris Stewart

Bloodmobile to begin today

By The Collegian Staff

Donations for the K-State Bloodmobile begin today and will continue through Friday, said Karen Grause, senior in accounting and campus Bloodmobile co-chairman.

The blood donations for the Bloodmobile will begin at 9 a.m. and last until 3 p.m. in the Union KSU rooms.

As of Friday, there were approximately 1,100 students signed up to give blood, Grause said. The sign-up was Feb. 10 through Feb. 14.

To meet the goal of 1,400 pints of blood, Grause said there will have to be a lot of walk-ins. The goal is set in cooperation with the American Red Cross and Circle K, the campus organization sponsoring the blood drive.

The goal for the fall semester was 1,400 pints and the actual donation totaled 1,509 pints, said Troy Millsap, junior in secondary education and co-chairman of the Bloodmobile.

Walk-ins are always welcome to donate blood, even if they have not formally signed up, Millsap said.

For the last three years, K-State students have donated more blood than students at other schools across Kansas and parts of Oklahoma, Millsap said.

The donated blood is distributed throughout this region, which includes all of Kansas and parts of Oklahoma.

Dr. Robert Tout, director of Lafene Student Health Center, said last week there is absolutely no chance of anyone contracting Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome by donating blood.

Although the blood is tested when it is received by the Red Cross, the test is not 100 percent accurate, Tout said. There is a possibility of contracting AIDS after receiving a blood transfusion, he said.

State formula for distributing aid needs drastic change, lobbyist says

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA — The formula used to determine how state tax dollars are distributed to school districts needs to be overhauled and lawmakers on Monday were urged either to take action or forget the idea altogether.

Jim Yonally, lobbyist for the Shawnee Mission school district, pleaded with the Senate Education and Assessment and Taxation Committees to adopt a proposed bill designed to drastically change distribution of state aid or put it out of its misery.

"This plan provides $300 to $400 million to lower property taxes statewide," Yonally told a joint meeting of the committees. Most everyone's property taxes would be reduced.

"Most all groups involved with this believe we must do something about the present formula. It is inequitable and there's something wrong with the way the formula is working."

Yonally then recited the history of the proposed reform, which is embodied in a House bill. The bill was introduced last year and awaits action in the House Assessment and Taxation Committee.

He noted that the idea first sprouted about six years ago and has been studied each year since.

"Each year we come before you and every year we hear the time isn't right," Yonally said, explaining that his group and others who have worked on the bill are desperate for legislative action, good or bad.

If lawmakers like the idea, they should adopt it, he said. If the proposal doesn't have any merit, he said he wants to know it so the Legislature will stop stringing education groups along.

"I'd like to hear that the Legislature really isn't serious about trying to change the present formula and relieve property tax because it will take an increase in revenue and raising taxes. Or, I'd like to hear that you like the concept but this bill is a lousy idea and we'll try again. Just tell us something."

"This proposal has been around six years. It's time it was given some serious consideration."

The plan is designed to reduce reliance on local property taxes for education funding by replacing the property tax with increased sales and income taxes statewide and implementation of a property tax on utilities.

The state would retain controls on the amount local school districts are allowed to increase their general operating budgets each year, but the plan would change the way state aid is distributed to the 305 local districts.

The centerpiece of the plan is a 1.5 percent increase in the state tax on both personal and corporate income, coupled with a 15-mill property tax levy on all "state assessed" property — such as power plants, oil and gas pipelines and railroads. They would produce enough new funds to allow a 40 percent reduction in local property taxes.

State aid distribution would start with a standard $400-per-student grant in all districts. A district's wealth would then be taken into consideration in dividing the remainder of state funds. The $400 grants would be financed by an increase in the state's 3 percent sales tax by one penny on the dollar.

Israelis storm Lebanese villages

By The Associated Press

BEIRUT, Lebanon — Israeli helicopter gunships, tanks and 600 troops swept through south Lebanon villages Monday in response to the capture of two soldiers by Moslem guerrillas, U.N. sources said.

Timur Goksel, spokesman for the U.N. peacekeeping force in the area, said Israeli gunships strafed suspected guerrilla hideouts in the rugged hill country. He said Israeli soldiers ferried by helicopter stormed at least 15 Shiite Moslem villages searching for the two men, who were captured inside Israel's "security zone."

Lebanese security sources said the soldiers were seized at about 1 p.m. Monday. The Israeli assault began an hour later.

After dark, the sources said, gunships dropped flares to light landing zones, and the Israeli pushed as far as Qaaqaaiyet, nearly 12 miles north of the buffer zone.

Israeli forces spent two hours searching the Qaaqaaiyet area and then began withdrawing from two assembly points on the outskirts of Haris and Sroubine, about four miles north of the security zone, the Lebanese sources said.

Helicopter gunships were seen airlifting soldiers back to Israel at about 8 p.m., nearly six hours after the drive began, they said.

Goksel said the Israelis had "at least two companies of mechanized troops pushing on several fronts and landing helicopter-borne troops in several villages."

Beirut state radio quoted its reporters in south Lebanon as saying the fighting centered around the villages of Deir Ntar and al-Sultaniyeh, about seven miles north of the frontier, and Haris and Kafra, three miles farther north.

It reported hand-to-hand combat in al-Sultaniyeh and said the Israelis pushed the guerrillas out of Kafra after a two-hour battle.

The Lebanese security sources said Irish and Ghanaian troops of the U.N. Interim Force in Lebanon, the peacekeeping troops known as UNIFIL, set up a score of checkpoints in an attempt to halt the Israeli thrust.

Staff/Jim Dietz

High loader

Doug Coleman, carpenter for University Facilities, disconnects a sling from a cherry picker Monday after several sheets of plywood, to be used for repairing the roof, were hoisted to the top of Memorial Stadium.

Group to recognize black history

By The Collegian Staff

February is Black History Month and the Black Student Union is sponsoring several events in recognition of the contributions blacks have made in America.

Black History Month is recognized nationwide to help educate people about black culture.

Initially the observance period was for one week, but in 1976, 50 years after the establishment of the celebration, the entire month was recognized.

Upcoming activities include: — A poster and essay contest in which contestants are asked to submit entries about the theme, "Remembering the past, experiencing the present and looking toward the future." Applications are due Feb. 25 and may be picked up at the BSU display tables in the Union.

— United Black Voices, the BSU choir, will perform from noon to 1 p.m. Friday in the Union courtyard. There will also be a performance by the black greek organizations.

— A breakfast Sunday from 9:30 to 10:45 a.m. will be sponsored by BSU and the Douglass Center, followed by church services at 11 a.m. at the Pilgrim Baptist Church, 831 Yuma. There will also be a gospel extravaganza at 3 p.m. at the church performed by the United Black Voices.

— A play at 7 p.m. Sunday in the Union Forum Hall and two guest speakers, sponsored by Omega Psi Phi fraternity.

The guest speakers will be Mary McCoy, civil rights investigator for Kansas, and Anthony L. Pinder, merchant trader for the Commodity Marketing Division of Cargill in Kansas City, Mo. The theme of the play and the speeches will be a tribute to black history.

— A brown bag luncheon from noon to 1:30 p.m. on Feb. 28 in Union 204 will be the last of the events. This will be an opportunity for anyone to direct questions to the Office of Minority and Student Affairs staff and to University black faculty.

Collegian Classifieds
Cheap, but Effective

Grain grading series to begin in March

By DARIN RUSSELL
Collegian Reporter

A series of grain grading schools held in Kansas annually for more than half a century will be repeated again this March.

Robert Schoeff, extension specialist for the Department of Grain Sciences and Industry, said the schools are designed for all persons involved in grain handling and grading operations related to marketing of food and feed grains. The educational material presented deals with current government grades and standards and problems facing the industry.

"The grading schools basically involve on-going training and retraining to keep people informed about what the grading standards are and trying to maintain a high level of skill," Schoeff said.

"This is done so they can do the best job possible in helping the farmer market his grain," he said.

Schoeff said no one is sure when the schools began, but files show they were held as early as 1930.

A major objective of the schools is to teach grain marketing personnel what the official grain damage factors are so they can be more efficient in the buying and selling of wheat, sorghum, corn and soybeans. The schools will also stress technological developments in grain grading, marketing and safety.

Schoeff said this year's schools will focus only on wheat because of recent problems arising from the large percentage of hard and soft wheat crosses being planted in the state.

He said the schools will help Kansans in the grain-marketing chain do the best job possible of properly identifying the 1986 wheat crop and obtaining the full market value for the crop.

Part of the instruction will include an update on research for classing wheat and a presentation on determining hard and soft winter wheat classes. Examples of each wheat class will be distributed so participants can take them back to elevators for use as references.

Schoeff said with the introduction of new hard winter wheat crosses, grading will be very difficult.

"It is becoming very hard to tell one variety from another and distinguishing classes in the case of hard and soft wheat," Schoeff said. "We hope the schools will help clear up some of these problems."

The schools will also cover a summary of proposed changes in grading standards designed to make the United States more competitive in foreign markets.

"Dockage will draw much of the attention because it is a badly misunderstood and misused term," Schoeff said.

Dockage is anything which can be removed with the Carter dockage machine. Anything left in the grain sample is referred to as foreign material. Dockage does not affect the grade, but foreign material does.

For part of the program, grain inspectors will answer questions on corn, soybeans, sorghum and sunflowers.

The meetings will start at 8:30 a.m. on these dates and at these locations: March 11, 4-H Building, Kenwood Park, Salina; March 12, 4-H Building, 9000 W. Central, Wichita; March 13, Southeast Experiment Station, Parsons; March 14, Martin Tractor Co., Sales Training Center, Topeka; March 18, Fort Hays Branch Experiment Station, Hays; March 19, 4-H Building, Colby; March 20, Co-op Center, Garden City; March 21, Municipal Auditorium, Pratt.

New Taco Salad!

SHUFFLEBOARD
TOURNEY
SIGN-UP PARTY!

• Doubles Shuffleboard starts 7:00 tonite
• $$$ 1st place

Plus $2 Pitchers!

MEET YOUR FRIENDS AT...

for Student Body President
Wednesday, February 19
Union Courtyard,
7:30 a.m.-6:30 p.m.
Bring your KSU I.D.

Run-Off
Election '86

Capitol
Airlines

KSU SPRING FLING!

Present your KSU student, faculty or staff ID to our ticket counter or to your travel agent and receive a 15% discount on Capitol Airline fares for travel between the dates of March 7, 1986 & March 17, 1986.

"CAPITOLIZE"
on your Spring Break Travel!

Reservations: 539-7623 or your travel agent

comprehensive health
associates
•free pregnancy tests
•outpatient abortion services
•alternatives counseling
•gynecology
•contraception
Overland Park, KS 913-345-1400

Manhattan
Civic Theatre
Auditions
for Beth Henley's
"The Miss Firecracker Contest"
Tues. & Wed. Feb. 18 & 19
7-10 p.m.
Manhattan Civic Theatre
11th & Poyntz
Cast of 6, 4 women, 2 men ages 18-60
Directed by Stephen Riggs
For more info call Stephen
at 537-1019
Show Dates
April 11, 12, 18, 19, 25, 26

NEW COURSE

GENBA 115 KEYBOARDING FUNDAMENTALS: A seven week course structured to give students the keyboarding skills necessary to input information into computer terminals and/or typewriters efficiently and effectively.

Cr. Hr.	Sect.	Ref. No.	Days	Time	Room	Dates
1	B	25840	MWF	8:30	F212	2/24-4/1

Pick up permission to add in Calvin 114 or Calvin 214

K-State looks to lasso win

By DARAN NEUSCHAFER
Sports Writer

Sometimes a little momentum and confidence goes farther than raw talent. The K-State Lady Cats will be looking to gain a little more momentum with a win tonight over the Cowgirls from Oklahoma State. K-State will attempt to run its conference record to 5-6 with a win tonight in Ahearn Field House against the last place Cowgirls. A victory would also help out the Lady Cats' confidence a little heading into the last two weeks of the regular season.

"It (the Oklahoma State game) would give us some confidence going into the remaining games," Lady Cat coach Matilda Mossman said.

Mossman said she believed the Lady Cats' upset victory over Iowa State in Ames, Iowa, on Saturday was a big win, and just might have been a turning point in the season.

"We have lost a lot of close games in the past couple of weeks," Mossman said, "but in the Iowa State game, the girls really stuck together and kept their confidence."

"I think the key in the game was that the kids never lost their confidence in their shooting ability. Even though we only shot 35 percent in first half, we came out and the girls were not hesitant to shoot after halftime and it really paid off for us."

Mossman is hoping that confidence continues tonight because a win over Oklahoma State would put the Lady Cats in the position to make a run a finishing in the conference's upper division. K-State would then gain a home court advantage for their first round contest in the Big Eight Post Season Tournament.

"Anything is possible in this conference right now," Mossman stated. "We are only two games out of second place, so we can really help ourselves out by getting a couple of wins."

Oklahoma State enters the contest at 13-13 overall and 2-8 in the Big Eight. The Cowgirls did, however, pull out a two-point victory over the Lady Cats earlier in the year in Stillwater, Okla.

The Cowgirls are led in scoring by forward Jamie Seiss, who is averaging 17.3 points per game. Seiss was the major force in Oklahoma State's victory in Stillwater, as she scored a game high 21 points, most of which came from the outside.

Clinette Jordan is also providing point production from the inside, as she is averaging 14 points a game, and forward Angela East is chipping in 10.6 points per outing.

GAME NOTES: K-State forward Carlisa Thomas bounced back from having her wisdom teeth extracted last Thursday to pour in 18 points against Iowa State to lead the Lady Cats...Oklahoma continues to lead the Big Eight with a 7-3 record. Iowa State, Kansas, and Colorado are all tied for second with 6-4 records...Tonight's game will not be broadcast.

File/Jeff Tuttle

Although Carlisa Thomas had her wisdom teeth extracted last week she still had 18 points to lead the Lady Cats to victory over Iowa State Saturday in Ames. K-State will battle Oklahoma State University tonight in a Big Eight Conference game in Ahearn Field House.

Strange faces abound

In a little over one year, a massive turnover has taken place within the K-State athletic department.

In that span, K-State has seen the resignation or firing of the athletic director, head football coach, head men's basketball coach, head women's basketball coach, head track and field coach and head baseball coach.

Granted, coaches change jobs as much as anyone, but nonetheless, for this many coaches positions at a university to change hands is certainly unusual.

Especially unusual is for the turnaround to take place in the five most visible sports on campus.

With this shake-up, which has come gradually enough to pass somewhat unnoticed, the Wildcat athletic program is at a pivotal point.

For the collective 1984-85 season, K-State finished with the seventh worst average conference athletic finish. Only Colorado did worse in '84-'85. This trend of low finishes by K-State isn't a recent phenomenon, either. It's been a commonplace occurrence for a number of years.

The task of bring K-State's athletic program back to respectability now falls into the hands of Athletic Director Larry Travis and the new coaches in the five sports mentioned earlier.

Football Coach Stan Parrish has said he intends to put a winner on the field at KSU Stadium next season. Using past seasons of haplessness as proof, this will not be an easy task for Parrish, no matter how excited he seems about taking his job or the upcoming season.

The new basketball coach, whoever he turns out to be, will have an easier task than Parrish to give K-State fans a winner.

Three starters, including impressive freshmen Norris Coleman and Benny Green, should return for next year. Other young players such as Ty Walker, Mark Dobbins, Lance Simmons and Ron Meyer have had good moments as well and could be expected to improve. Add some top recruits to these players and the 'Cats could move into the Big Eight's upper division in the next couple of years.

TOM PERRIN
Sports
Editor

Women's basketball Coach Matilda Mossman will have to do some major recruiting work to keep her team competitive in the future. Mossman is currently starting a lineup of three juniors and two seniors.

This recruiting year will be most important because Mossman has only six players returning next year.

With the arrival of Coach Gary Vaught, K-State's baseball program appears to be on the rise. Last year the team finished fourth in the Big Eight after taking last place in '84. With a load of talented recruits added to many returning members of last year's team, Wildcat baseball could be ready to take off.

Track and field is probably K-State's strongest sport right now. The women's team will be a contender for the conference title and the men's team is strong as well.

However, much of the success of the track and field program over the past few years can be attributed to Coach Steve Miller, who is relinquishing his duties at the end of the upcoming outdoor season. Miller will remain at K-State as an assistant athletic director.

The program is well-established now, thanks to Miller. Whether or not a competent replacement for Miller can be found will determine the future of the program.

Sports Letters

Golfers respond

Editor,

In response to David Svoboda's Feb. 12 column on Larry Travis cutting out women's golf, the women's golf team would like to express our opinion of not only this particular article, but also of other related rumors on campus.

Svoboda's article read, "It had been rumored Monday the women's golf program had been chosen for elimination..." Although Larry Travis and the athletic department have denied these allegations, this kind of publicity can only put a damper on our recruitment program, which is so vital to continued emergence as a strong Big Eight competitor.

On the lighter side, why wasn't the "rumor" of our supposed protest and press conference printed along with the others? Maybe these "events" could have been more successful had we known and been able to participate.

One last question — why are the sports editors suddenly so fascinated by our "minor sport," when we receive so little attention during our tournament seasons?

Wait! All is not lost...at least now, Dave, the student body will realize that there really is a women's golf team here at K-State. We may or may not be one of the sports that could be cut, but why don't we all just wait until we cross that bridge.

Sharry Dercher
senior in elementary education
and four others

Georgia Tech aide wants Wildcat job

By The Collegian Staff

George Felton, associate head basketball coach at Georgia Tech, has expressed an interest in the K-State head basketball coaching job opened up by the resignation of Jack Hartman.

Felton told the Kansas City Times in Monday's editions that he had been contacted about the job by Athletic Director Larry Travis.

Felton has been a top recruiter for Georgia Tech Head Coach Bobby Cremens for the past five years. The Yellowjackets, a member of the Atlantic Coast Conference, are currently ranked No. 5 in the nation by The Associated Press.

Travis was assistant athletic director at Georgia Tech prior to taking over at K-State.

Travis, however, said he has had "very little" contact with Felton, but said his impressions of Felton are "very good."

"There's really nothing to it (contact with Felton)," Travis said.

"Like I say, George is just another person who is interested in our job...I really don't want to get into it."

Travis said the contact between the two men was initiated by Felton.

"He called me about the job," Travis said. "We won't start making any decisions until the deadline for taking applications comes."

Travis said the application deadline is March 1 and "eight or 10" applications have been received.

The Times article said Felton has also been contacted in reference to job openings at Oklahoma State and Florida State, but because of Felton's contact with Travis, the K-State job is at the top of his list.

At Georgia Tech, one of Felton's main duties has been head of recruiting. Some of the players Felton has helped recruit for the fifth ranked Yellowjackets are Mark Price, Craig Neal and Bruce Dalrymple. Felton is a New York native who's main ties are on the East Coast and in the South.

New duties making Epps happy person

By JIM LUNDSTROM
Collegian Reporter

Jim Epps, athletic academic advisor at K-State, has recently taken on additional responsibility by being assigned the position of administrative assistant.

"In terms of administration matters, that includes heading the summer job program for the kids who stay in Manhattan during the summer. I try to get them jobs in the community so they can earn some money while they are taking summer classes," Epps said.

Epps said the upperclassmen are usually the students who stay in Manhattan during the summer because they have a bigger investment and are a little more mature. Going home doesn't have quite the pull as it does when they're a freshman or sophomore.

"They also have access to our conditioning program during the summer where they can lift weights and run together to work on quickness and agility," Epps said. "There's an element of comfort seeing them out here every day doing their thing and knowing they are working on improving themselves."

Epps said his additional responsibilities also include acting as liaison to the athletic director's office. When head football coach Stan Parrish or one of his assistant coaches has an administration issue

Parrish adds responsibility to assistant that needs to be attended to by Athletic Director Larry Travis or one of his assistant athletic directors, then they would ask Epps to be the intermediary to present the issue and get clarification.

"I am Coach Parrish's pipeline to the administrative offices of the athletic department," said Epps.

"I'll also be working on the trip arrangements when we travel in the fall. I'm not sure what I'll be doing yet, but I'm looking forward to it," Epps said.

Working with K-State's recruiting coordinator, Leo Brouhard, is another responsibility to which Epps has been assigned.

"It's a position that never had the emphasis that Coach Parrish has put into it. The recruiting coordinator is now a full-time position," Epps said. "I'll be working closely with Leo and assisting him on game days in terms of getting things set up."

Epps said the variety of jobs adds a nice dimension that goes beyond his duties of academic counselor.

"As a counselor, my role has become easier due to Coach Parrish's presence. He is firmly committed to the idea of our athletes being students," Epps said.

The bottom line issue with him, Epps said, is that he is a disciplinarian. He has high expectations of K-State's athletes as students.

"Anytime you have a coach who has those priorities and backs them up with action, then it's going to make my job easier," Epps said. "He's let the team know in clear terms that if they fail to produce in the classroom, then they won't be a part of this team."

Epps said the players on the team have accepted this well and thinks they wanted more discipline.

"I've been encouraged by the attitude of the squad. They all respect Coach Parrish and understand what he is trying to do in terms of building a winner," Epps said.

Although his days are long, Epps said the large amount of time the position takes doesn't matter.

"It becomes a labor of love. You enjoy your work and you don't have time to watch the clock. The days aren't long enough to get everything accomplished that you want to," Epps said.

Epps also stated he enjoys the athletes he works with as much as the coaches and athletic administrators.

"I have an office in Holton Hall on campus. The reason for this is that we want the athletes to have accessibility to us and we want accessibility to them. When the kids are on campus attending morning classes, we are conveniently located for them. In the afternoon I am at the stadium as players come out to practice and work out," Epps said.

The athletic department has a strong commitment to the educational well-being of K-State's athletes, Epps said, and that is certainly mirrored in the efforts of Travis.

"In Coach Parrish's program, in order to be an athlete, one is going to have to be a bonafide student," Epps said.

Epps said he doesn't have a typical daily schedule and that is one of the things he enjoys about his position.

"In the morning I am at Holton Hall and the football kids come in to talk about their coursework or ask about tutoring. We have a graduate assistant whose job is to coordinate the tutoring program," Epps said.

"A lot of times the kids will come to talk about academic accomplishments as well as problems, so I don't just listen to their problems," Epps said. "I really enjoy the contacts with them. I have developed a close relationship with them and there's a bond, a sincere desire on all of our parts to see that they do well. And it certainly goes beyond the functional aspect of them staying eligible," Epps said.

Briefly in Sports

'Cat long jumper sets personal best

K-State long jumper Kenny Harrison jumped 26 feet, 2 inches this weekend at the Bally Invitational Track Meet in Rosemont, Ill. The jump earned Harrison a second place finish behind Michael Conlee, the silver medalist at the 1984 Los Angeles Olympic games.

The jump was the best indoor jump by a collegiate performer this season and was Harrison personal best for his career.

One other K-Stater performed at the meet. Michelle Maxey placed fourth in the 440-yard dash with a time of 55.61 seconds.

OU's Kennedy wins weekly honor

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Oklahoma's Darryl Kennedy was named Monday the Big Eight's player of the week.

The 6-foot-5 Kennedy scored 79 points and had 15 rebounds as the Sooners won two of three games last week. He won in a split vote over Kansas guard Cedric Hunter.

The 6-5 junior forward averaged 26.3 points and five rebounds for the tenth ranked Sooners last week, including a 32-point, 15-rebound performance against K-State last Tuesday.

Gooden signs one-year contract

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. — New York Mets right-hander Dwight Gooden, who won the National League's Cy Young Award in only his second major league season, officially signed a one-year contract worth $1.32 million Monday.

The 21-year-old Gooden, whose career record is 41-13, agreed to terms Friday, four days before he and the club were scheduled to go arbitration.

Gooden had sought $1.5 million, while the Mets originally had offered $1.1 million.

Rockets lose center for two weeks

HOUSTON — Houston's All-Star center, Akeem Olajuwon, will miss at least two weeks of the season, the club said Monday. The injury to his right knee comes at a time when the Rockets were just beginning to establish themselves as a power in the NBA.

Monday night's game against the Golden State Warriors marked the first time in Olajuwon's pro career and only the second time in his entire career that he had missed a game because of an injury.

Olajuwon, who averages 23.4 points and 11.4 rebounds per game, missed four of the first six games of his college career at the University of Houston and had played in 237 consecutive games.

Team physician Dr. Charles Baker said Olajuwon received a sprain of the medial collateral ligament Saturday in a game against the Los Angeles Clippers when teammate Robert Reid fell on him under the basket.

The doctor said Olajuwon started receiving therapy on the knee Monday.

Dog receives award for saving boy's life

By The Associated Press

SAN ANTONIO, Texas — A poodle has been inducted into the Texas Pet Hall of Fame as reward for saving a boy's life by jumping in front of a rattlesnake that was poised to strike.

Sean Callahan, 11, of Hunt was playing with his brother, Erin, and their poodle Leo alongside the Guadalupe River in August 1984, said John Wood, president of the Texas Veterinary Medical Association.

Wood and William Hoegeneyer, Leo's veterinarian, presented a plaque over the weekend to the dog's owners, Bud and Lana Callahan of Hunt, during the annual TVMA convention.

The boys "were throwing a stick toward the river and letting Leo retrieve it. Sean was bent over picking up the stick, and I heard him scream," Bud Callahan said.

"There was a rattlesnake sitting there and it was coiled up ready to strike. Leo heard Sean scream and he jumped in between the snake and Sean just as the snake struck," Callahan added.

The six-foot diamondback struck Leo six times in the head, he said.

Coliseum

Continued from Page 1

project.

George Miller, vice president for administration and finance, who declined to divulge Livingston's budget figure, said a Monday release would be premature because architects working on the project have not had an opportunity to review the estimate.

"The requirement was that the architect present information pertaining to the project budget," Miller said. "The architectural staff is still working on the figure."

Vince Cool, a University architect and coliseum committee member, said Monday it is his belief Livingston's estimate is "satisfactory."

Architects representing the University, Livingston, the Board of Regents and the state architect's office will meet this morning to review Livingston's cost analysis.

Miller, chairman of the coliseum committee, a campus group monitoring the project, said Livingston's estimate and the recommendation of several architects working on the project will be officially announced at a committee meeting set for 1:30 p.m. today in Dykstra Hall.

Acker delivered his mandate to Livingston, a partner in Gossen Livingston of Wichita, because he was disappointed the group of architects could not resolve budgetary questions at a Feb. 10 meeting.

Livingston's cost estimate is critical to any decision concerning the project's future. Arthur Loub, executive director of the KSU Foundation and a coliseum committee member, has indicated the Foundation has contributions to cover a $500,000 budget increase, but not a deficit which approaches $1 million.

Despite promises to the contrary,

Livingston told the coliseum committee in late January the project would cost a minimum of $500,000 more than budgeted. However, regent architect Warren Corman told the committee Feb. 3 the cost of the 13,500-seat coliseum could be as much as $2 million more than estimates.

The committee intended to delay a decision on the budget until a geologist could conduct a more complete study of the proposed site south of the KSU Stadium and determine the necessity of placing concrete piles under the coliseum's foundation.

Livingston said the rush to produce an estimate means the budget will not reflect the outcome of the geologist's study. The $350,000 concrete piles, which would be used to prevent the foundation from cracking when the soil shifts and resettles over the years, were recommended by Corman.

A budget estimate released by Livingston two weeks ago, which indicates the coliseum cannot be built for an amount less than $15 million, did not include the cost of the concrete piles.

"The budget is based on a worst-case situation," Livingston said.

The coliseum committee has been meeting regularly since August 1985, when all bids on the then planned 16,000-seat coliseum were all $3.4 million above the legislated maximum budget of $14.5 million. All the bids were rejected by the University and Livingston agreed in September to abide by his contract and redesign the facility for free.

Since that time 2,500 seats, administrative and coaches offices, and the concession/restroom facility at the north end have been eliminated from the plans in an attempt to bring the project within budget.

Classifieds

Display Classified Rates

One day: $4.65 per inch; Three consecutive days: $4.25 per inch; Five consecutive days: $3.95 per inch; Ten consecutive days: $3.75 per inch. (Deadline is 4:30 p.m. two days before publication.)

ANNOUNCEMENTS

01

MARY KAY Cosmetics—Color awareness, products, and free facial. Anna Prockish, 1001 Blumont, 537-4246. (8911)

OPEN AUDITIONS for "California Suite" and other upcoming productions at Gregov's Sunday, February 23rd, 2:30-5 p.m., Monday, February 24th, 6:30-9 p.m. Gregov's 2605 Stag Hill Road. (99-100)

ATTENTION

02

FLYING INTEREST? Check into K-State Flying Club. Call Steve Dyer at 532-5600 or 537-0458. (811)

SPRING BREAK on the beach at South Padre Island, Daytona Beach, Fort Lauderdale, Fort Walton Beach or Mustang Island/Port Aransas from only $89, and skiing at Steamboat or Vail from only $96! Deluxe lodging, parties, goodie bags, more... Hurry, call Sunchase Tours for more information and reservations toll free 1-800-321-5911 or contact a local Sunchase Representative today! When your Spring Break counts... count on Sunchase. (80-109)

HEE'S ALTERATIONS—Suits, coats, jeans, zippers and all types of alterations. 1125 Laramie Plaza, Aggieville, Monday thru Friday, 10 a.m.-5:30 p.m.; Saturdays, 10 a.m.-4 p.m. 776-7959. (8711)

SKI SPRING Break—Breckenridge, Keystone, and Copper Mountain. March 9, 10 and 11 only $220. Price includes transportation, lodging, ski rental and lift tickets. For information, call 537-2995. (83-108)

TRIATHLON SEMINAR—Marilyn Avery will discuss training and competing Tuesday, February 18, 7 p.m. at the Pathfinder. No charge. (96-100)

CREATIVE, THINKING singles, find kindred spirits through the directory for educated singles. Loveline, P.O. Box 3602KSC, Lawrence, KS, 66046. One-issue membership $4. (99-104)

CLASS RINGS: $89.95, no catch—Artcarved Siladium. See the sales rep March 3-7, K-State Union Bookstore. (100)

FOR RENT—MISC

03

COSTUMES—FROM gorilla suits to Hawaiian leis. Makeup, wigs, periodical clothing, masks, grass skirts, all occasions available. Treasure Chest, Aggieville. (2811)

SEE MARIE for all your costume needs. If I don't have it, I'll make it for you. Marie's Costumes, 1714 and Humboldt, 539-5200. Parking in the rear. (9011)

SPRING BREAK—Deluxe two-bedroom condo: pool, hot tub, sauna, close to Breckenridge, Copper, Keystone, $100/night. Call (303) 420-1713. (96-105)

FOR RENT—APTS

04

FOR AUGUST—Deluxe two bedroom furnished apartment, across the street from Ford Hall. 539-2482 after 4:00 p.m. (92-102)

BRAND NEW three bedroom. One and one-half baths, near campus. Available May, June or August, $480/month. Call 537-8800. (8911)

